WOOL CLIP IN WALL STREET VERY LIGHT

Speculation By the General Public for 1911 Far Below Normal.

Some Brokers Have Been Forced Out of the Business.

Operators Are Hopeful That New Year Will Bring More Trading.

New York, Jan. 1.—Wall Street will begin the new year with the wish that it may be a more prosperous one than was 1911. When business is resumed tomorrow in the financial world, after the holiday, brokers will greet each other with "better luck this year," rather than the usual "happy new year." The last twelvemonth has seen hard times in Wall Street.

Business was poor most of last year, except for a few of the large houses. A broker who has been in Wall Street for twenty-one years said that last year was the dullest he ever had experienced. Some brokers were forced to quit the street to earn a living. One such former broker is selling automobiles. Another is New York representative of a Southern cotton concern.

Big Slump in Stock Sales.

Trading in stocks fell far below that of 1910, itself not a good year. Not only on the stock exchange, but on the other exchanges and in curb market the depression was felt. All through the year the public refused to buy stocks. There was active speculation at times among Wall Street traders, but there was no general participation by the public. It was this which was felt most keenly.

Some brokerage houses were compelled to reduce their expenses largely, employes were discharged, private telegraph wires were discontinued, and expenses were curtailed wherever possible. A few of the larger houses with the best connections were able to do a large business, but for the majority conditions were unfavorable. The street's poor business conditions were generally regarded as responsible for [illegible] trading [illegible] stock exchange.

[illegible] Wall Street shut up shop for [illegible] with the ringing of the gong on the stock exchange at noon Saturday, a feeble cheer was given by the brokers on the floor. That was the only tribute to the passing of the year, and in failing to observe the day with a hilarious celebration a tradition of many years standing was shattered. It is customary to celebrate the turn of the year by decorating the exchange with evergreen and holly and by bringing in a band. The younger members are expected to make a noise. But the old year ended in such deep gloom that nothing of the kind was attempted.

On the Consolidated Stock exchange, or "Little Board," as it is known, there was a Christmas celebration, and the produce exchange provided a vaudeville entertainment and a square meal for some of the city's poor children.

IS GLAD TO HEAR OF ENGAGEMENT

Nat Goodwin Comments on Lillian Russell's Latest Venture.

New York, Jan. 1.—A well built man sat in an apartment at the Hotel Rector and perused a newspaper clipping. A smile overspread his strong features as he scrutinized the headlines: "Lillian Russell Weds in May; Husband No. 4 is Alexander Moore."

"In May they won't be able to call me 'Nutty Nat' unless they want to call her 'Looney Lillian,'" laughed Nat C. Goodwin, for it was he.

"Let's see; for me it's been Eliza Weatherby, 1877 to 1885; Nella Baker Pease, 1888 to 1891; Maxine Elliott, 1898 to 1908, and Edna Goodrich, 1908 to 1910.

"And for her it will be Harry Braham, 1879; Edward Solomon, 1884; John Chatterton, 1894, and Alexander Moore, 1912. That makes four apiece and that's why they can't call me 'Nutty Nat' without casting aspersions upon the most beautiful woman in America.

"But say, honest, I'm glad to hear Lillian is engaged. I feel almost like becoming engaged myself."

RAISES HIS PRIZE DUCKS IN BATHTUB

Colorado Man Refuses to Be Beaten By Cold Weather.

J. C. Brown, this Boulder man, owns a number of Indian runner ducks and he wanted them to be in good condition for the Boulder poultry show. But the cold weather came on and the ducks began to look seedy. Brown studied the situation and finally gathered up his choicest ducks and took them to the house, where he announced to the family that they would have to return to the tub back of the range or use the kitchen kettle for their baths, for he needed the bathroom. Filling the tub with water and placing the ducks therein, he closed the door of the bathroom, a broad smile wreathing his countenance. The birds won first prize.

SOON TO TAKE HER FOURTH HUSBAND

LILLIAN RUSSELL.

Lillian Russell is to marry again. This will be her fourth such venture. She is to marry Alexander P. Moore, publisher of the Pittsburg Leader. Miss Russell's previous husbands have been Harry Braham, a musical director; Edward Soloman, and John Chatterton, who sang professionally as Signor Perugini. She divorced them all, the last one in 1908. Miss Russell was born in Iowa in 1861.

AWARDS AT SOO MADE

Federal Court Says Government Should Pay $973,312.

Prices Set on Water Power Probably Will Be Contested.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 1. — In United States court Judge Arthur C. Denison has made the final awards in the case of the federal government, brought to condemn for lock and canal purposes all the lands and the rapids at Sault Ste. Marie north of the present canal to the international boundary. The result of this case deprives all the power companies of ownership in St. Mary's river at the falls, and places the United States in full control to regulate navigation and use the water for power as it sees fit.

The total award is $973,312. Of this the Chandler-Dunbar company gets $250,000 for its water power and $102,312 for its shore lands and islands No. 1 and No. 2, part of the value conceded by the government.

No awards are to go to the Michigan-Lake Superior Power company or the city of Sault Ste. Marie, the court deciding it has no title to any rapids or uplands taken by the government.

Power Award Appeal.

The award for water power of $550,000 probably will be appealed by both the government and the power companies, the former contending it does not have to pay anything for water power and that the river is a public highway of interests and international commerce at this point.

TRAGEDY MARKS BIRTH OF YEAR

Man Objects to Revelry and Three Are Shot—One Victim Dead.

New York, Jan. 1.—Joseph Sauer's mild objection to the revelry of a New Year's party in an East side apartment early today started a shooting affraiy, and when the police broke in they found James Dunbar lying dead under a table, with his brains scattered about, and two other men seriously injured. One of the injured will die. Sauer was held by the police.

ADMITS MURDER OF SON-IN-LAW

Woman Says She Killed Him for Making Insulting Remarks.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 1.—Arrested soon after the body of her son-in-law, Frederick Wasserleben, a policeman, had been found in a pond near the western city limits, Mrs. Mary T. Godau last night made a confession of the deed. According to the woman, the killing took place at Wasserleben's home after alleged insulting remarks were made to her by Wasserleben. Mrs. Godau says she used Wasserleben's revolver.

St. Louis Port Closes.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 1.—The departure for Memphis today of the steamer Stacker Lee closed navigation for the winter out of this port. Ice is running heavily in the Mississippi river.

OVERSEAS RAILROAD

President Taft to Attend the Celebration of Its Completion.

Key West Becomes United States Port Nearest to Colon.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Taft is planning a hasty trip to Key West, Fla., the latter part of January on which occasion he will be accompanied by a number of representatives and senators, officers of the army and navy and a special train conveying representatives of foreign nations who will be the guests of the island city.

The event thus to be celebrated is the completion of what is known as the Overseas railroad, the continuation of the Florida East Coast road across the Florida Keys and lagoons of the Gulf of Mexico. Flagler's Folly many called it when the road was first projected through that water-logged region where the wind in hurricane season has a playful habit of blowing 100 miles an hour for days at a time and the shallow waters of the gulf kick up a sea that makes the English chan-

CANAL WILL BE OPENED NEXT YEAR

Members of Congress Return From Trip to Panama.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Members of the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house, who have returned to Washington from a trip to the Panama canal, express themselves as favoring toll rates for passage through the canal varying from 50 cents to $1 per ton. The committeemen will not commit themselves to any definite rate, pending the completion of a report being prepared by Prof. Emory Johnson, a former member of the canal commission. There is a sentiment in favor of free passage of American coastwise shipping through the canal. The congressmen were told by Col. Goethals, chairman of the canal commission, that nothing had happened to change the plans for actually opening the canal during the fall of 1913.

Oklahoma Negro Lynched.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 1.—For the murder of George Ca[illegible], a farmer, and an attack upon his [illegible] at Muidrow, Okla., in the earl[illegible] of the night, a negro named Walter [illegible] was lynched Sunday.

"JOE" DIES IN FLAMES TRYING TO SAVE "TONY."

New York, Jan. 1.—Two lives were lost and $10[illegible] damage was done by a fire which destroyed a big milk depot on East Twenty-second street today. The two men who lost their lives were companions, known to their fellows as "Tony" and "Joe." After leaving the burning building, "Tony" went back to get his money and "Joe" lost his life trying to rescue him.

CHINESE WAR IS REOPENED

Four Thousand Rebels Attack Hankow—Fierce Fight in Progress.

Japanese Soldiers Fight With Yuan Shi Kai's Guard.

Pekin, Jan. 1.—An army of 4,000 revolutionary troops attacked the city of Hankow yesterday evening. An imperialist army estimated to number 30,000 men occupies the city. A fierce fight is now in progress.

According to reports current in government circles, the leaders of the imperialists are delighted at the outbreak of hostilities, as this will give them an opportunity of avoiding the result of the national convention agreed to by the imperial edict and by the parties to the peace conference at Shanghai. By the terms of the agreement, delegates from all the provinces of China are to meet to de-

WINS CUP FOR LONG FLIGHT BY WOMAN

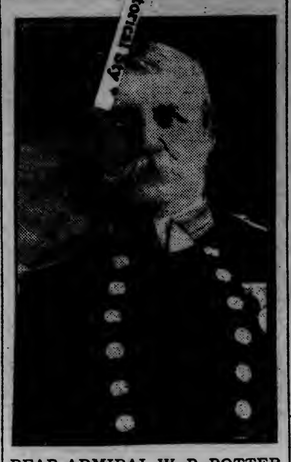

HELENE DUTRIEU.

Etamps, France, Jan. 1.—Mlle. Helene Dutrieu yesterday made a flight of 254 kilometers (158 miles) in two hours and fifty-eight minutes, thereby winning the femina cup and beating all women's records for distance. The femina cup is offered for the longest continuous flight made by a woman during the year. It was won last year by Mlle. Dutrieu, who in that competition covered 167 kilometers.

At Compeigne, Mlle. Jeanne Mervieu, in competition for the femina cup, covered 248 kilometers (154 miles) in two hours and forty-one minutes.

FELL DOWN STAIRS ON WAY TO SEE PRESIDENT

REAR ADMIRAL W. P. POTTER.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Rear Admiral W. P. Potter, personal aide on the staff of the secretary of the navy, fell down the long flight of stone steps leading from the navy department today on his way to the White House reception, and was quite badly hurt. He was picked up conscious, but bleeding profusely from a number of cuts and bruises on his face, and hurried to his home in an automobile.

LA FOLLETTE IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, Mich. Jan. 1.—With his departure from Detroit at 8:30 o'clock this morning after a restful night at his hotel, Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, who is in Michigan for a three days' speaking tour, looked forward to a busy New Year's day.

The first set speech in the Michigan campaign was made at 11 a. m. at Flint, following which the itinerary calls for addresses at Bay City in the afternoon and at Saginaw at night. Tentative plans had been made for an address here last night, but these could not be carried out, and the senator is expected to return to Detroit to make a speech, probably in April.

Talked of Wisconsin.

"How Wisconsin Has Prospered Under Its Progressive Administration" was the subject of the address at Flint. The speaker said that progressive legislation in Wisconsin has not been destructive, as its enemies predicted.

"Instead," said he, "of driving capital out of the state, it has attracted capital more than other states. It has made investments safe for all, instead of speculative for a few. It has been conservative and constructive as well as progressive. Not one of these progressive laws has been overturned by the supreme court of the state, and not one has been carried into the federal courts."

Continuing, Senator La Follette said: "The general business conditions in Wisconsin conclusively show that in-

NEW RULES FOR SUPREME COURT

Attorneys Hereafter Must Help Expedite the Hearing of Cases.

Washington, Jan. 1. — Lawyers practicing before the supreme court of the United States will be forced hereafter to give a helping hand to the court's movement to facilitate business.

According to the new court rules, which went into effect today, attorneys for the plaintiff before the supreme court must file their briefs three weeks before a case is to be called for oral argument. The defendant's attorneys must file their brief one week before the arguments are made.

In all cases, the clerk of the court is instructed to receive no briefs where counsel have not served copies on opposing counsel. The latter provision was designed to put an end to counsel appearing before the court unprepared to answer arguments on the opposing side and delaying the court by supplemental briefs dealing with the opposing argument. The court has announced its determination to receive no briefs after a case has been argued orally. The new rules will not be enforced at once, as printed copies of the rules are not available, and time will be given to the bar to acquaint itself with the new requirements.

NO IMMEDIATE AID FOR C. W. MORSE.

Washington, Jan. 1.—It is announced at the White House that the report of the army medical officers who have examined Charles W. Morse, convicted New York banker serving a term in the Atlanta federal prison, does not warrant immediate interference by the president, and the pardon will not be granted at this time.

WHITE HOUSE THROWN OPEN TO VISITORS

President and Mrs. Taft Preside at Their Third New Year Reception.

Only Three Nations Are Not Represented By Ambassadors.

Washington, Jan. 1.—It was open house today at the presidential mansion. President and Mrs. Taft presided for the third time at the historic New Year reception at the White House. The day was overcast and threatening, but a decided improvement over the snow and rain that prevailed a year ago and in 1910.

Custom has not changed the New Year reception in any particular for a decade, and today the big function was carried out in accordance with the set program of years. There were new faces in line, and many old ones were missing, but as a picture the reception was but a replica of the many that have gone before.

President and Mrs. Taft stood in the blue room of the White House, surrounded by the members and ladies of the cabinet. It was just 11 o'clock when they descended from the upper floors, with the marine band playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Many Brilliant Uniforms.

Military and naval aides were scattered about the house in profusion. The diplomatic corps already had assembled in the state dining room when the president and Mrs. Taft took their places. All the foreign representatives

INSIST CLARK WILL BE IN IT

Friends Deny Speaker Is to Drop From Presidential Race.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 1.—Speaker Champ Clark received New Year callers today at the headquarters his friends have opened in furthering their plans to have the speaker receive the Democratic presidential nomination. Speaker Clark's friends denied that there is a possibility the speaker will withdraw from the race for the presidential nomination.

STOKES TO SELL BREEDING STOCK

Only Three Yearlings to Remain on Patchen-Wilkes Farm.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 1.—W. E. D. Stokes, the New York millionaire, who is the owner of the Patchen-Wilkes breeding farm here, has announced that all but three of the yearlings on his farm will be sold at auction in New York in February. It is not known whether Mr. Stokes intends to curtail his breeding operations. The Patchen-Wilkes establishment is one of the most noted breeding farms in America.

Operation Rumor Denied.

New York, Jan. 1.—A member of W. E. D. Stokes' household denied today that surgeons were contemplating removal of one of Mr. Stokes' kidneys, as had been reported necessary because of complications subsequent to his recent illness. Mr. Stokes was resting easily, it was said, and there was no prospect of an operation unless he had a turn for the worse.

PROGRESSIVES IN OHIO MEET

Plan to Organize, Adopt Platform and Talk of Presidency.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 1.—Nearly 200 delegates from various parts of the state gathered here today for the first conference of Ohio Republican Progressives to form a permanent state organization, adopt a platform and deliberate over the choice of a man for the Republican presidential nomination.

Judge R. M. Wanamaker of Akron who toured the state with Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, during his speaking invasion last week, will preside at the meeting. Walter L. Houser, national manager of the La Follette presidential campaign, and John D. Fackler, state manager of the Wisconsin man's candidacy, were early in conference with the delegates, with a view, it is said, to obtain an indorsement of Senator La Follette.

In addition Progressive Republican sentiment will be fanned during the day by speakers of national repute, including Gifford Pinchot, Senator Clapp of Minnesota, Senator Work of California and Congressman Morse of Wisconsin.

ROCK PILE FUNDS LOW

Secratary Dinwiddie Appeals to Mayor for Support for Project.

Says $2,000 Will Be Needed to Carry Work Through Season.

Setting forth the work which has been accomplished on the rock pile since it was established, and particularly since it went into operation this winter, Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities, has addressed a letter to Mayor Cullum asking his assistance in securing an appropriation of $2,000 to continue the work the reminder of the season.

Secretary Dinwiddie states that the situation of the unemployed and the vagrants can be intelligently handled if such an appropriation is made, but that otherwise the city will face a very grave condition this winter.

Since the rock pile opened the applications for work have been numerous and far beyond the capacity of the plant. The majority of the men applying for work are married and have families to support. They would otherwise be in serious straits and become objects of charity, if not given an opportunity to earn small sums in this manner. Last year the average was three days' employment, but because of the great demand for work this has been cut down to two days thus far this year.

Last year the council voted different sums to be used for the payment of men thus employed, exclusive of the foreman and other expenses, as follows: Jan. 9, $50; Jan. 30, $150.95; March 6, $50; March 13, $900.

This makes a total of $1,151.05. Of this amount, $564.54 has been expended through vouchers to the Associated Charities in repayment of wages advanced to the men by that association, which should leave a balance of $586.51 unexpended.

Money Nearly Gone.

A resolution on March 13 shows that the sum of $900 was set aside at that time to be used for men sent to the quarry by the Associated Charities from March 1, 1911, to March 1, 1912. But it appears that other expenses incurred in connection with the quarry work have been considered proper charges against this fund, leaving an actual balance on Dec. 1, 1911, of only $268.70, which will soon be exhausted.

The total amount authorized for the quarry last winter was $1,345.18, including the sum of $1,151.05 voted at different times by the council for paying the men sent by the Associated Charities and $194.13 in other expenses, for a foreman, powder and so forth, incurred by the board of public works while the quarry was in operation as a test.

This year the Associated Charities wishes to ask for $2,000, an increase of $654.82, necessitated by conditions. This sum is to cover both the wages of the men sent by the Associated Charities and the salary of a foreman, etc., which last year were not included by the council in estimating the amounts that should be set aside for the quarry work.

"The sums voted by the council," says Mr. Dinwiddie, "were in reality not appropriations, but merely authorizations of the board of public works to expend certain amounts from their regular fund for the purpose stated. The members of the board very naturally feel that, as their appropriation was made to them for the performance of certain specific duties, they are not justified in continuing to meet the expenses of the quarry from their regular fund. In view of these facts and after consultation with yourself, members of the board and city attorney, we believe that the best method of dealing with the subject is to ask that the sum of $2,000 be designated in the city's general fund for the year 1912 specifically to cover the expenses necessary for the operation of the quarry durlig that year, rather than to ask the board to bear this expense from their own fund.

Greater Capacity Needed.

"While the conditions are as stated above, we are nevertheless convinced that we can handle the situation satisfactorily through the operation of the quarry if its capacity is increased. This can be accomplished with little difficulty if the council will authorize an appropriation to warrant it.

"During the two weeks the quarry has been in operation in December the wages earned by the men have approximated $170, or at the rate of $340 for an entire month. The salary of a foreman would bring this up to $427 per month. With other expenses necessary for operating the steam drill for a short time and blasting, etc., the expense will be somewhat greater. However, as spring approaches we trust that the demands upon the quarry will not be so great.

"Therefore, if the sum of $2,000 is set aside in the general fund to be expended under the direction of the board of public works, as suggested, we trust that we may be able to meet the situation without further application to the council. As stated before, this sum is only $654.82 more than the sum of $1,345.18, which includes the $1,151.05 voted by the council last winter to pay the wages of men sent by the Associated Charities, and $194.13 spent for the salary of a foreman, blasting powder, etc.

"We wish to again state emphatically that we believe that the situation of unemployment and of vagrancy in this city can be intelligently handled if this appropriation is made, and that otherwise we will face a very grave condition this winter."

City Getting Full Value.

In another statement presented to the executive committee the secretary says:

"As to the wages paid, $1.20 per day, it might be well to repeat what was said last year, viz., that it is necessary to pay less than the regular wage for this work, otherwise there would be hundreds of applications every day, which would make it impossible to operate the quarry, and which would defeat its real purpose, viz., to help only those who cannot take care of themselves in any other way. The wage last year proved sufficient to tide over those who worked until they could secure something better.

"It is hardly necessary to again dwell upon the fact that in addition to relieving unemployment and providing a means of ridding the town of vagrants, the cutting of Superior street through the Point of Rocks is an important public improvement, and the rock taken out can be used in paving the streets and for other purposes, so that in view of the small wages paid, the city is really getting full value and probably more than full value for the money expended."

PASTOR SAYS THE WOMEN KICKED HIM

Florida Preacher Is Confined to Bed and Six Arrests Are Made.

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 1.—Rev. R. F. L. Kirkland, kicked, he declares, by the women members of his congregation, spent yesterday afternoon in bed and six persons are under arrest as the result of a clash between factions of the First Congregational church.

After services at which the minister, it is stated, attacked a former pastor in connection with alleged misappropriation of the church funds, Rev. Mr. Kirkland endeavored to quell a controversy in which men and women had joined it was then he was injured.

His sermon was on the subject, "If Christ lived today would be be a Socialist?" and his text was the sentence.

"My father's house is a house of prayer but ye have made it a den of thieves."

DETROIT YOUTH SHOOTS GIRL AND KILLS SELF.

Waverly, N. Y., Jan. 1.—Barrett Levis, the 19-year-old son of Francis Levis of Detroit, shot Nina Lawrence, daughter of O. H. Lawrence of Waverly, last night and then committed suicide. The young woman was shot by Levis in the head and neck, but has a chance for recovery. Young Levis shot himself in the head. Jealousy probably caused the tragedy. Levis came here from Detroit, where his father is a captain in the United States life saving service, to visit relatives during the holidays.

RURAL CARRIERS MUST KEEP OUT OF POLITICS.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Several thousand rural free delivery letter carriers are barred from active participation in politics by an executive oder just signed by President Taft. The order forbids the rural letter carriers from pernicious activity in politics, and empowers the civil service commission to dismiss any found so to be engaged.

The rural carriers, like all other postoffice employes, are not to be denied the right of political belief and discussion of candidates and issues, but their active participation in political affairs will be stopped. The term "pernicious activity in politics" is an elastic one and heretofore has worked on other classes of federal employes as an effectual bar from politics.

TEXANS TO BE SENT BACK FROM CANADA.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 1.—The immigration authorities yesterday arrested J. B. Boyce and Mrs. Sneed of Texas, who were out on bail, and locked them up in the cells in the immigration hall. The two, it is said, will probably be deported Tuesday as undesirable persons in Canada, and escorted to the boundary, where they will be taken in charge by United States authorities. It is said the pair left Texas simultaneously and that the husband of Mrs. Sneed is en route to Canada, in search of his wife.

CORNELL ALUMNI HAS REUNION

Graduates of Eastern University Have Banquet at Commercial Club.

Eighteen alumni of Cornell university held a banquet and social good time at the Commercial club Saturday evening. The affair took place under the auspices of the Association of the Head of the Lake Alumni of Cornell university. Toasts on various college reminiscences were responded to, and all the Cornell college songs and yells, past and present, as far as they could be remembered, were given with the vigor and enthusiasm of student days. Harry Talboys was cheer leader.

The gathering included the following: Messrs. D'Autremont, '72; Van Vleet, '73; Dennham, '73; Bank, '75; Roberts, '71; Collins, 82; Argraves, '89; Jones, '93; Cook, 02; Beckwith, '03; Webster, '04; Banning, '04; Talboys, '04; C. Adams, '05; S. Adams, '07; Beauman, '07; Armstrong, '10; Morton, '11.

The association planned to have a concert given by the Cornell Glee club in Duluth in the near future. The event will without doubt excite great interest, not only at Duluth, but throughout neighboring towns and cities, as the Cornell Glee club is considered one of the ablest bodies of singers in the United States.

POTASH TROUBLE FINALLY SETTLED.

New York, Jan. 1.—Terms of a final settlement of the "potash controversy" between German and American interests are announced by the International Agricultural corporation, which is the owner of the Soilstedt mine, over which the dispute has largely been waged.

"Adjustments have now been made and confirmed by exchange of cablegrams with Berlin," it was stated. "These adjustments provide for the withdrawal of all suits in our courts involving liability for payment of the potash tax levied by Germany; for the assignment to the syndicate of American contracts with the independent mines; for new contracts with the syndicate covering full American potash requirements, on a price basis practically the same as that prevailing before the low price contracts were obtained from the independent mines, and for the re-entry of the independent mines into the syndicate."

NEARLY $500,000 IS LOST IN OHIO FIRE.

Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Jan. 1.—Firemen early in the day succeeded in extinguishing the last of a fire which threatened to destroy the city. One business block was wiped out in the conflagration, and damage estimated at $422,500 done.

Big Mexican Plant Burns.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 1.—Advices received here from Madera, Chihuahua, say that the large door and sash factory and the box factory of the Madera company, Ltd., has burned, entailing a loss of thousands of dollars. This is one of the great Mexican enterprises of the Pearson syndicate. The origin of the fire is unknown.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MINNESOTA POLITICS

Theoretically this is the day on which Lyndon A. Smith becomes attorney general of the state of Minnesota. Actually, the former assistant takes charge of the attorney general's office tomorrow.

Disgusted with the brand of politics played by the organization which elected him and convinced that there is nothing in the game for him while Ed Smith is czar and the special interests, in the role of destiny, continue to play with Adolph O. Eberhart as a favored son, George T. Simpson relinquishes his office and retires to private life.

The Eberhart press hails Simpson's resignation as a boon to the state. It was, but not in the way the Eberhart press would intimate. The explanation given by Simpson, which exposed the inner workings of the system which controls the state, was a boon to the people of the state. They will not soon forget the Ed Smith Simpson held up to their gaze. They will not lose sight of Smith's influence in the next campaign. If Simpson's revelations cause the people to rise up and break the corporation influence, the attorney general will have done the people of the state a real service.

Justice Holt leaves the district bench of Hennepin county and it is significant that Charles S. Jelley has been appointed to succeed him. There may have been no politics in the governor's judicial appointments, but every appointment made by the governor at this time is subject to doubt on that point. An analysis of the situation reveals certain significant features

When Attorney General Simpson resigned, placing Lydon A. Smith at the head of the legal department of the state, Mr. Jelley was appointed assistant attorney general. Judge J. C. Nethaway of Stillwater was a candidate for the place, and he and his friends were grievously disappointed.

Mr. Smith is the administration candidate for attorney general at the election this year. Friends of Judge Nethaway have started a boom for him. Jelley's appointment to the district bench leaves the office of assistant attorney general open and it is possible that Judge Nethaway will be appointed in order to kill him off as a prospective candidate—that is, if he is willing to be thus eliminated. Otherwise some friend of the administration with political influence will be appointed.

• • •

Governor Eberhart Saturday announced his appointments to some of the places on the various boards, vacancies in which occurred with the close of 1911. The offices, about twenty-five in all, don't amount to very much more than the honor of having one's name in the blue book. No position in the state administration is too insignificant to be used for political influence and no appointment will be made that does not carry a possibility of support for the administration. It is said that there will be a reorganization of the janitor force of the state capitol and every holdover from the Johnson administration will be swept out into the cold world. There will not be a Democrat in sight when Ed Smith finishes his work.

• • •

The Willow River Farmer has figured out that Adolph O. Eberhart isn't a candidate for governor at all. The toga of United States Senator Knute Nelson is the prize he covets, according to the Farmer, which has doubted that the pride of Alexandria has had enough and will soon announce his decision to not seek re-election under the Keefe law. Then Adolph O. Eberhart will step into the breach, let destiny carry him along to Washington and Samuel Iverson will step into Mr. Eberhart's shoes and sit in the executive chair. The Farmer may be a wise reader of the signs, but if anybody tried to frame up a game like that, the people might have something to say about it.

• • •

The Marshall News-Messenger announces that Senator O. A. Lende of Canby, who has been mentioned as a Progressive Republican candidate for congressman-at-large, is perfectly satisfied with the honors that come to a state senator and has no desire to chase the brief tenure of office that will be bestowed on the successful candidate for congressman-at-larre. Senator Lende is one of the members of the upper house who voted against reapportionment and unpopularity in the northern part of the state would down him if he should be a candidate.

• • •

Talk of P. M. Ringdal as Democratic candidate for governor increases and his possible candidacy is favorably received. The Republican papers opposed to Eberhart say that if the organization succeeds in renominating the governor, a Democratic victory is a certainty with Ringdal heading the ticket.

The Sauk Center Herald, edited by A. M. Welles, a veteran in the Minnesota newspaper field, says:

P. M. Ringdal, chairman of the board of control, is the latest to be "mentioned" as a Democratic nominee for the governorship. If the Democrats have sense enough to make so fine a nomination as that they will have an excellent chance to elect the next governor, especially if the machine persists in forcing the present incumbent upon the people.

• • •

"Turn the Machine Out" is the key-note of an editorial in the Minnesota Mascot, based on the Simpson incident. The Mascot, which is one of the most reliable and influential weekly papers in Minnesota, draws the same lesson from the incident as that pointed out by The Herald. It is the same lesson as that drawn from the extra session agitation and its fate—the lesson that the people are not in control of their government in Minnesota.

The Mascot says:

Attorney General Simpson has come out in a long interview in which he admits that he would very much have liked to have become governor of the state of Minnesota.

But he says he has given up all hope in that direction and assigns as his reason for so doing that Ed Smith refused to support him.

According to Simpson's statement Ed flatly refused to "throw" Eberhart, saying that he would not go back on him and that as long as he wanted to run the organization would back him.

Simpson said that he felt that no man could be nominated for governor without the assistance of the organization and as long as he could not have that he did not want to run.

Simpson admitted that he had always worked with the organization and that he was an organization man.

Well, this is rather interesting.

It seems to indicate that no man need aspire to the governorship unless he has Ed Smith's O. K. on him.

In other words the people of Minnesota have nothing to say.

Ed Smith picks the governor. He says who may and who may not run. He tells who shall and who shall not be elected.

Ed Smith is boss of the Republican organization the Republican organization is boss of the Republican party, the Republican party has elected the state administration, the state administration is a creature of the machine operated by Ed Smith.

No matter which way you go you find Ed Smith mixed up in the deal.

We send delegates to county and state conventions and really think that we are doing something to help maintain a representative form of government.

What we are really doing is sending men to the state convention to ratify Ed Smith's choice for the different offices.

We have not known all this before, but it gets on a fellow's nerves to have the attorney general of the state come right out and tell the people that there is no use for any man to run unless he is backed by Ed Smith.

Is it not something for the people to think about if the condition does really exist that one man, or even a few men called an "organization," can say who shall hold an office the occupant of which is supposed to be elected by the people?

The attorney general says that condition exists in Minnesota.

What have the people got to say?

Is it not time to turn such a machine out?

• • •

Congressman Lindbergh has again made emphatic denial that he is or will be a candidate for governor. A dispatch from Washington says:

"I am not a candidate for governor—I prefer to remain in congress; big things are going on here now, and it is my wish to continue my labors in Washington."

This statement was made today by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota by way of comment on reports from the state that he had under consideration the advisability of entering the lists as a candidate for the nomination in opposition to Governor Eberhart.

"Many friends have written me urging me to become a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination," continued Mr. Lindbergh. "There seems to be an impression that I am encouraging the idea. I cannot understand why people to whom I have written can misunderstand my attitude. I am not a candidate for the honor."

nel or the offing of Cape Horn look like a mill pond. Folly it might have seemed in its inception, but the pertinacity of Henry M. Flagler and the millions rolled up for him by Standard Oil have made it an accomplished fact—or will have by the middle of January, for the gap in the road between Key West and the nearest key to it is now almost closed up.

Due to Reinforced Concrete.

Twenty years ago this road, though dreamed of, would have been impracticable. It needed the perfection of reinforced concrete construction to make it possible. With that method of building once at hand the construction of the right-of-way became a matter of pertinacity and cash rather than of any phenomenal engineering skill. When you have once built a viaduct of six arches, its extension to 100 is a mere matter of keeping at it. And this Overseas railroad, despite the seeming marvel that at points you can look from windows on either side of your Pullman car and find yourself out of sight of land, is still a simple engineering feat. It is a succession of fills across keys, some water-logged and some a few feet above water, and bridges with concrete piers and steel spans. The longest of these bridges is eight miles with a draw at the channel. The fills along the keys are made of coral rock dredged from the bottom of the gulf. The material, save for the Portland cement and steel was all ready to hand, and as much of the work was done from floating dredges and tool shops the cost of construction was light as compared with the rock cutting, and high grading on the railroad lines through the Rockies. The cost of maintenance is more serious. The viaducts have on occasion to withstand gales that have lifted from its moorings a steel span weighing two tons, while the fills on the low lying keys will have to resist the force of waves breaking far above them with power enough to batter the stoutest ship they might beat against a rock. The road will be, as he intended, a picturesque and impressive monument to Mr. Flagler, who, now in the 80's, thinks naturally of the memorial he may leave behind him.

Nearest Port to Colon.

Of course it is neither to seek the picturesque or to do honor to the Flagler enterprise that President Taft plans to visit Key West. The president is deeply interested in all that pertains to our national strength and he sees in this road that gives us a new seaport far out in the gulf, a great improvement on our strategic position in relation to Cuba and the Panama canal. Key West, with the completion of this road becomes the United States port nearest to Colon; 495 miles nearer than New Orleans, 600 miles nearer than Galveston. It has today one of the most important naval stations in the country, and the president has already expressed his hope that congress will provide for the very considerable enlargement of this port, and for the completion of the plans for a large artillery post at Fort Taylor on the southwestern side of the island.

"The completion of the Overseas railroad," says T. J. L. Brown, who has represented Key West in the conferences with the president, "is a fit preface to the completion of the Panama canal. It brings the railroad systems of the United States almost 500 miles nearer to the canal than heretofore. Its terminal piers extend into the deep and placid waters of one of the finest harbors in the United States, a harbor which could shelter the navies of the world. It brings our railroads within ninety miles of Havana, a mere car ferry like those you operate on your Great Lakes."

Sports and Maneuvers.

Mr. Brown, who is, by the way, the leading candidate for representative-at-large from Florida in the next house of representatives, has charge of the arrangements here for the celebration, with which the people of Key West propose greeting the first railroad train to come puffing to their island from the main land. This celebration which will begin on Jan. 23 will be largely given over to sports and maneuvers by water and by air. Key West has plenty of these elements but is a trifle short of land. An aviation meet and an oversea flight from Key West to Havana and return are features of the festivities planned, though it seems a bit cruel, when Mr. Flagler has just spent some $30,000,000 to cross the sea with steel and concrete, to show him that it may yet be done with materials almost light as air.

The United States has recognized the celebration to the extent of inviting foreign nations to be represented by warships and special envoys. The president, members of his cabinet and congressmen galore will attend. Probably the little half Spanish town will see livelier days than since the Spanish when officers, blue jackets and war correspondents made it for the time as busy as Broadway at Long acre square.

BURNS AND DREW WILL BE CALLED

Will Testify With Fredericks Before Grand Jury at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 1.—When the federal grand juty which is investigating the alleged conspiracy for the transportation of dynamite resumes work next Wednesday, Detective William J. Burns, Walter Drew of the National Erectors' association and District Attorney J. D. Fredicks of Los Angeles are expected to be among the principal witnesses.

S. D. Jones and his wife are expected to be called also on that date. It was in a barn owned by Jones that a large quantity of dynamite was found by Detective Burns. The latter was before the grand jury preceding the holiday adjournment, but it is understood that he will be recalled to give parts of his story relating to points developed through the testimony of other witnesses.

McManigal's Confession.

Considerable interest attaches to the appearance of the Los Angeles county prosecutor, as it is understood that he will produce the confession of Ortie E. McManigal. Extracts from the confession are in the hands of the federal authorities here but it is said that the original confession, with later admissions by McManigal, will materially assist in determining who, if any, were responsible for the shipment of dynamite alleged to have been used in wrecking numerous bridges and buildings in different parts of the country.

Before the grand jury adjourned two weeks ago a number of people from Muncie, Ind., testified concerning the storage of dynamite and nitro-glycerin in that city by a person said to be James B. McNamara. By them, it is said the government is trying to show that much of the explosive supposed to have been used by McManigal and McNamara was transported from the Muncie storehouse.

CALIFORNIA LEADING GOLD PRODUCER IN 1911.

Washington, Jan. 1. — The gold production of the United States during 1911 was $96,332,528, and all the silver production 57,746,117 ounces, according to a preliminary estimate issued by George E. Roberts, director of the mint. This is a reduction in gold of about $45,600, and in silver of about 60,000 ounces as compared with the returns for 1910.

Among the states and territories the principal gold producers were: California, $20,318,938; Colorado, $19,153,560; Nevada, $18,968,578; Alaska, $16,002,976; South Dakota, $7,430,367; Utah, $4,709,747; Montana, $3,169,840; Arizona, $2,954,790; Idaho, $1,169,261.

In the order named, Utah, Montana, Nevada, Colorado and Idaho led as silver producers. At the average price for the year the total silver product was worth $3,863,500.

The net amount of gold and silver used in the industrial arts was approximately $34,000,000 gold and 24,000,000 ounces of silver. The coinage of the mints was: Gold, $56,176,822; silver, $6,470,301; nickel and copper, $3,156,726. Total, $65,790,850.

The net gain in the country's stack of gold coin, including bullion in the treasury, during the year was close to $100,000,000.

The directors' report gives the final figures for the production of gold in the world in 1910 at $454,703,900.

MINNEAPOLIS FACTORY SUSTAINS $75,000 FIRE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 1. — Fire which started early Sunday morning in the plant of the National Manufacturing & Supply company, manufacturers of brass fixtures and plumbers' supplies, completely destroyed the interior of the building, causing a loss of $75,000. The value of the plant and building amounts to about $150,000.

F. Hodge of Minneapolis is president and treasurer of the company.

SEATTLE GIRL KILLED BY REJECTED SUITOR.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 1.—Gladys Tasche, 18 years old, who was shot Saturday night as she stood at a downtown street corner watching a crowd celebrate the New Year, died Sunday. C. H. Hufford, a liquor salesman, was arrested, charged with the crime. Miss Tasche and her mother were standing on the corner when Hufford came from behind a street car. Four shots were fired into the girl's body. Hufford had paid Miss Tasche some attention and had been told that she wished to have nothing to do with him.

RIGHT OF RATE CONTROL AT STAKE

Washington, Jan. 1. — Straightening out some of the kinks in the jurisdiction of the new commerce court and the interstate commerce commission will be one of the first tasks to confront the supreme court of the United States when it convenes Monday, Jan. 8. The conflict has been growing daily more acute.

The decision of the court is expected to have a far-reaching effect upon governmental rate making. It may foreshadow the holding of the court in the famous "inter-mountain rate case," in which the commerce court and the interstate commerce commission are at odds. The latter case does not come up before the court for consideration until Feb. 19.

One of the ticklish problems for the court to decide is whether the commerce court has the power to review decisions of the commission in which the complaining shipper is denied relief. The position has been taken that the court can review the holding of the commission when the commission issues affirmative orders of relief to a shipper. In other words, that the court is open only to the defeated railroad, but not to the defeated shippers.

Another cause for contention to be reviewed by the supreme court is the assertion by the commerce court of power to hold up the commission's order from going into effect while it reviews the merits of the order. This particular point will be argued when the supreme court reviews the action of the commerce court in enjoining temporarily the enforcement of the commission's order based on alleged discrimination by railroads in favor of Arbuckle brothers, sugar refiners. The commission found the railroads were discriminating between shippers in allowing Arbuckle brothers compensation for lightering its sugar across New York harbor, but not allowing a like compensation to the Federal Sugar Refining company.

WIDOW OF C. B. MORROW ARRESTED IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Rena Morrow, widow of Charles B. Morrow, was taken into custody Sunday by the police of the Hyde Park station, when investigation of Morrow's death was reopened after a coroner's jury had returned a suicide verdict.

Morrow, a former wealthy inventor, was found shot to death on a rear porch of his home at 4646 Michigan avenue, Dec. 28. Mrs. Morrow was the principal witness at the inquest. She said her husband had been despondent because he had failed to interest capital in certain of his inventions.

Mrs. Morrow attended her husband's funeral under guard of a police matron and a city detective. She is considerably younger than her husband, who was 51 years old.

WEEK OF REAL WINTER WEATHER IS PREDICTED

Washington, Jan. 1.—Wintry weather will be general during the greater part of the week, according to a bulletin issued by the weather bureau.

"A marked change to colder weather will overspread the region of the Mississippi river within the next thirty-six to forty-eight hours," continues the bulletin, "with the line of freezing temperature extending southward to the Gulf and South Atlantic coasts and to Northern Florida. Unseasonably cold weather will continue the next several days in the Middle West, the southwest and the Rocky mountain region.

"A storm that is now over the upper lake region will move down the St. Lawrence valley during Monday, attended by snow in the region of the Great Lakes, the Upper Ohio valley, the interior of New York and New England; it will be followed by clearing weather elsewhere east of the Mississipi river during Monday.

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the United States will appear in the Far West Monday or Tuesday, cross the Middle West Wednesday or Thursday and the Eastern states about Friday; this disturbance will be preceded by a reaction to normal temperature, be attended by general snows in northern and rains in southern districts, and will be followed by decidedly colder weather."

WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN BURNED.

Suffern, N. Y., Jan. 1.—Mrs. James Baker and her two children, Lillian, 5 years old, and Ethel, 3 years old, lost their lives here early Sunday when fire destroyed their home. The origin of the fire is not known.

"Ring out the old—bring in the new"

Everywhere that men labor in office, store, shop, or on the farm, we see the rapidly increasing use of machinery that does away with hard drudgery. Why should women continue to wear the crown of household drudgery—that of carrying coal and sifting ashes, which spread their dirt, soot, smoke and poisoning coal-gases through the living rooms?

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS will rid the house of this slavery. A house heated with IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators is free from dampness, is clean, comfortable and altogether a delightful place to live in, all Winter long, day and night. It is least expensive heating.

Many old-fashioned forms of house-heaters rust out or wear out in 10 or 12 years, so that the original purchase price entirely disappears—gone! Either that, or the total repairs equal the original cost. IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators after 25 or 50 years will show up "as good as new"—will outlast the building. Even a fire and quake do not destroy them—as after the San Francisco disaster hundreds of our heating outfits were uncovered in the ruins and again put to use—practically the only article of the building not destroyed. IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators are not an expense, but an investment—paying dividends in fuel economy, absence of repairs, health protection, lower fire insurance, and by cutting in half the housekeeping labor through their cleanliness and saving the furniture and draperies from soil and wear.

A No. 1-22-W IDEAL Boiler and 415 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $175, were used to heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include coste of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which are extra and vary according to climatic and other conditions.

IDEAL Boilers are made upon the unit or sectional plan. If building is altered (65% of all structures are remodeled), the IDEAL Boiler may at any time be easily and quickly changed in size.

WEST END NEWS

OPENING GUN IN THE WEST END

Dr. McCuen Will Probably Announce Platform at Republican Club Meeting.

The political campaign will start in earnest in the Seventh ward this week.

The West End Republican club will hold a meeting at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, Tuesday evening and plans for the campaign will be made. Dr. J. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, will probably attend the meeting and announce his platform for the first time since entering the mayoralty race.

Democrats of the ward will meet Thursday evening at the polling place, Twenty-eighth avenue west and Third street. Committees will be appointed for each of the precincts to get the voters out to register at the two remaining days, Jan. 23 and 27. It is also planned to have Mayor M. B. Cullum and Alderman Bernard give short talks during the evening.

ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

S. H. and E. F. Society Members Get Together for Annual Meeting,

The S. H. & E. F. society celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of its organization in this city at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, last evening. It began with a reception following which a banquet was held for the 400 members of the order.

Andrew Nelson was the principal speaker of the evening and he gave a short talk on the history of the society and what it has accomplished since its organization. J. Branhuld gave the address of welcome. A solo was sung by Frank Carlson, accompanied by Miss Gerda Erickson, and the lodge quartet sang several selections.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICES HELD

Under the auspices of the Dorcas circle the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, held a special New Year's festival at 8 o'clock last evening. The program included an address by the pastor, Rev. C. G. Olson, a violin selection by Master and Miss Halverson, pipe organ solo by Miss Ella Johnson of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, vocal solo by Mrs. J. G. Anderson, pipe organ solo by J. G. Anderson and selections by the church choir. Devotional services were held until the new year was rung in.

Several other churches held watch-night services last evening, which were preceded by special programs arranged by the young people. Social hours were held and collections taken at each church for the missionary work in foreign lands.

During this week a number of the West end churches will hold prayer meetings every evening at 8 o'clock, beginning tomorrow evening.

ELIJAH SUBJECT OF SEVENTH TALK

Rev. J. A. McGaughey Lauds Work of the Old Testament Prophet.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, gave the seventh sermon yesterday morning in his series of "Old Testament Heroes." The subject last evening was "Elijah." He said in part:

"We know nothing of the early life of this prophet and his first introduction to us is his sudden appearance before the wicked king, Ahab, when he made his blunt prophecy, 'As the good Lord of Israel liveth before whom I stand, there shall not be dew or rain, these years, but according to my word.'

"The secret of his fearless courage is found in the fact that he realized he was standing in the presence of God. I call it God-consciousness and in this we might compare John Knox, the Elijah of the reformation, who ministering in the presence of Queen Mary, dared condemn her sinful act, because he, too, realized that he was 'standing in the presence of the king of kings and Lord of lords.'"

In telling of the life of Elijah Rev. McGaughey further related of the adventures of the prophet after he met Ahab. God ordered him to Cherith to sit by the drying brook, then to Zarepath to be fed by the widow of Zidon.

"In this way we must realize that every great character must have the 'Hidden Life' period," he said. "We found Moses hidden in the wilderness wandering about for forty years and Joseph in his Egyptian bondage and David in his period of persecution. The third great epoch brings us to Elijah on Mount Carmel. Every Mount Carmel presupposes a Cherith and Elijah's great victory on Mount Carmel was made possible because of the hidden life in prayer. The secret of every victory on our Mount Carmels is found in the hidden prayer life.

"The fourth epoch of his life is one of failure through fear of Jegebel, whom Elijah fears and flees away from. God meets him and the old courage reappears. The fifth and last epoch of this man's life s when he is taken up to heaven in a chariot of fire. This is a triumphant ending with courage crowned with immortality, the final reward."

Freshette Funeral.

The funeral of Capt. Frank Freshette, 44 years old, who died Wednesday morning after a short illness, was held Saturday afternoon from the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the church, officiated and interment was in the Woodland cemetery. The funeral was attended by a large number of the members of the Shipmasters' association and Tugmen's union. Captains of lake steamers acted as pallbearers.

W. L. SMITHIES SPEAKS AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

W. L. Smithies, chairman of the committee of one hundred of the Men and Religion Forward movement in Duluth, spoke yesterday morning at the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, on the subject, "What Is Your Life." He reviewed the progress accomplished during the past year in connection with the new movement and the benefit derived by each individual. In the evening Rev. G. E. Silloway, pastor of the church, preached on "The Message of New Year's Eve."

BOY IS INJURED WHILE COASTING.

Ivar Peterson, 18 years old, 1428 West First street, was severely injured Saturday evening while coasting down the hill at Fifteenth avenue west. His toboggan ran into the large steel arches in front of the Great Northern power house and the young man's head was seriously cut and bruised.

The youth was immediately taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he was given attention. The attending physicians have been unable to determine whether there will be any serious results. There is slight danger, said one of the physicians this morning, of any injury to the young man's brain.

PROPERTY OWNERS HAVE PAVING PLAN.

Residents in the vicinity of Piedmont avenue and Third street are planning an active campaign for the paving of Second street from Piedmont avenue to Vernon street and from Vernon street to Third street. A mass meeting will be held the latter part of the week.

According to the present plan of those at the head of the movement Vernon street will be straightened out, which will require the purchasing of a number of lots at the corner of Grand Forks avenue. At this point the park board owns several lots and it is the purpose of the Piedmont residents to acquire these for street purposes.

By the paving of the street, it is claimed, traffic between the city proper and West Duluth can be diverted to the new street and thus avoid the many dangers of accidents along the street car lines. Among the many residents of the West end who have announced themselves in favor of the plan are County Commissioner Joseph Cumming, John Moir, A. Lofgren, Dr. O. A. Oredson and James W. Preston. They believe that there will be very little opposition to the paving of the street, if the new paving amendment carries at the election in February.

SONS OF VASA WILL INSTALL OFFICERS.

The special installation ceremonies for the new officers of the Swedish United Sons, No. 170 of the Vasa Order, will be held in Sloan's hall tomorrow evening. The new officers were elected last week at the regular monthly meeting of the order and are as follows: President, C. E. Johnson; vice president, C. A. Hoffman; recording secretary, George Johnson; financial secretary, A. Horngren; treasurer, A. T. Lind; master of ceremonies, S. O. Carlson; inside watch, O. Seaquist; outside watch, A. Melander; trustees, A. Arnonson and August Hammar.

Ernest L. Gissler of Boston, Mass., founder and organizer of the Vasa Order throughout the country, will officiate at the ceremony tomorrow evening following which refreshments will be served by the ladies of the order. There are about 300 members in the local branch of which there are 200 scattered throughout the United States. The members will move to their new quarters at the Woodmen hall as soon as the structure is finished.

The degree team elected the following officers Saturday evening: Captain, Gus H. Lindstam; first assistant, Olaf W. Seaquist; second assistant, Jonas Lund; president, Albert Melander; treasurer, Victor P. Juten; secretary, Jonas Lund.

Death Visits Nelson Home.

Mrs. Emma Lena Nelson, wife of Martin Nelson, 1927 Piedmont avenue, died early yesterday morning after several months' illness of tuberculosis. Mr. Nelson is employed in a lumber camp in the northern part of the county and is expected home sometime this afternoon, when the funeral arrangements will be made.

Mrs. Gustafson Dies.

Mrs. Selma Gustafson, 33 years old, wife of Claus Gustafson, 505 Garfield avenue, died yesterday morning at St. Luke's hospital after a short illness from pneumonia. She leaves one child besides her husband. The body was taken to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, where the funeral arrangements will be made sometime this afternoon.

New Year's Party.

Mr. and Mrs. John Osquist, 1812 West Second street, entertained yesterday afternoon at a New Year's party for a number of their West end friends. Among the guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames A. Johnson and Wickstrom; Messrs. R. J. Johnson, Adolph Johnson, Adolph Wickstrom, and Miss Ida Wickstrom.

West End Briefs.

Rev. E. Hanson of Ashland will assist Rev. Edward Erickson of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church during the special prayer meetings this week.

The annual meeting of the Swedish Mission church and the election of officers was held at 10 o'clock this morning. This evening at 8 o'clock the Young People's society will hold its annual meeting and election of officers.

Rev. Edward Stromberg of the First Swedish M. E. church will be assisted during the week by Rev. Fred Stromberg of Lindstrom, Minn.

The annual business meeting of the First Swedish Baptist church will be held in the church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Miss Theka Pihlstrom of Eveleth, Minn., returned to her home yesterday after spending the past week with Miss Daisy Wallace, 18 Vernon street.

Miss Nellie Wilson of North Twenty-third avenue west returned last evening from Minneapolis, where she spent the past week visiting relatives.

Miss Mabel Sjordal of Faribault, Minn., spent the past week in the West end visiting relatives.

Miss Stina Sjodine of Aitkin, Minn., is the guest this week of a number of her friends at the West end.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn, 2821 West Second street, entertained Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Dunn of Winnipeg, Can.

Miss Agnes Numan, 324 North Twenty-fifth avenue west, is spending the week at Chisholm, Minn., with relatives.

J. C. Johnson of Aitkin, Minn., is a guest this week at the home of Rev. W. E. Harmann, 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue east.

January WHITE GOODS Sale

—The great January White Goods sales begin tomorrow morning at 8:30. Months of careful planning; of watching the markets for an opportune time to buy our great stocks, have been most resultful. Eastern mills have sent us their choicest white goods, sheetings and bedding; the finest linens have been received from Ireland and Germany; beautiful embroideries from St. Gall and the daintiest undermuslins from the French and Swiss peasant and convent workers; also from factories of this country where ideal sanitary conditions prevail.

—This series of White Sales is the initial merchandising event of the New Year, and among the most important of the entire year. The first showing of new styles in dainty undermuslins and corsets will be of great interest to fashion versed women; the great savings that prevail on white goods, household linens, embroideries, laces and bedding make the sale a most helpful one to the housewife.

—Everything is in complete readiness. The merchandise offered is of such character as is seldom found in special sales and is calculated to create greater confidence in Glass Block merchandise and merchandising plans.

—Be ready for the first day of the sale. Come and see the attractive displays. Our entire front is in white trim and presents an imposing array of things in white. Note carefully the prices quoted below, which represent but a portion of the wonderful values we have to offer.

Duluth's celebration of New Year's was very respectable. That is, as far as evidence to that effect is available at the police station. And generally the police criterion is considered fairly accurate on occasions of that kind.

Contrary to expectations the grist in police court this morning was very small. There were but three or four drunks and a few others arraigned on more serious charges. The latter had nothing whatever to do with the welcoming of the new year and the farewell to the old.

The Christmas grist was just the reverse. On the "morning after" there were forty-seven faces lined up before the judge. The big majority of these were drunks. All of them got suspended sentences. Those up this morning got similar treatment. The only exception was an old acquaintance, Jennie Schmantz. She was charged with third offense drunkenness and got sixty days straight in the county jail. She was also a part of the grist a week ago.

Charles Berg was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of having criminally assaulted Mrs. Selman Gronsteadt of 3819 Traverse street. Mrs. Gronsteadt is a sister of his wife. Berg lives at 4021 Halifax street. His residence is a short distance from the Gronsteadt home. The night of Dec. 28 it is alleged that he went to the Gronsteadt home, and under threat compelled Mrs. Gronsteadt to submit to his wishes. Her husband was home for Christmas but had left again for the woods.

* * *

Commodore Adams, colored, got three months in the county jail Saturday when he pleaded guilty to having assaulted a negress on St. Croix avenue. The report was that he had beaten her because she refused to support him.

* * *

Fred Carlson will be arraigned in police court tomorrow on a charge of having stolen some clothing from Peter Simonson in the Nicollet hotel. It is alleged that he made away with a cap and a summer suit.

* * *

Mike Burke pleaded not guilty to carrying concealed weapons when arraigned in police court today. His trial, was set for tomorrow afternoon. The complaint was sworn out by Horace Holbrook, who claims that Burke drew a knife on him when they had a quarrel in a street car, Dec. 27.

WILL MEAT PRICES GO UP AGAIN?

Many Duluth people do not care if meat prices are up or down, because they have found that "Minnesota" macaroni and spaghetti, with their delicious nut-like flavor, take the place of meat very largely and are more easily digested.

Good macaroni and spaghetti are four times as nutritious as beef-steak, and they are the best and most nourishing foods known. They can be easily prepared in many appetizing ways and are suitable for the daintiest luncheon as well as the heartiest feast.

But if you want that rich, nut-like flavor be sure and get the delicious "Minnesota" brand macaroni or spaghetti — made from the finest Northern Durum wheat, with all the nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested and never gets soggy. All good Duluth grocers sell it.

A Happy New Year

We wish you an abundance of all that is good during the year 1912.

We take this opportunity to thank those who so kindly favored us with their patronage. It is, we assure you, deeply appreciated, and we intend to make a supreme effort to merit a continuance of your favor.

PREACH THEIR LAST SERMONS

Three Duluth Ministers Finish Their Work in Zenith City.

Rev. Alexander Milne of the Pilgrim Congregational church, Rev. A. H. Wurtele of the Trinity pro-cathedral and Rev. R. S. Read of St. Paul's are the Duluth ministers who will leave the city with the coming of the new year.

Rev. Milne will not take a charge for some time, as he is at present in ill health. Rev. Wurtele goes to Rocheter, Minn., and Rev. Read goes to Milwaukee.

WOULD BAR WIVES OF "LAME DUCKS"

Washington, Jan. 1.—War has broken out in the Congressional club composed of the wives and women relatives of members of congress. A big fight is on over an attempt to revise the constitution made by a committee headed by the wife of Representative Davis of Minnesota.

The amendment would drive out of the club the wives of "lame ducks," former members of congress. Mrs. Nelson W. Aldrich, wife of the former senator from Rhode Island, would be one of those driven out. Mrs. W. R. Hearst would be another.

The trouble in the club dates back to the days of the Aldrich-Cannon regime, when the wives of old guard members of congress controlled the club. Now the insurgents are trying to run it. Many resignations already have been handed in because of the bitter feeling.

NEGROES WARNED FROM STREETS

Muskogee, Okla., Jan. 1.—As a result of the lynching yesterday of William Turner, a negro, for the murder of George Cason, a white farmer, and a criminal assault upon Mrs. Cason, negroes have been warned to keep off the streets of Muldrow, where the lynching occurred, as well as at Saltisaw, the county seat. All is quiet at Muldrow today.

LIBERIA INSTALS NEW PRESIDENT

Daniel Howard Is Inaugurated Amid Scenes of Festivity.

Monrovia, Liberia, Jan. 1.—President Daniel Howard was inaugurated today as chief executive of the Republic of Liberia, succeeding President Barclay, who for eight years had occupied the office.

President Howard, in his inaugural address, set forth his ideas on reform and announced several schemes for the development of the country. The president expressed satisfaction that the protracted negotiation in connection with the finances of the country had been brought to a conclusion through the sympathetic interest of the United States, Great Britain and other prominent powers.

KING VICTOR TALKS OF WAR IN TRIPOLI.

Rome, Jan. 1.—The war in Tripoli and the successes achieved by the Italian army and navy in the operations were the principal topics discussed at King Victor Emmanuel's New Year's reception at the palace today. Most of the members of the cabinet and many of the foreign diplomatic corps were present.

VALUABLE PAINTINGS IN GENOA BURNED.

Genoa, Jan. 1.—An explosion of gas yesterday caused great damage in the Academy of Fine Arts. A number of pictures, including several which received medals at the world's fair at Chicago, were burned. The civic library, which contains 60,000 volumes, was not injured.

DULUTH IS BECOMING A MORE ORDERLY CITY

Decrease of 604 in Number of Arrests for Year 1911.

The tremendous drop is remarkable and can be accounted for by no specific reasons. As the majority of arrests are always for misdemeanors the smaller number of arrests indicate that Duluth has had much less petty thievery, much less drunkenness and much less disorder during the year just closed than during the previous year.

Another remarkable feature of the crime record as shown by the police blotter is that Duluth had but two murders the last year, and in each instance the murderers were placed behind the bars the day that the crime was committed.

The first murder was one of the most sensational in the criminal annals of the Head of the Lakes. It was that of Patrolman Harry Chesmore, who was shot to death on board a street car between Sixth and Seventh avenues west on Superior street about 5 o'clock the morning of Jan. 6, by Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson, the boy bandits. The youthful desperadoes, both in their teens, had held up the night clerk and the porter of the Hotel McKay at the point of pistols, and after tying them securely to posts in the dining room with table linen, rifled the cash register.

Pumping several shots into the floor they made their escape. A general alarm was sent out for their apprehension after a roomer from the Turkish baths had discovered the predicament of the hotel employes, and Patrolman Chesmore picked them up on the lower end of Garfield avenue. He made the fatal mistake of not searching them as soon as he had placed them under arrest. As the car approached Sixth avenue Melodrowski, who was sitting on the seat opposite, opened fire, sending several bullets crashing into the officer's head and body. He died a couple of hours later at a hospital.

The boy bandits escaped into the railroad yards and made their way into the country. They were caught by a posse late that night in a logging camp in which they had sought refuge for the night, sleeping with their revolvers under their pillows. Both were convicted of murder and sent to Stillwater, Melodrowski for life and Johnson for thirty years. Melodrowski has since died. Next Saturday will mark the anniversary of their crime.

Second Murder.

The other murder was committed recently when August Boo, a dock laborer killed his wife in a fit of jealous rage by slashing her throat with a razor in their roms in the Pearson block at First avenue west and First street. He attempted his own life in the same manner, but was unsuccessful. He is now in the counyt jail awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with murder in the first degree.

Chief Troyer is exceedingly gratified at the very favorable showing of the last year. "I do not know of any special reason for the big increase in the arrests," he said. "The department has continued its work as usual. I should think that the report would indicate that the people are coming to have more respect for law and order. They are probably becoming better, at least as far as Duluth is concerned, and if there is credit due, I should state that the credit is due to the people themselves."

During 1910 the number of arrests totaled 5,975, as against 5,371 for the last year. One feature is that more women were arrested last year than the year previous, which is in sharp contrast to the decrease in the aggregate arrests. In 1911, 319 women were placed in the toils, where as 307 met that fate the year of 1910.

RAILROAD NEWS

WAGE RAISE IS EXPECTED

Telegraphers Negotiating With Omaha and Chicago & Northwestern Roads.

Increase in Wages and Improvement of Working Conditions Requested.

Telegraphers on the Omaha road may expect a raise in the wage schedule in the near future.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers, the union organization of the men who handle the keys, has asked the management of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road to better the working conditions and raise the salaries among operators.

At the same time that the O. R. T. took the matter up with the management of the Omaha road, a committee also brought it to the attention of the officials of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad.

Officials of the Omaha have promised the union that whatever action the C. & N. W. road decides upon, the Omaha will also adopt. Negotiations were started at Chicago by the order before Christmas and it is believed that it will be brought to a successful termination with a few days.

The proposed revision of the schedule which the brotherhood placed before the railroad managements in both instances called an average of 18 per cent increase in salaries. The committees also requested of the managements that the officials make a thorough investigation of the working conditions and salaries paid the telegraphers on the Northwestern system as compared with those of other lines and where they were out of line to adjust them.

Omaha telegraphers feel confident that the wage scale will be adopted by the C. & N. W. and consequently by the officials of the C., St. P., M. & O.

WINNIPEG TO CHICAGO

Canadian Northern Said to Be Contemplating Through Train.

A through train service between Winnipeg and Chicago is said to be seriously contemplated by officials of the Canadian Northern railway. Rumors are now afloat that traffic arrangements have already been completed with the Northwestern road for the new service.

The new service may be inaugurated by the Canadian Northern before the company has its new line from Virginia to Duluth in operation. This will not be in working order before next spring, and there is some speculation as to whether the company will wait that long before starting the service.

One railroad man said yesterday: "I understand it pretty straight that the Canadian Northern has entered into a new traffic arrangement with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad whereby the new Winnipeg-Chicago flyer can get into Duluth. From Duluth the new train will be transferred to the Omaha tracks and will continue its journey to Chicago. The Canadian Northern, in all probability, will not wait for the new line to be completed."

Others say that it would be to no advantage to inaugurate the new through service in advance of the completion of the line, and discredit the story that the train will be put on before next spring. Duluth people are much interested in the new service, as it will mean another train daily between the Head of the Lakes and Chicago.

CHANGES IN OFFICES OF THE SOUTH SHORE.

Three changes become effective today in the Duluth offices of the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic railroad. James Maney succeeds Mart Adson as general passenger agent; James Robertson of Houghton becomes assistant general freight and passenger agent; and John P. Gordon takes over the duties of general agent.

ROAD DISTRIBUTES NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS.

The Northern Pacific Dining Car department has issued a little wall plaque made of sugar carrying a resolution for 1912, reading as follows: "I hereby promise that whenever the opportunity presents itself, I will use the superior passenger service offered by the Northern Pacific railway and partake of the high class dining car service rendered on its trains."

The plaque is in the shape of a shield about seven inches long and is equipped with a metal ring affixed to the back for hanging it up. Friends and former patrons of the road have been sent one of these greetings enclosed in a neat pasteboard box lettered in gold with 1912 New Year's greetings.

New Equipment Ordered.

More than 100,000 railroad cars have already been ordered by the railroads of the United States within the past sixty days, according to W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, who has returned from a trip to the East. This means an expenditure of $100,000,000 for cars and $20,000,000 for locomotives to haul the new equipment, according to Mr. McGonagle.

DEERWOOD'S CLOSE CALL.

Deerwood, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—What promised to be a bad fire that might have wiped out the entire business district was extinguished in the early morning hours by John Oberg, Frank E. Oberg, Gust A. Oberg and Charles Osterlund, who were returning from a card party. They ran out the chemical engines and soon had the fire in the D. N. Price restaurant and bakery under control. The damage by the fire is about $500, fully covered by insurance.

CAMPAIGN TO BE OPENED

Dr. McCuen Will Address Young Men's Republican Club Tuesday Night.

Republican Candidate Expected to Announce Platform in First Speech.

The municipal campaign will be opened tomorrow evening, when Dr. J. A. McCuen, the Republican candidate for mayor, will make his first public address as a candidate. He will speak at a meeting of the Young Men's Republican club at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, and he is expected to announce the issues on which he bases his campaign.

The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock and Mr. McCuen and Dr. W. H. Konkler, Republican candidate for alderman in the Fifth ward, will be the principal speakers. The Troubadour Mandolin club is also on the program.

Up to this time, Dr. McCuen has refrained from making any platform announcements. His speech tomorrow night will be the first of the campaign and it is thought he will then clearly define his views of the issues.

The Young Men's Republican club will take an active part in the city campaign, working for the Republican candidates in all parts of the city.

GREET NEW YEAR AT ST. LOUIS HOTEL

Four Hundred Persons Attend and Many Others Were Turned Away.

It was 4:30 o'clock this morning before the last of the people who welcomed the New Year in in the main dining room of the St. Louis hotel had done with their festivities and gave the waiters a chance to clear off the tables. Last night the formal opening of the hotel under its new management was combined with a New Year's eve and leap year celebration. All of the 400 seats had been reserved in advance, and half as many more people who came in after the theaters could not be accommodated.

Proprietors Markham & Irwin and manager Hickey were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Markham and Mrs. Hickey. In addition to the Bostonian sextet there were several other entertainers, including some of the Forbes company, playing at the Lyceum. The two popular favorites of the evening were the soloists, Miss Florence Cuby Hayden, and Mrs. Kelly, wife of the manager of the Happy Hour theater. They were recalled again and again. On the stroke of midnight, the electric current was shut off for an instant. When it was switched on again Mrs. Kelly, in the balcony overlooking the diners, was singing "Auld Lang Syne." Everybody joined in the chorus.

The proprietors of all the other leading hotels attended. The St. Louis was decorated from the lobby entrance and the dining room was resplendent in holiday greens and flowers. Many well known people were present and while there was plenty of good cheer there were no scenes of revlry that th most fastidious could find fault with. Everybody was out to have a good time, but there was no boisterousness.

LARGE CROWD HEARS "MESSIAH"

Beautiful Oratorio Given at Masonic Temple By Festival Chorus.

The free concert given at the auditorium of the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon was a pronounced success both musically and numerically, the second largest audience being in attendance, by actually tally, 950 including the chorus. This great gathering, following the large audience of last Sunday for the same program demonstrates the growing musical taste of Duluth people and the need of such an organization as the Duluth festival chorus, the members of which gave their services freely as did Mr. Reyner. The overture was played by Mr. Rayner on the pipe organ and then the accompaniments on the grand piano. By this arrangement it might be said that the chorus sang, practically, without a special conductor and the manner in which the leads, attack, and expression marks were attended to reflected great credit upon them. It means musicianship for a large chorus to sing Handel music without the direction of a conductor, and this the chorus did to the manifest delight of the large audience.

Mrs. Jane Everington Scully sang the soprano recitatives and solos in a convincing and thorough oratorio style. Her coleratura work revealed patient study of an exacting character, the difficulties of which she overcame with all possible ease.

The contralto recitatives and solos were taken by Miss Alice Brown, her sound musicianship and musical training were very evident. The solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock" was very sweetly and sympathetically rendered, and with Mrs. Scully in the latter portion of the solo presented the most enjoyable of the solo work.

Literally as well as figuratively at the last moment Phillip Gordon Brown was called on to take the place of Horace Brown, who was unable to sing on account of a bad cold, and the change necessitated the elimination of the third number on the program and the insertion of "The Trumpet Shall Sound" between the eleventh and twelfth numbers. Mr. Brown acquitted himself nobly. All the bass work in the "Messiah" is difficult, but the bass recitatives and solos were given in a dignified and impressive manner well in keeping with the traditional rendition of those parts.

While the chorus sang without a special conductor, Mr. Reyner in his quiet, unostentatious way and gentle influence, governed it all and the spirit of the master musician was evident everywhere. To him as well as to the members of the Duluth festival chorus the manager of the free concerts for the Masonic fraternity and the musical people of Duluth tender their hearty thanks and congratulations.

On next Sunday afternoon, at 3:30, the second free concert will be given, at which time it is proposed to give Wagner's great "Huldigungs March," composed in honor of King Ludwig of Bavaria, full of swing and rich harmonies; the "Farandole and Minuet" from the Arlesienne suit by Bizet; the drinking song from Donizetti's opera, "Lucrezia Borgia"; an Italian air by Terschak, and, in sympaty with the present universal peace movement, Sousa's "International Congress," composed of the national airs of the principal nations. The Scottish Rite quartette will furnish the vocal music. As usual everybody is invited and will be welcome.

DRIVEN OUT IN BLIZZARD

Firemen Assist Women and Children to Leave Burning Building.

Fire which broke out in the basement of the store occupied by the Sundby Tea company at 16 East Superior street at 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning, caused a loss estimated at from $12,000 to $15,000, only partially covered by insurance.

The blaze started in the ceiling of the basement, presumably from defective electric wiring, which is old and said to be out of date.

The efforts of the firemen prevented the conflagration from spreading beyond the main floor to the two floors above, although the latter were badly damaged by the heavy suffocating smoke.

Dr. A. Ecker, who lived on an upper floor, was carried to safety down the ladders by the firemen. He is a sufferer from asthma and it was deemed unsafe to take him down the stairs through the thick smoke. A dozen women, children and other roomers were led or carried down the stairways by the firemen. Dr. Ecker suffered severely from the shock and is in quite serious condition, but the others will not suffer from their trying experience in being driven outdoors into the blizzard in their night clothes. They were cared for in a nearby restaurant.

The firemen worked under a severe handicap. It was snowing heavily and the wind was blowing quite a gale. The smoke was so dense that it was impossible to remain in it for any length of time. All the downtown departments responded to the alarm and a dozen streams of water were turned into the fire from front and rear. The contents were of an inflammable nature and burned stubbornly and it was not until daylight that the danger was considered past. Despite the hour and the blizzard a large crowd congregated about the scene of the fire to watch the firemen fighting it. They were largely night hawks and late revellers returning from premature celebations of the new year.

The Sundby Tea company is largely owned by E. C. and L. T. Peterson, who took over the stock of the founder of the company, Mr. Sundby. The fire will be a heavy blow to them, as much because of the loss of business as by any other reason.

Mr. and Mrs. Ecker occupied the second floor and part of the third floor of the building. Their loss is about $2,000. The fire did not reach the second floor, but the smoke from the burning tea was very dense, and penetrated to the top of the building. Clothes and furniture were ruined by the smoke. Mr. and Mrs. Ecker carried $500 insurance on their household belongings.

There were ten roomers on the third floor of the building, and they will also lose small sums in personal belongings which were ruined by the smoke.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning the department put out a fire which started in the plant of the Duluth Corrugating and Roofing company on St. Croix avenue and Sutphin street. The loss will run not over $500. The cause is unknown.

In the afternoon defective wiring caused a small fire in the attic of the house owned by Frank Mox at 715 East Seventh street. The loss was about $50.

OPEN HOUSE AT Y. M. C. A.

In accordance with the custom established by the Y. M. C. A., some years ago, the annual "open house" will be observed today.

On New Year's day each year the Y. M. C. A. opens its doors to all who wish to go through the building. That there is a good deal of interest in the progress of the institution was proven when a large crowd turned out this morning for the first event of the day, an indoor baseball game between the Adams and the Y. M. C. A. team. This contest took place at 10:30.

From 2:30 until 5 this afternoon the entire building will be thrown open to the public and guides will be on hand to show the visitors through. Refreshments will be served during the course of the afternoon and an orchestra has been engaged to play in the lobby.

At 3:30 a volley ball game will be played between the members of the business men's class and the younger men. The business men's class is composed of men 40 years old and younger. Believing that they can make the younger members go some they have challenged them to a game.

Beginning at 4 o'clock there will be a series of wrestling matches. The matches will be held in the wrestling room.

There will also be held at the same hour a hand ball game on the hand ball court.

At 4:30 the water sports will begin. There will be races, swimming under water, fancy diving and other forms of water sports to be featured by a floating contest by Harry L. George, who will enter the pool in street clothes and disrobe while floating in the water.

This evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, there will be a program of gymnastices, with relay races and an exhibition of slack wire walking as features. Axel Lavine will give the slack wire exhibition. There will also be a basket ball game between the Y. M. C. A. Cliffords and the "All Stars," an aggregation of college players who are in Duluth for the holidays.

There has been something planned for nearly every minute of the day and a large crowd is expected to attend.

South Dakota Bank Closes.

Mobridge, S. D., Jan. 1.—The Farmers' State bank of this city has closed its doors, turning its affairs over to the state banking department. It will be impossible to determine what its condition is until the accounts have been audited.

LEADER AMONG LAUNDRIES.

Yale Laundry Doing a Large and Rapidly Growing Business.

The building covers a ground floor plan of 50 by 140 feet, three stories high, with a separate structure in the rear occupied as a French dry cleaning plant.

The business was established over nine years ago, the company operating it being recently incorporated as the Yale company with an authorized capital stock of $125,000. Its officers are as follows: President, W. L. Yale; vice president, C. C. Huebsch; secretary, D. F. McDonald; treasurer, G. E. Yale.

Over ninety people are employed in the several branches of work, which include, besides the regular washing, French dry cleaning and wool mill process blanket departments.

$25,000,000 COAL MERGER ALL READY.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 1.—A special to the Journal from Bridgeport says: It is reported here that the proposed $25,000,000 merger of Eastern Ohio coal properties will be consummated in February. This was stated by a prominent coal operator following a conference with the New York banking house which is to finance the proposition. It was said that only the larger companies, those operating mines employing 500 men or more, would be included in the consolidation.

SIX ARE DEAD AS RESULT OF WRECK

One Man Killed at Sharon, N. D., Is Not Identified.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 1.—No additional deaths among those injured in the wreck of the Great Northern train Oregonian at Sharon, N. D., have been reported. Six of the more seriously injured are being cared for at Breckenridge and four at Finley. There is nothing to indicate that more than six persons lost their lives.

The body of the sixth victim has not been identified.

ALBERT LODGE, St. Paul, cook on diner.

JOSEPH MOSHER, cook, Bethel hotel, St. Paul.

M. MAHONEY, brakeman, Whitefish, Mont.

MRS. MARTHA KETTLER, passenger, St. Paul.

One male passenger, body not identified.

Had a Premonition.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1. — Mrs. Martha Kettler of St. Paul, one of those killed in the wreck at Sharon, N. D., Saturday, was on the way to visit her aged parents at Kalispell, Mont., whom she had not seen in two years, and in order to help a sister in the preparation of her trousseau for her wedding in February. She also wished to be at home for a New Year's reunion.

Mrs. Kettler had a premonition of disaster. This premonition had grown more persistent since the recent wreck of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train at Odessa.

This is either going to be the last time I shall see my parents, or something else is going to happen," was one of many remarks Mrs. Kettler had made more than two weeks ago.

DEATH RATE IN NATION LOWER

Boston Is the Only One of Eight Largest Cities Showing an Increase.

Washington, Jan. 1—A decline in the death rate in seven of the eight cities of the United States having a population above 500,000, and a generally low death rate throughout the United States, are shown in the preliminary mortality figures for 1911, given out today by the census bureau.

The area from which complete mortality returns are received now covers twenty-two states, and forty-five cities outside these states, embracing a total population of 57,327,697. The 1911 death rate was 14.4 per 1,000 of population, compared with 15 per 1,000 in 1910. In Boston the rate increased from 17.2 to 18.5. Of the cities in the half million class, Cleveland's rate of 13.5 is the lowest.

Pittsburg shows the greatest decrease in the death rate, its proportion of deaths per 1,000 of population being 14.7 in 1911 as compared with 17.9 in 1910. Figures for other cities for 1911 were: New York, 15.5; Chicago, 14.3; Philadelphia, 16.3; St. Louis, 15.5; Baltimore, 18.4.

THINK VIOLIN IS A "STRAD"

So aged that its fiber-sewn ribs are bulging, and with the date "1690" printed in Roman lettering pasted to its inside back, what is believed to be a genuine "Strad" violin has been discovered on Park Point.

The instrument's general appearance bears out its owner's assertion that it is the genuine article.

The violin came into the family of Joseph McLaughlin of Thirty-seventh street, Park Point, more than forty years ago. Before that, according to Mr. McLaughlin, the instrument had been brought, as a treasured heirloom, from England, but its history cannot be traced beyond that.

HARRY ATWOOD TAKES A TUMBLE

Aviator Falls Into Icy Water With His Hydro-Aeroplane.

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 1.—When but a few hundred yards from the Point of Pines, at the start of his flight to Portland, Me., today, Harry N. Atwood met with an accident and fell into the icy water with his hydro-aeroplane. He crawled upon the top of his machine and at noon was waiting for a boat to come to his assistance.

ATLANTIC FREIGHT STEAMER HELPLESS.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 1.—The freight steamer Alpha, which plies between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, still is on the sand bar at the inlet where she struck yesterday afternoon. The vessel is helpless, having lost her rudder. The Alpha is lying easy but has sprung a leak.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU.

There is no particular intrinsic significance about New Year's day. It is a holiday under the law, and it is observed more or less. But it has no such associations as a birthday of a nation or the birthday of the Savior of the world.

Nevertheless, custom has given New Year's day rather an important significance as a day for taking stock of the past and making plans for the future. Man made the calendar, and the point at which one year gives way to another is arbitrarily fixed. Nevertheless, the passing point of the years has come to be a place where humanity pauses for a moment to review the past and to project the future insofar as it can.

This is a wonderful time in the world. Humanity has made greater strides toward liberty in the year just passed than in any previous year, though events more spectacular than any of 1911 have happened often in former years. Nowhere on earth, as yet, is human liberty complete. Even in governments supposedly conducted by the people there are chains of slavery, more or less galling. Yet every day sees humanity a step further toward the goal of complete liberty and pure democracy; and that goal will be reached just as soon as humanity is fitted to enjoy its privileges. Nineteen hundred and twelve is likely to be a year of great changes in governmental and economic systems the world over; and it is a high privilege to live in such a time and to be able to contribute toward making these changes.

The coming year will include, in this country, a presidential election and the election of state officers; and the amount of progress the nation and the states make toward liberty will depend upon the responsiveness of the conventions to the people's need and the people's will, and upon the wisdom shown by the people in their choice at the polls.

Ordinarily, a presidential year is presumed to be prejudicial to business; but this time, apparently, business has rallied successfully from so many shocks of alarm that it has made up its mind to plow right ahead regardless of the din of battle in the political field. The country has been passing through a period of dullness that in some places amounted to hard times, but reports from all quarters give good ground for the assurance that the new year is rosy with promise made a practical certainty by present activities in all lines of business.

In the political field, few states are confronted with so great a need of change and so great an opportunity of change for the better as Minnesota. The members of both parties should choose wisely in making their nominations, should present their best men for all offices, and should lend every assistance possible to the end that the people, in November, may pick a state government and a legislature that will do their will, and not the will of arrogant special interests which have assumed and hold full control in this commonwealth.

Prosperity, in the nation, in the state and in Duluth, are as certain for the new year as anything in the future can be. The alarms of uncertainty are passed. Business realizes, now, that such things as tariff revision and corporation control in the interests of the people are coming, and has made up its mind to keep on going just the same—finding, much to its surprise, that not one of the many things that were said to be certainly fatal to it have resulted in any serious injury.

On this day for the making of resolutions, make none that you will not keep. A broken resolution is an injury to character. A pretty good form of resolution for any person to make is that he will avoid the evil things by filling his life with the good things, that as a citizen he will study public questions and vote for results for the people regardless of party, and that as a partner in the ownership of his home community he will overlook no opportunity to advance its interests, to foster its growth and prosperity, or to make it a better and lovelier city to live in.

That the New Year may bring nothing but happiness and prosperity to each of its readers is the earnest wish of The Herald.

THE COMMISSION PLAN IN OPERATION---11.

Colorado Springs, Colo., adopted the commission plan in 1909. The results have been most evident in the appointments, which have been put wholly on a basis of merit instead of the old basis of party affiliation or party loyalty. Abundant experience shows not only that party loyalty is a very poor reason for appointment to public office, but that it is too often a very good reason against such appointment. For instance, the city went outside to get a fire chief with an excellent public record, but who had been dismissed in spite of that record, in the town which he had served, because of political reasons.

If the commission plan of city government would open the way for the adoption of such business-like methods of handling city business in Colorado Springs, maybe it would help Duluth.

HIRING A CITY SERVANT.

The city clerk of Calgary, Alberta, resigned recently. The city had to get a man to fill his place. How it went about it is interesting.

The city administration didn't pick out a man of its own political faith and reward him with the job because he had worked hard for the party. That's the way it is usually done in this country. Not so in Canada.

The city let it be known that it wanted a good man for city clerk. Maybe it advertised, though the reports are not clear on that point. But it let word go forth somehow that it needed a city clerk. Twenty-one applications came in. Several were from local men, one being an employe of the city treasurer's office. The others were all from outside the city, and they came from both coasts and from many points between.

The man picked for the place was not a resident of Calgary. He is from Winnipeg. It does not appear that anybody asked what his political affiliations were. Nobody seemed to care about that. The city commissioners picked him out because he seemed the best fitted of the twenty-one to take the job. They recommended him to the council and the council elected him. The salary is $2,400 a year—which would have been a pleasant little titbit for some political worker.

For all the world this is just as though a private business enterprise had a vacancy in an important position and picked the best man it could find to fill it.

And that's the way city business ought to be conducted everywhere.

Happy New Year!

IS THERE A MONEY TRUST?

In an address in New York last week Samuel Untermeyer discussed this question. His answer to it, in brief, is that there is no money trust in the sense of a formal organization. "There is no definite union or aggregation of the money powers in the financial world." But there is a money trust, just the same, and it is a mighty and dangerous power. This nation needs a new currency and banking law; but before it passes any measure, however fair and just it may appear, it should be absolutely certain that there is concealed beneath its plausible exterior no provisions that will strengthen and make permanent the control of the nation's money by a few.

Says Mr. Untermeyer: "If, however, we mean by this loose, elastic term 'trust' as applied to the concentration of the 'money power' that there is a close and well-defined 'community of interest' and understanding among the men who dominate the financial destinies of our country and who wield fabulous power over the fortunes of others through their control of corporate funds belonging to other people, our investigators will find a situation confronting us far more serious than is popularly supposed to exist."

He makes it clear that what he says involves no reproach or charges of wrongdoing against the men who have achieved this power. "They have exercised the power with exceptional justice and self-restraint except where the interests under their protection are threatened." His criticism is levelled, he says, "against the business and financial system that has made such results possible, and which if not corrected is likely to lead to a money oligarchy more despotic and more dangerous to industrial freedom than anything civilization has ever known."

It is this power, long suspected to exist and felt on many an occasion, which those have in mind who are withholding their judgment of the Aldrich currency plan until they find out to an absolute certainty that it contains no possibility of increasing the power of the "money trust." Such a power is too great to be permitted to lodge in the hands of any set of men on earth. It is up to the advocates of the Aldrich plan to prove beyond the possibility of a doubt that the central bank or reserve association to be created will be beyond the control of the money power that already exists. Vast sums of money will be diverted, by this plan, into the control of the reserve association. It should be possible to frame the new law so that this money cannot by any possibility be used by the masters of money to exploit the people. Perhaps it is already so framed. The Herald, like many citizens of the country, wants to be assured that it is so before it can approve the Aldrich scheme.

Mr. Untermeyer describes in detail the methods by which the masters of money control the finances of the nation. He condemns the unregulated clearing house—and Aldrich explains his plan as an evolution of the clearing house system. Mr. Untermeyer does not mention the Aldrich plan in his address; but he does say this: "A scientific money system with a reserve national bank as its central idea would tend to relieve the danger of the situation PROVIDED THE BANK IS OPERATED BY THE GOVERNMENT AS A PART OF THE TREASURY SYSTEM and is not allowed to fall under the domination of the great financial interests." There are forty-five directors of the proposed reserve association, and but three of these are appointed by the government. The rest are appointed by the banking institutions of the country, in large part in proportion to their size.

If, as Mr. Untermeyer says, a few control the financial situation in the United States now; if the proposed reserve association is to be controlled by those who now control the finances of the country: then where is the assurance that the funds directed into the hands of that association will not be available to the masters of money for further schemes of exploiting the people?

These are questions that MUST be answered. Perhaps the Aldrich plan is a complete answer to them, but the nation must be convinced of that before it is adopted.

"It's Cool in Duluth."

ROOSEVELT AND CAMPAIGN DONATIONS.

When ex-President Roosevelt caused the publication of correspondence showing that the fortune picked up by Harriman for the campaign of 1904 was intended only for the New York state ticket, and was not intended or used to advance Roosevelt's presidential candidacy, the New York newspapers which nurse a bitter hatred of the Colonel renewed their attack upon him because he solicited campaign contributions from Harriman.

Most of them seek, obviously, to convey the impression that the money was used to help elect Roosevelt.

There is nothing about the incident that is creditable to anybody, least of all to Roosevelt. But it's no fair distorting the facts to make the case against him blacker than it really is.

The fact is that the correspondence between Harriman and Roosevelt which these New York enemies of the latter have published frequently supports fully his claim that the money was intended solely for the Republican state ticket in New York, and that it was used solely for that purpose.

On Oct. 10, 1904, President Roosevelt wrote thus to Mr. Harriman, according to the correspondence published in the New York World: "In view of the trouble over the state ticket in New York, I should much like to have a few words with you. Do you think you can come down here within a few days and take either lunch or dinner with me?"

Mr. Harriman went to Washington about Oct. 20, saw Mr. Roosevelt, and then returned to New York and raised a campaign fund of $260,000.

It seems clear that Roosevelt asked no money from Wall Street to help elect him, and that he did ask money from Wall Street to help elect Frank Higgins. That's no credit to him; but it isn't fair to attempt to make people believe that he asked for the money to advance his own political fortunes. We don't believe he did.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HEAPING DUTIES ON UNTRUSTWORTHY SHOULDERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Since it appears that the voters of the city will in the near future decide whether Duluth is to own her own municipal electric lighting plant, it would seem that there would be some way of campaigning against the proposition in the interests of the taxpayers, as it is certain there is some very aggressive work being done by those in favor of the scheme. The worst feature of it is that the principal agitation is being carried on among a class who are not very materially affected either one way or the other, no matter what the outcome, yet who have as much of a voice as those who will have to foot the bills. While there are exceptions, the majority of those who are hollering the loudest for a municipal light plant will not have to go down into their pockets to pay for the blunder, if it proves to be one. There is reason to think that it would.

Unfortunately, those in the best position to give facts and figures, namely, the Duluth-Edison company officers, are prejudiced witnesses. There are many voters who would be influenced in favor of the scheme merely by reason of the fact that this company had made an coffrt to show them that it was impracticable. I personally have no connection with the Duluth-Edison company in any way except as a consumer of current, and am just as anxious as anyone to get my current just as cheaply as I can, but I have no desire to save $1 in electric current and then pay it back with another dollar or more besides in taxes. There has already been expended something like $14,000 of the city's money for an estimate, and I don't believe that any sane business man would have paid $1.40 cents for it. Even the most earnest supporters of the scheme willingly admit that $700,000 would not much more than begin to pay for a plant. It appears, however, that the most important part of the whole situation has been entirely overlooked. There is probably no one who is not willing to admit that an electric light plant in a city the size of Duluth can and is being operated at a profit, but it is just like any other business in the hands of incompetence, it could lose money faster than a circus in rainy weather. It is a pretty well-established fact that the city itself is operated on anything but a business basis. How under the sun anyone can expect a city which cannot operate its own affairs on a business basis to handle business of such nature, as an electric light plant any better than they do the city affairs is more than I can see. It is not the usual custom to enlarge the duties of any man who has not proven himself capable in what he is already doing, and I for one say by all means let Duluth show she can operate her own affairs on a much better basis than she is now doing, before we enlarge her duties by giving her a municipal light plant to experiment with. Yours truly,

A TAXPAYER.

"NARROW PURITANISM."

To the Editor of The Herald:

My attention has been called to one of your editorials of last week, entitled "Narrow Puritanism," in which you criticise very severely the stand taken by the Rev. F. C. Willekes of Edgeley, N. D., on the question of Christmas entertainments in churches. It is with some degree of pleasure, however, that I notice that you are willing to admit that you may be wrong in what you say. I am very much inclined to think that you are wrong, very much wrong in fact. You, like many other exponents of "advanced modern thought," seem to have a very strange idea as for just what purpose a church is intended. I venture to suggest that primarily it is intended as a place in which God's people may worship their Creator which to a true Christian—whether man or woman or child—is the highest form of earthly happiness.

It has always appeared to me (whether my ideas are of present day fashion or of those of the prehistoric stone-hatchet men, which fortunately or unfortunately have not been washed away by the deluge) that a church building is neither a vaudeville nor a moving picture house, much less a place in which to hold Trilby parties.

When a church becomes a place where worldly pleasures and amusements must be, or for expedient's sake are, resorted to, to draw a worldly minded people to its so-called hallowed walls, that church has outlived its usefulness and it were better that it were torn down to make room for a frankly, unpretending, worldly building, than that its walls should remain to re-echo in platitudes and glib messages of comfort, carefully chosen and guardedly phrased so as not to grate on the ears of a pleasure seeking congregation.

Where a pretended minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ tries to palliate, compromise, and make palatable for the purse-proud of the people, the straight doctrines of his Master; he will fall miserably as he deserves to fall. And such "churches" must sink into oblivion and be as the half-forgotn shrines of pagan gods. I am yours, a lover of orthodoxy,

RICHARD K. McLEOD.

Duluth, Dec. 29.

A Vow.

I may not ever scale the mountain heights
Where all the great men stand in glory now,
I may not ever gain the world's delights
Or win a wreath of laurel for my brow;
I may not gain the victories that men
Are fighting for, nor do a thing to boast of;
I may not get a fortune here, but then
The little that I have I'll make the most of.

I'll make my little home a palace fine,
My little patch of green a garden fair,
And I shall know each humble plant and vine
As rich men know their orchid blossoms rare.
My little home may not be much to see,
Its chimneys may not tower far above,
But it will be a mansion great to me,
For out of it I'll take a hoard of love.

I will not pass my modest pleasures by
To grasp at shadows of more splendid things,
Disdaining what of joyousness is nigh
Because I am denied the joy of kings.
But I will sing and sing my way along,
I'll make the most of what is mine today,
I shall have lived a full life anyway.
—Detroit Free Press.

Painfully So.

New York Press: Richard Harding Davis, at a dinner in New York, said of snobbishness: "You'll meet the snob everywhere. Once, in search of local color, I toured North Devon. Who'd dream of finding snobs in that rich country of fishermen and yeomen and sailors? Yet in Combe Martin I put up at the King's Arms, an inn 300 years old. At my breakfast in the coffee room I said to my superior looking waiter:

"'I suppose visitors here are not very common.'

"The waiter's upturned nose, turned still further up as he answered: 'Indeed they are—painfully so, most of them.'"

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Always on the Job.

Cass Lake Times: The Duluth Herald, though defeated by the G. O. P. auxiliary at St. Cloud, has not been silenced and will appear as usual at the regulation times.

It Is to Be Desired.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: Duluth has again gone back to the rock pile method of keeping the tramp and vagrant evil down to a minimum. During the summer there is no need of the quarry, but as soon as cold weather sets in the application for lodging and care taxes the capacity of the lockups, but as soon as the rock pile is hinted at the fellows down on their luck squirm and look about for work. The pay at the end of the stone sledge is $1.20 a day for ten hours, which provides them with funds to purchase eatables and lodging. With proper publicity the Zenith City will be given a wide berth by the Weary Willies.

Boost or Knock?

Virginia Virginian: Mayor Cullum is about the smoothest politician and the smartest mayor Duluth has had in a long time.

The Real Potato Champion.

Stillwater Gazette: The potato championship of Minnesota has been settled by the silver cup being awarded to the Jean du Luth stock farm which exhibited a basket of McKinley potatoes at the land show in St. Paul. J. J. Furlong of Mower county challenged R. C. Dunn of Princeton to show potatoes. While Mr. Furlong had a splendid exhibit the prize went to the northern part of the state. Mr. Dunn didn't have an exhibit but probably satisfied himself that the Duluth farm would carry off the honors and that being in his section of the state, that was all he desired. The winner carried off the championship at the ... York show.

Thank You.

Belgrade Tribune: If you wish to read some real bright, breezy and truthful editorial dope, have the Duluth Herald on your reading list.

Can't Stop to Breathe.

Thief River Falls Times: The Duluth Herald says that even though it has lost in its fight for an extra session of the legislature, the set-back is only temporary, and the paper is still game. The Herald deserves a breathing spell, and the Times predicts that there sure will be something doing when The Herald cuts loose again.

The Jokester.

Bemidji Pioneer: They must be getting pretty hard up for nalls in Duluth. Doctors there took one from the appendix of a 19-year-old boy a few days ago.

They All Believe It.

Redwood Falls Sun: The Duluth Herald is working over time to make some people believe what the majority of the citizens of the state have known for more than a year and that is, that Governor Eberhart is considerable of a stiff, to say the least.

An Atchison Confession.

Sioux City Tribune: Ed. Howe, the Atchison philosopher whose quaint and wise sayings have been read with delight for many years, is still capable of seeing things that other men miss. Being a Kansan and having edited a Republican newspaper here for thirty years it must be assumed that he is a Republican of the straightest sect. He is. Yet this is what he said in the December issue of Howe's Monthly:

The Republicans have stirred up such a quarrel among themselves, over the spoils, that it is disgraceful. The Republican quarrel has become so bitter that the leaders of that party will not do anything. If there is anything coming to us from the great supply of coal in Alaska, we are not getting it. One set of Republicans declare that Alaska coal should be delivered anywhere at $1 a ton. Another set declares that $1 a ton for the people's coal is monstrous; that it amounts to plain robbery, and that 50 cents a ton is enough. Meanwhile Alaska coal is not being mined on any terms, and the quarrel is already fifteen years old. The quarrel over the tariff has gone on for years, but while the quarrel gets on, there is no reduction in tariff rates.

I am a Republican but have concluded that I need a good whipping. In none of the congressional districts of my state there was lately an election. The Insurgents caused the standpats to blush with the boldness with which they sued trickery. The big Insurgents all went into the district, and wept, and wrung their hands, and lied like thieves for the insurgent candidate. The people thought over the matter, and then, in disgust, gave the office to the Democrat. The man who ran was about the only Democrat in the district.

A Democrat can never get anything unless it is given to him, and I stand pat on the proposition that thousands of Republicans are thinking of giving the presidency to Woodrow Wilson.

The Yellowness of Dobbs.

Dobbs was down on crooked games—
frank about it, too;
Kicked against the grasping alms of the foxy few;
Railed at graft and sinecure with a fine insistence;
Said 'twas wrong to rob the poor, even at a distance.

Long and loudly Dobbs opposed greed that over-reaches.
Round his needy state he nosed, finding out the leeches,
Spotting sinful deal and trade, snaky plot and deep—
Pointing out the wolves that preyed, running with the sheep.

Dobbs proposed a voting bill—questions by the yard;
Talked about the people's will—made repeating hard;
Said it was an evil pact, wickeder than Blitzen,
Every time the cards were stacked on the humble citizen.

Brown and Jones and Robinson, prominent, astute,
Thought at first he spoke in fun—smiled and called him cute.
When they saw he meant it strong, then they raised a bellow;
Passed their weighty word along: "Warning! Dobbs is yellow!"

"Dobbs is yellow!" cried the three, "yellow as a frog!
Has a presidential bee—Oh, the demagogue!
Oh, the danger! Oh, the harm! Oh, our precious jobs!"
—L. H. Robbins in Newark News.

Couldn't Find It.

Philadelphia Dispatch: A very small man—not only small as to stature, but lacking also in width of beam, sat in a pay-as-you-enter car on the Walnut street line until he became tightly wedged in from both sides. Then there entered the car a large, handsome woman upholstered to the minute. She took the strap in front of the small man and was hanging to it in snugly corseted discomfort when the small man arose with a flourish of politeness and touched her on the arm.

"Take my seat, madam," he said with a bow and a smile.

"Oh, thank you very much," she replied, and turned toward the seat.

Then, smiling genially again, she asked: "Where did you get up from?"

His Party.

London Tatler: "Is your husband at home?"

"Yes. What do you want with him?"

"I'm—er—revising the voting list, and I just wanted to inquire which party he belongs to."

"Do yer? Well, I'm the party wot 'e belongs to."

THE OLD MAN AND JIM.

Old Man never had much to say—
'Ceptin' to Jim—
An' Jim was the wildest boy he had—
And the Old Man jes' wrapped up in him!
Never heerd him speak but once
Er twice in my life—and first time was
When the army broke out, and Jim he went,
The Old Man backin' him, fer three months.
And all 'at I heerd the Old Man say
Was jes' as we turned to start away—
"Well, good-by Jim;
Take keer of yourse'f!"

Fully believin' he'd make his mark
Some way—jes' wrapped up in him!—
And many a time the word 'u'd come
'At stirred him up like the tap of a drum—
At Petersburg, fer instance, where
Jim rid right into their cannons there,
And tuk 'em, and p'inted 'em t'other way,
And socked it home to the boys in gray,
And they skooted fer timber, and on and on—
Jim a lieutenant and one arm gone,
And the Old Man's words in his mind all day—
"Well, good-by Jim;
Take keer of yourse'f!"

'Peared like he was more satisfied
Jes' lookin' at Jim
And likin' him all to hisse'f—like, see?—
'Cause he was jes' wrapped up in him!
And over and over I mind the day
The Old Man come and stood round in the way,
While we was drillin', a-watchin' Jim—
And down at the deepot a-heerin' him say—
"Well, good-by Jim;
Take keer of yourse'f!"

Never was nothin' about the farm
Disting'ished Jim;
Neighbors all ust to wonder why
The Old Man 'peared wrapped up in him;
But when Cap. Biggler he writ back
'At Jim was the bravest boy we had
In the whole regiment—white or black,
And his fightin' good as his farmin' bad—
'At he had led, with a bullet clean
Bored through his thigh, and carried the flag
Through the bloodiest battle you ever seen—
The Old Man wound up a letter to him,
'At Can read to us, 'at said; "Tell Jim
'Good-by;
And take keer of hisse'f!"

Jim come back jes' long enough
To take the whim
'At he'd like to go back in the calvery—
And the Old Man jes' wrapped up in him!—
Jim 'lowed 'at he'd had sich luck afore,
Guessed he tackle her three years more,
And the Old Man gave him a colt he'd raised
And follered him over to Camp Ben Wade,
And laid around fer a week or so,
Watchin' Jim on dress parade—
Tel finally he rid away.
And last he heard was the Old Man say—
"Well, good-by Jim;
Take keer of yourse'f!"

Tuk the papers, the Old Man did,
A'watchin' fer Jim—
Think of a private now, perhaps,
We'll say like Jim,
'At's climb clean up to the shoulder straps—
And the Old Man jes' wrapped up in him!
Think of him—with the war plum through,
And the glorious old Red-White-and-Blue
A'laughin the news down over Jim
And the Old Man, bendin' over him—
The surgeon—turnin' away with tears—
'At hadn't leaked for years and years—
As the hand of the dyin' boy clung to His father's, the old voice in his ears—
"Well, good-by Jim;
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Something Doing in Memphis.

Leslie's Weekly: Memphis' advertising campaign was a wonder. The whole reading public of the United States was made to sit up and take notice. No one was allowed to remain in ignorance of the fact that Memphis was very much on the map.

But while the rest of the country saw tangible evidence of the $20,000 Memphis spent in presenting its claims to the world, few, aside from those who have visited there, knew what it accomplished. It is estimated that as a result of that advertising campaign no less than sixty-five manufacturing concerns have moved to Memphis. Careful investigation has revealed that these plants employ, on an average, eighty men apiece.

This would give a total of 5,200 new citizens within a year. Statisticians have figured that for every man there is at least one other dependent on him to be counted, and this would mean a total of 10,400.

His Plans.

Argonaut: She was a lady visitor to the prison, kindly and well-meaning, and as she chatted with a burglar who had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment she thought she detected signs of reform in him.

"And now," she said, "have you any plans for the future on the expiration of your sentence?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am," he said hopefully, "I've got the plans of two banks and a postoffice."

The Reason.

McCall's Magazine: Magistrate—What! Do you mean to say your husband struck you, and he a physical wreck?

Mrs. Maloney—Yes, yer honor; but he's been a physical wreck only since he struck me.

A Domestic Trim.

Puck: First Omaha Man (in surprise)—What! Back already? Why, I thought you were going to see Europe?"

Second Omaha Man (cheerfully)—"So did I, but it seems that New York saw me first."

"PLAYING POLITICS."

(From the Congressional Record.)

The Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Sparkman)—The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Berger) is recognized.

Mr. Berger—Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I must congratulate my Democratic friends on the way they are playing politics. For the first time in fifty years they are playing good politics, but it is playing politics. Day before yesterday they tried to rake in the soldiers' vote; yesterday they tried to get the Hebrew vote, and today they are trying to get the labor vote. (Laughter.)

Mr. Anderson of Ohio—Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Berger—Gladly.

Mr. Anderson of Ohio—I understand the gentleman to say that the Democratic party in this house had been playing politics in passing legislation favorable to the old soldiers,, to the Jews and to the laboring men. Is it not true that the gentleman voted for the Sherwood pension bill?

Mr. Berger—I did.

Mr. Anderson of Ohio—And did not the gentleman vote also for the Sulzer resolution?

Mr. Berger—I did.

Mr. Anderson of Ohio—And the gentleman expects to vote for this bill?

Mr. Berger—Yes, I do. I said you were "playing" good politics. (Laughter and applause.) And I hope you Democrats will also bring in a bill to help the colored men. I shall vote for that, too. (Laughter.)

Mr. Kendall—Will the gentleman allow me another suggestion?

Mr. Berger—Yes.

Mr. Kendall—I was curious to know upon what theory the gentleman attributed the passage of the pension bill to the Democratic party, when 132 Republicans voted for it and only 30 did not, whereas only 97 Democrats voted for it and 130 did not.

Mr. Berger—The Democrats initiated the bill. They are responsible for legislation in this house. (Applause.) Give the devil his due. (Laughter.) I always do that and always shall. But remember, this house has passed half a dozen eight-hour bills in the past.

Mr. Kendall—With that explanation I am content.

Mr. Anderson of Ohio—The gentleman from Wisconsin was looking at the other side when he spoke of giving the devil his due. (Laughter.)

Mr. Berger—I was looking first at one side and then at the other. (Laughter.) You see, gentlemen, I personally am in a peculiar position. The speeches on this side and on the other side hardly change a vote of a Democrat or a Republican. You always—or, at least, as a rule—know beforehand how you are going to vote on everything that comes up. I am the only man who is open to the arguments of either side. (Laughter.)

Getting Even.

London Chronicle: Eels are the luxury of the east end, and the fish shop stuck up proudly the notice "We sells eels to the king." From the opposite side of the road the rival salesman watched his customers diverted to the shop that claimed to supply the royal table with eels. And then, after a week's reflection, he put up the rival notice, "God save the king!"

BANQUET IS A SUCCESS

President Taft Chief Speaker at Peace Dinner in New York.

New York, Jan. 1.—Preceded by dissensions which seemed for a time to threaten a climax anything but pacific, the Citizens' peace banquet here on Saturday night proved in realization everything that the name implied—so far, at least, as concerned its attendant conditions. President Taft was the guest of honor and chief speaker of the evening, and while arguing for the pending arbitration treaties between the United States and Great Britain and France, as he has done previously at similar gatherings, went further than in other addresses and replied specifically to some criticisms recently made against the principles embodied in those treaties.

He also made answer to the charge of inconsistency lodged against advocates of the arbitration treaties, who did not favor arbitration in the difficulty between the United States and Russia.

Not Inconsistent.

"Those of us who are in favor of these treaties have been criticized as inconsistent because we did not invoke arbitration in the recent difference with Russia," said Mr. Taft. "I am not entirely willing to speak as frankly as I might of that because my tongue is tied in a slight way by what we hope for in future negotiations. All that I can say is that if you will read the great argument of Elihu Root on the question of why the treaty should be terminated, and why arbitration would not do, I am content to stand on his exhibit and explanation of them.

"The truth is that the treaty itself contains contractual obligations on the part of the United States to recognize the doctrine of non-expatriation, and recognize the right of Russia to say that the naturalized Russian citizens in the United States should not lose their allegiance to Russia and could be punished for becoming naturalized citizens.

An Old Doctrine.

"Now that was contained on the face of the treaty. It was in accordance with the doctrine that prevailed in the United States and that prevailed in Russia in 1832. The doctrine had been departed from by statute in the United States, but it remained in the treaty and we cannot so far as a foreign country is concerned, in contractual dealing with her, repeal a treaty by statute.

"Hence it was stated in the notice of the termination of the treaty, made in accordance with the terms of the treaty, that the treaty was so old that it was not responsive to the views of the two nations.

"Now why, therefore, should we arbitrate a treaty of that sort in which we were met first and foremost by the proposition that twenty or thirty or forty years ago we repudiated it as an international matter?

"Therefore I say that the inconsistency that is supposed to exist in our failure to invoke arbitration there does not exist, and I commend to those who think it does, a close perusal of Mr. Root's argument and of the treaty itself."

Merely a Human Machine.

The possibility of some tribunal being established that would take up such a question, was discussed by the president and he disposed of it by pointing out that such a court would be merely a human machine and liable to error but that that would be no reason why we should not use the machine if it offers generally the best solution and stands the result of a mistake in a few instances.

Among those at the table with the president, including the speakers of the evening, Andrew Carnegie, Oscar S. Straus, former ambassador to Turkey; former United States Senator Charles A. Towne and Henry Clews, were Governor-elect Earl Brewer of Mississipi, Bishop David Greer of the Protestant Episcopal church, Raoul Dandurand, chairman of the interparliamentary group, Canadian parliament, and United States Senator O'Gorman of New York.

John Temple Graves, the toastmaster, reviewed the movement for universal peace, which he said, "revolves at last around our country," and paid warm tribute to President Taft declaring that "the stateliest steps that have been taken for peace in human history have been taken by the twenty-seventh president of the United States." In giving way to the guest of the evening he said: "I present to you William Howard Taft, the great peace president of the republic's life."

TWINS, TRIPLETS TWICE. THEN FIVE ALL AT ONCE.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 1.—His recent complaint that the railway station waiting room at Boynton, Okla., was without fire on a bitterly cold day led to the discovery that J. M. Jackson and his wife are parents of thirteen children, born in three years. Their only other child, a son, is now 14 years old.

The increase in the Jackson family became marked five years ago. Twins are now five years old. Triplets succeeded the twins in twelve months, and in another year tripets again after the last triplets came five children on the same day.

The last five are still alive, but the health of the whole afmnity, declares Jackson, was impaired by the absence of warmth in the Boynton station waiting room. It is hinted that the railroad commission will reprimand the railroad company.

FOUR GIRLS IN ONE OFFICE NOT FORCED TO WAIT FOR LEAP YEAR

Depty Thomas Clark wanted to hang out a 'girls wanted" sign on Dec. 26, but was assured by four blushing young women that it was not necessary—at least for some little time to come.

On the morning of Dec. 26 four girls appeared for work as usual, but each one held the left hand slightly behind her and seemed to want to hide the glimmer of a Christmas "spark."

Mr. Clark is not so slow and he was quick to observe. He visited each girl in turn and wanted to know "how soon."

Amid many blushes and many stammers he was assured that "not for some time."

Some of the girls said that it was all a joke and that they were "phonies," but Mr. Clark says he knows the real thing from a "barrios."

So from all accounts, in due course of events four girls will quit rattling typewriter keys in the county register's office.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Jan. 1.—Specifications for steel products upon recent contracts developed unusual activity during the last week of the year, a time when business usually is temporarily suspended. The steel corporation has ordered six additional furnaces into blast which indicates that the new year will begin with 79 per cent of capacity active as against 70 to 72 per cent for several weeks past.

Railroad business last week was a disappointment, the large rail contracts anticipated, were held over. Car orders were more satisfactory. During the last quarter of the year railroad buying has included 540,000 tons of rails; 78,000 cars, 578 locomotives and 105,000 tons of bridge material.

Interest in fabricated steel centered during the past week in contracts for commercial buildings in New York city, these being orders for some 20,000 tons. The principal railroad bridge orders aggregated 22,000 tons. Business in pig iron was smaller in tonnage with greater irregularity in prices. It is estimated that in all districts contracts aggregated only about 80,000 tons. The total in December was over 500,000 tons. The year's output was under 23,000,000 tons.

FEDERAL CIRCUIT COURTS PASS OUT

New Judiciary Code Goes Into Effect With the New Year.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Throughout the United States the New Year marks the passing out of existence of the federal circuit courts, tribunals as old as the nation and more prominent in the early days of the republic than the supreme court itself. The new judiciary code which went into effect today provides for the abolishment of the circuit courts. In the main, the business of the circuit courts will be transferred to the federal district courts and the judges to the circuit court of appeals.

RIDER HAGGARD MADE BARONET

Only Three Peerages Conferred By King George for New Year.

London, Jan. 1.—The New Year's honors list this year is a short one as a result of the honors conferred by the king during the durbar, but the election covers a wide range of civil servants, politicians and men of distinction, the various professions and commerce being included.

Only three peerages are conferred the new barons being Sir Thomas Gibson Carmichael, governor of Madras; Sir Alfred Thomas, for many years leader of the Welsh party in the house of commons, and Samuel Hope Morley, ex-governor if the Bank of England. Among the baronets are William Nelson, chairman of the Nelson Steamship line; Thomas Skinner, a director of the Canadian Pacific railway and deputy governor of the Hudson Bay company; Joseps Berahan; Valentine Chirol, director of the foreign department of the London Times; H. Rider Haggard, the novelist and S. J. Pocock, a large land owner of England and Canada.

The Canadians honored beside Premier Borden, are Col. John Moreyson Gibson, lieutenant governor of Ontario, and Joseph Pope, under-secretary for external affairs, who are made knights commander of St. Michael and St. George; Thomas Cooper Beville, deputy minister of finance, companion of St. Michael and St. George and Lieut. Col. Rudolphe Forget of Montreal and Edmund B. Osler of Toronto, both members of the Canadian parliament, knights bachelor.

Mrs. Caroline M. Severance, age 91 years, has completed fifty-eight years of fighting for woman's enfranchisement by registering as a voter at Los Angeles, Cal.

DELIVER MAIL TO 66,000,000

Annual Report on Postal Service Is Made By Grandfield.

Compensation Law and Salary Reforms Recommended in Document.

Washington, Jan. 1.—The enactment of a law to compensate all postal employes, including the letter carriers, for injuries sustained in the line of duty, but not attributable to their own negligence, is urged in the annual report of C. P. Grandfield, first assistant postmaster general.

There were in operation June 30, last, 59,237 postoffices of all classes in the United States. The postal city delivery service is now in operation in 1,541 cities, serving more than 46,000,000 persons; and on the 42,000 rural routes, 20,000,000 persons receive mail. This leaves a considerable portion of the American people, most of whom reside in towns and villages, the report declares, "without any form of free delivery service; and under the present law there is no way by which the department can relieve this inequality."

Cost of Free Delivery.

The cost of free delivery in cities, including collection expenses, was nearly $33,000,000 or more than 18 per cent of the gross of the city delivery offices. Mr. Grandfield calls special attention to the fact that during the last fiscal year "the gross revenue of the department more than equaled the expenditures, and the postal service is now self-supporting for the first time since 1883.

"In two years," he adds, "the enormous deficit of $17,500,000 has been turned into a surplus."

"The gross revenues for the year amounted to $371,876,824 and the expenditures to $237,648,927, leaving a surplus of $219,118 after deducting $11,778 on account of loss of postal funds by fire and burglary. The classification by executive order of the position of assistant postmaster at urst and second class offices and all clerical positions at these offices increased the number of classified competitive positions by about 4,000."

Salary Reform Needed.

The operation of the law which provides for the promotion automatically of clerks in postoffices has brought about a condition, Mr. Grandfield says, that ought to be remedied immediately, since there are now 237 offices where the salary of the assistant postmaster is actually less than that of the clerks under him.

"The amount of Sunday work has been reduced fully 50 per cent. About 20,000 clerks and 15,000 carriers who formerly reported for duty every Sunday are now given a day of rest.

Mr. Grandfield believes that the postoffice clerks and city letter carriers should be allowed thirty days' leave with pay.

The report recommends an appropriation of $10,000,000 to be used "In rewarding postal employes who offer to the department devices for processes that prove of value."

It urges also pensions for superannuated employes.

SWISS SYSTEM OF RECALL.

New Plan to Be Placed Before the Arizona Legislature.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 1.—When the legislature convenes in Phoenix in February, it will be asked to adopt the Swiss system of recall and let the Oregon system, which was voted out of the Constitution on Dec. 12 on the ultimatum of President Taft, go by the board.

The essential difference between the Swiss system and the Oregon plan is that under the former the only thing voted on in a recall election is the recall of the accused official and in the event of his elemination the governor appoints his successor.

The bill will provide that when the recall is re-submitted to the people for incorporation in the Constitution the Oregon and Swiss plans shall be placed on the ballot so voters may choose between them.

HUNTRESS KILLS A WOLF.

Was Seeking Rabbit But Took Shot At a Lobo.

Meeker, Colo., Jan. 1.—A lobo wolf, the first to be killed by a woman in this county, was shot by Mrs. W. H. Randolph, the wife of a Meeker contractor and builder.

The Randolphs own a dry ranch in Josephine Basin, and while out hunting rabbits with a small rifle, Mrs. Randolph scared up the wolf. Taking aim at the animal while it was on the run she fired, with the intention, as she said, of "tickling it."

The little shot struck home and, maddened, the beast turned on the huntress, but Mrs. Randolph finished it before it had come a half dozen steps.

WOMAN'S REALM.

At a beautiful wedding ceremony Saturday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Miss Grace Olive Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Farmer of 316 East Third street, became the bride of Joseph Sargent McGonagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McGonagle of Hunter's Park.

The chancel with its latticed arches of evergreens and the altar with its white hangings and garlands of ground pine made an effective background for the wedding party.

At 8 o'clock the bridal party entered the church to the strains of the Lohengren wedding march, played by A. F. M. Custance at the organ. The ushers, Louis Castle of Milwaukee, William Crawford, Laird Goodman and Robert McGonagle, led the procession, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Emelyn McDougall, Miss Virginia Frick, Miss Hazel Britts, and Miss Edwina Stone, in gowns of white satin with an overdrape of green chiffon, each carrying shower bouquets of marguerites.

Miss Ethel Farmer, as maid of honor, was next in the procession. She wore a gown of white satin with an overdrape of white marquisette and carried a shower bouquet of white hyacinths. The bride entered last on the arm of her brother, Fred Farmer, who gave her away in the pretty betrothal service at the foot of the chancel steps, where the party was awaited by Mr. McGonagle and his best man, Barry Nash of Chicago. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white satin, hand-embroidered and trimmed with real lace. Her bouquet was a shower arrangement of lilies of the valley and gardenias. Mrs. Farmer's gown was of white lace.

After the betrothal service and while the party proceeded to the altar rail, Miss Gladys Reynolds sang the "Song of Thanksgiving," by Allitsen, and later she sang an old English wedding hymn.

Dr. A. W. Ryan, pastor of the church, read the beautiful marriage service, and to the Mendelssohn wedding march the party left the church, led by Mr. and Mrs. Sargent McGonagle.

The church was filled with wedding guests interested in the event, as the young people were popular in social circles and widely known.

Mr. and Mrs. McGonagle left last evening for a short wedding trip and will return to this city for a short visit before going to their home at Hamilton, Mont.

"NATOMA."

Analysis and Illustrations of the American Opera.

Mrs. Agnes Moore Fryberger gave a most interesting analysis of "Natoma" the new American opera, with music by Victor Herbert and libretto by Joseph Redding, Saturday afternoon at the Endion M. E. church under the auspices of the Matinee Musical of this city. A large audience of members of the club and their friends pleased with her talk and with the musical illustrations from the opera given by talented artists.

"Natoma," said Mrs. Fryberger "is perhaps the most popular and the most lasting of all American operas. It resembles the French and Italian operas in style having several points in common with these older compositions but the music is not uniformly good. Natoma has been spoken of as 'grand opera in spots' but throughout it has the characteristics of light opera. It excells in melodiousness."

"The libretto," she said, "has been severely criticised but although it may not be of the best it has enough dramatic situations to hold it together. The text of an opera to be good should have both rythm and connected thought but it has some very good parts and was chosen by Mr. Herbert from among some eighty odd librettos offered for his opera.

"It is generally admitted however, that the best feature of the opera is its orchestration and the reception which it has gained is a point in favor of the singing of grand opera in English."

Mrs. Fryberger took up the opera from the first scene and took her audience through to the fall of the curtain in the last act, giving an interesting resume of the story with comments on the music and words.

Miss Wally Heymar, accompanied by Miss Faith Rogers at the piano, gave on the violin the beautiful barcarole woven into the theme of "Barbara," the young panish maiden of the opera. She played it beautifully and sympathetically.

George Edward Suffel gave two artistic numbers in the songs of the Spanish, Alvarado, the villain of the opera. He sang a Spanish serenade with feeling and beauty of tone and as aria which gave an excellent opportunity for the display of his fine powerful voice. His singing of bith songs was dramatic and most pleasing to the audience.

The Broncho song of Pico, the man of the plains and a quartet was also pleasing to the audience. John Koneczny sang the number and his clear tenor voice was well fitted to the part. The chorus sung by the quartet, Mr. Koneczny, Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten, Miss Alice Mae Brown and George Suffel was repeated in response to an insistent demand from the audience.

Mrs. Flaaten sang "Barbara's Spring Song" clearly and effectively and pleased the audience immensely. The patriotic Song of Paul was very well sung by Mr. Koneczny, but Mrs. Fryberger pointed out the fact that this song had been severly criticized as being too much like Sousa's music to be worthy of grand opera.

The Dagger dance, a wierd number in which the composer has used authentic Indian themes, was played with power by Miss Faith Rogers on the piano, and the prelude to the third act was also finely interperted by this gifted pianist.

"Natomat's Hawk Song" was sung by Miss Brown and was one of the most beautiful numbers given. This also has the Indian themes running through it in a wierd minor key. Miss Brown sang it delightfully.

Program for Benefit Performance Is Complete

The program is now compelte for the benefit performance, which will take place at the Lyceum theater Thursday afternoon, beginning promptly at 3 o'clock. This entertainment will be given for the benefit of Corinne (Baby) Malverne, the little actress who is now ill at St. Mary's hospital. Miss Corinne, it will be remembered, played the part of "Trouble" in "Madame Butterfly" a few seasons ago, when she was associated with Miss Rena Vivienne, the well-known actress of Duluth. There will be no reserved seats at Thursday's performance, the tickets selling at 50 cents each. Tickets may be bought at any of the principal Duluth hotels, at the Commercial and Elks' clubs and from members of the Matinee musicale and the King's Daughters. The managers have decided not to fix any price on the boxes, relying on Duluth's well-to-do citizens to purchase the boxes at whatever figure they see fit to name for the charitable cause for which the program is to be given.

Music will be furnished for the entertainment by the regular Lyceum orchestra. "Conway's Redemption," a dramatic sketch, will be rendered by Gus Forbes and Miss Corinne Cantwell. There will be an instrumental duet by the two young women who have been entertaining the guests at the Spalding and Holland hotels, Miss Wally Heymar, violinist, and Miss Alice Brown, pianist. George E. Suffel, baritone, will give a vocal number, with the assistance of Mrs. H. D. Bostwick. Another number will be rendered by Mrs. C. W. Peters, contralto, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. D. McGill. Recitations will be given by Miss Lillian Preston. In addition to the above, the program will include two numbers taken from the programs of the Empress and Orpheum theaters. These will be a monologue performance by Sydney Grant of New York, who was recently associated with "Madame Sherry" and a vocal entertainment by Phil Bennett, known as "The Alpine Troubadour," from the Empress bill. From the Orpheum bill the two acts giving their services are the Primrose Four and Inness and Ryan.

THE EVENING STORY

HONEST FRED

By A. G. Greenwood.

"Thompson avenue!" bawled Fred Smith. "Thompson avenue!" His eyes searched the pavements up and down, growing gloomy as they did so. He climbed back, fingering the leather bell pull, lingering while the motorman glanced at him, sulky at the delay. Then in a moment Fred's expression changed. In a second he was off the car helping a young girl to the footboard with a cheery: "Morning, Miss Sue."

"Good morning, Mr. Smith," answered Sue, very demurely, but she flushed as she climbed into the car. Fred was very bashful and Sue's eyes very modest. Then a frost—which he blessed twenty times a day at least—made the roads slippery. Sue had stumbled. Fred's ready arm supported her.

The next morning it had been "Good morning, Miss," from shy Fred and "Good morning, I didn't thank you yesterday—I was so startled. It was so kind and clever of you," from Sue Dent. Later on there followed stray snatches of conversation when he punched her transfer, then—so Fred asserted, but of course she did not believe him—hadn't she told him that she went to St. Mark's?—an accidental meeting in church, a little walk, and after that the very normal course of a love affair when two people are very young, very hopeful, and very much in love.

Fred checked his whistling to collect fare—it broke out again as he stood on the outside platform, and was absolutely stilled when as slowly as he could he took Sue's penny and fumbled for her transfer. "Mother's a bit better, Miss Sue," he volunteered in almost a whisper. "I'm more glad than I can say. Only her being ill's a bit of a drag on a fellow. Since I met you I've been wanting to save and of course that's been impossible. Do you know why I want to save—Sue?" Her face was almost as red as his own. Her head dropped so that he could only see her hat. But something in her eyes made him say: "You look worried, Miss Sue. Is there anything I can do?" She put her hands before her face. He saw a tear trickle down between her fingers and felt a pang at it.

"I'd die if 'twould serve you," he said simply. She turned to him impetuously. "I'm a clerk, you knew that. My accounts are wrong. I'm $10 out, Mr Smith, and I only earn $8 a week. They—they'll find out today—they must. Mr Clegg goes through my books once a week. If he thinks—I've"—she hid her face—"stolen it—I'd die!"

Fred's jaw came together with a snap and his face looked grim. "As if he'd dare," he scoffed; "I'd speak to him if he did."

"But they'll turn me out," she said, almost whispering. "Whether they tell me their suspicions or not, I should be penniless. I didn't touch the money, Mr. Smith—"

"You needn't say that," he said gently, stopping the car for a passenger to alight. "Anyone what knows you couldn't credit you if you swore you were guilty. You couldn't do it." The car stopped. A daily passenger, an old man, who rode to the city every morning in his car gave him a cheery "Good morning," and wondered at Fred's gloomy face and swollen eyes. Fred couldn't bear to think of Sue going to face hard people who might insult her, might suspect her, might dismiss her. It tortured him. "They wouldn't turn you away?" he asked wistfully.

"Miss Karley was only $2 out," she replied, her eyes brimming. "She's in a restaurant now—"

"They'd have the heart?" he began.

"They have no heart!" she said between her teeth. "Oh, don't worry, Fred. I shouldn't have told you." He had long been Fred in her thoughts, but she had never called him so to his face, had been too shy to dare. His eyes lit up, glowed, then grew sullen and furious again as he slowly descended to help someone off the car. So they would turn her away. "Fares, please!" Jobs were few and far between; what a struggle she would have to find another. She was so pretty—oh, it wasn't fair! "No, miss, you're going the wrong way. Other side of the road." What a hard world it was. And he could have helped her, could have shown he was truly her friend, could have said: "You'll accept a loan from me, Miss Dent?" Could have pleaded afterwards. "All I've got's yours—won't you have it?" Then she might—"Yes, sir, terrible cold for this time of the year." The old gentleman smiled at Fred saying: "A dime." Fred put it in his mouth—a bad habit he was trying to break himself of, for Sue had pointed out its dangers—he counted out the change walking gingerly afterwards between the rows of knees, standing staring out over the window panes with unseeing eyes fixed on the following traffic.

If his mother had been fit, he would have saved $10 by now—more. And as it was he literally hadn't a penny. He shut his eyes, shaking his head fiercely. Then his chill fingers went to his mouth. He was about to thrust the coin into his pocket when its weight made him glance at it. His heart bounded, leaving him chill, then romped on, sending pulses of burning blood over his tingling body. His fingers held a $10 gold piece! He had only to turn round, to explain to the old man, had only to do the commonplace honest thing. But he hesitated. This gold piece, so strangely, opportunely sent, could save Sue. He saw her miserable eyes, her little shrinking bowed shoulders, realized the fear and horror in her heart. He hesitated. It was enough to weaken him. He could repay the old gentleman later on, pinch and screw till he saved the money. The old fellow wouldn't miss the coin; he was rich—gold mounted umbrella, heavy watch-chain, the solitaire diamond ring on his little finger proclaimed him to be that. Yet prickling Fred, shaming him, making him tremble, came the voice of his manhood, 23 years of honesty, of scorning even deception. And this was theft—he didn't, he couldn't disguise the fact—he could argue it was only borrowing the money, but "You're thieving—thief—thief!" sang the humming engines of the trolley car.

He wavered standing there—argued that Providence would not so strangely come to his rescue, to Sue's rescue, onl yto tempt and tantalize him. He was meant to do this thing. And in the end, his face white and shining, he went to her and whispered: "I love you, Miss Sue—let me explain tonight. Please take this—oh, it'll make me so happy." He dropped the money in her lap, turning and scurrying away, and he avoided her when she alighted, going to the far end of the car.

"You don't look well, conductor," said the old gentleman, affably.

"I don't feel quite the thing," admitted Fred, and he felt that the letters T H I E F must be glaring in characters upon his brow.

"Let me have a look at you. I'm a doctor—there's my card," continued the passenger. "I've traveled with you nearly a couple of years now and I've never seen you look so seedy. Mind you come and I'll see what I can do for you." Fred took the visiting card, his lips trembling, his eyes averted. Great heaven, would he never be able to look another man in the face again.

And as the day wore on he knew he could not bear it. The sense of guilt, the feeling that he was unclean, tainted, overpowered him. He felt physically sick, his stomach achingly sinking his feet and hands cold. They noticed him at the yard, commented on his appearance, refused to let him take his car back, ordered him abruptly to see the company's doctor. But only one doctor in the world could cure Fred. Only Dr. Davies, whose card the shaking conductor held—it was his mind, not his body, which was diseased.

Confession was his only remedy, the only medicine which would touch his ills. The doctor was in, but engaged, when Fred inquired for him. Up and down the waiting room wandered Fred with staring, bloodshot eyes full of shamed resolution. He was shown in. "Sir, I'm not ill," he jerked. "I'm not ill. Will you hear me?" The doctor nooded. His face changed and he pursed up his lips as Fred told his story.

"Where do you say she's employed?" he asked abruptly. Fred gave the name of the firm. Dr. Davies opened the telephone book, rang up their number and asked: "Is Miss Dent in?" "Hello—Yes? She is?" "Good. Ask her to come to me, Dr. Davies, 5 Courtland Terrace, in her lunch hour. Tell her I wish to see her about a Mr. Fred Smith. That's right." Then he hung up the receiver turning to Fred, and starting at him curiously. "It hurt you to take that coin?" he asked.

"I'd die to save her pain," said Fred. "But I'm too much of a coward to make a good cheat, sir."

"I prefer to say you're too honest," said the doctor drily. "You've been punished already, but I'm afraid there's worse, far worse in store for you."

"The police!" gasped Fred with dry lips. "Must you, sir?"

"Do you think I'm a fiend?" queried the doctor testily. "You're a fool, Fred Smith. The police have nothing to do with honest fellows. No, there's something else. I missed that coin about half an hour before you came. I had been to one or two stores. I was worried about it. I couldn't think where I had changed it. You see, Fred Smith, I'm afraid little Miss Susan may get into trouble when she includes the coin in her till. It was foisted on to me last night. I was taking it to my bank—it's counterfeit."

"Counterfeit!" Fred's lips framed one word and no more. He stood stunned, staring at the doctor with horrified eyes. Then at last drawing a deep, painful breath, he said jerkily: "They'll think she did it for the purpose—think her worse of a cheat. What'll she think of me? Oh—it's what they think of her! Little Sue, and them calling her thief and—I wish I was dead before I got her into this. I tried to help her. I went crook—it's my fault, my punishment, I'd rather it had been the police. I'd rather been arrested and locked up and she afe."

"I don't doubt she's had a bad time," said the doctor slowly. "But of course I can clear the matter up." Fred sank down on a chair, burrying his face in his arms, broken down, dry, soundless sobs racking him. The clock ticked on in silence. Dr. Davies went to his writing table. His boy came in. "Miss Dent to see you, sir."

"Show her in." She appeared at that moment at the door. "He's hurt—there's been an accident! Oh, sir, what's happened to him."

The doctor shook his head. "He's well—in body. Tell me, the $10 gold piece."

"You know?" She was staring at Fred, her color coming and going. "I—I made a mistake. The—the accounts were right, after all. I've got it safe with me to give it back to him." Fred lifted his haggard face, standing up, such relief, such joy in his eyes that she burned rosy red.

"Forgive an interfering old man," said the doctor gently. "You're fond of him, dear? Fond enough to—marry him?"

"Yes!"

She said the word firmly without shame. "I knew that when I suffered this morning, after your message—I—she shivered—I thought he—he was dead. It's been—torture."

"Give me the $10," the doctor directed. "My dear, you've got a man who couldn't be dishonest if he tried, a man incapable of deceit. I think you're very lucky." He palmed the coin skilfully, at the same time producing a piece of paper from his pocket. "There's some things a wife ought to know, Smith," he added, "that's one of them. There's other things she needn't know. Smith, take this for my wedding present." And he handed him a check for $5000. "I expect it'll go the same way as the one I gave him this morning," he said, turning to Sue. That was all she ever knew, but I doubt if Dr. Davies did wisely, for though she couldn't love Fred more, she had not loved him less if she had known all.

There is something more than coincidence back of the fact that it is the advertised businesses that succeed, and the unadvertised businesses that fail.

MILWAUKEE ROAD HELD RESPONSIBLE

Ortonville, Minn., Jan. 1.—The coroner's jury which investigated the Odessa wreck, Dec. 18, holds the St. Paul road responsible for the death of the ten persons on account of a defective semaphore at Odessa and in not enforcing its rules for the protection of passengers.

It also placed the responsibility on W. J. Noonan, the train dispatcher, for violating the rules in allowing the second section of No. 18 to enter the same block with the first section.

W. L. Kelser, the operator at Appleton, is censured for giving information that the first section was close to Appleton.

The jury places the responsibility on Roy Law, the flagman, for negligence in protecting the rear of the first section.

WAHPETON ENTERS BIG BUILDING YEAR

North Dakota City to Construct Many Buildings During 1912.

Wahpeton, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wahpeton expects that 1912 will be one of the biggest building years in its history. According to the number of contracts already let, and the number of new buildings planned.

The contract for $60,000 worth of building at the federal Indian school have been let. The new Richland county courthouse, for which plans have already been approved, will cost about $125,000, and the bids will be advertised for soon. Henry Deitz will erect a two-story brick business building, and another business building will be erected by Mrs. J. Manchester. At the present time there are a half dozen business blocks in course of construction.

Wahpeton is enjoying benefits from the activities of the new Wahpeton Young Men's Booster club, which has furnished a place for the farmers and their wives as headquarters while in the city, and this place is being generally frequented.

MELLINS FOOD

"After struggling through a very hard summer with our little girl, I at last found a food for her that is really good. At birth she weighed eight pounds and when eight months old she only weighed ten and one-quarter pounds. After trying everything, I gave up hopes of ever seeing her any bigger, until one day I sent for your free sample, received it and tried it. Seeing that it agreed, I secured a bottle at our druggists and continued with great results. In one week she gained two pounds and we can almost see her grow. I must certainly speak well of Mellin's Food and will with all my heart."

TO IMPROVE CREAMERY.

Thief River Falls Institution to Be Fixed Up.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local creamery has just completed most extensive improvements in the building and equipment and started up this week for the usual steady run through the year. The floors, foundations and part of the walls are of cement structure and the whole building is as sanitary as it can be made. Last season during the year 1910 the farmers received almost $75,000 in cash from the operation of the creamery and hereafter, with the new and modern and more complete equipment, there is no doubt but that $100,000 annually will be the receipts. The farmers are all erecting silos and are fast learning the value of tested dairy cows.

CHURCH DANCING LESSONS.

New Feature Proposed By Minneapolis Episcopal Rector.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 1.—Dancing and the principles of dramatic art will be taught church members in the Guild hall of the St. Andrews' Episcopal church, under the supervision of the pastor, the Rev. George Thomas Lawton.

The pastor has announced his intention to superintend a series of affairs in the church parlors at least five nights a week.

"The church ought to reach the people every night of the week," said the Rev. Mr. Lawton. "I hope this plan will do much to keep the young men away from unquestionable places of amusement."

ORDINANCE VETOED.

East Grand Forks Mayor Disproves of Saloon Limit Act.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 1.—Mayor John J. O'Leary has vetoed the ordinance by which the East Grand Forks saloon patrol limits would have been restricted in such a manner as to eliminate from the saloon district the most valuable saloon property in the city, that adjoining the Demers avenue bridge, leading to the "dry" city of Grand Forks.

Mayor O'Leary declares the ordinance unjust to the property owners affected, and he also believes it to be in conflict with the provisions of the city charter on the question of reducing patrol limits.

Tuesday evening the veto message will go to the council and that body, in the event that it can muster five out of six votes, will pass the ordinance over the mayor's veto.

IS GIVEN FOUR YEARS

For Participating in Odense, N. D., Dance Fight.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alex Jahner, convicted in the district court of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with a fight at an Odense wedding celebration last June, was given four years in the state penitentiary by Judge Nuchols.

Michael Jahner, a brother, accused of complicity in the same case, will be placed on trial this week.

RECOVERS STOLEN $50.

Otherwise North Dakota Girl Might Not Have Wedded.

Fessenden, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Had not officials of Wells county been successful in locating and returning to Miss Emma Crandall, a Hurdsfield school teacher, $50 which had been stolen from her it is more than probable that her wedding, set for this week in South Dakota, would have been deplayed. The sum represented the last month's earnings of the girl who was just about to leave for her old home to become a bride when the theft occurred.

Earle McElvain is in jail charged with the theft. It is charged that the purse had been secreted in an old building in Hurdsfield, and tracks in the snow led to the McElvain residence.

BIRTHS AND MARRIAGES.

Both Beat Record in Beltrami County in 1911.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of the ten persons who, during 1911 were committed to state hospitals for the insane from Beltrami county, seven are homesteaders.

The county records show that cupid and Dr. Stork had the busiest year ever known in the county, 159 children being born while 302 marriage licenses were issued. This a gain of six marriage licenses over 1910 and eight more births took place in 1911 than in 1910. Of the 159 births 97 were boys while in the previous year the boys beat the girls out, for of the 151 births, 80 were males.

SPERRY MURDER CASE GOES TO CASS COUNTY.

Lakota, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Clyde Sperry murder case very likely will be sent to Cass county for trial. When the district court convenes here Jan. 10, the prosecution will ask for a change of venue, and already an agreement has been reached whereby such a change will be made and the case sent to Cass. In that county it will be called for trial on or about Jan. 30.

TO ADD GYMNASIUM TO BEMIDJI CLUB.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. W. Stanton and Attorney M. J. Brown, son of Calvin L. Brown of the state supreme court, both of this city, will speak at a dinner to be given by the Yopng Men's club of Bemidji on the evening of Jan. 5. This organization is in no way political but is working in harmony with the Bemidji Commercial club and proposes to establish a gymnasium in connection with that organization. Ed Ervine will be toastmaster at the meeting.

Judge Lindsey to Speak.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 1.—Judge Benjamine B. Lindsey of Denver, the "kids' judge," will make his first appearance in Grand Forks tonight. He comes here under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A., and appears as the second lecturer in the association's lecture course.

To Manufacture Aeroplanes.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 1.—The J. I. Case Thrashing Machine company soon will begin the manufacture of aeroplanes and aeroplane motors, it became known here today, when announcement was made of an increase in capitalization of that concern from $5,000,000 to $40,000,000.

ADVERTISING BELTRAMI.

Plan Diversified Exhibits at Immigration Commission Headquarters.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Beltrami county is preparing a diversified exhibit of the products of the soil to be displayed in the show room of the immigration commission of the Northern Minnesota Development association which opens this week in Minneapolis.

Albert Kleven has been appointed by W. R. Mackenzie, in charge of the show room, to prepare the exhibit, Mr. Kleven succeeding A. G. Wedge in this work. Mr. Wedge will continue as treasurer of the commission and while he says collections for the work have not in all cases been as prompt as had been anticipated, that sufficient funds have been pledged to keep the display room in operation for at least one year.

HIBERNIAN BANQUET.

Hennepin County Organization to Be Host at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 1.—Bishop Carroll of Helena, Mont., national chaplain of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, will be one of the guests and the principal speaker this evening at a banquet to be given the national officers of the organization by Hennepin county members of the organization.

J. J. Regan, national president of the order, is to be present and invitations have been extended to several prominent Minnesotans including Governor Eberhart.

Grain Thieves Soon Punished.

Beach, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Within thirty hours after they had borrowed a neighbor's team and wagon to steal grain from another wagon, Robert and Leonard Lowe of Sentinel Butte had been arrested and sentenced to serve time. Robert Lowe, aged 20, got a year in the state penitentiary and Leonard Lowe, aged 19, was sent to the reform school at Mandan.

Mahnomen Man Weds.

Thief River Falls, Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Emma Jonas and Arthur P. Fox were married Friday at the residence of the bride's parents on the East side, Rev. F. J. Seltz of the German Lutheran church performing the ceremony. The young people left for the Twin Cities and on their return will reside at Mahnomen. Mr. Fox is an employe of the Soo railway.

Catched Alleged Grain Thieves.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with the theft of grain from their former employer at Bathgate, Albert Gardiner and Henry Williams are prisoners in the Walsh county jail. They will appear before Judge W. J. Kneeshaw at Cavalier within a short time to enter pleas.

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 1.—While watching her mother preparing to do the family washing, Isabelle Merkes, aged 2 years, fell into a tub of boiling water and was so badly burned that she died.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bismarck, N. D.—The Slope Development league has elected these officers: Karl Klein, Washburn, president; John Christianson, New Salem, vice president; F. E. Near, Beach, vice president; C. L. Zimmerman, Mandan, treasurer; C. H. Olson, Bismarck, secretary

Mandan, N. D.—J. T. Kratzer, aged 53, died Thursday from a general breakdown of the physical system brought about by a fall Sunday night, when he suffered a compound fracture of one of his lower limbs, and the shock resulting therefrom. Mr. Kratzer has been a resident of this city for nearly ten years and has held the position of manager of the Fair store.

Fargo, N. D.—G. W. Haggart of Fargo secured a $35,000 sewer contract in St Paul. There were fifteen bidders on the job ready to receive the award, but Mr. Haggart was the lucky winner.

Minot, N. D.—Citizens of Minot held a meeting for the purpose of seeking to bring about better conditions as bearing upon the proposed normal school for this city That the situation is such that it demands the closest of attention is the belief of many Minot citizens, and they propose to safeguard their interests in the best possible manner.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The Grand Forks Commercial club will conduct a campaign in the Red river valley for the purpose of bringing about general support of the bill which has been introduced in congress by Representative Helgesen asking for an appropriation for the improvement of the Red River of the North.

Fargo, N. D.—The remains of the late William Staples of this city who died recently at San Diego, where he went to spend the winter for his health, will be placed for the present in a receiving vault in that city.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Joseph B. Kent of Upham died here from heart trouble for which he was doctoring about three weeks. He is well known to the people of Devils Lake and vicinity, having lived here for twenty-five years during which time he was a liveryman. About six years ago he moved to Upham and engaged in farming. He was about 55.

Jamestown, N. D.—A $7,500 draft has been received from the United States government for payment for the Snyder property on Fifth avenue south, which property has been purchased as a site for the new postoffice building. No appropriation has as yet been made for a building and the owners can occupy the property until wanted by the government, when a notice of sixty days will be given to vacate..

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette — Raymond McCombie, aged 20 years, and James McCombie, aged 17 years, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McCombie, had a narrow escape from possible injury Friday afternoon when some careless shooter, probably a young boy, sent a bullet from a .22-caliber rifle crashing through a window of their home into the room in which they were sitting.

Laurium—Funeral services were held Sunday for Harvey Herbert, who died Friday in Chicago. Mr. Herbert was 37 years of age and made his residence in Calumet up to nine years ago when he moved to Chicago. Besides his parents, he is survived by five brothers and sisters.

Ontonagon—That with favorable weather the harvest of logs in Ontonagon county this winter will aggregate 100,000,000 feet, is the prediction of Thornton A. Green. Last year's cut amounted to about 75,000,000 feet. It is likely that this winter's operations will be the most extensive since the days when the Diamond Match company operated, previous to 1890.

Houghton—Funeral services were held Sunday for Mrs. Elizabeth Hattich Kroll, aked, 53, wife of Fred W. Kroll, the veteran druggist of Houghton, who expired at the family residence on Albion street Friday.

Escanaba—By a deal that has been practically closed William Finnegan of Escanaba will construct a modern hotel building, costing approximately $100,000, on the site of the old Finnegan building at Ludington and Campbell streets, in that city. The hotel will be 50 by 150 in dimensions, with four stories and a basement.

Menominee—Monte Olmstead, pitcher for the Dayton team in the Central league, is spending the winter at his home in Carden. Olmstead started his baseball career in Menominee and the many local friends of the big south paw were pleased to see him make good in fast company.

Ontonagon—The project of paving Front street is being discussed and will be taken up at the next meeting of the council.

Calumet—The engineers will be inspected this month by Capt. W. G. Caples of Company I, third battalion of engineers, regular army. The inspection at this time comes unexpectedly, just as the company is beginning to prepare for the regular state inspection which comes in the spring.

Houghton—The total number of marriages licenses issued during the year 1911 in Houghton was 731, the number for December being forty-three. The number for the year exceeds the total of 1910, which was 713, but falls considerably short of the big record of 870 in 1907.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Crookston—Friday morning, this side of Ada, C. Steibe of Chicago, who was en route to Canada, while going from one car to another, slipped and fell from the train. He was missed and the train was backed up two miles. Steibe was picked up and rushed to this city and turned over to the police, who took him to Bethesda hospital, where Dr. Holte treated a bad scalp wound and injuries to his left arm and side.

Kelliher — at a special meting of the city council William Burse was named mayor, to succeed the late A. A. McGill, who died in Bemidji last Sunday. The new mayor of Kelliher was chosen without opposition.

Red Lake Falls — The local flax tow mill has been running steadily the past few weeks and from appearances will have plenty of straw from now on. For the past several weeks the roads have been in excellent condition and the farmers have been putting in their spare time hauling their flax straw in to the mill.

Kenabec — The farmers of Hillman have organized a new telephone line with sixteen members. It will be known as the Hilman Telephone company, and the following officers have been elected: Hugo Johnson, president; A. H. Rosnow, vice president; John Trudell, secretary, and Moses Lloyd, treasurer. The directors are Frank Resabek, Nels Runstrom and A. J. Holloway.

Wadena — Last week a deal was closed at Pillager, whereby the Security state bank of that village was sold by the Schroeder interests to John Rower of this city and the following Staples gentlemen: William J. Lewis, E. E. Greeno and Murray McNair. The formal transfer was made Saturday.

Blackduck—J. W. Lehan of Blackduck died in St. Anthony's hospital here Tuesday. Mr. Leinan, who had been ill for the past five months, and was a victim of stomach disorder failed to rally as had been hoped. The body was taken to Minneapolis, where Mr. Leinan is survived by a wife and children, and interment was made in that city.

St. Cloud—Joseph Klein, the young St. Wendel farmer, who was arrested for brandishing a rifle in the face of Michael Hirschfeld, a neighbor, pleaded guilty in district court and was released after furnishing bonds to keep the peace.

Aitkin — Watson S. Moore of Duluth is to speak in the Methodist church for the Men and Religion Forward Movement, Thursday evening, Jan. 4.

Mankato—Lyrand Chestnut, 73 years old and living with his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Cullom in Decoria died Thursday of acute heart trouble. The deceased had been ill for about two weeks. He came to Blue Earth county in 1880 and lived near Mapleton for some time, but two years ago went to live with his daughter, Mrs. W. E. McCullom in Decoria.

St. Paul—Governor Eberhart received the initiatory and first degree in Odd Fellowship at the Masonic temple Friday night. Mayor Keller was also initiated. A class of twenty-five was initiated in the presence of about six hundred Odd Fellows.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Judge Elschweiler of Milwaukee sentenced Jahlmer Jones, former clerk of municipal court to two years in Waupun. Johnson pleaded guilty last fall to embezzling funds of the municipal court.

Eau Claire—The remains of the late A. T. Buell, who died last week at Huron, S. D., were brought to Eau Claire for burial at Forest Hill cemetery. There were no services here. The body was taken from the train to the cemetery. The late A. T. Buell was a former resident of Eau Claire, having been in the grocery business here for many years.

Ashland—Mrs. C. H. Werden, wife of Manager Werden of the White River Lumber company at Mason, was brought to Ashland for a surgical operation. Mr. Werden accompanied her. The operation is not a serious one.

Madison—The state industrial commission called a hearing on the rules for safeguarding machines as recommended by the special committee on safety and sanitation standards, composed of eight Milwaukee men. Thirty-six rules are proposed and their adoption will give them the force of laws. The meeting is called for Jan. 27 and will be in the rooms of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee—Post F, Millinery Traveling Men's National association, have elected the following officers: President, Charles Prohl; vice president, H. F. Zarse; secretary, H. N. Komm; treasurer, A. E. Herrick. The next annual convention of the order will be held in June in Louisville, Ky.

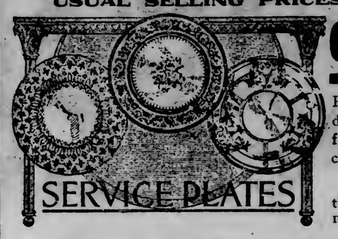

Fond du Lac—An appeal to the supreme court has been taken by the defendant in the case of Mrs. Catherine Murtha vs. John C. Donohoo, executor of the estate of the late Rev. Lawrence J. Vaughn, author and playwright. Mrs. Murtha some time ago was awarded $1,000 for providing clothing, board and medical attention for Rev. Mr. Vaughn from 1892 to 1898. The appeal has been taken by the estate.

Janesville—Mayor John C. Nichols has called a special election to be held Jan. 23, to decide whether or not Janesville shall adopt the commission form of government.

Beaver Dam—William Ehnke, aged 70 years, who lived alone in a small house near Juneau, was burned to death in his home. Neighbors endeavored to rescue Ehnke.

Stevens Point—While hunting rabbits near his home on the Jordan road, town of Hull, John Strosin received a charge of shot from his own gun and died within an hour.

GREETING IS NOISY ONE

Outburst of Whistles and Bells Welcomes New Year in Duluth.

Observance of Festive Time Is Spread Over Three Nights.

Duluth gave the year 1912 a noisy welcome. Five minutes before the clocks struck the hour of midnight scores of whistles along the water front burst out with a chorus of long blasts in farewell to the old year and greeting to the new. At the hour of midnight other whistles joined the chorus, bells peeled, horns were blown, a few exuberant souls cut loose with revolvers and other noise-makers, and for five minutes after the hour the din continued. Then Duluth settled back to repose for the remaining hours of the night, except a few belated revelers.

The greeting of the new year was not as general and spontaneous as in former years. Many people did not seem to know just when the observance should be held. Many squandered their New Year's eve spirit Saturday night and did not watch the old year out last night. Others held their celebration last night and the cafes in some of the downtown hotels were crowded during the evening and until after midnight. Other hotels will entertain crowds in a belated greeting tonight.

Though the greeting last night was not general, it was noisy enough to suit anybody. The cold snap, which had developed its full intensity this morning, was just showing its vigor about midnight and there were few people on the streets. In the churches, the homes and the cafes many sat up to await the midnight hour.

Watchnight services were held in many of the churches, beginning early in the morning and ending after the hour that ushered out the old year and brought in the new had passed.

Yesterday in all the churches of the city New Year's sermons were preached. The achievements and developments of the past year were reviewed and an optimistic gaze was bent on that part of the future covered by the cycle about to begin. Many churches also held services this morning in observance of the opening of the new year.

New Year's day is being observed as a holiday in Duluth today. Business places generally are closed. There was one delivery of mail from the postoffice. The extreme cold weather prevents outdoor enjoyment, but the theaters and other places of amusements will draw crowds this afternoon and night.

Year Gets Frosty Greeting.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Chicago's welcome to the new year was the coldest, speaking both literally and figuratively, in many years. Icy blasts thinned the usual noisy street throngs to a few huddled groups, and observance of Sunday diminished the crowds at theaters and hotels. Although revelry ran riot at many of the loopholes and cafes, the campaign of church and civic organizations for a "sane" New Year's celebration was evident at many points.

Bedlam Drowns Hymns.

New York, Jan. 1.—The border line between 1911 and 1912 was marked here with more midnight church services than have been held on a New Year's eve for many years, but prayers and hymns were almost drowned with a bedlam of noise in the streets.

It was a rainy night, following an early morning snow, and the streets were slushy, but through them great crowds moved, tooting horns, clanging cowbells and cranking all sorts of novel noise-making devices.

There was a falling off in the downtown crowds, where hotels and restaurants are scarce, but from Fourteenth street north for two or three miles, Broadway was a stream of humanity, with tributaries pouring in from all the side streets of the white light district.

Difficulties in obtaining all-night licenses were overcome by the adoption of the plan of ordering drinks in advance for delivery during hours not covered by license, and waiters were not disposed to argue when a patron insisted he had ordered his wine in advance, although the house had no record of it.

Confetti and Noise.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1.—San Francisco's reputation as a carnival city was upheld last night with a fervor no whit diminished because it was Sunday. As early as 5 o'clock downtown streets showed signs of congestion and the din was uproarious. Extra detachments of police prevented hoodlumism, but very harmless forms of celebration were permitted, and before dark venders of confetti were calling for an extra supply.

Noisy in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 1.—St. Louis greeted the new year noisily. Hotels and clubs were crowded with diners. At the hotels the bars opened at midnight and closed one hour later, but the waiters were allowed to dispense all drinks ordered before the closing hour.

cide the future form of government for China, and the imperialists are of the opinion that the national convention is likely to culminate in the victory of the republican party.

Hankow was the scene of severe fighting between the two armies on several occasions before the recent armistice was decided upon.

Clash With Japanese.

Soldiers from the Japanese legation came into conflict Saturday, and also Sunday, with Yuan Shi Kai's body guard. Bayonets and swords were used and six or more Japanese were wounded. It is reported that more than that number of Chinese were injured. The Japanese as well as the Chinese soldiers were off duty at the time of the clashes, but the Japanese legation sent out a company with officers to rescue its men. The incidents are not believed to have an significance politically.

Shang Ruan Ruai, former minister of posts and communications, writes to a friend here saying that the rebels are sequestering his extensive property at Shanghai. They alleged, he says, that the "foreign nations" group of financiers heavily bribed him for favoring them in connection with the currency and railway loans. This he denies.

A dispatch from Hangow says that three soldiers have been court martialed and beheaded because they were suspected of an attempt to assassinate Gen. Huen, the commander of the revolutionists. They were captured with revolvers in their hands standing close to the general.

stead of being retarded by progressive legislation, Wisconsin has advanced financially and commercially more rapidly than the country taken as a whole.

"Judged by commercial failures, Wisconsin has prospered better than the entire country.

Says Taxes Are Lower.

"During ten years of progressive legislation, the expenses of the state have increased, but the burden of taxes upon the people has decreased. The propertry of the state is paying 21 per cent less taxes in proportion to its value than it did ten years ago."

Going into details of the results accomplished, the speaker said:

"Having brought the steam railroads of Wisconsin under state control, we preceeded to extend the control of the railroad commission over all the other public utilities in the commonwealth. For the year 1910, compared with 1909, notwithstanding reductions in rates and improvements in services the water utilities increased their net earnings 10.5 per cent; the telephone utilities 5.8 per cent; the gas utilities 7.7 per cent; and electric utilities 27.5 per cent. These utilities have even exceeded the railroads in the rate at which they have made cash investments in new construction.

Increase in Construction.

"While the increase in railroad construction has averaged 2.5 per cent a year for six years, the water utilities in 1910 increased their new construction of property 2 per cent over 1909; the telephone utilities 4.9 per cent; the gas utilities 1.6 per cent; and electric utilities 35.5 per cent. Wisconsin certainly is not driving capital out of the state when the electric utilities, in the single year of 1910, two years of regulation fixed by the state, made bona fide new investments of 35 per cent greater than 1909.

"All of this remarkable development has gone steadily forward notwithstanding the railroad commission has reduced the rates charged in the steate by public utilities $250,000 a year, and has required improvements in the quality of the service, costing those public utilities $125,000 a year, a total saving to the consumers of gas, water and electricity of $375,000 a year. And this is but the beginning.

Methods of Control.

"A single example will show the methods and results attained by the commission in its control of public utilities. In April, 1910, following two years of careful investigation, the railroad commission, after improving the quality of service, reduced the maximum price of electricity in the city of Madison from 16 to 14 cents per kilowat hour, and adjusted the other rates on a lower basis. The result was that the sales of electricity increased sixteen per cent; the net earnings increased 24 per cent; the company increased its investment 22 per cent; and the savings to the consumers, comparing the new rates with the old rates, was $18,308 a year.

"In July, 1911, fifteen months later, after such an increase in profits following the reduction of rates, the company accepted without protest another reduction to 12 cents; this made a reduction from 16 to 12 cents per kilowat hour, or a reduction of 25 per cent in rates to consumers.

Double Benefits.

"Thus the state commission is demonstrating the value of its supervision and control, not only to the public, but to the business of the corporation, as well. Wisconsin is teaching the lesson that both the people and the investors in public utilities may be benefited by our system of regulation. This is so simple! Because the regulation is thorough and scientific. Watered stock and balloon bonds get no consideration. And, as the commission knows the costs, it knows exactly the lowest point below which rates can be reduced. It even raises rates when they are below the cost line, including reasonable profits."

Senator LaFollette also discussed in detail various other phases of state government.

Bay City All Prepared.

Bay City, Mich., Jan. 1. — Bay City is anticipating the visit today from United States Senator Robertr M. La Follette and all arrangements have been completed for his reception. He will occupy the platform in the National Guard armory, the building which President Taft assisted in dedicating at the time the president was making his last transcontinental trip. Beginning at 3 o'clock the senator will speak for an hour and a half, and will leave on the evening train for Saginaw, where he is to make an address tonight. Mayor Woodruff of Bay City will preside here.

were in court costume, and gave the reception the usual brilliance of coloring.

Following the diplomats the president received the supreme court and other federal judges, government officials of all ranks, senators and representatives, officers of the army and navy and various patriotic societies. Last in the line, according to custom came the private citizens. Many thousands of them passed through the White House, viewing the interior of the presidential home for the first time.

No limit was placed upon the public. It was a day of "open house," and any citizen who cared to do so had the opportunity to shake the president's hand.

Bryce First Received.

Three new ambassadors were among the diplomats received today. Both Baron Hengelmuller, ambassador from Austria-Hungary, dean of the diplomatic corps, and the French ambassador, M. Jusserand, second in rank, were absent, and the first place in line fell to the British ambassador, Mr. Bryce. Japan, also was unrepresented by an ambassador, but with these exceptions the nations which maintain embassies here took their accustomed places.

The three new faces in the line of ambassadors were those of George Bakhmetieff of Russia, Senor Crespo y Martinez of Mexico, and Dominio Da Gama of Brazil.

Most of the ministers accredited to the United States were in town, but in some instances their countries were represented by the legation staffs. Senor Calvo, minister from Costa Rica, has long held the place of honor as dean of the ministers.

NEW YEAR'S BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Primrose Four Score Big Hit ---Julius Tannen Has Returned.

When the four plump songsters who comprise the Primrose four made their appearance last evening, the audience sat up and smiled. When the fat bass boomed out his deep notes, the audience applauded, and when the mild young man with the falsetto voice tore off "Silver Threads Among the Gold" while the other three interpolated some comedy and some close harmony, the audience applauded vociferously. They had the four fat gentlemen flushed and perspiring before they finally let them go and turned their attention to three hard working minstrel men who were trying to make an impression with the next act.

Even the urbane and smiling Julius Tannen was forgotten in the reception accorded the Primrose Four, and it is no easy matter to forget Mr. Tannen. He is about the flossiest little monologist who ever "met your sister coming down the street today," only Mr. Tannen doesn't descend to the old line of talk about the sister. He averages about fifty jokes to the second, and he keeps the audience working about as hard as he is himself to follow him. He rarely finishes a joke, striking off into new fields, while the audience is floundering along trying to masticate the last one. He keeps one or two jokes ahead all the time, and it is hard to tell whether the laughs are for the joke he is springing, or for the one he told a few seconds before.

And modest little Sam Mann, with his impersonation of the self-effacing little German orchestra leader was also almost forgotten. Mr. Mann has one of the brightest and cleverest sketches the Orpheum has seen in many a day. He and his company present a morning rehearsal at a vaudeville theater, with the stage manager, "sister act," "props," and all. Mr. Mann is the little German orchestra leader with his apologetic smile and an insatiable thirst. There is nothing very pretentious about Mr. Mann's act, from the bare stage to the modest little leader himself, but vaudeville could stand for more acts as clean and as entertaining as Mr. Mann's.

After the audience got through applauding the Primrose Four, the Three Leightons got a chance to show what they could do, and they fared very well indeed. They give what they call "A One Night Stand in Minstrelsy," which consists of some very fair comedy, some good singing, and some first class dancing. Before they got through they got nearly as much applause as the fleshy gentlemen who preceded them, for it was a very receptive audience last evening.

Between changing costumes, Miss Maude Ryan doesn't spend much time on the stage. Her partner, Charles Inness, hardly has time to get one verse of a song out before Miss Maude is back with a new gown. She showed six last evening, each a most elaborate confection which would keep the average woman busy for half an hour getting into. The team kept the men busy wondering how they could do it on the average vaudeville performer's salary, and the women admiring how they were made. Between changes Miss Ryan talks as rapidly as she must work changing dresses. It is very good vaudeville at that, and sartorially it is great.

An unpretentious, but very neat and clever little act, is presented by the Marlo Aldo Trio, which was seen here last season. There are two men and a very pretty young woman in the act. They work on the horizontal bars, and their acrobatics are excellent. The men show themselves to be most finished bar performers.

The Three Dooleys open the show with a most pleasing trick bicycle act. Even the orchestra gets applause this week for its descriptive overture and the moving pictures show two football games and a hydro-aeroplane rising from the water.

CLASSY NEW BILL AT THE EMPRESS

Two Feature Acts Bring Program Up to High Standard.

"The Alpine Troubadour" and "The Picture of Dorian Grey," two of the acts playing at the Empress theater this week, seem to be equally popular with the patrons of the house, for yesterday at the first performances of the new bill, they were enthusiastically received.

Both acts are real features and so thoroughly enjoyable from the standpoint of the spectators that it would be hard to choose between them.

"The Picture of Dorian Grey" is an elaborately staged dramatization of Oscar Wilde's well-known story of the same name. Eugene Powers as Cyril Vane does a fine piece of character acting. The emotional intensity of Miss Carey Lee, who plays the part of the girl who has fallen in love, shows her to be a clever actress.

The plot deals with a psychological situation, and without being preachy, it teaches a moral through the beautiful language of the play. For his splendid work at the three performances yesterday, Mr. Powers was given hearty appreciation. During the progress of the play he recites some lines from "The Ballad of Reading Goal," the striking poem of Oscar Wilde.

Phil Bennett is the "Alpine Troubadour." He gave a number of operatic selections yesterday, and for each number he received an enthusiastic encore. The young man has a beautiful voice, well trained. His yodeling is particularly pleasing.

Les Gougets made ineir first appearance in Duluth yesterday. They are musicians of ability. They play on several different kinds of instruments. One of these instruments is said to be the largest French horn ever brought to the United States. Some of the instruments are the inventions of the players. It is a novel and entertaining musical act.

The Bennington brothers deserved the applause showered upon them yesterday. They are athletes and good ones. Their stunts while not particularly new, are entertaining and are accomplished in such an easy, pleasing way as to give much pleasure to those fond of athletic exhibitions.

As an extra and added feature, Sidney Grant, a young monologist, appears this week. Yesterday his witty lines proved so popular with the audiences that he had difficulty in getting away. Mr. Grant in addition to being a fun maker is an imitator of famous actors. This part of his act seemed to be popular with the Duluthians who were on hand for the first performances yesterday.

All in all, the new bill is about as classy a vaudeville production as nas appeared at the Empress in some time past, and ought to be a strong card during New Year's week.

As usual the show ends with moving pictures. There will be three performances daily, one each afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

RETURN OF STOCK COMPANY

Forbes Players Open in "The House of 1,000 Candles."

Before a large audience the Forbes Stock company yesterday opened their return engagement in Duluth with "The House of a Thousand Candles," dramatized from one of the most widely read of modern American novels.

The company is the same as appeared here during the fall months. The play is of a melodramtic type. It follows the plot of the story as closely as possible and in drama is even more absorbing than the story in book form. Meredith Nickolson has woven a good detective story, a thrilling melodrama and a pleasing love story all in one.

The scene of the play is in the shadow of a great mansion of mystery on the shores of an Indiana lake. From this house old John Glenarm secretly departs, leaving the impression that he is dead, that he may the better learn what sort of men are Pickering, the executor of his estate, and John Glenarm, his grandson and possible heir, and if the thing be possible, to bring about a marriage between the young man and Marian Devereux, the alternate heir.

He confides his plan to Bates, the butler, the serving man, who is "too good a servant to be one," and pledges Bates to secrecy. Things might have gone smoothly enough had it not been that old Glenarm left behind him a strange and unusual will with clauses and provisions wherein as whimsical as the old man's fancy, and, as executor of it, a certain Pickering. Upon the testament turns the story. Pickering and Glenarm both conclude that a hidden treasure lies conceled in some mysterious passage of the mysterious mansion, and both institute a search.

The big scene of the play is the situation where Pickerng and his hirelings besiege young Glenarm and his friends in the house. A stray bullet betrays by its sound a secret hiding place and documents are found valuable to an understanding of the situation. In the midst of the battle old Glenarm returns to the amazement of the besieged and besiegers alike. From this climax everything works out delightfully. Bates, who is really not a butler at all, explains himself and from the realm of adventure and mystery the audience is brought back to the normal state of life.

In the role of Bates, the butler, Gus A. Forbes appears to his best advantage and presents the strong forceful character of the trusted servant in a most careful manner. In the third act Mr. Forbes plays his part most effectively and greatly pleased the audience in his fight against Pickering and his plotters. Marion Devereux, as portrayed by Miss Corinne Cantwell, is a very pleasing young girl. She plays the part of the "heroine" with sincerity and made the same pleasing impression that was characteristic of her stay during last summer.

Frederick Van Rensclear as young Glenarm, is a good lover and a splendid fighter. Horace Noble played the Villain Pickering so realistically that the gallery hissed. Perry Golden is a good Irishman and makes a decided impression with the audience by his quaint humor. Gladys Armstrong is effectively portrayed by Jane Hampton.

The play will be given again this afternoon and evening and tomorrow evening. Beginning Wednesday matinee the company will present Hal Caine's famous religious play, "The Christian."

ALLEGED SLAYER OF FOUR IS CALM

Bowman Says He Will Tell All He Knows of Kansas Crime.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 1. — Henry T. Zimmer, chief of police of Kansas City, Kan., and Sheriff L. L. Cave of Olathe, Kan., today continued an investigation of the cases of Charles Bowman, arrested near Nora, Ind., last Saturday, charged with connection with the murder of four persons on the Barnhardt farm near Olathe a year ago.

Bowman was employed on the farm. He disappeared from the vicinity shortly after the bodies of George Barnhardt, Mrs. Emeline Barnhardt, his mother, Charles Graves and Thomas Morgan, empoyes, were found with skulls crushed.

Chief Zimmer said today no action toward arraignment would be taken until several statements by Bowman had been thoroughly investigated.

"I'm here to tell all I know of the case," he said, "and to be of any assistance I can."

S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which gradually gets into the circulation because of indigestion, constipation, weak kidney action, and other irregularities of the system which are sometimes considered of no importance. This uric acid causes an inflamed and irritated condition of the blood, and the circulation instead of nourishing the different portions of the body, continually deposits into the nerves, muscles, tissues and joints, the irritating, pain-producing acid with which it is filled. Rheumatism can only be cured by a thorough cleansing of the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation, and by neutralizing the uric acid and driving it from the blood, effectually and surely removes the cause. S. S. S. strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, causing pain and agony thoughout the system, it becomes an invigorating, nourishing fluid, furnishing health and vigor to every part of the body and relieving the suffering caused by this disease. S. S. S. being a purely vegetable blood purifier, is the surest and safest cure for Rheumatism in any of its forms. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HAILING THE NEW YEAR ALONG THE SPORT PATH

The Olympic Games the Most Important Athletic Event of the Present Year—Baseball Talk Will Start Soon—Kid McCoy and Pure Thought.

(BY BRUCE.)

NATURALLY the big athletic event of the new year will be the Olympic games. The revival of the old historic games has created a wonderful interest throughout the athletic world during the past few years and has brought into competition the greatest athletes in the entire world. Paris, Greece, the United States and England have been the scenes of these games in the past. The coming Olympic games are to be held in Sweden and experts are figuring that this country has a great task ahead of it in the gathering of a team that will carry off first honors, as we have done in the past.

Stars like Mel Sheppard, Martin Sheridan and Ray Ewry are getting somewhat along in years. The days of their competition are growing short. These three men have done more in the past than any other competing trio to bring the honors to the United States. Perhaps one of the greatest tasks that will await the skillful hand of Mike Murphy will be the developing of some younger athletes to take the place of some of the veterans.

Already you might say that the country is being searched with a fine tooth comb. Competitions in the different sections of the United States between now and the time of the selection of the team will result in the committee selecting the cream of the American athletes. Several of the recent record-breaking meets of the A. A. U. athletes argue well for the success of the American team, for in these meets some of the old records have been broken and a general line of performance put up that goes far to show us that some of the younger athletes of the country are capable of going in and taking the places of some of the men who have been stars during the past decade.

If Ralph Craig, the Michigan flyer, the speed marvel for the 100 and 220-yard dash, should go in competition for a place on the team, it is generally believed here in the West that he will be one of the sprinters to run for the colors of Uncle Sam. Craig is one of the greatest sprinters who has been produced by this country in recent years. Not since the days of young Rector of Virginia, the lad who gave Reggie Walker of South Africa such a great race at the London Olympiad, has this country had a dash man who shapes up so well.

Davenport of Chicago is another boy who is expected to make the team. Western men have made enviable records on Olympic teams during the time since the old games were staked under a modern setting, and these two college men of this section of God's own country are two of the greatest performers in the country—or at least they were not so very long ago.

Several Minnesota men may try for the team. Ralph Capron, the great football man of the Gopher institution, would like to earn a place on the American aggregation. But with Craig back in form, it is hard to see where Capron could class with the speed marvel from Detroit.

With Mike Murphy as the trainer of the team, the followers of athletics in this country can rest assured that the greatest handler of athletics that the old U. S. A. has ever produced will be in charge. Mike and Keene Fitzpatrick have been for years regarded as the two greatest trainers of athletics. Of the two, Murphy has generally been regarded as the greater. He is the logical man for the place. He has trained many American athletic teams, including the wonderful aggregation of 1895, the hardy bunch that won the international contest from England with a clean sweep, our cursing cousins not picking up a single first event during the afternoon.

WITH the passing of the first of the year we will advance one step nearer the opening of general talk of the baseball situation. From the close of the playing season until at least the first of the year the quiet is only disturbed by the annual meetings and several matters of minor importance. But with the passing of the old year there begins the stir that results in increased speculation regarding the outcome of the race in the different leagues, and a general opening up of baseball conversation.

It won't be quite two months now before the majors begin to send their teams to the Southern training camps. With the flight of the ball players South there is also a decamping of the war correspondents for the milder climates. Then the news begins to come in and the fans over the country begin to get the mental mood that is to last through the warm afternoons of summer and until the cooler afternoons of fall.

Here in this part of the country we have no basis for our dope. We are homeless, so to speak, and are without the least knowledge as to the future of baseball in the two towns at the Head of the Lakes.

The next thirty days should bring some enlightenment along this line to the fans hereabouts. The invasion of the Twin Cities appears to some in the airy form of a myth. St. Paul and Minneapolis are our brightest hope. Sitting in the front baseball parlor with the twins and Winnipeg, we would feel more important than we have during the past three seasons coupled with Red Wing, Eau Claire and Wausau.

If there is going to be anything doing the doing had best be doing in the future that lurketh not far in the shadow of distance. The world was constructed in seven days, but baseball leagues are slower of general results. There has not been a great deal said of our future prospects. We don't know what the future is going to bring us. We all hope that it is going to be a respectable league and that baseball will enjoy a greater boom than it has for the past three years.

KID McCOY is the proud parent of a new method of physical reconstruction. He calls his discovery the new science of physical culture. In Paris the other day the irrepressible Norman Selby stated that the secret of his system lay in pure thoughts. McCoy is original at least. While his past life has not been of such a nature to make the beautiful and lily white snow blush, there is nothing like giving a man credit for a thorough and deep desire to reform, especially after he has taken to his heart his ninth frau. If a man is going to reform at all it is time that the regeneration came at the ninth frame.

While a curious public wonders every time it hears of Kid McCoy winning a fight and shakes its collective head in an uncertain mood, it might be said that when the foxy Kid fights the first good man he is expected to have his bloomin' block knocked off. And at that you must give it to him for being a marvel in several ways.

Along in years and lacking that angelic youthful expression that gave to him the title of Kid during his younger fighting days, he has to some extent come back, for he has won all the fights he has engaged in since the initial fight in Philadelphia. This only goes to show that once the kid was so much greater than the men fighting today that one hesitates for a medium of comparison.

But the years and that bright light stuff, do their work and McCoy wouldn't be human if he could go against the best of his class and defeat them. He has done much better than any of us expected of him. He has shown that he has nerve, brains and determination. As to the pure thought stuff, there may be another outbreak on the white way, one of these nights.

NEW SHELLS FOR MINNESOTA CREWS

St. Paul Rowing Organization May Purchase English Made Eight-Oared Boat.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1.—If the Minnesota Boat club succeeds in its plans of having the best crews to represent it during the coming year that it has ever had, the men will not lack in equipment. It is understood by the members of the coaching committee that a large number of boats will be ordered in the near future, in addition to a quantity of new oars, and that other equipment which is necessary will be purchased.

The most important purchase being contemplated is a new eight-oared shell, and every known make and variety of boat is being considered by the members. It is very probable that the boat to be purchased will be a sectional eight-oared shell, made by the boat builder Sims, in Putney, England. A Sims single shell was used last year by E. T. Foley, in his race for the junior singles, and the boat proved highly satisfactory, this being the only race that the Minnesota Boat club won at Duluth. At that regatta the Sims sectional eights were used by the Winnipeg Rowing club, which won the eight-oared races. It is understood that these boats are just as fast as the others, and in addition they have the advantage of being transported very easily, since each boat may be divided into sections of about fifteen feet in length.

Shells Are Sixty Feet Long.

An ordinary eight-oared shell is sixty feet long without the rudder, and a baggage car of extraordinary length is necessary in taking the boat to other regattas at other cities. Consequently the advantage of a sectional boat is apparent. The sectional boat is also slightly heavier than the ordinary shell.

The club has in its possession at present four eights. Three of these are in good condition, but the fourth is rather old. All of these boats were used last year in some sensational races held on the river. At that time there was some discussion of the necessity of another boat, since some of the men could not row. With the addition of this new boat, which the club contemplates buying, races will be held next year at the spring and fall regattas, where five boats will compete.

It is also practically certain that a new four-oared shell will be purchased, to be used by the juniors. The boat used at Duluth last year was unsatisfactory; and it may be necessary to procure a new boat for the senior four. The club has several fours, but only one has proved to be a first-class boat.

A large number of the individual members who are fond of sculling will purchase singles. These boats will be purchased either in England or from the boatbuilder Ward in New Jersey.

The actual coaching of the new men will commence in the near future. Another meeting of the coaching committee will be held, and within the next two weeks the work will commence. In the meantime the members of the coaching committee are continuing their search for large men to join the racing squad.

JOE JEANNETTE ON THE TRAIL OF JACK JOHNSON

Dan McKetrick, manager of Joe Jeannette, is after a match with Jack Johnson. At least Daniel says he is. In a letter sent to The Herald sporting editor, McKetrick says that he is sincere in his desire to match Jeannette with Johnson, and furthermore says that he intends forcing the big black into a match, no matter what may be the plans of the champion.

There is some merit to the claim of McKetrick. Jeannette appears to be about the best man in sight, despite the fact that there are few who believe he is a match for Lil' Artha. But if Johnson is going to fight, Jeannette is about the best there is.

Following is the letter from McKetrick to Johnson, a copy of which he mailed to The Herald sport department:

"Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, Chicago, Ill.—Friend Johnson: As you have denied the cable reports of your announced retirement from the ring, and state that you are prepared to make a match with any of the eligible heavyweights, I again renew my request for a match for Joe Jeannette for the title.

"Your statement is that you are still the heavyweight champion; ready to defend the title, and will fight any man living.

"It is this very candid statement that induces me to write you this letter.

"Joe Jeannette is not only willing, but anxious for a match with you. You will appreciate that with Sam Langford removed from the field, having been beaten by Jeannette in a ten round contest last November and afterwards defaulted after making a new match with Jeannette to fight before Jim Coffroth's club. He simply ran out and made a hurried departure for Australia, evading an issue at a distance. This leaves Jeannette the only logical man to contend with you for the title. You appreciate that there is no 'white hope' in sight whom the public has any confidence in or would go to see you fight.

"Under the impression that you are sincere in your last statement, I am going to appeal to your fairness to give proper consideration to my request for a match. It is not necessary to enter into a wide range of unnecessary monologue or oratory and a lot of mossy technicality to evade, if your statement is to be acccepted at par. We want the match, yes and we want it badly, and in support of this assertion, I am ready to prove that I am earnest by posting $5,000 with either Bob Edgren, of the Evening World, "Tad" of the Evening Journal, Harry Cashman of the American, Walter St. Denis of the Globe or any other newspaper man you elect.

"The terms of the match can be such as you may fairly exact under the Queensbury rules. The one essential point is to make the match, and the details of the fight can then be reached.

"Like you, we are anxious for the best financial inducements, but they are only secondary with us. What we particularly want is the match. You understand conditions, etc., having experienced many obstacles, and having to make many concessions to secure an opportunity. It is the same kind of an opportunity that you so long sought, that we are after.

"In support of my insistence for a match for Jeannette, you know that my man has long asked for a meeting at a distance with you, and I ask you to recall some of your bouts with him. They were meritorious enough to warrant your stating just prior to your sailing for England, that you believed Jeannette to be the best man in the world, as a pugilist outside of yourself, particularly for a long fight.

"It is with this in mind that I present our claim for a match in a businesslike way, and not hampered with needless and abusive verblage.

"To this I add that it is just eighteen months ago, since you fought for the title, and under all rules and precedents, it is time that you defend that title and a challenge from a sincere and logical rival.

"If you need any more substantial argument in support of our right for information, it will be quickly forthcoming, but I have hopes that this very businesslike and sincere request will receive proper consideration and will merit the needed answer. Yours very truly, DAN McKETRICK."

AMERICANS PLAY POORLY AND LOSE

Brooks and Larned Drop Tennis Matches for the Davis Cup.

Christ Church, Australia, Jan. 1.—The American challengers lost both of today's matches for the Davis international lawn tennis cup.

Norman E. Brookes, captain of the Australian team, defeated Wright 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. Larned's showing against Tod Heath was even more disappointing to American sympathizers. Heath won three out of four sets as follows: 2-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.

The weather was excellent and the attendance large. The loss of two matches leaves the outlook dismal for the Americans. A third victory will mean that Australia retains the title and the cup.

NELSON FIGHTS IN OLD-TIME FORM

New York, Jan. 1. — Battling Nelson won the decision over Jack Redmond of St. Paul at the end of a 20-round bout at the West Side Athletic club yesterday afternoon.

The fight was nearly all Redmond's up to the ninth round, when Nelson opened up, after which there was little doubt as to the outcome. In the seventh and eighth rounds Redmond battered Nelson's face almost at will, hammering his nose and ears with rights and lefts and clipping in short jabs to the stomach that appeared to daze Nelson.

Redmond came back confident at the beginning of the ninth, trying for a knockout, but Nelson took a brace and shot a hard right to Redmond's stomach and rights and lefts to the face that brought the big crowd to its feet.

From the ninth until the end of the fight Nelson had Redmond backing away and hanging on. There was much clinching and wrestling, increasing toward the close.

Redmond tried to come back in the twentieth, but Nelson's blows on his stomach had taken most of the fight out of him, though he got in two hard lefts to the face in this round. Nelson then set in rights and lefts to the stomach, and ribs repeatedly. Nelson was going strong when the final gong sounded.

TWO DULUTH BOYS ARE MAKING GOOD

Harris and Waldron Playing on Second University Basket Ball Team.

"Morrey" Harris and "Husk" Waldron, two former high school football, basket ball and baseball stars, are making a great showing on the second basket ball team of the University of Minnesota. The Duluth youngsters were started on the freshmen team and have been making such a good showing that they have been used on the second team, and are two of the best first year men that have appeared at the university for some time.

Freshmen are ineligible for athletic competition at the university outside of the class teams. Were it not for this rule, it is very likely that both the Duluth boys would find a place on the first teams. As it is, they are opening the eyes of some of the followers of basket ball at the state school.

Harris was one of the greatest basket throwers ever developed at the high school here. While light, he is very fast and has a sure and quick eye. Waldron is heavier and is also fast. Waldron and Harris may go out for baseball honors this spring. It is also probable that Waldron will be a candidate for football honors next fall. He is getting heavier and stronger and should make a good candidate for backfield honors.

GOTCH MAY NOT QUIT THE GAME

Chicago, Jan. 1. — Already Frank Gotch has reconsidered his announced determination to retire from the mat. The boss wrestler has sent word to the managers of the Empire Athletic club here that he is willing to make one more appearance in a big bout. He says he will meet the man who wins over Yusif Mahmout. If Mahmout remains undefeated, Gotch will remain in retirement, is the position taken by the champion today.

"It means that Gotch will appear only once more before the public," said Emil Klank, his manager, today. "Of course, we expect that the title will descend to the big Turk if he remains undefeated for a reasonable time."

LEAGUE MEETING PLANNED.

Eastern Mesaba Officials Will Gather During Present Month.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—President George Webb and Secretary-Treasurer Prince of the Eastern Mesaba Baseball league, which proved such a huge success last summer, plan to call a meeting of league members this month, at which time rules for 1912 will be adopted and the circuit completed for the coming year. Officers are to be elected and the teams to compose the league selected.

It is planned to include the Mohawk club of Virginia in the 1912 circuit, as the Virginia nine proved to be a strong one. With the addition of the Virginia club the circuit will be composed of Eveleth, Biwabik, Aurora, Elba and Gilbert nines.

PALZER WILL MEET FIREMAN.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1.—Al Palzer of New York, conqueror of Al Kaufman and who is now considered to be a promising "white hope," virtually has agreed to meet Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, in this city late in January. Promoter James Coffroth will handle the match, in all probability.

A telegram from Tom O'Rourke, Palzer's handler, intimated Saturday that his protege was willing to box Flynn. Coffroth promptly wired his acceptance.

Hold Meeting in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Tom Chivington, president of the American Baseball association, announced yesterday that the annual election and business meeting of the association would be held in Chicago next Saturday. The election of a president will be the principal business to come before the meeting.

JOE RIVERS VS. FRANKIE CONLEY

Both Fighters Are Said to Be in the Best of Condition.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—Outside of some light work yesterday, Joe Rivers and Frankie Conley, who are to meet today at Vernon arena, rested in anticipation of their contest. Conley's handlers said their charge was in as good condition as when he won a 20-round verdict against Rivers several weeks ago. Rivers said:

"I am going in at my best weight and I am trained to a fine point."

HENRY ORDEMANN IS STAR ATHLETE

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 1.—Besides being a wonderful wrestler, Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis, Minn., the American heavyweight champion wrestler, is a remarkable all around athlete.

Ordemann was born at Bergen, Norway, twenty-six years ago. He gained a wide reputation all through Norway for bicycle racing and sculling. He has won many medals for both bike racing and rowing. By trade, Ordemann is a blacksmith and for two years he was a sailor. Naturally he is a powerful man as a result of leading such a hardy life. From working as a blacksmith and rowing, Ordemann has developed remarkable strength in his hands and arms. Cycling gave him splendid leg muscles. Wrestlers who have worked with Ordemann say he is stronger in his hands and arms than Champion Gotch, George Hackenschmidt, Zbyszko, Yussiff Mohmout or any of the formidable foreign grapplers.

Since breaking into the wrestling game as a professional four years ago, Ordemann has given up his trade as a blacksmith and at the present time is engaged in the clothing business in Minneapolis. He owns a large clothing store on the leading business street in the Mill City, having invested most of his earnings of the wrestling mat in his store.

Ordemann is thrifty and possesses a shrewd business head. He does not drink, smoke or dissipate in any manner. He is married and has one child. He is strong for quiet home life and when not training in the gymnasium or devoting a few hours per day to his clothing store, can always be found at home.

Ordemann is extremely modest and shuns publicity. He dislikes newspaper interviews and bears the reputation of never having made a speech in his life, which is quite remarkable in these modern times when most professional athletes perform more deeds with their vocal organs than with their muscles.

SPORTING NOTES

If Ban wants to make himself real solid with the fans the way to do it is to come out for the dollar world's series ticket—no higher, save for the boxes—for the free score card and for the covered sun seats. There would be something more than a mere spotlight play in guaranteeing these things to the public.

If Charles Hoyt, the one time brilliant playwright, were alive today and if he should see Herman Schafer act, Hoyt might tell Herman what he told Pop Anson after seeing Anson in the first act of a play Hoyt wrote for him. "Well, I still think you are a good ball player."

"Horse racing wanted by business interests," yells the New York Evening Telegram. You might call a bookmaker most anything outside of a business man.

According to what the Detroit News says, it is understood that Messrs. Comiskey, Ewing, Allen, McPhee, Schmelz, Fulmer, Snyder, Loftus, Kelley, Hanlon, Ganzel and Griffith, or, in a few instances, their executors, will collaborate in a literary work to be called "Trials and Tribulations of a Manager in Cincinnati." It will be in several volumes.

It is natural for newspapers in cities where they have a sudden streak of luck to shout this way at others. Still, the face remains that Cincinnati has never been threatened with losing its National league franchise as was Detroit in the American until Jennings went there.

* * *

It had all been fixed for the late President Bryce of Columbus, Ohio, to take over that club and put it in the Ohio capital when Jennings happened along and won the first Detroit pennant.

Every club except two in major circles has a high potentate known to baseball as the "assistant manager." These two are Cincinnati and Washington.

That certainly was some Christmas gift which Frank Chance handed the American league managers when he said Connie Mack will repeat the two last performances in the league race next season.

With the pensioning of Jack Sheridan and the signing by Cincinnati of Hank O'Day as manager, Tommy Connolly of Natick, Mass., becomes the dean of the umpires in America. Tommy has been umpiring ever since 1893, but did not break into the big league until 1896, one year after O'Day.

Charley Comiskey is the father of the Western league, or, rather, the protector. Every August Commy purchases a dozen or so promising-looking players in that circuit, and just as soon as the next spring rolls around he proceeds to turn them back. Just now he has a bunch of men from that league on his reserve list. Among them are Outfielder Matticks of Des Moines, Kelly, Jones and Powell of the St. Joseph club, and Shortstop Berger and Catcher Clements of the Pueblo team. Frank Isbell is the Pueblo manager.

Rube Gilligan, the former Brewer, has not signed with the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league, as recently reported. Gilligan was recently made a free agent, and it is not likely that he will be with the Minneapolis team next season. At times Rube looks like a wonder, and then again he looks about as classy as a hackdriver.

"In my opinion," says Chance, "it will take from one to three years for the National league to develop a team which is capable of wresting the world's title from the Athletics."

IRVING ALUMNI WINS.

At Duluth Heights yesterday afternoon the Irving alumni hockey team defeated the Duluth Heights aggregation at hockey by the score of 2 to 0. The game was the fastest and best contested game ever played on the hill top.

Poisant starred for the Irvings, scoring both goals, and also played a star defensive game. Both teams put up a great contest and both played a hard fast game from beginning to end.

OUTLAWS STILL THREATEN WAR

Rumor Started That A. A. Magnates Are Behind Present Movement.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Outlaw war that now howls like a winter's wind about the doors of organized baseball threatens to steal Mordecai Brown. This was the development yesterday in the cause of the third major league, Billy Neisen, owner of Gunther park and aspirant to the Chicago outlaw franchise, saying that he would bid for "Old Reliable's" services to manage the North side team.

Further, it is now said that the big little minors, namely, the American association and the International league, are the real factors in kicking up the embers of war. It is the story of invasion that the major magnate have been harkening to for seasons innumerable, but this time it unfolds itself with a new angle. This is allowing the trouble to brew and be sprung practically nowhere, only to have the big minors loom up at the psychological moment to give the organized forces the opportunity to affect a settlement or accept the only alternative—war.

Movement May Die.

How the disturbers seek to gain their point is by the roundabout route. The entire move may be hinging upon the action the national commission takes upon the reclassification problem at its Cincinnati meeting next Wednesday. If the minors are granted the things asked for, the outlaw move will probably die naturally, or it may gain new life, but in the event of the minors being turned down after a peaceful fight that has covered close to ten years, with the American association the principal contender, an open breach is liable to result.

So far, only vague reports have connected men of organized baseball with this latest outlaw move. Members of the Wisconsin-Illinois league have held meetings here, ostensibly for the purpose of starting something. The real powers are said to be the big fellows, who have sent feelers to the front with the idea of testing the situation. Once the outlaw band is afoot the men now engineering the move from the background will step to the front to make the American association invasion dream a thing of reality.

As for the Chicago end of the expansion, it is said that the block of property now belonging to Charles Havenor, owner of the Milwaukee club in the American association, is available for an outlaw park. In the meantime the majors are sitting back to the tune of never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you.

CONTENDERS WILL DO BATTLE

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 1—Leo Houck of Lancaster, Pa., and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis both contenders for the middleweight championship, will meet here this afternoon in a ten round bout. Both are in excellent condition and a hard, fast battle is predicted.

"Chick" Hayes, formerly of Memphis and now training with local boxers, will meet George Kliesen of New York in a ten round contest. The winner probably will get a chance to meet Johnny Coulon. The "Billie" Murphy of Chicago and "Jimmy" Watts, a local boxer, are matched for the preliminary at 125 pounds.

CRACK HOCKEY TEAMS TO MEET

The New Year's day sport program at the curling rink is one of the best of the season—in fact the best that has been planned for the club to date. There will be two hockey games and some curling games. The crack Fort Frances team will play the curling club team during the evening, while this afternoon the Adams Athletic team, the one that gave the Big Duluths so bad a beating in the opening game of the season, will meet the Canadians.

In its first game of the present season the Duluth Curling club team showed that it is going to be in the pennant hunt from the first to the close of the season. The curlers have already defeated the Broadways of Superior and expect to make an excellent showing in the game against the Fort Frances team. The Adams also are confident of making a hard fight for first honors.

Fort Frances comes here with the reputation of having a strong and well balanced team. Duluth lovers of the ice game know that the Canadian teams are generally very strong, and the one scheduled for today's game is said to be right up to the average.

Following is the schedule of the curling games that will be played:

Curling: Herald Event—J. E. MacGregor vs. F. W. Richardson. Harry Hurdon vs. Burt Gravatt.

Special Curling Event — P. Harbinson vs. John Oldham. Walter Harris vs. W. B. Dunlap. E. N. Whyte vs. C. D. Brewer.

Mangseth to Ride.

John Mangseth, one of the best ski riders in the Northwest and a member of the Duluth Ski club, will represent the local club at the Stoughton, Mich., tournament. Mangseth is one of the best of the local riders and it is expected that he will carry off some of the honors.

Bronson vs. Devlin.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Jan. 1.—Ray Bronson the Indianapolis contender for the welterweight belt, will fight Tommy Devlin of Boston, here this afternoon in a scheduled ten round bout. Marvin Hart, former heavyweight champion, will referee.

Pool Stars Matched.

August Mausolf and Orville Oliver will start a 1,000 point pool contest Tuesday evening. The games will be alternated between the Central and Majestic parlors. The rules of the contest provide for 100 points to be played each evening. Both of the men are among the best players in the Northwest.

GILBERT WANTS ELECTRIC POWER

Will Try to Contract With St. Louis River Power Project Backers.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village officials are negotiating with Engineer D. A. Reed of Duluth, who is in charge of the St. Louis river power project for a day and night current to be furnished this village through a seventeen-mile transmission line. Engineer Reed is now taking levels at the river and a fall of sixteen feet has already been found and it is believed a fall of almost twenty-five feet can be secured. Village Engineer Frank A. Bowman expects to visit St. Louis river this week and assist Engineer Reed in the project and determine whether it would be advisable for the village to make a contract with Mr. Reed.

OLD COUNCIL TO HOLD LAST MEETING

Only Two of 1911 Members Are in Office This Year.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aldermen Charles H. Jesmore, Matt J. Doyle, Gust Kauppi, George Mulligan, Dr. Edwin K. Medlar, and William G. Sutherland, who all with the exception of Alderman Kauppi ran for higher offices at the municipal election last month and were defeated, will hold their final session tomorrow evening. President Joseph S. Wilson of the First ward and Alderman David A. Springer of the Sixth ward are the only hold-overs.

During the term of the 1910-1911 council Grant avenue has been paved; many blocks of cement sidewalks laid, waterworks extensions installed, armory and fire hall sites purchased, construction of grehall started, new roads started and other numerous improvements completed.

EVELETH PEOPLE GREET NEW YEAR

Day Is Being Generally Observed By Residents of Range City.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—New Year's is being well observed here. Business places remained closed while the postoffice will be open only from 11 to 12 m., and from 7 to 8 p. m. There will be dog races this afternoon as well as bowling, curling, skating and hockey.

At the churches yesterday appropriate New Year's sermons were delivered. At the First Presbyterian church Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., spoke on "Looking Forward," while at the Methodist Episcopal church Rev. B. D. Hanscom choose "Ends and Beginnings" as his sermon.

Military Ball in Evening.

This evening a dance will be given at the Vail hall by the militia, with music being furnished by the Kauft-Peterson orchestra of Virginia. At the Finnish hall a leap year party will be given with Miss Helen and Rachael Harwood, Jean Talboys, Ruth Jesmore and Evelyn Prince as hostesses. A dance will be held, games played and refreshments served.

ANNEXATION TO GILBERT BEATEN

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plan to annex adjoining mining territory to this village was defeated at the special election held Saturday by a vote of 83 to 58, the various communities affected registering their objection to the plan, the citizens of Gilbert not being permitted to vote. The outside territory included the Schley, Elba, Genoa, Petit and other mining locations, owned by the Oliver, Pickands-Mather, Hanna and Republic Mining companies, and they opposed the plan for fear of increased taxes levied to build up the town.

Residents of the village are deeply disappointed at the result of the election and are making plans whereby they believe they will succeed in annexing the contiguous mining territory. According to officials the arrangements will be completed in a few days. Many of the voters believe the adjoining mines will be a part of Gilbert in less than two months.

Schley and Pettit mine location residents voted unanimously against annexation, which was a surprise to those interested and should another election be called, annexation advocates believe they can carry the proposition as they have discovered the weak points.

IS CANDIDATE FOR MUNICIPAL JUDGESHIP

L. M. OSBORN.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be no dearth of candidates for municipal judgeship at the coming city election, as three candidates have already filed, L. M. Osborn, Judge J. P. Carey and A. N. Thompson. It is reported W. J. Archer will also get into the game It is expected that both Mayor Hawkinson and ex-Mayor Eaton will be candidates for mayor, while friends of M. A. Murphy are firm in the belief he can yet be prevailed on to announce his candidacy.

CLUB HOME SCHEME BEING CONSIDERED

Hibbing Commercial Club Members Agitating Having One This Year.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Commercial club are favorably considering the idea of having a club home in order to better carry on the work of the organization this year.

At the annual meeting to be held next Wednesday evening when officers will be elected, reports of officers and committees heard it is expected the club scheme will be given an impetus and that plans will bet set on foot to that end. A campaign for new members will also be launched. Hibbing expects to have a material growth during 1912 and one of the chief factors in bringing that about is expected to be the Commercial club.

CARNEGIE REFUSES TO INCREASE GIFT

Eveleth Library Board's Request Turned Down By Iron Master.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The library board has received word from Secretary Bertram of the Carnegie library board that Andrew Carnegie will not increase his original donation of $15,000 to $20,000 as requetsed by the local library directors.

The library board plans to erect a $20,000 structure and with the acceptance of plans submitted by architects, the council will be urged to purchase the half block bounded by Pierce street, B and Adams avenues so that the library can be erected, commencing this spring.

Virginia Beats Fort Frances.

The Virginia Ski club yesterday elected these officers and announced that $200 in prizes would be dispensed at the coming tournament: Harry Solberg, president; Mike Roylan1, vice president; H. O. Johnson, treasurer, and J. R. Krogdahl, secretary.

GOOD SAMARITAN DANCE.

McKinley, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Modern Samaritans of McKinley will give their annual dance in the city hall tonight. The party will be the leading New Year event socially. Kraft's orchestra of Virginia will furnish the music. Supper will be served in the hall.

The lodge will hold its installation on Tuesday evening, Jan. 9 at which John Christie of Duluth, the Imperial Good Samaritan of the order will be present and instruct the members in lodge work.

REOPEN GILBERT MINE.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to mining men, the Gilbert mine, which has been idle since early spring, will reopen next month with large crews of men. Both surface and underground operations are to be pursued, and much ore shipped during the 1912 season. Much stripping will probably be undertaken during the summer months.

Larger crews of men are also to be added to the Pettit and Schley mine forces, while the Malta mine is keeping a large force at work at underground operations during the winter.

At the Adams it is expected stripping operations will not be resumed until May, while the date of the opening of the Fayal stripping has not been set. Mining men expect much stripping to be done here next summer, as considerable ore has been uncovered at both the north and south ends of Grant avenue, the main thoroughfare.

McKINLEY RAILROADER HAS GONE TO STAPLES.

McKinley, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Roy Curley has left for Staples, Minn., after having been assistant station agent here for the D. & I. R. railway. He was succeeded by C. A. Kane, formerly of Ely.

About twenty-five couples of young people attended the hop in the city hall. Miss Florence Johnson furnished the music.

CURLERS HAVE HOLIDAY SESSION

Three Draws to Be Played in Trophy Events at Western Club.

Members of the Western Curling club have planned an all-afternoon and evening session at the rink today. Three series of games will be played, the first at 2 o'clock, the second at 4 o'clock and the last at 8 o'clock this evening.

In the 2 o'clock draw, Method will play Ashley in the semi-finals of the Commercial club event. The winner of this game will play Judson in the finals for the trophy. The following is the present standing in the event:

First Round.	Semi-Finals.	Finals.
Buckley	Judson
Judson		Judson
Brown	Olson
Olson
Evered	Ashley
Ashley
Method	Method
Clark

Barnes will meet Wieland, Holland will play Clark, and Evered and Olson are matched for games this afternoon in the Union Match company event. The 4 and 8 o'clock draws will depend on the winners in the other events.

A special program of skating music has been arranged for this afternoon and evening by the Baldwin band, which was hired especially for the occasion.

FALLS INTO VAT OF TAR

Albert Bullock, a pumpman at the Zenith Furnace company, who fell into a vat of hot tar Saturday evening, is at the St. Mary's hospital and is expected to recover. Bullick was working near the edge of the vat and losing his balance fell in, sustaining severe burns on his side and arms.

Fellow employes at the coke plant pulled him out and rushed him to Dr. C. H. Payette's office, where temporary treatment was given. Bullock was later taken to the hospital, where he is now receiving a very careful treatment for the burns. The prompt action on the part of the other workers at the plant is responsible for the saving of Bullock's life.

WANT BRIDGE REPLACED BY FILL.

According to the estimate completed Saturday by City Engineer McGilvray, the cost of rebuilding the burned section of the Eighty-first avenue bridge, destroyed Thursday morning by fire, will amount to $3,000. This provides for a fill of sixty feet and timber for 110 feet. The cost of filling the entire length, as suggested by the West Duluth Commercial club at its meeting Friday evening, would be about $5,500, he says.

Members of the Commercial club believe that the latter course would be the cheapest in the end and have forwarded resolutions to the board of public works to the effect that the burned section be filled in instead of being rebuilt. They are also urging that all the ravines spanned by bridges should be filled in th s manner and thus avoid the chance of a fire destroying the bridge.

Teamsters are now compelled to take a roundabout course for their teams, which leads below the Northern Pacific tracks at Ironton.

TRAIN LODGE HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET.

Fram Lodge No. 5, Sons of Norway, held its annual banquet for the members of the order last evening at Gilley's hall. A special musical program was given following the dinner, which was attended by about 200 people.

A. L. Aplaud gave the address of welcome and musical numbers were given by Miss Minnie Nelson, Mrs. J. J. Moe, L. O. Aplaud, Carl Tilseth, J. J. Moe and a quartet. Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, gave the principal address of the evening and others who spoke were Henry P. Peterson and Iver Oness.

FRAM LODGE HOLDS IN EIGHTH WARD.

The aldermanic campaign in the Eighth ward will start in earnest this week and the first of a series of political meetings will be held Friday evening by the Socialists at Victor hall. The Republicans will start their campaign next Saturday evening, when the West Duluth Republican club will hold its first meeting and make plans for a systematic campaign in the Eighth ward.

P. H. Martin, Democratic candidate, Emil Zauft, Republican, and P. G. Phillips, Socialist, will begin tomorrow circulating their election cards, announcing the final registration days, Jan. 23 and 27, and the election, Feb. 6. Each man has a large following and after the various committees are appointed by each party to work in the different precincts, the strongest political battle in years is predicted by the old residents of this end of the city.

Fire in Residence.

Defective electric wires are believed to have been the cause of a fire last evening at the home of C. Carlson, 528 South Fifty-ninth avnue west. The damage amounted to about $400, the firemen being compelled to tear up the partitions although the fire itself was slight. Department No. 8 answered the call and was compelled to go to the scene a second time, about a half an hour later.

Lodge Installations.

Various West Duluth lodges will install their new officers during this week with impressive ceremonies and banquets. The Royal League, West Duluth, council No. 255, will install its officers tomorrow evening. Prosperity lodge, No. 860 Modern Brotherhood of America, will install Wednesday evening and the Knight's of Pythias will install its officers Thursday evening. Following the special ceremonies, social entertainments will be held, to which the families of the members have been invited.

EASTON CLEARS ON LAST TRIP

The steamer Easton of the Booth line cleared at 2:30 this morning on her last trip of the season to Port Arthur and the Canadian Head of the Lakes.

Upon her return to Duluth the Easton may be used to ply between Duluth and north shore points as far away as Grand Marais, Minn., She will probably make but three more trips, as it is thought that the ice will prevent further navigation.

The Easton attempted to clear yesterday but owing to an ice floe which blocked the canal, could not get away.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICES

Many Church Congregations Assemble to Watch New Year In.

Old-Fashioned Program Carried Out at First M. E. Church.

Watch night services took place in many of the Duluth churches last evening. Large congregations assembled to watch the old year out and the new year in. Sermons appropriate to the occasion were preached by pastors in all parts of the city, either at the regular evening services, or at the watch night services. The topics were many, but almost without exception the thought of starting the new year right was interwoven with the discourse. Special New Year's services were also held this morning in some of the churches, and in others such services will be held this evening.

There was a large gathering last evening at the First Methodist church, Third avenue west and First street. A regular old-fashioned watch night program was carried out with complete success. The regular evening service was begun at 8 o'clock. The pastor of the church, Rev. M. S. Rice, preached a sermon on "Living Down a Life." Later in the evening was held the Union Young People's service, under the auspices of the Young People's societies of the various churches. Rev. B. V. Black, pastor of the Union church, spoke. Later in the evening was held a communion service, then a public testimony meeting and finally a confirmation meeting. The services took place with no intermission from 8 to 12 o'clock.

A program somewhat similar to the above was carried out at the Swedish Baptist temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. A watch service was opened at 8 p. m. Music was rendered by the orchestra under the direction of Prof. M. E. Erickson. A solo was sung by Mrs. Carl Hedberg. Several selections were rendered by the choir. George Carlson, student of Morgan Park, Ill., spoke on "Methods of Soul Winning." The gathering was addressed also by the pastor, Rev. Swaney Nelson, who spoke of problems that had been encountered by the congregation during the past year, and of those that were to be met during the coming year. A social hour was spent from 9:15 to 10:15 by way of intermission. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the congregation of the church held its regular annual business meeting in the church building.

A watch night service was begun at 10 o'clock at the Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. The congregation was addressed by Rev. G. Tapper, missionary of the Mesaba range, and by Rev. Edward Stromberg, pastor of the church. Special music was rendered by the choir. The regular New Year's service will be held this evening, opening at 7 o'clock. During this week and next revival meetings will be held at the church each evening. The pastor will be assisted at these rallies by his brother, Rev. Fred Stromberg of Lindstrom, Minn.

At the First German M. E. church, Fifth avenue east and Sixth street, watch night services were begun at 9 o'clock. From 9 to 10:30 p. m., a program was rendered under the auspices of the Epworth league. A unique number was a solo, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" rendered by August Robe of Sundby, Minn., 86 years old. After a brief lunch, the regular service was begun at which a New Year's sermon was preached by the pastor of the church, Rev. W. A. Weiss. A solo was sung by Miss Grace Weiss.

The regular New Year's service at the St. Paul's church, Lake avenue north and Second street, was held this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Communion service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Eyan.

A New Year's service will be held this evening at 7:45 o'clock in Our Savior's Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street. Rev. J. C. Reiertson is the pastor.

At the Trinity Lutheran Free church, Fourth avenue east and Fifth street, of which Rev. O. J. Flagstad is pastor, the regular evening services were held last night, and then a literary and musical program was rendered by the Young People's society. Refreshments were then served and a social session took place until the bells, whistles and shooting announced the coming of the new year.

SAD ENDING TO ROMANCE

Faithless Lover Under Arrest on Complaint of Girl.

Tears and sorrow and the faithlessness of a man, promise to wreck the romance and the life of Donato Altieri, 16 years old, of 322 South Seventeenth avenue east.

The man is under arrest charged with one of the most serious crimes on the statute books, and the girl is grief stricken following the shock of his arrest and his broken promises.

A year ago Donato, little more than a child, met Antonio Cacchio, a countryman several years her senior. He paid her the first attentions which she had ever received from a man, and when he left to go to work in Montana the two started a correspondence. Antonio wrote her tender letters, filled with passion and love. She responded.

When he came to Duluth a few weeks ago he renewed his avowals in person. He asked her to marry him. He went to her father and asked her hand. Under the spell of his fascination and his promises, she allowed herself to fall a victim to his wiles.

Then she learned that he did not care for her any more. She feared that he was going away. She thought that he intended to leave for parts unknown yesterday morning. To prevent him from doing so and in a last desperate effort to compel him to keep his promise to marry her, she took $220 which he had in his pocket.

Antonio flew into a rage. With her, he went to the police station. He charged the girl with robbery. The girl told her story to Capt. A. G. Eiskett. Antonio was thrown into a cell charged with having carnal knowledge of the girl. Still he refuses to keep his promise. He declares that he will not marry the girl.

Donato is grief-stricken. She will become an outcast if Antonio does not marry her. Her entire future will be blighted and she feels that she will be an object of scorn the rest of her days. In the belief of her race her life will have a dark spot which can never be eradicated.

Antonio Cacchio was arraigned in police court this morning. He asked for an examination and his hearing was set for the morning of Jan. 6. The girl was sent back to stay in her parents' home.

NO MARKETS ON HOLIDAY

Grain and Stock Exchanges in All Parts of World Closed.

Grain and stock exchanges in all parts of the world were closed today in honor of the advent of the New Year. Exchanges and brokerage offices were closed at Duluth. There were no quotations and no market news to be had.

FLAXSEED CONDITIONS

"The oil trade is not displaying any concern over the unfavorable crop news from Argentina. The market is still quiet and is in the full apathy of the holiday season. Oil is quoted a little easier than last week, being 67 to 68 cents f. o. b. car load lots. Meal is in fair demand at $37.50 and cake in good demand at $34 to $35.

"The continuation of the unfavorable weather in Argentina and the agitation of the Buenos Ayres flax market with the corresponding strength in the foreign markets certainly suggests a serious development which must have its effect upon the feed situation before the crop year is out. In the Northwest good dry seed is scarce, the receipts coming in are generally poor and there is a big shrinkage in the wet seed. Crushers have in the last week shown a keen desire for the choice seed and have in one or two instances paid a premium for such cars.

"The Minneapolis receipts of flax on the crop so far this season are 4,834,170 bu, compared with 4,141,580 bu last year."

HE FAVORS ROOSEVELT.

Governor Osborn Says the Colonel Would Like the Nomination.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 1.—Governor Charles S. Osborn here yesterday declared himself in favor of Theodore Roosevelt for president, saying that Taft was too weak to win and La Follette was "bad medicine." He also asserted that he knew that Roosevelt would like to have the Republican nomination for the presidency.

"It would be a bad thing for La Follette, for the Republican party and for the nation if La Follette should be elected president," said the governor.

"The trouble with his brand of Progressives is that they are all so busy running for office that they have no time for anything else."

The governor said that he believes Mr. Taft is a big and good president, but he believes that he ought to withdraw from the race for the good of the Republican party and for the good of the country, for he is not strong enough with the people to win.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services were held this afternoon from the home for Mrs. Ann Hoar, wife of the late William Hoar, who died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Anna Anderson, aged 74. She came here from England, her native country, forty-three years ago.

COLDEST DAY OF WINTER

New Year Is Greeted With Temperature of 17 Below.

Weather Man Says Even Lower Marks May Be Reached.

The first day of 1912 is the coldest day of the present winter The mercury dropped to 17 deg. below zero this morning and the prospects are that it will remain below the zero mark throughout the day.

Following the heavy snowfall Saturday night, yesterday was a damp, disagreeable day. The wind shifted to the west yesterday afternoon, and last night, while not warm, was not appressively cold.

After midnight the temperature began to drop and the mercury went down in bounds until it reached the low mark. The weather man predicts continued cold weather for tonight with a low temperature of 10 deg to 20 deg. below zero and somewhat milder temperature tomorrow.

WEATHER.

The weather started out the new year by breaking low temperature records for the winter. The mercury dropped to 17 deg. below zero early this morning and belated participants in the welcoming of the new year, and those who had a variature forth to holiday work, met the full effect of the snap. Today is an intensely cold, fair winter day and conditions are not such as to encourage outdoor sports. Another drop in temperature to between 10 deg. and 20 deg. below zero is predicted for tonight, with somewhat higher temperatures Tuesday.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:30 this evening, giving eight hours and thirty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours snow or rain fell over practically all districts except the Rocky mountains and the extreme Southwest. Sunday and last night, a cold wave of marked intensity swept in over the lake region, Mississippi and Ohio valleys and Southwestern states. The temperature fall at Duluth from 7 a. m. Sunday to 7 a. m. today was 33 deg. Zero weather prevails this morning in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana, Eastern Washington, Southern Utah, and all of Western Canada, while freezing temperatures extend southward to the Mexican border and northern portions of Gulf states."

Forecast Till 7 p. m. Tuesday.

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges—Generally cloudy weather tonight and Tuesday. Lowest temperature tonight 10 to 20 deg. below zero. Not so cold during Tuesday; moderate winds, mostly westerly.

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Minnesota — Fair tonight followed by increasing cloudiness Tuesday; not so cold.

Iowa—Fair and not so cold tonight; Tuesday increasing cloudiness with rising temperature.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not so cold tonight.

ELEVEN FOUND NEARLY DEAD UPON SCHOONER.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 1.—Two vessels, a schooner and a freight steamer, were stranded on the shoals in full view of the city Sunday. They came ashore during a storm. The schooner is the Julius Trubee, bound from Virginia for New York. She had been twenty-nine days at sea and stranded three miles from the beach, off Vermont avenue. Life savers who boarded the vessel found the crew of eleven men almost dead from hunger and overwork. Nine of them were brought ashore and relief was given to Capt. Leach and Mate Williams, who refused to leave the vessel. The schooner will probably be a total loss.

SAYS SHUSTER SEIZED $60,000,000 IN PERSIA.

London, Jan. 1.—The Post's Teheran correspondent says that Salar Ed Dowleh has telegraphed to the government that unless $60,000,000 confiscated by Treasurer General Shuster is returned to him he will demolish the imperial bank buildings at Kermanshah, a town in the province of Ardilan, of which he still retains possession. It was the confiscation of Salar Ed Dowleh's property at Teheran that led to the incident with the Russian consul resulting finally in the Russian ultimatum, and the dismissal of Mr. Shuster.

DULUTH MEN ARE GIVEN OFFICES

Local Hotel Clerks Honored at Association Meeting at St. Paul.

Duluth men were elected to two of the offices at the annual meeting of the Minnesota-Dakota Hotel Clerks' association, recently held in St. Paul at the Ryan hotel. The Zenith City residents thus honored were H. W. Cody of the Spalding, who was chosen one of the trustees, and F. C. Gaylord of the St. Louis, who was made one of the vice presidents. There was a close contest between Duluth and Minneapolis for the next annual meeting. Minneapolis led Duluth by only three votes, with about eighty delegates present and voting. Mr. Cody and Mr. Gaylord both addressed the meeting on the subject of hotel management. Mr. Cody, on his return to Duluth, was emphatic in his praise of the manner in which Walter Peacock, proprietor of the Ryan hotel, extended the hospitalities of his hostelry to the delegates. The program included a business session, banquet and ball.

SUPERIOR WOMAN TALKS.

"The religious cult that it is a privilege to be a member of, and that is known as the Theasophical society, has for one of its objects to form a nucleus of the universal brotherhood of humanity without distinction of race, creed, sex, color or caste. When anybody joins this great world-wide movement, all he is asked to subscribe to is the great principle of universal brotherhood.

"This principle must be lived up to and practiced every day. The principle of brotherhood comes first. A study of the phenomena of nature reveals that there is no such thing as accident in all the world. Consequently the founders of the society placed this beautiful principle at the very portal of the movement. This principle ranks first because it ought to. The heart ranks above the brain and conscience above intellect. Theosophy makes an irresistible appeal to everybody on this score. It strikes the keynote for which all the world is waiting. It holds the light, for which humanity, in the darkness, is struggling."

Missouri Committee Named.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 1.—Governor Hadley has named as Missouri's committee to co-operate with the national committee for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of peace among English-speaking people, the following: Congressman Richard Bartholdt, Capt. Henry King, Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, Henry Beardsley, former mayor of Kansas City, and Dr. J. P. Green of Liberty.

THE THOUGHTFUL JUROR.

New Orleans Picayune: "In one benighted region of a certain state in the Southwest," says a Louisiana lawyer, "they cherish some peculiar notions touching the duties of a juror. One day a case was being tried when suddenly the justice exclaimed:

"'How is this? There are only eleven jurymen in the box. Where is the twelfth?'

"The foreman rose and addressed the court respectfully as follows: 'May it please your hoor, the twelfth juror had to go away on important business, but he has left his verdict with me.'"

SUN YAT SEN TAKES OATH AS PRESIDENT OF CHINESE REPUBLIC

Makes Short Address Promising Reforms in the Country.

First Official Action Is Adoption of Universal Calendar.

Empress Dowager Gives Money to Fight Revolutionists.

Nanking, China, Jan. 2.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen today took the oath of office as provisional president of the Chinese republic, and was formally invested with the powers of chief executive. The ceremony was simple but dignified, and was attended by all the prominent men of the revolutionary party.

Dr. Sun, who is well known in America and Europe, after his arrival in Shanghai some ten days ago was elected president by the national assembly of reformers, representing the provinces of China proper, then in session here, by an almost unanimous vote.

Revised National Calendar.

The first official act of President Sun Yat Sen was to change the Chinese calendar. He made New Year's day the first day of his presidency, thus marking the commencement of a new era and making the Chinese year begin henceforth on the same day as the year begins in most other countries of the world.

Accompanied by a numerous suite and protected by a strong bodyguard, Dr. Sun Yat Sen left Shanghai in a special train for Nankin. The trip was made without incident except for the enthusiasm of the greeting ac-

BANKRUPT'S BOOKS NOT HIS PROPERTY

Washington, Jan. 2.—The account books of a bankrupt no longer are his property, and their use as evidence before a grand jury is no violation of the bankrupt's constitutional right that he be not required to testify against himself.

The court of appeals of the District of Columbia so held today in sustaining indictments of embezzlement against Griffin Halstead, a bankrupt stock broker and son of the late Murat Halstead, the journalist. He is charged with hypothecating the stock of his customers.

FORGERIES RUIN MICHIGAN BANK

Albion, Mich., Jan. 2.—The Albion National bank was closed today. A notice posted on the door says the bank is in the hands of the controller of the currency. The Albion National bank in 1904 succeeded the First National mank, which was organized in 1864. The capital of the institution is $50,000 and the deposits about $200,000.

Forgeries of $90,000.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Herbert E. Johnson, the federal examiner in charge of the Albion National bank, today reported by telegraph to Comptroller Murray that the bank has been defrauded of $90,000 by forgeries. Examiner Johnson says the forgeries have been admitted.

IS GOVERNOR FOR HIS FOURTH TERM

Pothier of Rhode Island Once More Succeeds Himself.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 2.—For the fourth successive term Governor Aram J. Pothier today took the oath of office. It was the first time since the adoption of the state Constitution in 1842 that a governor had ever been inaugurated for four consecutive terms, and it was the last time that the state officials will be sworn in for one year.

The legislature, which is Republican by increased majorities, organized in both branches.

Socialist Mayor Inducted.

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 2. — George R. Lunn, the first Socialist ever elected to the office of mayor in this state, was inducted into office here yesterday, 2,000 people shaking hands with him at the executive offices. Deregations of Socialist locals from ten cities of the state called.

QUITS DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE

ROGER C. SULLIVAN.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Roger C. Sullivan has announced his withdrawal from the Democratic national committee and this has stirred up the animals in Illinois. Sullivan has been the ruler of the Democratic party in Illinois for many years. He proposes that his successor shall be Charles Beeschenstein of Edwardsville. There will be a pretty fight over the place, as Beeschenstein is anti-Hearst, as Sullivan has been. Hearst thinks he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency and the fight over the succession to Sullivan will determine the complexion of the Illinois delegation.

BURNS READY TO TESTIFY

Detective Will Tell Story of Dynamiting to Federal Grand Jury.

Says He Expects Indictments Within a Few Days.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 2.—William J. Burns arrived here today to testify before the federal grand jury in the government's investigation of the alleged dynamiting conspiracy from which scores of explosions are supposed to have resulted throughout the country in recent years.

Tonight Mr. Burns expects to confer with United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller, Oscar Lawler, special government prosecutor in Southern California, and District Attorney John D. Fredericks of Los Angeles county, Cal., the latter two being due to arrive here from the coast during the day.

The announcement of Ortie McManigal's departure from Los Angeles for this city completes the gathering of the government's forces in building up its case against the alleged conspirators.

Expects Early Indictments.

Mr. Burns declared he would not be surprised if by the end of the week a mass of indictments would be re-

COKE PLANTS TO RUN FULL TIME

Unusual Activity Is Reported Among All the Producers.

Connellsville, Pa., Jan. 2.—Announcement was made today at the offices of the Frick Coke company, the coke subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, that 1,500 additional ovens would be fired during the next few days and all its plants in the region operated six days a week. The Rainey company stated it would have 3,000 ovens in operation within two weeks.

There is also unusual activity among independent producers, the demand for coke being created by improved conditions at the blast furnaces of the Pittsburg district.

Solicitor for the Navy.

Washington, Jan. 2.—President Taft will appoint Harry Miller of Portsmouth, Ohio, to be solicitor for the navy department. Mr. Miller will succeed T. B. Johnson of New York, who was killed by lightning last summer while playing golf on the Chevy Chase links.

Cotton Mills on Full Time.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 2.—On resuming work today after the holiday closing, the eighteen cotton mills controlled by the B. B. & R. Knight company in three states went on a full time schedule. Most of the mills had been on a schedule of forty-eight hours a week for four months or more.

OUTWITS THE GOVERNMENT

Texas Banker Finds Wife in Winnipeg and Secures Deportation.

Cattle King's Son With Mrs. Sneed—Jewel Mystery Involved.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 2.—The story of how J. B. Snead, millionaire banker of Aurillo, Tex., after tracking his wife 1,000 miles and spending $23,000 in a search for her, overcame all obstacles in international diplomacy, was revealed today when announcement was made that his wife and her admirer, Albert G. Boyce of Seattle, son of the cattle king of the Southwest, would be deported from Canada this afternoon as undesirable persons.

According to Boyce, the charge of grand larceny was trumped up to extradite him, and he claims that it could never be proved. This also appears to be the opinion of Snead, who outplayed the authorities in securing Boyce's return.

Where Are Her Jewels?

The Texas authorities, it is said, contended that Boyce persuaded the woman to give him her jewelry, valued at $20,000. The whereabouts of the gems is at present the greatest mystery of the case. The woman had the jewelry when she left Texas, but since then it has disappeared. The husband, upon his arrival here Sunday, procured a search warrant and went through the effects of the pair, housed at a fashionable hotel, but not the slightest trace of the jewels could be found. They consist of a costly collection of diamonds, and both prisoners absolute-

ORDERS ROADS TO ADJUST RATES

Commerce Commission Issues Two Rulings on Long and Short Haul.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Interstate carriers must conform to the long and short haul provision of the law in all instances where their freight tariffs provide for higher rates to intermediate points that are not consuming or producing points of the commodities shipped. General orders were issued by the interstate commerce commission today granting the carriers time until May 1, 1912, to enable them to comply with this requirement.

It was also held today by the commission that where two or more carriers are competing for business at equal rates between two points they should be allowed to continue the competition, despite the long and short haul provision of the law.

This ruling, the commission explains, will enable competing carriers to meet the rates to a particular city or to a freight group made by any other competitor which may initiate a reduction, "although discrimination against intermediate points may thereby be increased."

The commission may change the rates on complaint of intermediate shippers, if they are found to conflict with any other part of the law.

MERCURY DROPS TO 24 BELOW ZERO WITH STIFF GALE BLOWING

COURAGE OF CONVICTIONS

Oscar Underwood Votes and Talks as He Thinks Right.

Sticks to Tariff Reform and Thrusts Aside Other Questions.

By Willis J. Abbot.

Washington, Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar Underwood, Alabama's favorite son, has the courage of his convictions even in the face of a possible nomination for the presidency.

Men said Underwood would make a strong candidate if he did not come from a Southern state. Just as his friends were explaining that he was born in Kentucky, and that the Birmingham iron district of Alabama is Southern only geographically and not by sentiment Underwood placidly voted against the Sherwood pension bill. That did settle it. Not only was he from the South, but he was against the old soldiers—which to a certain sort of politicians is much like saying you are against the force of gravity. Underwood did not seem to heed the tumult his vote had raised but went serenely talking tariff.

Then they said that he was obviously the choice of Wall Street. The same people that began saying this of Underwood had been saying it about Harmon until they discovered that the governor had raised the tax appraisements of Wall Street's railroad properties in Ohio more than $400,000,000, making the Morgan roads alone pay taxes on $150,000,000 more than at the time Harmon went into office. This did not seem to indicate that the governor was such a very supine subject

LAUNDRYMEN IN NEW YORK STRIKE

Gothamites May Be Driven to Wash Their Own Linen.

New York, Jan. 2.—Some 2,000 or more laundry workers went on strike today for increased wages and a nine-hour working day, and the employers say that before they will give in New York will have to wash its own clothes or buy new linen. Employes in fifty steam laundries and hand laundries were affected.

Cold General Throughout the Northwest—Relief Not Yet in Sight.

Plumbers and Coal Dealers Busy—Much Suffering Reported.

At 7 o'clock this morning, the mercury stood at 24 deg. below zero and the wind was making twenty-eight miles an hour.

That's just how cold it was in Duluth. The low temperature would have been sufficient to make the man who had to go two blocks take to a street car and think of the coal bills piling up, but the wind added made it almost unbearable.

Yesterday morning at 7 o'clock the temperature was 17 deg. below zero. The mercury bravely endeavored to overcome opposition and climbed slowly upward, only to be halted at 4 deg. below zero and turned backward. Last night was intensely cold and the mercury continued to drop. During the night a wind came up and early morning pedestrians were forced to face a bitter blast that made the cold most intense. Shortly after 7 o'clock, the wind moderated, but the temperature rose little and the weather man does not look for a temperature higher than 10 deg. below zero today.

The entire Northwest is still in the grip of the cold snap. Tonight the mercury will go down again and tomorrow morning the low temperature will equa lthat of this morning, or may go lower. There is no moderation in sight for a day or so.

Everything was cold this morning.

DANCER SHOOTS SELF IN DENVER

Leaves Note Saying His Business Is Losing Public Favor.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 2.—"The public, in this civilized day, tires of its entertainers, and the effect, occasionally, may be the death of the entertainer," B. P. Backins, a professional clog dancer, said to a friend yesterday. Today he shot himself through his right lung and is dying at a local hospital. His note read:

"Clog dancing is no longer the lucrative occupation that it was once; newer dances have caused a change in the fickle fancy of those who pay dimes and quarters for their amusement."

OSBORN ASKS TAFT AND LA FOLLETTE BOTH TO DROP OUT

QUESTIONS RECORD OF WISCONSIN SENATOR

CHASE S. OSBORN, Governor of Michigan.

CHALLENGES THE RECORD OF SENATOR

Michigan Governor Would Nominate Roosevelt or Beveridge.

Says La Follette Has Eye First to His Own Interests.

Points to Socialism's Growth Under Wisconsin Conditions.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 2. — Governor Chase S. Osborn, in a statement here today, proposed that President Taft and Senator La Follette both would withdraw as presidential candidates in favor of Theodore Roosevelt or ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge.

The governor had prepared a speech to this effect, to be delivered in introducing Senator La Follette here. In view of the senator's missing his train this morning, the governor authorized the use of the spech as a statement of his views. He added:

"As between Taft and La Follette, I am for Taft."

Governor Osborn criticized Senator La Follette as having "taken up those things which might be termed popular that contained the least danger to himself," and frankly said that he did not believe Senator La Follette can be nominated for the presidency, or elected if nominated.

Result of Such Campaigns.

Governor Osborn further said:

"The Senator La Follette style of campaign tends to arouse the passions of the people and make for a condition of public intolerance which is always worse than personal or individual intolerance, because it has so much more might as a force.

"In Senator La Follette's speeches and writings and in this connection let me say that I have taken and enjoyed La Follette's Weekly—and am a subscriber to it now—I do not think he distinguished between honest men

WRECK ON THE M. & I.

Sixteen People Injured When Cars Are Ditched at Farley.

Road Official Says It Was Due to Broken Rail.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Passenger train No. 34 south bound on the Minnesota & International railroad en route from International Falls to Minneapolis was wrecked at Farley, about thirteen miles north of here, about 1 o'clock this morning. The day coach and sleeper left the track and turned over on their sides. Sixteen people are reported injured and have been rushed to a hospital, where it is reported one is dying. Failure to close a switch properly is said to have caused the derailment.

The train was running about two hours late when it struck the Farley switch. The engine, baggage car and smoker passed over the switch, but the front wheels of the day coach left the track, dragging the sleeper, the last car, after it. It is claimed that the temperature of 30 below zero caused the formation of ice and kept the switch from closing properly.

ROB AND STRIP MEN AT BILLIARD HALL

Victims Have to Stay in the Lavatory Until Help Comes.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Thomas Fay and James Devury were held up and robbed in the lavatory of a Randolph street billiard hall by two negroes last night, and then, at the points of revolvers, were forced to disrobe and hand their clothing to the robbers.

"I guess you won't try to follow us now," said one of the robbers as he threw the clothing out of a third floor window. Taking two watches and $30 in money, the negroes escaped.

Fay and Devury stood shivering in the cold lavatory for several minutes before their shouts for assistance were heard by men playing billiards in the adjoining hall.

Devury is an operator in the employ of a private detective agency and had two revolvers in his clothing when the holdup men forced him to strip.

It was ladies' night at the billiard hall and bowling alley, and the presence of a number of women aided the robbers in escaping, as the modesty of the victims of the robbery prevented pursuit.

DREAMLAND PARK IN CHICAGO IS ROBBED.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—After binding the hands and feet of Michael O'Reilly, a night watchman, with rope, and carrying him to a boiler room in the basement, three masked men blew the safe of the Dreamland amusement resort here early today and escaped with about $1,000.

Three hours after the robbery O'Reilly liberated himself and gave the alarm.

EXTEND SEARCH FOR LOST GIRL

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Undaunted by fruitless investigation of misleading clues, in their search for missing Violet Buehler, the police prepared today to extend their efforts to half a dozen states.

Both Inspector Hunt and Capt. O'Brien have many letters in their possession from persons who believe they have seen the missing girl, and in the belief that at least one of these may prove valuable they intend to let none go uninvestigated.

Letters have been received from Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and as far as Utah and North Dakota. It is the intention of the detective department here to ask the police in every city from which letters have been received to make inquiries if there is any foundation for them.

Mrs. Buehler spent yesterday with detectives investigating clews in and about Evanston, in hope of finding her foster daughter, but they proved unavailing.

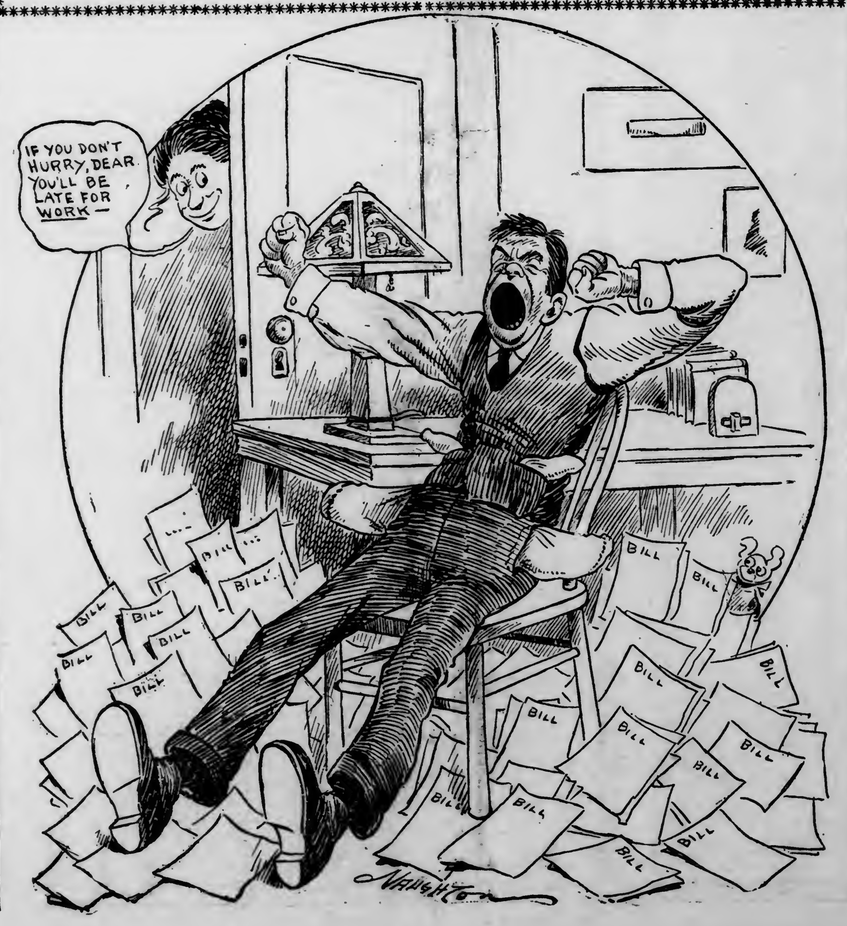

WARDEN SAYS MORSE TRIED TO BRIBE HIM

Head of Federal Prison at Atlanta Accuses the Banker.

Tells of Reporting the Matter to Attorney General.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 2.—Warden W. M. Moyer of the federal penitentiary at Atlanta today made a formal statement declaring that Charles W. Morse, the convicted New York banker, had offered him what he construed to be a bribe, shortly after Morse became a prisoner in the institution. He said he refused it and notified Attorney General Wickersham.

INCREASE IS ANALYZED

Assessor's Figures Show Where Assessments Have Been Raised.

Wholesale Merchants Carry Biggest Share—Railroad Coal on List.

Deputy M. Jacoby of the city assessor's office has prepared a summary of the principal increases which were made at the time of the last personal property assessment.

The biggest increase comes in wholesale merchandise, which was jumped $719,017. The gain in household goods is $114,611; that of retail merchandise, $22,068; on automobiles, $98,778; Duluth Edison company, $106,874; on coal and coal companies, $470,000. The latter is due to the fact that so-called railroad coal on the docks, considered railroad property and therefore exempt, has been placed on the assessment rolls. Lumber shows a nice gain as well as other lines of industries.

Total assessment, personal property, 1911	$11,653,958
Moneys and credits	9,076,000

Under the law passed at the last session of the legislature moneys and credits pay only 3 mills which produces a total tax rate on $735,900 at the regular rate that other property pays. Moneys and credits included in the regular personal property assessment of 1910. For the purpose of comparison the amount of $735,000 must be added to the regular assessor's return for 1911 which will make a total personal property assessment of $12,389,853. The total personal property tax as returned by the state tax commission for 1910 was 10,013,070, increase for 1911 over 1910, $2,376,788.

Household goods, 1911	$1,035,195
Household goods, 1910	920,584
	$ 114 611*
Wholesale merchandise, 1911	$2,000,521
Household merchandise, 1910	1 281,504
	$ 719,017*
Retail merchandise, 1911	$1,008,620
Retail merchandise, 1910	986,551
	$ 22,069*
Automobiles, 1911	$ 241,069
Automobiles, 1910	143,291
	$ 98,778*
Duluth Edison company, 1911	$ 362,930
Duluth Edison company, 1910	196,056
	$ 106,874*
Coal, 1911	$ 537,097
Coal, 1910	98,413†

*—Increase.

The state tax commission figures show $139,340 increase in value of coal over the 1910 assessor's figures, $438,684. Increase over state tax commissioner's figures, 1910, $397,759; 1911 increase in dock equipment, $72,716.

Total increase in assessment of coal companies over 1910, $470,473. The increase in the value for coal over year 1910 is due principally to the assessment on so-called railroad coal which heretofore has never been assessed and which is properly assessable.

Lumber.

Assessor's figures, 1910	406,846

Total amount of assessment as raised and returned by the state board, $587,264; increase over assessor's figures, $551,113. Increase over state board figures, $370,695.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

OBITUARY

Johnson Lawrence, Republican member of the Illinois house of representatives from the Tenth senatorial district and whose name was connected with the investigation of the election of Lorimer and whose vote for Lorimer was carefully analyzed by the senatorial investigating committee, died at his home in Polo, Ill., Jan. 2. Heart trouble caused death.

Capt. John J. Bryce, U. S. N., retired, for many years a resident of San Francisco, died in San Francisco, Jan. 1 of heaert disease. Capt. Bryce who was 68 years old, was born at Newark, Ohio. His service in the navy covered thirty-five years. He retired fifteen years ago.

Mrs. Cynthia Hendrick Quackenbush, widow of the late Rear Admiral Stephensen P. uackenbush, U. S. N., and mother of the late Capt. Stephen M. Quackenbush, U. S. N., died at the residence here of her son-in-law, Rear Admiral Perry Garst, at Annapolis, Md., Jan. 1.

W. W. Taylor, general superintendent of all coal mines for the St. Paul system of railroads for many years, and one of the big mining men of the Northwest, died at Roundup, Mont., of blood poisoning, caused by a carbuncle on the back. The body was shipped to Chicago. Mr. Taylor had a large part in the development of Montana. He was the discoverer of the Roundup coal fields. He was one of the first at the scene of the Cherry, Ill., disaster and took active charge of the rescue work.

PRISONERS RELEASED

Spent Two Months in Jail Awaiting Their Trial.

Complaining Witness Disappeared---Habeas Corpus Proceedings Successful.

Claus Hanson and Hans Peterson were released from the county jail today by Sheriff Meining upon the order of Judge H. B. Dibell of the district court. The men were accused of grand larceny in the second degree.

Habeas corpus proceedings were brought by the attorney for the men and upon showing that they had been in jail since Nov. 1, 1910, without a trial, Judge Dibell ordered them released.

County Attorney John H. Norton appeared at the hearing and stated that after making the complaint, John Relstiff, who claimed that the men had held him up for $27, disappeared.

The hearing was to have been held at the special term of court held last Saturday and the men were not out of jail for New Year's as they had expected to be.

The men were indicted by the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. It was claimed that by force they held up Relstiff and took $27 from him. After making the complaint the county attorney states that the complaining witness left the city and could not again be located.

McCUEN WILL SPEAK TWICE

Republican Candidate for Mayor to Address Two Meetings.

Dr. J. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Young Men's Republican club at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, this evening.

The meeting will be called promptly at 8 o'clock and Dr. McCuen will be the first speaker. Later he will address a meeting of the West End Republican club at Sloan's hall.

The meeting tonight will mark the opening of the municipal campaign. In an interview Mr. McCuen has outlined his platform, standing for a business administration, the leaving of the municipal electric plant proposition to to the voters and the segregation of the red light district. The address at the Young Men's Republican club meeting will be his first speech of the campaign and he is expected to give his views of all questions affecting the city.

Quiet work is being done for Mayor Cullum and the other Democratic candidates. Mayor Cullum announced his platform at the time he announced his candidacy for re-election and he is standing on his record during the three terms he served.

The Socialists will hold nightly meetings this month and will flood the city with literature. On the whole, the campaign will be a sharp one and the interest in the result is intense.

ASSESSMENT CONFIRMED

Board of Public Works Takes Action on Woodland Trunk Sewer.

The board of public works this morning confirmed the advance assessment for the big Woodland trunk sewer extending from approximately the end of the Woodland car line to an outlet in Lake Superior, a distance of about three miles.

The assessment is, with few changes, as at first laid out by the board, all property in the drainage district being taxed for outlet benefits. A few minor corrections have been made and it is expected that others will appear from time to time.

G. G. Hartley, who owns a farm of about 800 acres in that territory, objected strongly to the assessment, maintaining that it is confiscatory and a great setback to the farmers in Duluth, principally along the outskirts of the city limits. He suggested that the assessment might be on the basis of assessed valuation, but the legal department states that this is not possible under the charter.

Unless the assessment is taken to the courts the sewer proceedings are expected to go ahead rapidly and it is believed that the contract will be let and work started this spring. The sewer will be one of the biggest in Duluth.

DULUTH MAN IS ROBBED OF $505

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2. John Hopkins, a stranger in this city, from Duluth, Minn., was robbed of $505 while aboard a Peters avenue car. The money was stolen from his hip pocket during the ride from Canal and South Rampart streets, where he boarded the car, and the union station, his destination. Just before boarding the car, Mr. Hopkins placed the black leather pocket book containing the money in his hip pocket. The car being crowded, he was forced to stand on the rear platform of the conveyance, and while he stood there he was jostled about by the people getting on and off the car. Upon arrival at the station he discovered that his pocketbook containing the money was gone.

Mr. Hopkins is positive that the pocketbook did not accidentally fall out of his pocket. The police are hunting for the thief.

There are three men of this name given in the city directory, but the John Hopkins referred to in the New Orleans dispatch is not one of them. All three are in Duluth at the present time.

Because a man in an Eastern town not long ago wore a pink shirt and a green tie at his wife's funeral, his sanity is now questioned, and his will is in dispute in the courts.

Generally fair weather tonight and Wednesday with temperature 10 deg. to 25 deg. below zero.

MEN

GET CURED

OF BLIGHTING WEAKNESS AND POISONOUS DISEASES

There are thousands of partially and totally wrecked constitutions among men today from ignorance, neglect and indiscretions in early life. Their weakened vitality, shattered nerves, exhausted energies tell a pitiable story. Multitudes have brought upon themselves the horrors of disease and weakness through these causes, which sap the very foundations of manhood, destroying their health and strength, leaving them mental and physical wrecks, clouding the brightest minds and destroying all noble thoughts and aspirations; family circles disrupted and the poisonous fangs reaching out and blighting even succeeding generations.

WE HAVE CURED THOUSANDS of men in Duluth for we have been in practice in this city for over twenty years. Don't make the mistake of going to inexperienced doctors or those which go from one town to another nor to those doctors which treat everything and everybody. They will experiment on you while we have passed this stage many years ago and either cure a man or we tell him that nothing can be done for him if his case is incurable. We have the most modern equipment for curing men's diseases for which we spent more than $5,000. We guarantee to cure you of Stomach Trouble, Catarrh, Lung Trouble, Contagious Blood Poison, Eczema, Pimples, Rupture, Piles, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, Unnatural Discharges, Stricture, Skin Diseases, and all lingering chronic and contagious men's diseases. We give you a written guarantee of a cure. Consultation free from 9 to 8 p. m every day. Sundays 10 to 1. Patients out of town may write for symptom blank if they cannot call.

READY FOR HILL DINNER

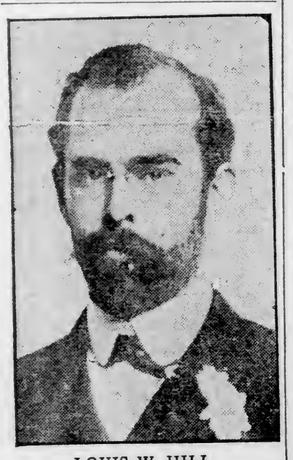

Banquet Promises to Be One of Most Notable Ever Held Here.

Guest of Honor Will Arrive at 2 P. M.—Dinner at 7.

In business and professional circles it is believed that the banquet in honor of Louis W. Hill is going to strike a new boosters' high water mark of civic spirit.

The banquet tomorrow evening, comes at a time when there is a new awakening in business circles. At first the idea of the banquet attracted but little attention. Then business men, professional men and every element that goes to make up the commercial prosperity of the city united to make this banquet one that will mark an epoch in the progress of Duluth.

In business and commercial circles it is believed that the banquet is going to be one of the biggest affairs ever held here. In the honoring of Louis W. Hill the business men of Duluth are giving a testimonial of their appreciation to a man who has done much for Duluth, and who has believed

1912--Embroideries--1912

Good Embroideries at Lowest Figures.

From past experience owing to the gradual cheapening of embroideries bought at so-called bargain sales, women have begun to realize that they are getting but little value for their money. In other words, the practices that have been general throughout the country in the merchandising of embroideries have been far from healthy, and they have resulted in women becoming extremely wary of purchasing embroidery materials advertised as bargains. Not so at this Store of Quality.

It would be impossible to describe all of our new imported 1912 embroideries, as there are thousands of styles and patterns, such as French crepes embroidered in the 45-inch flouncing with bands to match. 45 and 27-inch bands and galloons, and narrow allover embroideries in open patterns for waists. New ruffled flouncings, 27 inches wide, in fine batiste, dainty patterns for infants' dresses.

MANY ARE IN NEED OF COAL

Poor Commissioner Besieged With Requests for Fuel Orders.

Poor Commissioner Charles Shogran was besieged by poor people in need of coal this morning.

The orders came from all over the city. Many called up on the telephone and others visited the office in person, telling pathetic tales of suffering from the cold.

The present cold snap brought more people into the office asking for coal than any other period of cold weather in years past.

In a great many instances whole families had to seek shelter with friends for a time, for the coal companies are busy and all cannot be served at once.

Nearly all who asked for fuel were given orders for it, for the circumstances surrounding each case were well known to Mr. Shogran.

LUMBER BUSINESS IS IMPROVING.

"I should say that the lumber business was getting better," said Mr. Drummond. "From my own personal observation I can see but little real improvement, but the talk of the market generally points to an improvement. The lumber business can be said to be quiet as yet. The iron and steel business is undoubtedly getting better. There has been an improvement shown already and I am of the opinion that the improvement made in this line of industry is going to continue."

SUPERIOR

DOCTOR HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Dr. John G. Barnsdale of Superior with offices at 618 Tower avenue, was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by District Attorney McKay charged with manslaughter. It is claimed that Dr. Barnsdale performed a criminal operation on Elizabeth Carlin, 23 years old, early in November and that the young woman died from the operation, Nov. 28.

Mrs. George Young, keeper of a rooming house at 510 Tower avenue was also arrested as an accomplice and charged with manslaughter. They were both arraigned in municipal court this morning and their bonds fixed for $1,000 each. Their cases will be heard Jan. 12.

The sudden arrest of Dr. Barnsdale is the result of an investigation conducted by Miss Carlin's brother from Belle Plaine, Minn. Last week District Attorney McKay went to Belle Plaine and after exhuming the body and making a careful examination before a committee of prominent physicians, death was announced to be due to the operation performed early in November.

Celebrate Two Weddings.

A wedding and fifty years of married life were celebrated under the same roof yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, 1611 Belknap street, when Mr. and Mrs. Brown celebrated their golden wedding and their youngest daughter, Edith Brooks, was married to Carl B. Richardson of Sandusky, Ohio.

New Rules for Storing Oil.

In the future all gasoline or other explosive liquids or fluids stored in cans must be in receptacles painted red and bearing an inscription labeling the contents. Chief Johnson of the fire department yesterday sent out copies of the new ordinance governing the handling and storing of gasoline and other explosive oils in the operation of dry cleaning houses, garages and moving picture theaters.

Vice President's Rink Wins.

The New Year's curling tournament at the Superior rink yesterday between the Presidents and Vice Presidents ended last evening in the victory of the latter rink, the total score being 169 to 134. The losing team will have to buy the winners a supper some time during the month.

Advertise for Manufactures.

The manufacturers committee of the Superior Commercial club headed by Chairman Charles A. Erhart will start an active campaign within a few weeks to secure manufacturing companies for Superior. It is probable that the committee will conduct a national advertising campaign as was held by Memphis, Tenn., last year as a result of which sixty-five new factories moved to that city.

Belknap Paving Up to Council.

The matter of accepting the Belknap street paving will be brought up to the city council this evening by the board of public works, the latter body having as yet taken no action on the suggestion of City Attorney Tipton that a legal compromise can be made.

The Rev. William Porter Niles, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd at Nashua, N. H., recently submitted to an operation for the transfusion of blood whereby the life of one of his parishioners was probably saved.

RAILROADS

CONGESTION IN TRAFFIC

Conditions in the Canadian Northwest Are Becoming Serious.

Hundreds of Cars Held at Fort William Awaiting Shipment.

Advices received from Winnipeg and the Canadian Head of the Lakes are that the car shortage problem is becoming a serious one and that there is evidence of a serious tie-up in traffic.

Some time ago, W. B. Lanigan, traffic manager for the Canadian Pacific's western business, told the Fort William and Port Arthur grain shippers that the railway could move eastward 200 cars daily.

The actual number of cars moved in one day, is carefully guarded by the railroads, but it is certain that the movement is much less than 200.

Much of the wheat which is now held at Fort William and Port Arthur for shipment to the seaboard cannot be held over until spring without a material depreciation in value and much money will be lost in a tie up.

Yesterday at the Canadian Head of the Lakes there were on track 788 loaded cars, or 850,000 bushels, awaiting movement and the general opinion among the shippers is that the Canadian Pacific has not provided itself with a proper supply of motive power to get the cars out. This is regarded as inexcusable on account of the late season and the well-known fact in railroad circles that much of the wheat would have to be shipped by rail.

The grain trains which run out of Fort William are not the fifty or sixty-car trains of the prairies, but seldom have more than twenty-five cars owing to the heavy grades. To move even 150 cars daily would mean six grain trains out of Fort William daily on a single track, which otherwise carries a heavy passenger traffic and package freight.

The Canadian Northern will not load any more cars until those at Port Arthur already loaded are moved. The company's yardage at Port Arthur is not extensive and the yards are now crowded.

MORE RUMORS OF MERGER

Another Northern Pacific Train Will Use Northwestern Terminals.

Rumor has it that a few more interesting developments may be expected in railroad circles as a result of the reported merger of the Northern Pacific and Northwestern lines.

Late advices from a trustworthy source say that the Vanderbilts now own 51 per cent or a controlling interest of the voting stock of the Northern Pacific. The Northwestern is a Vanderbilt road.

Information from a reliable source has been received in Duluth stating that the Northern Pacific will run another of its coast trains from Chicago to the Pacific over the Northwestern system between Chicago and St. Paul. Just what train will be put in this service, has not been learned, but it is understood that it will be one of the best. The Northern Pacific's banner train is the North Coast Limited and since the middle of last month, this train has used the Northwestern line between Chicago and the Twin Cities.

The Northern Pacific express, N. 3, westbound, and the Atlantic express, No. 4, eastbound, it is said, may be the train which will come in under the new traffic arrangement between the Northwestern and the Northern Pacific. This train leaves Chicago, westbound, daily at 9:15 a. m. and arrives in St. Paul over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy tracks. No. 3 then uses the Northern Pacific lines to the coast.

President W. A. Gardener of the Northwestern at the time the North Coast limited made its initial trip over the C. & N. W. line said that the installation of the through service was not anything that might be considered unusual or extraordinary. "It is a new route for new business. The arrangement is not exclusive; it in no wise interferes with nor alters similar joint service which all the interested lines have maintained for years with other roads not parties to this particular service. The mileage over the new grade line is practically identical with the old, and the service will be maintained on a parity over the two routes. Long distance travel is reluctant to change cars west of Chicago and is always fearful of missing connections, and the inauguration of this through train service is in response to public necessity."

CHRISTMAS TRAFFIC SHOWED AN INCREASE.

Figures which have become available show that a new high record has been set in the number of passengers passing through the Chicago terminal of the Chicago & Northwestern railway during Christmas week, which as far as railroad business is concerned, commences Dec. 18 and ends with midnight, Dec. 24.

During those seven days, the company finds that the total was well above any figure heretofore attained, 347,279 people having either arrived at or left the terminal. The figure includes both suburban and through passengers. Compared with a similar week, a year ago, an increase of 26,775 is shown.

At the same time, 30,190 pieces of baggage were handled, an increase of 4,185 pieces over 1910. The mails were much heavier than in 1910, although no figures are yet available showing the total handled.

QUITS RAILROADING TO PUBLISH MAGAZINE.

Word has been received in Duluth that William Ellis has resigned as commerce counsel of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and will soon begin the publication of a magazine known as the "Searchlight." It will be gotten out at Gray's Lake, Ill. The resignation took effect Jan. 1. Mr. Ellis was succeeded by O. W. Dynes, who has been assistant general solicitor for the company.

PACKAGE FREIGHT SERVICE TO NEW YORK.

Package freight service has been inaugurated between Duluth and the seaboard during the closed season of navigation, the same as last year. Under the present arrangement, the New York Central gives a six-day service from Duluth to New York and the Lehigh Valley a similar service.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT FOR SOO TERMINALS.

G. H. Hammond of Gladstone, Mich., has been appointed to a new position as superintendent of terminals at Duluth and Superior, by the Minneapolis, St Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railroad and will assume his duties some time this week. He will make his headquarters in Superior.

As superintendent of terminals, Mr. Hammond will have charge of the docks, round houses and stations and the making up of all trains.

News Cars Ordered.

It is reported that the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road has placed an order for 500 box and 100 refrigerator cars. It has also been learned that the Rock Island road is preparing specifications for the construction of approximately 3,000 cars.

GIVE SHERIFF DIAMOND PIN

Sheriff John R. Meining was perhaps the most surprised man in the city of Duluth yesterday when all the deputies and members of the office force walked in upon him at his home and presented him with a beautiful diamond pin.

The present was in the nature of a New Year's and birthday gift for Jan. 1 is the anniversary of the sheriff's birth.

Yesterday he was entertaining some friends at home when the deputy sheriffs of the county visited the house together for the purpose of presenting the gift.

Mrs. Meining saw to it that Mr. Meining answered the bell, and he saw the deputies lined up before the door. "Some spark, eh?" smiled the sheriff this morning after a reporter's attention had been directed to the "shine" on the sheriff's shirt front by one of the office men.

WOOD ALCOHOL CAUSE OF DEATHS

Berlin Authorities Criticized for Slowness of Investigation.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—Since the arrest of the wholesale liquor dealer who had been in the habit of disposing of wood alcohol and groceries to the inmates of the municipal night shelter for the homeless, and the confiscation of the adulterated whisky found on his premises, no further poisonings have been reported in the city.

The official total of the dead since Dec. 26, when the first cases occurred at the night shelter, is 72 out of 162 cases reported to the authorities, but these do not include some who have died or been taken sick outside of the municipal institutions. About twenty-six persons still are seriously ill in various hospitals.

The fact that a great proportion of the deaths might have been prevented if the cause of the sickness had been more promptly established has excited much criticism. The authorities in replying to this, assert that both ptomaine and wood alcohol were responsible for the early cases, but these were undoubtedly mostly caused by ptomaine poisoning.

Fishing methods are being revolutionized in the seas around the islands of Japan by the introduction of English steam trawlers. The vessels on trial have resulted in the discovery of new and valuable fishing banks which could not have been fished by the native craft.

What has become of William Collins, who left Duluth about Dec. 22 for the home of his sister at Port Credit, Ont., supplied with a through ticket and enough cash to buy his meals?

Collins was placed in communication with his sister, Mrs. James A. Jennings, through the interest taken in him by Mrs. James B. Neil of 803 West Fourth street. When he appeared at her home to beg she questioned him and learned his past history. She was told by him that he had been a wanderer for thirty years and had not seen any of his relatives in that time.

While here he was without funds, and Mrs. Neil wrote to his sister in Canada. She forwarded a ticket and some cash. Since he left he has not been heard from, having dropped completely from sight again. His sister has again written Chief Troyer, expressing the fear that he may have sold the ticket and spent the proceeds, together with the cash furnished him, for liquor. He was said to have a weakness in that direction and the police think it quite possible that his sister's view of his non-appearance is correct.

R. J. Miethe has written from Georgetown, Ill., asking assistance in locating Henry Howard, 20 years old, about five feet six inches tall, with black hair and gray eyes. Mr. Miethe is his guardian and fears that he may have met with some accident. The last heard of him he wired for money to go home from Grand Forks and it was forwarded to him. After receiving it, it is stated that he and E. B. Harvey, a barber, had started for Duluth.

Occasionally a lodger who comes into the police station tries to "slip something over" on the police in the shape of a bottle of whisky. Liquor is never allowed on the prisoners at any time. Last night a man giving his name as "Mike Johnson" attempted the stunt. But the jailer found the bottle before he had been in the station a minute or two. After which he booked him on a charge of vagrancy instead of letting him sleep as a lodger. This morning Mike Johnson pleaded guilty to the charge and got fifteen days over the hill.

About the only time anything like that may happen is when some woman may conceal a flask in her stocking. It has been known to be done in the absence of the matron but after her arrival the security of the bottle fades away.

A prominent business man and an ex-policeman has a very prominent nose. He also has a small son. The other day the boy coddled up to him while he was lying on the couch, and running his finger over the identifying feature of the face, called to his mother: "Say, ma, wouldn't this make a fine ski jump?"

Jailer Dave Butchard has made excellent progress with his decoration of the cover of the frame for the blotter with fancy cigar bands. It is now one brilliant mass of color with the exception of a small strip at the bottom and that will probably be covered inside of the next day or two. Cigars were "coming good" during the holidays.

WANT DAMAGES FROM RAILROAD

Complainants Allege Duluth & Iron Range Was Responsible for Fires.

Eva Pete asks $6,400 from the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company as damages for the burning of timber on her land in June, 1910. The complaint in the action was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning.

She claims that the company is directly responsible for the fire in that district at a very dry season of the year; that dry material was allowed to accumulate along the track. This she claims was ignited from sparks dropped by the company's engines and spread to her land, burning valuable timber.

John Oro also wants damages from the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company. He wants $1,360 and claims that his boarding house at Know location was destroyed by fire which started near the tracks of the railroad company.

HERE TODAY, GONE TOMORROW

America: In 1901 Vancouver, B. C., had only 27,000 inhabitants. With its suburbs it now has 127,000. But it is at this moment engaged in revising its list of voters. The list under revision contains some 20,000 names, and from it no less than 6,000 are to be removed as no longer resident.

If the last revision occurred three years ago, this means that every year one-tenth of its voters leave Vancouver. As the larger proportion of its floating population cannot consist of voters, this would imply that during the last ten years some 200,000 people have spent some time in Vanvouver, and of them nearly half have declined to settle there.

Some, of course, have gone to other parts of the province, but it seems more than probable that the greater number have crossed the border to the United States. Although the immigrant population of Canada is in a very fluid condition. If this be the case after ten years of apparent prosperity, one can judge what will be its condition if a reaction should set in.

WILL DISCUSS NEW PARK PLANS

Council Committee Holding Meeting With All Citizens Interested.

The council committee on parks is scheduled to meet with the park board and interested citizens at the city hall this afternoon relative to the proposed condemnations for land to add to Fairmont park.

Should it be acquired, it would give the city one of the finest pieces of water frontage on the harbor. The cost and the financial condition of the park board's funds will have to be carefully considered before any positive steps are taken. The light and water committee is scheduled to meet with officials of the Zenith Furnace company, relative to removing the guarantee which has been in force in the past. In lieu thereof the company has stated that it will spend $5,000 a year to increase the gas consumption. The city would make a profit through the increase of the gas business.

In Australia are found the largest birds' nests in the world. They are built by the jungle fowl in great mounds, and their height averages about fifteen feet. They are formed of twigs and sticks like other nests, but they weigh tons in extreme cases.

Mrs. Howard A. Colby of Plainfield, N. J., is said to be the first woman to use colored, photography in the Maine woods. She has photographed a pair of wild moose. They are fine pictures showing the cow and bull moose and one of the bull alone.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

DEATH PLAYS GRIM JOKE

Dies When But Few Miles From Children's Home in Florida.

When death visited Louis Backman, aged 64, of Duluth, on the day before Christmas, he was on a train which was speeding to the South. Backman died in Florida, but a few miles from Dinsmore, where he had relatives, whom he had intended to surprise with a visit on Christmas.

Death ended a career which would read as interesting as a page torn from fiction. He resided in Duluth for twenty-three years. During that time he played a double role—that of a hermit and that of a man about town.

In a broken down, ramshackle, windowless house at Forty-sixth avenue west and Grand avenue, Backman resided for the past four years. The building has an abandoned and forsaken appearance and would make excellent material for a haunted house story.

People out at Oneota, where the house stands, regarded Backman as a sort of a hermit. He was seen to go in and out of the old shack on various occasions by his neighbors with whom he seldom conversed.

In the business center of the West end, Backman was widely known and while not working, he spent most of his time there. Everybody knew who the old gentleman was and he was generally regarded as a "familiar character."

Backman was born in Sweden in 1847. Twenty-nine years ago, he came to this country, landing in New York on July 4, 1882. At that time he was a comparatively young man of ambitions and came West, settling in Minnesota at Rush City. After a year's residence there, he moved to Grantsburg, where he stayed for five years, after which he moved to Duluth.

At Grantsburg, Backman was the proprietor of a machinery store and came to know the farming population for miles around. He was also agent for a steamship company and in that capacity came in contact with many Swedish immigrants, who were coming from or returning to the Old Country.

In Sweden, Backman resided at a place called Sorbeysoken, province of Jentland. This is a farming community. For a number of years, Backman was postmaster there and was also the manager of an insurance company. He owned considerable land and there was only one other taxpayer in the town who paid more taxes than he.

He learned many accomplishments when a boy. At 14, he built a small pipe organ which tested remarkably true. As a mechanic, he was also very handy and at one time he was a photographer.

His wife died twelve years ago and since that time he had been more or less without companions. He lived alone for the past five years and most of the time in the windowless shack at Oneota. Two years ago, his two daughters and one son, who resided in the West end, moved to Florida. He did not accompany them.

His intended visit to Florida this Christmas was for the purpose of spending the yuletide with his children. He left Duluth on Dec. 21. He arrived in Jacksonville, Fla., Sunday morning, Dec. 24. He purchased a ticket for Dinsmore, where his relatives reside. On the train a few miles from Dinsmore, he was suddenly stricken with apoplexy and expired.

From letters and papers found on his person, he was identified and the body taken back to Jacksonville. His relatives at Dinsmore were communicated with and left immediately for Jacksonville to take charge of the body. The funeral was held from Marcus Conanis at Jacksonville, at 10 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 27 and interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

Backman is survived by two daughters, Mrs. O. E. Reppe and Mrs. O. B. Johnson and one son, Werner Backman. All now reside in Dinsmore, but formerly lived in Duluth.

Gustafson Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Selma Gustafson, 33 years old, wife of Claus Gustafson, 505 Garfield avenue, who died Sunday morning at St. Luke's hospital will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. Interment will be in the Park hill cemetery.

ENDS LIFE WITH A GUN

Lies Down on Bed and Discharges Gun With String.

Despondency is said to have been the cause of his rash act. Lund is said to have quit drinking some time ago and to have been in a morose and brooding condition since.

The body was discovered about 9 o'clock last night when his sister and her husband returned from a visit with friends. They had been absent since 2 o'clock. Failing to get a response to their calls when they reached their home, Mr. Strand made an investigation, which resulted in the finding of the body. Lund had discharged a shotgun by means of a string and a piece of wood about a foot long. The left side of the head and part of the brain were blown away. He had killed himself while lying in bed in his room.

Lund had been out of work for the last two months. After the coroner had been notified the body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Olson & Crawford. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

FEAR OLD NAME WILL BE LOST

West End Residents Do Not Want Oneota Street Renamed.

Every old resident in the West end is against the plan to change the name of Oneota street to Superior street, and the West Duluth Commercial club will meet with strenuous opposition if it attempts to do this.

According to the claim of the residents living in the Seventh ward and who remember when Oneota was the only settlement at the Head of the Lakes, the street is the only thing that to them to bring old recollections back. These men are serious in their opposition and were instrumental in getting a postponement of the question in the Commercial club meeting last Friday evening. Alderman Bernard asked the members of the club for the postponement on the grounds that he wanted to interview the residents in the Seventh ward.

"What is the use of changing the name? What good will it accomplish?" is the question asked by the residents. Halifax street, they claim, is the logical extension of Superior street and this street brings the principal street of the city to the western suburbs in a straight line. Open Halifax street, they say, and connect it with Ramsey street and then Superior street would be extended to West Duluth without dropping the old name of Oneota.

Former Alderman Lucien Merritt, one of the oldest residents in Duluth, said yesterday morning: "The little old village of Oneota, where the small band of settlers located in the early fifties, is rapidly being lost in the progress of Duluth. First the old Oneota church was renamed; then the Northern Pacific discontinued its station, and now they want to rename the street, the only thing that carries the name outside of the schoolhouse. If a plausible reason can be shown why the action ought to be taken, it would be a different matter, but I do not think it will ever benefit anyone to have the name changed and the great majority of the older residents are all opposed to it, I am sure."

CHURCHES PROSPERED

West End Congregations Report Good Growth During Past Year.

Are Increasing Membership and Getting Free From Debt.

Fifty-nine new members were received at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, during the past year, according to the report at the annual meeting of the church last evening. During the year the church receipts were $6,658.35 and together with the different societies of the church totalled up to $8,238.50. The record is a praiseworthy one and Rev. J. J. Daniels, pastor of the church, said this morning that he was well pleased with the results.

The contributions of the church during the year were many and among the most important were: $248.60 to the Foreign Home and Missionary society; $417.24 to the anti-saloon cause; and $80.65 to the poor people of the congregation.

Eric Carlson was elected chairman for the coming year and the other officers chosen were as follows: Rev. J. J. Daniels, vice chairman; Emil Nyberg, secretary of finance; Eric Ek, recording secretary; Nels Pearson, treasurer; Emil Björlin, Nels Pearson and Eric H. Salgren, trustees; Gust Hjelm, William Nelson and Charles Ehlstrom, deacons; C. J. Lindahl and L. M. Johnson, elders; Charles Brickson, superintendent of the Sunday school; Gust Hjelm, assistant; Gust Johnson, superintendent of the East End Sunday school, and John Beckman, assistant.

• • •

At the annual meeting of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, held in the church last evening, the reports for the year were read showing a material progress during the year. The membership of the church now totals over 1,000 and the Sunday school has nearly 600 members.

The church has paid nearly all of its debt and has only $3,000 left on the new church. The valuation of the church property is placed at $40,000.

Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of the church, acted as chairman and the following officers were elected for the year; Gust Bergquist, secretary; John Skomars, John Swanson and Victor Palmquist, deacons; O. Hedberg, Edward Nelson and Samuel Anderson, trustees; Miss Lydia Anderson, organist; Herman Olson, choir leader; Gust Miller, Herman Olson and Hans Olseen, auditors; J. W. Olson and B. E. Wellberg, delegates to the meeting of the Augustana Synod of Swedish Lutheran Churches of America, and Olaf Olson and Malcer Peterson, delegates to the Lake Superior district meetings of the Swedish Lutheran churches.

• • •

Over $3,900 was raised during the year for the building fund of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, according to the reports read at the annual meeting held in the church last evening.

Andrew Bergquist and Louis Bergquist were re-elected directors of the church and A. Thoren was re-elected superintendent of the Sunday school. A large purse was presented to Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the church, and to N. E. Ericson, church organist.

WILL PRESENT HIS PLATFORM

Dr. J. A. McCuen Will Talk Before West End Club.

Dr. J. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting to be held this evening at Sloan's hall in the West end.

This evening Dr. McCuen is expected to go into detail relative to the platform upon which he seeks the votes of the voters of the city. He states that if elected he will give Duluth an economical business administration. He says that he will leave the matter of the bond issue to the decision of the people, and that the segregated district will be segregated. A number of other speakers, including Republican candidates for aldermen of the Sixth and Seventh wards, will also address the gathering.

Nelson Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Nelson, wife of Martin Nelson, 1927 Piedmont avenue, who died early Sunday morning after several months' illness, will be held Thursday afternoon from the residence. Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the First Norwegian Lutheran, will officiate and interment will be in the Park Hill cemetery.

Pastor Entertains.

Rev. and Mrs. Milton Fish entertained last evening for the adult members of the church and congregation at a New Year's party at the parsonage, 502 North Twenty-fifth avenue west. The evening was spent in music and games following which refreshments were served. Covers were laid for forty.

West End Briefs.

The stewards of the First Swedish M. E. church will meet at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the church study, Twentieth avenue west and Third street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish M. E. church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Broman, 1913 West Third street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Central Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thomas Feathers, 120 North Twentieth avenue west.

The annual church meeting of the Central Baptist church will be held Friday evening in the church parlors, Twentieth avenue west and First street.

Mrs. Milton Fish entertained the young women of her Sunday school class this afternoon at the parsonage, 502 North Twenty-fifth avenue west.

The Parthenoe Society of the Swedish Mission church will meet at the parsonage, 215 Twenty-first avenue west, Friday evening and hold the annual election of officers.

The Sunday school board of the Grace M. E. church will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Southern, 2931 West Third street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church will meet at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the parsonage, 215 North Twenty-first avenue west.

January WHITE GOODS Sale

—This great sale occasion began this morning with unusual activities. With the store converted into a bower of white loveliness, the buying of dainty white fabrics and garments proved the delight of scores of women—and many men.

—Many were providing sheeting and bedding, others the matchless table napery, many were planning white dresses for spring, or waists for present wear and selecting materials at remarkable savings.

—In the lace and embroidery store feminine interest was at high pitch. Scores of women were in ecstacies of delight over the beautiful embroideries, the exquisite embroidered voiles, shown for the first time, and the countless patterns of pretty laces so attractively arranged for examination —In the Underwear and Corset shops on the third floor great enthusisam prevailed throughout the day. The many dainty garments that exemplify the handiwork of French and Swiss peasant and convent workers and the beautiful tailored muslin-wear that comes from America's foremost sanitary shops brought forth great praise—and many sales. The sale of manufacturers' sample corsets placed economy chances that were availed by thrifty shoppers and the display of new Spring models of various standard makes was of absorbing interest.

—Women who did not attend Tuesday have a treat in store for Wednesday or any day this week. A visit to the Glass Block will prove very informative, interesting and profitable.

NEWFOLDEN ROWDYISM.

Howling Mob Pursues Inquiring Young Man.

Newfolden, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—New Year's revelers, the worse for liquor, created such a disturbance Monday night they aroused the sleeping inhabitants of the town and one young man who asked what was the trouble was pursued and scared nearly out of his wits. No arrests were made.

WOMAN TAKES POISON.

Former Resident of North Dakota Dies in Saskatchewan.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Mattie Calderwood, wife of A. R. Calderwood and former residents of Burlington, committed suicide at Maple Creek, Sask., by taking a dose of poison.

Mrs. Calderwood was 30 years old, and denpondency was the cause of her suicide.

BRIDEGROOM SAYS HE WAS DRUGGED AND MARRIED.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 2.—Alleging that he had been drugged and that he did not know he had been married until shown the certificate, Ellsworth M. Graves announces that he will file suit for annulment of the contract. He says that his wife, Martha Sampson Graves, induced him to go to St. Joseph, Mich., four days ago, and that while he was under the influence of some drug, married him. Graves is 19 years old.

HINES BUYS MILL AT FORT FRANCES.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 2.—The Hines Lumber company has purchased from the Shevlin-Clark company the large new sawmill built at Fort Frances, Ont., last summer, together with four timber berths in the Quito territory on Hunter's island. The deal involves $750,000. The Hines company will move one of its large mills from Visconsin, placing it alongside of the one purchased from the Shevlin-Clark company. The Shevlin-Clark company will build a larger mill further up Rainy river, with a capacity of 500,000 fect per day. It has timber holdings in the Rainy river district to last fifteen years.

What's the Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartic pills or nasty waters, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. E. A. Thelin, Manvel, N. D., and Mrs. Henry Jensen, Granton, Wis., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative and its very mildness and freedom from griping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks generally—people who need a gentle bowel stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

PUBLIC
TAKE NOTICE!

The Globe Co. will soon announce a real clothing sale.

A sale that will prove the wonder of the mercantile world. It will be entirely different from the usual events you read about. It will positively eclipse any sale ever held in the entire Northwest. Our entire stock of wearing apparel for men, young men and boys must be turned into cash quickly—no matter what the loss will be. We simply are forced to raise the cash and necessity knows no law.

Our advice to you is to wait and watch and be prepared for the greatest bargain event in Duluth's history.

OPEN HOUSE AT Y. M. C. A.

Men Under 40 Win Volley Ball Game From Older Opponents.

The Young Men's Christian association held "open house" all day yesterday. Hundreds of visitors were there at various times during the day to enjoy different features of the program, and to look over the institution.

On account of the entertainment that was given in observance of the New Year, the usual Tuesday night "pop" will not take place this evening. Next Tuesday evening, however, the third symphony concert will be given by the Normanna chorus of forty voices and an orchestra of fifty-five pieces.

Any who happened in at any time of the day could tell in a moment that some occasion was being observed on taking notice of the red and green decorations of the reception hall, the unusually large number of people gathered there, and the general air of cordiality that characterized everybody's manner and conversation.

In the morning at 10:30 o'clock an indoor baseball game took place in the gymnasium between the Y. M. C. A and Fitwell teams, the latter winning in a hard-fought contest by a score of 12 to 7.

During the afternoon after 2:30 o'clock, the whole building was open to inspection from top to bottom, and the public had an excellent opportunity of seeing the splendid facilities that are provided to keep the young men in good physical health, as well as to provide for their moral and intellectual instruction.

Probably no event of the entire day excited greater general interest than the volley ball game, which was held in the afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock, between the Over-Forty-Year-Olds and the Under-Forty-Year-Olds. The younger men won out, but they had to work hard for their victory. The first and third sets were won by the younger team by the scores of 21 to 8 and 21 to 20. The older men won the second set by the score of 21 to 18. The teams were as follows:

Over-Forty-Year-Olds—H. W. Coffin, captain; C. F. Coleman, G. H. Ebart, Dr. F. A. Graun, Lane MacGregor, W. C. Winton, L. C. Harris, W. N. Hart and W. O. Pealer.

Under-Forty-Year-Olds—E. E. Hunner, captain; E. A. Schulze, H. N. Westaway, J. O. Shewell, H. B. Detweiler, Thomas Gall, Mark Baldwin and R. G. Mace.

If there was any part of the day's festivities that caused as great enthusiasm as the volley ball game it was the series of aquatic evetns in the swimming pool. A small grand stand, erected in the swimming room at the edge of the pool was crowded with men, women and children, and every foot of standing room along the edge of the pool, where visitors were allowed, was occupied. Those who took part in these events were: William Otto, Frank Willims, Louis Ardowin, Henry George, Dr. Boerner, D. Davis, Joe Wolfan, E. T. Harris, J. D'Arcy and Oscar Meyer. The contests resulted as follows:

Breast stroke, 40 yards—Williams first; Wolfan second; D'Arcy, third.

Diving across—Ardowin, first; Harris, second.

In addition to these contests, the swimmers gave some remarkable exhibitions in fancy diving. The principal performer was Harry L. George, who disrobed while swimming in the water, swam with his hands tied behind him and performed many other remarkable feats.

Another of the afternoon events was the handball game. This was won by William Wendlent, who has been the champion for the last three years.

In the evening the gymnasium was again the scene of entertainment. A basket ball game was won by the high school alumni team over the Cliffords by a score of 51 to 22. A relay race was won by Martin's team over Otto's team by 3 to 2. Axel Lavin did some highly entertaining feats on a slack wire.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

The annual New Year's reception was held at the Boys' Department Y. M. C. A. yesterday, when the whole building was turned over to the boys of the city.

The building was decorated for the occasion, games, fortune telling, a calendar exhibit, phonograph concert, shooting gallery, basket ball and refreshments were served in the Dutch kitchen, which filled in the afternoon. In the evening there was a play entitled "Two Jay Detectives," given by Julius Nolte, Ralph Dunning and J. P. Batchelor. Mr. Batchelor gave several parlor magical stunts assisted by Clinton Johnson and Kenneth Jones.

The program for this afternoon is entitled "Fun In the Pool." A big program of water sports is being carried out.

Tonight the boys from the Neighborhood club and the Bryant club are invited to spend the evening at the club.

The program for tomorrow follows: 10 a. m., fun in the gymnasium, for all members; candy hunt, hang tag, battle ball, three deep, pole climbing, bouncing in blanket, human chariot race, potato race.

2:30 p. m., ski trip.

Knights of Zion Elect.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 2.—The Knights of —on last night, in the final session of a two-day convention, elected the followin~ officers: Max Schulman, Chicago, grand master; B. Horwich, Dr. George Rosenweig of Chicago, Rabbi S. Schienfield, Milwaukee, and Dr. ,. Wolfenstein, Madison, Wis., vice grand masters; B. Perlstein, Chicago, grand recorder; B. Antonow, Chicago, treasurer.

NEW YORK WOMEN EAGER TO SERVE AS DEPUTIES.

New York, Jan. 2.—Sheriff Julius Harburger, who has just taken office, says it looks as though there would be a rush of women to take advantage of his offer to appoint members of the fair sex as special deputy sheriffs. He received an inquiry from Mrs. John S. Crosby, president of the Women's Democratic club, asking how many names of women as candidates for deputies she might submit.

"As many as you like" the sheriff replied. "I believe the innovation will be a good policy and I would like to appoint a large number of widows or other responsible women who are dependent upon themselves for a living. There is great need of such deputies in dance halls and other public places where young women need protection."

The sheriff is permitted to appoint nearly 2,000 deputies. He said he would make the choice of his first women deputies in a few days.

SIXTY BATHE IN THE CONEY ISLAND SURF.

New York, Jan. 2.—More than sixty persons took a New Year's bath in the surf at Coney Island yesterday. The water was only 37 deg. above zero and a cold north wind was blowing, but a number of the hardy ones ventured to swim far out.

SALT LAKE CITY IS UNDER COMMISSION.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 2.—Salt Lake City passed under the commission form of government yesterday when Mayor Samuel C. Park and four commissioners were inducted into office.

TOLEDO COUNCIL PASSES FARE ORDINANCE.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 2.—The Toledo city council, sitting in the first session of the new term, passed a street railway franchise under suspension of the rules, providing for a daily rental of $250 for the operation of cars over streets on which the franchise have expired, and the inauguration of 3-cent fares.

The passage of the ordinance is preliminary to an action on the part of the City of Toledo to enjoin the company from the use of the streets on which the franchises expired Nov. 10, 1910, should the company refuse to comply with the terms of the franchise. The signature of Mayor Brand Whitlock before Jan. 5, will make the franchise operative Jan. 16.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN IS SENT TO ASYLUM.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Miss Catherine Heisdorff of Milwaukee has been committed to the Washington insane asylum for observation. In October Miss Heisdorff was under observation for four days at the asylum, but was released with the understanding that she was to return home. She remained here, however, and is said to have bothered District officials by constantly calling to tell of alleged grievances. The woman gained notoriety about a year ago by bringing sensational charges against Milwaukee officials.

GUNMAN SENTENCED.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Fosty, who was nearly successful in avoiding arrest at Wheelock, by using his revolver on Constable Maloney and who afterwards attempted to best Deputy Sheriff Stanton in a duel on a ranch near there, will spend five years in the state penitentiary. He was sentenced by Judge Fish upon entering a plea of guilty to the charge of shooting an officer.

Edinburg, N. D. Burglaries.

Edinburg, N. D., Jan. 2.—Three burglaries in Edinburg in a single night are reported, but the burglars secured only $70 in cash and a small amount of jewelry.

In the E. N. Gilbertson store entrance was effected through cutting a pane of glass out, while at the Hanson & Co. store they pried a window from its frame. In the latter place the men stole $55, overlooking about $200 more which was contained in the safe that was looted. At the Gilbertson store only $15 rewarded the burglars.

Williston Blindpiggers Arrested.

Williston has been experiencing a general campaign against the alleged violators of the prohibition law

LOTS OF SOFT, WAVY, FLUFFY HAIR AND NO MORE DANDRUFF

Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine and just try this—stops falling hair at once

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair. Ten minutes after applying all the dandruff will disappear, all itching will cease and there will be no more falling hair. Millions of men and women use Knowlton's Danderine and they never have dandruff, itchy scalp or falling hair—they know that it keeps the scalp clean and healthy and makes the hair grow heavy, long and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

CUTICURA SOAP SHAVING STICK For Tender Faced Men

The medicinal and emollient properties of Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick render it indispensable for men who shave twice daily and a necessity for those subject to redness, roughness and other irritations of the skin. No mug, no soggy soap, no germs, no waste, no loss of time or money.

DIRECTIONS.—Dip shaving brush in hot water and with it moisten beard. Rub end of Shaving Stick lightly over moistened surface. Wet brush again in hot water and make rich creamy lather on face, and shave. In Nickeled Box, at stores or by mail, 25c., with a liberal sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and 32-p. Skin Book. Address "Cuticura," Dept. 8H, Boston.

OUTLOOK FOR LUMBER GOOD

Coming Year Expected to Be Much More Active Than 1911.

Brooks-Scanlon Road Will Be Kept Busy With Pulpwood.

While lumbermen report that business conditions are quiet, they do not hesitate in stating that the prospects for the coming year in the lumber industry are excellent and are free in saying that they expect to do more business at better prices in 1912, than in the year just closed.

Cook, O'Brien & Haley, who recently purchased a sawmill at Tower from Alger Smith & Co. of this city, have just purchased a valuable tract of timber through J. L. Norman of Duluth. The timber is tributary to Vermilion lake and the consideration was $70,000.

Robert B. Whiteside of this city, who owns the Calaveras grove of big trees in California, has returned to Duluth from a business trip to Eastern Canada. Mr. Whiteside finds business conditions in Canada good and says that there are indications that reciprocity will be an issue again in that country.

The Brooks-Scanlon road, which draws upon a territory north and west of Duluth expects to haul much timber during the winter months. The Erickson Lumber company of Superior has considerable pulpwood and several thousand ties, cedar, tamarack and birch to get out this year and the hauling will be done by the Brooks-Scanlon people. The ties and pulpwood will be delivered to the road at Cass station.

Martin Miller, who operates a portable sawmill will soon move his plant to Drummond fifty miles north of Duluth on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, where he has a contract for sawing 5,000,000 feet of pine. This contract will probably take two years to complete. The daily capacity of his mill is 15,000 feet.

J. D. O'Connell & Co. who operate out of Duluth and have a yard in this city, have installed a cord wood camp near Cass and will get out a large quantity of birch this winter. It will be shipped to Duluth.

W. D. Williams of Duluth has sublet a contract for the logging and manufacturing of 500,000 feet of pine, tamarack, balsam and spruce to Engreen & Bergland. The timber is located in the Fredenberg township.

THREE PASS EXAMINATION FOR BAYFIELD COUNTY JOB.

Washburn, Wis., Jan. 2.—William Landraint of this city, supervisor of assessments of Bayfield county; A. P. Tomkins, assessor of the city of Ashland, and Charles P. Cameron of Hayward, have successfully passed the examination for the position of income tax assessor and their names have been certified to the state commission by the state civil service commission for appointment to the position of income tax collector of the district comprising the counties of Bayfield, Ashland and Sawyer. An appointment will be made from one of the three successful applicants.

FIRST MURDER OF YEAR CAUSED OVER A DOG.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—The first murder in Chicago in 1912 occurred a few minutes after the whistles ceased blowing welcome to the new year, and was due to a street brawl over a dog.

Raymond Corbett, a chauffeur, was leaving a saloon when a stray dog ran in front of him. Corbett kicked the dog, and a man known to the police as "Archie" took the part of the dog. In the quarrel which resulted "Archie" drew a revolver and shot Corbett in the head. Archie escaped.

We wish you could look into the Campbell butcher-shops.

If you could see the prime fresh meats we use in our soups—big whole quarters of beef and mutton—and how generously we use them, you wouldn't wonder that Campbell's Soups are so strong and full-flavored. And of course the meat "Kinds" also contain plenty of solid juicy meat.

But tasting is even better than seeing. Order half-a-dozen of these nourishing soups. Try one today. Then you'll realize how satisfying they are.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock Company in "The House of 1,000 Candles."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Tomorrow afternoon Gus A. Forbes and the members of his company will appear at the Lyceum in Hall Caine's great masterpiece "The Christian."

This play of English life has not been seen in Duluth for several seasons and the local friends of Miss Corinne Cantwell are looking forward with much pleasure to seeing her in the role of Glory Quayle, the part which launched Viola Allen on her starring career. The part is one that blends humor and deep emotion in a most delightful manner and the play should prove one of the most popular in which the Forbes company have been seen.

Mr. Forbes will play the role of John Storm.

The last performance of "The House of a Thousand Candles" one of the best plays of mystery and adventure seen on the local stage this season will be given tonight. The climax in the third act when old John Glenarm appears as one from the dead, has been received with enthusiasm at every performance this week. "The Christian" will be the bill for the remainedr of the week with Wednesday and Saturday matinees and this play will mark the farewell appearance of Mr. Forbes and his company for early next week he will leave for the East to appear in a several months' engagement in Brooklyn.

Sam Mann, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, spends $4 a day for violins to smash over the head of the stage director in his comedy sketch "The New Leader."

Mr. Mann and his company present a morning rehearsal in a vaudeville theater, Mr. Mann taking the part of the musical director. He has a dispute with the stage manager, and smashes his violin over the latter's head.

THE TWO SISTERS,

The cheapest violin I can get costs $1.50" said Mr. Mann, "and when you figure freight and incidental charges, the cost is about $2. I break two of them a day, so I spend $4 a day for violins. There is no chance of patching them up, for I always aim to break them completely. That's spending $4 a day for one good laugh for an audience."

The special New Year's bill which is being presented at the Empress this week, is meeting with great favor at each performance. From top to bottom, there is not a week spot on the bill and a few of the acts possess extraordinary merit. Les Gougets, in their novelty musical offering, oper the show. This attraction is one of the very few novelty musical turns which really possesses genuine novelty. Following Les Gougets is Phil Bennett, the Alpine Troubador. One would expect to hear a voice like Mr. Bennett's in grand opera, but not in vaudeville. It is of wonderful range and sweetness and it has been months since the patrons of the Empress have heard its equal. Mr. Bennett's repertoire includes several grand opera selections, and in addition, a lullaby or two, which he demonstrates his ability as a yodeler. "The Picture of Dorian Grey," a powerful dramatic playlet written by

PHIL BENNETT,
At the Empress.

Oscar Wilde, is featuring the bill this week. The playlet is faultlessly staged, using a most elaborate setting, and in its lines one can see reflected the peculiar personality of its author. They are most excellently read by a cast of ability. Eugene Powers and Miss Elsie Crescy are seen in the leading roles and it would be hard to improve upon their portrayal of the characters they present. While Russell Randall as the artist, has no such opportunities as his fellow artists, he makes the most of his part. In Sydney Grant, the patrons of the Empress see one of the brightest monologists in vaudeville. This is Mr. Grant's second tour of the circuit and he is being accorded a most hearty welcome. The Bennington Brothers close the show with a finished exhibition of physical culture.

While this city will be fortunate in hearing a number of high-class concert artists within the present amusement season, the event of most general interest to theater patrons is the coming engagement at the Lyceum theater, of the Lambardi Grand Opera company—that superb array of Italian songbirds numbering more than 100 people. Impresario Lambardi, dean of grand opera producers, has this year gathered about him many world-famous singers; provided his distinguished orchestra leader, Signor Fulgenzio Guerrieri, with a large number of selected players and, as another important and very essential feature, the organization carries a large and highly efficient chorus. New and novel scenic effects, magnificent costuming and properties go to round out a most complete and perfectly apointed operatic organization—the best, without question, that Signor Lambardi has ever associated with his name.

Signor Fulgenzio Guerrieri, who will be seen in the chief orchestral chair when the Lambardi forces visit this city, is, according to eminent musical writers, the only director living who conducts all the great operas without the use of the score; neither does he seek the assistance of the baton in presiding over his large orchestra. H directs the operas by simple and graceful movements of the hands and arms, and the effects attained are said to be wonderful from both a musical and artistic standpoint. There are said to be one or two other maestros now before the public known to be able to direct a comparatively few of the operas without the score, such as Toscanini of New York. Signor Guerrieri, however, is such a musical marvel as to be able to have all the big works stored away in his wonderful musical brain.

Signor Guerrieri, while in Italy the past season conducting the Mascagni operas, was knighted by the Italian king for his distinguished services, the sovereign having shown unusual interest in the "scoreless directro." Signor Guerrieri lives in Milan, but comes to America each year to assume his place as director in chief of the large and splendid orchestra furnished him by Impresario Lambardi.

The engagement of the company in this city will begin on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 8, 9 and 10. The subscription sale of seats will be open today and tomorrow after which time the general sale will open. Mail orders will have prompt attention.

NEW YEAR IS WELCOMED

Spalding Hotel Is Scene of Gay and Distinguished Gathering.

With the inspiring effect of music, with lights of myriad colors that appealed to the eye, conversation that wafted back and forth on the gay current of the evening's flow of geniality—all this and the beautiful gowns of women and the flashing of jewelry as they played under the lights; the beautiful decorations that combined with the music and laughter to transform the cafes and big lobby of the Spalding into some fairy-like bower of beauty—all these entered into the spirit of the New Year evening at the Spalding and made the celebration last night by far the best that has ever been held at the popular hostelry.

In the decorations the management of the hotel outdid itself. Running around the spacious lobby was a railing hung with ferns. This gave the entire lobby the effect of a huge bower. This effect was further heightened by the platform hung out over the desk, and festooned with green, upon which sat the musicians.

Special decorations made the palm room a place of beauty in soft hues and delicate shades. The wide doors leading from this room into the lobby were thrown open, and through them poured the flood of music, the sweet singing and the subdued voice of the violin.

Through the Flemish room and out into the grill room the decorator's art was extended. Soft lights were hung over the tables in the Flemish room, shading this room in quiet contrast to the flood of brilliant lights that swept the lobby and made it one big golden flood of light.

Through the long lane of tables promenaded couples, walking from table to table and greeting acquaintances.

The violin in the hands of Miss Wally Heymar helped make the time slip by.

Then the violin would stop and suddenly the feet-twitching strains of "Alexander's Rag Time Band" would burst out on the air. Here and there voices rang out the chorus. Others followed. Suddenly a hundred voices were lifted and the big rooms reverberated with "Come On and Hear."

For the occasion Edwin H. Lee, managing director of the Spalding, engaged Miss Wally Heymar, who brought forth a roar of applause at the conclusion of every beautiful selection she gave on the violin. Miss Alice May Brown's beautiful and rich contralto voice was never better than it was last evening, and it is doubtful if Miss Brown ever sang to a more enthusiastic audience.

Jens Flaaten's twenty-six-piece orchestra also did the honors. Partially hidden away in the bower up over the desk, the strains of music burst forth and flooded the three rooms with the boom of cymbals when "Alexander's Band" was making several hundred feet beat time in sympathy, or exercised a quieting effect when a more classical number was rendered.

Duluth society was well represented. The gathering was one that was a credit to the city and one that paid full appreciation to the event and to the effort the management of the hotel made to please its guests of the evening. Gaiety dominated, but the evening was not one of hilarity. It was an evening of pleasure.

On the prairie lands in the Western provinces of Canada upward of 1,000,000 Americans have settled.

RECTOR NOT APPOINTED

Rev. Dr. Thomas McLean to Be Temporary Pastor of Trinity Cathedral.

Successors to Dr. Milne and Rev. Read Have Not Been Chosen.

Rev. Dr. Thomas McLean, formerly pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal church of Minneapolis, will be temporarily in charge of Trinity pro-cathedral, succeeding Dean Arthur H. Wurtele, who resigned to become rector of Calvary church of Rochester, Minn.

Dr. McLean resigned his Minneapolis pastorate some time ago and has been in charge of a church in Chicago. He will come to Duluth this week and will take charge at the cathedral next Sunday. A permanent rector will not be chosen for two or three months, according to Bishop Morrison.

St. Mark's church is one of the largest Episcopal churches in Minneapolis and Dr. McLean is a clergyman of high standing in his denomination. He has held important charges for several years, has a record as an effective pastor and an eloquent speaker, and he is expected to be very acceptable to the cathedral parisioners.

Successors to Rev. Alexander Milne and Rev. R. S. Read, the other Duluth clergymen, who completed their work here at the end of the year, have not yet been chosen.

It is expected that a committee to communicate with prospective pastors will be appointed by the trustees of Pilgrim Congregational church soon. Sufficient time to survey the field will be taken before a choice is made. Dr. Milne, whose resignation as pastor of Pilgrim church became effective yesterday, will leave Duluth in about two weeks. He will spend the winter in California.

Rev. R. S. Read, who resigned as assistant rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church to take charge of a parish in Milwaukee, will leave Duluth this week. A reception will be held for him at St. Paul's rectory Wednesday evening from 8 to 11 and a general invitation is extended to his friends to call and bid him farewell. No successor to Mr. Read has been chosen.

The Evening Newspaper

Is the Favorite With Advertisers From Coast to Coast.

A canvass of 135 department stores in cities of more than 75,000 population, elicited from 102 the unequivocal opinion that the evening newspaper is a better advertising medium than the newspaper published in the morning. The reason is plain to see.

Six days of every week the morning paper is read by people on their way to their offices, and left in the street car or tossed to one side in the office. The evening paper is carried home. The family reads it. Its contents are likely to be the subject of dinner-table discussion. When her day's household labor is ended, the wife sits down with the evening paper to read the news and search the advertisements for bargains

The morning paper is a sort of a casual caller. The evening paper is a visitor, a friend, counselor and companion. Its influence is far stronger with its readers than the influence of the hastily-scanned morning paper. That is why it produces better results for the advertisers.

The Duluth Herald is the home paper of Duluth and furnishes the retail trade the acme of advertising value, being delivered by carrier every evening into practically every home in Duluth and nearby towns

Every Subscriber a Reader.

Every Reader a Buyer.

GIVES ADVERTISERS A SQUARE DEAL

The Duluth Herald holds a unique place in the Duluth newspaper field in that it is the only daily paper that has never used voting, guessing or premium schemes of any nature to artificially stimulate circulation. The Duluth Herald today leads all Minnesota papers (outside the Twin Cities) by thousands of daily paid subscribers.

Duluth Herald advertisers get the full benefit of a home circulation of a high order---a proven circulation of quality as well as quantity.

GOOD WORK---SUPPORT IT.

Last winter the city council appropriated $1,345.18 for the maintenance of the city "rock pile," where unfortunate men who are willing to work were given temporary employment at a modest wage until permanent places could be found for them.

This year the appeals for employment are so much more numerous that the Associated Charities, which has charge of this work, asks the council to authorize the expenditure of $2,000.

Probably it isn't necessary to suggest to the council that if it finds that this much money is needed, it ought to provide it.

The rock pile serves two purposes, both very useful. It provides employment for needy men at a wage which, while unattractive to men with a chance of other employment, will keep them alive. Also, by issuing a warning that in Duluth men must work to get the help they seek, it keeps away vagrants and idlers who will not work so long as they can get somebody to feed them.

Men on the rock pile are paid $1.20 per day. Their work is not easy, and the privilege is one that is not likely to be abused. Only men who need it, and are willing to work if they are given the chance, will avail themselves of it. It is reported that among the men working on the rock pile are many who have families. That men with families are forced to take work so poorly paid as this should make an appeal to the hearts of the aldermen that will induce then to allow such sums as may be needed to continue this good work through the winter. We haven't a particle of doubt that it will.

A PARCEL POST OBJECT LESSON.

Speaking of the parcels post, this country has just made a new arrangement with Great Britain that ought to stimulate the desire of the people to have better parcels-carrying provisions made by the postoffice department.

Under the new deal a three-pound package can be shipped by post from any point in Great Britain to any American point for 15 pence, or 30 cents. A seven-pound package can be shipped from any point in the British isles to any point in this country for 54 cents, and an eleven-pound package for 78 cents.

But if you, Mr. American Citizen, wish to send a three-pound package a hundredth part of the distance it will cost you 48 cents instead of 30 cents. And if your package weighs more than four pounds you can't mail it at all.

If you have a friend in London, say, who sends you an eleven-pound package by mail, he can ship it for 78 cents. But if you wanted to send such a parcel to Two Harbors you couldn't mail it at all unless you divided it into three separate parcels, none weighing more than four pounds; and then you would have to pay $1.76 instead of 78 cents.

Don't you think it about time that your postoffice department at least put you on the same basis as residents of the countries of Europe and Asia? Don't you think that the principle of the "most favored nation" clause ought to apply to you? Can you think of any good reason why the postoffice should continue doing things for foreigners that it refuses to do for you?

Then demand a complete parcels post system, and write your senators and congressman telling them that you want it.

THE COMMISSION PLAN IN OPERATION—12.

Berkeley, Cal., took up the commission plan in 1909. The reported results are excellent. The meetings of the council are held in the day time, and they are well attended by interested and public-spirited citizens. Administrative matters are more widely discussed on the street than ever before, because they have been taken out of the realm of partisan politics and have become public business. The old time political divisions, which used to distract public attention from public business, have disappeared. Though the city itself is strongly Republican, this year the voters put a Socialist in as mayor.

Doesn't the experience of Berkeley with the commission form of government lend some strength to the conviction that it is something Duluth might well consider for its own use?

THE QUESTION OF CANAL TOLLS.

Congress soon must settle the question of Panama canal tolls. It is estimated that it will cost $3,000,000 a year to operate the canal. The interest on $400,000,000—the estimated cost of the canal—will be $12,000,000 a year, making $15,000,000 in all without provision for a sinking fund.

What shall be done about the canal tolls? Shall the charges be little more than nominal? Shall the fee be fixed with a view to paying operating expenses, interest and providing a sinking fund? Shall a preference be given American vessels in fixing the toll rates?

A treaty stands in the way of giving American vessels lower toll rates than foreign vessels. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850 between the United States and Great Britain provided that any canal built across the isthmus should never be fortified. But when this country got around to the actual work of building the canal, it concluded that it wanted to fortify it, so the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, nullifying the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, was negotiated. This treaty expressly stipulates that the canal shall be open on equal terms and without discrimination to the vessels of all nations.

President Taft's suggestion is that this obstacle might be met by subsidizing American ships to the extent of the tolls they pay at the canal. This suggestion is not quite honest. In the first place, it is an evasion of the terms of the treaty, and stands on an exact parallel with the railroad rebates which this government has prohibited. In the second place, it is likely to be used as a Trojan horse for smuggling in the ship subsidy plan, which the country is against.

Therefore favoritism to American ships cannot be granted except by a dishonest subterfuge which would open the way for a dishonest system of taxing all the people to provide profits for a ship-owning class.

So whatever tolls are charged should be applied alike to the vessels of all nations, ours as well as Great Britain's or Germany's.

The canal is not being built as a direct money-making investment. Interest on the investment, if there is any, will come not through canal tolls but through increased commerce and through the competition of water traffic with rail traffic, tending to bring lower freight rates and cheaper products for the consumer.

And that brings us to another angle of the problem—the attitude and motives of the transcontinental railroads.

If the tolls are too heavy it will discourage commerce from seeking that route. That's exactly what the railroads want, and their influence will be directed in behalf of high tolls. If they could make the tolls prohibitive and the canal worthless, they would do it. Water traffic effects them now, when it must go around Cape Horn to get from seaboard to seaboard. It will affect them very much more when the long leg of the journey, around South America, is eliminated. Their viewpoint is obvious, and their interests so plain that none can mistake them.

If the canal is to serve the nation to any appreciable extent, therefore, aside from the facility it will provide for moving the navy rapidly and easily, the tolls will have to be fairly moderate.

THOSE RESOLUTIONS.

A resolution made and kept is to your forming character as a stone firmly mortared in place is to a building. A resolution made and broken is like taking a stone out of the foundation of a building—it weakens it. Therefore, you should make no resolution that you cannot keep, and you should keep those that you do make. It won't be easy. Probably it will be very hard. But the harder it is the greater your victory if you make it stick, and the greater growth you will gain in character.

A REAL PROTECTIVE MEASURE.

It is somewhat strange to hear that this is the only nation in the world without adequate laws to protect its husbandry from the peril of imported plant scourges.

The fact being true, it is not at all strange to learn that a measure is now before congress, known as the Simmons bill, repairing this neglect. That measure ought to pass.

Because of the nation's failure properly to guard against the importation of infested or diseased plants, it has the San Jose scale, the brown tail moth and other plant infections which are costing it hundreds of millions of dollars annually. The San Jose scale alone costs the country about $10,000,000 a year.

But we haven't got all the plant pests yet. We shall have them all if no steps are taken to guard against their importation.

Those back of the Simmons bill say that it can be made an effective safeguard at a cost of $25,000 annually. If that is true there ought to be no need of argument. The bill ought to pass at this session.

BEATING SOCIALISM.

Socialism was beaten in the Los Angeles city election. But that it wasn't destroyed is clear not only from the fact that the Socialist candidate for mayor got more than 52,000 votes, but from the fact that the "good government" mayor who was elected is taking steps to put in practice a number of planks in the Socialist platform.

The beating the Socialists got wasn't so bad as it was first reported. Harriman got 40 per cent of the total vote, and he received a majority of the male votes cast. The women beat him. A change of 6 per cent in the vote would have elected him, and unquestionably the McNamara confession, which was timed for that purpose, changed enough votes to swing the election.

That the victors still regard Socialism as ominous in Los Angeles is made clear by the activities of the victorious administration. Mayor Alexander has named a Socialist as the third member of the municipal newspaper commission, which the voters provided for at the election. Also, the administration is planning a program for the pleasure of the people that is distinctly Socialistic. There is talk of a municipal auditorium, of a municipal band, of a municipal orchestra and of a municipal moving picture show.

The Herald quoted, not long ago, the sage opinion of an unknown Kansan that the "only way to beat the Socialists is to beat 'em to it." Los Angeles, evidently, has heard of this counsel and is acting upon it.

RIGHTS OF WIVES UPHELD.

Residents of Minnesota will be interested in a recent decision of the supreme court of the United States upholding a Massachusetts law requiring the consent of the wife before a married man can assign his wages.

The Minnesota legislature last winter passed a law, which is now in effect in this state, in terms almost identical with those of the law which the supreme court has refused to declare unconstitutional.

There may be women in Minnesota who do not know about this law, but who may have occasion to have recourse to it. Therefore it will be worth while to explain it.

Chapter 308 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1911 contains the following language: "No assignment of, or order for, wages to be earned in the future to secure a loan of less than two hundred dollars shall be valid against an employer of the person making said assignment or order until said assignment or order is accepted in writing by the employer, and said assignment or order and the aceptance of the same have been filed and recorded with the clerk of the city or town where the party making said assignment or order resides, if a resident of this state, or in which he is employed if not such a resident. No such assignment of, or order for, wages to be earned in the future shall be valid when made by a married man, unless the written consent of his wife to the making of such assignment or order is attached thereto."

Under this law no man can assign his wages as security for a debt unless his employer consents to the assignment, and the assignment and the employer's consent thereto are recorded in the city clerk's office; and in the case of a married man the wife's consent to the assignment must also be filed. Otherwise the assignment is void and of no effect.

This is a wholesome law, and will protect the wives of improvident men against unjustified disposal of their unearned wages.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. THANKS FROM THE SOCIALISTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Herald has shown a disposition to be fair to the Socialists of Duluth in the present municipal campaign, and I believe I voice the sentiment of the majority of the members of that party when I make the above statement.

The editorial entitled "A Noble Discontent," which appeared in Saturday evening's issue, together with the half-page article introducing the Public Ownership party's candidates cinch the matter.

As was said in the editorial above mentioned, the Socialists are not teaching classconsciousness; they are merely calling attention to the class struggle which is becoming more and more apparent every day. A few years ago we were considered dreamers, yet there are men outside our ranks who harbor the same dreams, but who hesitate to call themselves Socialists.

No man could have been persecuted and ridiculed more than was Abraham Lincoln. His political enemies stopped at nothing, yet Lincoln did not so much preach abolition as he called attention to the condition that would in a short time face the country if the evil was not remedied.

The Socialist party as a political party will continue to grow, and the fact that the Republican party or Democratic party played an important part in the abolition of chattel slavery is no argument with us when those parties refuse to take cognizance of the industrial slavery of today.

Again Mr. Editor, let us thank you for the editorial. And may we not send you an application card?

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP AND "BUSINESS BASIS."

To the Editor of The Herald:

The "taxpayer" who is afraid of having to pay more taxes if Duluth should decide to operate its electric light and power plant complains that since the city is not now run on a business basis and is apparently incapable of running its affairs on such a basis should not undertake to handle a lighting plant.

Since the people of Duluth gave the franchise and furnished a market for a public necessity, why should they pay interest on stocks and bonds issued on the strength of something that they, the people of Duluth, have created themselves. There is no more sense in giving a monopoly on the service of a natural commodity to a few than there is in giving a deed for Lake Superior to J. D. Rockefeller or anyone else. The public makes the market, then the public should serve its own market.

The fact that the city is not now run on a business basis seems peculiar, since, our elected city officials from the mayor down are professional or business men. The council being composed of small business men listens and is influenced by the wishes of the big business men whom I have seen and heard talking before the council.

If the present government by business men can not be run on a business basis, could they do it any better by the commission plan which is on a business basis?

And if our present methods of city government by professional and business men is objectional, whose fault is it? Why, yours Mr. Voter and Mr. Taxpayer. You vote for a man in business who is a good fellow or because he has lived a lifetime or so in his ward or because you believe in a "business basis" by business men and what do you get for your vote, just what it is worth, a few bum cigars or a few beers.

Now, Mr. Taxpayer, if you don't like our present business man method try out the ticket of the third party in Duluth, which has placed nine wage earners upon the city ballot.

"Oh, but those fellows don't know how to run a city, they don't know anything."

What? How much did the present element in power know when they started in? Have they shown any signs of excessive talent and ability in administering municipal affairs? Can anyone learn to swim without getting into the water?

Nothing does a "business basis" more good than to get a dressing down from a working man with the backbone to do it.

Duluth will not have a spasm and fall off the hill into the lake if a few Socialists are elected next month. Duluth will go on forever. Parties and men come and go but the city will endure for always.

Get some new thought and new ideas, new ethics, new morality and new points of men into your city organization, try it, Mr. Taxpayer; try it and remember this, that the "hollering" about taxes comes mostly from those who are best able to bear such burdens. Get the fear of future possibilities out of your heart and try out the new party.

Sectarianism Not Confined to Religion.

Harry Emerson Fosdick in the Atlantic: While the church may well be ashamed of her petty schisms she need not be discouraged as though she faced a problem peculiar to herself. Are not the bristling boundaries of European states, horridly ready for war, the world's gigantic specimen of sectarian folly? The anatomy of the soul is infinitely delicate, its healing how mysterious! Surely the body will offer clearer ground for agreement, and ministries to its good health need not bear party names. But what with allopathy, homoeopathy, osteopathy; what with schools of health from vegeterianism to Fletcherizing, and quacks innumerable, one finds it difficult to see how medical sectarianism could be carried much further. In one of our unusually intelligent communities many prominent citizens have been endeavoring for years to persuade allopaths and homoeopaths to use the same hospital. Denominational loyalty in medicine here also has proved too strong; two hospitals are now required. "If the Presbyterians want a new church," wrote one of the allopaths, "they do not ask the Baptists to violate their convictions!" So do medical and theological sectarianism manifest allike the same elemental human strut. Indeed, when good, round, controversial language is desired, let a man no longer listen to a Christian talking of his brethren in another fold. We are as meek as lambs; in a score of co-operations we stick closer than brothers. But let him listen to one school of medicine talking of another, when united enterprise is anyhow suggested. One can imagine that the days may come when a father shall speak thus to his son: "The phrase 'Theologicum odium,' my boy, refers to the hatred that used to be aroused in religious controversy, and is best illustrated in our times by the way the allopaths regard the homoeopaths!"

A Pathetic Apology.

World's Work: Mr. Taft's interview that appeared in the Outlook, explanatory of his work and purposes as president, had the tone of an apology. His amiable personal qualities showed in it, as in everything that he does or says. But there was the tone not only of apology but even of a sort of helplessness. The very illusion of leadership was stripped away in a perfectly commonplace explanation that somehow seemed to do offense to the great office. Nothing to stir the imagination, nothing to rally men—one can hardly help wishing that the president had not made such an explanation.

Mathematically.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

The Press of the Interests.

Breckenridge Telegram: That the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, the Minneapolis Journal and the Duluth News Tribune are strongly in favor of Governor Eberhart as the next governor and equally strong against Sam Y. Gordon has been demonstrated by recent events. As these papers all represent the "interests" of course no other course was open to them.

Can They Do It?

Fairmont Sentinel: Lieutenant Governor Gordon has evidently become dangerous to the Republican machine, from the efforts made by Ed Smith and his literary helpers who are working over time to discredit Mr. Gordon.

S. Y. G. Still Strong.

Pine River Sentinel: The extra session episode did not harm S. Y. G. any, regardless of what some fellows, who hoped it might, have to say about the matter. And what's more it didn't help Governor Eberhart any either.

Horrid Thought.

Nashwauk Herald: Eberhart has returned from his Eastern trip and after he has taken a brief rest will probably tour the Western states along the Pacific coast. It will then be in order for Minnesota's advertiser to take a journey to the old world and advertise Minnesota there during the balance of his term.

Wanted—A Man.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: According to the views of some, Sam Gordon lost considerable political strength when he attempted to call a special session of the legislature during the absence of Governor Eberhart. Whether or not it was a good political move carries no significance to us, but convinces more than ever that Sam Y. Gordon is a man. Men with a moral stamina are needed today to put free government by the people on the basis which it was intended by the formers of the Constitution.

A Good Prophet.

Detroit Record: Moyle Edwards, Sixtieth District representative from Wilkin county, is quoted by the Fergus Falls Journal as saying that Governor A. O. Eberhart can never be renominated or, if renominated, cannot be elected. The question now resolves itself into the accuracy of Mr. Edwards' prophecy.

Gordon Still Has Prestige.

Mora Times: After all the fuss about Lieutenant Governor Gordon considering the advisability of calling an extra session during Governor Eberhart's absence, and the effort on the part of the Twin City press to belittle Gordon for suggesting such a procedure, Gordon seems to have lost no prestige among those who have heretofore been friendly to him. The statement that the special session incident has eliminated Gordon as a possible candidate for governor comes from those with whom the wish is father to the thought.

It Will Not Work.

Foley Independent: Some of the politicians are trying to creat trouble for Lieutenant Gordon. The Gordon boom can not be checked very easily and his enemies are awakened to this fact a little too late. Their scheme to discredit him will not work.

The Science of Political Corruption.

Peter McArthur in the Forum: A study of political corruption reveals the fact that however much local conditions may vary a few simple principles are involved, and perhaps if these were properly understood it would be easier to find and apply remedies. These principles are almost axiomatic in their simplicity, and for that reason they are seldom considered worthy dwelling on by writers who are excited by the specific cases to which they are giving attention. All who are engaged in practical politics understand them and apply them in their work; but it is surprising to find how ignorant the average voter is of the means by which his political activities are rendered absurd or made to have the opposite effect from that intended. One does not need to probe very deeply to find that the vast majority of the voters of the country are honest. They also know that the vast majority of their neighbors are honest and are, consequently, bewildered to find how helpless they are in trying to effect reforms. They know they are cheated and defeated at every election, and yet they do not see that the responsibility rests at their own doors. It never seems to dawn on them that the honest partisan is the greatest asset of the political corruptionist. It is because the majority can be handled without being bought that it is so easy to swing an election. The greater the number of honest partisans the easier it is for the corruptionist to attain his ends.

No matter how amazing may be the corruption which is revealed by the muckraker or a court of investigation, it will be found that it all springs from the east with which the balance of power can be secured when two parties contend. Careful investigators and practical politicians agree in placing the corruptable vote of the country at 2 per cent of the whole. But as things have developed it would be better to say that under normal conditions of party warfare it would be necessary to corrupt only 2 per cent to swing a general election. Of course, in the constituencies on the firing line, the percentage would be much greater, but the percentage is lowered at once when we add the many constituencies that are party strongholds, and where corruption is unnecessary.

Modern Methods of Making Money.

Cornelia A. P. Comer in the Atlantic: A great share of the new-made wealth now depends, almost as largely as in the days of the robber-barons, upon lack of scruple, the abuse of the strong hand, the ability to hold people up. I do not here refer so much to the misuse of corporate power for undue aggrandizement (much as that has affected individual standards of honesty) as to the code of the average business man all over these United States. And, unfortunately, the general lowering of tone has influenced even the learned professions, which were once, and should be still, the strongholds of a better spirit. Ask your family doctor and your family lawyer, if you are so happy as to be ministered to in these capacities by men of the old type, for the truth about the business morale of their respective professions at large today. If they are willing to answer you at all, they will tell you stories of greed, graft, and oppression that, somehow, seem more brutal and depressing than similar stories from the world of business—for the business man takes no vow to deal justly, subscribes to nothing like the immemorial oath of the medical profession.

Why School Teachers Age Rapidly.

Woman's Home Companion: Many people wonder why school teachers age so rapidly. The following are some excerpts from the harvest one pedagogue reaped from her sowing, and which will, in a measure, explain her despair:

"Whenever a knight started out on an errant, he was called a knight errant."

"Geology treats of the interior of the earth and the exterior of the earth and the historical events of its future."

"The divisions of geology are structional, dramatical and hysterical."

"Oliver Wendell Holmes was a man of good ideas, a few of which are exposed in his works."

Entertained By Park Pointers.

Gee whiz! Old Captain Bliz
Is here today from Grand Marais
And he's brought his night robe with him.
He says: "I'm going to stay
Until I've had my say,

Our answer: "Go it, old boy;
We wish you joy.
You'll find us all immune.
You may pinch my toes,
And tweak our nose,
But we'll send you home—next June."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

•••At the annual meeting of the First Baptist church, H. H. Hanford and Z. D. Scott were re-elected trustees. Rev. George H. MacClelland read a review of the year's work, which was encouraging, and said it was absolutely necessary to build a new church home. It is likely a move in this direction will be made during the present year.

•••Collector of Customs Johnson today made public his annual report. It shows that the port of Duluth has handled in the season of navigation about 3,000,000 tons of freight. This, with the freight handled at Superior, makes a total business by lake for the year of about 4,300,000 tons.

•••Walter Thexton, assistant cashier of the Manufacturers Bank at West Duluth, has returned from St. Thomas, N. D., where he visited his parents.

•••Dr. J. Tracy of Blair, Neb., proposes to establish at Duluth or Superior a branch of his gold cure for drunkenness. Dr. Slaughter of Superior, brother of Dr. Slaughter of Duluth has started a similar business across the bay.

•••Former Judge Wheeler of the Vermillion Indian reservation, has a large moose which he is now training to pull a sled. The animal is tame, having been caught when very young.

•••Conductor Ed Diegle of the St. Paul & Duluth Short line left last night for a visit to Jacksonville, Fla. They started a month ago, but owing to Mrs. Diegle's health were compelled to return.

•••Miss C. E. Brooke and Lawrence Cormack were married on Dec. 31 at the residence of the bride's sister Mrs. M. Douglas, 509 West Fourth street, Rev. W. M. Barker officiating. Mr. Cormack is railway telegrapher for the Northern Pacific here.

•••The wedding of Prof. A. J. Hogan of the Nelson Dewey school at Superior and Miss Eva L. Gillman of Battle Creek, Mich., is announced to take place on Jan. 7. Miss Gillman visited friends in Duluth several weeks last summer and is well known here.

•••J. W. Earl and family have returned from a two weeks' visit at their old home at Fergus Falls.

•••George F. Cook of the News hopes to go to Russia with the relief committee. Secretary Thompson of the chamber of commerce has recommended him for the position.

•••The United States Loan & Investment company has been organized with the following officers: James H. Law, West Superior, president; A. T. Scherer, Minneapolis, vice president; Thomas E. Burke, West Superior, treasurer; John C. Eden, Duluth, secretary.

•••Oscar Erickson of West Duluth started today for Norway, where he will visit his parents.

GERMANY'S COMING ELECTION.

Hamilton Davis in the Boston Transcript: Jan. 12 will be the greatest day in German history since the war of 1870. The ultimate results of the national election to be held on that day will exert such an influence on trans-Atlantic commerce and industry, and likewise upon international relations, that students of politics ought to follow it with close attention. It has been called "the be-or-not-to-be election," inasmuch as upon its issue depends the continued existence of all the political and economical institutions which in the eyes of the outside world are modern Germany.

The present reichstag, twelfth since the union of Germany, expires in February, five years after its election in 1907. It will be dissolved a few weeks before. The new retichstag will be elected, like all others, on equal, free, universal and secret suffrage. Every male over 25 has a right to vote. All votes are of equal value. In theory at least there is complete freedom of choice of candidates. The elector delivers at the polling booth, which is presided over by honorary officials, his ticket, which must be on white paper. The ticket is delivered sealed, and in an envelope, and is thereupon deposited in a voting urn.

To be successful a candidate must poll more than half the total votes cast. This does not always happen, as there are usually three or more candidates. Failing such an absolute majority, a "stichwahl," or second election, is held a fortnight later between the two candidates with the most votes. The other excluded candidates usually transfer their votes to the party nearest to them. Thus a typical German election would be:

First Election.

Meyer (center party), 3,575 votes.
Schmidt (National-Liberal), 3,210 votes.
Henckel (Freisinn), 1,744 votes.

In the "stichwahl," Henckel would be excluded, and would probably give his votes to the National-Liberal candidate, so that the election (presumably) that the same number exactly voted) would probably be:

Schmidt, 4,984 votes.
Meyer, 3,575 votes.

A German election thus is seldom decided according to the preponderance of one of the five great reichstag parties. It is decided on the basis of tactical and often temporary combinations; and the strongest party in a constituency, when it cannot command allies, is often beaten by a considerably weaker party.

The five great parties in the reichstag are the Conservative, the Center (clerical and Catholic), the National-Liberal the Freisinn (radical), and the Social Democrats. The election now being fought is, put roughly, between the first two in combination, and the last three, more or less in agreement. The Conservative-Center party is the famous "blue-black block," on which Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg relies for a reichstag majority. The three opposition parties do not form a coalition, although attempts have been made to induce them to. The famous publicist, Friedrich Naumann, invented the phrase "from Bassermann to Bebel," meaning that the National-Liberals with Basserman as chief should (via the intermdiate freisinn) join the Socialists under August Bebel. The Liberals and Freisinn and the Freisinn and Socialists have certain agreements about not splitting forces in doubtful electoral "stichwahlen." But the three parties remain independent of one another, and are united only in their common ambition to overthrow the "blue-black block."

The reichstag elections of 1907 gave the five parties the following strength: Conservatives, 112; Center, 104; National-Liberal, 56; Freisinn, 50; Socialists, 43. The thirty-two other reichstag members are Poles, Hanoverians, Bavarian peasant party men and non-party men.

The "blue-black (Conservative-Center) block" has not always been governmental. In 1906, Chancellor Buelow quarrelled with the Center because it refused to vote the colonial estimates. The Center went into the opposition, while the Conservatives remained governmental. To replace the Center and give him the necessary majority, Buelow formed a Conservative-Liberal alliance, known as "the Buelow block." This coalition lasted until midsummer, 1909. It was born weak, because there are essential differences between Conservatives and Liberals, representing as they do the country and the towns. The new block collapsed in 1909, because Buelow insisted upon death duties, while the Conservatives rejected them. The Conservatives won, the death duties were abandoned, Buelow fell, and the angry National-Liberals went into opposition. As the Conservatives alone were too weak the new chancellor, Bethmann-Hoolweg, had to seek a majority, and he got one by taking the Center back as his allies. Hence, the Conservative-Center "blue-black block" was revived as a government coalition, while Liberals, Freisinn and Socialists have since been the opposition parties.

The voting at the last general election gives a correct idea of the real strength of the parties in the empire:

Conservatives	2,050,000
Center	2,145,000
National-Liberals	1,716,000
Freisinn	1,311,000
Socialists	3,259,000
Minor parties (Poles, etc)	745,000

The reichstag membership does not correspond to this voting, the Socialists with more votes than the Conservatives having less than half the number of members. The fact is due to the unequal distribution of electoral districts. The seats are apportioned as in 1871; but since 1871 the population has grown enormously and unequally. It has grown most in the towns and the industrial west, where the Socialists are strong; and least in the country, particularly in the agricultural east (the kingdom of East-Elbia), where the feudal Conservatives are lords and masters. But the west has got no increased number of reichstag members. If the Socialist membership was increased in proportion to Socialist votes then the party in 1907 would have won about 170 reichstag seats, whereas it won won only 43.

The difference in the size of German constituencies is amazing. The district Teltow-Besskow-Charlottenburg with 248,100 voters, and the district Schaumburg-Lippe with 9,891, have each one representative. Berlin with 493,457 voters has six reichstag representatives, whereas the province of East Prussia, with 402,495 voters has no less than seventeen. The main fact about every German election is that the Conservatives are enormously favored by the present distribution of seats; and that the leading part which they play in the reichstag (the speaker is a Conservative) is not justified by the number of their followers.

Nebuchadnezzar.

You, Nebuchadnezzar, whoa, sah
Whar is you tryin' to go, sah?
I'd hab you for to know, sah,
I'a a holdin' ob de lines.
You better stop dat prancin';
But I'll bet my yeah's advancin'
Dat I'll cure you ob yo' shines.

Look heah, mule! Better min' out;
Fus' t'ing you know you'll fin' out
How quick I'll wear dis line out
On your ugly, stubbo'n back.
You needn't try to steal up
An' lif' dat precious heel up;
You's got to mine dis tel' up,
You has, sah, fur a fac'.

Dar, dat's de way to do it!
He's coming right down to it;
Jes' watch him plowin' troo it!
Dis nigger ain't no fool.
Some folks dey would 'a' beat him;
Now, dat would only heat him—
I know jes' how to treat him;
You mus' reason wid a mule.

If he wuz only bigger
He'd fotch a mighty figger,
He would, I tell you, Yes, sah!
See how he keeps a-clickin'!
He's gentle as a chickin,
An' nebber thinks o' kickin,
Whoa dah! Nebuchadnezzar!

Is dis heah me, or not me?
Or is de debble got me?
Wuz dat a cannon shot me?
Hab I laid heah more'n a week?
Dat mule do kick amazin'!
De beast wuzz spilled in raisin—
But now I 'spect he's grazin'
On de oder side de creek.

Not Towser.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "How cold your nose is!"

These words came from the daughter of the house, who was sitting in the parlor with her beau.

"No, mother; Towser isn't in the parlor."

And then silence resumed its reign.

PRISON LABOR IS TO BE OPPOSED

Wisconsin Union Men Meet in Session at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—A protest against the state board of control for the renewal of the prison labor contract which includes principally knitted goods articles manufactured by the prisoners at Waupun, is one of the propositions expected to come before the semi-annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor which opened today.

The organization of a streetcar men's union is another question scheduled for consideration.

The sun came up shortly after 7 o'clock and was seen as a dull red ball visible through the banks of vapor that hung over the lake. The feeble rays were frozen before they reached the earth and their light seemed dimmed. Useless to struggle against the cold, the sunlight was as cold as the air.

Horses, wagons, street cars and pedestrians were covered with frost. The prudent man kept his hands away from iron. The sidewalks snapped at each footfall. Many who ventured to walk a few blocks wound up with frost-bitten ears and noses. Dwellers in frame houses heard the snap of breaking nails all night. The wind rattled the storm windows and the air that came through hitherto undetected chinks around the sashes was as a breath from the north pole. It was the very superlative of cold.

Plumbers Busy.

The man whose furnace went down last night was in despair. Many homes were thrown into confusion this morning by bursted water pipes, and plumbers were busy. The coal companies were rushed with orders, for people who had what they thought was a sufficient supply of fuel, found it exhausted by the extreme cold yesterday and the day before.

Suffering among the poor was general. People living in old, poorly built frame houses found it impossible to keep the rooms warm. The wind seemed to penetrate through the walls. There was a general call on the poor commission and the Associated Charities for fuel and clothing. The police station was crowded last night with lodgers, who were early driven from the street or from reposing places that they found too cold under the abnormal conditions.

Duluth is not alone in its suffering. All over the Northwest, people are undergoing the same experiences. From far up in Northwestern Canada, the cold wave has spread out like a fan and some cities to the south of Duluth are writhing under an unprecedented assault of winter.

Minnedosa, with 36 deg. below zero, was the coldest spot on the map. Grand Forks reported 32 deg. below, Moorhead 28 deg below, and St. Paul 18 deg. below zero.

Green Bay Cools Off.

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 2.—The coldest weather of the winter was registered here this morning when the thermometer dropped to 12 deg. below zero. At Depere the mercury went to 10 below.

"It's Cool in Crookston."

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The government themometer registered 32 deg. below zero this morning. Trains are about on time. There is no wind and the cold is not felt severely. It is the lowest registered in twenty-five years. Twenty-nine deg. below was the lowest last winter, on Jan. 16. The coldest heretofore this winter was 20 deg. below, on Nov. 15.

Government Dam 44 Below.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cold weather records were shattered for this locality last night and early this morning. The official government thermometer at Government Dam on Lake Pokegama, near here, reported a temperature of 44 deg. below zero early this morning. At 6 a. m. it was 42 deg. below zero and grew warmer as the day advanced but the day promises to be unusually cold throughout. There is little wind.

of Wall Street influence, so the political marplots in the Democratic party who think no man progressive save themselves, shifted the indictment to Underwood.

Talked Tariff Reform.

The Democratic leader in the house came back to Washington the other day refreshed after a holiday season spent down in Alabama. The reporters were waiting for him. They wanted his views on the proposed investigation of the money trust. That chief of all money devils is looming large in the eyes of capitol statesmen just now. A money trust to the man who hasn't any looks even worse than Standard Oil to one who does not own any of its stock. So the reporters expected to get a ferocious battle cry from Underwood. Instead they listened to a disquisition on tariff reform.

"Money trust," said Underwood in effect, "I don't know anything about a money trust. There wasn't anything about it in the Democratic platform or even in the president's message. Wait till it gets before congress and then we can discuss it. But this tariff matter is right with us now. We are pledged to reduce duties. Our Democratic majority was elected on that issue. Even the Republican president admits the need of action. We applaud his admission and will take action—in our way, not his. He has sent the house a report of his commission on wool, that would take any print shop, except Uncle Sam's, a year to get into type. It will take us devoted members of the ways and means committee weeks to read it. Meantime we will lightly toss to congress the Democratic schedule on iron and steel for discussion. The $25,000 spent on my friend Stanley's steel trust committee ought to bear fruit in that debate."

Thus Underwood in effect, though not in literal words. The Democratic leader expresses himself with more dignity, and humor does not bubble within him. At any rate he thrust the money trust matter aside as irrelevant, and, remarking that he desired no social calls for several days, shut himself up in the ways and means committee room to study the tariff.

How Is It for Underwood?

Now that's all very well for the party, but how is it for Underwood? Experts in political strategy agree that the strongest issue for the Democrats to make their 1912 fight on is the tariff. Everybody is against the tariff except Joe Cannon, just as week ago everybody in the house was against Russia except a lone New Yorker of the obscure name of Malby. But all the same that dreaded Wall street demon does not seem to shudder at all whene tariff is menetioned, but does give forth dismal groans when any investigation of things like interlocking boards of directors, or a system by which fourteen men control practically 75 per cent of the loanable funds in New York city as Samuel Untermeyer said the other day—and Mr. Untermeyer's law business has been of a sort to make his word on this subject carry weight.

In a word Wall street dreads this proposed investigation upon which Mr. Underwood throws cold water. Politicians say that again he has injured his political chances. The investigation is almost certainly going forward. Chairman Henry of the rules committee favors it, though he thinks it might be combined with the investigation of the shipping trust and the Harvester trust, as the three are shown to be closely allied.

Will Insist on Inquiry.

"The time has come to act," says Chairman Henry. "Congress and the country have a right to know whether there is such a thing as the Money trust, which in turn controls the railroads, the ships and the Harvester company. I shall insist that this investigation be started at once."

So says Henry, and he has with him a pretty good majority of the house. Already critics are deploring that Underwood shows so little interest in this investigation—thrusts it aside indeed for his everlasting tariff. "It will hurt his presidential boom," they say, "for it will look as though he feared to strike Wall street in its most vulnerable point."

Some times a man will make a hit pretty near the mark by saying that Oscar Underwood is a calm, unemotional sort of a fellow who votes and talks as he thinks right, with less thought of a presidential nomination than is given by a lot of statesmen much more out of reaching distance of that prize than is the gentleman from Alabama.

OUTWITS THE GOVERNMENT

ly refuse to state what became of them.

Boyce says after he had been indicted by the grand jury in Texas on the charge of abduction and grand larceny, the greatest political pressure was brought to bear on Texas authorities to secure his return to that state.

Woman's Mind Tested.

Counsel for defense, acting upon allegations made by the authorities that the woman was weak mentally, had her examined by two noted Canadian alienists, who declared that she was sane. Charges against Boyce are woven around the claim that the woman was feeble minded. It is claimed by the prosecution that owing to her enfeebled mind, Boyce wielded great influence over her and forced her to follow him. It is on these grounds that charges are laid. Final action in the case will be opened in Minneapolis Wednesday, when the wife will be confronted with her two children, her mother and her sister.

Yesterday the husband held an interview with Mrs. Sneed, but it is said she would not return with him. He at once notified her relatives. They brought her children, who will also plead with their mother to return home.

Wants to Go With Boyce.

Sneed said he wanted to take his wife back with him regardless of the past. The woman, on the other hand, claims that she was incarcerated in an asylum and that Sneed did not give her a chance to explain. She says that she wants her children, but that her love for Boyce is so great that she is willing to give them up for him.

It is believed by the authorities that the two have engaged counsel in Minneapolis to fight their extradition from Minnesota. In their cells, however, they refuse to converse about this phase of the affair, and appear to be greatly downcast over their failure to stay in Canada.

Both eat little and appear to feel their position keenly.

turned, and that while information as to the great majority of the persons against whom the investigation is aimed is already in possession of the authorities, a number of detectives still are at work tracing the movements and activities of big labor leaders during the last two years.

Asked as to the rewards offered in California for the arrest and conviction of persons perpetrating the Los Angeles Times disaster, Mr. Burns expressed the belief that he would collect upward of $30,000. This sum he added, he intended to divide among the many assistants who helped him run down the McNamaras.

Labor Fund to Be Paid.

As to the reward of $7,500 offered by Olaf F. Tveitmoe, secretary-treasurer of the state building trades council, at the time of the Los Angeles Times explosion, and withdrawn when the McNamaras were arrested, Mr. Burns said he was quite confident the California labor leaders would pay the reward without any trouble. The indictment of Tveitmoe by the federal grand jury at Los Angeles, Mr. Burns thought, would make legal trouble enough for Tveitmoe at present, without having on his hands a civil suit on a question of reward with reference to a crime to which James B. McNamara already had confessed.

Guard for McManigal.

When McManigal arrives he will be under special guard, not that the authorities fear his escape, but the possibility of foul play from those against whom he testified. Though federal prisoners usually are kept in the county jail, arrangements have been made to shelter McManigal in the federal building itself, where an armed guard will protect him.

Recognizing that the statute of limitations would prevent the implication of some persons for causing explosives to be transported which led to the destruction of property several years ago, the government prosecutors will take advantage of recent decisions in the so-called sugar trust case wherein conspiracy offenses were held to be continuous.

Fight to the Finish.

Los Angeles, Cal. Jan. 2.—"This will be a fight to a finish. I want all the working men to know that," declared Attorney Job Harriman, counsel for Tveitmoe, Johannssen and Munsey, the indicted labor leaders, when Harriman's attention was called to a declaration by federal officials that they expected the dynamite conspiracy case to end as did the trial of James B. McNamara.

"There are no confessions to be made this time," said Harriman.

DOCTOR MURDERED BY SON OF NOTED FEUDIST.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 2.—Dr. Edwin O. Thornhill, age 55, a well-known physician and business man of the southern section of Virginia, was shot and killed yesterday by Willie hatfield, son of the feudist "Devil Anse" Hatfield, in a drug store at Mullens. The physician was attending an injured person when the shooting occurred.

Hatfield, it is said, asked Dr. Thornhill to issue a prescription for a pint of whisky. The doctor refused, and when Hatfield used abusive language the physician slapped him.

Hatfield ran from the drug store, but was captured within a few minutes by persons who had witnessed the shooting. Fearing lynching, Hatfield pleaded wit the officers to protect him, and he was taken to Pineville, the county seat.

LEGISLATURE OF KENTUCKY MEETS

Democrats Are in Control of Both Houses at Frankfort.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 2.—With the Democrats in complete control of both houses, the first session of the Kentucky legislature in 1912 convened today. The Democrats are pledged to begin bringing about a more practical school system, good roads, revision of the state tax system, a non-partisan prison commission, the overthrow of the lobby, a direct primary law and a corrupt practices act.

BLACK DIPHTHERIA.

Disease Epidemic at Braddock, N. D., One Dying.

Braddock N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Black diphtheria is epidemic at Moffit. With a large number of cases reported and one death, the people of that district are highly excited. Strict quarantine regulations have been enforced by the county authorities throughout the infected district.

The body of the victim turns black within a few hours, marking the disease as black diphtheria. Neighboring towns and settlements are maintaining very close watch on the situation.

JOIN PROTEST AGAINST HOOK'S APPOINTMENT.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 2.—The three members of the Nebraska state railway commission have joined Governor Aldrich in a protest against the appointment of Judge Hook of Kansas to the vacancy on the United States supreme court bench. The objection is based on Judge Hook's ruling in the Oklahoma rate case. The protest was wired to United States Senators Brown and Hitchcock at Washington.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SMALL FARMS ARE DESIRED

Williston Commercial Club in Scheme to Help Out Little Man.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Smaller farms under the federal irrigation projects in this section is the slogan of the Commercial club. A committee to obtain options on small tracts of lands, from the farmers under the projects, has been appointed, and this committee is already at work with Paul Leonhardy in charge as chairman.

"The object of this movement," says Chairman Leonhardy in a statement, "is to assist the farmers under the project in the sale of their lands, especially in small tracts, with the idea of securing more settlers as it would seem from the statements of the farmers that their larger holdings cannot be as profitably farmed as smaller tracts. Another of the principal ideas in making this effort is that if the land can be cut up into smaller tracts, it will be much easier to secure acreage for beet culture in the event of getting a beet sugar factory established in Williston.

Farmers Not Bound.

"The options which we ask the farmers to give are so drawn that while they hold the farmer to sell his land at any time during the life of the option, provided he still owns the land, yet it leaves the farmer free to sell to any one else at any time he may choose to do so. Nothing is binding upon him to hold his land to be sold by the Commercial club, the whole idea being to promote sales and not in any way prevent them.

"Any transfers made by the Commercial club will be without any commission or recompense of any kind to be paid to it for securing the sales, the buyer only paying the sum asked by the farmer."

The smaller farm movement is one that has been launched in other sections of the country where federal irrigation projects are maintained, as the operation of large farms, under these projects, has been shown to be less profitable than the small farm operated under the intensified farming plan.

$85 PER ACRE FOR LAND NEVER PLOWED

Record Price in North Dakota Is Reported Three Miles From Hatton.

Northwood, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The record land price for the Red River valley was paid here in a transfer of eight acres of unimproved land lying three miles north of Hatton, for $55 an acre, or $6,800 for the tract. P. L. Spoonhem made the sale, with Edward Johnson as the purchaser. The tract has never been broken, having been used by Spoonhem for wild hay purposes.

CROP BREEDERS' ANNUAL MEETING

Will Be Held in New State Capitol at St. Paul on Jan. 10.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the morning of Jan. 10, in the house chamber of the new capitol the Minnesota Field Crop Breeders' association will open a meeting at 9:30 to continue all day ending in the evening with a banquet.

The program for the day follows: Call to order by President C. W. Glotfelter, Waterville, Minn.; "Raising Cabbage for the Wholesale Market," Edward Merritt, Robinsdale, Minn.; "The Value of Selected and Home Grown Garden Seeds," W. W. Tracy, Sr., U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Afternoon Session.

The meeting will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock. "Some Authentic Yields of Corn," Prof. Andrew Boss, University of Minnesota; "Corn Improvement," C. G. Williams, Agronomist, Ohio, experiment station; "Needs of Pure Seed Regulation," O. Hauge, St. Paul Park.

Evening Session.

The banquet will commence promptly at 6:30 p. m. Place of meeting to be announced later. The business meeting will follow immediately after the banquet. Order of business: Call to order; reading of minutes of last meeting; reports of officers and committees; business matters; president's address; impromptu two-minte toasts.

Try This Famous Pinex "Pint of Cough Syrup"

A Family Supply for 50c, Saving $2. The Surest, Quickest Remedy You Ever Used or Money Refunded.

A cough remedy that saves you $2, and is guaranteed to give quicker, better results than anything else, is surely worth trying. And one trial will show you why Pinex is used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

You will be pleasantly surprised by the way it takes right hold of a cough, giving almost instant relief. It will usually stop the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours, and is unequalled for prompt results in whooping cough.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, makes a full pint of the best cough remedy ever used. Easily prepared in five minutes—directions in package.

The taste is pleasant—children take it willingly. Stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both excellent features. Splendid for croup, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, and a highly successful remedy for incipient lung troubles.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FARMERS' CLUB HAS DONE MANY THINGS

Valley City, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Barnes County Hundred-Dollar-an-Acre association, the organization from which came the inspiration that resulted in the organization of the North Dakota Better Farming association, will hold its first annual meeting here next Thursday and Friday.

One of the greatest accomplishments of this club has been the creation of the free farm bureau, a feature that is new to the Northwest, to bring new settlers into the county by a method that is exceptionally interesting. A list of farmers is being secured, and the men on this list will provide, for some man and his family, a house, the use of ten acres of ground and a milch cow. In return, the farmer secures the services of the tenant at any time during the year that it may ve necessary, paying him the wages prevalent at that season.

Barnes county farmers have shown a deep interest in this movement, and through its operation it is expected that many men will be brought into the district who will have an opportunity of gaining a foothold for themselves, and who finally may become land owners themselves.

TOTAL LIVES LOST PLACED AT FIVE

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five is the total of victims taken by the wreck of the Oregonian of the Great Northern road three miles from Finley Saturday morning, the missing passenger whose remains it was supposed had been cremated having been found alive.

The coroner is quoted as stating that there would be no investigation as it was clearly an accident with no one to blame.

The remains of Mrs. Martha Ketler of St. Paul were shipped to Killspell, Mont., and those of other victims were shipped to St. Paul for burial.

COMMISSION PLAN FOR THE STATES

Cary of Wisconsin Advocates Change in Form of Government.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 2.—The formation as rapidly as possible of a bureaucratic or commission form of government instead of Democratic, to administer the affairs of modern states is advocated in an open letter of State Superintendent of Schools Charles P. Cary, addressed to teachers and the general public.

The letter is the second of a series, the first of which criticized the University of Wisconsin as being too much mixed up in politics. In this letter, too, he says the impression prevails that university professers direct much of the state legislation.

"The experts are coming to think that only experts can administer the laws after they are made. But a difficulty arises. The expert regards the people as incompetent to select experts," Supt. Cary says.

Make Positions Appointive.

"The remedy is to form, as rapidly as possible, a bureaucratic or commission form of government instead of a Democratic. How is this to be accomplished? The reply is, by creating numerous bureau boards, commisions and the like and making the positions appointive, not elective. Another device is to shorten the ballot as much as the Constitution will allow, so as to have few elective positions and many appointive offices."

Supt. Cary says it is undemocratic and short-sighted to go on multiplying permanent commissions and increasing appointive positions over which the people have no direct control.

As to the statement that the University of Wisconsin is master of the state, he says:

"There are only two methods of ultimate escape from the tyranny of an institution. One is for the people of the state, once and for all, to fix the metes and bounds for the proper activity of the institution, and the other is for the university to place limitations upon its own activities in accordance with sound political philosophy. That the latter will be done, I have not seen the slightest indication. Every modern university wants power, and it seeks self aggrandizement."

TREAT'S LONG JOURNEY.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 2.—Imperial Potentate J. Frank Treat of the Mystic Shrine, accompanied by his wife, will leave here Jan. 15 on a long trip. He will be joined by the committee that will help him arrange for the great divan convention in Los Angeles in June.

The first stop will be made at Lincoln, Neb., on Jan. 17. The party will reach Denver Jan. 19 and at San Francisco Jan. 21, and at Oakland Jan. 23. The party will then go to Los Angeles on Jan. 25 and to San Diego Jan. 27, and back to Los Angeles Jan. 30. Feb. 1 Imperial Potentate Treat will be in El Paso, Tex., at Dallas Feb. 4, New Orleans Feb. 6, Mobile Feb. 7, Louisville Feb. 9 and Cincinnati Feb. 11. That is as far ahead as dates have been arranged for his next trip.

He will leave the committeemen at Los Angeles and will make the rest of the trip by himself. The committee comprises three of the biggest Shriners in America, who are D. W. Rowell of Boston, Imperial Treasurer W. S. Brown of Pittsburg, and Past Imperial Potentate Lou B. Winsor of Grand Rapids, Mich.

"SKY PILOT" PREACHES.

Minnesotan Addresses Big Throng in Milwaukee Theater.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—Singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," in the teeth of a wintry gale that swept the business thoroughfares just before the New Year's dawn, 600 men, young and old, marched in double file through the downtown district and to a vaudeville theater where Frank E. Higgins of Minnesota, "sky pilot of the north woods," addressed a watch meeting held under the auspices of the Men and Religion movement. In an adjoining building revelers in a leading cafe furnished a scene in sharp contrast.

$244,161 ON DEPOSIT.

St. Paul Postal Savings Bank Has Over 3,100 Depositors.

St. Paul, Min., Jan. 2.—Thirty-one hundred and some odd depositors have $244,161 on deposit in the St. Paul branch of the United States postal savings bank, according to figures made public by Supt. Thomas P. O'Regan.

These figures indicate that the local depository is one of the most flourishing in the country. According to Mr. O'Regan, there is one depositor who is now a resident of Nova Scotia and several women who are teaching school in the Far West, but whose homes are in this city, make periodical remittances to the local office.

EXPOSURE KILLS WAIF

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Ford Sannwald heard a rap upon her kitchen door; opened it but saw no one. But she did hear a child cry, and on investigation found a baby in the wood box, with a card pinned to it and a supply of clothing. The card simply said that the child had been born on Oct. 24 last, and that tis name was Lavan Dolores. Mrs. Sannwald and husband decided to adopt the child as their own and were overjoyed, but the little one died of pneumonia and other ailments due to exposure.

NORTH DAKOTA SUICIDE.

Young Man Owning 400 Acres Despondent Because of Sickness.

Sherwood, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. D. Brown, aged 27, killed himself at his farm near this city by drinking poison. His body was found in the hen coop. Despondency was the cause.

Brown was the owner of 400 acres of land and was very will fixed, financially. Recently he became despondent because of ill health.

BELTRAMI FAIR ELECTS

A. P. White President and A. P. Richie Secretary.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special meeting of the Beltrami County Agricultural association for the purpose of making legal the election of officers for the ensuing year the following, named at a previous meeting but not in accord with the constitution, were renamed: President, A. P. White; vice president, August Jarchow; secretary, A. P. Richie; treasurer, R. L. Schumaker. C. F. Schroeder also was named as a vice president. At the previous meeting no elections were made to this office but it was found that the constitution demanded that there be a vice president from every commissioner district and one at large. No selection was made of the remaining vice presidents and they will be chosen at a later meeting.

Delegates to the annual state meeting of the county fair officers to be held in St. Paul Jan. 9 and 10 were named as follows: A. P. White, A. P. Richie and W. R. Mackenzie.

NORTH DAKOTA BOY IS FATALLY KICKED.

Anamoose, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Christian Eisenbrey, aged 15 years, was killed by a kick from a horse he was taking care of. He received the kick in the abdomen, but did not think it serious enough to make any report. Two days later he was thrown into convulsions, and never recovered. It was found that he had been given serious internal injuries, and these brought death.

MINOT KEROSENE VICTIM IS DEAD.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 2.—Gunhild Ness, the domestic servant at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jacobson, who was burned in an explosion of kerosene oil several days ago, died Saturday.

Miss Ness was injured while starting a fire in the Jacobson home. She poured part of the contents of a can of kerosene into the kitchen stove, and the can exploded, setting fire to her clothing.

UNITED WATCH NIGHT SERVICES AT BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The united watch night service at the First Congregational church drew a large audience Sunday, who listened to addresses by Rev. M. L. FOLEY GIVEN BANQUET.

Bismarck Honors Literary Citizen Leaving for California.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. N. Foley, the poet editor of North Dakota, was tendered a banquet Monday evening by the business men of Bismarck on the eve of his departure for California, where he will spend the winter. The banquet was arranged under the direction of the Bismarck Commercial club. Fred L. Conklin, president of the club, was the toastmaster, and the speakers were State Superintendent of Public Instruction E. J. Taylor, Rev. E. S. Ellsworth and Gen. E. A. Williams.

WITH WIFE'S SISTER.

North Dakotan Alleged to Have Eloped With Sister-in-Law.

Towner, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Watson has been arrested here charged with eloping with his sister-in-law, Miss Leota Heath. Mrs. Watson is the complaining witness, and the charge grows out of the alleged desertion at Granville, N. D., of Mrs. Watson, by the defendant, with his sister-in-law, who was a guest at their home. The couple, it is claimed, were in Minneapolis, Winnipeg and Calgary after the elopement, Miss Heath leaving Watson at Calgary. The hearing will be held Jan. 8.

IOWAN IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FORGERY.

Kenmare, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alexander Best, aged 21, of Des Moines, Iowa, is under arrest here charged with forgery. It is alleged that he forged a check for $25, drawn on the Union National Bank of Fillmore, Can., depositing the same with a local hotel keeper as security.

The name signed to the check was "Joe Hoving," a farmer residing near this city. Best contends that he is not guilty of the charge on the ground that he did not attempt to pass the check, and that it was dated ahead of the time that it was given to the hotel man. Best will be held for trial in the district court.

BISMARCK WOMAN BURNED BY EXPLOSION.

Bismarck N. D., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Tina Carter will die as the result of injuries received yesterday when a lamp exploded at her home here. The resulting fire was extinguished before great damage was done.

HENNEPIN HIBERNIANS HONOR JAMES REGAN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 2.—At a banquet here last night, given by the Hennepin county branch of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a silver loving cup was presented to James J. Regan of St. Paul, president of the order, who was the guest of honor. The principal address was made by D. W. Lawler of St. Paul.

Bishop Carroll of Helena, Mont., chaplain of the order, who was expected to make an address, was unable to attend.

Boats Wintering at Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the boats which will winter at this port is the Amazon, one of the biggest freighters on the lake. Other craft made snug for the winter here include the tug Thompson, the schooner Mary E. Cook, the Three Sisters, Christiana, Liberty tug Menominee River, the Cora, and United States Senator Stephenson's yacht the Bontina.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

International Falls—The Duluth Brewing company has bought the vacant lot adjoining Burton's which the Stone Realty company recently purchased of F. H. Clark, the consideration being $3,800 or an advance of $300 over the price paid Mr. Clark.

Crookston—George Murphy and John Rowley, charged with the Eldred bank robbery, pleaded not guilty in district court Fred Dale, Frank Hawkes and M. H. Peterkin, charged with the murder of Ole Kjormoe, pleaded not guilty. Owen McManum pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree.

New Ulm—The Bethsada Hospital association has been organized with a capital stock of $75,000. The first board of directors is composed of the following: C. F. Ruemke, C. H. Dirks, G. A. FAIL TO NAME LA FOLLETTE

Ohio Progressive Republicans Merely Indorse Him Personally.

Adopt Resolutions Declaring Principles for Which They Stand.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 2.—Progressive Republicans of Ohio who met yesterday formed a permanent organization and adopted a declaration of progressive principles, but voted 52 to 32 not to give their indorsement to United ttes Senator Robert M. La Follette as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

After refusing the indorsement of the league, the delegates voted 81 to 11 in favor of a resolution, as a personal explanation of the delegates, naming Senator La Follette as "the living embodiment of the principles of the progressive movement and the logical candidate to carry them to successful fruitition."

Led by Pinchot.

Gifford Pinchot, who declared that he spoke only for himself and in no way for Col. Roosevelt, and Former Secretary of the Interior Garfield were the leaders in the debate against giving any candidate an indorsement. Senator Works of California and Senator Clapp of Minnesota were vigorous in urging that the Ohio Progressives concentrate their efforts in working for the election of Senator La Follette. Nearly every delegate expressed himself repeatedly in the debate.

Walter F. Brown, chairman of the Republican state central committee, who a week ago was read out of the Progressives by Chairman Packler of the Progressive league for his proposed presidential preference plan, held a long morning conference with Pinchot, Houser and Packler and worked with them on the resolution which finally was adopted.

Opposed to Taft.

The resolution follows:

"We are opposed to the renomination of President Taft. We hereby declare it to be the determined purpose of the Ohio Progressive Republican league to work in harmony and unison to nominate a Progressive Republican for president recognizing as fellow progressives all who hold the principles for which we stand, whether they be for the presidential nomination of Robert M. La Follette or Theodore Roosevelt or any other Progressive Republican.

"We assert the essential unity of the progressive movement throughout the entire state and nation.

"We favor the election of delegates who will fully represent the progressive principle."

Packler, who presded as temporary chairman, was elected president of the permanent organization. C. F. Brotherton of Ashtabula was elected vice president, and T. S. Brown of Columbus, secretary.

A declaration of principles adopted unanimously was substantially the one prepared by a committee appointed at a meeting of Progressives of the western reserve. On the question of national policies, it followed the line of the platform adopted by the Progressive conference in Chicago.

For Tariff Revision.

It declared for a substantial and equitable revision of the tariff schedule by schedule "preserving the protective tariff principle, the measure of which shall be the difference in wages and raw material at home and abroad."

To this end, a non-partisan tariff board with full power to complete testimony and to report to congress, was advocated.

A revision of the Sherman law was suggested in the second paragraph:

"For the cure of corporate and trust evls we favor legislation that shall effectively regulate and control in the public interest, the great instrumentalities of modern business; such legislation clearly to define and provide against recognized wrongs such as the exploitation of humanity for profit, stock watering, organizing companies without substantial assets, agreements to control production, market prices, and the like; all designed to protect the honest and punish by imprisonment the dishonest business man."

Other planks of the platform declared for popular election of United States senators, the Pinchot-Roosevelt conservation policy, a national income tax graduated upward and the abolition of many public positions.

The platform declared for a presidential preference primary, and in favor of all nominations, except those of townships and municipalities by direct primaries.

La Follette is Silent.

Saginaw, Mich., Jan. 2.—After his address here last night, Senator La Follette was told of the action taken by the Progressive Republicans at Columbus. He refused to read the story of the proceedings and declined to make any comment.

After speaking at Flint and Bay City during the day Senator Robert M. La Follette gave an address at the Masonic temple here. He discussed the trusts and their relation to the tariff, the money trust as the climax of all, and the necessity of returning the government, as he said to the hands of the people. He asked the support of all, Republicans and Democrats allke, in doing this.

At Bay City, Mich., Senator La Follette addressed a large and enthusiastic audience in the national guard armory. The senator defined the progressive movement as standing for a representative government, direct nomination of all officers from the smallest to the largest, direct election of United States senators and the referendum and recall.

Pinchot at Delaware.

Delaware, Ohio Jan. 2.—Gifford Pinchot addressed a large audience here last night. Mr. Pinchot declared that while Senator La Follette, whose nomination he advocated, might not be nominated, he believed that the progressives had gained such ground that they would be a controlling factor in the coming national convention. The speech of the former forester was along the lines of his previous public utterances.

STEAMER HORNET SOLD.

Craft Involved in Illegal Traffic Goes Under Hammer.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2.—The steamer Hornet, of filibustering fame, formerly the palatial yacht Alicia and later a United States gunboat, was sold at public auction yesterday in accordance with the orders of the United States circuit court which adjudged the Hornet guilty of violating the neutrality laws in connection with the Honduran revolution a year ago. The vessel was sold for $3,300 to C. A. Barber of Franklin, La.

The Hornet was seized last February at Truxillo, Honduras by the United States cruiser Tacoma and when its owners failed to answer the complaint charging violation of the neutrality laws, in that the Hornet had been used as a gunboat by the Honduran revolutionists under Gen. Manuel Bonilla, the court ordered the vessel confiscated and sold.

ROYAL TANIST OF ALL SCOTTISH CLANS WILL INSTALL DULUTH OFFICERS

The "Scots who hae" joined Clan Stewart, No. 59, Order of Scottish Clans will be out in force on the evening of Wednesday of this week to install the new officers of the clan, and to extend a hearty reception to the second highest officer in the entire order, Royal Tanist A. G. Findlay of Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Findlay was elected royal tanist at the last royal clan convention held in Boston, in August of last year. This will be his first official visit to Duluth and preparations are being made to receive him in a manner befitting his royal office. A special committee representing the clan, composed of Alex Macrae, Simon Clark and Alex McKnight, is making the arrangements for the entertainment of Mr. Findlay.

The royal tanist will install the officers in the early part of the evening and this will be followed by an informal program in which Jamie Myron will sing Lauder songs; Philip Gordon Brown will be heard in some old Scotch favorites; George Tupper will play the violin, and George Macaskill will present for the first time a musical trio which he has been training carefully for several months.

The new chief of Clan Stewart is Alexander Macrae who has been prominent in Scottish circles in Duluth for twenty years. His many years' service as secretary of the Duluth Cruling club gave him an extremely wide acquaintance among the devotees of the roarin' game.

The clan has now a membership of over 300 and rapid gains in membership are anticipated under the leadership of Chief Macrae and his newly-elected staff of officers. The complete list of the officers to be installed are:

ALEX MACRAE,
Chief of Clan Stewart.

Alex Macrae, chief; Don. McLennon, tanist; John H. Matheson, chaplain; P. M. Young, recording secretary; John Burnett, financial secretary; John G. Ross, treasurer; R. D. McKercher, senior henchman; Robert Tullock, junior henchman; John Gow, seneschal; Sam Gillespie, warden; Ed McArthur, sentinel; Thomas Clark, Jr., standard bearer.

DINWIDDIE MAY LEAVE DULUTH

Has Offer of Important Position With Cincinnati Society.

Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the Duluth Associated Charities, may leave the Zenith City to accept the position of director of the department of Charities and Corrections of the board of municipal research at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Although he was offered the new position several days ago, he has not as yet decided to accept. The new position would offer a larger field and an increase over the salary paid him in Duluth.

The board of directors of the Associated Charities will meet at noon Thursday at the Commercial club to consider the matter. Many who are acquainted with the work accomplished by Mr. Dinwidle in Duluth are anxious that he be retained.

He has been with the Duluth society since November, 1910. He came to Duluth from New York, where he served as secretary of the visiting committee, a semi-official organization.

The Cincinnati position is one of the most important in Ohio, it is said. The duties of the new office would include a supervision of all charitable and corrective organizations in the state.

E. A. Silberstein a director of the local Associated Charities, is anxious that Mr. Dinwiddie be retained for the work in Duluth.

Mr. Silberstein says: "I am greatly concerned at the prospect of losing Mr. Dinwiddie through this offer.

"The city, as the public knows, has a more serious situation confronting it as regards the destitute and unfortunate than ever before in its history. More men are out of employment and greater privation exists than has been known here in some years.

"While the Associated Charities is meeting the situation effectively today, it is questionable what will be the outcome if we are obliged to seek another secretary at this time. Owing to the closing of the Bethel much extra relief work has come to the society.

"Every business man knows that when a place is filled by the right man it is better economy to pay a salary that will hold him to his position for the reason that the time spent at the interruption of business often leads to demoralization in the interim.

"I am in hopes that the citizens of Duluth will meet this situation promptly and effectively and the spirit of co-operation result in retaining Mr. Dinwiddie's services. The board of directors will meet Thursday at the Commercial club at lunch to consider the matter and I earnestly trust the outcome of that meeting will result in Mr. Dinwiddie's retention as secretary of the Associated Charities."

BAY STATE DEMOCRATS START BOOM FOR FOSS.

Boston Jan. 2.—A resolution indorsing Governor Eugene N. Foss for the Democratic nomination for the presidency of the United States and indorsing his administration, was adopted by the Democratic state committee at its annual meeting. Chairman John F. McDonald was unanimously re-elected.

TAFT SHAKES HANDS WITH 8,092 VISITORS.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The greatest throng that has passed the portals of the White House at any New Year's reception of recent years, greeted President Taft and Mrs. Taft at the New Year reception. When the long line had passed, the official "counter" said that 8,092 diplomats, officials and citizens had shaken hands with the president. At last year's reception the official count showed that about 5,500 visitors were received. The line moved continuously through the White House for more than three hours, its reserves stretching for blocks around the White House grounds.

CHRISTMAS GIFT CAUSES CHILD'S DEATH.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 2.—The 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson of Carmel avenue, is dead as the result of blood poisoning. The child scratched his face on Christmas with a toy.

JOHNSON MEN RUN CLEVELAND AGAIN.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 2.—Tom L. Johnson, Cleveland's champion of the 3-cent fare and single tax, lies in his grave, but his spirit lives and inhabits the city hall where he spent eight years as mayor from 1902 to 1910.

Johnson was defeated for mayor by Herman Baehr in 1909, and all his followers swept out of office. He died last April, and Newton D. Baker, his political successor, was elected to succeed Baehr. Baker's platform embodied Johnson's ideas. After his election Baker proceeded to appoint to their old positions the men who had held office under Johnson. He and his appointees began their regime yesterday. If Johnson were able to step into the city hall he would find things just as they were before his death.

GIRL OF 14 IS KILLED BY SHOT MEANT FOR ANOTHER.

New York, Jan. 2.—Bertha Reinan, a 14-year-old girl, stepped in front of a revolver in the hands of her stepfather, George Benz, a salesman, and received in the temple two bullets which had been intended for her mother. The girl died in an ambulance half an hour later; the mother was uninjured. Benz fled down the street, but was captured and held without bail on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Benz and her husband had been separated for several months. She was returning from a New Year celebration early in the morning to her home in Evergreen, L. I., when the man accosted her and her daughter in the street. After a few angry words, he leveled the revolver at his wife, but the girl sprang forward and cried "Go away and don't bother mamma." A second later she fell mortally wounded.

PREACH "SEE AMERICA" IN EUROPEAN CITIES.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The "see America first" propaganda preached so extensively through the country, at last has reached the federal government. Plans are in contemplation for sending abroad a well known government official, whose name will not be revealed at present to give illustrated lectures in the important cities of Europe on the beauties of America.

It is believed by government authorities that a considerable part of the $500,000,000 spent abroad annually by Americans can be diverted into the pockets of American railroad stockholders, hotel keepers and guides. The scheme is not being considered altogether in its commercial sense, the real purpose being to prove that this country has mountain, lake and more scenery as beautiful and varied as any to be found in foreign countries.

OVERTURNED STOVE STARTS FATAL FIRE.

Pittsfield, Ill., Jan. 2.—John C. Gingery and Henry Hatfield lost their lives yesterday when they overturned a stove in the house at Gingery's farm during a fight. Gingery drove his family from home Saturday. Hatfield was sent to the farm by Mrs. Gingery to induce Gingery to permit the return of his family. The two men quarreled, and in the fight which resulted a fire started which burned both to death.

SUBSTITUTE PENSION BILL IN THE SENATE.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The senate pension committee will not attempt to amend the Sherwood pension bill which was passed in the house. An entirely new bill will be reported, and Senator McCumber probably will offer it as an amendment to the McCumber law of 1907, which recognizes the age of 62 years as total disability and makes certain recognition of veterans entitled to its benefits.

The senate committees experts have compiled figures from the treasury department and the penston bureau to show that the Sherwood bill would increase the present rolls 66 per cent. The senate bill would cause an annual expenditure of not more than $30,000,000. A poll of the senate on the Sherwood bill is said to show not more than ten Democrats and about twelve Republicans ready to vote for it.

AMERICANS PRESENTED TO AUSTRIAN EMPEROR.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—At a New Year's court held here, John G. A. Leishman, the American ambassador, in addition to the members of his own family, presented to the emperor and empress Mr. and Mrs. Collier and Miss Collier, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Mrs. A. Barton French and Miss Gladys Waterbury of New York; the Misses Devereaux of Cleveland and Mrs. Henry Wood of Baltimore.

No Turkish Cabinet.

Constantinople, Jan. 2.—Said Pasha, the grand vizier, has not yet been able to form a new ministry to take the place of the one which resigned last Saturday. A dissolution of the chamber and a new election of deputies is regarded inevitable.

Motorcyclist Kills Woman.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Albert Gloye, 45 years old, was struck and killed yesterday by a motor cycle driven by Carl Fisher. Mrs. Gloye's husband, with whom she was walking, tried to drag her out of the way of the machine which came up behind them, but was too late.

Democrats Rule Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 2.—For the first time since 1884, the Democratic party is in complete control of the city hall in this city. Mayor Henry T. Hunt and his cabinet were inducted into office by retiring Mayor Schwab and later the same scenes were repeated in the council, which now has a Democratic majority for the first time in many years.

Brother and Sister Drown.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 2.—While skating with a party of children on the Morris canal here, Alma Graf, 13 years old, and her brother, Frank, 10 years old, broke through the thin ice and were drowned. Both bodies were recovered.

Anaconda to Increase Production.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 2.—Announcement is made by the management of the Anaconda Copper company that the copper production of that company is to be increased gradually until it reaches 3,500,000 pounds a month in excess of the average for 1911.

DOING THE GRIZZLY BEAR IN HIGHER SPORT CIRCLES

The Small Villages of the Minny Have Finally Realized That We Are Leaving—Gotch's Retirement—Rivers and Abe Attell.

(BY BRUCE.)

LIKE the villain in the play, we have been discovered. The "we" in this case is the intention of the two towns at the Head of the Lakes. Of course Duluth and Superior have always been the greater part of the Minny league. The minor part is the rest of the towns of the circuit. They have at last come to the realization of our aims. Our only definite aim at the present time is to get out of the Minnesota-Wisconsin, it would seem, and it looks as if the magnates up here are going to do that as quietly and as quickly as possible. For some time the scribes down in the southern section have been coming out on the front stoop and watching us grazing grudgingly in the Minny pasture. With a fatuous conceit that is simply admirable in its magnificence these moulders of public opinion have shouted forth the opinion that the two towns at the Head of the Lakes would never leave the league.

It may have been that they were encouraged in this belief, or this bluff of encouragement of Lee Bierce, the new president of the minor part of the league. It is kind of humiliating to be elected president of a league and then find that the league is disintegrating. Mr. Bierce is reported to have said that we would never leave. Wait and see if he is right.

To all intents and purposes the two towns at the Head of the Lakes are through with the Minny. At least the indications point strongly to their quitting the league as it is made up today for all time. All this in the face of the gentle insinuation that the two towns would be found back in the Minny at the start of next season.

There are no future prospects for either Duluth or Superior in the Minny league. But then that is rather old stuff. The proposition is very simple and one that would appeal to a business man at the first glance. The proposition is simply that there is only financial loss for Dr. McCuen and President Sommers of Superior to remain longer in the league—and hence the desire to get out.

From the small town viewpoint the thing may look different—or at least you might imagine so from reading some of the junk that has been printed down below. They want us to remain in and lose money—why? No logical reasons have been given. Because they want us to remain in they profess to believe that we are bluffing about leaving. The only answer to that disbelief will be time, and it is only necessary at this time to admonish some of the unbelievers down below to wait and see.

Just what will be framed up for Duluth and Superior in the baseball field is hard to say at this time. We may play independent baseball; we may break into some new league—and we may have no baseball outside of the amateur leagues of the city. It is too early to forecast even. The very uncertainty of it makes guessing interesting. Most anything is probable but the Minny.

NOW that Henry Ordemann has won the American heavyweight championship back they are sending some great yarns out of Minneapolis regarding the big Norsk. As a mater of fact it is well known here that Ordemann was going to try for one of the local crews. It was with the intention or rowing here that Ordemann came to Duluth. He worked here for several weeks, but finally beat it back to Minneapolis. While Ordemann has only been wrestling for four or five years he has reached a high place among the great grapplers of the country. Those who realize the value that comes from participation in many branches of athletics are of the opinion that being an all-round athlete before he even thought of taking up wrestling was what made the Minneapolis Norwegian the expert wrestler he is.

IN THE days of old the Durable Dane was as impervious to blows as a toad to the Wagnerian strains of music. He faced the nailed fist with that same heroic fortitude that some hulking husky takes the slaps from some petite thing, just to prove that he is tough. Nelson was as tough as Bill Bryan's luck. His endurance was as unending as the miles of sand in the Sahara desert. His blows stungeth like scandal that isn't true. But the Dane has traveled some since the halcyon days. He has traveled on the broad highway of retrogression, so that even if he did have the better of the encounter with Jack Redmond it is not time to sit up in our seats and yell that the Dane has come back.

ONE of the sad facts in this life is that we want what we have not. Thus those in the shower of white lights, in the midst of the excitement, often sigh, one of those plaintive ones, and whisper of the little home and the sacred fireplace. Such a thought whispered around the table where the stein is in good form brings forth many comments and the repeated statement that after all there is nothing like the simple life.

And, again, those sitting in rustic simplicity, with the lowing kine and the gentle bah bah of the sheep falling soft upon the evening air, often wish for the tumultuousness of the bright light district, for those sights of the city life and for many other things that they have heard vaguely of but wot not.

All this anent the retirement of Frank A. Gotch. One day we read that the champion is through, that he is longing for the simple life down on the Iowa farm. The next day we read that he is going to wrestle one more match. Maybe it is that while on the road the Iowa farm holds out its allurements; and again while on the farm mayhap it is that the cry of the arena, the crowds, the lights, etc., call forth to Gotch.

UNCLE TOM McCAREY has scored another match in his famous elimination contests among the featherweight brigade. More to the point, Uncle Thomas has witnessed the win of Jose Rivers, the native son of Los Angeles. Rivers can always draw a tremendous house out that way. His former fight with Conley resulted in a draw. Yesterday the Mex came back and won and now his next fight will probably be with Abe Attell or Johnny Kilbane, who, by the way, knocked out the Mexican not so very long ago.

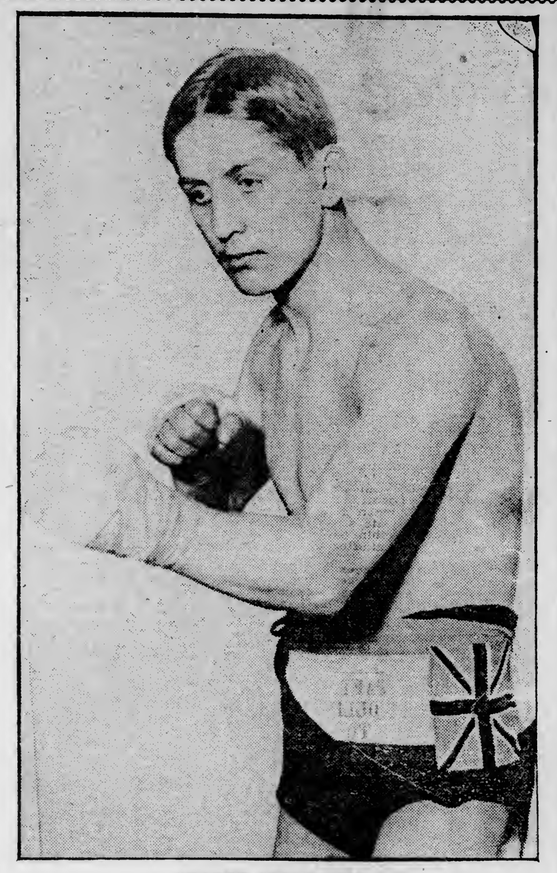

If Rivers ever meets Attell in Los Angeles for the featherweight championship, one of the biggest houses that ever saw little men battle on the gentle Pacific slope will behold the scrap. Before Kilbane put the blankets on Rivers he was considered by the Los Angeles sport writers as one of the greatest little men that ever hoisted the ring ropes. There was a lull in the praise chorus after the Conley draw, but now that Rivers has scored the first knockout on record against the tough little Italian from Kenosha, watch for the fulsome stuff from the slope.

From the long distance reports of the work of Rivers one would say that in some respects he is one of the greatest of the present crop of little men. But here's betting a sou markee that when he gets in front of Able Attell, if that event ever transpires, that he will be one scared Mex.

When it comes to art in the fighting game they are all going to school to the clever Hebrew. He knows the tricks of the fighting game like a man first in love knows the quixotic flights of soul. There isn't a trick that Abraham is not Jerry to. He carries that old punch thing and he has speed to throw to the desert winds.

For the sake of expectation and budding interest, here's hoping that there is a fight staged between Attell and this Jose Rivers.

FRANCE PRODUCES BOXER WHO LOOKS LIKE COMER

GEORGE CARPENTIER.

In France, Carpentier has made a sensational record. He earned a decision over Harry Lewis and has also beaten some of the best of the European middleweights. The French youth is said to be a really wonderful boxer and to also carry that necessary adjunct of a champion, a kick. Carpenter is to be seen in action in this country.

CANUCKS GET EVEN BREAK

Win One Game From Duluthians and Lose the Other.

Adams Team Outclasses the Visitors in All Departments.

Two fast and well played hockey games were played at the Duluth Curling club rink yesterday afternoon and last evening.

In the afternoon contest the fast Fort Frances team was beaten by the Adams team by the score of 8 to 0. The evening contest resulted in a victory for the Canadians over the Curling Club team, the score being 3 to 2.

The Adams surprised their admirers by the form they showed. The triple A players were faster than the Canadians and also showed better team work. In every department of the game the West end boys had it on the cousins. From the showing they made yesterday it is very evident that the Adams have the strongest team that has represented the club in years.

Grenner made three of the goals for the Adams, Alder three, and Olson two. The game was fast all the way through and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The Duluth Curling Club team failed to show the form of the Adams. The team work of the curling club players was not so good nor were they as clever as the Adams. The evening game was very close and intensely interesting.

The lineup follows:

Adams.		Fort Frances.
Kriz	g	Marklin
Erickson	p	Jenanson
W. Olson	cp	Watt
Grenner	r	Keye
A. Olson	c	Gall
Alder	lw	A. Angus
Anderson	rw	J. Angus

Goals—H. Grenner, 3; Alder, 3; A. Olson, 2.

Evening Game.

Fort Frances.		Curling Club.
Marklin	g	Miller
Jenanson	p	Caulkins
Watt	cp	Taylor
Gall	c	La Fleur
A. Angus	lw	McCrea
J. Angus	rw	Clark

Goals—McCrea and Clark; A. Angus, Watt, Jenanson. But six men were used in the lineup of the two teams in the evening game.

SKI DIRECTORS CALL MEETING

Important matters are scheduled to come up this evening at the meeting of the directors of the Duluth Ski club. Details of the coming tournament at Duluth will be taken up, the questions concerning the professional riders, the representation of Duluth at the national tournament and several other matters connected with the grounds, are due to come up for consideration.

Officials of the club want to make the tournament scheduled here for next month the greatest in the history of Duluth ski sport. With this ambition entertained by the various members of the committee it is planned to start the preliminary work as early as possible. The meeting this evening is expected to start the committees at work on plans for the coming tournament.

The question of securing riders is an important one. There was some trouble with the professional riders last season, but this is said to have been straightened out satisfactorily to both sides to the disagreement and the professionals will compete here.

AD WOLGAST IS BACK IN BED

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—Suffering from a severe cold, Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, who recently underwent an operation here for appendicitis, is confined to his bed at the home of his manager, Tom Jones, at Venice. Wolgast's physicians announced last night that if he followed directions he would be out in a couple of days.

His condition, according to Mrs. Wolgast, was much improved. Since Wolgast was discharged from the hospital sixteen days ago, Jones said yesterday, it had been hard work to keep him in the house. Automobile trips between Los Angeles and Venice have been frequent. It was on one of these trips that Wolgast contracted a heavy cold, which threatened for a time to develop into pneumonia.

BREAKS RECORD AT STOUGHTON

Barney Riley Jumps 137 Feet in Wisconsin Ski Event.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—Barney Riley, former amateur champion, broke the record for the Stoughton slide in yesterday's ski tournament, making a 137-foot jump against the old record of 135. This was his first competition as a professional. J. G. Jestad captured the professional event and the standing jump, doing 127 and 120 feet in the contest and 127 feet in the standing jump. Sigrud Jergerson took the amateur contest and the amateur standing jump with 100 and 110 feet in the contest and 112 in the standing jump.

Runnig Event at 'Friseo.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 2.—A crosscity running race of seven and eight-tenths miles was won yesterday by "Bob" Valught of St. Mary's college, Oakland. His time was 44 min. 10 sec., which, in view of the fact that the course led through the city streets for the majority portion of the distance, is regarded as excellent. Volught breasted the tape well in advance of more than 100 contenders.

Denning Fights a Draw.

Lamy Makes New Record.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Edmund Lamy, former amateur skating champion, covered 100 yards on the lake yesterday in 9 sec. flat from a standing start in an exhibition trial. The record has been 9 3-5 sec., held by Norris Wood, an amateur.

NEW YEAR'S BOUTS IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD

Unknown Fighter Wins.

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 2.—In a boxing match which took place at the stadium here yesterday, Lack Lester of Cleelum, Wash., formerly heavyweight champion of Australia, was easily outpointed by an Australian heavyweight named Smith. The contest lasted fourteen rounds, Smith eventually being declared winner on a foul.

French Champ Bested.

New York, Jan. 2.—Jack Denning, middleweight pugilist of this city defeated Marcel Mareau, the French champion middleweight, in a 10-round bout here yesterday afternoon. The bout was a fast one in which Denning had the better of it all the way except in the first round.

Fight Postponed.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 2.—The 15-round bout between Jimmy Regan of San Francisco and Chalky Germain of St. Louis, scheduled for last night was postponed on account of Germain's illness. He has a severe case of tonsilitis. The bout probably will be staged Monday night.

Chicago Scrapper Loses.

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 2.—Freddie Daniels of St. Joseph won the decision over Jack Caesar of Chicago in a ten-round contest here yesterday afternoon.

Petroskey Gets Decision.

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 2.—Ed Petroskey was given the decision over Chicago Knockout Brown here yesterday afternoon after the scheduled ten rounds of fast fighting. Petroskey had the better of the argument throughout.

Fight Is a Draw.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 2.—Ray Bronson of Indianapolis and Tommy Devlin of Philadelphia fought a ten-round draw here yesterday afternoon. Marvin Hart, former heavyweight champion, refereed the contest.

Bronson was the agressor throughout. He appeared to have the better of his antagonist in all of the infighting although in the third and fifth rounds Devlin led the way to fast mixups.

Dillon Beats Houck.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 2.—The scheduled 10-round bout between Leo Houck of Pittsburg and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis yesterday afternoon ended unexpectedly when Houck failed to leave his corner at the beginning of the seventh round. It was said he suffered a fractured rib, but after an examination the club physician announced he found no trace of a fracture. Dillon punished Houck severely with body blows, forcing the Pittsburg boxer to hold on throughout the contest.

Moran Wins From Storbeck.

London, Jan. 2.—Frank Moran, a heavyweight pugilist of Pittsburg, won over Fred Storbeck, the ex-heavyweight champion of South Africa in the seventh round. Storbeck was disqualified for fouling.

Fight to a Draw.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 2.—Buck Crouse of Pittsburg, and George Chip of Madison, Pa., fought a six-round draw here last night. The fight was even throughout, each taking a good beating.

Donahue Outpointed.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 2.—Maintaining the defensive but landing short right jabs with telling effect in the first six rounds, Leo Kelly of St. Louis, won on points from Harry Donahue, the Pekin lightweight, in a ten-round fight here last night.

Fast Fight Is a Draw.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 2.—Willie Ritchie of San Francisco, and Paul Kohler of Cleveland fought twelve fast rounds to a draw last night. Ritchie recently came into prominence when he fought Freddie Welsh twenty rounds on the coast.

YOUNG HENRY BOYLE WILL RETURN TO MICHIGAN

According to a special dispatch from Ann Arbor, "Hank" Boyle, the Duluth football player whom Yost pronounced a better quarterback than either McMillan or McGovernor, is at the Michigan school making arrangements to enter school at the start of the second semester.

Boyle was the lad whom the Michigan wizard counted upon for quater the past season. Boyle failed to come back to school and the brilliant football future of the Duluth high school star was believed to be over. But if the dispatch from Ann Arbor is reliable the stocky kid is going back to his studies and will be eligible for the team next fall.

Playing on the freshman team at Michigan a year ago last fall, Boyle was regarded as one of the greatest quarters who ever entered any Western school. In discussing the prospects for the team of last fall, at the close of the 1910 season Yost paid a great compliment to young Boyle, stating that he would prove a greater player than McMillan, the boy who made the All-Western team in 1910.

Henry Boyle played on Central's great high school team of 1909. He was the star of the bunch. His playing at times was spectacular. As a football player the youngster ranks with the greatest high school players that Duluth has ever produced. It is hoped here in Duluth that "Hank" is going to return to Michigan.

Here is what the dispatch from Ann Arbor says:

"Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 2.—Boyle, star quarter on the Michigan all-freshmen two years ago and one of the greatest advancers of the ball that has been seen on Ferry field in years, is at present in Ann Arbor making arrangements for entrance at the start of the second semester.

"In other words, one of the fondest hopes of the Wolverine fans is on the verge of being realized, and if Yost does what a lot of people are figuring he will do, the make-up of the first string back field for 1912 is already assured. It seems the logical bit of dope that McMillan will be left at the quarterback place that he has held down for two seasons now, and that Boyle will be used at one of the halves.

"It is also certain that Craig will play the left half that he held down so well this season, and if he does, the place for Boyle will be at the other side of the captain, Thompson, who will, of course, be seen at full."

CHIVINGTON IS SURE OF OFFICE

A. A. President Is Confident of Being Re-Elected at Coming Meeting.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—At the meeting of the American association which President Tom Chivington has called for next Saturday, the president will be asked to appoint himself a committee of one to draft the schedule for the coming season. This detail is likely to bring up more or less of an argument as a few of the magnates have proposed a change back to the three-jump arrangement which was discarded two years ago in favor of the four-trip around the circuit schedule. Unnecessary expense has been the chief argument against the present system.

Even at this late date the election of a president does not promise to create anything of an exciting nature. Chivington is so confident over the outcome that he is directing his efforts along other lines and in the meantime his rivals are reported being unusually busy gathering votes. The present incumbent is said to have Kansas City, Louisville, Toledo and Columbus in line with Indianapolis and Minneapolis possibilities. Four votes is all that Chivington needs to retain his office.

Charles Moll, president of the Wisconsin-Illinois league may be nominated by Charles Havenor, the Milwaukee magnate, provided a fight develops. Havenor has been grooming Moll for the job, but if he sees there is little chance to oust Chivington, he will climb onto the band wagon to assist making the vote unanimous. George Rice of Chicago is another candidate and threatens to spring a surprise at the last moment, but this will be possible only through the breaking up of the Tebeau faction, and that is unlikely.

Fail to Lift Cup.

Christ Church, N. Z., Jan 2.—The Australian tennis champions completed their successful defense of the Davis international lawn tennis cup by defeating the Americans in the doubles match. The Australian team consisted of Norman E. Brookes and A. W. Dunlop. They won from Beals C. Wright and Maurice E. McLaughlin as follows: 6-4, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4.

Turkish Wrestler Loses.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Cordo Derello, the Turkish wrestler, lost to Jesse Pederson here last night, refusing to continue after losing the first fall, claiming he had been injured. Pederson secured the first fall in 6 min. 15 sec.

Norris Wins at Tennis.

Paris, Jan. 2.—Richard Norris Williams of Boston yesterday won the French covered courts tennis championship by defeating M. Laurentz in the final games of the series.

FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING CHILD

Californian Is Convicted of Breaking Neck of Stepniece.

Oroville, Cal., Jan. 2.—A verdict of manslaughter was returned yesterday in the case of Arthur Lewis, tried in the superior court here for the murder of his 13-year-old stepniece, Helen Rumball. The jury had been out since Saturday morning. The crime was of unusual atrocity. The child was found dead June 26, last, by a physician summoned by her stepmother, the convicted man's sister. Lewis was charged with having murdered the girl by twisting her neck until it was broken.

The verdict was a compromise one, the jury for many hours having stood eight for conviction of murder in the first degree and four for acquittal. Sentence will be pronounced Thursday.

Mrs. Rumabll, step-mother of Helen, indicted jointly with Lewis, will be brought to trial aJn. 22.

GEORGIA COTTON MILL OPERATIVES STRIKE.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 2.—As a result of the establishment of the sixty-hour per week law recently enacted by the legislature, about 150 weavers, loom fixers and other employes went on strike at the Exposition Cotton mills here. The men had previously been working sixty-six hours per week and objected to a cut in wages, corresponding to the cut in hours. It is declared the mills will not be forced to close down by the strike.

CHANGE OF VENUE FOR MARKS' SECOND TRIAL.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Jan. 2.—It is announced semi-officially that Attorney General Cosson will elect to try in another county the second count of the indictment against Benjamin Marks, charging him with compounding a felony in connection with operations of the so-called swindle syndicate headed by John C. Maybray. Marks was acquitted last Saturday night by a jury on the charge of conspiracy in connection with the swindles.

CONLEY IS KNOCKED OUT

Kenosha Fighter Receives Sleep Punch for First Time in Career.

Wisconsin Boy Has No Chance in Fight With Joe Rivers.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—Joe Rivers of Los Angeles knocked out Frankie Conley of Kenosha, Wis., yesterday in the eleventh round of their scheduled 20-round fight at Vernon.

At no time did Conley have a chance to win, and only once in the first round when he put a stiff left to Rivers' jaw as the latter was backing away and sent him to the floor did he land a blow that seriously interfered with Rivers.

It was one of the fastest fights between featherweights ever seen in the Vernon ring. Rivers fought all around Conley. His favorite combination was a left jab and a vicious right to Conley's face.

In the seventh Rivers had Conley all but out, but could not land on a vital spot. Conley's face was a fearful sight by this time. His eyes were nearly closed and he was bleeding from a half dozen cuts, while Rivers bore but one mark, a slight cut on his nose.

It was seen as early as the third round that Conley had no chance, and it was simply a matter of how long he could endure the terrible punishment Rivers was inmicting. Conley constantly carried the fight to his opponent, only to receive the worst beating of his ring career. In the eleventh, after fighting for a few minutes at the center of the ring, Rivers rushed and threw Conley's head back with a terrific right to the jaw. Rivers kept after his man and landed left and right to the body and face until Conley fell limp over the ropes, head downward, and suffered for the first time in his ring career a clean knockout. Rivers is now in line for a match with the winner of the Attell-Kilbane fight, which occurs at Vernon, Feb. 6.

CHINESE CUT OFF QUEUES

Celestials in New York Celebrate Establishment of Republic.

New York, Jan. 2.—A celebration of the establishment of the Chinese republic, coincident with the inauguration of its first president, was held in Chinatown yesterday. Hundreds of Chinamen rushed to their barbers early in the day and had their queues cut away, severing, as they said, the last symbol of Manchu rule. At noon, when 3,000 Chinamen gathered for the celebration, not a queue was seen.

Many of the Chinamen also shook off their sandals, and in heavy American shoes, climbed the stairs of the old Joss house in Mott street, which was rechristened "The Chinese Public Hall," and gravely bowed before a large portrait of the new president, Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

The hoisting of the new republican flag on top of the old Joss house was the signal for cheering which would have done credit to any American football crowd. "Chung Hua, Ching Han, Hoola, Hoola, vive la, vive la Chun, Chun," fairly shook the old walls of the Chinatown district.

Chinese girls and boys, dressed in American fashion, sang a new Chinese national song, entitled "The Country of the Chinese Republic" to the air of America. The sentiment of the song was something as follows:

"Dr. Sun Yat Sen has sown the seed and grown the republic. All of the Chinese should be patriots, of one heart, one love, and one life for their country and liberty and freedom. Manchu rule is gone and the Chinese shall remain forever free."

More than 500 of the new Chinese flags were displayed in the district, together with portraits of the new president. There was a parade through the district and speech making at the public hall. The shops contributed almost their entire supply of fire crackers, hundreds of thousands of them being blown from roofs and balconies.

RINGS ON HIS UNDERWEAR.

Man Who Stole Jewelry in Cleveland Arrested in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 2.—R. Paul Dunlap, 23 years old, an artist and athlete was arrested just after he sad down to a New Year's dinner with his wife, parenets and other relatives, and confessed that he stole fifty diamond rings and other jewelry valued at $5,000 from the store of John Huetter in Cleveland, Thanksgiving day. Sixteen rings were tied to his undergarments.

When the detectives entered the room where Dunlap was eating he ran into the basement, later emerging on the run and breaking through a glass door to re-enter the house.

Dunlap declares his wife, who had been held six days in Cleveland on the suspicion that she had received stolen property, knew nothing of the robbery.

WILL MEET UPTOWN RINKS

Second Game in Play Off for Manley-McLennan Cup.

This evening will occur the second meeting between the Duluth Curling club and the West Duluth Curling club in the series of games for the right to play against Superior for the possession of the Manley - McLennan cup. With the first game won by the Duluth Curling club by the score of 39 to 38 the members of the down town organization will exert every effort to take the contest this evening. The members of the West Duluth club believe that they can win this evening's contest and the next one. The game promises to be as exciting as the opening contest.

Following is the draw for this evening's play:

Duluth—J. E. MacGregor, lead; Bob Chrudensky, 2; E. N. Whyte, 3; Will Dinham, skip. Stephen H. Jones, lead; Sam Cleveland, 2; R. D. Bradley, 3; Ron McLeod, skip. Fregeau, lead; C. Graff 2; E. Jacobie, 3; C. D. Brewer, skip. John Oldham, lead; W Harris, 2; P. F. Helmick, 3; Ron Smith, skip.

Macaulay, 3; F. W. Ashley, skip. C. S. Raymond, lead; D. C. Wakeman, 2; Victor Method, 3; M. M. Evered, skip.

DULUTH HEIGHTS WIN FROM IRVING TIGERS.

Yesterday the Duluth Heights team defeated the Irving Tigers at hockey by the score of 3 to 1. The game was fast from the start and both teams showed good team work.

The lineup:

Heights.		Tigers.
M. Mahan	g	Stahl
J. Mahan, Brayton	p	B. Sieger
H. Conklin	cp	Jones
R. Hendry	c	A. Galareun
F. Fawcett	rw	Whalen
H. Kristenson	lw	Clark
A. Amundson	r	Dykins

Goals—Fawcett, 1; Conklin, 1; Hendry, 1; Galareun, 1.

High-Wheeled Bike Race.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Ernest Hockler won the twenty-second annual Pullman bicycle road race in a sprint from Lewis Kuehl. Hockler's time for the 11-mile grind was 36 minutes. There were 22 starters in the race. Hockler is a brother of Nick Hockler, who won the historic Pullman race last New Year's. In this race the old, high wheel bicycle is used by all contestants and the event is attended by many falls.

WRECK ON THE M. & I.

two ribs and a shoulder broken and is hurt internally.

Mrs. Jerry St. Cyr, wife of Conductor St. Cyr of Brainerd, hurt in the back.

O. V. Elnerson, 1093 Twenty-third avenue southeast, Minneapolis, has a leg hurt, probably broken.

Eight of the injured are at the Bemidji hospital and passengers here say two of these may die. Many were injured by broken glass.

W. H. Connell, general manager of the Minnesota & International, made the following statement:

"What is believed to have been a broken rail ditched Minnesota & International passenger train No. 34 at 1 o'clock this morning at Farley, a station thirteen miles north of Bemidji. A sleeper and two coaches were derailed and sixteen passengers bruised and slightly injured.

"The temperature registered 40 below zero. The baggage car was not derailed and the passengers on the train, of which there were not many, were loaded into it and taken at once to Bemidji, thus avoiding suffering and exposure to the weather. Two patients are at the Bemidji hospital. The engine, mail and baggage car kept the track, for the train was moving slowly."

Given Presidential Salute.

Dr. Sun reached the new Chinese capital at 5:30 o'clock in the evening and was greeted with loud cheering. Many prominent men among the revolutionaries met him at the station and accompanied him to the government house, the route to which was lined by 10,000 soldiers. The whole town was beflagged, the warships and merchant vessels along the river front dressed ship, and a presidential salute was fired from the guns of all the forts in the vicinity.

Government house was reached at 7 o'clock. The gates, the inner avenues and the court yards surrounding it were decorated with myriads of colored electric lights.

Dr. Sun, who was dressed in a khaki uniform, on his arrival held a reception which was attended by governors-general and other high officials.

Promised Reforms.

In the audience chamber, an immense apartment in government house, delegates representing eighteen provinces of China proper took up their positions around a raised platform. When Dr. Sun entered all bowed their heads. The president-elect proceeded to the central platform and there took the oath of office.

Afterwards he delivered an address in which he promised to disenthrone the Manchus, to re-establish peace, to promote trade and to devote his entire energy to the Chinese nation and aid the Chinese people to realize their aspirations. When the Manchus had finally abdicated and peace was restored to the nation, he would, he said, resign his provisional office.

The chairman of the delegates from the provinces then handed the new president the seal of office.

Proclamation Address.

President Sun then delivered a lengthy address in the form of a proclamation. In this he announced that a strong central government would be organized, the entire administrative system remodelled and modernized and a parliament representative of the people be elected. The provinces, he said, would be autonomous as regards local affairs, and each would select its own governor. The army and navy would be made national institutions, and under the control of the central parliament, which would also deal with the finances of the country. The whole fiscal system would be readjusted, but he was sure that the income of the country was sufficient to discharge its liabilities and to defray ordinary expenses.

After giving many details as to his program for the development of the resources of China, President Sun referred to the relations of China with foreign countries. He expressed on behalf of the new republic the feeling of thankfulness that prevailed at the consistent neutrality of the foreign nations. He said that the anti-foreign feeling which had previously existed would not appear in the new China.

The government, he concluded, was responsive to the will of the people, and he was assured that unity would prevail among all the provinces in supporting the central government of the republic. By doing its duty as a nation, he hoped the new republic would be recognized in the council of nations, and he could promise that the foreign policy of this government would be conducive to the peace of the world.

Wu Foreign Minister.

The constitution of the republican cabinet will be announced tomorrow. There is every probability that Li Yuen Heng, the republican commander-in-chief, will become vice president of the republic, while Gen. Huang Sing will be selected as premier and Dr. Wu Ting Fang will retain the portfolio of foreign affairs which was handed down to him at the time of the formation of the provisional cabinet some time ago.

President Sun this morning held a reception of the principal generals in command of the revolutionary troops in Nanking, which will remain the seat of the provisional government for the present. It is probable that the capital will be afterwards changed to Wu Chang, but it is certain that Pekin will not be selected.

Empress Wants to Fight.

Pekin, Jan. 2.—The empress dowager, who is desirous of carrying out a campaign against the revolutionaries, today advanced 3,000,000 taels (about $2,000,000) to Premier Yuan Shi Kai for that purpose. There are many indications that the northern troops are anxious to resume hostilities.

Mongolians to Help Throne.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 2.—A message from Kaigan, in the Chinese province of Chi Li, says that the princes of Southern Mongolia who are loyal to the Ta Ching dynasty have resolved unanimously to support the imperial government in fighting against the Chinese revolutionaries. They say they will declare their independence in the event of the establishment of a Chinese republic.

Will Attack Pekin.

London, Jan. 2.—A news agency dispatch from Tien Tsin says that Wang Wie Tze, who was sent to Lan Chow as the delegate of Premier Yuan Shi Kai, has joined the republicans and been elected leader of the troops there. He declares his intention to begin a march with the army on Pekin tomorrow.

Another dispatch says a strong movement exists among the imperial government troops garrisoning Lan Chow, in the province of Chi Li, in favor of a republic. These troops form a very important portion of the imperial army and were under the command of Gen. Chang Shao Tsen, who was dismissed owing to suspicions of his republican sympathies. The movement dovetails into a widespread conspiracy in Northern China to assist the Southern revolutionaries.

Boy Emperor Spirited Away?

Washington, Jan. 2.—Although without formal advices on the subject, state department officials are inclined to believe that China's infant emperor, probably the last of his dynasty, already has been spirited away from Pekin by his father, Prince Chun, and is being conveyed to the summer residence of the court at Jehol, about 150 miles northeast of Pekin, in the province of Chi Li, or is bound for the ancient Manchurian capital of Harbin.

The place of residence chosen for the young emperor is important. If he should be reared at Jehol, he would be under essentially Chinese influences, and might be in position to aspire to the throne again when he attains maturity, if the republic should fall into difficulties. In Harbin the young emperor would be dominated by Russian influences.

Big Treasure Accumulated.

It probably was easier to get the emperor out of Pekin than it would be to remove the great treasure which the throne has accumulated in the Forbidden City. This is estimated to amount to as much as £10,000,000 sterling, and most of it is in gold bullion and silver nuggets.

WRECK OF "THE OREGONIAN" NEAR SHARON, N. D.

in big business and dishonest men.

"We have got to have big business in this country if we are to compete in the manufactures and transactions of the world. But big business should not be permitted to oppress the people."

Asks About Breweries.

"I have noticed also that while Senator La Follette did great work in ridding Wisconsin of corrupt railroad domination, he has never said anything against brewery domination in that state. Really, as between the two, I should prefer railroad domination. However, it was good politics to fight the railroads in Wisconsin, but it would not have gotten Senator La Follette anywhere, probably, if he had fought the brewery-owned saloons.

"What I wish to make clear about this statement is that the senator has taken up those things which might be termed popular and that contained the least danger to himself. Now this may be entirely unfair, but I have thought it, and do think it still, and I wish to say it to you and to him face to face."

Of La Follette Personally.

Of the proposal that he introduce the senator, Governor Osborn said:

"It is entirely proper for me to welcome a senator of the United States to Michigan, and one who is so much in the public eye and seeks the public favor at this time. I have known Senator La Follette and of him for thirty years, or ever since he made his fight for district attorney of Dane county against the machine of Boss Keyes. I have followed his career always with interest, and with varying degrees of admiration and approval. Never have I discovered in my mind a single thought of what might be interpreted as condemnation. Most of my appreciation of him grows out of a defense of him on my part at every time I have heard him criticized. I have always believed him to be entirely honest, and I believe he is honest now.

"Right here let me state, so that there can be no misunderstanding about it, that if he is nominated for president (which at this moment I hope he will not be), I will give him my earnest and active support and will request my friends everywhere to support him with earnestness and devotion.

His Record.

"But permit me to run through his record as I remember it. I will not have time to go into great detail, but there are some things I would like to state because they find lodgement in my mind and I wish to be open and frank with the senator and with you and with the people of Michigan.

The governor then reviewed Senator La Follette's public career, beginning with the district attorneyship of Dane county; his fight with "the machine and bosses" in Wisconsin when a candidate for congress, and that while in congress, "whenever it was a question as between the interests and the people, he took the side of the people."

Governor Osborn then referred to suits brought some years ago in Wisconsin by the Democratic administration against previous Republican treasurers for interest on state deposits which had not been turned over to the state.

That Sawyer Affair.

"Senator Philetus Sawyer," said Governor Osborn, "had signed the bonds of one delinquent treasurer or more. Statement is made that he stood to lose several hundred thousands of dollars if the state won. The story is that he offered to retain Senator La Follette as an attorney in the cases. Senator La Follette's story is that Senator Sawyer tried to bribe him.

"Facts are that Senator Sawyer gave publicity to the matter before Senator La Follette made it public. Senator La Follette had, however, told the matter to intimate friends, and had been advised to tell Judge Siebecker (Senator La Follette's brother-in-law), and did so. Judge Siebecker refused to hear the cases and called in another judge.

Made Political Capital.

"After Senator Sawyer had given his version of the matter, Senator La Follette, then in private life, published a signed statement of his side of the story. But Senator Sawyer was never prosecuted for bribery or cited for contempt of court, and nothing was done except to make political capital for Senator La Follette, so far as I have been able to understand.

"My idea of this matter is that Senator La Follette should have prosecuted and punished Senator Sawyer for the criminal act that he alleged, or else he should have accepted it as a matter growing out of the blunted sensibilities of a man who had never had the polish of education or an ethical development.

Alliance with Stephenson.

"Another thing I do not understand is, why he should so bitterly condemn Sawyer, and afterward make an offensive and defensive alliance with Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, who is exactly the same type of man and certainly not the superior of the late Senator Sawyer.

"Senator Stephenson, pursuant to this agreement with Senator La Follette, started newspapers, and otherwise in Senator La Follette's interest spent hundreds of thousands of dollars. It may be said, to Senator La Follette's credit or otherwise, that he broke with Senator Stephenson as soon as he landed in the senate.

"Sometime afterward Senator La Follette became a candidate for governor and was successful. His continual triumphs, placing him finally in the United States senate, are more recent history and familiar to you all.

What Have the People Gotten?

"But what have the people gotten out of all of this? In every campaign Senator La Follette has spoken boldly, has been a potent agitator and has always landed in place of distinction and good salary.

"I have always believed that he chose to make a profession of politics. I have always believed that he had his interests primarily at heart. And I have often wondered whether Senator La Follette, in his brilliant oratorical and intellectual crusades, ever considered that there is very little moral distinction between the assault of a more powerful mind upon a weaker one and an unequal combat of physical arms. No man, however, has a right to read motives into the mind and heart of another man. I am entitled to my opinion, and that is all.

"A comparison of conditions in Michigan and Wisconsin would seem to show that, although the magazine in which Senator La Follette's autobiography is being published states that Wisconsin has prospered under the La Follette regime and because of his many disturbing campaigns, the facts seem to be that such is not necessarily the case."

Compares the States.

Among other things, the governor, in this connection, said that from 1900 to 1910 Wisconsin's percentage of growth in population decreased from 22.2 per cent to 12.7 per cent; that during the same decade, from 1900 to 1910, Michigan's percentage of growth increased over the previous decade from 15.6 per cent to 16.1 per cent.

"I do not pretend," said Governor Osborn, "to attribute this great falling off in Wisconsin to La Folletteism. I do not know how to account for it."

He also said that during the decade, 1900-10, "Wisconsin practically reaped a crop of one Socialist congressman, the first in the United States, and a Socialist mayor of her commercial capital."

In conclusion the governor said:

"I hope Senator La Follette may be retained in the United States senate during his entire lifetime. If he is made president, his influence will be over in eight years, even if he is elected for a second term. If he stays in the senate he will be on the fighting line for a quarter of a century yet. I do not believe he can be nominated for the presidency. I do not believe that he can be elected if he is nominated.

Proposes His Withdrawal.

"If he is really interested in Progressive Republicanism and in the welfare of the Republican party, I propose that he withdraw as a candidate, join me in asking President Taft to withdraw, and then permit the party to settle upon Albert J. Beveridge or Theodore Roosevelt as a candidate for president. I will go with him to either man. This will calm the conditions in the party, supply a candidate who has the respect and confidence of the people, insure an administration that will make for the highest welfare of the country, and will present a front to the enemy that will be invincible."

Nothing to Say.

Holly, Mich., Jan. 2.—Senator La Follette will make no comment on Governor Osborn's statement given out from Lansing.

"Why should he?" said Secretary John Hannan of Senator La Follette's staff this afternoon when asked if the senator would give out a statement.

BOY OF 6 DIES TO SAVE SISTER

Protects Her From Fire at Cost of His Own Life.

New York, Jan. 2.—Louis Brown, a motherless boy of 6 years, lost his life in a fire early today because he stayed by the side of his 4-year-old sister, Helen, and shielded her from the smoke and flames. A fireman, searching through the burning building, found the children unconscious and clasped in each other's arms beneath a bed. The boy had wrapped his jacket about the little girl's head to protect her. She had tucked her head down on his breast and locked her arms about his waist. Helen's condition is serious.

The children had been forgotten in the general scramble for safety.

SIXTEEN HANGED BY THE RUSSIANS

Tabriz, Persia, Jan. 2.—Eight Persians were hanged yesterday by order of the Russian court-martial and another eight were executed this afternoon in connection with the recent attack on the Russian troops.

The Russian court-martial sitting here to try the Persians captured during the recent fighting in the streets of this city, is exacting a heavy toll for the casualties suffered by the Russian troops. In nearly every case the condemned are summarily hanged and their bodies displayed throughout the day in the public square.

Shua Ed Dowlen, brother of the ex-shah, arrived here this afternoon to assume the governorship. He was escorted by a body of Cossacks.

The shock was felt at Rockford, Ill., at 10:18 a. m., an dat the same time was noticed at Elgin, Ill., where dishes and other objects were thrown from shelves in stores nd homes by the disturbance.

THINK THIS OVER

This Offer Should Gain the Confidence of the Most Skeptical.

We pay for all the medicine used during the trial, if our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obligated to us in any way whatever, if you accept our offer. That's a mighty broad statement, but we mean every word of it. Could anything be more fair to you?

A most scientific, common-sense treatment is Rexall Orderlies, which are eaten like candy. Their active principle is a recent scientific discovery that is odorless, colorless, and tasteless; very pronounced, gentle, and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. This ingredient does not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping, or other inconvenience. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons.

If you suffer from chronic or habitual constipation, or the associate or dependent chronic ailments, we urge you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Remember, you can get them in Duluth only at our store. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Newspaper Advertisement Points Way to Health

I can truthfully say that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a very good medicine, not alone for kidney trouble, but also for weak and sore back, as well as for rheumatism.

About a year ago I became ill and unable to work, my trouble being a lame back. I read of your Swamp-Root in the newspaper and in an Almanac Believing it would do me good, I went to my druggist, Mr. Skinner, and purchased a bottle. Finding relief in one fifty-cent bottle, I purchased several more and in a short time was able to continue with my work and am to-day feeling well and strong. I always recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to my friends as I believe it is as good a medicine as can be found.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Mme. Frances Alda's approaching visit to this city on Monday evening, Jan. 15, when she will sing in concert at the Lyceum theater giving the third of the concerts in the series planned by Duluth's musical committee, Stephen H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Horace W. Reyner, is one of the most interesting events of the season musically. Mme. Alda is considered one of the finest lyric sopranos on the American stage at the present time.

Under the heading, "Desdemona's Triumph," Gil Blas of Paris, comments interestingly upon Mme. Frances Alda's success with the Metropolitan Opera company in Paris.

"With curiosity," says the article, "we awaited the reappearance of Mme. Alda. Her marriage to Signor Gatti-Casazza has made her a center of glory and of money, and this envied situation has, of course, awakened interest. Mme. Alda deserves all her laurels. We must praise not only her voice and her absolutely faultless method, but likewise the sincerity of her acting, which revealed a soul of vigorous fiber."

ELKS HOSTS.

Dancers Enjoy New Year's Party.

About seventy couples enjoyed the News Year's dancing party given last evening by the Elks lodge at the club rooms on West First street. La Brosse's orchestra furnished a pretty program of music and pink and white carnations attractively arranged added a festivel note to the scene.

BIG RECEPTION.

Rev. and Mrs. Milne Will Be Honored.

A large farewell reception will be given this evening at the Pilgrim Congregational church at which Rev. Alexander Milne, the retiring pastor of the church and Mrs. Milne will be the honored guests. The event has been planned by the women of the church and will be held in the church parlors. An informal musical program will be given during the evening and all members of the church and all the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Milne throughout the city, are cordially invited to call and greet them before their departure for the South.

RANDALL-ROBERTS.

Pretty Home Wedding New Year's Day.

A pretty wedding ceremony took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Randall when their daughter, Clara Alice, became the bride of Josiah Jackson Roberts of Keewatin, Minn. Rev. W. B. Emory, pastor of the Merritt Memorial church, read the service in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends.

Red and white carnations were tastefully used in decorating the rooms and the bridal party stood under an arbor of smilax.

Mrs. Clyde Potts played the wedding march.

The bride in a gown of white crepe silk with overdress of embroidered net with pearl and messaline trimmings, carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by Mrs. Freeman K. Randall as matron of honor who wore a gown of brown with gold lace and maribou trimmings, and Miss Vera Rockwell as maid of honor, who wore a pretty gown of white and rose volle and carried Killarney roses. Freeman Randall, a brother of the bride, attended Mr. Roberts.

Showers were given for the bride before the wedding by Miss Margaret Gilpin and Miss Vera Rockwell.

ANOTHER AMERICAN GIRL WEDS A TITLE

COUNTESS DE SUZANNET.

Here is a new American countess. Her maiden name was Mary Constance Knower and she first married Henry Coleman Drayton of the Astor family. She got a divorce from him four years ago and now has married Count Jean Louis Suzannet. The countess was one of the two daughters of Benjamin Knower, a wealthy New Yorker. Their second cousin, Virginia French, married Count Louis de Suzannet of Paris and they had two sons. One of these, whose first name was Alan, married Margaret Knower and the other has just married her sister, Mary. The Knower girls have incomes of $20,000 a year each.

WOMAN'S RESPONSIBILITY

Mrs. Seymour Speaks on Drama, Music and Art.

The value of organizing an audience for the drama was the principal theme of Mrs. Seymour's talk this morning before her class in dramatic structure.

"The responsibility for the musical, dramatic and literary uplift in any city," she said, "rests with the women of that city. This is true especially with the women of leisure, and it is their duty to assume some responsibility in the matter and lend their effort towards raising the standard in all these lines. Just as the responsibility for the business of a community rests with the men, and as the big business men of any community in interesting themselves in business enterprises, and in new ideas, influence the community, so the women can use their influence in the drama, art and music by patronizing what is good and beneficial."

Mrs. Seymour spoke of the proposed organization of a branch of the Drama league here, and also announced that M. Papot, director of the French theater in Chicago, who gave a series of lectures here some time ago, would visit Duluth soon and would give a lecture before the members of her class.

In speaking of the drama in this city and the patronizing of good plays, Mrs. Seymour recommended the Forbes Stock company as worthy of patronage.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Kitchi Gammi Club Has Open House.

Ladies' night, with its elaborate table d'hote dinner and its informal dancing party, was the celebration at the Kitchi Gammi club of the coming of the new year. The dining room, gay with pink and white carnations and festoons of groundpine, palms and evergreens, made a pretty setting for the dinner and the handsome gowns worn by the guests added much to the effectiveness of the scene.

There were many small dinner parties of four, six and eight, and Miss Mary Paine entertained at a party of fourteen at dinner.

During the evening La Brosse's orchestra played a charming program for the dances, which were enjoyed by most of the guests.

THE EVENING STORY

JIM'S ROSIE.

By T. A. Brenton.

Motionless, as one chilled by the shadow of hovering death, James Morton sat by the bedside, with chin resting on his hand, marking the drifting into merciful insensibility. He had done his best; but here the inexorable, outstretched hand was not to be denied. Conscious of the impending end, the old man lay breathing in stertorous gasps, and fighting with all his weakening will to stave off the darkness of oblivion. Suddenly his eyes opened wide. Into the dimly lighted room the whirr of an approaching taxi-cab penetrated. At the abrupt stop the flicker of a tender smile told the watcher that he yet understood. From the dry lips came an unintelligible whisper.

Jim Morton rose and busied himself at the little table. His strong, clean-cut face showed no sign of emotion, but because he, too, had dreamed something of the dream of the old man, he needed the seconds to get a grip of himself. When the girl entered he turned and regarded her steadily with apparent unconcern. Costumed in rich furs, gowned for a supper at some swell hotel, she stood in the doorway taking in the details of the mean room, then, with a little gasp, she moved to the bedside and fell on her knees.

On the borderland of unconsciousness, the old man lay smiling into the blanched, troubled face. Still and silent, Jim remained on the other side of the bed, as one who had no part in this final scene. "Oh, daddy, why didn't you let me know?" The reproach came brokenly, as if wrung from her heart. The question remained unanswered. The dull brain now held but the one idea. His gaze went appealingly to Jim, who, reading question in it, bent over him. Gropingly the feeble hands went out, until they had found his own and that of the girl. Conscious of his purpose, they suffered him to bring them together across the coverlet, and there they remained interlocked with his own upon them. "Rosie-Jim-together-always." The whisper came hoarsely, jerkily, impelled by a final effort, and he spoke no more. Together they remained smiling into his eyes until consciousness faded from them, and then, very gently, Jim released his fingers.

"Is this the end?"

"He will go out like that," Jim's voice was very steady. "I'm glad you arrived in time."

"Why did you not let me know, Jim?" she faltered.

"He would not have it so," he answered, as he rose. "What might be done when he was stricken I have done. But—"

"Oh, I know you would do that," she cried. "But I was his daughter. I could have done so much!"

"It is the same house we lived in together, boy and girl," said Jim. "He was here." The quiet reproach started the woman to her feet. With hand pressed to her breast, and glistening eyes, she gazed across at him. Dispassionately he faced her. In level tones, scarcely above a whisper, he went on. "Don't think he resented it. He was very proud of your success; but no one knew from him that Rosie Garland, the favorite commedienne, was his daughter. Shall I tell you how he talked of you to me? It amounted to just this. The ignorant old cab driver would do nothing to make his girl a laughingstock for her new friends. Often at nights he would laugh gleefully to think of the wonder of your success after your upbringing. Many times he would desert the rank early to hear your turn. You would not see him in the gallery, but I can picture him clapping with the best. That night he persuaded me to go with him I remember his eyes were shining as we trudged home. And always he believed that tomorrow you would drop in to see him and the day he found deserted and whom he fathered—the boy who, in the old days, was your big brother. Until the last he worked. He wanted but to see you sometimes. Even from me, who had more cause to make some return for all his kindness, he would take nothing."

His words ceased abruptly, silenced by a sob. Torn with keen self-reproach, she fumbled at the fastening of her furs. Set faced, he regarded her, when presently she stood before him. If the wonder of the change from the Cinderella who had been "his pal" to the beautiful woman, gowned as if for a ball, stirred him, he gave no sign of it. If the old ache at his heart throbbed anew at her touch, his features did not show it. He had long since parted with illusions. Death had brought them together for an hour. Presently she would be gone again.

"Don't, Jim," she pleaded. "You don't know how you hurt me. I was thoughtless and flighty—always have been—but I cannot help my nature. The life here was maddening. Ever the longing to break away tore at my affection. He would not hear of the stage for me—perhaps if you had not come away, Jim, things might have been different. For a time I made no way, but the life had me in its grip. A song—a silly song with a catchy lilt—shot me to sudden fame. The rest you can guess. The gaiety, the excitement, all that conspired to make the old sordid life but a memory. Now—"

"He will pass like that," said Jim, as if he had not heard. "If you have an engagement—" She dropped her hands at that, as if chilled by his coldness, and shook her head.

"I will stay," she whispered.

"Very well. I have some rather urgent cases—"

"Jim!" Her hands went out to him again. "You think meanly of me, I know, and I deserve it. But I want you to believe that I have won through clean."

"Why tell me?" he whispered. "Can I not see it? We had no fear."

"Will you not tell me of yourself," she asked. "You're changed, Jim—older grown and stern."

"There is little enough to tell," he returned, with a shrug. "I am a slum doctor, with a somewhat extensive list of patients at a quarter a time. Pretty hopeless when poverty makes the prescribing of the most ordinary necessities a farce; but I do my best. I have acquired a certain reputation for cleverness. Although not very rich in reward, I do not complain of the experience."

"Jim!" With the handle in his fingers he turned and looked at her. "There is someone." He stayed her with upraised hand.

"You need not tell me, Rosie, how could it be otherwise?"

"I must," she went on. "He is rich. He wishes to marry me."

"If you care for him, what more is there to be said?" he answered.

"I am glad you did not draw your hand away, for his sake." His gaze passed from her to the bed, and, with a convulsive sob, she dropped to her knees beside it. For a few minutes he stood regarding her with the hunger of his consuming love plain in his eyes. Then, very quickly he closed the door behind him.

Jim Morton lounged in an easy chair before the dying fire, pulling reflectively at a last pipe. He was dog-tired. For twenty-six hours he had not slept. An unusual number of patients had required his attention during surgery hours, and afterwards he had gone out to several urgent calls which had come for him.

Since the dismal morning he had stood with Rosie at the graveside a week had passed. They had parted quietly at the gate, and she had gone back to her world and he to his work. For a brief space their ways had come together after long years.

This night his manhood was battling hard with the folly of useless regrets. He had been living again the old days when he had been the big brother, recalling the gladness of mischievous exploits, the occasions when, after some little difference, with her arms about his neck she had contritely "made it up." In those days he had been very sure of her. Ambition alone had not urged him to lift himself from the herd. He had wanted to make a lady of Rosie.

The years had been but idle dreaming. There could be no marrying now. She had tasted the sweets of life. Position and the luxury of wealth were offered to her. And he was a slum doctor! A ring of the surgery bell abruptly broke the thread of his musing and with a mirthless laugh at the thought of further work, he rose and went to answer it. At the sight of the caller his body became tense, and his face went strangely white. Her lips parted in a smile as she noted his surprise, and her two hands went out to him. "Rosie," he cried, as he clutched them tightly. "You?"

"I've come on from the hall," she confessed. "There's something, Jim, I've got to say that can't wait—something that's kept me from sleep." Gently he closed the door and followed her to the sitting room. In the few seconds of silence that ensued she took in its details. Her quick eyes noted the frame picture of herself on the wall — a page cut from some illustrated journel—and she turned to him with a little smile.

"Wonderful, Jim, isn't it?" she said, as she drew the pins from her hat. "We never imagined in the old days I should reach such giddy heights."

"You'll forgive me my surprise," he murmured. "I have to admit you cut into my thoughts of you?"

"Yes?" Her fingers were busy unbuttoning the long coat. He placed the chair for her, and stooped to replenish the fire. The feeling of weariness had magically been dispelled. When he looked round she stood revealed in a plain black dress, which, intuitively, he attributed to her own deft fingers. Quietly she moved to him and placed her two little hands on his broad shoulders.

"Something has happened to me, Jimmy, boy, and you've got to tell me what to do," she said. "Until that night—I confess it with shame—it was always number one with me. I was wilfull and thoughtless. I wanted to have a good time. Luck came my way, and everything was rosy. You can guess the life. It turned my head, Jim. I forgot my nearest and dearest. In the hour you left me with dad it all came back to me. It's been with me ever since." Beneath her fingers she could feel the tremor of emotion that shook him at her words. She noted how his hands came up a little way to fall again heavily to his sides.

"It's just this, Jim," she went on. "I told you, didn't I? There's somebody who wants to marry me; but I cannot go to him——"

"Rosie!" His two hands came up again and gripped her shoulders, fiercely, hungrily. She held him off, and at the effort, some measure of control came back to him. His arms fell away from her. The old strained look showed on his face.

"In the old days, Jim, we were sweethearts," she murmured smilingly. "I was forgetting, boy. Crowded pleasures and excitements filled my days. But with your hand again in mine the old affection seemed to leap in my heart—and I cannot go to any other man. Whether you take me soon or late.

"Take you," he whispered, with her upturned face in his hands close pressed to his own. "Ah, little Rosie, if you know how I have longed for you. But I cannot spoil your life. I could not ——" She stopped him with her hand upon his lips.

"Do you not think I have weighed it up?" she cried. "The other goes, Jim, when you like. You will not stay here long." He laughed aloud.

"It is not so far from Camberwell to Harley street," he cried. "With you to spur me on, Rosie, what might I not achieve?"

"That's the old boy," she laughed. "Little sweetheart," he murmured hoarsely, as his arms enfolded her, "You're very sure of this? It is to be as he wishes—Rosie and Jim, together always?"

"Always, Jim," she whispered, as she yielded her lips.

Ham-Marshall Wedding Is the Event of Spokane's Society Circles

Duluth society will be interested to learn of the wedding of Bernard Gilpin Marshall, formerly of this city, and Miss Judith Gladys Ham of Spokane, Wash.

The Spokesman-Review, Spokane, gives the following account of the affair under the date of Dec. 28:

"An affair of simple grandeur surrounded the wedding of Miss Judith Gladys Ham, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Ham, and Bernard Gilpin Marshall of Louisville, Ky., which took place last evening at All Saint's cathedral. The event was the occasion of the most brilliant society gathering of the holiday season and was one of the notable events of the year. The church was crowded with friends of the young couple, who gathered between 8 and 8:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dean William C. Hicks.

"Christmas decorations in red, green and white formed a brilliant and bright setting. The aisle was made of tall standards wound with smilax and surmounted with a wreath of English holly, around which burned a circle of candles. Red ribbons hung from each wreath. A similar arrangement of wreaths and candelebra was followed along the walls and hid the wall lights. The altar was banked with white chrysanthemums, which were arranged in clusters against a background of huckleberry greens.

"While ushers seated the guests an elaborate program of pretty nuptial music was given. Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy presided at the organ, assisted by Mrs. Charles Freese, George Buckley and Herbert Riley of the Berlin trio. The following program of six numbers was given: Trio, 'Abenlied,' Schuman; violin solo, 'Prize Song,' Wagner; organ solo 'Benediction Nuptials,' Dubois; cello solo, wedding music from 'Lohengrin,' Wagner; trio, adagio (D Minor), Becker, and a soprano solo with violin obligato, 'O, Perfect Love,' Mascheroni.

"The wedding party entered while the wedding march from 'Lohengrin' was played. The six ushers came first and next came Miss Mabel Spencer and Miss Hazel Lease, two of the bridesmaids, followed by Miss Margaret Bean and Miss Margaret Slawson. Miss Ramona Ham, sister of the bride, who acted as maid of honor, followed. Last in the procession was the bride, who was given away by her father. Mr. Marshall and the best man, Edwin Ham, met the bride at the altar steps. From here the bride and groom ascended to the altar rail where the impressive service was read by the dean.

"The bride wore a soft clinging gown made with the long empire line. A flimsy brocade was draped over the petticoat of thin satin and a long court train fell in plaits from the shoulder. The sleeves and bodice were of silver cloth and the bodice was trimmed with crystal and pearl. Her veil was of plain tulle and was held in place by a lace cap. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

"'Mendelssohn's Wedding March' was played as the recessional, and at 9 o'clock a large wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Seventh avenue and Lincoln street. Red poinsettias and English holly were used in the hall, and red carnations and poinsettias decorated the library. The fireplace was banked with English holly and poinsettias. The dining room, where refreshments were served during the evening, was also in red, and the centrpice of the table was a pretty arrangement of poinsettias in an art basket.

"Mr. Marshall and his bride have departed for Louisville, Ky., where they will reside. Mr. Marshall is one of the buyers of the Belknap Hardware & Manufacturing company, with headquarters in Louisville. He lived in Spokane about two years and during that time was with the Marshall-Wells Hardware company. He left Spokane about six months ago. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper Marshall of Philadelphia, were here to attend the wedding.

"The bride is one of the most popular girls of the city and a member of one of the most prominent families of the Inland empire. She attended the public schools here and finished her education at St. Mary's school at Knoxville, Ill. Mr. Marshall is a graduate of Yale."

ON THE IRON RANGES

WOULD AMEND CITY CHARTER

Virginia Charter Commission Is Asked to Submit Changes to Voters.

Reported Movement to Change Method of Appointing Firemen and Policemen.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 2.—A petition has been served upon M. E. Fanning, president of the charter commission, asking that the commission submit to the voters certain amendments to the present city charter.

A meeting of the commission will be held this afternoon to reorganize and consider the proper course to pursue. It is said that there is a movement having for its object to take power away from the police and fire commission in the matter of the appointments of the chief of police and fire department.

To Remove From Politics.

When the charter was adopted, the appointment of these officials was placed with the police and fire commission to take those offices out of politics, the chiefs being responsible directly to the commission. The members of the commission are appointed by the mayor and serve three years each. The commission is composed of five leading citizens.

TWO ICE RACES ARE PULLED OFF

First Events of Kind This Season Draw 500 People at Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first racing matinee on the local ice track occurred yesterday. There were two races with six entries over a half mile straightaway track. About 500 people witnessed the races.

In the free-for-all class Roy Prince, owned by local parties, won both heats, Cap S., owned by Mark Eddy, was second, and Honest John, owned by Dan Coffey, was third.

In the 2:20 class Bill H., owned by Hamel & Co., won in straight heats, Midnight, owned by John Ketola, was second and Harry Leland, owned by Gus DeNoble, was third. No time was given out.

It is expected that races will be held every week or two during the winter.

ITASCA COUNTY BOARD MEETING

Selection of Chairman and Other Matters Are to Come Up.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first meeting of the new Itasca county board is being held today. The board is not expected to take up the election of presiding officer until some time this afternoon. The choice of chairman lies between C. M. King of Deer River and Dr. Shellman. The board has a lot of work to attend to and will probably be in session the balance of the week.

EXPECT MACCABEES FROM ZENITH CITY

Duluth Members to Attend Installation at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Maccabees will install officers Wednesday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall on Cedar street.

Past Great Commander G. J. Mallory of Duluth will be installing officer. After the installation, there will be a banquet served by the Lady Maccabees. It is expected that a large delegation from Duluth will attend.

VIRGINIA AND EVELETH MINISTERS TO EXCHANGE.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Sunday, Rev. Mr. Neff, of the First Presbyterian church of Virginia will exchange pulpits with Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., of the First Presbyterian church of this city.

A New Year's day celebration was given at the Swedish Lutheran church last evening by the Sunday school classes.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

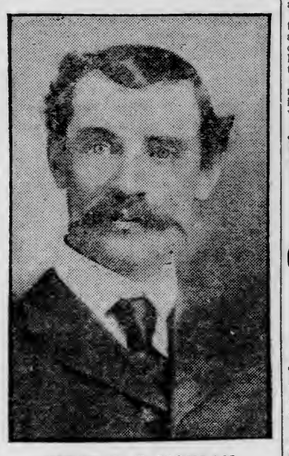

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. If, after you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

NEW EVELETH JUDGE HOLDS FIRST COURT

JUDGE W. E. MOYLAN.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. E. Moylan, who was elected municipal judge at the late city election assumed the duties of his new position today and held his first court. He succeeds County Commissioner Neil McInnis appointed by the governor to fill out the unexpired term of the late Judge Vivian Prince. The salary is $2,000 per year.

The new and old councils will hold meetings this evening at the city hall and it is likely President Joseph S. Wilson of the First ward will be chairman at both sessions.

SWEARS OFF FOR NEXT THREE YEARS

James Snell of Hibbing Says He Fell Off Wagon on Christmas Day.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Snell returned to his seat on the water wagon today when he signed the pledge before Judge Brady in municipal court and promised to abstain from the cup that cheers for the next three years.

Snell told the judge he fell from the water wagon on Christmas and that prior to that he had been a teetotaler for five years. The court was disposed to be lenient and let him go when he signed the pledge.

HEAVY SNOWFALL PREVENTS RACES

Chisholm Horsemen Unable to Have Events on Longyear Lake.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to heavy snowfall, the horse races scheduled for New Year's were postponed.

Snow began to fall the evening before, and the speedway prepared on Longyear lake was buried under a foot of loose snow, making racing out of the question.

The silver cup contest, together with the purse races, will be put over to some later date. The dog races were held, and a large crowd gathered to see the canines hitched in singles, doubles and tandem in the free-for-all start and meet half way of the two blocks course for a general fight, in which every dog and driver took a part.

By dividing into three races and reducing the number of starters, the races were pulled off successfully.

BUYS NORTHOME PAPER.

Hibbing Editor Takes Over the Northome Record.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claude M. Atkinson, owner of the Ore newspaper, has acquired from L. A. La Freniere of Grand Rapids the Record, printed at Northome, and will conduct both the Ore and the Northome publications in the future, leaving most of the management of his local paper to his son Marc. Mr. Atkinson will spend most of his time at Northome.

NEW YEAR'S EVENTS.

Several Eveleth Affairs in Keeping With the Day.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several New Year's parties were given yesterday. At the home of Mrs. A. O. Sisson on Jackson street, fifteen guests were entertained while the royal hall was crowded by the visitors who attended the leap year party given by Misses Jesmore, Talboys, Harwood and Prince. A buss load of Virginia residents were among those who attended the party.

At Gilbert, Miss Inez Jackson entertained at a party in honor of Miss Gladys Caine, who is attending the Duluth normal.

A party was given at Walonlahde hall by the Finnish Glee club, while the Runeberg Dancing club entertained at a neck-tie social at the Runeberg hall.

AFTER FIRE TRAPS.

Gilbert Council to Weed Out Undesirable Buildings.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the village council this evening a committee will be appointed to examine buildings to ascertain what improvements should be made to prevent fires.

Plans will also be made to deal with the mining companies in reference to the annexation of the adjoining mining locations.

The voters believe the mining companies should assist in paying the village taxes and as the funds are at present badly depleted much assistance is needed.

The annexation advocates also contend that those voting against annexation at Sturday's election would have cast their ballots for the proposition had they not been influenced by interested tax-payers.

All believe satisfactory arrangements can be made whereby the mining companies will become part of the village.

WHITE WAY PLAN BEING CONSIDERED

Growth and Improvement in Biwabik Also Warrants Day Power Service.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The installation of a white way on Main street will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the village council.

The expense of arc lighting prompts the move. Tile was laid during the summer in anticipation of the change. The completion of the paving on Main street in the spring and the laying of the large number of cement walks already contracted for has made the removal of the telephone and light poles a necessity. All poles will go into the alleys. The council plan to dispose of the machinery used in the old plant, which will materially cut down the cost of the new move. The growth of the town and the demand for more power forced the putting in of a new plant which is now operated from the Biwabik mine shops on a flat kilowatt basis.

It is the present plan to try out the day current proposition in the spring in compliance with the petition sent to the council in the fall. Before any change is made in the present plant, the council wish to ascertain if day current will warrant the outlay of money. It is planned to receive the day current during the experiment from the large mine dynamos, when they resume operations in the spring. Meters are installed throughout the town so only those using current for power or light will pay. Several merchants will install dynamos instead of the steam and gasoine engines now in use.

MAKES PERFECT SCORE.

Eveleth Bowler Credited With Making 300 Points.

Eveleth, Minn., an. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Frank E. Morin of the Winchester bowling alleys has resigned to take charge of the Gilbert bowling alleys. The local alleys will be conducted by Frank Winchester. Mr. Morin is also interested in bowling alleys at Tower and plans to arrange many games between teams on the range.

Percy Pryor last evening made a perfect score of 300 at the Winchester alleys which is believed to be the biggest score made on the range.

MESABA RANGE SHIVERS.

Temperature at Hibbing Tuesday Morning Was 30 Deg. Below.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cold snap has the Mesaba range in its grasp, 30 deg. below being registered by official thermometers here this morning, the coldest morning of the winter. Fortunately there is little wind. No cases of lives lost through the cold in this locality were reported up to noon.

HIBBING CLUB'S ANNUAL MEET WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Hibbing, Minn., an. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Commercial club will be held tomorrow night. Besides electing officers and hearing reports the club will consider securing a permanent home.

The present officers of the club are: President, D. McEachin; secretary; J. J. Lewis; treasurer, Miles Gandsy. It is expected all will be re-elected.

HIBBING MACCABEES HAVE SUCCESSFUL DANCE.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lady Maccabees entertained at their annual New Year's ball last night and the affair which was given at the Armory which was especially decorated for the occasion was a pronounced success.

Hibbing Bank Election.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Merchants' & Miners' bank of which F. J. F. Killorn of Duluth is president will be held tonight. It is understood that the past year was a prosperous one with the institution and a substantial dividend will be declared.

Eveleth Church Committee Meet.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special meeting of the social service committee of the local Men and Religion Forward Movement has been called by Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., for this evening at the M. E. church.

Bovey K. of P. Ball.

Bovey, Minn., Jan. 2.—Bovey Lodge of K. of P. No. 184 has issued 200 invitations to its annual ball to be given in the village hall in Coleraine on the evening of Jan. 26.

FORMER RICHFIELD NURSE IS KILLED.

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 2.—While returning from Sunday school with a sleighing party Miss Hulda Peterson, a trained nurse who came here from Richfield, Minn., a year ago, was thrown against a tree when the horses became frightened and died from her injuries three hours later. Miss Peterson received her training at Red Wing, Minn. It is probable her body will be taken to Richfield for burial.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

CONTINUED COLD

Some cold, eh? Don't pick up that brick; it's too cold! If you want to go out for a walk this evening, put four or five suits of 'em on, cover them with suits of clothes, overcoats, and other things, pull on a pair of fur mittens, let your cap reach well down over your ears and wrap your head in a blanket. Then venture forth, fearless and alone. Don't be afraid of not being able to see. You'll not run into anybody. Comment on this weather is superflous and dangerous. People are easily provoked. It was only 24 deg. below zero here. Minnedosa, which is up in Northwestern Canada somewhere, reported 36 deg. Canada somewhere, reported 36 deg. below. For small favors, let us all be thankful. The weather man holds out no hope of an abatement during the next thirty-six hours. He has barricaded himself in his citadel on the hill.

People thought it was cold in Duluth a year ago today, with a temperature of 8 deg. below zero. It was the beginning of a real cold snap.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:31 this evening, giving 8 hours and 37 minutes of sunlight.

Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Severe cold weather prevails throughout Central and Western Canada, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wyoming in connection with the high pressure condition centered over Saskatchewan. Barometic depressions overlying Wyoming, Eastern Canada and Mexico have caused snow in Northwestern states and Canada and rains in California, Gulf and South Atlantic states. The outlook favors a continuance of severe cold weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Wisconsin and Minnesota — Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; continued cold.

North Dakota — Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; colder in west portion tonight.

Montana — Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

Shippers' forecast: Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures ranging from 10 to 30 deg. below zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MINNESOTA POLITICS

Sam Y. Gordon's announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor may come any day now.

The Twin City papers and some of the country editors who follow the lead of the dailies which take their politics from Ed Smith profess to believe that Simpson's "king for a day" letter eliminated the lieutenant governor. Sam hasn't given any indication that such is the case. His popularity with those who do not fawn on the interests has increased, if anything, and he will undoubtedly be in the game.

Thus far it looks as though Governor Eberhart and Lieutenant Governor Gordon will be the only hunters for votes at the nominating convention. Disgruntled politicians who are opposed to Eberhart and dissatisfied with Gordon because he does not train with them, are endeavoring to bring out another candidate. They brought every known pressure to bear on Lindbergh and kept it up even after he had repeatedly announced his decision to keep out of the governorship race. His announcement from Washington that he will positively not consider any such overtures finally eliminates him from consideration.

Many others have been mentioned, but the booms have not progressed. E. H. Canfield of Luverne is the latest to break into that class, the Progressives turning to him from Lindbergh. If the Progressives should succeed in bringing out another candidate and Gordon should remain in the game, Ed Smith would smile, for it would be easy pickings for the present incumbent with two Progressives in the game.

W. W. Sivright and L. C. Spooner have also been mentioned. Sivright would undoubtedly not decline to make the run if sufficiently urged and Spooner has aspirations, but the candidacy of both hinges on the organization dropping Eberhart, for they are organization men. There is little likelihood of Smith cutting away from the governor. The state chairman feels under obligations to respect Eberhart's wishes and since the governor considers himself a man of destiny there is no possibility of his being turned from his intention of seeking a renomination, unless Knute Nelson should decide that he doesn't want to go before the voters under the Keefe law.

If Nelson should decide to take that unexpected action, Eberhart without question would turn his gaze toward Washington and there would be a scramble on the part of the Old Guard to get to his shoes. Nelson is old in the game of politics, and retirement, voluntary or forced, would break his heart. It is almost a certainty that he will never go into voluntary retirement while he retains his vigor, so that Eberhart's chances of making a run for the senate this year are very slim.

Unless there are some amazing developments within the next six months, Adolph O. Eberhart and Sam Y. Gordon will fight it out in the nominating convention.

Some papers profess to believe that George T. Simpson may be a candidate for governor. His revelation of the inner workings of the machine would appear to point that way, at first view, but not after careful analysis.

If Mr. Simpson intended to become a candidate for governor, he would have announced his candidacy at the same time that he told of the Smith interview. He would have made a grand play on the iniquity of the machine and would have appealed to the people to smash the organization and put him in the governor's chair.

Simpson bowed to what he considers the inevitable. He has always been an organization man. He and the others in the organization think that the brewers and the railroads are invincible. Simpson did not have the courage to go before the voters as an opponent of the organization and his timidity has been his undoing. He has retired to practice law and to watch the steam roller continue its progress over the people of the state, as he thinks.

Duluth is concerned with a municipal election that will occupy its attention for the next six weeks. The range towns are complacently moving along without much attention to things political. The great body of voters have not even considered the fact that county officers are to be elected this year, but the present officers and those who would like to displace them have not lost sight of the fact.

Strings are already being pulled and there will be a merry scrap on for certain county offices. Some of the veteran office holders are considered invincible and are satisfactory to the voters. Anybody who runs for office with no other platform than the desire to get on the public payroll has a poor case. In other cases, politicians on the outside think they have some grounds for an assault and they are framing up opposition that they think will be successful.

The Minnesota Mascot hasn't much respect for the office of congressman-at-large. The boom for Senator Lende, which has been punctured by the man most concerned, called forth the following comment:

"We see by the daily papers that they are trying to run Senator Olai A. Lende for congressman-at-large. That all right if Ed Smith will agree to let Olai have the nomination, for that means an election, and as the office will in all probability be abolished before the term of the incumbent expires Ed should also agree to let Olai get the nomination for governor, at the expiration of the congressional term. Without these two concessions on the part of Ed Smith we cannot possibly see wherein Olai would gain anything by flirting with this congressional proposition. It's an office that will be abolished and a man who takes it may count on having to leave Washington before he has become sufficiently acquainted to find the congressional cloak room without a guide.

Claude Atkinson's political editorials in the Hibbing Mesaba Ore are usually to the point. Discusing the Simpson incident, he says:

You can't beat the organization.

George T. Simpson, who today ceases (by resignation) to be attorney general of Minnesota, wanted to be governor to succeed Adolph the Lucky—wanted to be governor because there were so many good things he thought he would be able to accomplish for the state—but he changed his mind.

When it became apparent that Adolph was n. g., (meaning no good) Mr. Simpson went to Ed Smith (who is Adolph's chairman of the Republican state central committee), and asked him to gently but firmly acquaint the governor with the fact that he had outlived his usefulness and that he squelch the governor's further political aspirations for the good and well being of the Republican party.

Boss Smith thereupon admitted to Mr. Simpson that Eberhart is a weak sister, but informed him that Adolph the Lucky regards himself as a man of destiny and that he expects to remain in the state capitol until he is called to the United States senate or the presidency of the United States. (Boss Ed didn't put it quite as clear as that, but that is what Adolph has in mind.

During the interview Boss Ed gave up a few other little things that are interesting, among them being the admission that it doesn't matter to Boss Ed how weak Adolph is he is for him first, last and all the time, and so is "our organization."

Mr. Simpson was politely informed by Boss Ed that he (Simpson) could go out and roll his little hoop for governor or anything else he wanted to, but that he would have the organization against him.

Mr. Simpson, having been a member of Governor Eberhart's political family for several years, knew what that meant, and he decided not to make the run.

Boss Ed Smith is a creature of the brewery combine. He is at the head of affairs in the state of Minnesota, and he makes no bones about saying that the organization (meaning the brewery and other interests he so ably represents) want Adolph for another term or two, or longer if possible, and that they are going to have what they want, and

The outfit known as the organization, the affairs of which are manipulated by Boss Ed Smith is nothing more or less than the machine which stands for the Republican party of Minnesota.

NATURE'S WARNING

Duluth People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously.
But nature always warns you.
Notice the kidney secretions.
See if the color is unhealthy—
If there are settlings and sediment,
Passages frequent, scanty, painful.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills,

To ward off serious diseases.

Doan's have done great work in Duluth.

William Bain, 1402 E. Fourth St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Two years ago I gave a public account of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. I can now say that I have had no need of a kidney medicine since. My kidneys were so badly disordered that I was miserable in every way. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and were discolored. I had backaches and felt weak and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills quickly relieved me and the contents of two or three boxes made me well. I feel as though it were my duty to recommend this remedy when I can."

LA FOLLETTE ON THE WRONG TRAIN

Senator's Speech Schedule Badly Mixed Up By His Mistake.

Owosso, Mich., Jan. 2.—Senator La Follette, who boarded a Pere Marquette train at Saginaw today instead of the Michigan Central train for Owosso, was expected to arrive here via Durand and the Grand Trunk in time to deliver an address at the Owosso opera house at the scheduled time, 10:30 a. m.

At 10:45 a. m., nothing had been heard from the senator. County Chairman W. H. Bigelow announced that the meeting would have to be cancelled and the crowd dispersed.

Later it was said that Senator La Follette left the Pere Marquette train at Holly and that efforts were being made to have a special train bring him to Owosso, or at any rate take him to Lansing in time for the scheduled meeting this afternoon.

HYDE'S THIRD TRIAL IS SET FOR MAY 26.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 2.—When the case of Dr. B. Clark Hyde charged with the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, came up today, Judge Porterfield fixed May 26 as the date for the beginning of the physician's third trial.

The state asked for the continuance as Senator James A. Reed, special prosecutor, cannot participate until after the adjournment of congress. The second trial was halted by the escape from custody of one of the jurors.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Thomas A. Edison is expected to arrive in Chicago Friday and is scheduled to address a convention of electrical engineers at a banquet in the evening.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Hartburn, Gas, Sourness and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure Indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

DAMAGE BY BLACK RUST

Reports of Serious Loss in Southern Argentine Wheat Fields.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 2.—Reports of serious damage by black rust in Southern Argentine wheat fields had the effect of bulling wheat in many different parts of the world today. There were higher closes on the leading markets of North America. Duluth May closed at an advance of 1¼c. Cash wheat closed at the May price. Durum closed a cent up; oats, ⅝c up; corn, ⅞c up, and rye and barley unchanged. Bullish news from the Buenos Ayres flax market caused a higher close at Duluth, January closing ¾c up and May 2.c up.

Wheat was bullish today in all the leading North American markets. It was also very strong on the other side of the ocean. There was one good reason for this condition and that was the Snow report of black rust damage in the southern provinces of Argentina. The surplus of wheat for export from Argentina was estimated a month ago at 126,000,000 bu but the same authority has now cut this estimate down to $104,000,000 bu. Buenos Ayres wheat this morning opened ¼ to ½c higher. Liverpool closed ¾d higher. World's wheat shipments were reported smaller for the week. The European supply was shown to have decreased from last week's figure of 85,488,000 bu to 82,788,000 bu. The Canadian visible wheat supply was reported 1,139,000 bu smaller. A considerable falling off was shown in the American primary receipts. Chicago reported an improved demand for cash wheat. On the whole, there was very little news that was not bullish. Duluth May wheat, which closed Saturday at $1.05⅝ asked, opened today at the same figure bid, but by noon was selling at $1.06⅞. The Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg wheat markets were likewise bullish.

Flax Trade is Dull.

Trading was dull on the Duluth flax market. Both offers and bids were scarce. On the whole the market was strong. Buenos Ayres flax, which closed Saturday night at the remarkably high figure of $2.05¾ a bu, having gained 3¾c, opened this morning unchanged, and firmly holding this high position. Duluth January flax, which closed Saturday at $2.12½ asked was selling at this same figure at noon today. May was up 3c at $2.14½. Most of the sales of Duluth flax are still to Western crushers the Eastern oil manufacturers still cherishing the hope of a break in the Argentine market and holding off in their purchases on that account. The arrivals of flax at Duluth continue to exceed those of a year ago. The total amount of flax received at the Duluth market since Aug. 1, 1911, now comes to 5,675,140 bu against 3,062,890 bu during the corresponding period of the previous crop year. Today there were sixty-five cars of flax on the track for inspection.

FLAXSEED.

The week that closed last Saturday was a very bullish one on the Duluth flaxseed market. The average of the closing prices of cash flaxseed was $2.14. The average of the week before was $2.11; of the previous week, $2.05½; of the week before that, $2.00½; and of the week preceding that, $1.95. The gain has been fairly steady, although interrupted by occasional slumps. The main cause of the rise in price has been the bad thrashing weather in Argentina. The Argentine farmers are away behind the usual progress in their flax thrashing operations. Their circumstances are very like those of the Northwestern farmers last fall. Unwelcome rain is continually wetting down the flax fields, preventing the seed from being harvested, though the yield is large. That was the main bullish factor of last week. There was another, however, and that was the snowy weather in the American Northwest and Western Canada. When farmers have uncut or unthrashed flax on hand in the winter, they take advantage of every opportunity that the weather affords to get their seed into marketable shape. The weather of late has not been in favor of such work. Receipts at the Duluth market show a great falling off. They continue, however, to exceed those of a year ago by a very wide margin.

MARKET GOSSIP

The Minneapolis Commercial West, under date of Dec. 27, reviews the wheat situation as follows:

"Notwithstanding the very good swings in the market no definite progress is being made by either of the speculative factions in the pit. The trade is marking time, somewhat bewildered by the conflicting news from Argentina and uncertain as to what will happen statistically now that the first decrease has been made in the excessively large domestic visible supply. The mere backing and filling due to the technical shifting of speculative advantage in the pit counts for nothing, yet, at the present time it actually dominates the market. Wheat is stronger or weaker from one day to another chiefly because offerings in the pit from the trading fraternity are large or small as the case may be, which makes the fluctuations erratic and offers no attraction to the outside trader. There is, however, a suggestion of broadening trade; too small in itself to affect the market one day but buying in moderate volume for the long pull seems to be growing in favor and it would not be surprising if the aggregate business of this sort on the books of the commission houses was really amounting to something. This wheat ordinarily, is not to be dislodged by any adverse change in the market trend before the future approaches maturity or, at least, the market would have to decline drastically before such buyers would throw up their hands so, for the time being, at least, the buying power even though it is not large enough to affect the market particularly is not especially vulnerable to bear attack, at least the present sort of attack. This gradual accumulation represents, of course, those investors who believe in the year-end shortage theory and are now laying their plans to be in at the death. It is not true to say that this belief in higher prices is held only by outsiders; there is much bullishness among the professional trade but that is not the kind of buying that comes into the market until it is well under way. Even among those close to the pit who have been believers in the close adjustment of supplies to demand before the new crop some are disposed to swing to the feeling that too many people believe it. To those at all familiar with the peculiarities of the trade this sort of reasoning is not unusual."

Grain stocks in Duluth elevators on Dec. 30, 1911 were as follows: Wheat—No. 1 hard, 16,477 bu; No. 1 northern, 1,664,830 bu; No. 2 northern, 2,743,095 bu; No. 3, 526,892 bu; total, 4,951,191 bu; no grade, 43,340 bu; special bin, 1,921,955 bu; durum, 218,824 bu; bonded, 110,225 bu; total, 7,256,829 bu; increase, 494,836 bu; total a year ago, 3,398,071 bu; corn, 4,243 bu; increase, 3,140 bu; oats, 1,501,924 bu; increase, 127,885 bu; rye, 103,044 bu; increase, 5,344 bu; barley, 506,283 bu; increase, 4,913 bu; flax, 843,281 bu; increase, 34,070 bu.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Higher on Damage Reports From Argentina.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Serious damage by rust in four districts of South Argentina gave the wheat market today a decided upturn. The territory affected was said to aggregate 1,250,000 acres. Many of the fields were alleged to be in such wretched condition as to be not worth cutting. Bulls received additional help from an unexpected big decrease in the European visible supply. Besides, arrivals at terminals northwest of Chicago showed a material falling off compared with a week ago. Demand here, however, was far from spirited. Opening figures were ¼c to ¾@½c higher. May started at 99⅛@99¾c a gain of ⅛@⅝c and advanced to 99⅝c.

Severe cold bringing farmers' deliveries northwest down to practically nothing led to a further advance. There was also a large decrease in United States visible supply. The close was steady with May ⅞c net higher at 99⅞c.

Corn rose with wheat. Offerings were very light. May opened unchanged to¼@¼c off at 63¼c to 63⅜@63½c, and then ascended to 63⅞c.

Shale cropping had a bullish effect on oats. May started a shade to ⅛@¼c up at 47⅝@47¾c and climbed to 48⅛c.

Firmness developed in provisions. Initial sales were unchanged to 10c higher with May delivery $16.05 for pork, $9.40 for lard and $8.62½ for ribs.

Car lot receipts: Wheat 15 cars, with 4 of contract grade; corn, 247 cars, with none of contract grade; oats, 61 cars. Total receipts of wheat at Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth today were 473 cars, compared with 957 cars last week and 257 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, 95½@97c; No. 3 red, 93½@95c; No. 2 hard, 97c@$1.02; No. 3 hard, 94@97c; No. 1 northern, $1.05@1.08; No. 2 northern, $1.06@1.08; No. 3 northern, $1.00@1.05; No. 2 spring, 98c@$1.02; No. 3 spring, 95c@$1.00; No. 4 spring, 85@97c; velvet chaff, 90c@$1.02; durum, 90c@$1.00.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 2.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 2 points on January, which was influenced by the circulation of a few additional notices, while later positions were 2 to 6 points higher. The market here was firm during the early trading. The January notices seemed to be promptly stopped and that position soon rallied to a net advance of 10 points, while later months ruled about 8 to 9 points net higher during the middle of the morning.

Spot closed steady at 10 points higher; middling uplands, 9.35; middling gulf, 9.60. Sales, (delivered on contract), 68,500 bales.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Trading Is More Active and Demand Raises Prices Generally.

Ascribed to Reinvestment of January Interest and Dividends.

New York, Jan. 2.—A fairly active demand for the leading stocks raised prices moderately in the early trading. The three leaders, Reading, United States Steel and Union Pacific, rose ½ each. Some of the less prominent issues advanced more rapidly. Great Northern ore certificates advanced 2 points and Interborough Metropolitan preferred 1¾. Canadian Pacific sold today ex-rights to subscribe to the new issue of stocks. Its price dropped from $242 at the close of Saturday to $234½.

Hesitation which some of the railroad stocks displayed was dispelled and the market advanced. Union Pacific was the only standard railroad stock in which the improvement reached a point, but the general Western group and the coalers gained steadily. United States Steel moved up 1⅜ with a good effect on all other metal issues. Amalgamated Copper, State Copper, United States Rubber and Bethlehem Steel preferred, hardened 1 to 1¼. International Mercantile Marine preferred was pressed for sale and lost 1⅜.

The demand for stocks broadened sufficiently today to raise prices generally. Trading was more active and operations on the long side of the market were conducted more confidently. The buying was ascribed in part to the reinvestment of January interest and dividend payments made today. Some stocks reached a still higher level in the second hour. Bonds were steady.

The market closed strong. Stocks which had not figured conspicuously in the earlier advances, particularly Erie and Canadian Pacific, were brought forward in the final hour and lifted in substantial fashion. Union Pacific was bid up to 174¾, and there was a heavy accumulation of United States Steel round 69½. Late profit taking reduced the advances in some stocks slightly. Virginia Iron jumped 7 points.

BOSTON COPPER STOCKS

The Boston stock quotations furnished by Gay & Sturgis, 326 West Superior street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 2.—Judging from the preponderance of cheerful comment in the Jan. 1 editions of the papers business people are entering the new year in a hopeful frame of mind. If the share market is of the usual barometer this view is the correct one, as it has seldom looked any better from a bull point of view. Prices advanced steadily throughout the day and closed at about the best. Coppers are just as hard to buy now as they were at much lower prices. There has been no excitement yet, but the tendency is just as evident as though people were scrambling for stocks and the market is a great deal safer. Would buy stocks whenever weak.

THE MARKETING OF GRAIN

By J. Ralph Pickell, Secy. Council of Grain Exchanges.

The increased production of grain and its distribution at a minimum cost, is the most important economic problem confronting the American people. The Grain Exchanges of the United States are making an intelligent effort to solve this problem. The medium through which the work is being accomplished is an organization known as the Council of Grain Exchanges, which is now composed of sixteen of the leading Exchanges of the United States.

Two meetings are held each year. The first upon the third Thursday in January, and the second, upon the third Monday in June. Each exchange is entitled to not more than two voting delegates. Problems involving the production and distribution of cereals are discussed at these meetings, and recommendations are made by the Council to the various Grain Exchanges which are its members.

Marketing the Surplus.

The antics of the "bull" and the "bear" have not been clear. This is not to be wondered at. The problem confronting the Grain Exchanges is that of marketing at a minimum of profit, the surplusage of the 5,000 million bushels of grain produced in this country annually. In order to market this grain at the least possible cost, a system of future trading has been developed. Naturally it has been so rapid that many evils have clung to the system. In fact, the development of the United States as a Commercial Nation has been astoundingly swift.

The first railroad in the United States which daily carried traffic, was opened in 1836; the first steamer to cross the Atlantic made the trip in 1838; the first commercial telegram was sent in 1837 and the first cable flashed underneath the ocean, was in 1866. Within three generations this country has developed from a nonentity as a commercial nation, to the foremost in the world, in point of production and distribution of grain.

The Grain Exchanges, therefore, have been organized merely to facilitate the distribution of grain. Speculation has developed as factor in this distribution, and not to control or make prices for grain, but merely to register those prices as they are made by the buyer and seller of cereal products.

What are "Bulls and Bears."

The man who buys grain in a great terminal market in large quantities because he believes the price will be higher has been in commercial parlance termed a "bull." While the man who sells grain because he believes at some future time he will be able to purchase that grain at a lower price than at the original price, has been termed a "bear."

The "bull" conserves the interest of the producer by purchasing grain because he believes it will be eventually higher. Thus, when the enormous quantities of grain are shipped into the terminal markets during the summer months, the "bull" speculators buy this grain, if there is no demand for it by the manufacturer, represented by the miller and others, or the exporter. Thus the proper price level is maintained for grain.

The "bear" conserves the interest of the consumer. For if the "bull," desiring to get rid of his purchase, maintains too high a price for his produce, the "bear" speculators sell enormous quantities of grain, and then scours the country to secure it for delivery. Thus there is an eternal warfare waged in these great Grain exchanges between the "bull" speculators, conserving the interest of the producer, and the "bear" speculators, conserving the interest of the consumer, and the prices for grain are based not upon what these speculators believe it should be, but upon the operation of the eternal law of supply and demand.

BOARD OF TRADE OF THE CITY OF CHICAGO

The first steps toward the organization of the Chicago board of trade were taken on the 13th of March, 1848. For a number of years preceding that year a few enterprising men, under the leadership of T. Richmond and W. L. Whiting—who were engaged in the grain business—were desirous to have a merchants' exchange established in this city similar to larger cities of the east. Even at that early date the inhabitants of Chicago took great pride in their city, and had unbounded faith in her wonderful possibilities.

The Objects of the Association.

The objects of the association as set forth by its high-minded and sagacious founders, are:

To maintain a commercial exchange; to promote uniformity in the customs and usages of merchants; to inculcate the principles of justice and equity in trade; to facilitate the speedy adjustment of business disputes; to acquire and to disseminate valuable and economic information; and generally to secure to its members the benefits of co-operation in the furtherance of their legitimate pursuits.

PHILADELPHIA COMMERCIAL EXCHANGE

Philadelphia through its Commercial Exchange, an active member and one of the founders of the Council of Grain Exchanges, is an attractive market for the western shipper, and in exports as well as the domestic and jobbing trade occupies a conspicuous position. The members of the Exchange reach an immense consumptive territory, and through the use of the trunk-line traffic diverting points have extended their trade over the entire eastern portion of the country. The local trade is very broad and the daily attendance of members large, giving a ready market to all merchantable grain and feeding stuffs, while the department of inspection is in the competent hands of Capt. John O. Foering, a veteran inspector whose name is a synonym for honest grading, and a guarantee to the western shipper that his interests will be protected in the distant market.

OMAHA GRAIN EXCHANGE

From the time of the organization of the Omaha Grain Exchange until about two years ago, both future and cash markets were maintained, but the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City future markets offered all that could be desired for the hedging of grain and the members of the Omaha Exchange abandoned the option market, having decided to exert all their energies to the promotion of a larger cash market. The results have been extremely gratifying, as an average of over one hundred cars a day are sold by sample on the Exchange floor during the trading hours of 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and it is a very infrequent occurrence that cars are carried over to the next day for sale.

The trading rules are very strict and are closely adhered to. No consignee is permitted to convert his consignments to his own use and no trading in sample grains is permitted outside of the prescribed trading hours. This is done to compel all assignments being brought into the open market, thereby insuring to the shipper the highest bid obtainable.

CAIRO BOARD OF TRADE

The Cairo board of trade is an institution composed of grain men, dry goods merchants, grocers and progressive citizens of the city of Cairo, Ill., who have the best interests of the southern gateway at heart. Cairo is an important distributing center for grain and hay and the market draws its supplies largely from Illinois and adjacent territory. The weighing and inspecting departments have recently been placed under the supervision of the board.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE OF ST. LOUIS

The grain exchanges of the country are the mediums through which the products of the field and farm are transferred from the producer to the consumer. Among the most important of these organizations is the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis, the oldest trading organization in the United States and third largest primary receiving market. In futures (sometimes erroneously called options) the volume of transactions is probably greater than any other primary market except Chicago.

It maintains a traffic bureau for guarding the transportation interests of the city and preventing and correcting discriminations in freight rates in the interest of both the shipper and the receiver. It also maintains a department of weights for the purpose of securing the accurate and correct weighing of all property handled by members of the Exchange and their shippers.

TOLEDO PRODUCE EXCHANGE

Situated in the heart of the most superb winter wheat raising section and having established a milling trade which demands the highest quality of grain, shippers are assured of full current values, while interior mills, who are buyers, can count on uniformity and regularity of grades.

Being the most important clover seed market in the world, and being in the territory raising a large proportion of this crop, Toledo sets the pace and the price, the latter being more satisfactory to the shipper on low grades than many other markets because of the competitive bidding for the same.

The immense timothy seed arrivals this fall is but proof of the wiseness of the interior in marketing its holdings where it is to its advantage. Our local commission mills run steadily and pay top prices for their stock, white grades being always in demand. Shipping demand for oats is more or less constant. Call bids go out daily in the afternoon papers.

SAN FRANCISCO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The trade in flour, grain, beans and cereals of the State of California centers in the Grain Trade Association of San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, whose offices and hall are in the Merchants Exchange building, 431 California street, San Francisco, Cal.

There are two sessions daily from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 2 p. m., except on Saturdays, when there is no afternoon session.

Trading in "futures" is carried on at both sessions, samples are displayed only at the morning session. Except for delivery on future contracts grain in California is almost invariably sold by sample of individual lots as they come on the market from the farms. A large part of the grain exported and all that is delivered on time contracts is inspected.

CORN EXCHANGE OF BUFFALO

The Corn Exchange of Buffalo, representing as it does the united grain interests of the port, offers to the grain shipping and consuming trade the largest exclusive cash grain market in the United States. The unexcelled, natural advantages, due to the location of the city, together with the rail and water transportation facilities she possesses, places Buffalo among the foremost grain markets upon the Great Lakes.

Buffalo being the termini between the shipping interests of the producing west and northwest and the consuming interests of the Atlantic seaboard, especially favors her as a grain receiving center. The numerous railways entering the city, together with the water route, renders the most complete facilities for carrying the vast grain product of the west to the market.

MINNEAPOLIS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce is composed of a membership largely devoted to the marketing of wheat. Minneapolis is the greatest hard wheat market in the world. It is the largest flour milling center in the world. The terminal elevator capacity of Minneapolis is over 40,000,000 bushels, making that city naturally a very important distributing center.

PEORIA BOARD OF TRADE

The Peoria market is for cash grain only. There is no option business handled in that market. It is a large point for accumulation and distribution of corn and oats. Having storage capacity of about two and a half million bushels, and a transfer capacity at elevators of about two hundred cars per day.

Peoria is a large consumptive market for corn. The daily grinding there amounts to about fifty thousand bushels per day, for glucose and distilling.

The receipts of grain are mainly from Illinois and Iowa, although the lower grades of corn are shipped here at times from all the western and some of the southern states, to be used locally.

Grain for shipment is sold from there to all points east and south. The rules for the inspection of grain at Peoria are those adopted by the Grain Dealers' National association.

NEW YORK PRODUCE EXCHANGE

The New York Produce Exchange has been for many years the center of a large part of the commercial activity of the city of New York. Its trading floor is a great, big market place; nothing more, nothing less. Its membership now numbers 2,046, embracing a great variety of trade interests. Trades are made in wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley and other grains, flour, meal, hops, hay, straw, seeds, pork, lard, all sorts of meat food products, tallow, greases, cottonseed oil and various other animal and vegetable oils, naval stores, butter, cheese and other commodities, in quantities ranging from a single package to whole cargoes. Each class of trade is carried on under rules adopted by the members interested in that particular trade, and is subject to only such general rules and practices of the Exchange as are necessary to properly conduct the government of the Exchange as a whole.

WICHITA BOARD OF TRADE

The establishment of a center of commercial activity in any certain line of trade is not an accident. It is not to be expected that the iron and steel trade would concentrate in Kansas, any more than that the fruit trade should center in Pennsylvania or the lumber business in some prairie state. The great grain growing interests of the state of Kansas demanded a primary market close to the point of production.

That, then, is the reason for the establishment and growth of the Wichita Board of Trade and grain market and of our hopes and belief as to it's future. Kansas raises more wheat than any other one state. Our sister states of Nebraska and Oklahoma are large producers also. The territory which we command is ideal from a grain standpoint. The location and railroad facilities of the city are such that at no other point can a primary market be so successfully established.

DULUTH BOARD OF TRADE

The Duluth market is the leading flax and durum wheat market of the country. When durum wheat came into a large growth in the northwest, Duluth export firms pushed it strongly in foreign markets, and were a strong factor in bringing about the large demand that now exists for American durum abroad.

MILWAUKEE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Milwaukee occupies a place among the important terminal grain markets of this country that is somewhat unique, in that the weighing and inspection of the grain are both under the control of the local exchange and are not matters of state supervision. In this she furnishes an argument against the assumption of these duties by the state, and for their retention by the local association whose members buy and sell the products marketed, for Milwaukee's inspection and weighing enjoy a particularly excellent reputation among dealers in grain throughout the country. Through these departments of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce are handled annually grain of all kinds to the amount of close to 50,000,000 bushels, and complaints regarding the weights or grading of all this grain are rare indeed when we consider the large amount passing through the Milwaukee gateway to the north, east and south by rail and by lake, and into mills and malt houses for local consumption.

BOARD OF TRADE OF KANSAS CITY, MO.

Kansas City is the largest primary winter wheat market in the country. As a milling center it ranks third in the United States—requiring 60,000 bushels of wheat per day, when the mills are running full time. It has a grain storage capacity of 11,000,000 bushels. In the year 1910 there were received 43,527,700 bushels of wheat, 17,619,400 bushels of corn, 5,451,500 bushels of oats, 79,200 bushels of rye, 394,200 bushels of barley, 53,510,000 pounds of kaffir corn, 11,620 tons of bran and 301,488 tons of hay. Millers from every section of the country, desiring hard winter wheat, naturally look to this market.

A very large future business is transacted on the floor of the Board of Trade. All future quotations in this market are transmitted to St. Louis, Chicago and Minneapolis, from which markets all quotations are received and posted. All future trades are reported to and settled through the Board of Trade Clearing House, to which all deliveries of grain on future trades are made.

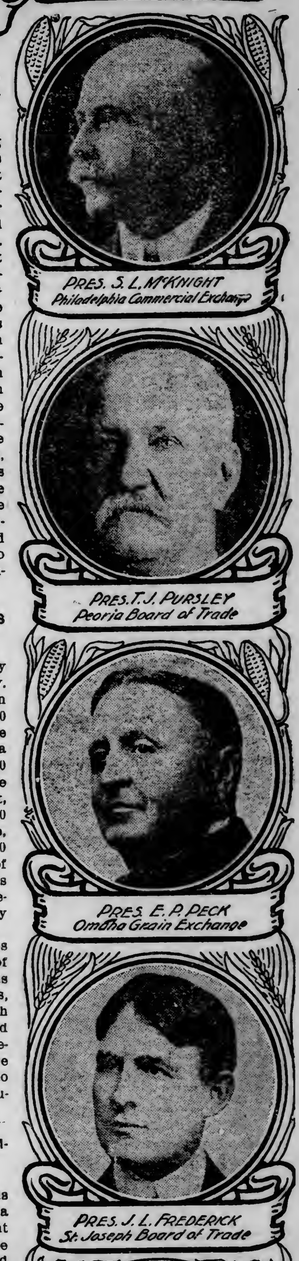

BALTIMORE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Grain arriving at Baltimore is placed in the elevator yards and a member of the weighing department of that chamber with a representative of the railroads, examine all cars and a record is made of their condition. The inspectors grade the grain at the car and if contract, order it unloaded, unless otherwise instructed. On off grades, samples are drawn and sent to the consignee.

All sales of graded grain are for cash on delivery of property, or of the elevator receipts transferring the grain, and the transfer and delivery of such receipts, accompanied by a bill, or by a memorandum setting forth the name of the party making the delivery, the number of bushels delivered, the price, and the date and description of the contract to which it is to be applied, under the rules of this chamber, is a conclusive transfer and delivery of the grain.

ST. JOSEPH BOARD OF TRADE

St. Joseph, Mo., is located very close to the center of the western grain fields. The grain market represented by the St. Joseph board of trade handles a large volume of business during the course of the year, and one of the most important features in connection with the grain and hay business of the St. Joseph board of trade is that its volume of business is handled with dispatch; there is no delay in handling grain on account of inefficient switching facilities or congestion in railroad yards.

ZAUFT'S RINK GOES INTO SEMI-FGINALS.

Four games were played yesterday afternoon and evening at the Western curling rink for the Union Match company trophy, bringing Zauft's rink into the semi-finals. A large crowd of skaters watched the games and the following are the results: Zauft defeated Method, 11 to 8; Olson won from Evered, 12 to 8; Clark defeated Holland, 12 to 11, and Zauft played Brown in the evening, winning by 12 to 11.

Prelim'ary.	First Round.	Semi-Finals.
Zauft Method	Zauft	Zauft
Brown Wade	Brown
Barnes Wieland
Evered Olson	Olson
Ashley Judson
Holland Clark	Clark
	Iltis Buckley	Iltis

There are no games scheduled for this evening, as the majority of the members will accompany the rinks which will be skipped by Evered, Macauley, Zauft and Clark to the Duluth curling rink, where they will play the second of the series in the Manley-McLennan event. If the West Duluth rinks win this evening, a third game will be necessary.

YOUNG PEOPLE WED ON NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Miss Marie Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Olson, 609 South Sixty-seventh avenue west, and Nels A. Nelson of West Duluth were the participants in a New Year's wedding at the home of the bride's parents yesterday afternoon. Rev. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church officiated, following which a wedding supper was served to the relatives and immediate friends of the couple. The groom was assisted by Arthur Wallinder and Rudolph Olson and the bride by Elinor Bartholdi and Rose Nelson. The couple left this morning for an extended trip through the South and the Southwest and will return in about two months to make their home in West Duluth.

WEST DULUTHIANS EAGER FOR NEW PARK.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club and many residents in this end of the city attended the joint meeting of the council committee on harbors, parks and roads and the park commissioners at the city hall this afternoon, for the discussion of the proposed purchase of property at the foot of Kingsbury creek for a water front park.

The proposition to enlarge Fairmont park so that it will reach down to the water front, has met with the approval of every resident in this end of the city and they are all anxious to have the council allow the purchase of the property.

MEETS MANY WEST DULUTHIANS IN SOUTH.

Joseph Moore of West Duluth is traveling through Florida during the winter and while at Santa Rosa met a number of former residents of West Duluth, who have moved there and gone into the farming business. He wrote one of the West Duluth business men telling him that he saw Frank Gottwald, James Dee and J. J. Lauerman.

Entertains Scouts.

O. C. Dodge, scout master of the Presbyterian church at New Duluth, entertained the Boy Scouts in the church parlors Sunday evening. The evening was spent in music and games following which a light supper was served. Among those present were Leslie Giddings, George Relndl, Sidney Jacobsen, Joseph Rutter, Christan Dahl, George McDonald, Albert Rutter, Harry Hanson, William McEachen, Joseph Ahrens and William Ahrens.

Are Now in Berlin.

Alderman L. A. Barnes received a letter this morning from Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Levy of 308 Central avenue, who are touring the world at the present time and are now in Berlin. Mr. and Mrs. Levy have been gone a year on their trip and expect to return sometime in 1913.

Successful in South.

Friends of J. J. Lauerman, formerly of West Duluth and now of Florida, are al pleased to hear of his success in farming in the South. Mr. Lauerman left here last June and bought a farm in the southern part of the state and in a letter ti his friends in West Duluth he told them of the conditions and how he enjoyed his Christmas dinner.

"I had lettuce, sweet potatoes, new onions and spring chicken" he wrote in part, "on my Christmas table and they were all raised on my farm since last June."

Joint Installation.

Division No. 2, L. A. A. O. H. and Division No. 4, A. O. H., will hold joint installation ceremonies Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Gilley's hall. Following the installation a special program of music and addresses will be given by the members of the two orders. Among those who will speak during the evening are Fred Ryan, state president, and Rev. D. W. Lynch, pastor of St. James' Catholic church and chaplain of county lodges.

Watch Night Party.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ramsey, 115 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, entertained at a watch night party at their home Sunday evening. The evening was spent in music and cards, following which luncheon was served. Those present were the Messrs. and Mesdames George Dunleavy, John Killar, T. L. Thomas, Otto Schultz, Ray Grover and Emil Schulz of Milwaukee.

Disorderly Charge.

Frank Manlett was arrested last evening by Officer Oscar Peterson on a charge of disorderly conduct, preferred by Mrs. Himes of 5514 Grand avenue, where Manlett formerly boarded. He will be tried today.

LOCAL CHINESE ARE PLEASED

Americanized Celestials Approve Adoption of Republican Form of Government.

Chin Ong, proprietor of the Mandarin cafe, says that the Chinese of the United States are extremely gratified over the transformation of China from an empire to a republic.

"We have been looking forward to this change for some time," said he. "It is something that we have wanted and something that we have expected. The change is one agreeable to us and one that will meet with the approval of many of the Chinese subjects in the United States."

ROOSEVELT SPHINX-LIKE.

Refuses to Confirm or Deny Rumors About Candidacy.

New York, Jan. 2.—With a general refusal to confirm or deny any rumor Col. Roosevelt declined today to discuss a report that a movement was afoot in New Jersey to place his name on the presidential primary ballot.

The former president was asked if he had been approached by any one of consequence or authority in New Jersey politics with a view to having his named placed on the ballots.

"That necessarily involves a definition of the phrase 'Any one of consequence or authority,'" he replied. "I must decline to confirm or deny any reports or rumors of this sort."

GROWTH HAS BEEN STEADY

Herald's Average Circulation for Year Past Was 27,020.

Only Daily in State Which Has Never Used Premiums.

The daily average circulation of The Herald for the year, excluding samples, waste, unused and returnable copies, was 27,020, and the grand total circulation for 1911 was 8,430,120—a record which leads all other Minnesota newspapers outside of the Twin Cities, by thousands of subscribers.

The Herald started in 1890 with a circulation of 2,200, a mere handful of subscribers. By carefully following the policy of securing subscribers and advertisers on the merits of The Herald as a newspaper, and not through subscription contests, the present high record has been reached.

Giving a newspaper away with a dictionary, map, carpet sweeper, etc., is a practice which every self-respecting newspaper of this day, has discontinued. Bought circulation is always unreliable and the shrewd advertiser never patronizes it.

Postmaster General Hitchcock in his last message to congress recommended against such practices and suggested that newspapers which buy their circulation by selling premiums and "throwing in the paper," be denied the second-class privileges of the mails.

Through its record of twenty-one years, The Herald has been the only daily newspaper in Minnesota, which has not at some time in its history, used a voting, guessing, or premium scheme to artificially stimulate its circulation.

BREEDER OF LITIGATION

Thirty Cases Arise From Double System of Entering on Lands.

First of Long Series Being Heard By Land Office Officials.

Proofs of the trouble which invariably grows out of the double entry system used by the United States land department in the opening and settlement of new lands is amply given by some twenty-five or thirty cases involving disputes of ownership which have arisen from the opening of the Fond du Lac reservation last August.

The first of the cases, which is a three-cornered fight, was up for a hearing this morning at the land office in the federal building.

Fred Yrlas of Cloquet, a "squatter," claims that he settled on lot 4, sw¼ of nw¼ and lots 1 and 2, section 3, 49-48, at 9 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 22 and that he filed for the same at the United States land office on Aug. 23 at 9:45 o'clock.

Henry Hela of 27 Seventh avenue west, filed for an entry for lot 4, sw¼ of nw¼, 3 49-18, at 9:48 a. m., Aug. 22.

Henry Asumaa of 322 Hughitt avenue, Superior, made an entry for lots 1 and 5, 3, 49-18 at 9:47 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 22.

The case was not finished today, and was adjourned. There are thirty cases of a similar nature, where disputes over claims are involved. Some of them, however, may be settled by compromise and may not come up at the land office for a hearing.

FARMERS' SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED

Short Course at Crookston School of Agriculture Proves Popular.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers' short course opened at the Crookston School of Agriculture this morning with a large attendance, representing a wide territory in Northern Minnesota and outside. Prof. C. P. Bull spoke just before dinner on "Types and Selection of Seed Corn" and on "Crop Improvement Work" this afternoon. A special train service was inaugurated to the school this morning for the first time and will continue during the short course. An encouragement of 500 is indicated. The 32 deg. below weather did not deter any, apparently, from attending today. Other speakers this morning were Superintendent Selvig and Professors Milsborrow and McCall.

SHERIFF HAD A BUSY YEAR

The year 1911 was a busy one for the sheriff's office, for according to the report filed today with the couny commissioners by Deputy Victor Dash, the money received this year amounted to $146,902.69 and the disbursements, $98,888.13. There is at present the sum of $48,014.56 in the bank.

In the year 1911 more money was handled in the sheriff's office than ever before in the history of the county. The civil fees last year were $5,020,92 and this year they amount to $7,631.82, an increase of $2,610.90.

Sheriff Meining has been in office just one year, having taken the office a year ago today.

MARINE

WILL SHIP FROM GREAT NORTHERN DOCKS.

It is understood on good authority that the Great Northern railroad will handle what ore the Northern Pacific railroad may ship next year from the Cuyuna range.

A deal is said to have been made between the roads which calls for a 25-cent dock fee for the Great Northern, which would leave 35 cents for the transportation of the ore from the mines to Allouez.

It is not believed that the dock fee is less than 25 cents a ton, nor is it thought that the arrangement will be for any considerable period.

The Northern Pacific as yet has shipped no ore out of the Cuyuna range, but it is expected that two properties will start shipping next spring.

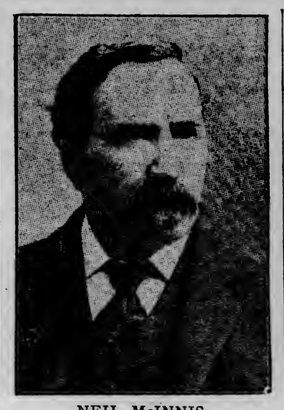

Three years ago there were no mines on the Cuyuna, the range being a comparatively new discovery. The Soo line will ship from three mines next season, it is stated.

ORE STATISTICS IN ANNUAL PUBLICATION.

Some valuable statistics are given out in the published proceedings of the Lake Superior Mining Institute's sixteenth annual meeting, which was held on the Menominee range, Michigan, last year.

It is an interesting fact to know that the Lake Superior mines have shipped since the development of the industry in 1885, 492,461,388 tons, up to and including 1910. The 1911 figures would bring the total up to 520,000,000. The Minnesota mines did not commence shipping until after the Michigan mines.

COUNTY BOARD HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTION

NEIL McINNIS.

JOSEPH CUMMINGS.

Neil McInnis of Eveleth, Minn., was again elected chairman of the board of county commissioners at the annual meeting of the board held this afternoon at the courthouse.

The present will be Mr. McInnis' fourth term as chairman of the county board.

Joseph Cummings, who acted as temporary chairman of the board today, was elected vice chairman for the coming year.

All the commissioners were present at the annual meeting. Commissioner Fraser, who has been ill for some time, was in attendance and was receiving congratulations on his return to health.

There were some changes on the standing committees. The committees now consist of the following:

Highways and bridges—Fraser, Tischer, Cummings, McMahan, Overton, McInnis and Ryan.

Claims and accounts—Cummings, Tischer, Ryan and McMahan.

Taxes and assessments—Ryan, McMahan, Tischer and Overton.

License and legislation—Tischer, McMahan, Fraser and Ryan.

Supplies and purchasing—Fraser, Overton, Cummings, and Tischer.

Courthouse — McMahan, Overton, Fraser and Tischer.

Jail—Overton, Cummings, Fraser and Ryan.

After the election of the chairman and vice chairman, and the changes had been made on the standing committees, a recess was taken.

The commissioners then went into the consideration of bills and the opening of bids for county printing contracts.

The annual meeting will be continued tomorrow morning.

GOT ROOSEVELT'S NAME ON NEBRASKA BALLOTS

JOHN O. YEISER.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 2.—The Omaha attorney who nominated Theodore Roosevelt as Republican candidate for the presidential nomination in Nebraska is John O. Yeiser. Mr. Yeiser presented the petition, paid the filing fee and gave notice that later he would file a supplementary petition and list of sixteen names, the latter to be known as Roosevelt delegates and as such to go on the primary ballot.

GOLD RELICS OF THE INCAS

Splendid Specimens of the Craftmanship of the Ancient Peruvians Sold at Auction in London.

London, Jan. 2.—The gold relics recovered from Lake Guatavita, one of the five sacred lakes of the ancient Inca kingdom of Chibcha in the Colombian Andes, have been sold here at an anti-quarian auction. The ornaments, which were thrown into the lake as offerings to the divinities supposed to inhabit its waters, are splendid specimens of the craftsmanship of the ancient Peruvians. The most valuable piece was a breastplate of pure beaten gold shaped as a dried hide and embossed with a warrior's head. One of the most beautiful pieces was a coiled snake of gold with the head welded on. The collection also contained a statue of Sate, goddess Chibcha in fine gold and two gold drinking bowls

Michael Hyams, an American citizen, has voted for twelve years in England and it was not until he was elected a member of the Edmonton board of guardians, that it was discovered that he owned property in America and was a naturalized citizen of the United States. Hyams was born in London but he spent ten years in America On his return to England twelve years ago he became a householder and as such has voted continuously since. When he learned that in the eye of the law he was still an American citizen he resigned from the board and applied for re-admission papers to this country. These have just been granted by the home office and Hyams will contest for the vacancy which his resignation made on the board.

Dr. Leonard Hill, who has just completed a series of remarkable experiments at the London hospital, contends that still air in hot rooms cannot be kept pure no matter what the system of ventilation is.

Dr. Hill is a lecturer on physiology at the London hospital and for some time he has devoted himself to the study of the effects of subterranean work on human beings. His work emphasized the danger of bringing divers out of the water too quickly and his suggestions have done much to make their calling less hazardous.

• • •

As the result of his most recent experiments, Dr. Hill contends that ventilation is not a question of the chemical purity of the air, but that the evils of illy-ventilated rooms arise almost entirely from their excessive heat and humidity or their excessive dryness and to a certain extent from the offensive smell.

The ideal temperature for a room in which a number of people are gathered is from 57 to 60 deg. he says. According to the rules of the home office only 1 and 2 per thousand of carbonic acid should be allowed in a room, but Dr. Hill states that 20 to 30 parts per thousand will do no harm if the air is kept cool.

The experiments took place in a chamber eight feet high and four and one-half feet square. In this small space Dr. Hill crammed eight healthy medical students and sealed them in. They remained there half an hour until the chamber contained 4 to 5 per cent of carbonic acid and 15 per cent of oxygen. The temperature rose to 85 deg. and as the air became saturated with moisture the students became intensely hot and uncomfortable. When they were examined their pulse showed an acceleration beyond what would be normally expected in a cool place.

The doctor then set a number of electric fans in the top of the chamber in motion. The students in a short time were able to endure the heat and even to work in comparative comfort in spite of the close confinement and the high percentage of carbonic acid in the air. This was because the air at 85 deg. was cooler than the bodies of the subjects and while in brisk motion it was sufficient to make them quite comfortable.

Dr. Hill in his lecture on the result of the experiments declared that the age of heating houses and trains in winter was coddling the race and tending to break down the natural defensive mechanism of the body, rendering it thereby more liable to illness. He said:

"Cold air makes us more active to warm ourselves, makes us do more breathing and gives us a beter appetite. The system is toned up and we take in more food and oxygen. Hot, dry air dries up the throat, and makes people prone to infective disease. In America, where they pump dry air into their schools there is a very high rate of diphtheria. Instead of having artificial methods for keeping our rooms hot we ought to have means for keeping them cool."

EXPLORATION OF DEAD SEA

German Expedition Arrives at Jerusalem to Investigate Complex Composition of Lake's Waters and the Streams That Flow Into It.

Jerusalem, Palestine, Jan. 2. — An expedition, the purpose of which is to thoroughly explore the Dead sea and its environs under the leadership of Dr. Bruhl of the University of Berlin, has just arrived from Europe and continued to the scene of its future operations.

The motives of the expedition, so it is emphatically averred by Dr. Bruhl, are purely scientific, with absolutely no elements of commercialism entering into its ultimate object. Its members are, with the exception of a man from Copenhagen and possibly another from Sweden, all German scientists and engineers.

The expedition was organized in Germany several months ago and seems to be most thoroughly equipped, scientifically and otherwise. It is financed by private subscriptions, a few members defraying their share of the expense, while among the contributors several leading Zionists figure very prominently.

The work of exploration will consist in the major part of sounding the depth of various sections of the lake as well as analyzing the unique and complex composition of its waters, studying its shores, investigating the nature of the different minerals that are said to abound in that region, exploring, as far as possible, the channels of the many rivers and hot water streams, apart from the Jordan, which flow into the sea from both the Eastern and Western mountain ranges that hem its shores, examining and classifying the varieties of fish that exist in large numbers only in the extreme southeastern section of the lake, which consists mainly of shallows and marshes. It must be remembered in this connection that it has always been firmly maintained by those who visited the Dead sea and wrote treatises about it long ago that no fish of any kind can make their habitat in any part of it and this long-established belief was given the death blow only recently by a pleasure party of Americans long resident in the country who visited the southern end of the lake and discovered fish.

So it remains for the members of the German expedition to arrive at the causes which undoubtedly must be due to varying conditions of chemical composition of the water that make it possible for fish to live in certain sections of the lake and not in others; and, in short, to find out everything about this strange body of water from scientific standpoints that is worth knowing.

In order the better to facilitate its operations the expedition has chartered a little steam vessel for the space of three months with the proviso that at the option of Dr. Bruhl the lease may be extended for an indefinite period.

What ultimate political or commercial motives, if any, underlie the surface of the enterprise time only can show.

This is by no means the first attempt made to explore the Dead Sea region. Indeed the honor of priority in this direction belongs to the doughty Lieut. W. F. Lynch of the American navy, who, as early as the year 1848 spent considerable time in research and exploration of that region at the expense of the American government and at great risk of his person, for in those days facilities for travel were of the crudest and people did not know how to guard against the ravages of malaria, to say nothing of the predatory marauding Bedouin, now under effectual control by the Turks, but who were then a lot of lawless, aggressive bands.

Despite all these hardships and difficulties Lieut. Lynch was fairly successful in taking measurements as well as soundings of different parts of the lake. To him, moreover, belongs the credit of being the first man to travel in a little boat from the Sea of Galilee down the River Jordan to the Dead sea.

According to the lieutenant's narrative, the lake measures some forty-six miles from north to south and from six to twelve miles east and west. Its total surface area was therefore computed to be 250 square miles. Its greatest depth was 1,300 feet at its northern end, and its shallowest part being at its southern extremity, varies from 5 to 15 feet only.

Indeed so distinct were its deep and its shallow portions that Lieut Lynch described its bottom as consisting of two submerged plains, an elevated one at its southern half averaging thirteen and a depressed one at its northern end averaging thirteen hundred feet beneath the surface.

The lake's depression below sea level is 1,312 feet and a tropical climate makes its temperature almost unbearable during certain seasons of the year.

The German expedition, however, has been fortunate in selecting the mildest months of the year during which to carry on their work and under unusually more auspicious and favorable circumstances than have heretofore attended the efforts of explorers in this region.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER.

Copper Country Resident Is Believed to Have Been Murdered.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bernardhort Matela of Jacobsville is believed to have been murdered. His body was found this morning in the Portage river by county officers. Two suspects were held because they quarreled with Matela. It is believed they killed him, throwing the body into the river.

FINN WINS BIG SCOTCH MARATHON.

Edinburgh, Jan. 2.—Kolehmainan, a native of Finland, won the professional marathon foot race of twenty-six miles, 385 yards and the championship of the world at the Powder Hall Athletic grounds here today. His time was 2 hours, 32 minutes, 56½ seconds. Hans Holmer, the representative of the United States, who won the race last year in the record time of 2 hours, 32 minutes, 21 seconds, was second, ten yards behind.

There were nineteen competitors, including Tom Longboat, the Indian runner, who dropped out of the race at the sixteenth mile, when he was leading by 300 yards. Fred Cameron of Amherst, N. H., was third.

A BRITON WAS OFFENDED.

New York Sun: The master plumber who had sent a workman to one of the fashionable hotels found on his list the number of the room his man was supposed to be repairing in, only a fancy figurer had made a "1" with a flourish at top and bottom, so that when the boss called up the hotel he asked for room 929 instead of 919. Then ensued a dialogue something like the following, as later reported:

"Hello! What do you mean by loafing on that job? Get a wiggle on you you loafer and hurry up on that next."

"Er-er what? Really I cahn't catch your remahk!"

"Quit yer kidding. I said get a move on you. You don't want to take all day at what you are doing?"

"But my deah man there must be some mistake. May I ask whom you think you are addressing?"

"Addressin'? Pipe the line of conversation! Why you blanked blanked pinhead, I'm addressin' a plumber, and a hum one at that. So hustle along Clarence, and don't let's hear any more out of you until you get that second job done," and connection was broken.

Five minutes later an irate Briton confronted the room clerk downstairs. "I say," he demanded. "I'd like to know who has had the impertinence to address a lot of rude remarks to me over the telephone. Why the man actually called me a plumber! And besides he addressed me in language I really cannot tolerate, and I must have some redress."

The clerk asked a few questions, sized up the situation and explained. The other was not mollified.

"Really," he said, "I should like to find that man who used such dreadful language to me. If I came face to face with him I should really have to attack him!"

IN THE GARDEN OF IRELAND.

Pall Mall Gazette: A literary shrine sacred to Tom Moore is the Vale of Avoca, situated in Wicklow, that county which is popularly described the garden of Ireland. It is now proposed to erect a memorial there to the poet, and as the outcome of a public meeting the promoters of it consider that its erection in "the vale in whose bosom the bright waters meet" would be very appropriate.

It was while at Avoca that Moore wrote some of his best known melodies. Nature herself had supplied until quite recently a memorial of the bard in the form of an oak tree. "Tom Moore's Tree," under whose shade he did most of his writing. A remnant of it now only survives owing to the desire of tourists to carry away portions of it as souvenirs of "the poet of all circles and the idol of his own."

Another historic old landmark has passed. A storm recently felled the tree near Nederhemert under which Flodis I, count of Holland, was peacefully sleeping, after the battle of Nederhemert, in 1061, when he was treacherously murdered by Herman Van Kuyk. The tree was believed to be over 1,000 years old.

Ask Your Doctor

Ask your doctor how often he prescribes an alcoholic stimulant for children. He will probably say, "Very, very rarely." Ask him how often he prescribes a tonic for them. He will probably answer, "Very, very frequently." Then ask him about Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla as a tonic for the young. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

DECREASE IN BUILDING

Annual Report of Inspectors Shows Falling Off for 1911.

The annual report of the building inspector's office, completed today by Deputy Adolph Anderson, shows that the department issued 1,385 permits for improvements estimated to cost $13,311,264. Leaving out of consideration the $10,000,000 permit taken out for the big steel plant buildings, there is a drop of $747,926.

The permits and the estimated cost of the improvements are classified as follows: New frame buildings, 720, $1,007,7-; additions, repairs, etc., to frame buildings, 468, $204,499; new brick buildings, 84, $688,757; additions, repairs, etc., to brick buildings, 96, $196,427; new buildings, additions and repairs to fire-proof buildings, $466,000.

While the showing is not up to that of the previous year the builders and real estate men are not in the least depressed. They are looking forward to an excellent year and are confident that the close of 1912 will see a substantial increase over the totals of the year just closed.

During December the department issued forty-eight permits for improvements estimated to cost $97,010, while during the same month of the previous year thirty-three permits were issued for improvements to cost $155,375.

COAL FAMINE ON HEIGHTS

Residents Are Borrowing Buckets of Anthracite From Neighbors.

There is a coal famine on Duluth Heights.

None can be hauled to the Heights until the roads have been broken and people who are short are borrowing it by the bucket full until it can be delivered. If some of the residents of Duluth Heights had not been well stocked the sudden cold weather would have worked a great hardship upon those with less forethought.

Along with the cold came the drifting of the deep snow, the result of high winds, and the roads were made impassable.

Many people had orders in for coal when the cold snap struck the city, but the roads were unbroken and it could not be delivered.

Men are working on the road today and it is expected that by tomorrow the coal companies will be able to send their teams to the Heights.

Yesterday many people who live on the Heights were out of coal and many were borrowing it in bags from their neighbors.

Many prominent residents of the Heights spent a part of New Year's day struggling under sacks of coal. It happened that the stores were well supplied and they did a good coal business for a time, selling it by the bag.

It was not so bad that furniture was broken up and burned in an effort to keep warm, but many visited the woods and brought home logs which were burned in the fireplaces. Some of the families, it is said, had an old fashioned New Year's dinner, cooked over logs in the fireplace.

The Pike Lake road, the only one on which the hauling to the Heights is done, is said to be buried deep under a heavy blanket of snow. Several teams that were started for the Heights were stalled only a short time after getting on the road, it is said.

It is expected that the road will be clear enough by tomorrow morning so that coal may be hauled.

TWO GIRLS BADLY INJURED IN FIRE

Collinsville, Ill., Jan. 2.—Two young women were probably fatally injured and four other persons hurt in a fire which partially destroyed the Commercial hotel here today. Miss Kate Zeppis, a waitress, jumped from the second story and her spine was broken. Miss Ruth Shaw, a chambermaid, was so seriously burned it was said she could not live.

VEEDER DENIES THE BEEF PACKERS WERE AGREED AS TO PRICE

Flatly Contradicts Charges Made in Trial at Chicago.

Letters to Refute His Statement Read By Pierce Butler.

Witness Declines to Try to Refute Authenticity of Documents.

Chicago Jan. 3.—Flat denial of the government's contention that the old packers' pools, in the period between 1893 and 1902, attempted to fix the price of fresh meats or the price to be paid for livestock, was made by Henry Veeder, on cross-examination in the trial of the ten Chicago packers today.

He declared that the only object of the combination of packers was to regulate the amount of fresh meat to be shipped into the different markets. The witness said that each of the agreements made by the packers in the process described, contained a provision that no effort should be made to fix prices.

The contention of the government is that the uniform test cost method of estimating the value of the slaughtered animals was the means used by the packers to fix prices.

Says They Overshipped.

The defense also brought out that under the agreements each member of the combination frequently overshipped the maximum percentage allowed. The object of this was to re-

POPE IS GIVEN NEWARK'S $3,500

Personal Gift Presented to Pontiff By Mgr. Kennedy.

Rome, Jan. 3.—The pope today received in private audience Mgr. Thomas F. Kennedy, rector of the American college in Rome, who presented $3,500 as a personal gift from the bishop and priests of the diocese of Newark to the pope. The pontiff expressed his thanks to the American clergy.

Mgr. C. A. O'Hern, vice rector of the American college in Rome, also was received in audience by the pope, whom he thanked for making him a private chamberlain, which gives him the title of monsignor.

RICHESON TOO WEAK TO TALK

Conferences With His Attorneys Have to Be Cut Short.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—Clarence V. T. Richeson, the Baptist minister accused of the murder of Avis Linnell, was visited by his attorneys in the Charles street jail again today. A half-hour's consultation with his legal advisers, it was alleged, exhausted the prisoner's strength, although in view of the bad effect of that line of questioning yesterday the attorneys did not attempt to obtain from him a statement of the reasons that prompted his recent self-mutilation.

Beverly Harrison, one of the Virginia attorneys for the defense, has withdrawn from the case because of the pressure of business at home.

Worry over the custody of Richeson is said to have been responsible for the death of Sheriff Fred H. Seavey of Suffolk county, which occurred yesterday.

FORGERIES AT ALBION $144,098

Notes That Caused Closing of Bank Entered By Cashier.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Comptroller of the Currency Murray today announced that the forged notes which caused the failure of the Albion National bank of Albion, Mich., amounted to $144,098. The notes, according to an announcement issued by the comptroller, were placed in the bank by its cashier.

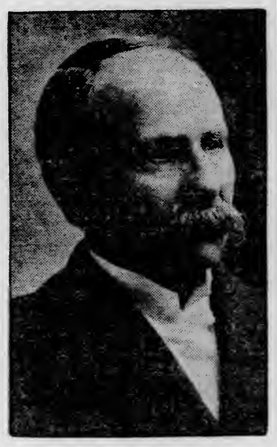

No Arrests Yet.

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 3.—An Albion special to the Jackson Citizen-Press says it is understood at Albion that if any arrests are made today in connection with the closing of the Albion National bank they will not occur until late today.

Is Seriously Ill.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—A Detroit Journal special from Albion, Mich., says: Lying prostrate in his home, H. M. Dearing, the elderly cashier of the closed Albion National bank, is in such a serious condition that he cannot speak even to his wife and it is possible that he may die.

ANNOUNCES HE WILL BE CANDIDATE AGAIN

CHARLES M. START,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Minnesota.

START WILL RUN AGAIN

Chief Justice Will Be Candidate to Succeed Himself.

Now Starting His Eighteenth Year on Supreme Bench.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief Justice Charles M. Start of the Minnesota supreme court will be a candidate to succeed himself, at the next election. The chief justice authorized this statement today, "in justice to the members of the bar and to the people of the state," as he said.

Following his usual custom, Mr. Start gave out no interview other than authorization of the statement that he would seek return to the position he has held for nearly eighteen years. "If the people have confidence in me," is the way he put it.

It has been rumored many times during the past two or three years,

WEED IS DIRECTOR OF POSTAL BANKS

Chief Clerk of Department Is Given Place at $5,000 Salary.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Theodore L. Weed, chief clerk of the postoffice department, and Postoffice General Hitchcock's principal executive assistant in the management of the department, today was appointed director of the postal savings system at $5,000 a year. He will assume his duties immediately.

Because of the extraordinary development of the postal savings system, which now is receiving deposits aggregating $1,000,000 a week, Mr. Hitchcock, who thus far has directed the system personally, found it necessary to organize a special bureau to take up the work.

As an initial step he made Mr. Weed director. The latter, who was appointed to the government service from Connecticut in 1898, has been Mr. Hitchcock's chief aide in extending the postal bank operations.

THREE FIREMEN ARE HURT IN CHICAGO STOCK YARDS.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Fire which broke out at 10 o'clock last night destroyed Swift & Co's smokehouse, a five-story building almost a block long and 200 feet deep, and was still burning early today after having wrought damage of $55,000.

Three firemen were injured while fighting the blaze. A general alarm and extra calls for extra apparatus brought more than forty engine and truck companies into the heart of the stock yards in almost the same location where a year ago Chief Horan and more than a score of his men lost their lives.

ILLNESS DRIVES KAISER'S HEIR BACK TO BERLIN.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—Crown Prince Frederick William arrived in Berlin today from Danzig, where he has been ill for some time from an affectation of the throat which has caused considerable anxiety. It was stated that the climate of Danzig, where the crown prince had been serving as colonel of the Death's Head Hussars, was unsuited to the heir to the throne, and it is announced that his stay in Berlin is to be an extended one.

GET NO HELP OF GOMPERS

Says No Labor Leaders Have Aided the Government.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 3.—"No union labor leaders, not even Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, have lifted a hand to help us in cleaning up the big dynamite conspiracy, either before or since the McNamara confessions at Los Angeles," said Oscar Lawler, special government prosecutor for the District of Southern California, today.

He and John D. Fredericks, prosecuting attorney of Los Angeles, conferred with Charles W. Miller, United States attorney, before the federal grand jury of this district today resumed its inquiry into the alleged country-wide dynamiting plot.

No Help Offered.

Mr. Lawler asserted that though union labor leaders were quick to denounce the McNamaras after their confession and many of them were quoted as saying that every effort should be made to prosecute all guilty persons, no one had volunteered to get from the McNamaras any details of the alleged conspiracy in which they figured.

Asked concerning the supposed confession of E. A. Clancy, the coast labor leader, jointly indicted last week with other labor men by the federal grand jury at Los Angeles, Mr. Lawler replied that no statement on the question had been made by his office nor would be.

"But was there a confession?" he was asked.

"We didn't need any," replied Lawler.

Was Interfered With.

"Why, some of the coast labor leaders even interfered with the progress

FORGERIES CAUSE LOSS OF MILLIONS

Total in 1911 Is Reported By Expert to Have Been $15,000,000.

New York, Jan. 3.—So widespread has become the crime of forgery in the United States and so great have been the losses within the last twelve months, that companies issuing forgery insurance have adopted the most stringent rules in taking risks. It was announced here today. While no accurate account of the losses has been kept, Albert S. Osborn, an expert on handwriting, estimates that they totalled $15,000,000 through checks and drafts alone during 1911.

The chief new restriction now demanded is that the bank insured shall not open an account with anyone not known personally to an officer or director or whose integrity is not vouched for by a depositor. A favorite method of forgers recently has been to deposit a bogus check, apparently certified, on a bank remote from the depository, and withdraw the money two or three days later, or before it is discovered to be a forgery.

IS AWARDED ONE-THIRD INTEREST

Dr. Frederick H. Owsley Gets His Share of $2,742,585 Estate.

Under Wife's Will He Was Left $35,000 and $10,000 Yearly.

Dr. Frederick H. Owsley of Detroit, Mich., who contested the terms of his wife's will, is given a full one-third of the estate, by a decision rendered in the case today by Probate Judge S. W. Gilpin.

Dr. Owsley was left the sum of $35,000 and $10,000 yearly by his wife, Mrs. Marie Owsley, under the terms of her will. In the will she gave as her reason for so disposing the property, which consists largely of Minnesota iron lands, that it was accumulated by Mr. Boeing, a former husband.

In his action to gain a full one-third as he claimed was his right under the law, Dr. Owsley claimed that it was due to his efforts that the property was increased in value.

Dr. Owsley was represented in the probate court action by Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul of the law firm of Davis, Kellogg & Severence, and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell represented the other heirs, William E. Boeing and Mrs. Caroline Marie Boeing Poole, son and daughter, and the executors of the estate.

The whole estate in Minnesota is worth in the neighborhood of $2,742,585, the amount as figured by the appraisers. Dr. Owsley's share is $870,561.66.

On the amount Dr. Owsley has an inheritance tax of $43,543.08 to pay. The inheritance tax on the whole property amounts to $120,722.70.

William E. Boeing, the son, according to the decision of Judge Gilpin, will receive an undivided half of all residue of the estate.

Marie Boeing also gets a half after Dr. Owsley has had his share. By the terms of the will, however, she never gets the principal. The annual income from her share is estimated at $35,000 yearly.

CARD FROM HOME IN SUICIDE'S POCKET.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3.—"Dear Pop: I hope you come home before anything happens," was the message on a postal card in the effects of D. W. Evans, whose body was found last night in a local hotel here with an empty poison bottle nearby. The bottle bore the name of a St. Louis druggist. Papers indicated that Evans lived at 5726 Cote Brilliante avenue, St. Louis.

Belgium is Growing.

Brussels, Belgium, Jan 3.—The figures of the censes of Belgium taken in 1910 show that the population of the country now numbers 7,423,784, an increase of 730,236 since 1900.

"NOTHING BUT DEATH CAN KEEP ME OUT OF THE FIGHT NOW," TAFT IS REPORTED TO HAVE DECLARED

SWAYZE ON THE LIST, TOO

New Jersey Man Is Urged for Supreme Court Seat.

Hook and Nagel the Others Most Likely to Be Chosen.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The field of candidates under consideration by President Taft for the vacancy on the supreme bench was enlarged today by the unofficial announcement that Supreme Court Justice Swayze of New Jersey was being urged for the appointment.

With the addition of Judge Swayze, it was admitted there were three men, any of whom might be appointed. These are United States Circuit Judge Hook of Kansas, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel and Judge Swayze.

The president will not announce his selection until the return of Attorney General Wickersham from Panama next week.

Senator Curtis of Kansas today suggested to President Taft that the best way to determine the value of objections to Judge Hook for his decision in the Oklahoma 2-cent fare case would be to read the opinion in the case.

GIVES VIOLETS TO MURDERER'S WIFE

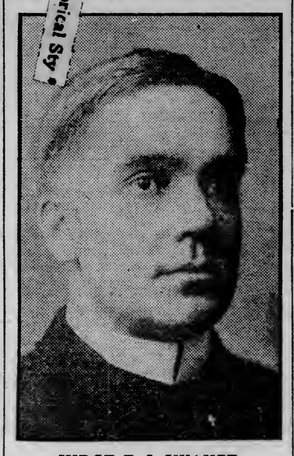

Widow of Slain Man Also Sends Note of Affection.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 3.—After the coroner's jury had found Fred Harrington, real estate dealer, guilty of murdering Frederick Kneebone, barber, the widow of the murdered man today sent to the wife of the slayer a huge bunch of violets, with this message:

"With my best love, from your friend."

Harrington attempted suicide in jail by stabbing himself with a small pocket knife. His attorney will plead that Harrington was the victim of that phase of hypnotism known as suggestion—that is, that Kneebone had so often said to Harrington, sneeringly: "Shoot me," that it acted finally as a controlling and irresistible command.

LATEST NOMINEE FOR THE SUPREME BENCH

JUDGE F. J. SWAYZE
Of New Jersey.

MEAT RATES ARE UNJUST

Commerce Commission Orders Reductions in Southwest.

Livestock and Packers' Products Must Be Carried Cheaper.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Radical reductions of freight rates on livestock, packing house products and salt today were prescribed by the interstate commerce commission to apply to all Western and Southwestern roads.

The commission holds that present rates on livestock from points in New Mexico, Texas, and Oklahoma to Fort Worth, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla., and Wichita, Kan., are unreasonable; that existing rates on fresh meats and other packing house products from Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Wichita to points in other states also are unreasonable, and that the rates on salt from the Kansas field to Oklahoma City are unjust.

The findings of the commission, prepared by Commissioner Prouty, are the result of an exhaustive investigation, and affect the rates to all points east.

Average of 8 Per Cent.

Mileage rates on all the commodities are prescribed by the commission, the reductions amounting to an average of approximately 8 per cent; no order is issued at this time by the commission, but the railroads are given until Feb. 1, 1912, to put into effect the rates suggested. If they shall not have done so by that date, a mandatory order will be issued to compel them to make the prescribed rates effective. It is expected the carriers will acquiesce.

THREE KANSAS TOWNS SUFFER

All Are Snowbound and Unable to Get Any Supplies.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 3.—Snowbound and cut off from railway communication for over a week, the people of the town of Dighton, county seat of Lane county, in Western Kansas, through the Dighton Commercial club today appealed by telegram to the state utilities commission for aid.

Healy and Jetmore have also been without railway service for a week. The citizens report they are short of provisions and coal, and that unless aid comes soon there will be great suffering. The towns are on a branch line of the Santa Fe.

FINDER OF RADIUM HAS APPENDICITIS

Mme. Curie Made Sick By Worrying Over Divorce Suit.

Paris, Jan. 3.—The condition of Mme. Curie, who suffered yesterday from an acute attack of appendicitis, continues to be serious. The doctors of the hospital to which she was removed last night in anticipation of an operation, say today, however, that they expect to save her life. Mme. Curie's friends say her illness was brought on, or at least aggravated, by the worry occasioned by the recent suit in which her name was connected with that of Prof. Langevin in divorce court proceedings.

HE WILL NOT DROP OUT FOR ROOSEVELT

Callers at White House Say He Is Firm in His Stand.

President Has Refused to Break Openly With Predecessor.

Does Not Believe Active Campaign Comports With Official Dignity.

President Taft is reported to have made this statement to White House callers today, and to have added that he had no objection to the statement being made public.

It undoubtedly was intended to set at rest all reports that Mr. Taft might withdraw from the race for the Republican nomination for president in favor of Col. Roosevelt.

The president is said to be thoroughly aroused to the gravity of the situation in the Republican party, and determined to let his attitude be generally understood. He has declared that under no circumstances will he withdraw his name from consideration by the Chicago convention next June, and has asserted that his position with respect to the nomination has not changed in any particular since he first entered the White House.

Put It Up to Convention.

Mr. Taft has told friends and party

SHORTER LINE TO WINNIPEG SOUGHT

Minnesota & International Road to Build Extension, It Is Said.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is reliably reported here that the Minnesota & International railway will build an extension from Kelliher to Winnipeg and will purchase from the Crookston Lumber company the line now leased and extending from Funkley to Kelliher.

This route over the Northern Pacific and the new extension of the Minnesota & International will give those roads a line eighty miles shorter than any other route from the Twin Cities to Winnipeg. Brainerd is on this air line.

It is said a requisition has been issued by the Minnesota & International for new steel to be laid from Brainerd to Kelliher. Work on this extension will start in the spring in the country between Kelliher and Baudette.

Beltrami county has spent thousands of dollars for ditches, and it will be the richest faming country in the United States. Settlers are already flocking in as they did in the palmy days of North Dakota. The new line, it is said, will skirt the east end of Upper Red Lake and go through the low lands, where there is a narrow pine ridge stretching toward Baudette, which will be utilized by the extension.

AMERCANS MARRY IN LONDON CHURCH.

London, Jan. 3.—Harry Lamprey Brown of Brookline, Mass., and Helen Stoney, daughter of Mrs. Gaillard M. Stoney of San Francisco, were married today at St. George's Hanover Square.

HE WILL HAVE TO DO SOME SHOVELING.

"HOW SHALL I INVEST MY FIRST $1,000?" SUBJECT OF NEW CONTEST

Problem Should Interest the Majority of Duluth Citizens.

Question Asked By Nearly Every Man on Living Salary.

Judging from the large number of answers which were received in the "If I Were Czar?" contest conducted by The Herald before the holidays, the indications are that the second of the series of contests, which is just being launched, will be even more popular.

Every young man with ambition is necessarily interested in what he should do with his first thousand dollars—that is, of course, if he has earned it himself. He would think twice—maybe oftener, of what kind of an investment to make.

If he was an ultra-conservative, he would probably put it in some reliable bank and be satisfied with a small per cent on his money.

If he happens to be willing to take half a chance he would be sorely tempted to invest the thousand in some kind of a business proposition where he would get a bigger return on his investment.

If he was a natural born gambler and was given to "hunches" he would probably "play the stocks" for he would risk his all to win a stake.

The theme for this contest was suggested by a letter which came to The Herald and is published herewith. Every contestant should read this letter, for it is necessary that every answer be built up around this case or one very similar. Every contestant should put himself in the place of a man of thirty-five, married and having children, a fair position with a living salary and but few prospects for things much better. How would you invest your money, if you were this man?

The problem is one, which the contest editor believes will interest everybody. Those who have had experiences should be tempted to enter into the discussion as well as those who have yet to follow the path.

The rules of the contest are simple, but must be lived up to. Limit your answer to 300 words. Put your name and address on the top of the sheet and write on one side of the paper only. On no other conditions will any answer be accepted. All answers must be sent in to the contest editor before Feb. 1.

The prizes which will be given are $10, $5 and $3 for the three best answers.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

HOME NEAR BRAINERD DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The two-story residence of Louis Lemere, in the mill district, was burned to the ground early yesterday. The house is situated outside the hydrant limits of the city and the fire department could do but little to save the building. House and furniture, on which there was some insurance, are a total loss.

WHITING SECURES THE PLOVER PAPER PLANT.

Neenah, Wis., Jan. 3.—Through a deal just closed, the Plover Paper company, located at Plover on the Wisconsin river, has come into the complete possession of George A. Whiting of Neenah, owner of the Menasha Paper company. He also bought out several other Fox River valley stocks.

VICTIM OF SMOOTH PAIR

Ole Roen Is Relieved of His Wallet Containing $85.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Knutson Held for Grand Larceny.

Lillie Knutson, labeled by the police as one of the smoothest as well as one of the most inveterate thiefs in Duluth, was jailed, together with her husband, last night, on the charge of having robbed Ole Roen of his wallet containing $85.

Both of them were booked for grand larceny and when arraigned in police court this morning demanded preliminary hearings, which were set for Friday morning. Bail in each case was fixed at $500.

Lillie and her husband, Herman Knutson, are said to have worked together to get Roen's cash, representing his total worldly possessions outside of his wearing apparel. Herman is claimed to have taken Roen in tow during the day and to have made it his business to see that he had all the strong drink that he could induce him to consume.

When he figured that Roen had been properly prepared, as a sheep for the shearing, he is claimed to have inveigled him to his rooms at 702 West Second street on the pretext that he wished to change his clothes. It appears that he had conceived such an affection for Roen that he couldn't bear to part with him, even long enough to put on another suit of clothes. Roen went with him and when they reached Herman's place, Herman introduced him to Lillie.

Lillie "made a hit" with Roen. He thought she was pretty nice and allowed her to sit on his lap. He also did not object when she put her arms about him and caressed him—while Herman was changing his suit. Matters progressed swimmingly until Lillie asked Roen if he didn't have enough money to "rush the can." Lillie said she had a thirst and that a draught from a bucket of the foaming liquid would be just the thing to quench it.

Roen said that he did not have any money. To all indications this did not anger Lillie. She again put her arms about Roen, he says. He claims that one of them went so far that her hand went into his hip pocket, where he had his money.

After that Roen told the police that he grew suspicious. He said that he informed her of his suspicions, not gently and sweetly, as she thought fitting, but very plainly. She must have understood it, for he says that she jumped up and ran away. He claims to have started to chase her, when Herman appeared on the scene. That ended the chase. He told Herman that Lillie had taken his money. Whereupon it seems that Herman resented the imputation and showed it by assaulting his erstwhile friend. Roen declares that he knocked him down and beat him unmercifully. Roen's face bears mute testimony to the fact that something happened to him.

Roen came to Duluth yesterday, en route to Canada, and was stopping over between trains when he met Knutson.

After his adventure he looked up the police and reported the robbery. Knutson was picked up by Patrolman Dickman and his wife was arrested a short time later by Lieut. Terry and Sergeant Bradley.

The woman has been arrested a number of times before. One time she was placed behind the bars following the report of a traveling man that she had relieved him of a considerable sum of money in a downtown hotel. Later she was accused of shoplifting, a large quantity of goods from downtown department stores being found in her possession.

CLOQUET NEWS NOTES.

Seniors' Aanual Dance.

The annual dance of the senior class of the Cloquet high school at the Nelson opera house Monday night was one of the pleasantest social affairs of the season. It was attended by 120 couples. Superintendent of Schools Peter Olesen and wife, chaperoned the party. Lunch was served at midnight at R. F. Cochrane's and John McKenna's. Many beautiful dresses were noticeable, especially among the college and university students here for the holidays.

Local thermometers dropped to 30 degs. below zero New Year's morning, and little rise in temperature has been registered since.

OBITUARY

Alfred Tennyson Dickens, eldest surviving son of Charles Dickens, the novelist, died suddenly of acute indigestion at the Hotel Astor in New York, Jan. 2. Mr. Dickens was in this country on a lecture tour. He was a god-son of the poet Tennyson. He was in his 65th year.

Mr. Dickens, who spent the greater part of his life in Australia, going there at the age of 20 arrived in this country on Sept. 29, landing at Boston. He rested there for ten days because of a slight indisposition before beginning his lecture tour, which he opened at Lowell, Mass., on Oct. 19. His travels to fill lecture engagements took him as far west as Denver. His last lecture was on Dec. 28, before the state teachers' association at Indianapolis. The lecturer was preparing to go to Kingston, N. Y., to fill an engagement when he was again attacked. He died shortly after being removed to his room from the hotel lobby.

Alfred Dickens' home was in Melbourne, Australia. No arrangements will be made for his funeral until word has been received from his children there. His wife died a number of years ago. According to Henry Clews, the banker, a number of wealthy men recently organized to create a fund in this country for relieving the condition of destitute heirs of Charles Dickens in England and elsewhere. The fact that the fund was in process of formation was not known to Alfred Tennyson Dickens, son of the novelist, whose death occurred here yesterday.

Joseph F. G. Ryan, press agent for New York and Chicago stock shows and automobile expositions for many years, and known abroad as well as in America as a publicity agent, died in Chicago Jan. 2 of heart disease. He was about 44 years old. Mr. Ryan went to Chicago from Dublin, Ireland, about twenty years ago.

James H. McMahon, sergeant-at-arms of the New York state senate at the last legislature and a candidate for re-election, was found dead in his room in a hotel at Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3. Mr. McMahon, whose home was in New York city, was 35 years old.

Prof. Felix S. Dahn, the well known historical writer, novelist and poet, died at Breslau, Germany, Jan. 3, at the age of 77.

Rev. J. W. Monser, chairman of the board of elders of the Independence Boulevard Christian church of Kansas City, Mo., and a widely known minister, is dead, aged 73. Rev. Monser has been pastor at churches in Atlanta, Ga.; Des Moines, Iowa, and Topeka, Kan. He was for ten years librarian in the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo. He was the author of several theological works.

Suspenders Fatal Noose.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 3.—Albert Jobuski, 45 years old, hanged himself with his suspenders in the city jail here last night, five hours after he had been arrested on a misdemeanor charge. He had a wife and eight children.

NATIONS SCORED BY PIERRE LOTI

Famous Traveler Writes Concerning the War Over Tripoli.

Paris, Jan. 3.—The Figaro today publishes a striking appeal to the world in favor of peace written by Capt. Louis Marie Julien Viaud, best known as Pierre Loti, the famous traveler, author and friend of the Mohammedan, in which he flays the rapacity of Europe in regard to the Mohammedans.

Italy's "indefensible seizure of Tripoli" and her war on Turkey are, says M. Loti, manifestations of this mockery of modern civilization, which looks on tranquilly at massacres, at war and at the spilling of innocent blood. M. Loti compares certain of the European powers to hyenas waiting to fill their stomachs with the remains of the maimed and dying Turkey.

Christians Greatest Assassins.

He declares that the time has arrived for the Christian world to cease from human butchery, for, he says, the Christians are the greatest assassins of all, killing with words of fraternity on their lips and destroying with fire and shot the old worlds of Africa and Asia and treating like cattle the men of the brown and yellow races. M. Loti concludes:

"Wars of conquest, on whatever pretext they are undertaken, must be stopped, or the words peace, progress and arbitration will remain empty and derisive and a shame to humanity."

MUST INSURE HIMSELF FOR DIVORCED WIFE.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Under a novel court order entered by Judge Brentano in the superior court, Frank J. McAvoy, head of an automobile supply company, is directed to take out a $9,000 life insurance policy in favor of the woman to whom the court in the same order granted a decree of divorce.

In addition to becoming the beneficiary of an insurance policy, Mrs. Nellie McAvoy is to receive a total of $10,000 alimony, payment in equal installments of $1,000. Judge Brentano hit on the insurance feature of the decree as a sure means of providing for the payment of the alimony in the event of McAvoy's death. The defendant did not contest the suit.

Fruit Jobbers Meet.

St. Louis, Mo. Jan. 3.—The Western Fruit Jobbers' association, of which John M. Walker of Denver is president, began a three days' meeting here today. The association has members in ninety-four Western and Southern markets. Weights, measures, traffic, trade evils and reforms are on the program for discussion.

Brown Joins Supreme Court.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 3.—By filing with the secretary of state a written oath, Judge P. E. Brown of Luverne became an associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court yesterday. There was no formality connected with his advent.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MINNESOTA POLITICS

The early start mabe by Senator La Follette and his adherents in their campaign for delegates to the Republican national convention will militate against the senator's chances. The Progressives of Minnesota are already losing their enthusiasm and the suspension of activity will undo much of the work done last fall.

La Follette's campaign has stirred up interest in the presidential campaign, with the result that people began speculating earlier than ever. Except those who are personally friendly to La Follette, rather than to the Progressive cause, the Progressives are placing their hopes on Roosevelt.

Teddy's seven years in the White House and his activities since he abdicated in favor of Taft show that he likes the great white light of publicity. He was ever ready to be swayed by public demand and if the clamor becomes general, he may emerge from semi-retirement to undo the forcing of Taft on the Republican party.

Roosevelt is the man most likely to wrest the nomination from Taft. Unless there is a great change in the next six months, La Follette will be unable to do it. If Roosevelt adheres to his determination to remain in retirement, it is doubtful if any man can defeat the president in the convention.

Just now it looks as though Roosevelt will not be smoked out. He will remain silent and delegates will be sent to the convention with instructions or without instructions, just as if he were not to be considered. Roosevelt admirers will probably attempt to stampede the convention and then the ex-president will be brought out into the open.

All of the Old Guard and many of the Progressives are opposed to Roosevelt. The Old Guard recall his time in the White House with fear and trembling. Many of the Progressives remember the high-handed manner in which Taft was forced on the party and they do not forgive easily. Taft is now the one best bet.

Halvor Steenerson, congressman from the Ninth district, has appointed a campaign manager and is prepared for war. Martin Widsten, editor of the Warrond Plaindealer, has been appointed to look after Mr. Steenerson's interests. He will open headquarters in Crookston soon and be ready to swat any opposition that may show its head.

Opposition to Steenerson has not yet developed, but there is a strong probability that Ole Sageng, the Populist state senator from Otter Tail county, will again endeavor to oust the Crookston man.

When Sageng, running as an independent, opposed Steenerson in 1908, the Crookston man won by less than 3,000 votes in a total of over 35,000.

"Sageng would have won in that campaign had he been better known in Kittson, Marshall and Roseau counties," said a Ninth district man in conversation recently. "If he should make the run again this year, I believe he would prove even stronger than three years ago and Steenerson would be in imminent danger of losing his seat. Sageng is a man of ideas and he has many friends in the district."

The Eveleth News predicts that State Senator James P. Boyle will be in the race for the Republican nomination for congress in the Eighth district. The News is published in Senator Boyle's home town and should be close to him, but the News has been shouting "Boyle for congress" all along, while the senator has had nothing to say on the subject. He has calmly ignored repeated reports that he would oppose Congressman Miller and his friends profess to gain from his silence an intimation that he will get into the race.

Strong opposition to Congressman Sydney Anderson is being developed in the First district. There is quite a squad of patriots auxious to reside in Washington as the representative of the First district and, after Tawney had been effectually eliminated by Anderson, they began to pull wires to retire the new representative. The attacks made on Anderson by Eastern papers have not helped his chances at home, and the patriots are all keeping an ear to the ground and preparing to start in the race when they hear the call.

The Pine River Sentinel thinks that party solidarity is in for an awful jolt in the Republican ranks this year. It says:

The Republican party candidate for governor next year will have to go up against a split vote with the probable result of helping to elect a Democratic governor. The forces of either Eberhart or Gordon have got to that stage where they'll probably vote against the successful Republican nominee if they don't help name him, and events in political history similar to the Cole and Dunn campaigns will no doubt result. Under these conditions no Republican candidate can hope to win and it behooves those with gubernatorial bees in their bonnet to "low bridge."

The brazen comparison of Governor Eberhart with Governor Johnson, made by the Eberhart press, has stirred up the admirers of the late executive. Instead of increasing the present governor's popularity it has called forth nothing but contempt for those who made the comparison. The Mesaba Ore says:

The Republican newspapers of the state were the first to yell themselves hoarse because Governor Johnson traveled so much in and out of the state, and now we find the same newspapers defending Governor Eberhart because he is criticised by the Democratic press and some others for doing the same thing.

Governor Johnson was a Democrat and Governor Eberhart is a Republican, but that isn't the only difference twixt the two men.

The Republicans now admit that Governor Johnson did a great deal to the good advertising of the state, and they are claiming that inasmuch as Governor Eberhart has traveled twice as many miles in a stated time, therefore he has done the state just twice as much good as Governor Johnson did.

They don't stop to consider (and they wouldn't admit it if they did) that there is some considerable difference between the two men.

Even the rankest Republican in the state was not ashamed of the showing made by Democratic Governor Johnson.

LA FOLLETTE GIVE UP? NO!

Suggestion Is Rejected at His Headquarters in Chicago.

Senator May Speak in Minnesota During This Month.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Without referring to Governor Chase S. Osborn's suggestion in a speech in Lansing, Mich., that Senator Robert M. La Follette withdraw from the presidential race, the La Follette national headquarters here today issued a statement denying that Mr. La Follette had any intention of withdrawing.

Senator La Follette had planned to reach the city about 4:30 o'clock. Medill McCormick, Walter S. Rogers and other local managers of the progressive movement are to meet the senator and escort him to the La Salle hotel, where he will be entertained at dinner. Dr. A. J. Ochsner, at the head of fifty other men who attended the university with La Follette, are expected to be present.

Mr. La Follette's invasion of Illinois was set to begin at Orchestra hall tonight. The subject of his speech was not announced, but it was prophesied that he would talk on the trusts. His speech-making tour in Illinois will occupy two days. While he is in Chicago the question of extending his trip for two weeks will be taken up by his campaign managers. It is proposed that he shall speak within the next two weeks in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa. This plan will depend largely upon Mr. La Follette's own wishes.

Reception Is Cancelled.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 3.—Because of reports that the strain of his speaking tour was beginning to tell upon United States Senator R. M. La Follette, and he would prefer to spend as much time as possible in resting, a formal reception planned in honor of the Wisconsin senator's visit here today was abandoned.

A large reservation of seats was made, however, at the Academy of Music, which was engaged for today's public meeting, and elaborate plans were made for making the visitor's stay pleasant.

The schedule provided for the arrival of Senator La Follette's party at 8:45 a. m. and their departure for Chicago at 1:15 p. m.

The senator was taken to his room at a hotel immediately upon his arrival here. He went to bed for a short nap. It was given out that he would deliver no set speech in this city but would follow in a general way the line of his Grand Rapids address.

Teddy Has Not Declined.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 3.—Gifford Pinchot, in an interview here today, denied he had made any statements in speeches or interviews that Theodore Roosevelt had told him he would not accept the presidential nomination if it were tendered.

"I know nothing of Mr. Roosevelt's affairs," said Mr. Pinchot, "either as to whether he would accept the nomination or whether he believes he could be elected."

Mr. Pinchot entirely ignored Col. Roosevelt in an address here last night and strongly indorsed Senator La Follette's presidential candidacy. The Wisconsin senator, he said, went into the race "for principle." Mr. Pinchot claimed positive knowledge that when Senator La Follette consented to allow his name to be used he had no hope of winning the nomination, his sole object being to prevent the nomination of a reactionary. Now he is surprised at his own strength.

The former forester ridiculed the statements made by Governor Osborn at Lansing, branding his charge that Senator La Follette had not accomplished anything as "sheer nonsense." He might as readily have said that David did not slay Goliath," insisted Pinchot. "No senator possesses a more clear cut constructive record than La Follette."

Pinchot's advocacy of a presidential primary and the judicial recall were loudly cheered.

Talked at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 3.—In his speech here last night, Senator La Follette talked on the Payne-Aldrich tariff and the general history of the tariff. His speech was practically a repetition of that made at Saginaw and Bay City Monday night.

DR. McCUEN EXPLAINS PLANK

Says He Meant No Criticism of City Engineer McGilvray.

Dr. J. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, does not intend the plank of his platform relating to public improvements to be a criticism of City Engineer McGilvray or any of his force.

"In explanation of the second plank of my platform, I wish to state that nothing of a personal nature was intended," said Dr. McCuen, this morning. "The present incumbent's competency was not to be questioned, as his competency was sustained by the investigation of last summer. It will be my endeavor to so keep in touch with city improvements that I will know personally that the city is getting what it is paying for, so that I could at any time so state to the public."

Seek West St. Paul Man.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police have been asked to make a search for Andrew Arnold Blase of West St. Paul, Route No. 2. Fred Blase, his brother, of West St. Paul, has made the inquiry, stating that his brother was in this district during the harvest months and that he has not been heard from since that time.

Get This for Colds

Prescription for Positive Results. Don't Experiment.

"From your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine Compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake well. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age." This is said to be the quickest cough and cold cure known to the medical profession. Be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top sealed case. If your druggist is out of stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't fool with uncertain mixtures. It is risky. Local druggists say that for the past six years this has had a wonderful demand.

BUTTER AND EGGS FIRM

Cold Weather Is Giving Strong Tone to the Market.

Only Sudden Rise of Mercury Will Prevent Them Soaring.

The present cold spell is driving the prices of butter, cheese and eggs upward. Local dealers say that if the weather does not moderate very materially within a short time, there will be a sharp advance in the cost of these prime necessities of life.

The recent mild weather had been causing the cost of these articles to ease up somewhat. This is especially true of strictly fresh country eggs, of which the wholesale price recently dropped from 36 to 33 cents and seemed on the eve of taking another slump. Some of the wholesale dealeres have restored the price of 36 cents, and it is likely that there will be another advance soon. Storage eggs, too the price of which has remained fairly steady at or in the neighborhood of 23 cents for a long time, may also go up a cent or two. The wholesale price of the choicest creamery butter, which had gone down to 36½ cents just before the present cold snap, has been advanced half a cent by some of the local dealers and a full cent by others. Cheese will undoubtedly follow, if the advance is maintained long, for cheese invariably follows in the wake of butter in the price movements.

Severely cold weather invariably advances the price of butter, eggs and cheese. The cows do not give as much milk in the very cold weather as they do in the mild weather. Moreover, they eat more, as other animals do, and the cost of keeping them is greater. With the cows giving less milk and costing more to keep, it is not to be wondered at that the milk-producers demand more for their product.

The hens, like the cows, require more feed in cold weather, and no self-respected hen will lay with the mercury below zero. Hence the price of eggs naturally rises.

Hard Colds Quickly Ended

If you want to end a hard cold or la grippe more quickly than you ever thought possible, try a box of Pinex Cold Tablets.

Two doses give wonderful relief, and the trouble is usually completely wiped out inside of 20 hours. No other remedy will stop the aches and pains so quickly.

Pinex Cold Tablets are gentle in action, but very prompt in results. They reduce the fever, check the nasal discharge, restore normal activity in the pores and are very pleasantly laxative and tonic. Do not contain a particle of opiates or coal tar heart depressants. Simple, harmless and very agreeable.

Don't accept a substitute—one trial of this quick-acting remedy will show you that there is nothing else "just as good" as Pinex Cold Tablets. Money refunded if disappointed. 25c per box. If necessary, send to The Pinex Co., Fort Wayne, Ind., (makers of "Pinex" Cough Remedy).

PINERIES ARE GOING RAPIDLY

Big Lumbering of Pine Days in Upper Michigan Are About Over.

McMillan, Mich., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pineries of Upper Michigan are fast becoming a memory. This does not mean that lumbering is not still a big industry, but that the lumbermen are contenting themselves now with hardwood and hemlock, where in years gone by they would disdain to cut anything but white pine.

The last big tract of pine in Luce county being cut this winter by F. Chesbrough and is being banked on the Taquamenon river. It consists of 3,000,0000 feet of the finest cork pine.

In years past many millions of feet of white pine and board timber have been floated down the waters of the Taquamenon. But the pine has now almost disappeared from the forests of the upper peninsula. Only a few tracts remain, with here and there a lonely sentinel. The drive which will be taken down the Taquamenon in the spring will contain probably the last stick of pine ever to be floated down the historic stream.

Robert Hall, a Calumet operator, is cutting this winter the last tract of white pine in the copper country. There are 4,000,000 feet in this tract, most of which is already on the skids. The timber is owned by the Republic Lumber company of Marinette, Wis., to which city it is shipped by rail. Lumber made from this pine has been sold on the docks at Marinette at $105 a thousand feet. This lumber contained boards sixteen feet long, thirty-four inches wide and four inches thick, without knot or spot.

ECCENTRIC FARMER DIES.

Trempealeau County, Wis., Man Who Gave Away His Property.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 3.—Leroy W. Bell, aged and eccentric farmer of Trempealeau county, Wisconsin, who two years ago was brought into the limelight when relatives interfered with his generosity in giving away has valuable possessions, is dead here.

Bell, two years ago, became infatuated with Grace Baldwin, and on Christmas day deeded to her one of his valuable farms in Trempealeau county. He also launched her friend in the saloon business at La Crosse, and otherwise displayed his generosity by bestowing upon her gems and other gifts. His children interfered and appealed to the probate court and a guardian for Bell was appointed. The woman deeded back the farm, but retained other gifts. Bell appealed to the circuit court and Judge Higbee at La Crosse dismissed the guardian.

Bell had since disposed of his property, and has been residing in La Crosse.

AUTO TESTER'S WIFE KILLED IN ACCIDENT.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3. — Mrs. Fred Vandervort of Dewitt, Mich., whose husband is an automobile tester, was instantly killed yesterday when the car in which the couple was riding ran into a ditch and overturned. The couple came to Dewitt but a few months ago. Vandervort refuses to say where they formerly lived, declaring it to have been his wife's wish that if she ever met with such an accident, nothing should be said regarding family connections. In explanation the husband stated that they had eloped.

SHERMAN ACT NOT ENOUGH

Secretary Nagel Says Further Action to Control Trusts Is Needed.

Would Develop Power of the Bureau of Corporations.

Washington, Jan. 3.—"The mere breaking up of large combinations into a number of separate parts by no means meets the whole trust question," says Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, in his annual report.

Secretary Nagel declares that the Sherman law has been proved to be an effective statute beyond all doubt, and that a degree of combination of capital is quite necessary, but he adds that the supreme court decisions in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases have demonstrated that the next step in the control of great industrial corporations will be the creation of a permanent federal agency.

How such control shall be exercised, whether by commission, federal incorporation or other means which have been advocated recently by Judge Elbert H. Gary, George W. Perkins and other financiers before the senate committee which has been conducting hearings to determine what changes would be desirable in the anti-trust laws, Secretary Nagel does not definitely say. He favors, however, a development of the powers and scope of the bureau of corporations.

Combination of Capital.

"A certain degree of combination of capital is admittedly essential to the carrying on of our great business enterprises," says Secretary Nagel. "To control properly such necessary combinations we must have some administrative federal office or commission which shall make this work its business.

"We must have a permanent authority which shall by steady and continuous supervision and publicity safeguard the public interests and at the same time allow full scope for necessary and proper business efficiency and development.

"The decisions of the supreme court in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco company cases have brought forcibly to the public attention a fact repeatedly presented in the reports of this department—the imperative need for the positive administrative regulation of great industrial corporations.

Another Step Needed.

"The recent decisions and reorganizations which followed have made it clear that another imperative step remains to be taken, and that this is the establishment, by appropriate legislation, of a broad system of supervision and publicity for all those industrial and commercial organizations engaged in interstate and international business.

"Whether this shall be done by means of federal incorporation or by a federal office or commission exercising powers of regulation and supervision, may be a secondary question. The first consideration appears to be the establishment of permanent administrative publicity, regulation and supervision. The time is peculiarly ripe for such action. Public opinion and the views of many corporation managers are as one."

Secretary Nagel recommends that the bureau of corporations be developed to take up the form of supervision he suggests. It would be but a logical expansion of the bureau's operations and policy, which, he says, have relied solely on publicity for the last eight years and have demonstrated beyond question what a system of permanent supervision can do.

Work of the Year.

Mr. Nagel's report in full deals with the year's work in the many bureaus and divisions over which he presides.

In connection with the immigration service the secretary recommends that any amendments to the immigration laws should tend to relieve immigrants of undue hardships without letting down the bars against undesirables. Larger discretion should be lodged with officials, he thinks, to admit unfortunate members of incoming families where it is shown that society would be protected against burden and danger. He recommends also that examinations of immigrants be made before they embark for this country, and that the time for deporting confessed criminals be extended.

Secretary Nagel refers in passing to recent criticism of the immigration service. He says the bureau has endeavored to obey the general mandate of the law and relieve the individual of hardship wherever the statute allows it.

As to Criticism.

"In the meantime, Lincoln's advice finds renewed application," says the secretary, quoting the words, "If both factions, or either, shall abuse you, you will probably be about right. Beware of being assailed by one and praised by the other."

One of the greatest operations of the year in Secretary Nagel's department was the completion of the thirteenth census.

A very important investigation on the cost of living is now being carried on by the bureau of labor. "The report promises to provide a basis for intelligent discussion of this much mooted question," says the secretary.

GOVERNOR DIX ASKS REFORMS

Message to New York Legislature Contains Many Recommendations.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3.—In his annual message to the legislature today Governor Dix declares the people are far less concerned with the partisan complexion of the legislature of the state than with the quality of laws that are enacted and honest, efficient and economical administration of the public business.

The governor recommends:

Amendments designed to strengthen the direct nomination of law.

More stringent penalties for vote buying and selling.

That the public service commissions be given increased powers over stock and bonds issued by reorganized corporations.

Wants Compensation Law.

The repeal of the law regulating boxing.

A national workmen's compensation law.

Reduced hours of labor for women employed in factories.

Provision for increasing the state's revenues.

State inspection for meats.

Home rule for cities and villages.

A continuance of reforms in the state insurance laws.

Amendments to the banking laws designed to give additional protection to the investing public and depositors.

HUNGARIAN PREMIER IS OPERATED UPON.

Budapest, Hungary, Jan. 3.—Count Khuen von Hedervary, the premier and minister of the interior in the Hungarian cabinet, was operated on this morning for cataract. The surgeons declared the operation successful and that Count Hedervary will in a short time be able to resume his official duties.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE BEGINS ITS SESSION.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 3.—The biennial session of the general assembly of Maryland opened here today. Although the Democrats have a working majority in each branch of the legislature, the new governor to be inaugurated next week, Phillips Lee Goldsborough, is Republican, having defeated Arthur Pue Gorman, Jr., son of the late United States senator, in the general election held last November. Goldsborough will be the first Republican governor of the state elected since 1885.

"TAMA" JIM STARTS ON CAMPAIGN TOUR.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Secreteary Wilson will speak at a Taft mass meeting in Huron, S. D., Jan. 5. He left last night in company with Representative Martin of that state. Senator Gamble, who comes up for indorsement at the June primaries in South Dakota, asked Secretary Wilson to attend as a representative of the administration.

Some political leaders construe the secretary's action as an indication that he has no intention of quitting the president's cabinet as was lately reported.

CAPTURE FIVE CHARGED WITH BLIND-PIGGING.

Bowman, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three towns near here were raided by Bowman county officials searching for alleged blind-piggers, and they were successful in capturing five supposed violators. William Harmel, Len Betts, George Allen, J. Thomas Smith and Thomas Denson.

GROCERS TO GATHER HERE

State Convention Will Be Held in Duluth in February.

Louis W. Hill and National Officers of Association Coming.

The Minnesota Retail Grocers' and General Merchants' association will hold the annual convention at Duluth on Feb. 21, 22 and 23. About 500 delegates are expected to be in attendance. It is planned to hold the meeting on the top floor of the Spalding hotel, in the dining room. In addition convention program will include some social features. These have not yet been definitely determined.

The local United Commercial Travelers will be the hosts of the delegates on one of the evenings, when the whole gathering will attend a musical entertainment at the Masonic temple. After the entertainment is over, the guests and their hosts will go from the temple to the U. C. T. Hall, where a social smoker will take place. On another evening the Duluth grocers and jobbers will be the hosts. The feature of that evening will be a visit to the Lyceum theater.

Among those who will address the convention are the following:

Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern; Fred Mason, vice president and general manager of the Shredded Wheat company, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis, the well known humorist; John W. Lux, St. Paul, the national president; John Green, Cleveland, the national secretary; George W. Flibert, Minneapolis, the state president; George H. Schulenburg, Duluth, the state first vice president; Thomas Gunness, Barnesville, the state second vice president; J. J. Ryan, St. Paul, the state secretary; John Eklund of Minneapolis, the state treasurer; George Peterson, secretary of the local association, and Simon Clark, Duluth.

PAPER QUESTION PUT UP TO COURTS.

Washington, Jan. 3. — The international tariff controversy over the question of admitting wood pulp and paper into the United States free of duty from all countries having treaties with this nation guaranteeing "most favored nation" treatment, has been passed on to the courts by the administration for settlement. The procedure will be expedited and it is expected that the matter will reach the United States court of customs appeals.

Pending a settlement of the dispute, the treasury department assessed the duty of the importations and held the protests of the importers in abeyance. In order to get the question before the courts the department decided formally to deny the right of free entry to any importations except those coming from Canada. The importers can appeal to the board of general appraisers at New York and from there the question can be carried on to the customs court.

The treasury department, it is understood, was inclined to grant the appeal of the importers for free entry, but the president was unwilling to place the paper industry on the free list when there was doubt in this respect as to the intent of congress in enacting the Canadian agreement.

THREE MEN KILLED ON THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan .3.—Three persons were killed in the wreck of a Canadian Pacific express train at a water tank near Moosejaw, Sask., New Year's day, a brief account of which has just reached here. The dead are:

WILLIAM RUSH, passenger, of Caron, Sask.

JOHN BRADSHAW, section hand.

GEORGE REGINALDS, brakeman, of Moosejaw.

SENATOR'S AUTO RUNS DOWN TWO CHILDREN.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Blinded by the season's first snowstorm, Miss Sarah Fitzgerald and Acquilla Smith, both 3 years old, were run down and probably fatally injured here yesterday by an automobile owned by Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania. Alex Ewing, the driver of the car, was arrested. He said the snow blinded him so that he could not see anyone in the street.

LA FOLLETTE REFUSES TO TALK OF OSBORN.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 3.—Senator La Follette last night refused point-blank to discuss in any manner the remarks made by Governor Osborn in Lansing.

"I discuss issues, not men," he said. "I have absolutely no comment to make."

"What would you say to the governor's proposal that both you and President Taft withdraw from the race?" was asked.

TAFT SELLS CORNER IN CITY FOR $100,000.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 3.—A plot of ground at the corner of Fourth avenue and Vine streets in this city, on which stands the Ingalls building, which at the time of its construction was the largest concrete building in the world, was sold yesterday by President W. H. Taft to M. E. Ingalls, former president of the Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railroad company. A deed recorded named the consideration as $100,000.

SOCIALIST MAYOR REJECTS HIS RECALL.

Lima, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Mayor Corbin N. Shook, Socialist, has refused to abide by the referendum vote of the Socialist party, which demanded a recall of his election on Nov. 4 as mayor. The mayor had displeased leaders of his party in the matter of his appointments. At a meeting of the city council, Mayor Shook repudiated his written resignation, signed before his election and given into the keeping of Socialist leaders, when the resignation was presented. The council refused to recognize the Socialist party's right to exercise its form of recalling the mayor from office. The mayor, in a written communication, had asked that no consideration be accorded the resignation.

Reyes' Son Arrested.

City of Mexico, Jan. 3.—Charged with implication in the Reyes revolutionary plan, Rodolfo Reyes, son of Gen. Bernardo Reyes, was arrested yesterday afternoon and placed in San Diego military prison where his father is confined. Rodolfo placed himself voluntarily at the disposal of the authorities. He denies his guilt.

Manufacturers' Stock-Clearing

Sale of Munsing Underwear

Women's and Men's Garments at From 33 to 40% Saving

—This will unquestionably be the greatest underwear sale this store has ever held. It is the first time MUNSING UNDERWEAR has ever been offered at such price reductions.

—It happens just like this. A mild winter left the MUNSING UNDERWEAR manufacturers, the Northwestern Knitting Co. of Minneapolis, with heavy stocks of winter garments occupying the space needed for goods knitted to fill advance spring orders.

—Speedy stock clearance was necessary, which meant sacrifice of profits, and which brought a good portion of the surplus to us at a full third under regular cost.

—There are women's suits and separate garments and men's union suits; wool, cotton or mixed, regular and out sizes, in weights to suit every condition. These are arranged for quick clearance in the following lots and prices:

ICE CUTTING WILL BEGIN

Operations at Spirit Lake Will Employ Large Crew of Men.

Between 90,000 and 100,000 Tons Will Be Harvested.

Duluth annual ice harvest will be commenced tomorrow.

Between 90,000 and 100,000 tons of ice will be taken out of the St. Louis river and Lake Superior during the season providing the weather conditions are right.

The recent cold snap has been a incentive for the local ice companies to get busy on the 1912 crop. Manager Hart of Duluth Ice company states that tomorrow between seventy-five and eighty men will be put to work at Spirit lake on the St. Louis river. Ice will be cut from the river and will be stored in warehouses which have been built there. About 40,000 tons will be taken out.

From present indications, the prospects for a good ice crop on Lake Superior are excellent, says Gust Johnson, manager of the Endion Ice company. This concern has three ice houses on the lake shore at Eighteenth avenue east. The ice harvest on the lake will probably be commenced within the next three weeks or sooner, if the present cold weather continues. Last year the lake did not freeze sufficiently to harvest a crop.

Monday, the East End Ice company, which has warehouses at New Duluth, will commence its annual harvest of ice. About seventy men will be put to work and will be given steady employment until the crop of about 35,000 tons has been harvested.

A thickness of about eighteen inches is desired before work is started. A field is then cleared of snow and after having been scraped clean is marked. When the cold has made the ice thick enough, the sawyers being their work.

The ice houses both up the river and on the lake shore have been put in readiness to receive the big cakes, the hoisting machinery put in place, the field markers sharpened, the harnesses of the teams used in the taking of the crop oiled and repaired and in fact everything is ready for the big harvest.

COURT GRANTS ONE DIVORCE

Regular January Grind of Mill Begins in District Court.

The January divorce mill began to grind this morning when Judge W. A. Cant of the district court granted Mrs. Bertha E. Maxwell, 34, a divorce from her husband, Isaac N. Maxwell, 47, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Mrs. Maxwell's dream of married happiness was short, for, according to her complaint and her evidence, they were married in Superior during the month of October, 1910. She states that she was forced to leave him a few months later while living at Proctor on account of the cruel treatment he forced upon her.

She stated that he threw her upon the floor and made her body black and blue; that he accused her of infidelity, and subjected her to other forms of ill treatment.

Mrs. Maxwell stated that because her husband has an ungoverable temper and she was afraid that he would kill her, she was forced to leave him.

Maxwell is a railroad man it is claimed. She asked permission to resume the use of her maiden name, Bertha E. Talbott.

The case was taken up as a accommodation to the attorneys in the matter this morning. The regular divorce calendar will be taken up tomorrow morning and Judge Dancer, who is handling the term, will hear the greater number of the cases.

Brainerd Child Scalded.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest Dechaine, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dechaine fell into a pail of scalding hot water while his mother was washing and the legs and body of the little fellow were pitifully burned before his mother could rescue him. He is seriously hurt, but is expected to recover.

ISLES OF PINES

With frosts in California and an 80-mile wind in Florida the past week, the Isle of Pines stands out alone with a record to be envied. The Isle of Pines never has frosts, high winds are unknown, irrigation is unheard of, railroads unnecessary. It seems as though it is the spot on earth where oranges, lemons, grape fruit and winter vegetables can be grown without fear of some change of the weather that may ruin the crops and discourage the people. Nearest to the markets, lowest freights by water. Lend me your ear.

ONE IN SIX UNHAPPY

Court Records Show Surprising Percentage of Unhappy Marriages.

According to the records in the clerk of the district court's office, about one marriage in every six turns out unhappily in St. Louis county.

During the year 1911 there were issued from the local clerk's office 1,129 marriage licenses and there were about 200 divorce actions in the same length of time.

This report does not take in the marriage licenses issued on the range or the divorce cases tried at Virginia. In all the county there were 1,695 marriage licenses issued during the year.

According to the figures for the territory around Duluth, nearly one marriage in every six is unhappy.

In the local courts 200 divorce cases were tried during the past year and it is safe to say that about 95 per cent of them were granted. It is, perhaps, safe to say that one marriage in every six in Duluth is an unhappy one.

According to the reports received today from the clerk of the range court, 586 licenses have been issued on the range during 1911.

IS STILL UNDER GUARDIANSHIP

Probate Judge Denies C. J. Petre's Petition on a Technicality.

Judge Gilpin of the probate court has denied the petition of C. J. Petre, who asked that his guardian, F. I. Salter, be discharged and that he (Petre) be allowed to handle his own business affairs.

Petre has been under guardianship for a number of years. His estate is valued at about $25,000.

Some years ago he was declared incompetent and a guardian was appointed. Since that time several different individuals have acted as his guardian. He had no complaint to make against Mr. Salter, but claims that he is hampered in business and humiliated by being under a guardian.

The method of proceedure was wrong this morning and action will have to be begun differently by Petre if he expects to take over his own affairs.

In order to do this he must prove to the satisfaction of the probate court that he is competent. He will then be restored to capacity through due process of law.

Mr. Petre lives in Superior.

School Bonds Settled.

Settlement for the last of the old school bonds issued in 1892 for the erection of grade schools was made yesterday when City Comptroller took them up. The value of the bonds, which were issued during the Scott administration, is $5,000.

INCREASE IN NUMBER OF INSANE PATIENTS.

There are 176 patients at the Douglas county insane asylum, according to the first figures given out yesterday. At this time last year there were 147 patients at the institution, making an increase of twenty-nine for 1911.

Hold Body for Identification.

Pending information as to his identity by relatives or friends, the body of Peter Semon, found in a room at the Kommers hotel, 1813 North Fifth street, yesterday afternoon, will remain at Le Sage's undertaking parlors where it was ordered by Coroner Giesen. Semon had moved to the hotel only two days and had made arrangements for a week's lodging.

Refuses to Accept Paving.

The board of public works yesterday refused to accept the paving on Belknap street and sent a communication to the city council for its final vote. The board gave as its reasons for not accepting the pavement the technical failure to have the asphalt fluxed here and the charge that the surfacing and binder in some places are not the specified thickness.

Ski Tourney Sunday.

At a meeting held last evening by the officers of the ski club at the Sons of Norway hall, it was decided to hold a ski tournament at Billings park Sunday, Jan. 7. Twenty riders from Superior, Duluth and nearby cities will compete for a large list of prizes to be offered by the Superior club.

Chief McKinnon Honored.

A testimonial of esteem and appreciation was tendered last night to Chief of Police Vincent McKinnon, who has reached the twenty-second year of service and the right to retire with a pension. At a banquet given in his honor at Hotel Superior last evening a number of business men, professional men and others who had come in contact with Chief McKinnon during his service, all praised his effective work. The presentation of a gold watch was made by John A. Kelley, secretary of the police force.

Will Attend Highway Meeting.

C. J. Morriset, county commissioner of roads and highways, will attend the first annual road school of the Wisconsin highway commission, which will be held at Madison Feb. 12 to 16. Governor McGovern will welcome the commissioners from the other towns. Modern construction of roads will be taken up and illustrated with stereoptican slides.

Officers Chosen.

Pear Benson was elected president of the Public Welfare association at the annual election of officers held at the Commercial lueb last evening. Miss Florence Two was re-elected secretary of the organization and various committees were appointed for the year.

MANY FUNDS DEPLETED

Police Have Only $191 Cash on Hand—$1.20 in Light Fund.

The end of the year finds several of the funds of the various city departments very low, according to the report of City Treasurer Fred J. Voss for December.

The light fund contained but $1.20. The police department had but $191.56 to its credit. The municipal court fund showed $304.35; the salary fund, $1,348.28; the public works fund, $802.64, and the park fund $225.69. But the interest fund, the sinking fund, the permanent improvement fund, the water and light plant fund, the street intersection and storm sewer fund and the street maintenance and repair fund have big balances.

The city ends the year with a balance of $381,083.62, which is much heavier than a year ago, when the balance was $242,961.94.

COURT TERM HAS BEGUN

Only 166 Cases Are Included in the January Calendar.

Grand Jury Goes Into Session —Divorce Cases Are Begun.

The January term of the district court opened this morning with the call of the calendar by Judge Dancer.

There are in all 166 cases on the January calendar. This is a small number as compared with the last three calendars, each of which had about twice the present number.

Of the 166 cases on the calendar 145 were set for trial, 4 were stricken, and 17 were continued.

Immediately after the calling of the calendar motions were heard and the divorce cases started before Judge Cant. The grand jury was also instructed sworn and sent into secret session with County Attorney Norton.

There are only about a dozen criminal cases for the consideration of the January grand jury.

The grand jury for this term of court consists of: Raphael Granquist, A. L. Gravatt, Henry Guyer, J. N. Heldman, A. C. Johnson, Martin Kennelly, William E. Kern, E. A. Nelson, J. G. Nevill, Harry Older, F. J. O'Neil, Walter L. Seaton, B. Silberstein, Walter Van Brunt, Henry F. Salyards, J. G. Graves and C. F. Hector.

DIVORCE DECREE IS SET ASIDE

Court Reopens Case to Allow Defendant to Be Heard.

After granting Abraham Saloom, 43, a divorce from his wife, Rosie Saloom, 32, some time ago, Judge Dibell of the district court has set aside the judgment and the case will be reheard at the present term of court.

At the time the divorce was granted there was no appearance on the part of the defendant, who had filed a sensational cross-bill and answer to the complaint charging desertion filed by the husband.

A few days ago the defendant, a St. Paul woman, appeared in the local court and stated that the notice of trial was not served upon her and that she was unaware that the trial was to have taken place on the date it did. She stated that she wished to contest the case and have the decree awarded to her. The attorneys on both sides agreed on the matter and Judge Dibell will hear both sides of the case at the present term of court. He set aside the judgment this morning.

The plaintiff simply claimed desertion and obtained the decree on this ground.

The defendant in a long recital of cruel and inhuman treatment stated that she was forced to peddle in order to make a living and that she was even forced to go from door to door at times when she was in a delicate state of health.

She stated that after a separation, her husband sent her word that he would come back to her if she would visit him and kiss his foot seventeen times.

Cobden Ex-Banker Sentenced.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 3.—Rollin M. West, former cashier of the State Bank of Cobden, Minn., who pleaded guilty to the indictment charging embezzling $12,271.04, pleaded guilty in district court yesterday before Judge Olsen. West was sentenced for an indeterminate period in state's prison at hard labor. He stated in court that he is 39 and that he was born in Rice county, Minnesota. His father, S. M. West, resides at Faribault. He was cashier of the Cobden State bank seven years and prior to that time was a traveling salesman.

Iron ores are chiefly oxides, and native iron is almost unknown except in the meteorites occasionally picked up. Some native iron discovered by Nordenskjold at Ovifak, Greenland, in 1870, is now known to be of terrestrial origin, although it was at first supposed to be meteoric like other masses.

WEST END

HINCKLEY FIRE HERO

Joseph Lund's Eyesight Was Impaired at Time of Conflagration.

Defect Resulted in Despondency That Caused Him to Commit Suicide.

Joseph Lund, who committed suicide Monday afternoon, was one of the heroes of thellinckley fire and defective eyesight resulting from the fire is believed to have caused the despondency that led him to end his life.

Lund killed himself by blowing off part of his head with a shotgun at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Strand, 1931 West Seventh street.

Lund often told of the fire to his friends in the West end and yesterday one of the Superior business men retold the story as Lund told it. It seems that Lund was working at one of the lumber mills at Hinckley at the time and when it became evident that Hinckley was in danger, every man at the mills volunteered his services in case they were necessary.

Nothing could stop the fire after it had gained such a headway and when it reached Hinckley, Sandstone and Miller it was evident that nothing could stop it. The only thing to do was to save the residents of the city. Lund, with a number of other men, formed a rescue party and they all went from place to place fighting the flames and trying to save as much of the property as possible. It was in this attempt that Lund's eyes were scorched. The old lumber town apparatus was not at all useful in fighting such a fire and the men were compelled to beat the flames with sticks. They rescued a number of children by running them to a nearby swamp and keeping them there until the fire had passed over the town.

There were about 275 people killed or burned in the fire and Lund was a member of the burial party.

When Lund's body was found in the home Monday afternoon, the coroner was notified and the body was taken to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, from where the funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow mornings. Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, will officiate and interment will be in the Lutheran cemetery.

OFFICERS OF VASA ORDER INSTALLED.

The new officers of the Vasa Order, No. 170, were installed at a special reception held at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, last evening. Erned L. Giesler of Boston, organizer and founder of the order, officiated at the ceremony following which a special program of music and addresses was given by the members. Refreshments were served.

The officers to hold office during the coming year are: President, C. E. Johnson; vice president, C. A. Hoffman; recording secretary, George Johnson; financial secretary, A. Horngren; treasurer, A. T. Lind; master of ceremonies, S. O. Carlson; inside watch, O. Seaquist; outside watch, A. Melander; trustees, A. Arnonson and August Hammar.

Following are the degree team officers also installed last evening: Captain, Gus H. Lindstam; first assistant, Olaf W. Seaquist; second assistant, Jonas Lund; president, Albert Melander; treasurer, Victor P. Juten; secretary, Jonas Lund.

RECEIVE WORD FROM THE HAVENS.

Mrs. David Adams, 2314 West Second street received a letter yesterday from Mrs. R. D. Haven, wife of the former mayor of Duluth, who moved from here to Silver City, N. M., to start a chicken farm. Mrs. Haven writes that the members of the party are all getting on well and that Raymond Hopkins, a brother of Mrs. Haven, has already shown signs of improvement in his health. It should the young man recover Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, parents of Mrs. Haven will return to Duluth some time this fall.

Mr. Haven will start work on his farm within a few weeks.

Leap Year Party.

Miss Lucille Schwartz, 17½ North Nineteenth avenue west, entertained a number of her West end friends at a Leap Year party at her home last evening. The rooms were decorated in gold and white and the evening was spent in music and games, following which refreshments were served. Those present were: Misses Helen Dunlap, Carrie Scribner, Hazel Cant, Agatha Scribner, Eleanor Wagner, Blanche Ryan, Florence Wike, Marion Fuller and Lucille Schwartz, and the Messrs. Frank La Claire, Frank Duncan, Lee Richards, Dan McDonald, Chester Thaner, Ray Donald, Clarence Thomas, Derald Walch and Milton Maghan.

CATHOLIC FORESTERS WILL INSTALL OFFICERS.

St. Clement court, No. 675, Catholic Order of Foresters, will entertain the visiting circle at the regular meeting to be held tomorrow evening at the lodge rooms, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. P. H. Martin, state chief ranger, will install the new officers of the order during the evening, following which Father Augustine will give a short talk on "Socialism." A musical program will be given by the members. Following are the officers to be installed at the meeting: George F. Walters, chief ranger; F. L. Tambarino, past chief ranger; F. A. Hughes, vice chief ranger; T. G. Harrie, treasurer; P. J. O'Toole, recording secretary; J. L. Golcz, financial secretary, and T. G. Harrie, speaker.

REPUBLICANS HOLD MEETING.

Dr. J. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, spoke last evening at a meeting of the West End Republican club help at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Among the other speakers at the meeting were, Clement de Roche, Republican candidate for alderman of the Seventh ward; J. C. Anderson, Republican candidate for alderman in the Sixth ward; County Commissioner Joseph Cumming; Rev. J. J. Daniels of the Swedish Mission church, and N. B. Anderson of Lakeside, who accompanied Dr. McCuen to the meeting.

The members of the club held a short business meeting after the addresses and it was voted to hold the weekly meetings every Monday evening in the future, instead of Tuesday.

Hiking Party.

Members of the Cadawaba club held a "hiking party" Monday evening to Lakewood. Following the walk dinner was served at one of the member's homes. Those present were: Misses Rose Dunphy, Catherine Helam, Rose Alice, Mae McGuire, and Messrs. Robert Miller, Alec McDonald, George McCaskey, Edward Johnson and Daunton McDonald. The party was chaperoned by Clyde Wilson and Miss Grace Wilsey.

Nelson Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Nelson, 31 years old, wife of Martin Nelson, 1927 Piedmont avenue, who died early Sunday morning, will be held Friday afternoon from the First Norwegian Lutheran church. Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in the Park Hill cemetery.

Gustafson Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Selma Gustafson, 33 years old, wife of Claus Gustafson, 505 Garfield avenue, who died Sunday morning at St. Luke's hospital, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. Interment was in the Park Hill cemetery.

FIVE ARE IN THE CONTEST

Effort to Get Former Senator Purcell to Run for Congress.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The most interesting political race in North Dakota up to date is the Democratic national committeemanship fight with five entries. The five starters are Col. George E. Duis of Grand Forks, Frederick McLean of Fargo, Col. M. E. Hildreth of Fargo, Frank Willson of Bathgate and Col. Ben G. Whitehead, editor of the Williston State. McLean and Willson are both holding appointments under Governor Burke, McLean being game warden at present and Willson having just completed four years of oil inspectorship at $2,500 a year and then being named to a fine position on the state normal school board.

With a Democratic victory the office of Democratic national committeeman would be the most important in the state. It would devolve upon that officer, in the absence of a Democratic congressman or a Democratic senator, to pick out the postmasters and other federal employes in the state.

The State Auditorship.

It looks like David K. Brightbill, state auditor for four years and now seeking a third term, will have opposition in the person of William Felson, the present county auditor of Pembina county and one of the strong Republican workers in the state. No state auditor has ever been able to secure the third election in the history of the state, and the fight is going to be an interesting one.

There will only be two candidates for secretary of state, P. D. Norton, the present incumbent, and Capt. Frank Henry of Valley City. They opposed each other two years ago, but a third candidate served to take votes from Henry's territory.

Purcell for Congress.

An effort is being made to get Col. W. E. Purcell of Wahpeton into the race for congress to oppose Congressman Helgesen. The former United States senator is trying to get away from politics and devote himself to the practice of law entirely but the voice of the temptor is being heard on every hand by him, and the Democrats believe that he may yield. It would be a great campaign.

Tracy R. Bangs of Grand Forks is the Democratic favorite for attorney general, and he can have the nomination if he will take it. He is one of the greatest campaigners in the Northwest.

The only Republican candidate for national committeeman to be mentioned up to date with any degree of certainty is Former Congressman Thomas F. Marshall of Oakes. There was a lot of talk about Contractor William Price of Fargo but the latter gracefully retired in order to give the Marshall boom a better swing.

Jones for Governor.

George P. Jones of La Moure will probably be the only Democratic aspirant for the governorship. Warden Heistrom of the state prison was much talked of, and State Bank Examiner Knutson wanted to get into the race, but the campaigning ability of "Jones of Rock" made him an easy favorite from the first, and the belief is that he will have no opposition for the nomination, should Governor Burke decline to run again.

KEROSENE IN STOVE; ONE DEAD, ONE DYING.

Lowell, Ind., Jan. 3.—A mother is dead and her child is dying here as a result of the mother's desire to start a fire quickly. When Mrs. Daniel Stratton poured kerosene from a two-gallon can into the kitchen stove, an explosion threw burning oil over the woman and her 3-year-old daughter, Nell. Neighbors put out the flames, but Mrs. Stratton died soon afterward. She was 28 years old. The child still is alive, but physicians say it cannot survive.

Why is it when any one speaks of Tomato Soup, you instantly think of Campbell's?

The same reason that pianos make you think of Steinway; and diamonds, of Tiffany.

We have been making this soup so many years and making it always so good that it has become the accepted standard of perfect tomato soup.

Practical housewives buy it by the dozen and the case; so to have it on hand for any occasion, any day. That is the sensible way. Try it.

THE HERALD'S SOLID CIRCULATION.

Last evening The Herald devoted a page to some figures to which, if it may be pardoned for doing so, it would like to "point with pride."

During the year just closed this newspaper circulated the impressive total of 8,430,120 copies. That's a daily average of 27,020.

This is a very gratifying circulation, and The Herald is proud of it. But it is prouder still of two other things: the constant and rapid growth that has brought this total about, and the way this growth came.

In 1890 The Herald had a circulation of 2,200 copies. In 1900 it was 10,392 copies. In 1905 it was 16,677 copies. In 1911 it was 27,020. So much for the growth. It speaks for itself.

But here is something of which The Herald is still prouder: this total of 27,020 is the largest circulation enjoyed by any newspaper in Minnesota outside the Twin Cities. It is the largest circulation in the state that has been gained without the use of premiums, contests, and other artificial stimulants. Therefore, since this circulation grew because people wanted The Herald and not because they wanted a dictionary, map, book, phonograph, plush album, or what-not along with it, it is solid and substantial and it sticks. There is no other circulation just like it in Minnesota.

This is highly gratifying because it shows that The Herald has gained exactly what it has sought. Its purpose is to publish a newspaper that newspaper readers will want to read. If the kind of newspaper it furnished would not attract readers without the bribery of premiums and the hold-up of "popularity" contests and the like, then the effort must fail. The effort did not fail. Readers have come in steadily increasing numbers, and they are still coming. And The Herald is glad of this, and proud of it. It is not its custom to introduce eulogies of itself in these columns, but it is so well pleased with the showing made in the year just closed that, if it can be forgiven for this once, it desires to gloat over it.

Having gloated, it will pass rapidly on to matters that are perhaps of more interest to others.

A WELCOME TO MR. HILL.

Though Duluth has had in the past and still has a pretty firm conviction that the Great Northern railroad has not dealt justly with this city, perhaps that's due in part to the fact that Duluth has not been as self-assertive and as aggressive in insisting on its proper place on the map as other cities have been. Then, too, Duluth has by no means lost hope of getting proper recognition. At any rate, the relations between this city and the Great Northern railroad will not affect in the slightest degree the warmth of the welcome which is extended tonight to Louis W. Hill, president of that road.

Duluth greets with unfeigned pleasure the head of one of the greatest railroad systems in the world, not only in his official capacity, not only as the son of one of the greatest railroad men the world has ever known, but in his own individual capacity as a former resident of Duluth who made many friends here when he was beginning, at the bottom of the ladder, the steady climb to eminence during which hard work, persistence, intelligence and capacity have combined to put him where he is.

THE ALDRICH PLAN.

The other day The Herald quoted Samuel Untermeyer, a wealthy and prominent corporation attorney, as charging that there is a money trust in this country and that it is a grave menace. It is against the influence of this money trust that any central bank or reserve association formed by law must be protected. Obviously, while he did not expressly say so, Mr. Untermeyer believes that the plan is not so safeguarded.

There is great need of a better banking and currency system, and there will be serious trouble if one is not created. But it would be better to face the evils that we know than to turn the reserves of the nation and the government's money over to an institution that could be controlled by the masters of money.

There is credible testimony to the effect that the Aldrich plan is abundantly safeguarded. The Herald wants to publish both sides of the discussion, to the end that the public may be supplied with all the information available; also to the end that its own mind may be convinced beyond doubt whether the Aldrich plan is good or bad. One thing we are sure of is that it is either very good or very bad. There is no half way business about it.

Roger W. Babson, the Saturday Evening Post's financial expert, publishes in that periodical a thorough analysis of the proposed law in the form of an interview with ex-Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, its author, and as a result of his own study gives the plan a thorough and enthusiastic indorsement. There is no apparent reason why the Saturday Evening Post should be biased in its views on this subject. However, it has not yet approved it editorially, and promises further articles, some of them opposed to the plan.

The Outlook, a periodical whose views are entitled to respect, expresses itself thus on the plan: "Its chief and fundamental effect will be to benefit the farmers, merchants and manufacturers, and so, of course, the consumers and householders, of the country. It will give more liberty and efficiency to the smaller banks, and less despotic power to the large banks of the great financial centers. The great banks of Wall Street are supporting it, however, because they know that the prosperity of the individual banker depends upon the general prosperity. Merchants and farmers and householders ought to support it for the same reason."

The Outlook also publishes an elaborate and enthustic discussion of the Aldrich plan by Edwin R. A. Seligman, professor of political economy in Columbia university and one of the foremost financial and economic scholars in the country. He puts vividly the defects of the present situation and the need of a change, but these things need not be referred to here; they are freely granted and are not to be gainsaid. That side of the question is beyond argument. He puts the advantages of the Aldrich plan under five heads, as follows: Mobilization of credit, insurance against disaster, democratization of facilities, internationalization of business risks and participation in worldwide profits.

"Over against these salutary results," says Prof. Seligman, "we hear but two words of criticism—the danger of political interference and the fear of control by some vast financial interest. The ingenious provisions of the law, however, should convince every unpartisan mind that these risks have been admirably guarded against. The advantages of the plan will accrue primarily to the small bank, not to the large one, for in time of trouble the large bank can generally take care of itself. But it is ultimately not the bank at all but the general community that will benefit. The projected revolution in financial methods is a beneficent one. We have groped long enough in the dark regions of finance; it is now high time to emerge into the light."

This is important testimony, and it should help in forming an opinion as to the merits of the Aldrich scheme. There is no hurry, however, about forming a fixed opinion. The country should insist upon complete and satisfying assurance that there is no danger of improper control of its money by powerful financial interests before it embraces the plan. The Herald has an open mind on the subject, and its present purpose is to contribute, as much as it may, to public enlightenment on the plan and its possibilities, in the meantime making careful study itself so that its judgment, when made, will be one that need not be changed when it is too late.

THE COMMISSION PLAN IN OPERATION—13.

San Diego, Cal., went under the commission plan in 1909. Since then the amount of streets cared for has increased 50 per cent. Purchases are made through a central bureau, and prices are obtained before orders are placed. A large sum has been saved to the city by these methods, and the community takes its cash discounts just like a business house. Better results for less money have made lower taxes and a well satisfied public.

Isn't it probable that a plan of city government that would do these things for San Diego might benefit Duluth?

WALL STREET'S BAD YEAR.

Wall Street, looking back ruefully over the leanest year in its recollection, is wishful for better things in 1912. Perhaps it will get them. Usually the habit of this country has been to start speculating when it gets its courage back and a little money ahead. And it is speculation, nothing else, that makes a good year in Wall Street.

Wall Street serves a very useful purpose as a medium for the convenient buying and selling of securities for investment. But if its business ever settled down to that basis it wouldn't last a month on its present scale. Its fat times come when the public is speculating: and the public—silly thing—is always buying at the top and selling at the bottom, so that the big profits always go ultimately to the professionals and insiders. In this aspect, as a medium for gambling on a large scale, Wall Street's functions is sinister and evil It spreads false reports and exaggerates true reports to force stock prices up, and then unloads on the public. When the public has bought, Wall Street spreads more false reports and more exaggerations of true reports to force prices down, and when the public gets properly alarmed and prices drop far enough, the professionals rake in the stocks again. Meanwhile, besides getting rid of its holdings at high prices, Wall Street has "sold short"—that is, sold stocks that it does not possess—so that when that flock of sheep known as the public falls over itself in a scramble to unload its stocks at low prices, Wall Street takes a profit both ways.

So that if Wall Street has a good year, it will not be a good year for the public—or for that part of it which speculates. Nevertheless, speculation, so far, has been a customary accompaniment of good times such as seem likely to come this year, and if the association is necessary, then we hope Wall Street will have a good season in order that the public which does not speculate may have prosperity.

JUDGE HOOK.

Judge Hook of the United States circuit court having been mentioned as a strong probability for appointment to the supreme bench, the executive offices are being showered with telegrams protesting against his selection. The basis for most of the protests seems to be that his decisions have indicated too strong a bias toward the railroad side of controversies between the public and its transportation mediums.

If these criticisms are solidly based, of course Judge Hook ought not to go on the supreme bench. But then, for that matter, if it is true that he is biased in favor of the railroads, he ought not to be on any bench at all. Again, if the charges are true, the wonder of it is how he escaped appointment to the commerce court, which reviews and usually reverses decisions by the interstate commerce commission in favor of the people.

THE LONELY SETTLER.

What a world of woe and tragedy there is in this item from Bemidji: "Of the ten persons who, during 1911, were adjudged insane in Beltrami county, seven were homesteaders who lost their minds as the result of solitary existence." The state is too much to blame for this wrong. If instead of letting homeseekers take lands far from neighbors it adopted a systematic plan of developing settlement from community centers, where roads, schools, churches and neighbors are available, it would settle its land faster, get more money for it, develop Northern Minnesota much more rapidly and make its development much more permanent and desirable.

'RAH FOR WILEY!

Said Dr. Harvey W. Wiley the other day: "No man, woman or child should live in any place where it is impossible to possess an individual plot of earth. A garden is one of the natural and inalienable rights of every human being. I firmly believe that the way to solve the pure food problem, the congestion problem, the child problem, the labor problem—not to mention a few others—is simply to 'get back to the land.'"

That's fine and true. It's right in line with Duluth's ideal of a city planned so that everybody can have a backyard garden and plenty of yard for the children to play in. But the country would be still more indebted to Dr. Wiley if he would tell how this very desirable condition is to be brought about.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE REAL ROOSEVELT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is little doubt that public opinion is being profoundly influenced by the denunciations of the pending arbitration treaties, reiterated by so forceful and so popular a critic as Mr. Roosevelt. This opinion is quite certain to be reflected in the senate's action upon them. But besides this indirect means of impressing his views, Mr. Roosevelt enjoys the even greater advantage of having, within the very committee that holds in its hands the life of these treaties, a personal and political friend and so a mouthpiece for his objections. It is therefore probably within bounds to say that, if the treaties fall of ratification, the responsibility for their rejection may rightly be charged to him.

Mr. Taft admirably summed up the situation when he said: "What we have got to come to is this: To recognize either that we want arbitration and a peaceful settlement of disputes, or that we don't." How refreshing and clarifying is this voice rising above the wrangle and din over the intricacies of constitutional law and senatorial prerogative! It puts the case in a nutshell. And it also puts Mr. Roosevelt where he belongs, i. e., among those who really do not want the peaceful settlement of disputes at all. The relegation of him to this class is abundantly warranted by his whole record and by his many utterances on this subject, e. g., "We must play a great part in the world and especially —perform those deeds of blood, of valour, which above everything else bring national renown." If it is true, as he said, that "by war alone can we acquire those virile qualities necessary to win in the stern strife of actual life," then obviously any treaty of arbitration that prevents war is, to use his own expression, indeed "wicked." When he opposes the pending treaties on the ground that they are "unbacked by force," it is evident that his real apprehension is, not that they will be effectual in preserving peace—in other words, that they will deprive us of the glorious opportunity of using "force" and of doing "deeds of blood."

Apart from the Rooseveltian influence, there are many signs that the great majority of our fellow-citizens do want arbitration and a peaceful settlement of disputes. Thus is presented the prospect of this curious anomaly—the rejection of these treaties of peace, by the representatives of a peculiarly peaceful people, at the behest of a "born fighter" and the arch-apologist for war. The absurdity of such a situation could only be paralleled by the defeat of a prohibition bill in a community where the sentiment was strongly in favor of temperance, at the dictation of a popular and influential saloon keeper. I remain,

Yours truly,
S. R. TABER.

The Malcontents.

We have worried and wondered and blundered;
We have hoped for them, still undismayed;
We have analyzed, sympathized, thundered,
We have docketed, labeled—and prayed!
The world needs their labor and laughter,
And not their replnings and fears;
But they're malcontens, here and hereafter,
Malingerers down through the years:

They may own all the earth and its treasurers,
The trappings and splendors of Kings,
Or youth, with its myrid pleasures,
Or age, and the wisdom it brings.
They may own the allurement of beauty,
Or the rest of the rapture of love;
Religion, handmaiden of Duty,
May promise them Heaven above!

Yet nothing they have will content them,
Nor knowledge, nor wisdom, nor truth;
All blessings the high gods have sent them
Appear but as curses, in sooth.
Unmated, they yearn but for mating,
Yet marriage, for them, is but strife;
Regretting and fretting—and baiting—
Malingering ever through life!

The perfume and promise of Summer,
They haunt with a gray discontent,
Like some tragical, hoary old mummer,
They moan and repine and lament,
No matter what Eros may proffer,
No matter what Jupiter bring,
They yearn for the other man's coffee,
Be the other man beggar or King.

Whatever they choose they regret it!
Whatever they lose they adore!
What good they possess they forget it!
Since the good that they lack must be more!
The world needs their labor and laughter,
The world gets their groanings and tears!
They are malcontens, here and hereafter,
Malingering down through the years'
—Elizabeth Newport Hepburn in New York Herald.

Boyhood.

E. P. Dunne in the Metropolitan: No man, young or old, knows what is in a boy's mind. Once he knew. Once he was familiar with the ritual, free of the fellowship understood the degrees and administered them to others. Suddenly he was expelled and he has never been able to get back in again. His mind, ruthlssly deprived of the memory of passwords and grips and observances, seeks in vain to recall them. Though he beat forever on the door it never will be opened to him. Nothing is more remote from the mind of the grownup person than the apparently simple matter of the division of a boy's year. Philosophers have studied and guessed, but they never have been able to explain why at one time boys play at marbles, at another time spin tops and at still another time fly kites, and why in every part of the world they abandon one pastime in a body and take up another.

The boys know. They all know. But the rigorous freemasons won't tell. Are they bound by some frightful oath not to reveal the secrets of their caste? Do traitors and informers among them suffer dreadful penalties? Is it possible that the sad little boys who are sometimes seen gloomily treading their way through the winter streets, wearing low socks and French berets or the velvet clothes of little Lord Fauntleroys, with curls hanging down their lace collars—is it possible that these are the Morgans of this freemasonry, that this is their fate because they have communicated the secrets of their order? It must be true for no mother in her right mind would so punish her offspring. He wears the uniform of the outcast. Every boy's hand is raised against him. But if it is a punishment, the punishment is excessive. No boy could if he would communicate these secrets to the mature.

It would be more difficult for a boy of 10 to explain what he knows and thinks to a man of 40 than it would be for a Thibetan priest to elucidate in his own language the mysteries of esoteric Buddhism to a Wall Street broker at a quick-lunch counter.

Schoolboy Humorists.

"Europe is fortunate in having its highland run east and west because of the volcanoes which erupt there."

"Rhine is the beautifully river in Germany."

"The Germans are a very nice people, some of them. They don't mind work."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

One State For All.

Fairmont Sentinel: We get tired of reading so much in the newspapers about the conflict between Southern Minnesota and Northern Minnesota, as though it were two distinct and warring people. We like the views as expressed in the following extract taken from an editorial that appeared in a recent number of the St. Cloud Daily Times:

"We are all Minnesotans! We are proud of the North Star state—every part of it! What aids Southern Minnesota helps Northern Minnesota and vice versa. There is and can be only one Minnesota."

The Call to Arms.

Redwood Falls Gazette: The time has come when there should be no Progressives and no standpatters, no conservatives, no radicals, but Republicans standing for the reforms urgently demanded and needed by the people.

Willmar Tribune: You are early, Brother Wilson. There is still about nine months before all hands will be called out to line up everything for the straight Republican ticket. Bringing out the rabbit's foot so early may cause it to lose some of its virtue when needed the most by the old gang.

Brewery Control.

Laporte News: The more one investigates and learns the facts, the more will they realize the deep-seated and far-reaching effect of the brewery control which exists in this state. It crops out in times and places least looked for, and its power is felt in every town and village. It is a trust by the side of which the Standard Oil, sugar and tobacco combinations are as angels of light, and as such should be stamped out whether a man believes in prohibition, local option or any other option.

Wow!

Red Wing Republican: The vice president announces that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself. The people fully agree with him. "Sunny Jim" will be allowed to retire to Utica and enjoy that obscurity for which he is peculiarly well fitted.

And Again!!

St. Cloud Journal Press: Some inquisitive soul wants to know who is the present vice president of these United States. We may find time to look over the newspaper files of three years ago and unearth his name from the dust of the past.

It is Chastening.

Pine River Blaze: To be frank about it, it does look a little bad for the Republicans in Minnesota just at the present time. In the first place the legislature sort of balled things up in some respects and the people are dissatisfied. Then comes our beloved Adolph and his sworn allegiance to the railroads, and that looks bad. And there is a steady advance of the followers of La Follette, and that makes a difference. But taken altogether, it will no doubt redound to the good of the party, for they will find out that they can't monkey with the people.

The Right Idea.

Brown's Valley Tribune: The strongest argument that can be raised against a state wide primary is that the candidate with the big "barrel" stands the best chance to win, but a stringent corrupt practice act and men in office with back bone to enforce it will put the big "barrel" candidate out of business.

Ely Miner: Of all the low-down despicable means ever devised by the lower state senators to hold onto their jobs, is the "Seven-Senator Bill" to go on the ballot at the next election. The senators who concocted this monstrosity are so d——d (meaning dammed) narrow that a look through a keyhole with both eyes at once is a snap for them. To disfranchise an American citizen because he lives in a city is certainly the hallmark of simon-pure asininity.

It Can't Be So.

Little Falls Transcript: "Hostilities Crop Out at Republican Conference," says a Washington dispatch to the Twin City press. What? Surely not dissension in that peace loving camp! We'll never, never believe it!

Where the Americans Are.

Springfield Republican: Someone lately wrote an alarmist book on "The Vanishing American"—it would be but a short time, he argued, before the species would be extinct because of extravagance, dislike for hard work, and the declining birthrate. There was some truth in his strictures, and the moral he drew was sound, but his picture was too gloomy. Figures lately drawn from the new census show that in a large part of the country the native stock is still holding its own, though the distribution leaves something to be desired. Not all the states are included, but enough are given to show that the Northeast, roughly speaking, is predominantly foreign, the states Southwest of a vague line predominantly American. Where the Americans are may be seen from this incomplete table showing the percentage of those born of American parents:

West Virginia	86.3
Kentucky	81.4
Indiana	80.0
Oklahoma	79.0
New Mexico	78.0
Tennessee	75.7
Texas	67.0
North Carolina	67.0
Maine	67.0
Ohio	65.0
Illinois	48.0
Michigan	45.0
New Jersey	43.0
New York	37.0
Connecticut	37.0
Massachusetts	34.0
Wisconsin	33.0
Minnesota	29.0

It will appear that the heart of the American population lies in the somewhat side-tracked block of states which includes West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Indiana. The white population of the whole South is predominantly American, but in the black belt the case is complicated by the great negro population. But taking the country as a whole, the census shows that in only thirteen states are foreigners in a majority, while in twelve states the native stock comprises more than two-thirds of the whole population, whereas the foreign element comes to two-thirds in only two or three states.

It will be seen by placing the figures cited upon a map that the area of foreign predominance may be divided into two quite distinct sections—the manufacuring and commercial Northeast, where practically all elements are represented in great numbers, and the agricultural North Central states where the land has largely been taken up by Germans and Scandinavians This population is firmly rooted in the soil, while a large part of the foreigners in the East being employed for wages are a more fluctuating element, and a change in business conditions sends them home in great numbers. Yet East or West the foreigner is being Americanized, and it is to be noted that the second generation increases faster than the first. In the Eastern states the ratio of the immigrants to the children of immigrants is 100 to 115; in the Central states it is 100 to 166; in the Central Northern states it increases to 100 to 200. Those born in this country are for all practical purposes Americans, but the sociologist needs to distinguish more closely, and it is interesting and important to know how the old American stock is distributed.

An After-Marriage Bell.

Galveston News: Our idea of a happy marriage is when a man and his wife go partners in keeping a boarding house and his part of the work is ringing the dinner bell.

Terrible Accident to Chaos.

San Francisco Argonaut: Talleyrand's conservatism was summed up by a witty compatriot, Paul de Courcier, who declared that if Talleyrand had been present at the creation, he would have exclaimed: "Good gracious! Chaos will be destroyed!"

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

Nearly half a dozen years ago a schism in the ranks of the Women's Relief corps caused a row in the Duluth G. A. R. The feeling has culminated in the establishment of a new post, named after Col. J. B. Culver, who served during the war as colonel of the Thirteenth Michigan Volunteer Infantry and was one of the first settlers of Duluth, being elected as the first mayor of the city in 1870 and elected to the same position several years afterward. The officers of the new post are: Post commander, George N. La Vaque; senior vice, G. T. Johns; junior vice, H. C. Helm; quartermaster, H. Van Valkenberg; surgeon, J. R. Randall; chaplain, E. G. Chapman; officer of the day, T. B. Hizar; officer of the guard, A. M. Cox; adjutant, N. A. Gearhart; sergeant-major, S. W. Clark; quartermaster-sergeant, C. T. Clement; trustees, M. R. Baldwin, J. H. La Vaque and J. O. Milne; representative to the department encampment, N. A. Gearhart; alternate representative, T. H. Pressnell.

The Republican city committee has been formed. It consists of William Stephens of the First ward, Palmer of the Second, Hugo of the Third, Coffin of the Fourth, H. T. Lord of the Fifth, and H. C. Helm of the Sixth.

Charles Eppling has gone to Milwaukee, where he will be married on Jan. 6.

On New Year's afternoon George Kriest, grandson of Mrs. S. B. White of the Pastoret building, leaned too far out of a window in the sixth story, lost his balance and fell to the frozen ground below. Both legs were broken and his back injured. The boy is 6 years old. About a year ago his mother was killed in an accident.

Hugh H. Wilson of Engine company No. 1 was married on Jan. 1 to Miss Ida M. Randall at the residence of Rev. Dr. Ringland. They will reside at 24 East Second street.

The Cambridge, Minneapolis & Duluth railway has been incorporated with a capital stock of $500,000. The following are the officers: H. F. Barker, president; D. O. Anderson, vice president; C. W. Van Winner, secretary; O. A. Hallis, treasurer.

W. C. McComber and Louis Rouchleau recently purchased fifty-two forties of mineral land on the Mesaba in 58-16, and last week Mr. McComber and associates made another purchase of nearly 2,000 acres in 58-17. These were outright purchases, the former lot being from H. R. Higgins of Minneapolis.

J. W. Marvin has purchased the interest of A. R. Ridgely in the books and plant of the Duluth Abstract of Title company. W. G. McMath will be the future manager of the company's abstract business.

Earl Crawford, formerly with the Times and Tribune in Duluth and now with the Superior Telegram, will join the reportorial force of The Herald tomorrow.

Miss Eliza Jones was married on Dec. 31 to William Clark, at the residence of Thomas Clark at Woodland, Rev. C. C. Salter officiating. It was the first weddin- at the new suburb.

GOD RULES ALWAY.

Into the world's most high and holy places
Men carry selfishness, and graft, and greed.
The air is rent with warring of the races;
Loud dogmas drown a brother's cry of need.
The Fleet-of-Creeds, upon Time's ocean lurches;
And there is mutiny upon her decks;
And in the light of temples and of churches,
Against life's shores drift wrecks and derelicts.
(God rules, God rules alway.)

Right in the shadow of the lofty steeple,
Which crowns some costly edifice of faith,
Behold the throngs of hungry, unhoused people;
The "Bread line," flanked by charity and death.
See yonder churchman, opulently doing
Unnumbered deeds, which gladden and resound;
The while his thrifty tenant is pursuing
The white slave trade on sacred, untaxed ground.
(God rules, God rules alway.)

For these are but the outward signs of fever;
Those flaunting signs, which through the delirium burn;
And the clear-seeing eye of each Believer
Can note the coming crisis. It will turn,
For it has reached its summit. Convalescing,
The sick world shall arise to strength and peace,
And the earth shall bloom with each and every blessing
Life waits to give, when wars and conflicts cease.
(God rules, God rules alway.)

This is a mighty hour. No sounds of drumming,
No flying flage, no heralds do appear;
No Wise Men of the East proclaim His coming;
Yet He is coming—nay, our Christ is here!
And man shall leave his fever dreams behind him;
Those dreams of avarice, and lust, and sin,
And seek his Lord: yea, he shall seek and find Him,
In his own soul, where He has always been.
(God rules, God rules alway.)

Man longs for God. Before the Christ we wot of,
With His brief, mighty message, came to earth;
Before His life, or creed, or cross were thought of,
The love of love within man's heart had birth.
He has not known the thing that he was after;
And ever seeking, nothing has sufficed;
And sobs will sound forever through his laughter,
Until he knows that He himself is Christ.
(God rules, God rules alway.)

Oh, when he knows this truth in all its splendor,
What majesty, what glory crowns his life.
And, one with God, his every thought is tender;
He cannot enter into war, or strife.
His love goes out to every race and nation;
His whole religion lies in being kind.
This is the creed that means the world's salvation:
The birth of Christ in every mortal mind.
(God rules, God rules alway.)

Taft as a Traveler.

Angus McSween thinks that President Taft is the best traveler and worst political campaigner in the United States. In his article on "Politics and Persons" in the Metropolitan he says, among other things, that various persons have tried to figure out to what is attributable the president's great love of travel. The readable explanation appears to be that as a fleshy man, the president derives a degree of satisfaction from the sense of motion without physical effort. He likes to feel that he is active while sitting still and that he is accomplishing at least a journey, with small exertion.

"As the man who has done more traveling than any other in public life since the world began, President Taft has shown that any mode which is comfortable is satisfactory to him. He likes a ship as well as a railroad train, and is just as contented with an automobile. The one thing he insists upon is speed. As an automobilist his love of speed has kept his friends in a state of anxiety. He wants trains to run fast, and he likes steamships which average the greatest daily distances.

"The president travels in the greatest possible comfort. His long trip last fall was made in a private car selected for his use as one of the very best the Pullman company has ever constructed. His bedroom was no mere stateroom, but a room in which he could move about if desirable and which conveyed no impression of disagreeable restrictions. His bathroom was large and beautifully equipped. The lounging-room was provided with luxurious furniture designed to increase the president's comfort. The compartment in which he ate his meals was also roomy, while the best of chefs and the most expert of attendants were employed to prepare and serve his meals.

"Under such conditions the president sought and obtained all the enjoyment which could be derived from constantly changing scenes and the exhilaration of motion without personal effort. He slept well, ate well, and was never in bad spirits except when his program was interfered with.

"This was made more remarkable by the fact that his trip as a campaigning expedition was a failure. The public throughout the entire western half of the country was not only cold, but showed an unprecedented lack of interest in the views of the chief executive of the nation."

Sermon for Editors.

St. Albans Messenger: Mr. De Boer takes some of the newspaper criticism like a novice in politics—too seriously. —Barre Times.

Perhaps so, in one sense. Men of delicate intellectual fieber, keen, sensitive minds, are rather inclined to do this very thing and suffer from it, too, no matter what bold front they put up to the world.

But there is another side to the proposition, esteemed contemporary. How many newspaper editorial writers take their responsibility for what they write seriously? It is the easiest thing imaginable to spill printer's ink all over a fair white virgin sheet of paper and give pain to somebody who may not be truly conscious of deserving it. More than often there is no malicious intent behind the article. More than often there is no disposition to do a mean or dishonest thing or to be unfair. But just as often, and more, too, there is a lapse into thoughtlessness of flippancy that banters away some shred of public good opinion of a man to make a readable paragraph.

We folks that write and print opinions of men in public life have a great responsibility poised upon the very tip of our pens. We may not be so conceited as to imagine that we can control public opinion, but we do—whether we deserve it or not—we do certainly have opportunities for helping to influence public opinion that most of our neighbors cannot employ.

Some men may complain that so-and-so takes newspaper comment too seriously. Suppose we turn the idea the other way 'round.

If newspaper writers do not take their own work seriously—do not realize the mischief that may be bred of a careless pen—who will?

Business Manager vs. Editors.

Joliet News: The editor has a fine time. He is in the limelight continually. The invitations to banquets and railroad excursions are sent to the editor. He may write poetry and get embalmed in "Who's Who," tell his grievances to all the world and make great politicians tremble, but the business manager must dig up the editor's salary; dig for subscribers and advertising; stand off or pay off the creditors or walk the flor at night and be on time in the morning. The editor is smiling and fat, the business manager lean and pessimistic, as a rule.

Too Bad.

Chicago Record-Herald: "What are you looking so thoughtful about, you fool?" snarled the man who has just succeeded in getting up, after stepping upon a banana peel, with the usual result.

"I was thinking it was too bad that the sidewalk had interfered with your back-to-the-land movement."

PHOTOGRAPH IS GOOD CLEW

Two Men Arrested on Charge of Swindling Farmer in November.

Postal Card Found in Room Leads to Arrest After Long Search.

A postal photograph carelessly left behind when Carl Boline, a farmer, was swindled out of his money in Ole Oleson's saloon on St. Croix avenue, Nov. 4 last, resulted in the arrest last night of Charles Olson and Charles Nelson by Sergeant John Roberg.

Complaints were sworn out against them this morning and they were arraigned in police court on charges of swindling. They waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury which began its sessions today. Indictments against them will likely be returned shortly.

Two months ago Boline reported to the police that he had been beaten out of $15 in Oleson's saloon by three strangers who had induced him to take part in a card game. It was nothing but a case of "big mitting" and before Boline knew what had happened he was shy his worldly wealth, which was a small fortune to him.

Accompanied by Sergeant Roberg he returned to the place to look for the men whom he claimed had robbed him. They had disappeared and could not be found anywhere in the city. In searching the room the officer found a picture. It bore a likeness of the three men whom Boline alleged to have separated him of his wealth, together with that of the bartender and a fifth person.

With the photograph and the descriptions which Boline was able to give him, the sergeant has since been looking for the trio. Last night he recognized one of them going into a saloon. He didn't arrest him immediately, but watched him for some time. Later he was joined by another of the three. The third man did not put in an appearance and Olson and Nelson were taken to headquarters.

They strenuously denied their guilt and the bartender was equally emphatic in his declarations that he did not know any of the three men. But he managed to recollect them after he had been shown their pictures, with his own face appearing in the group.

WIN BANNER AGAIN.

Duluth Yeomen Lead the State in Increase in Membership.

Duluth camp, No. 3131 of the Brotherhood of America Yeomen, has again won the state banner for the largest increase in membership for the three months ending Dec. 31, 1911. The local comp also won the banner for the preceding three months. It was organized last February and now has 300 members. New officers will be installed Monday evening at 118 West Superior street. J. H. Murphy of Owatonna will be installing officer.

RAILROADS

ACTIVITY IN COOK COUNTY

Canadian Northern Believed to Be Planning Extensive Operations.

Has Line From Duluth to Port Arthur in View.

Railroad men, who claim to be acquainted with the situation freely predict that the coming year will witness much activity in Cook county on the part of the Canadian Northern road.

During the next twelve months, it is said that the McKenzie-Mann interests will build or at least start the construction of a new line connecting the Duluth & Northern Minnesota with the North Lake section of the Canadian Northern.

Rumors of a direct line from Duluth to Port Arthur have been afloat for some time. The proposition is not idle talk for the proposed extension is shown on a map in the company's folders.

H. T. Hazen, district engineer of the Canadian Northern who formerly was located in Duluth but whose headquarters are now in Port Arthur, could not be reached today and the rumor could not be officially confirmed here.

The North Lake branch of the Canadian Northern road is built from Port Arthur to the Canadian border and is seventy miles long. It strikes the border on Rainy river north of Cook county.

The Duluth & Northern Minnesota, which is owned and operated by the Alger-Smith Lumber company, runs northeast to Cook county, the northernmost terminal now being Schauff lake.

If the Duluth-Port Arthur line becomes a reality, it is said that it would not only mean the building of about sixty miles of road through Cook county, but also a line from Knife River to Duluth. Knife River is where the Alger Smith road connects with the Duluth & Iron Range railroad.

It is said that in case the Knife River-Duluth extension is built, the railroad would come in over the Canadian Northern terminals at West Duluth. In this case the line would tap the new Canadian Northern line, which has been built from Virginia to Duluth, near Pike lake.

At a hearing conducted before the state railroad and warehouse commission, Nov. 7, John Millen, president of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota, stated that it was the intention of the D. & N. M. road to extend to the Canadian border in the future. He stated that the Alger-Smith company had timber holdings there which the new extension would tap.

Just what negotiations have been pending between the Alger-Smith railroad and the Canadian Northern is not known, but there are some who say that the McKenzie-Mann interests will take over the logging road and make it a part of their system.

Duluth has no direct communication with the Canadian Head of the Lakes except by water. Although but 196 miles apart, it is necessary to travel over 400 miles by rail via Fort Frances in order to get from one city to the other.

HOPE TO BREAK GOULD'S GRIP

Wallace Committee Wants to Oust Him From the Wabash.

New York, Jan. 3.—George Gould and his financial associates will be ousted from the control of the Wabash Railroad company, now in the hands of receivers, if the plans of the protective committee for the 4 per cent refunding bonds, headed by James N. Wallace of the Central Trust company, are successfully carried out. This is the committee organized in opposition to the Pierce committee representing the Equitable Trust company, trustees of the bonds, whose plans to reorganize the road have received the indorsement of Mr. Gould and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

According to an announcement made by the Wallace committee, calling for deposits of bonds, the January interest on which was defaulted, it was necessary, if the bonds are to be made good, "that the interests responsible for the management of the road during the past years, which has led to the present receivership and this default, shall not in the future continue in control."

Would Keep Delano.

While seeking to wrest this control from Mr. Gould and the Pierce committee, the Wallace committee, according to its announcement, hopes to retain Frederick A. Delano as president of the road.

"If the able physical operation of the property under Mr. Delano can continue," the announcement states, "and if the financial control shall rest with those in whom the investing public has confidence, ample sums will be forthcoming to enable the Wabash road not only to meet its present obligations, but to provide for future developments."

OLD PORTER IS CALLED.

Long in Service of Ex-President of South Shore Road.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Johnson, who for eleven years had been porter on W. F. Fitch's private car, died Saturday at Oakland, Cal., where he went early in December to visit a sister. A telegram to one of the porters on the Marquette-Chicago sleepers last week conveyed the news that Johnson was critically ill and was not expected to live twenty-four hours.

During the eleven years Johnson was in the employ of ex-President Fitch, he made Marquette his headquarters and is well known here. For twenty-nine years he had worked as porter on a private car first for the Wabash, then fourteen years for the Northern Pacific and for the past eleven years for the South Shore. When Mr. Fitch resigned as president of the South Shore, it left Johnson out of a position and early in December, he went to California. He has told his friends here that he was about 60 years of age, but many believe that he was somewhat older.

NEW YORK CENTRAL ORDERS NEW CARS.

The New York Central has ordered 155 steel passenger cars from the American Car & Foundry company, the total cost of which will be $2,325,000. The specifications call for 100 standard steel coaches, 35 combination coaches and 20 baggage and express cars. The Jones & Laughlin company of Pittsburg will roll the plates and shapes.

Many of the new cars will be used in the through service of the New York Central Lines between New York and Chicago.

MILWAUKEE ROAD WILL BEGIN WORK EARLY.

Spring construction work in the Pacific Northwest will be inaugurated by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad as soon as weather conditions permit.

The Lewiston, Mont., branch of the Puget sound extension will be built on to Roy, also in Fergus county, a distance of forty-four miles. The new line will provide transportation facilities to about 2,000,000 acres of splendid land, that has already demonstrated its crop raising value.

Work will be pushed rapidly in the spring and settlers have been assured that the new line will be in readiness for the hauling of crops next fall.

The country served by this line is practically the last of Montana's famous stock-raising country.

C. & E. I. to Raise Wages.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Engineers, conductors, firemen and brakemen in the employ of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railway will get the increase in pay asked for several months ago, and additional increases to be worked out this month, it is announced here.

Missouri Law Upheld.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 3.—The Missouri supreme court has upheld the legality of the Sunday passenger train law. The case reached the court from Worth county, where the Burlington railroad was fined for not running a train on its branch line on Sunday.

Fond du Lac Man Found Dead.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—The body of a man taken from the Chicago river last Saturday has been identified as that of H. L. Lefevre, 45 years old, a farmer of Fond du Lac, Wis. The coroner's jury returned an open verdict, being unable to determine how the man came to his death.

The Columbia Overcoat Sale!

It is in full swing now. Every coat in the house has a slaughter price attached—a price that doesn't even include the freight it costs to ship the coat to Duluth.

The quality of these fine Stein-Bloch and Sincerity Overcoats is such that they will do service during the next three or four months and during the coming four or five winters as well.

Oh no!—no $15 choice price—for they are real $25, $30, $35, $40, 45 and $50 coats.

The Columbia At Third Avenue West.

Children's Clothing Sale Starts Friday.

TEAMSTERS WILL HAVE A CHANCE TO WATER HORSES

Duluth teamsters will be able to water their horses during the winter at outside fountains.

The city council last night passed a resolution providing for the establishment of two such drinking fountains. The cost is estimated at $125 each.

One fountain will be located at Ninth avenue east and Superior street and the other at Garfield avenue and Superior street, in the West end. While neither of these is in the heart of the business district, they will be convenient to hundreds of teams, as the traffic past both of them is heavy throughout the year. Practically all teams going east will pass that at Ninth avenue while Garfield avenue is the principal artery to Superior and convenient to all teams going between the central part of the city and the western suburbs.

Should these fountains prove a success it is expected that a number of others will be placed in other parts of the town, probably in approximately the same locations as those used during the summer months. The cost is small and the benefit cannot be calculated in money value. As it now is, the teamsters cannot water their horses unless they are at their stables or unless they ask for water from private users, which the big majority are loath to do.

Both fountains will be equipped with faucets which close automatically. The waste water will be carried away through a manhole or other pipe connecting with a sewer. In this way it is not thought that ice in any considerable quanity will accumulate. The teamsters will be obliged to carry their own pails. In many cities this is required throughout the year, if horses are to be watered at public fountains.

MELLIN'S HAS LARGEST SALE

"When my baby was three weeks old I was taken with Typhoid Fever and had to raise him on the bottle. We tried many kinds of food. He was so weak he could not stand milk. He was nothing but a skeleton when he was born and weighed ten and one-half pounds when three months old. We went to a large drug store and asked what kind of baby food they sold the most of, and they told us Mellin's Food. I have used it ten weeks and now my baby weighs 23 pounds. He could not have lived much longer without Mellin's Food, and it was the only thing that agreed with him."

SETTLING ESTATE OF LATE O. D. KINNEY.

F. R. Abhe of Athens, Pa., is here today incident to settling the estate of the late O. D. Kinney. Mr. Abhe is a son-in-law of Mr. Kinney.

"My trip to Duluth has to do with some personal business matters," said Mr. Abhe today. "Incident to my trip here for some personal business matters of my own, I will assist some in settling the estate of Mr. Kinney. However, my trip here was not made solely for that purpose."

Mr. Kinney left a large estate, most of it being in stocks and bonds. Mr. Kinney of late years having disposed of much of his property in this state.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Three hundred of the friends of Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Milne called during the reception held for them last evening at the parlors of the Pilgrim Congregational church at which the women of the church were hostesses. Members not only of that church but of many denominations called to bid them farewell and wish for the retiring pastor a renewal of health from his trip to the South.

Evergreens and poinsettias were effestively arranged and made a pretty setting for the function. During the evening musical numbers were given by Gregory's instrumental quartet and coffee was served by Mrs. Ward Ames, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. C. F. Coleman assisted by a number of the young ladies of the church.

In the receiving line with Rev. and Mrs. Milne were their daughter, Miss Marjorie, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hegardt, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Anderson.

Mr. Milne has been one of the leading pastors here for the past eleven years and Mrs. Milne has been well known in church and social circles.

PANTONS LEAVE.

Prominent Duluthians Will Reside in West.

Mrs. John Panton and the Misses Margaret and Dorothy Panton will leave tomorrow on the 1:55 train for Seattle, Wash., where they will join Mr. Panton and make their future home there. John Panton, Jr., will leave with them for Hudson, Wis., where he has been attending the Sir Gallihad school. He will go to Seattle in February. Mr. Panton went to Seattle some time ago to engage in business.

DRAMA LECTURE.

"Modern French Drama" Subject of Talk by Henry Greene.

"Modern French Drama" will be the subject of the third lecture in the course on modern drama which is being given before the members of the Twentieth Century club this winter. Hon. Henry F. Greene will be the speaker on this subject tomorrow evening at the lecture room of the Unitarian church, corner of Eighteenth avenue east and First street at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged and as there has been such a widespread interest in the drama at the present time the club cordially invites anyone interested, whether a member of the club or not to attend this meeting. A special invitation is also extended to the members of Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour's dramatic structure classes to attend this lecture.

MEETING POSTPONED.

Cecilians Will Meet Next Week.

The meeting of the Cecilian society which was to have been held this week on Thursday afternoon, has been postponed until next week. The place of meeting and program will be announced later.

Box Parties at Benefit Performance.

Four box parties have already been arranged for the benefit matinee performance at the Lyceum theater tomorrow afternoon which will be given for the little actress Corinne (Baby) Malverne who is ill at St. Mary's hospital. Other parties are being planned and several blocks of seats have also been sold in the body of the house for parties for the afternoon. The matinee offers a two-hours' delightful entertainment and is for a worthy cause, and it is expected that a handsome donation will be made to the little actress from the receipts of the afternoon. Prominent members of the Twentieth Century club, of the Kings' Daughters and the Matinee Musicale have been helping to further the interest in the performance and judging by the number of tickets already sold, are succeeding.

Morning Drama Class.

The regular meeting of the Morning Drama class of the Twentieth Century club will be held tomorrow morning at the club room of the library at 10 o'clock. The reading of Sudermann's "Magda" will be continued with Mrs. Schmied as leader.

Washington Show Girl Becomes New York Star

INA CLAIRE.

In a season which is remarkable for the number of pretty show girls, the palm has been carried off by Miss Ina Claire of Washington. She is a demure little girl of 18 years, with unusually long arms and unusually nimble toes. Though her arms are long their movements are graceful and Miss Claire can do a waltz or two step or a break down or a cake walk with equal facility and charm. Miss Claire was found by Henry Harris, filling a minor role in a musical comedy and Mr. Harris promptly put her at the head of his Quaker Girl company. Her demure style, as well as her gracefulness, captivated New York, and she is now the most talked of woman on the New York stage. Mr. Harris thinks he has found a successor to Edna May, who had such a vogue for many years.

New Orleans, Jan. 3. — Robert G. Fowler's transcontinental flight from Los Angeles to New York was abandoned yesterday, according to the announcement of the aviator's manager. Fowler expects to make exhibition flights along the coast.

Women of California Working for Many Reforms

MRS. MILA TUPPER MAYNARD.

"California is a complete democracy at last," said Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard of Los Angeles in an interview on woman's suffrage this morning. Mrs. Maynard will give a lecture on "The Trust Problem" tomorrow evening at the Finnish hall, 416 East Superior street, at 8 o'clock. It promises to be of exceptional interest.

"It is a new sensation not to feel that the public must wait for the legislature to act," she said, "but that is the case in California. The women in California are particularly fortunate. They came into citizenship with greater power than the men have ever had elsewhere since the initiative referendum and recall have put the entire field of political action on a new plane.

"The women of the state have taken hold with enthusiasm and have worked strenuously in various campaigns. Already a 'minimum wage' for women law in under discussion and may be put ot referendum without waiting for the legislature to act upon it. An eight hour day for women in most lines of business is also now in force and even those who worked the hardest against suffrage have entered into the campaigns with enthusiasm and have done a good share of the work in bringing about the results worked for.

"An important municipal election in Los Angeles just two months after the granting of equal suffrage, was participated in by the women of that city with interest. There was an unprecedented registration and 90 per cent of the women who registered voted in the final election."

Mrs. Maynard was for many years editorial writer on the Rocky Mountain News and is well known in club and political work in the West. She is also a good speaker and her lecture tomorrow evening will be of general interest.

THE EVENING STORY

ONE OR THE OTHER

By Collins Shackelford.

The doorway from the woodshed to the kitchen became suddenly darkened. I looked up from the peas I was shelling, to behold my young wife Madge, holding her right hand behind her and her head downcast. The apparition affected me like a frosty wind. "Hello, sweetheart. What's the trouble" I cried in wonderment.

Slowly and without response she descended the creaky steps into the full of the daylight, so that I perceived the glint of tears on her cheeks and her lips quivering. It was no ordinary happening that would make her thus cast down. With a swoop of my arm I drew her to my knees. Then it was, her sweet face nestling to my cheek, that she showed the mirror of the toilet set I had given her. It was webbed with cracks like the filigree of a spider's web.

"And is that all?" I asked, with a laugh. "Why, I'll be going to the village in the morning and get a new glass put in. Don't fret."

"It's not so much of the glass that I'm thinking, Rob, as of what's to follow," and the dear one began to sob and moan like a child. "It's sure death in the family that they say will happen within a year."

"They say," as an authority, exasperates me. I answered that such old granny stuff was not in my mind to my liking; that it was silliness to have superstitions making us their slaves. But she did not mind me at all, replying, with sweet stubbornness: "Your father was killed within a year of his breaking the great pier glass: your Uncle James was dead within a twelvemonth after cracking his mirror with a hair brush. And Aunt Ritchie has told me—"

"But you know, Rob, she's sometimes right. This may be one of the times, and," speaking in a hushed voice, "I feel—I'm sure one of us will be dead before the year's gone." A smothering kiss and a big sob as she broke away from me was her manner of parting. As the days went by she brooded over the abominable presage that was as a die driven hard down upon her once sunny nature, and say and do wht I might in the first few weeks following, nothing availed to change the run of her inclinations. But the evil did not stop here; it wedge l apart my plans for the future, and the present was lived as if under a real sentence of death.

Thus it was at the beginning; I came in time to be unconsciously influenced by the obstinacy of her belief and less inclined to resist it. The sadness of her face, its pinched expression of imminent grief, her lassitude of action, were such constant reminders of her fear that at last I doubted whether it was wise in me to keep up resistance.

About midway in the year I found that, unwittingly and imperceptibly, the omen and its influences had become intertwisted with most of my plans. The farm, heavily mortgaged, had come to me from my father. Poor crops and a sparse income had put me behind in my dues, the interest pacing ahead without a break, so that my affairs were grievously bothersome. I was never meant to be a farmer, it being my ambition and pleasure to invent things, most of which, I am not ashamed to confess, got no farther away than my own premises. At this time my hobby was a windmill, into the perfection of which I had seeded many hours and dollars. When completed it was disheartening to find that no one wanted it at my own or any lesser figure.

This it came about that I began to consider only the dark side of life—thinking especially of what existence would be to me without Madge, or of her helplessness if I was taken, making my calculations just as if it was a settled thing that one of us would be dead within a few years. I believe both of us would have been in the insane asylum (we were both on the road to one) had not Pinkham, the agent for the sale of my patent, interfered. "Another dun, I suppose," said my wife as she tossed the letter in my lap. "Not that, thank heaven," I cried, my heart light with the joyful news the missive brought. "It's word from Pinkham bidding me come to the city at once, as he has sold our windmill, and has a surprise besides. There's good luck ahead. The farm's to be saved. "In my gladness I tried the swing of a dance with her.

"Robert, Robert, you shouldn't do that," she gravely protested, gently putting away my arms. "You may be disappointed again. Besides," she spoke hesitatingly, my hands in hers' her lips quivering, "you seem to have forgotten the fate that is to befall one of us. The year is not ended until tomorrow." Truly, it had been out of my mind for the moment, but Madge, poor girl, had not forgotten. But I stealed my heart against her appealing carresses.

"If I start tonight," I said, "I can be back by tomorrow night. This may be the supreme chance of my life. I will not let a moss-backed superstition bar me from it. If I did, within forty-eight hours you might be chiding me for yielding."

"Wait till the time is past," she appealed. "You may be hurt in the city, taken to a hospital, be buried in the Potter's field (you know such things happen), and I none the wiser for days. Or I may die while you are gone. Dear Rob, I want you to stay near me to the end; for something is going to happen."

Cruel and selfish it may seem, and it snagged my heart to cross the grain of her humor; but our interests demanded that I should be firm in my purpose of going. "Aunt Ritchie, though I dislike her croaking speeches can keep you company," I said. "Otherwise she is a good soul and knows your ways. I prophesy that inside of twenty-four hours we'll be laughing over our childish scare and have something handsome to show for the trip.

Once on the journey, I became inflated with a hopefulness that lifted me as with wings. Pinkham had indeed a surprise for me—my patent had been sold for three times the price I had put upon it. I was going to be rich as fortunes go in the country. The farm was saved; from my shoulders was lifted the burden of debt which had galled me for years. Strangely enough considering how the idea had grown upon us during the year, not a thought of the forecasted fate came into my mind from the time I left the farm.

It had been our arrangement, always looking to economy, of course not imagining what good luck was ahead of us, that I should return home by the River Belle steamer, which would reach our landing at 9 o'clock in the evening; but when I found that I had no longer need to pinch my dimes, and that the time taken for making out the papers of the patent and buying presents (for in that respect I was bound not to go back empty handed) kept me employed past the hour of the boat's departure, I went back as I had come, on the steam cars, making uncalculated delay of a couple of hours.

The station was on the far side of the town, remote from its residence territory and the river, and a full mile from the farm. There was no team waiting for me, an omission that instantly caused me to worry. I took the road on foot at a lively pace; and it was close to midnight when our house came into view.

Instantly my heart began to beat an alarm, for not a light was showing in it for me. There rose a lump in my throat, and the beats of my heart were like the tattoo of a woodpecker on the housetop. I was sure something had gone wrong. Then the accursed superstition stirred my thoughts like the whir of an owl in the woods. It was midnight. The year had gone by and I was alive; but Madge—where was she? What had happened to her? Something, surely, or she would not be absent at this time. Wild with apprehension, I ran toward the house, imagining anything, everything.

The doors were not locked. The oil had burned out of the lamps, and the smell of it was heavy and choking. Candle light revealed a table set for supper, on it the remnants of a partly eaten meal, and one chair overturned. The kitchen stove was cold, but there was a warmth in the kettle. I called again and again, but no answer came. At the entrance to each room I waited a moment, trembling, dreading to look in. Though the cover of the cistern was in place, I dragged its water with a rake. I lowered a lantern down the well, and thanked the Lord there was shown no trace of death or crime. It perplexed me that the horses should be in their stalls and the buggy in its shed; for how, save by them, could the women have gone away any distance? But gone they were, as if drawn up into the sky.

Only one plan of action came to me. I rode back to the village. I was astonished to find the town in great commotion, though now after 1 o'clock. A large bonfire, round which was a crowd of men and women and children, was burning near the wharf at the foot of the main street; lights were twinkling everywhere. Hurrying along, more bent on my errand than on the doings of the people, a woman speaking from her porch to a neighbor's nightcapped head lifted above a fence between the two lots, brought me to a sudden standstill. I heard this much of her talk:

"And you've jest waked up! Goodness me, you can't mean it! Why, everybody else heard of the disaster more'n an hour ago. You don't know now what it is? Bless my soul, how could you sleep so? Well, the River Belle's blowed up off Ketchams cove, and everybody's lost 'cept the cook and second mate. Most of the folks is down to the river looking for bodies."

The River Belle, I thought. Why, that was the craft on which we had planned I should come home. I was thinking of my good luck in not taking her, when the next words of the speaker made me dizzy. "Bob Jedson," she went on, meaning me by the name, "was on her, an's gone with the rest. I only know'd him by sight, poor man." She gave a little short groan.

"You don't mean it," the other exclaimed. "Now ain't it strange? 'Tain't more'n a week ago that Mrs. Jedson was a-tellin' me how she'd broke a lookin'-glass nigh on to a year ago, and that she was thankful to the Lord no one was dead yet; but she admitted she felt sure su'thin' was a-goin' to happen. An' now she's ketched it. Never knew that lookin'-glass business to fail."

"That's all bosh," cried the other contemptuously. "I've busted a dozen of them things in my life, and ain't dead yet. But Mrs. Jedson, being newly married, is jest that queer-minded. Doc Strathmore, as soon as he heard what had happened, driv' out to the farm to break the news. They'd jest begun supper. Then the Doc let out softly what he'd come for. Mrs. Jedson she yelled out she know'd something would happen 'fore midnight, and that her Bob was on that boat, then keeled over in a dead faint. They've got her over to Parson Van Wyke's a-soothing her down till the body's found." Somehow I couldn't leave until I'd heard her through.

Blessed be the Lord, neither of us was dead. I was off like a flash to end the foolishness of the year. They were weeping and praying, as could be seen through the partly opened door. I gave token of my presence with a "Yo-ho, sweetheart," singing it out cheerily after my usual manner of home-coming. Never was sweeter music uttered than Madge's scream of delight as she sprang up to meet me, having her arms round my neck in a jiffy, and her cheek hard against mine, in the old-time way.

"Never, never again will I be so silly, Robby dear," she whispered after a minute, her big gray eyes held in a sparkle of tears as she looked up into mine.

"Meaning?" I questioned.

"A belief in absurd superstitions rather than in the ways of the Lord," was her response.

And Parson Van Wyke, overhearing, came between us, with his hands upon our shoulders, and solemnly said, "Amen!"

HOW TO SAVE AMERICA.

Prophetess Writes Her Visions and Sends Them to Champ Clark.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The "Visions and Revelations of the Prophetess Irene," in eight, big, hand-written books, the first of which has reached the office of Speaker Champ Clark, is the latest advice offered to the Democratic leaders on the management of national affairs.

"I will send you seven or eight more of these records, containing the full copy of all the word entrusted to my care, just as fast as I can get it all copied," says the prophetess. "I want you to allow W. J. Bryan, Mr. Taft, Teddy Roosevelt, Secretary Cortelyou, the chief justice, the secret service and all statesmen to know and have copies of this and all the eight books you will have sent to you. Some day I will see you and may talk to you if you need any interpretation of this work."

In the 404 pages of manuscript are the visions which Speaker Clark's correspondent says must be followed if the United States is to escape the doom of Sodom and Gomorrah. Included in the revelations are instructions for petrifying and drying ice so it will resemble popcorn; burning water; making cheese out of straw, shoes out of dog—salmon skins; meat of the bark of trees, and window panes of frozen air. The first book of the new revelations was packed up and returned to the sender at Trenton, N. J., with express charges collect.

REVOLVING FUND OF $1,000 TO AID THE UNEMPLOYED

Council Appropriates Money for Work and Will Buy Rock.

Four Charter Amendments Ordered Submitted to Vote of People.

The city council last evening created what amounts to a revolving fund of $1,000 with which to aid the Associated Charities in conducting the rock pile at the Point of Rocks at Fourteenth avenue west.

That sum will be taken from the general fund and will be expended under the direction of the board of public works for the benefit of the unemployed in Duluth.

But under the arrangement made by the city fathers last night the sum will not be exhausted when $1,000 has been paid out. The rock which has been turned out by the men employed at the rock pile will be purchased by the city and used on the streets for improvements. It will be paid for out of the street maintenance and repair fund, and the money turned back into the rock pile fund. It is not expected that the money received from the sale of the stone will quite equal the expenses, as it does not seem that the rock pile can be operated at a profit. But with these renewals there is no doubt but that the fund will be ample for the balance of the winter and possibly for the beginning of the coming season.

When the resolution providing for the appropriation came up, it was advocated by E. A. Silberstein, Courtenay Dinwiddie and W. E. McEwen. They presented the situation to the council, in connection with the facts which had already been included in the communications which had been sent in relative to the subject. It was the consensus of opinion that Duluth would be confronted with a very serious situation unless some such provision were made for caring for the unemployed. Mayor Cullum also sent a communication urging the council to make provision for the rock pile.

• • •

The council passed a resolution which will submit the four amendments proposed by the charter commission to the people for approval or rejection at the general election next month. They include that of Mayor Cullum for a board of public welfare, another for spreading assessments for public improvements over a period of three years, a third for limiting the tax levy for funds No. 3 to 16, inclusive, at 11 mills, and the fourth for band concerts in the public parks during the summer months. The mayor urged the passage of all of them and that they be given the fullest possible publicity.

• • •

The council postponed action upon the request of the Zenith Furnace company to relieve it on the payment of a penalty for not constructing new ovens. C. W. Andrews, representing the company, stated that a new process has been discovered whereby the capacity of the ovens can be practically doubled without increasing their size. With this in use he stated that the plant would be able to furnish the city with all the gas it could use. Instead, he explained that the company is ready to spend $5,000 a year to a campaign to extend the use of gas in the city. With increased consumption the city would profit as it sells all the gas used in Duluth, purchasing it from the Zenith Furnace company.

The question of the condemnation at Fairmont park was laid over a week. The council committee had a meeting with the park board and interested citizens yesterday afternoon, but Chairman John Bergstrom asked that more time be granted before a report be made. If the property should be secured it would give the city the most desirable water frontage for park purposes at the Head of the Lakes. The only difficulty comes through the financial situation.

The board of public works was directed to advertise for bids for filling in that part of the bridge at Eighty-first avenue west which was destroyed by fire last week. The engineer's estimate of the cost was $5,600. The board was also asked to endeavor to secure a dedication of a right-of-way for the proposed sewer down twenty-sixth avenue west from Helm street to the bay.

• • •

City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray was allowed $150 to defray his expenses as a delegate to the annual convention of the Association for the Standardization of Paving Specifications, to be held at New Orleans. City Electrician F. E. Hough was allowed $50 to attend the electrical convention at Milwaukee.

• • •

The board of public works was directed to proceed with the improvement of Sixth avenue east between Fifth and Tenth streets and a petition was received for the sub-grading of East Fifth street between Sixth and Tenth avenues.

• • •

Health Commission Webster reported that he considered the bids for furnishing the third floor of the contagious disease hospital to be excessive and asked that the department be allowed to do the work itself at a cost not exceeding $500. A number of bids were submitted, the lowest being $320.

A petition was received asking that David Polinski be allowed to continue his auction business at 529 West Superior street. This follows a petition received last week asking that his license be not renewed.

CLASH OVER C. W. MORSE

Official Says Prisoner Played Market and Offered Him $1,000.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 3.—A heated argument between a newspaper editor and Warden H. Moyer of the federal prison here resulted in disclosing that Charles W. Morse, convicted banker, made $2,000 in a Wall Street deal through the courtesy of Warden Moyer. It was brought out that in the spring of 1910 Morse made the money by selling "short" on gas stock by means of a cipher message Moyer allowed him to send.

To show his gratitude, or for some other reason, Mr. Moyer said, Mr. Morse subsequently offered to share the profits with him. This alleged act on the part of Mr. Morse so prejudiced the warden against the ex-banker, in the opinion of Editor F. L. Seeley, who publishes the Atlanta Georgian, that he subsequently subjected Morse to disciplinary treatment characterized by the editor as "reprehensible."

Editor Takes Up Cudgels.

Mr. Seeley is a personal friend of Mr. Morse and has visited him frequently in the prison. Last Thursday he printed in his paper a story hinting at a congressional investigation into Morse's treatment in the penitentiary, citing an instance in which he was alleged to have been placed in solitary confinement in a dungeon for "giving a sick boy about to be discharged a paltry sum of money."

The publication so incensed the warden that he invited the Atlanta newspaper men to the prison to show them just where Morse was kept in solitary confinement and to explain the circumstances. Editor Seeley responded in person as the representative of his paper.

Warden Read Statement.

Surrounded by newspaper men assembled in his office, Warden Moyer read a statement he had prepared answering the accusations made in Mr. Seeley's paper. He declared that Morse had been kept in solitary confinement for two days in May 1911, for refusing to divulge the source of about $46 found in his possession. As soon as Morse did so he was released, he said. He showed the visitors a fair-sized, well-lighted and well-ventilated room in which he said Morse was kept.

"I question the accuracy of some of your statements," said Editor Seeley. "I have been reliably informed that Morse had no mattress and no blanket, and had to sleep on the iron slats with only his coat under his head."

"That is absolutely untrue," retorted the warden angrily. "Who gave you such information?"

Says Morse Told Him.

"Mr. Morse himself and the physician attending him at the time."

The warden called in two deputies in charge at the time, and both declared they would take oath that Morse had both mattress and blanket.

Mr. Seeley asked the warden why, if he was not prejudiced against Morse, he had written to the attorney general when Morse was removed to Fort McPherson hospital that "he did not seem then to me to have the appearance of a man whose condition was critical."

Mr. Moyer declared he had not made any report regarding Morse since his transfer except to transmit reports from the post surgeon.

"You have been prejudiced against Mr. Morse ever since that gas stock deal," Mr. Seeley charged, "and I think your treatment of him has been reprehensible."

"You are at liberty to print any facts in your possession regarding Morse's treatment in this prison," retorted the warden, "but I warn you to stick to facts or I shall hold you personally responsible."

That Gas Stock Deal.

The "jury" wanted to know about "that gas stock deal."

Mr. Moyer said that on March 11, 1910, soon after the banker became a prisoner, he gave Morse permission to send a cipher message to New York. The next day, he said, he reported the matter to the attorney general, and was instructed not to permit Morse to send messages again. Some time later, he said, Morse came to his office and told him he had made $2,000 "out of that gas stock deal and wanted him to have half."

"'Forget you ever told me that, Morse,' I said to him, 'and don't say anything like that to me again.'"

Mr. Moyer said the incident was brought out when the prison was investigated last spring by one of the most competent officials of the department. Mr. Seeley asked the warden if he knew anything about a check for $1,005 made out by Mrs. Morse to Morse which had found its way to the department. Mr. Moyer replied that he had never heard of the check until it was shown to him at the investigation. He said it was being held for Morse by one of the clerks.

Why he Was Disciplined.

The offense for which Morse was kept in solitary confinement was described by the warden as follows:

"A deputy saw a nurse pass $1.25 and a pearl-handled knife to Morse and both were 'arrested.' The warden did not believe the story he told as to how he had obtained them from another prisoner, and ordered him into confinement. When Mrs. Morse called and learned her husband was in trouble, she told the warden she had slipped about fifteen $1 bills into Morse's pocket. Later Morse confessed to having received $15 from his wife and about $30 from his business partner, in addition to $5 from a discharged prisoner which he already had admitted. He said he had given the money to another prisoner for safe keeping. The money was recovered and Morse taken from isiolation.

He was reduced to second grade and lost twenty days of his 'good time.'"

ANOTHER "TAR PARTY" MAN GOES TO JAIL.

Lincoln Center, Kan., Jan. 3.—Everett C. Clark, formerly a wealthy miller of Shady Bend, Kan., entered the county jail here yesterday to begin his one-year sentence for participation in the famous "tar party" last summer of which Miss Mary Chamberlain, a young school teacher, was the victim. Jay Fitzwater and Watson Scranton, who received similar sentences, already are in jail.

No Tax on Y. M. C. A.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—A decision by the supreme court exempting the Young Men's Christian association from taxation on the ground that it is engaged in educational work, has been handed down. The suit arose over the effort of the city of Newburyport to tax a bequest of the association.

ANNOUNCES PLATFORM

Dr. J. A. McCuen Tells Supporters What They May Expect of Him.

Inspection of Contracts and Fire Protection for the Hillside.

Responsibility for appointments, inspection of public improvements, improvement of housing conditions and extension of fire protection are subjects touched upon by Dr. J. A. McCuen in the platform on which he will make his run as the Republican candidate for mayor of Duluth.

Dr. McCuen announced his platform at two political meetings last night. His first speech was delivered at the meeting of the Young Men's Republican club at Foresters' hall. Later he went to Sloan's hall in the West end and addressed a meeting of the West End Republican club.

No one would ever accuse Dr. McCuen of being an eloquent public speaker. He assured his hearers last night that he laid claim to no such ability, but said that he hoped during the campaign to make himself clear in as few words as possible.

Dr. McCuen assured the Young Men's Republican club that if he is elected he will put his heart and soul into giving the city a good clean administration. He said that if he had made the platform concise so that there might be no necessity for reading between the lines.

The Platform.

The platform follows:

"In entering upon a campaign for election to the office of mayor of the city of Duluth, it is right that the voters should know the platform upon which I solicit their support.

"The platform of any person wishing to be elected to the office of mayor of the city of Duluth should be embodied in the oath of office administered to holders of that office, and, if elected, I will faithfully discharge the duties of that office to the best of my judgment and ability, and on this my platform is based.

"I pledge myself, if elected:

"First. That I will be responsible for all appointments made by me, if confirmed by the common council of the city of Duluth.

"Second. That I will use my best endeavors to see that all work done under city contracts for public improvements shall be properly and efficiently inspected, and that the city shall receive full value for all money expended for public improvements; and that I will appoint competent and efficient men to the city engineer's department and to those departments to which I will have the power of appointment, so that there will be no extravagance or waste in any department of the city government.

"Third. That I will use my best endeavors to have the housing conditions of the city of Duluth thoroughly investigated, and that proper conditions be brought about so as to secure sanitary housing.

"Fourth. That I will use my power to procure proper fire protection for those parts of the city that are without adequate fire protection, especial attention being given to the hillside districts.

"Fifth. That believing in the competency of the judgment of each of the voters of the city of Duluth to judge for himself as to what is best for his interests, and knowing that the welfare of the city rests safely in the hands of the people, and believing and knowing that the municipal electric lighting will be discussed and presented to the voters by able advocates representing each side, and believing in the intelligence and integrity of each of the voters of the city of Duluth, it would be presumptuous for me to attempt to dictate to the voters as to how they should vote; I pledge myself that I shall carry out the wishes of the people as expressed by their ballots on the municipal electric lighting question, or on any other question that comes before the voters for ballot.

"Sixth. If elected, it will be my endeavor so to conduct the administration of the office of mayor in such a manner, that favoritism will not exist, and a square deal will be given to the poor and rich and to the small and large interests."

• • •

After Dr. McCuen left the meeting of the Young Men's Republican club, Dr. W. H. Konkler, Republican candidate for alderman in the Fifth ward; J. L. Taylor, Republican candidate for alderman in the Third ward; Robert E. Patterson, Nell J. Beaton and A. H. Deeks gave short talks.

• • •

The Fifth ward Republican club will hold a meeting tonight in the courthouse to make plans for the campaign.

• • •

At a meeting of the Third Ward Business Men's club at 822 Mesaba avenue tonight all four aldermanic candidates in that ward will speak. The fire hall proposition will be the principal subject of discussion. The candidates are: Frank Jordan, Democrat; J. L. Taylor, Republican; J. S. Ray, Independent, and W. E. Towne, Public Ownership.

• • •

J. A. Johnson, Public Ownership candidate for mayor, and Richard Jones, candidate of the same party for alderman in the Fourth ward, will speak at a meeting at Mission hall, Twenty-eighth street, Park Point, this evening. John A. Keyes will also be one of the speakers.

• • •

The next meeting of the Young Men's Republican club will be held next Monday evening. J. E. Horak, assistant cashier of the Northern National bank, will speak on "The National Monetary System." A. A. Elder, Republican candidate for alderman in the Second ward, will also speak.

LEAP YEAR, SO GIRLS GET THE MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Philadelphia, Jan. 3.—Two young women called at the marriage license bureau here and asked for the necessary papers to marry brothers. The girls were Rose Miller and Mary Harrison, this city, and after satisfactorily answering the questions put to them, they received licenses to marry Joseph and Harry Jung of Haddon Heights, N. J.

"Why didn't the boys come for the license?" asked the clerk.

The double wedding will take place here today, it is expected.

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

S. S. S. is the best treatment for Catarrh because it is a perfect blood purifier. It is the only medicine that is able to get down into the circulation and entirely remove the catarrhal matter and impurities which produce the trouble. As long as the mucous membranes and tissues are kept inflamed and irritated by this impure and infected condition of the blood Catarrh will remain. Its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, of ringing noises in the ears, mucus dropping back into the throat, headaches, watery eyes, difficult breathing, and even stomach disorders and weakened health, cannot be permanently relieved until the blood is purified. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It goes down to the very root of the trouble, and removes every particle of the catarrhal matter from the blood and enriches this vital fluid so that all the mucous surfaces are supplied with nutritive, healthful qualities, instead of being constantly irritated and inflamed by impurities in the circulation. Then the symptoms begin to pass away and when S. S. S. has entirely purified the blood, Catarrh is permanently cured and the general health greatly built up. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DISCING IS GREAT HELP

North Dakota Crop Expert Advises on Question of Fall Plowing.

Gives Results of Recent Experiments Conducted at State Station.

Dickinson, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive tests carried on at the North Dakota experimental farming station near here bring from Supt. L. R. Waldron a statement of the results in raising grains on spring plowing as compared with fall plowing. He also touches on the question of discing the stubble after the harvests, and declares in favor of that proposition.

In the western sections of North Dakota, where the soil is lighter and where it is generally very dry during the late harvest season and the early fall plowing period, it has been urged that spring plowing is the most profitable, but Supt. Waldron believes that discing land is the solution of the problem and will allow fall plowing with very beneficial results.

"While much more needs to be learned on the question of discing stubble lands in this section," Mr. Waldron says in discussing the situation, "there is no doubt that the practice conserves moisture, and furthermore the fall plowing is rendered easier and may be done better because of the moisture which has been stored up at the time of plowing.

Ground Dry in Fall.

"A great drawback to fall plowing in this section is that the ground is dry when plowed, and this eventually has a bad effect on the following year's crop. Now, if discing the stubble land renders the upper foot moist enough so that fall plowing, say a month after harvest, may be done on land that is reasonably moist, this objection to fall plowing may fall by the wayside.

"Furthermore, it may be said that the discing of the stubble and at harvest time will save enough moisture so that even better crops may be grown upon spring plowing. Perhaps but little snow would be caught if the stubble be disced, but enough moisture might be conserved to more than offset the loss of the smaller amount of snow. The practice has resulted so well in other sections that it should be given a try here."

GOLDEN WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Crookston Couple Greet Many Descendants on Fiftieth Marriage Anniversary.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At their home here Mr. and Mrs. Medard Mercil today celebrated their golden wedding, surrounded by their nine surviving children; most of their fifty-two grandchildren and all of their great grandchildren, eight in number. Mr. Mercil is 73 years of age and his wife is 71, and both are in good health, retaining all their faculties, and are active and vigorous still.

Medard Mercil was married to Miss Caroline Clermont, Jan. 3, 1862, at Joliette, Quebec, Can., and moved to Crookston in 1879, residing on a farm near Gentilly till eight years ago, since which time they have been residents of this city. Two sons, Oliver and Eli, still reside at home with the old folks, and the balance of the children are: Medard of Port Arthur, Ont.; Joseph Terrebonne, Minn.; Louis, Crookston; Mrs. Leo St. Martin, Gentilly; Mrs. Ephraim Audette, Grand Rapids, Minn.; Mrs. Elzeard Audette, Burnett, Minn. and Mrs. Pierre Dufault, Gentilly.

All are present with their wives or husbands, the two boys at home being the only ones single. The grandchildren married, each of whom have two children, making the eight great grandchildren, are Mrs. Peter Audette, Saskatoon, Can.; Mrs. John Goelet, Crookston; Mrs. George Gravelle, Burnett, Minn., and Mrs. Francis Amlot, Gentilly.

All Attended Mass.

At 9 o'clock this morning the entire family with more distant relatives to the number of one hundred or more and many friends, attended mass at St. Anne's church at which Rev. Father Tapin officiated, and from the church the family proceeded directly to the paternal home, where an elaborate dinner was served. The relatives who are here from a distance will remain for ten days or two weeks and there will be a continual round of festivities at the homes of the relatives here and at Gentilly.

The relatives presented the venerable couple with a purse of gold, the amount being a substantial sum, which they may use for a trip or as they see fit.

Another Couple Celebrating.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifty years of wedded life are being celebrated this week by Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Brown of this city. The occasion has attracted relatives from over a wide territory. The couple was wedded a half century ago in Williamsburg, Ont., and have resided here over thirty years, being pioneer settlers of this section.

LAND SEEKERS STILL COMING

Cold Weather Does Not Deter Those After Northern Minnesota Homes.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.) — Interviews with local real estate dealers disclose a demand for farm lands in this portion of the Red river valley; the people, as one dealer expressed it, "being land crazy in this neck of the woods."

When the great ditching projects were first inaugurated, three years ago, in eastern Marshall and western Beltrami counties there were about 275,000 acres of land in the territory subject to homestead entry and about that much more owned by the state and private parties, but today the United States land office at Crookston announces that there is practically little homestead land in Marshall county for entry, the state land is all sold and nearly all the privately owned land is held at a figure which prohibits its sale at the present time.

Seekers for land are traveling fifty miles east of Thief River Falls into Beltrami county and are simply rushing in there and are taking the homestead land faster than the surveyors can locate the ditches and much faster than the contractors can dig them and level down the dirt into highways.

This steady influx of land seekers also has brought about a strong demand for improved farms and many partly improved places have changed hands for cash at high figures for this locality. Despite the cold the land seekers arrive daily. They come from Southern Minnesota, Iowa and even Indiana. The latter people are taking the peat land, as they state it is exactly like the great rich tile drained lowlands in Hoosierdom.

MAYOR O'LEARY HAS BEGUN THIRD TERM

East Grand Forks Executive Reappoints All His Former Officials.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. O'Leary last night was sworn in as mayor for the third time. He made his appointment of officials. There was no change, P. J. Sullivan being re-appointed chief of police; F. C. Massee, city attorney; Thomas Powers, fire department chief, and William O'Gorman, city clerk.

The mayor urged that the general campaign for municipal improvement be continued, with the end in view that this be made one of the best cities in Northwestern Minnesota.

The patrol limits ordinance failed to pass over the mayor's veto, and the proposition of eliminating certain valuable saloon property from the license district falls by the boards.

For the first time in sixteen and a half years T. A. Sullivan is not municipal judge, that position being occupied by Attorney W. J. Rasmussen, who was sworn in yesterday.

Judge Sullivan received his first appointment from the governor of the state when the office was created, and ever since that time, up to this year, had been re-elected from time to time. His fight for re-election against Mr. Rasmussen was one of the interesting features of the recent city election, and it also was one of the hottest features of the campaign.

MARQUETTE PRISON WARDEN NOT FOOLED

Sees Old Offender in Inmate Who Proves to Be Notorious Mike Davis.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The warden of the local branch penitentiary proved his skill in sizing up crooks a few days ago when he recognized in James Callahan, a new arrival, one who had probably done time for former offenses and looked like a professional criminal, as the dispatches have since stated that Callahan was none other than Mike Davis of Puposky, Minn., dynamiting and incendiary fame.

Callahan was sent up from a lower Michigan county for the robbery of a postoffice at Gaines. He was arrested at Durand three days following the job, and, together with his pal, a man named Howard, was given an indeterminate sentence of from seven and a half to fifteen years.

Justice Moved Swiftly.

The case attracted considerable attention the middle part of last month for the reason that within four days after the commission of the robbery the men were on their way to the Marquette prison.

Warden Russell sized Callahan up for being an old offender, and taxed him with having done time before. He denied strenuously that this was the case, and asserted that he was then undergoing his first experience in a prison. The warden told him that his denial was futile, and that his criminal history would soon be available.

YOUTH IS BURNED ALONG WITH HOME

Farm Dwelling in Roseau County Takes Fire With Fatal Result.

Roseau, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A human life was claimed in Roseau county a few nights ago when the farm house of John Gilbertson in Politiz township was burned to the ground and his 13-year-old son, Norman, perished according to word received here.

The fire was caused by an explosion from a hanging lamp. Mrs. Gilbertson had put out the light before retiring but an hour later awoke and noticed the smell of gas and upon investigation found that the oil in the bowl of the lamp was afire. She attempted to throw the lamp out but in so doing dropped it and the explosion followed scattering the oil about the room which was soon all ablaze. The whole family slept upstairs and all got down but had to escape through the window, the door being barred by the fire. The absence of Norman, the youngest, was not noticed in the excitement until it was too late.

Walk Barefooted Through Snow.

The family fled with bare feet through the snow and bitter cold, where they took refuge in the barn until dawn. Mrs. Gilbertson was badly burned about the hands, face and back and is now staying with friends. The fire caused almost a total loss and the family is left in very straitened circumstances.

VAN HISE EXPLAINS.

Why College Professors Are "Running" the State.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 3.—President Charles R. Van Hise has replied to the criticisms of the University of Wisconsin by State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. P. Carey, who complained that university professors were trying to run the state."

The answer sets up that advice had been given committees of the legislature that the university professors who are members of state commissions are there through appointment of the governor, not by disposition of the university, and it refers to Theodore Roosevelt's praise of the plan of having university experts aid the legislators.

TWO ARRESTS MADE

In Copper Country on Suspicion of Killing Matela.

Hancock, Mich., Jan. 3.—Peter Winsa, and Charles Hiltbert are being held in the Houghton county jail here charged with the murder of Bernardhort Matela, whose body was found in the Portage river near Jacobsville yesterday after a three-days' search.

The three were employes at a lumber camp and went to Jacobsville for the Christmas holidays. Matela failed to return. The police accuse the men arrested of having murdered their companion and of having hidden his body beneath the ice.

South Dakota Progressives Meet.

Watertown, S. D., Jan. 3.—A mass meeting of Progressive Republicans of South Dakota will be held at Sioux Falls, Jan. 11. The meeting is called for the purpose of more fully organizing the work of the La Follette campaign. An attempt will be made to secure a speaker of national reputation.

Rob Mill City Hall.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3.—Daring robbers early Tuesday entered the courthouse and city hall building and despite the fact that the central police station was on the floor beow, rifled telephone booths and secured $50 worth of cigars from a stand. The police were unaware of the robbery until reported by a watchman and janitor.

Routed With Water Bottle.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 3.—That the hot water bottle as a weapon of defense is successful against midnight marauders was demonstrated here early Tuesday by Miss Grace Foster, who used one with accurate aim and success against a burglar that entered the home of Col. J. A. Watrous, where she was staying.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette — At the annual meting of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company Frank W. Hutchings of Detroit was elected treasurer of the company. The meeting was held in New York last Friday. Mr. Hutchings fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. Van Oss, who has been treasurer since the company was organized.

Negaunee — The school board has decided to introduce a course of physical training into the Negaunee public schools and a capable physical instructor will be engaged without delay.

Ishpeming—Nearly two feet of snow fell here between Saturday night and Monday morning. It was by far the heaviest fall of the season. The temperature was several degrees above zero and the snow was light, otherwise there would surely have been a blockade of trains and street cars.

Marquette—Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Van Linden of Blemhuber avenue, two pioneer residents of Marquette, left Sunday morning for New York, where they will take the steamer Finland for Europe. They will be absent three or four months. While abroad they will visit their old home in Belgium, and also in France.

Ishpeming—The local hive of Maccabees has elected the following officers: Past commander, Mary A. Wasley; Commander, Edith Nicholls; lieutenant commander, Annie Bennett; finance keeper, Susan Rowe; record keeper, Sarah J. Harris; chaplain, Margery Verran; sergeant, Hattie Robear; mistress-at-arms, Sophie West.

Calumet — F. R. Bolles, assistant general manager of the Copper Range railroad, announces the promotion of G. T. Hartman, assistant superintendent of the road, to the new position of superintendent of the locomotive, car and supply departments. Mr. Hartman will have offices at the car shops, where the heads of mechanical departments will report to him.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland — The Knights of Columbus celebrated the opening day of the new year by having one of the most elaborate initiation ceremonies that this city has ever witnessed. Nearly fifty candidates were taken into the organization during the day and the affair was wound up Monday evening with a banquet in the St. Agnes hall that was participated in by over 300 people.

Eau Claire — Tuesday was the coldest day of the present winter. Ordinary thermometers varied as usual as to the exact extent of the frigidity, some indicating a temperature as high as 20 deg. below, while some went so far as to indicate an arctic condition of 32 below zero.

Chippewa Falls — Under-Sheriff Nelson returned to Chippewa Falls with John Foust of the town of Cleveland who deserted his wife two weeks ago, leaving her practically destitute with three little children, the oldest of whom is only 6 years.

Milwaukee—Max Missall, aged 40 years, a machinist, died in Trinity hospital Monday from injuries sustained when he was struck by a street car Saturday night. He suffered a fractured skull and a badly bruised body.

Sturgeon Bay—At the first meeting of the creditors of the bankrupt Deer County Equity Elevator company, John M. Perry was appointed trustee. Over 270 claims were presented against the company. The liabilities are $45,000 and the assets $16,000.

Marinette—Fred Schroeder, a member of the board of supervisors of the town of Middle Inlet, who was arrested on the charge of stealing a belt, has been released on bond of $200.

Stevens Point—Mrs. Bertha Benish, aged 55, died suddenly at the home of her haughter, Mrs. Leo Wiesner. She expired without warning while sitting in a chair. The remains were taken to her former home in Milwaukee. A son, Sam Benish, is a Milwaukee meat dealer.

Milwaukee—S. W. Tallmadge reports the sales of six memberships in the chamber of commerce. The following persons have applied for seats in the exchange and are posted for admission: Robert E. Lee Senderling, Charles E. Laib, James C. McCarthy, John P. Prather, E. D. Norton and Louis Burgmaster, all of Chicago.

Cumberland—Ole A. Ecklie and Miss Agnes Svarstad were married at the home of the bridegroom Sunday afternoon, Rev. H. Ostgulen officiating. The bride recently arrived from Mr. Ecklie's old home in Norway. Mr. Ecklie is one of this city's leading merchants and has been a resident of Cumberland for a number of years.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Red Wing—John Burke, a Russian, whose feet were so badly frozen a few days ago, after walking from St. Paul to Red Wing, a distance of forty-one miles, is improving at the Red Wing hospital and may be able to leave the institution in a few days.

Crookston—Funeral services were held from the church at Barda for Carl Bernhart Knutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Knutson, who resides three miles west from the city, who died last week. Deceased had been suffering from tuberculosis for several years. He is a graduate of Crookston college, after which he accepted a position at the Great Western bank at Osnabrook, N. D., where he stayed for two years.

Red Wing—Phillip Meyerhenry, 81 years old, a pioneer resident of Featherstone, died Monday. He had been feeble and growing weaker for some time but was confined to his bed less than a day. He was born in Germany, Oct. 4, 1830, and for nearly forty years had resided on the farm in Featherstone. Mrs. Lind Voge of Deer River is a daughter.

Nevis—The meeting of the Nevis Farmers Co-operative club held at the town hall was a very good one. The attendance was about forty and Mr. Smith's talk on potato growing was very pertinent and practical.

Baudette—Succumbing to an overpowering craving for strong drink, for the past three or four years, during which time he was rarely, if at any period, when not under its influence, John Severtson, aged 50, a well known carpenter and builder, died recently in a saloon.

Rapid River—What might have resulted in a serious accident occurred at the White sawmill, last Friday forenoon. A plank on the staging at the dry kiln, upon which Mr. White and two of his men were standing, broke and precipitated the three to the ground. The fall, however, was not of such great distance and fortunately the injuries resulted only in bruises and light sprains.

Spooner—Miss Frances and Master Edwin Watters of Washburn, Wis., respectively niece and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Eagan, were arrivals here on Christmas morning, for a fortnight's visit with their relatives and many friends. The visitors were former residents here.

Moorhead—Sandy Ross, alleged to be implicated with Frank Schultz, Will Ross and Fred Page in several robberies in the city and country during the last month or two, and arrested in Fargo Thursday night was released from custody by Justice Miller of Fargo.

Minneapolis—The scale of logs turned to the Minneapolis sawmills last year was 83,620,000 feet which is exclusive of about 4,000,000 feet of "dead heads." In 1910 the logs turned here measured 107,760,110 feet. The decrease last year was due to low water in the river.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—R. O. Belland, cashier of the Scandinavian-American, has resigned from that position and will leave in the near future for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will engage in the banking business. His wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Lars Peterson, who has been a resident of Fargo for the last thirty-five years, will leave for their Western home in the immediate future.

Minot, N. D.—North Minot must pay the judgment entered against that municipality for the cost of the litigation between it and the city over the question as to whether the proceedings of the city of Minot to bring North Minot into the city limits were legal or not.

Jamestown, N. D.—Fourteen years in the penitentiary was the sentence given by Judge Coffey to Emmett F. Apley, the Logan county homesteader who was recently found guilty of criminal assault when the second trial of the case was held in the Stutsman county courtroom.

Mandan, N. D.—Missouri chapter, R. A. M., has elected these officers: H. P., Col. I. N. Steen; K., W. S. Parkin; S., J. S. Veeder; secretary, J. A. Countryman; treasurer, E. W. Miller. The appointee officers are: C. of H., Dr. Lawrence; R. A. C., H. R. Bitzing; P. S., F. H. Mottsiff; M. T. W., E. A. Ripley; M. F. V., E. W. Miller; S., J. H. Slater.

Fargo, N. D.—Fred S. Draper, the "boy forger," who was arrested in Fargo a few days ago by Chief Bowers and Detective Overby, on complaint of the police authorities of Portage la Prairie, Man., was taken back to that city by Constable McIntyre. Draper is but 18 years of age and the youngster claims that he "got in bad" by association with low companions, who had him sign checks.

Forman, N. D.—The eighteen Woodmen of the local camp, under the leadership of C. F. Cole, their V. C., went out to the farm of Fred Cady, a mile north of town, and put in the entire day getting his new barn together and inclosed. Mr. Cady had had two carpenters at work for some time, but there was still much to do.

Fargo, N. D.—Rev. C. Davick of Plaza, N. D., will succeed Rev. D. G. Jacobson as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church and will preach his initial sermon before his new congregation next Sunday morning, Jan. 7.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

UP AND DOWN THE BYWAYS WITH THE OLD SPORT DOPE

Jess Pedersen May Have a Fling at Champion Gotch —Hank Boyle's Playing—Competition in Baseball—Sailor Jack Training.

(BY BRUCE.)

THE wrestling game is beginning to sit up and take nourishment It is beginning to get good, following the lethargy attendant upon the fiasco of last Labor day. In international sport circles the question is being asked—for the first time since old Hack kept us all stirred up—whether Gotch will really meet the winner of the elimination bouts that have been started. If the elimination bouts are carried out and the champion consents to meet the best man in sight—then we will have a big contest the present season. Monday night in Chicago, the first elimination contest was held. Jess Pedersen, the wonderful big Scandinavian, showed that he is one of the greatest wrestlers in the world, for he made Cordo Derello, or Corderelli, just as you feel about it, quit after the son of the fair and bleak North had thrown the son of the Sultan the first fall in a little over six minutes.

Now the winner of the bout is supposed to meet Yussif Mahmout, whom Gotch classes as the greatest wrestler in the world—next to the royal king—and you can guess who the king is. You can play that both ways for a big match. The American public would gladly pay to see Gotch wrestle with Mahmout and the public would also gladly pay to see the pride of Humboldt wrestle big Pedersen, for in Europe the Scandinavian beat the very best they had, including, it is said, Yussif Mahmout.

Pedersen seems to be about the best of the foreign brood that has landed since the arrival of Zbyszko and Mahmout. Cordo Derrelo is a monster of frightful—physical—porportions. His character we know nothing about. He came heralded as one of the best bets on the board. His weight is near the 300 mark. But in the husky hands of the big Pedersen his mat execution became as the gentle cooing of the dove.

John Moje, the man handling Pedersen, will stake a fortune on the ability of the big Scandinavian. As a matter of simon pure fact Mr. Moje has already a stack of chips in the pot. He has spent a lot of money to get Pedersen over to this country and now he wants to go through with the whole show, according to reports, and let them come as fast as they will, Yussif Mahmout, all of the mat tribe, and then Gotch if Pedersen can hold the bridge.

But anyway a lot of us would like to see the thing done up the present season. Pedersen looks like the goods; Mahmout we have been hearing of for the past two years. He has complained bitterly that he was so good that he could not get work, even saying that Gotch was afraid of him. Some of those who dodge in and out of the alleys of knowledge are authority for the statement that Frank A. Gotch, when the last word has been sung of his prowess, of which there can never be any denial, cares not over much for the tough and enduring game of the Bulgarian. The same went for George Hackenschmidt.

THOSE who hold Duluth and its institutions dear and cherish those things that bring the honor of deeds of her children back in a golden flood upon us, that assist in turning the great search light of publicity upon us, even if for but a fleeting second, hope that Henry "Hank" Boyle returns to the vineyard of Michigan. It is not because we love Michigan so much less but because we love Hank more. The hurrah in the case of Hank would be loud, enthusiastic and sustained, if he had followed the case of Larry and gone to Minnesota. But there are so many of the Boyles that perhaps the head of the family thinks there are enough of the boys to scatter around a bit.

Hank is one of the greatest football players ever turned out by this town. He was just finding himself that last year—his first here—in Central. His improvement during his freshman year at Michigan must have been wonderful. He played on one of the best freshman teams ever turned out by Michigan and he was one of the stellar lights of the bunch.

It is because the fans in this part of the country believe Boyle is destined to make a great football player that they desire to see him return to Michigan and take his whirl at the gridiron game. We have watched Hank mow 'em down on the local field and we confess to a consuming curiosity to see how the lad would behave out in the larger field.

JAMES SARGENT of Minneapolis and the Northern Pacific—Jim, the raconteur of the latest word of fact or fiction, says that down in Minneapolis the word is going the rounds that the Cantillions are for the invasion of the Minny league. If this is so, and if further be a fact that lack luster George Lennon is favorable to the invaders, a breeze of hope, faint, but slightly refreshing, blows in this direction. Writing in one of the Chicago papers the other day Hugh S. Fullerton, one of the best informed baseball writers in this country, came to bat with a truth that is just beginning to be realized.

Mr. Fullerton stated that baseball was one of the great monopolies in the amusement line. He stated that for being a monopoly it had the theatrical game beaten several dusty leagues. A man owning a professional baseball franchise in any community is without any competition whatever. The same cannot be said for the man owning a theater in the same community.

In addition, the baseball man has the protection of organized baseball. There is a limit of salaries. Baseball players cannot quit. They can't cancel dates on him and he is not worried by the "dark" house bugaboo.

It may be that within the next few years we will find competition in the field of baseball. It does look to some of us as if the national commission has over-reached its power; that the commission is becoming each day an institution less respected.

Men with capital will invest it in a proposition that looks good. We have had theatrical wars because men with capital saw a chance. As an amusement, baseball on a big scale, has the theatrical game playing dead. Therefore it is natural to suppose that men with capital can be lined up and a new force of competition sent into the field.

This is all in line with the light that may be dawning on certain magnates. It may be one of the reasons why some of the owners of some of the cities in the American association circuit might be willing to let the smaller leagues into their territory, knowing that this move would be in the end a wise one.

If some of the more wise of the baseball managers see through a ladder and can behold a new condition arising in the baseball industry, for that is what it is today, then maybe they are bent upon shaping their own ends and taking advantage today of something they might be unable to cope with tomorrow.

IF HARD and consistent training can bring about the result, Sailor Jack, the little marine, is going to surprise a lot of people a week from tonight. There hasn't been a day that the marine hasn't been working on the mat. He is doing miles of road work, and this despite the rigorous of the weather. The sailor man is in earnest and there are few harder workers in the business than this man. Gustafson, too, isn't overlooking any opportunities. He has the backing of a large portion of West Duluth. People in that section of the city, since the great showing of the young Swedish-Finn, for that is what the sturdy youngster is, believe he is a comer and are banking on something unexpected happening when Jack and the West Duluth boy come together.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

PILAKOFF, the Finnish Lion, will be back in Duluth within a day or two to top off his condition for the meeting with Ordemann. In excellent condition after his victory over Paul Sampson, the Finnish giant will round off with several days of hard work and will step on the mat in shape to fight Ordemann every step of the journey. The aggressive tactics of Pilakoff are what has made him a prime favorite here. He is not content to remain on the defense. A defensive wrestler does not appeal in the least to the public that pays its good money to witness a contest. The public wants action and in all his matches Pilakoff has furnished this.

CAN WILLIAM COME BACK?

BILLY PAPKE.

Reports from Kewanee, Ill., state that Billy Papke, former middleweight champion, is preparing to return to the ring. Since his return from Australia Papke has shown miserable form in the ring. His fights against Sailor Burke and Bob Moha were fiascos. It will require some time for Papke to convince the American public that he is anything like the fighter he was.

AMERICANS FAIL TO LIFT THE CUP

Australian Tennis Players Win Easily From United States Cracks.

Christ Church, N. Z., Jan. 3.—Australasia has succeeded with ease in retaining the Davis lawn tennis cup, beating the American team in all five matches.

Norman E. Brooke, the Australasian player, today defeated Maurice E. McLoughlin, who was substituted for William A. Larned when the latter suffered a strained tendon, in the singles match by 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Beals C. Wright, who was to have met Tod Heath in the other singles match, was indisposed, so that Heath was awarded the match by default.

Australasia thus won the series by five matches to nil.

LEHTO TO MAKE EASTERN TRIP

Former Duluth Wrestler Is Getting Ready to Defend His Title.

A letter received in this city from Karl Lehto, the wrestler claiming the heavyweight championship of the Finnish race, says that Karl is training at the present time with Illa Vincent, a Cuban wrestler and one of the very best grapplers in the west. According to the letter Lehto has been training with Illa Vincent for the past six weeks and expects to be fully 26 per cent better than ever before in his career, when he steps on the mat.

Lehto is going East to Fitchburg, Mass., according to this letter, and from there will wrestle a number of big matches. Hjalmer Lundin is one of the men Lehto is going to meet, it is said.

In the letter it is said that Karl is preparing to defend the title he claims is rightfully his. With this idea he has been working hours daily with the Cuban. Only a youth in years, it is said that Lehto has taken on weight and is a wonderfully improved wrestler.

Fans in this part of the country are wondering if Lehto is going to defend his title against Pilakoff. Lehto now weighs about 198 pounds. He is said to have learned more of the catch-as-catch-can game and to be very much improved. It is certain that if Lehto and his manager believe that he has improved sufficiently to have a chance with Pilakoff, that they will consent to a match that will settle the disputed question of the Finnish wrestling championship.

ADAMS AND BROADWAYS.

Regular League Hockey Contest Is Scheduled for This Evening.

This evening at the Lincoln Park rink the strong Adams Hockey team will meet the Broadways of Superior. The Adams have made a splendid record so far the present season, defeating the Big Duluths in decisive manner and also playing rings around the strong Fort Frances aggregation. The followers of the triple A forces are already predicting that the West end team is going to walk off with the ice hockey championship of the Duluth-Superior league the present season.

The contest scheduled for this evening will be the third regular game of the league season. In the event that the Adams win they will go into the lead over the Duluth Curling club team. At the present time the Adams and the Curling club team are tied for first honors, each having one win to its credit.

Ice at the Lincoln Park rink has been prepared for the contest and a fast and well played game is expected. The Adams will have their strongest team in the lineup.

Wolgast Still Ill.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—Champion Ad Wolgast still is confined to his bed with a cold so severe that his physicians fear pneumonia, and only his wife and his manager, Tom Jones are permitted in his room. His temperature yesterday was 101½. Wolgast is being cared for at Jones' cottage at Venice.

JESS PEDERSEN.

By his defeat of the huge Turkish wrestler, Cordo Derello, Jess Pedersen, the big Scandinavian wrestler, has come into additional fame in this country. He was considered the greatest wrestler on the other side of the pond before coming over here. If the Chicago promoters carry out their idea Pedersen will meet Mahmout in the near future.

DULUTH WINS SECOND GAME

West Duluth Badly Beaten in Play for Manley-McLennan Cup.

Local Rinks Will Meet Superior in Final Games for Championship.

The Duluth Curling club will play the Superior Curling club for the Manley-McLennan trophy. The right to play the players across the bay for the trophy lost to the Superior club last season, was won last evening when the Duluth club defeated the West Duluth club in the second game of the elimination series by the score of 55 to 27.

As the first game between the downtown and suburban clubs resulted in the narrowest possible victory for the Duluth organization, it was expected that the contest last evening would be a sort of repetition of the first series. The West Duluth followers were grievously disappointed, however, for their rinks failed to win a single game.

The only close game of the four contests was that between Svered's rink and the bunch skipped by Harry Hurdon. All of the other games proved easy for the downtown curlers.

As the Superior Curling club took the Manley-McLennan trophy away from the Duluth club last season, the first game for the trophy will be played at the Superior rink. The first contest will come tomorrow evening and should be one of the best curling contests of the season. Duluth will be represented by the same rinks that defeated the West Duluth club in the two games, Superior not having announced its rinks as yet.

Following are the rinks and the scores of the contest played last evening:

INDOOR BASEBALL.

Adams and Jeffersons Will Play Opening League Game.

The Adams and Jeffersons will meet tomorrow evening at the Auditorium. This will be the first game in the new indoor baseball league. As both teams are strong, the Adams holding at the present time the indoor baseball championship of the city, the contest is expected to be one of the best exhibitions of the sport put on during the present season. Foster and Jones will be the opposing twirlers and a fast game is looked for.

Following is the lineup:

MIKE MURPHY IS MUCH IN DEMAND

Will Train College Men, Philadelphia Ball Players and Olympic Entrants.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 3.—"Mike Murphy," the athletic trainer of the University of Pennsylvania, it was announced here yesterday, will go to Hot Springs with the Philadelphia National league baseball team and will supervise the spring training of the players. Horace S. Fogel, president of the Philadelphia club said that Murphy's trip would not interfere with his training work at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Murphy will be trainer of the American team which will compete in the Olympic games in Sweden the coming summer.

SKI DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

Plans Discussed for Hiring Special Car for the Chicago Meet.

At the meeting last evening of the directors of the Duluth Ski club it was decided that efforts would be made to have a special car take the delegates and riders of the local club to the national meet, scheduled for Chicago on Jan. 28.

Before the meeting of last evening even the members of the club had no idea of the enthusiasm there is regarding the Chicago trip. It was found last evening that there are enough members of the club willing to take the trip to warrant the chartering of a special car.

It was stated last evening that Duluth is going after the 1913 national tournament. The delegation from the local club will go to Chicago prepared to make a hard fight to land the meet. As Duluth is about the best place in the Northwest for the holding of the national, and as the city has about the best hill in the country, as well as one of the strongest clubs, it is believed that the chances favor Duluth as the scene of the next annual tournament.

The naming of the riders that will represent Duluth in the national was postponed. The delegates to the national will be appointed at the next meeting.

SPORTING NOTES

Allentown, Pa., will be represented either in the New York State or the Tri-State league next season.

If "Miner" Brown carries out his threat to retire from the game the Cubs' pitching staff will be pretty much to the bad.

No chance for Mike Donlin to get away from the Boston Nationals. President Ward believes that Mike will come back strong next season.

Manager Arndt, of the South Bend Central league team, has signed Tomas Romanac and Romino Seigle, two Cuban ball players.

Liefield, Campbell and Byrne of the Pittsburg Pirates are members of Ed Konetchy's indoor baseball team in St. Louis.

Playing with Denver last season, "Buck" O'Brien, now with the Boston Americans, led the Western league pitchers with twenty-six games won and seven lost.

Harry Steinfeldt has had several attrative offers from minor league clubs, but the former Cub wishes to remain a free agent and has turned down the offers.

Outfielder Graney of the Naps is on the market. "Buddy" Ryan, the Pacific coast star, Jackson and Birmingham will be the regular outfield for next season.

Catcher George Schiel, the former Giant, who was out of the game all last year on account of illness, has entirely recovered and will report to the Louisville club next spring.

John M. Ward, the new president of the Boston Nationals, suggests "Boston Braves" as a name for his team. "Braves" is in honor of owner James E. Gaffney, who is a member of Tammany hall in New York.

The Oakland Pacific Coast league club paid only $750 to Buffalo for the release of Bud Sharpe. Stallings says that he let Bud go cheap in order that the first sacker could become a manager.

Cy Moreing, the Stockton magnate, says he will form a new California league, and place teams in Oakland, San Jose, Stockton, Fresno, San Francisco and Sacramento. The circuit that Cy has mapped out would cause war with the Pacific Coast league.

Battling Nelson is losing decisions right along, but getting the money.

Charley Griffin, the Australian lightweight, who went home a few months ago, has returned to America.

Jim Flynn claims that he is the only real white "hope" and should have the first chance at Jack Johnson.

It is said that Packey McFarland has not been well since he reduced to 136 pounds for his fight with Tommy Murphy.

GRIFFITH AFTER PLAYER.

Washington Manager Wants Perry of the Providence Team.

Washington, Jan. 3.—If Manager Griffin can swing a deal he has started Outfielder Perry of the Providence team of the International league will be a member of the Nationals next spring.

Perry has an enviable record for last season, and as he is one of the fastest men in the league, Griff believes that he could use him to advantage here.

Perry played on the coast last year, when the Boston Americans drafted him, and he was shifted to Providence. McAleer had a draft in to bring him here, but lost out.

But for the sale of the Providence club to President Navin of Detroit and his associates, Griffith would would probably have had Perry by this time, but the change of owners makes the task more difficult, for since Detroit intends to use Providence as a farm, there will be some heistancy on the part of that club to let any of its youngsters go to rival clubs. But Griffith, who is never easily discouraged is going to try to land the player, though he realizes that the odds are against him.

Bowlers to Meet.

Officers of the Duluth Bowling association are requested to meet at the Grand alleys tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

LEADING IOWA SOCIALIST IN JAIL

Accused of Throwing Acid Bombs in Strike at Muscatine.

Muscatine, Iowa, Jan. 3.—O. C. Wilson, the Socialist member of the city council and business agent of the local Button Workers' union, is in jail on charges of maliciously injuring button factory buildings and throwing acid bombs. Other labor leaders are expected to be arrested as soon as they can be found.

Wilson failed to make good his promise to obtain bond in the sum of $3,000. He is one of the most prominent of the Socialist leaders in the state of Iowa, and as a member of the city council has always been active in the affairs of the city.

Warrants on twenty-six of the thirty indictments returned by the grand jury Saturday remain to be served. A majority of them charge offenses alleged to have been committed last spring in the early stages of the button workers' strike, with acid bomb-throwing cases predominating.

Thomas Hoskinson, the self-confessed slayer of Patrolman Theodore Gerischer, who is under life imprisonment sentence, was arraigned yesterday on three charges of malicious injury to buildings. Ed Whaley and William Murphy, button workers, entered pleas of not guilty to similar charges.

The three, who are believed to be responsible for the indictment of other labor men, took active parts in the strike when it originated last spring.

LABOR MEN TO PLEAD JAN. 12.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—Olaf Tveitmoe, Anton Johannsen and J. E. Munsey, the labor leaders indicted by the federal grand jury last Saturday were arraigned in the United States district court yesterday and obtained delay until Jan. 12 before entering their pleas.

ONE SESSION NOT ENOUGH

Much Business to Come Before Magnates' Meeting at Cincinnati.

President Ban Johnson Ill, But Determined to Attend the Sessions.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Baseball magnates from all over the country arrived here today to attend the meeting of the national baseball commission. There are several important cases to be decided and it is probable that the commission will be unable to clear them all up in one session.

A finding will be given out as to the investigation of the commission into the alleged ticket scalping evil in New York during the world's series; the American association, the International (Eastern) league and the Pacific coast league will probably be raised to a special class by themselves and given greater privileges; the charges made against President Charles Murphy of the Chicago Nationals will be discussed and the schedules of the two leages for the coming year will be signed.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league who arrived home last night to attend the meeting, was ill at his brother's home in Avondale early today but declared that he would be present when the commission met.

OHIO DEMOCRATS TALK OF BRYAN

Form Progressive League With His Name on Their Lips.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 3.—The Progressive Democratic League of Ohio came into being here yesterday at a conference of Democrats from nearly every county in the state. Although many of the conferees had entered the gathering with the avowed intention of declaring against the presidential candidacy of Governor Judson Harmon, the executive's name was mentioned only indirectly, and the organization satisfied itself with the adoption of resolutions urging the members to work against the choice of any delegate to either state or national convention who had not proved himself a tried and true Democrat.

The name of William J. Bryan, heralded as "ablest to represent the progressive ideals in any party," was received with applause, and speakers who fanned the Democratic ardor while awaiting the report of the resolutions committee made adherence to him the final test to a title in the Progressive Democracy.

The conference, which had been called by W. W. Durbin, chose Former Congressman J. J. Lentz as chairman. Mr. Lentz later was elected president of the newly formed league. Mr. Lentz, as temporary chairman, named Mr. Bryan as the Democratic candidate most likely of election.

"I am one of those who believe that more Progressive Republicans will vote for Mr. Bryan than for any other Democrat," he said.

Bryan was hailed as the original Progressive by State Senator Frank T. Dore.

ENGINEER FOUND DEAD WITH MARRIED WOMAN.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 3.—John B. Edwards, 23 years old, an engineer on the Nickel Plate railroad, and Mrs. Sarah Zeemen, 39, were found dead here in a rooming house, where they had gone Monday night. The janitor broke in the door in the morning and discovered the bodies and the gas escaping from an open jet.

Mrs. Zeemen's husband applied to the police yesterday to find his wife. He was taken to the morgue, where he identified the body.

Cards and letters in Edwards' pockets showed him to have been a member of several secret orders and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

PAL BROWN AFTER BATTLING NELSON

Pal Brown, the Hibbing fighter has been in the city for the past few days. While the plans of the Hibbingite are not definite at the present time, he plans several fights before the rigid season comes to an end.

Battling Nelson is one of the men that Pal would like to fight. "I am getting better all the time," said he, "and Nelson reached the place in the road sometime ago where they begin to go back. Maybe I would not put him out, but I don't think that he can hurt me very much. I have some of that iron jaw stuff, too.

"A Cleveland club has offered me a chance to come there and fight Phil Brock. I am undecided at the present time as to future plans. Any time, though, that a fight club offers me a good proposition, I will accept. I am getting heavier and will soon be a legitimate lightweight and will not be forced to give away weight to any of the boys of that division."

Yale Wins Again.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 3.—The Yale hockey team won the second match of the three games series with Cornell, 1 to 0 here yesterday. Yale won the first match, 5 to 1.

Killian Resigns.

Sterling, Ill., Jan. 3.—Joseph Killian of Sterling announced that he had resigned as manager of the Winona team of the Wisconsin Minnesota league.

SALOON LIMIT SCHEME BEATEN

Only Two Virginia Aldermen Favor Reducing Number of Booze Parlors.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the council Tuesday night Alderman Heritage moved the adoption of a resolution recommending to the city charter commission that amendments be submitted limiting saloons to one for each 500 inhabitants, also that saloons be permitted only on Chestnut street. The latter provision, if adopted, would abolish a saloon maintained by the Virginia Brewery company, some distance from Chestnut street. The resolution was voted down, Aldermen Heritage and Mollan favoring the resolution and Aldermen Osborn, E. C. A. Johnson, H. O. Johnson, Staff, Kimball, Webber and Boylan opposing it.

Need More Members.

A brief meeting of the charter commission was held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of reorganizing. Several new members will have to be appointed before work on proposed amendments is carried on.

The new incinerator plant was formally accepted by the city council, and the final estimate of $6,700 was ordered paid the Decarie Incinerator company.

The final hearing in connection with condemnation proceedings to acquire a site for a city market place, warehouse and park purposes was fixed for Jan. 30. The extent of the property sought to be condemned near the north end of Cleveland avenue is 491 by 175 feet.

EVELETH CHURCH REDUCES DEBT

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of Holy Family Catholic church have raised $2,000 towards the wiping out of church debt since the erection of the new $35,000 edifice last year. The debt has been reduced to $19,000.

Rev. Father M. Bilban, who has been the pastor of the church for the past twelve years, was elected president of the congregation. The others elected are: Alderman Joseph Birince, secretary; John Babnik treasurer; John Shukle, Jack Rupar and George Shusterich, trustees.

The Cycril Methoda Lodge, No. 59, which is composed largely of members of the Holy Family church, also held an election, choosing the following officers for the ensuing year: Joseph Francel, president; Alderman Joseph Brince, vice president; Joseph Nolan secretary; Frank Blatnick, treasurer; Martin Shukle, delegate.

NEW JUDGE EASY WITH FIRST CASE

Judge Moylan Allows Accused Lumberjack to Go His Way.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Moylan, the new presiding official of the municipal court, showed mercy in handling his first case yesterday when he allowed Sam Erickson, a lumberjack, accused of drunkenness, to go his way.

Today the judge is hearing the charges against the nine Italians charged with assaulting Patrolman Louis Accefero, and destroying the Jackson street police booth. Many visited the court room Tuesday and congratulated the new judge elected over a field of nine candidates.

As yet no couple has accepted the offer of being married free by Judge Moylan.

CAMP COOK USES KNIFE TOO FREELY

Lumberjack Gets Cut in Shoulder But Is Expected to Live.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank E. Page was brought to the local hospital yesterday to receive treatment for a knife thrust he is said to have received at the hands of William Kerrybroke, a camp cook, who stabbed him with a butcher knife during a quarrel in the Itasca Lumber company's camp No. 1 north of Deer River. It was said today that the Finnish temperance societies of the range are planning a movement to ask for the enforcement of the Sunday and 11 o'clock closing laws of saloons. Their grounds for action will be the recent shooting affairs, and more particularly the recent death of Finnish people in Virginia, which took place in saloons operating after hours. The report states the matter will go to the governor for action.

A Satiny Complexion and Beautiful Hair

(Mrs. B. R. in Vernon's.)

"Rough and red skin, chaps and cold sores are the bane of women in Winter. To get rid of these, apply Mother's Salve before retiring. It is a splendid remedy for pimples, eczema and other skin afflictions, and has no equal in healing old sores, burns, scalds and cuts.

"A better protection than powder for the complexion is to rub the face, neck and arms gently with a solution made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in half a pint of witch hazel. It will not rub off or show and makes the skin soft, satiny and pliable, and prevents growth of hair.

"Don't catch cold washing your head. To make a dry shampoo that will clean the scalp and hair, put a cupful of corn meal in a fruit jar, add the contents of an original package of therox, and shake well. Sprinkle a spoonful on the head and bursh through the hair. It will leave the hair light and fluffy and heighten its original color."

NEW EVELETH COUNCIL IS IN CONTROL OF AFFAIRS

MAYOR JACOB SAARI.

FIRE CHIEF NEILON.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new city council took hold of city affairs last night and many of the offices within its gift were filled. Several officials were honored by being reappointed Contests developed over filling the offices of assessor and street commissioner.

Former Street Commissioner John Warn was elected over Street Commissioner Andrew Joulia by a 5 to 3 vote. Contractor Martin Finucan, the other applicant did not receive a vote.

Ole A. Sundlie was chosen city assessor over City Assessor Frank Cerveny, 6 to 2.

Fire Chief William Nellon, City Clerk D. P. McIntyre, Waterworks Superintendent Edward F. Forrestal, City Engineer Peter F. Huntington, City Attorney J. P. Boyle, and Janitor Charles Wahlman, were all unanimously re-appointed.

Mayor Jacob S. Saari recommending the appointment of the old officials. The health commissioner and chief of police are to be appointed by him.

Fix Salary Scale.

The following scale of salaries was set by the new aldermen: City clerk, $75; city attorney, $75; fire chief, $110; city assessor, $300 a year; street commissioner, $75; waterworks superintendent, $125; city engineer, $125; assistant fire chief, $75; fire warden, $25; city electrician, $15; sergeant, $80; patrolmen, $75; water collector, $50; waterworks assistant, $75; drivers, $80; firemen, $75; health commissioner, $100.

The following committees were appointed by President Wilson, who was also re-appointed: auditing, Perham, Nichols, Brince; fire, Trevarrow, Trengrove, Brince; health, Wilson, Perham, Nichols; police and license, Enderich, Springer, Brince; ordinances, Trevarrow, Enderich, Brince; claims, Brince, Nichols, Enderich; parks, Perham, Wilson, Trengrove; water and light, Trevarrow, Trengrove, Wilson; finance, Springer, Nichols, Enderich.

Mayor Saari reviewed the work of the old council and urged the new aldermen to consider the public library, armory, cemetery, park, public market place, alley pavement and Commercial club matters.

President Wilson appointed Aldermen Perham, Trengrove and Nichols to consider the cemetery problem.

The application of Vito Vituollo and John Shute for renewals of their liquor licenses were granted while the application of Christian Nelson for a renewal, and Decker & Leana for a transfer of the license to August Hoffstadt, were referred to the police and license committee. Bills amounting to $4,123.05 for December were granted.

Alderman David A. Springer was appointed vice president on a 7 to 1 vote. The city clerk was instructed to destroy the deed returned by the state treasurer for the armory site. The clerk was ordered to purchase grates for the pumping station from John Beck of Two Harbors.

He was instructed to confer with the Oliver Iron Mining company for an outlet to the Fifth ward sewage, while the city engineer was also instructed to furnish an estimate for the installation of a septic tank.

HIBBING MINES FACE BUSY YEAR

Indications Are There Will Be Little Curtailment During 1912.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are indications that mining operations in the Hibbing district are not to be curtailed to any considerable extent, during 1912, at least so far as the Oliver Iron Mining company is concerned.

At the Leonard mine where two steam shovels are taking ore from the open pit for stock piles arrangements are being made to operate double shifts on both within a short time. The Leonard mine is the property of a syndicate headed by D. M. Philbin and is being operated under a lease by the Oliver Iron Mining company. The ore is handled over the Great Northern. Two hundred men are employed at the pit.

To Increase Operations.

The Leonard also operates an underground property where about 400 men are employed. The operations of both the pit and underground property will be considerably increased in the spring. The Clark mine, which is an underground working is at present giving employment to about 300 men. The Great Northern is constructing a spur to this property. The Grace which is comparatively speaking a new mine, is another where it is anticipated there will be much activity during 1912.

NINETY DAYS IN THE COUNTY JAIL

For Man and Woman Said to Have Beaten Gilbert Board Bill.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Pratten and a young woman he claims is his wife, were taken to Duluth this morning to serve ninety days in the county jail for beating a board bill at Gilbert.

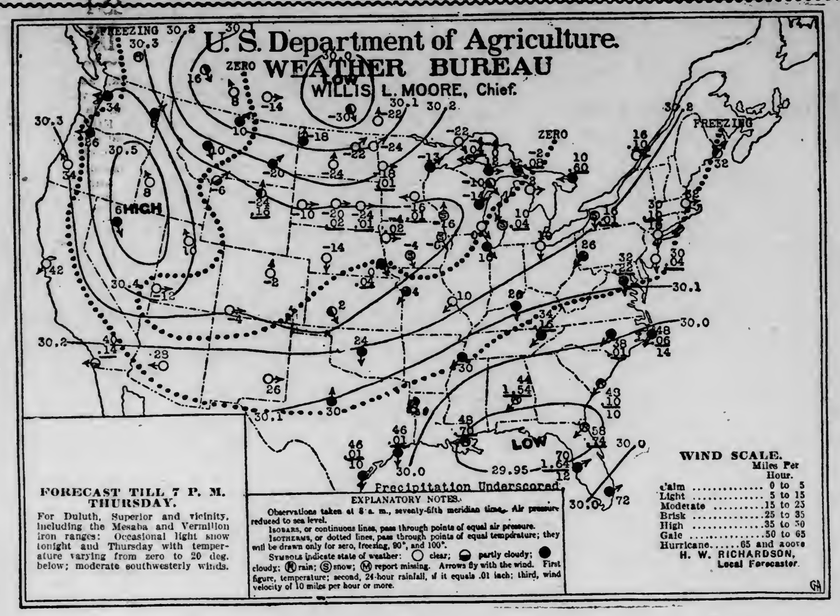

A deputy sheriff brought Pratten over from Gilbert Tuesday afternoon. The man and woman walked from Gilbert to Virginia and thence to Gheen, a total distance of nearly forty miles, Pratten being arrested at Gheen.

BLAME OPEN SALOONS.

Finnish Temperance Societies to Demand Enforcement of Law.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word reached here today that the Finnish temperance societies of the range are planning a movement to ask for the enforcement of the Sunday and 11 o'clock closing laws of saloons. Their grounds for action will be the recent shooting affairs, and more particularly the recent death of Finnish people in Virginia, which took place in saloons operating after hours. The report states the matter will go to the governor for action.

Brisk	25 to 35
High	35 to 50
Gale	50 to 65
Hurricane	65 and above

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

CONTINUED COLD

A year ago today the temperature was 30 deg. below zero. Why complain of a mere touch of frost like 20 deg? Today is just a bracing winter day with the mercury down around 10 deg. below zero. Let's go for a nice long tramp—The end of the cold snap is not yet in sight and the mercury will seek the bottom of the tube again tonight. There is light snow predicted, also. Let us hope there is no wind served with the other ingredients.

A cold snap was snapping a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:31 this evening, giving eight hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure area to the northward of the Dakotas has caused light snow over Wyoming, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and the greater portion of the lake region, and moderating temperature has also resulted over Alberta, Northern Saskatchewan, Eastern Manitoba and Minnesota. The Plateau high pressure has caused colder weather over the Rocky mountains and Eastern slopes. Another depression over the Gulf of Mexico has resulted in light to heavy rains in Atlantic and Gulf states. Severe cold weather still rules over most of the Northwest. At the Head of the Lakes the temperature will vary from about zero to 15 deg. below at Duluth-Superior during the ensuing thirty-six hours, while on the Iron Ranges the lowest will be close to 20 deg. below."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair, except probably snow flurries near the lake tonight or Thursday; slowly rising temperature.

Wisconsin—Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday; not so cold in north and west portions tonight.

Minnesota—Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday; not so cold in south and west portions tonight.

Iowa—Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday; not so cold in north portion tonight.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; not so cold tonight.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; colder in west portion tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures ranging from zero to about 20 deg. below in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper Country.

MURPHY LEASES HIS HOMESTEAD

Tower Pioneer Turns Over Property to Hibbing Mining Engineer.

Tower, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. D. Murphy, a pioneer resident, has given a fifty-year lease to Edward W. McCormick, a mining engineer of Hibbing, on his homestead, which he has held twenty-six years. He has been a resident of the Vermilion range for twenty-seven years and homesteaded the 160 acres, which lies two miles beyond the North American mine on the same formation. There are two big cut crops of mixed ore and jasper, identical in all essential respects to the capping to the ore body at the Soudan mine.

On Tuesday evening the thermometer recorded 40 deg. below zero, the coldest for this section so far this season.

Train Time Change.

Train No. 61 has changed time and leaves Tower for Ely at 7:10 a. m. and arrives in Ely at 8:40. Passengers are taken on at the Tower depot instead of at Tower Junction. Heretofore this train has been leaving Tower Junction after the morning passenger went south.

The Christmas entertainment given by the St. James Presbyterian Sunday school New Year's eve was largely attended. Members of the Sunday school were presented with boxes of candy and a watch-night service was held by the Christian Endeavor society.

Biwabik Man Transferred.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. H. Morris has been transferred from Marble to Biwabik and joined the local Duluth, Missaba & Northern railway office as cashier and operator, taking the place of J. H. Lockhart, who has gone to International Falls with the Canadian Northern line. B. E. Lachner remains in charge of the Biwabik terminal office.

ROSETTO IS SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Convicted of Shooting at Hibbing Officer Must Do Time.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bruno Rosetto, who was found guilty about a year ago of assault in the second degree, in shooting at a mining captain near Hibbing, yesterday afternoon was given an indeterminate sentence in the state penitentiary at hard labor. The delay in sentence was due to attempts to secure a new trial, which failed.

A jury in the murder case against Anton Kramer was secured Tuesday afternoon and the taking of testimony began. It is expected that the case will go to the jury this afternoon. Kramer is alleged to have murdered Max Arco at Aurora several weeks ago. He claims self-defense in extenuation.

NEW WAREHOUSE WORK STARTED

Duluth Concern Begins Construction of Hibbing Plant.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. O. Lovald, superintendent of construction for McLeod & Smith, Duluth contractors, arrived last night with a crew of workmen to begin the work of construction on a new cold storage warehouse for the Fitger Brewing company, near the new Missabe depot.

The building will be two stories, frame, 95 by 37 feet, and is estimated to cost between $6,000 and $7,000.

Eight Dwellings Planned.

Contractor W. B. Shaver of Virginia has secured the contract for the construction of eight new dwellings for the Shenango Furnace company at the Webb location. Work will begin on them soon. They are to be built for the convenience of employes and will cost between $1,000 and $1,200 each.

SMITH ASSUMES POSITION.

New Minnesota Attorney General Begins His Duties.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 3.—With only one week in which to complete and have ready for argument one of the most important cases which has appeared in Minnesota in years—a case the loss of which would in all probability necessitate the calling of an extra session of the legislature—Lyndon A. Smith assumed the office of attorney general yesterday and plunged into a crush of unfinished business, succeeding George Simpson, resigned. Next Monday, the case of the United States Express company, which is resisting the payment of gross earnings taxes on that part of its interstate business done in Minnesota, is set for hearing before the United States supreme court in Washington.

LITTLE SWAN TO HAVE A SAWMILL

Hibbing Firm Will Erect and Operate Plant in That Section.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. W. Rilhonen and P. W. Pertrunen of Hibbing will commence construction work this week on a sawmill plant in township 15, 9-15 in the Little Swan locality south of Hibbing.

The mill will have a capacity of 12,000 to 15,000 feet of lumber daily and will be a great convenience to the settlers in the Little Swan district, where some of the finest farms in St. Louis county are being developed from tracts that five years ago were typical of the cut-over tracts of Northern Minnesota.

MUSICIAN TAKES CLAIM.

Mrs. Gillman of Minneapolis Files on Some Land.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among visitors over New Year's from the outside was Mrs. Wilhelmina Anderson Gillman, one of the leading musicians of Minneapolis, who visited with her brother, Attorney D. C. Anderson. Mrs. Gillman and her husband, a former newspaper man of Minneapolis, now an author and leading mover in the Boy Scout movement, have taken a claim near Gheen, where they will go for the summer months each year in the preparation of their music and literature. Mrs. Gillman left today for a short visit in Duluth with another brother, Ross Anderson, member of the Duluth Board of Trade.

The local aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles were hosts last night at their annual dancing party, with a large attendance. Several out-of-town guests were present.

Supper was served in connection.

NO CASCARET USER EVER HAS HEADACHE

A 10 cent box will keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh for months.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means inside cleanliness and a clear head for months. Ask any of the millions of Cascarets users if they ever have headache.

DR. SHELLMAN NEW CHAIRMAN

Nashwauk Man Chosen By Itasca County Board of Commissioners.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. John H. Shellman of Nashwauk, a member of the board of county commissioners, is the new chairman of the board, having been chosen yesterday afternoon. So far as known there was not much of a contest over the matter. Andrew Nelson of Bovey was elected vice chairman.

The board granted the petition of the people living in four townships

north of Deer River to form the school district of Marcell by withdrawing from the Deer River district. The board did not reach this conclusion until after an extended hearing lasting all yesterday afternoon, both sides being represented by lawyers.

The board today awarded the county printing contracts. The two local papers are to divide the financial statement, the commissioners proceedings and other advertising while the Nashwauk Herald will print the tax list.

EVELETH WOMAN IS CALLED IN DULUTH.

The deceased was about 21 years of age and is survived by her parents, who reside in the Adams location. She was of Polish extraction and the funeral will be held from the Holy Family church, with Rev. Father M. Bilban officiating.

BREAKS A COLD IN A FEW HOURS

Says Quinine Isn't Effective in the Cure of Colds and Grippe.

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or end grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes' Stock company in "The Christian."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The Forbes Stock company will open this evening in "The Christian," which will be the bill for the remainder of the week.

Mme. Lidia Levy, the remarkable coloratura soprano of the Lambardi Grand Opera company, is a "little Tetrazzinni." Not a big Tetrazzini, of course, for in that classification, the well-known Luisa is alone; but, at half the age of the older artist, Lidia Levy is said to display vocal powers that warrant the comparison made.

The "little Tetrazzini" comes from Italy. She was discovered by Signor Fulgenzio Guerrieri, the noted orchestra director, while in Italy the past summer as personal emissary for Impresario Lambardi who has brought so many famous singers to America. Well-known musical writers make the prediction that the tiny Florentine artist is unknowingly on her way to world-wide eminence. She is said to vocalize coloraturishly with high E with tones as pure and sweet and musical as any yet heard on the operatic stage. Her American debut was made at San Francisco a few weeks ago in Verdi's beautiful opera, "Rigoletto." She sang the leading feminine role in a manner that made the great audience present applaud and shout for recall after recall.

Mme. Levy, it is said, possesses a clear, flute-like tone, and displays an ease in handling the bird-notes in the top register that is decidedly Tetrazminesque, and there is little doubt that she is even more pleasing to look upon than the soprano who has made large audiences blister their hands in applause. Her voice has the same clear, ringing quality as of musical glasses, and she can soar to the dizziest vocal heights without the slightest falling away of her tones.

Mme. Levy is slight of stature and has just turned 24. Signor Guerrieri while in Florence the past summer was attracted to her while she was singing the role of Lucia in Donizetti's famous opera. He immediately called Impresario Lambardi, then at Buenos Ayres, requesting permission to engage the young song-bird for the present American tour. The result was that Mme. Levy was soon on her way to America to assume her place among the large list of principals in the organization.

The Lambardi company will visit Duluth on Jan. 8, 9 and 10. Mme. Levy will be the first of the big singers to be heard during the opera series in Duluth, appearing in her greatest role, that of Lucia in Donizetti's great masterwork, "Lucia Di Lammermoor." The general seat sale for all the operas will open Thursday.

Julius Tannen, who has a new title for himself every year, this week dubs himself "Chatterbox" on the Orpheum theater program. Julius claims the championship long distance talking record of the world. His monologues are really small sections of his dialogue which he carries on with any and all from early morning until late at night. When the time comes for him to go on the stage his manager, who always is listening attentively to his arguments just at that time, merely says: "Well, go out on the stage and talk it over. I'll be in front."

So Julius walks out in front of the footlights and keeps on conversing. When he has talked twenty-five minutes the manager calls from the wings: "I can't head you in front Julius. Come out here and let the stage hands hear your argument."

Then Mr. Tannen goes off the stage and sits in his dressing room and talks to himself.

On his way home he always climbs up on the seat of the cab with the driver, so that he can keep on conversing, and at the hotel, after he has talked the night barber, the bartender, the manager, and all the late guests to bed, he converses at the night watchman.

Although some very fine playlets have been presented at the Empress during the past few months, it is doubtful if any were quite as good as "The Picture of Dorian Grey," which in headlining the bill this week. From the magnificent setting to the superb acting by the different members of the company, there is na flaw. "The Picture of Dorian Grey" is a dramatization of Oscar Wilde's famous novel of the same name. Eugene Powers, who is seen as Lord Henry has had a world of experience in all branches of the theatrical profession, both in the legitimate and in vaudeville. As Lord Henry he dispenses a lot of philosophy which although pessimistic, is couched in such beautiful language that one easily forgets the pessimism therein contained. The part is a daring one and requires a remarkable actor to give it a successful portrayal. As Dorian Grey, Miss Elsie Cresey is charming, her emotional acting being especially fine. Russell Randell as the artist handles his part in a finished manner. This playlet is making a distinct hit at the Empress this week and will no doubt prove a standard by which to judge the playlets which appear at the Empress from this time on.

ACCUSE INDIAN BOY OF RAISING P. O. ORDER.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 3.—Joseph Sherman, an Indian boy, was arrested Monday charged with raising a post-office money order from $6 to $16. The prisoner refuses to make any statement regarding his guilt or innocence.

MEN ARE AS HELPLESS AS CHILDREN

When Taken Suddenly Ill—Here is a Common-sense Safeguard.

The sturdiest chap in town usually loses his self control, and is utterly unable to regard his condition with the common sense that characterizes his every-day actions.

For example: He comes home tired, eats a heavy dinner and sits down to read and smoke away a quiet evening.

Suddenly he notices a weight on his stomach; then sharp pains around his heart, and a feeling of suffocation. Thoughts of "heart disease" rush over him, and in his agony he fears the worst.

His trouble was acute indigestion, brought on by overloading his tired stomach.

A couple of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets might have given him relief—might have saved him hours of suffering.

Carry a package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets in your vest pocket or keep them in your room. Take one after each heavy meal and ward off indigestion.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets relieve stomach troubles by aiding nature to supply those elements, the absence of which in the gastric juices, causes indigestion and dyspepsia. They tend to aid the stomach to digest all kinds of food and to quickly convert it into rich red blood.

We know what Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are and what they will do. We guarantee them to relieve indigestion and dyspepsia. If they fail, we will refund your money.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Sold only at our stores or by mail. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community ont at our store—The Rexall Store, E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

Put an Extra Stomach to Work

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Do the Work of Two or Three Stomachs. Affords Instant Relief.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE.

When your food does not digest, when gases form, when you experience that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, when the breath is foul, the tongue coated and that sour taste is in the mouth—take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and watch how quickly every one of these symptoms disappear. All that was needed was to digest that lump of food in your stomach,—and the glands, whose duty it is to supply the gastric juices, had simply given out from overwork. So when you took that little tablet you were supplying exactly what was necessary to complete the process of digestion that the stomach had begun but was unable to finish.

If you would continue to take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal for awhile, your stomach would have a chance to rest up and get well and strong again.

Try just one box and you will never want to be without this wonderful little remedy for stomach troubles. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain an ingredient, one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. They are so entirely harmless because they have abolutely no effect on the system one way or another, except to do just the one thing—digest food.

40,000 physicians use and recommend this National Remedy. Every drug store everywhere sells and recommends Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The price is 50 cents per box. A sample will be sent free if you will write F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Stock of Globe Clothing Company Damaged By Flames, Smoke and Water.

Two People Descend From Upper Floors By Fire Escapes.

The big stock of the Globe Clothing company at 123 West Superior street, valued at about $30,000, was badly damaged by smoke by a fire which broke out in the basement of the building about 7 o'clock last night.

It was impossible to obtain any accurate estimate of the loss today, but it was stated that it will run into thousands of dollars.

The blaze was started by the overheating of the connection between the boiler and the stack and had been going some time before it was discovered and the department summoned. It burned along the ceiling and caused a heavy smoke, which gave the firemen great difficulty and gave considerable anxiety to roomers on the upper floors. No one was overcome but a large piece of the door had to be cut away with axes before the blaze was under full control.

Two of the men living on the third floor left the building by means of fire escapes, one down the rear escape and the other down the front ladder. Stanley Ferguson, a bookkeeper, was confined to his room by a severe cold and let himself down the back escape. Charlie Cookman, a barber, caused some excitement for a while as he came down the escape on the front of the building. He reached the bottom, and did not lose his head and make the jump to the icy walk below, but perched on the platform for several minutes, until the firemen put up a ladder, on which he made the balance of the journey to the ground. Several other men were in the building, but made their escape without difficulty.

VICTIM OF THEFT IS IDENTIFIED

The identity of John Hopkins, the Duluth man who lost $505 by having his pocket picked in New Orleans, was established today.

Mr. Hopkins, who roomed in the Lowell block at First avenue east and Superior street, is the owner of valuable ore lands on the Cuyuna range, and has been receiving royalties on them. He left last Thursday for New Orleans to spend the winter.

For three years he was a clerk in the employ of J. & M. Oreckovsky, clothiers at 527 West Superior street. He left their employ two years ago to give all his attention to his Cuyuna lands.

"NOTHING BUT DEATH CAN KEEP ME OUT OF THE FIGHT NOW," TAFT SAYS

leaders from the first that if he should be called upon to stand for re-election he would be glad to do so; that he felt under obligations to the party for having made him president, and was willing to abide by its decision in the convention.

He adheres to this position, according to announcements today, and will not quit the race until the nominating ballots are cast at Chicago.

The president was urged by a number of his closest friends to make a definite statement as to his position, and agreed to do so in the language quoted above. With this statement as their inspiration, it is said, the Taft supporters will begin an active campaign in his behalf at once.

It was stated today that some of Mr. Taft's friends have gone so far as to advise him to break openly with Col. Roosevelt, and to challenge the latter to make plain his intentions. The president has declined to do this.

"Smoke Out" Roosevelt?

The White House has been fairly flooded with callers lately who have brought word to President Taft that Col. Roosevelt so far has declined to say that he would not accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. It also has been reported to the White House that Col. Roosevelt believes an organized effort is being made to "smoke him out," and that he declines to be "smoked" either by the Taft or La Follette forces.

The president has listened to all of these reports with an indulgent smile, but has refused to indicate whether he believed them. It is vehemently denied at the White House, however, that Mr. Taft has sent any "messengers" to Mr. Roosevelt "on any subject whatsoever."

The president has been urged for weeks to make a more aggressive campaign in his own behalf. He has replied that he did not think political activity comported with presidential dignity. He now has consented that his frends carry forward the fight as vigorously as they desire, and he will lend what assistance he properly can.

GET NO HELP OF GOMPERS

of our investigation at Los Angeles," said Mr. Lawler later.

He was shown the statement of Clancy in San Francisco that Lawler tried to "browbeat him." Lawler's only comment was that the remark sounded like that of a man who was being "squeezed very hard."

Says Labor Men Knew.

National labor officials affiliated with Samuel Gompers and the American Federation of Labor were informed two years ago by Charles A. Bookwalter, who as mayor at that time conducted a secret investigation that John J. McNamara had directed a series of dynamite explosions.

This was made known by Bookwalter today when he was informed that the government's investigation here embraced an inquiry into the circumstances of the four explosions directed against Albert Von Spreckelsen, a contractor, on account of labor troubles.

Expects to Testify.

Bookwalter declared he expected to be subpoenaed by the federal grand jury, which resumed its sessions today. He said he would have all the details of the municipal investigation, which satisfied him that John J. McNamara, as secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Iron Workers, was the conspiring executive who caused the explosions in this vicinity. Bookwalter even said that he, himself, had told John J. McNamara of the strong suspicion against him, and that in his conversations with a score of labor leaders he had placed the responsibility upon the iron workers' union.

"We were on a street car together one day shortly after the Von Spreckelsen explosion in October, 1909," said Bookwalter today, "when John J., whom I knew very well, asked me in a taunting way if I had learned who blew up the buildings. I was irritated in those days, because I myself had received threatening letters and had to have a guard at my house for sixty days, so I answered rather hotly: 'Yes—and I could put my hand on one of them without leaving this car.'"

Told the Leaders.

Asked whether he told anyone else besides McNamara of what his investigation had disclosed, he said:

"Yes, I told a score of labor leaders what I knew, and that the iron workers were blamed. You see, I knew all the labor union boys."

"What did they say when you blamed the iron workers?"

"There are lots of good men in union labor, and they always have denounced acts of violence. I think some of them said it was a damned shame."

"Did any of these men tell Mr. Gompers that suspicion pointed strongly to the guilt of the iron workers?"

"I don't know whether they told him or not, but Sam Gompers is one of the best informed men in this country."

that the chief justice was worn from his arduous labors on the supreme bench, and proposed retiring at the end of his six-year term. He made no denial of the rumors, nor did he affirm them. Rather, he maintained an unbroken silence until today. It is known that the chief justice's health was not strong two years ago, and it appeared that he gradually was giving way beneath the strain. He is an incessant worker, a close student and it often is said that he works harder than any man in the capitol. He puts in long hours and it is accepted that when he finally disposes of a case, it has been put to every test at his command.

More Justices Needed.

Recently Mr. Start made the statement, and for publication, too, that more associate justices should be appointed to the supreme bench. He did not voice this belief in the spirit of complaint. Rather, during his seventeen successive years on the supreme bench, he has seen the work of the court grow in volume and importance as more technical questions arose.

Justice Start is 72 years old. He came to Minnesota in 1862. He was attorney general of the state from January 1880 to March, 1881, when he resigned to accept the office of judge in the Third judicial district. He remained in this office till January, 1895 when he took his seat on the bench of the supreme court, having been elected chief justice in 1894 and was re-elected in 1900 and again in 1906. He is now starting his eighteenth year on the supreme bench and on March 12, his thirty-first year as a judge.

fute the charge that the operation of the combination had the effect of restraining the trade in fresh meats.

Although Mr. Veeder has been an unwilling witness for the prosecution, the information he has furnished has proved valuable to the government's side of the case, in the opinion of District Attorney James H. Wilkerson.

The witness produced no documentary evidence, declaring that all records of the old packers pools had been destroyed so far as he knew.

When confronted with letters sent out by the packers referring to the shipment and price of fresh meat during periods in which he said there was no pool in existence, the witness apparently grew nervous, but declined to deny the genuineness of the documents.

No Refutation of Letters.

"I would not say whether these letters were or were not sent out from my office," Mr. Veeder said.

During the morning session the government read a number of letters and telegrams purporting to have been sent out by the combination while Mr. Veeder was secretary.

"Were they sent out by your office?"

"I cannot say, but they look as if they might have been," replied the witness.

The attention of the witness was directed to a note written in ink and he was asked if he could identify the handwriting. He could not do so, he said.

When the witness was asked for an opinion on the subject, the court sustained an objection.

"Was the price of meat ever discussed at these meeting of the packers where you acted as secretary?"

"Yes, I heard it said by members that the price was either too high or too low on different occasions."

Method Never Changed.

"Was the method of fixing the cost ever changed?"

"No, the same method was used in all the agreements so far as I know."

"Were any instructions ever sent out from your office regarding the uniform system of figuring the cost of slaughtered animals?"

"Yes, about twice a year, perhaps oftener."

"Where would you get the information?"

"From instructions received from the packers at the weekly meetings," Mr. Veeder replied.

Miles to be Witness.

Special Counsel Pierce Butler read several letters received by W. D. Miles, managr of the Armour Packing company, Kansas City, in June 1897, in which the amounts of beef to be shipped to certain Eastern markets were given and the price to be charged, based on a margin of 50 cents on the uniform test cost estimate used by the packers, was named.

The letters, which were obtained from W. D. Miles, former manager of the Armour Packing company, flatly refuted the statement of Secretary Veeder on the witness stand that no meeting of packers to fix prices and apportion business was held between April, 1897 and January, 1898, when a "statistical bureau" was maintained to compile records of meats shipped and prices obtained at different points. Miles, who severed his connection with the Armour interests in 1903, will, it is said, be one of the star witnesses for the government.

POLICE JUDGE'S HOUSE WRECKED BY DYNAMITE.

Tyrone, Ky., Jan. 3.—The home of Police Judge John Lancaster was blown up with dynamite yesterday and practically wrecked. No one was injured. It is believed that revenge was the motive for blowing up the house. An investigation is being made.

Sugar Men's Trial Delayed.

New York, Jan. 3.—Because of the vacancy on the bench of the United States circuit court, the trial of Washington B. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining company and other officers and directors of the company and Thomas B. Harned, a Philadelphia lawyer, has been put over until March 4. The defendants are under indictment charging them with violation of the Sherman law.

EX-CONVICT TRIES TO HOLD UP PEDESTRIAN ON FIRST STREET IN MIDDLE OF THE AFTERNOON

Edward W. Ranck, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was the victim of an attempted bold, daylight hold-up on First street near Fifth avenue west, across from the postoffice, yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock.

Harry Carr, an ex-convict, thrust a revolver in his face and demanded his cash. "Gimme your money quick," the would-be robber said as he threatened him with the gun.

Taken by surprise Ranck instinctively started to throw up his hands. A pedestrian across the street was attracted, and with a shout started to cross. Evidently frightened, the hold-up artist took to his heels, pocketing his gun as he ran. He turned down Fifth avenue and disappeared.

Ranck made his way to Superior street to report the occurrence to the police. He saw Patrolman Andree and while furnishing him with the details and a description, Carr passed in front of them. He apparently did not see Ranck talking to the policeman until he was on top of them.

He was but a couple of feet away and Ranck told the officer who he was. As he stepped toward him, Carr caught sight of them. Realizing instantly what had happened, he made a sudden movement toward his pocket. But the patrolman was too quick for him. Grabbing his wrist before he had time to get his hand into his pocket, he placed Carr under arrest and slipped the handcuffs over his wrists.

Carr is said by the police to have a long record. It is stated that he has been arrested in Duluth before and that he has served more than one term in state penitentiaries. He was arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon and waived examination, being bound over to await the action of the grand jury, which begins its sessions today.

HINES TRIED BY HIS CLUB

Union League Directors Hear Testimony About Lorimer Case.

Hold Long Session With Funk as One of the Witnesses.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Edward Hines, the millionaire lumberman named in the Lorimer investigation, was "placed on trial" yesterday by the directors of the Union League club, charged with conduct unbecoming a member, according to admissions by officials of the club.

Mr. Hines and the club, whose directors heard his story, were brought into the Lorimer case when Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company and the chief "complainant" in the action affecting Mr. Hines' membership in the club, told a story of having been approached by Mr. Hines in the clubrooms with a request that the Harvester company contribute $10,000 to the fund used "to put Lorimer over," as Funk testified Hines said. The charges, it is said, were prepared soon after the incident, but were not formally referred for a hearing until yesterday. The directors were in session until midnight, it was learned, but finished their hearing soon after. Whether this completed the hearing could not be learned.

Mr. Funk was present and told his story. He was questioned by several directors and by an attorney for Mr. Hines, it was said. He told the same story as at the Lorimer hearing: That Hines came to him and after telling of the success in electing Lorimer, said it had "cost $100,000"; that several persons had underwritten the amount, and that contributions were to be sent to "Tilden at the stockyards."

It was said Mr. Hines advised the directors that if he were ejected from the club he would take the matter to the courts.

MINOT PARK PLANS.

Bonds to Be Sold to Carry Out Present Scheme.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minot will have one of the finest city park systems in North Dakota of tentative plans of the city park commission are carried to a successful conclusion.

Two of the parks, one comprising fifty and the other twenty-eight acres, will be along the Mouse river, which runs through the city and furnishes splendid natural park advantages. In addition to these two properties, another located on the so-called south hill, and overlooking a portion of the city, will be purchased.

To bring about these purchases the board will sell $31,000 worth of bonds, authorized at a recent election. Of that amount about $10,000 will be needed to make the purchase of sites.

BEATEN AND ROBBED BY FAKE GAS INSPECTOR.

Chicago, Jan. 3. — Mrs. Perlett, a young widow, was compelled to disrobe, submit to indignities and finally was robbed by a man, who, she told the police, entered her house as a gas inspector.

"He asked me where my jewelry was," she told the police, "and when I refused to say, he said he would kill me if I didn't remove my clothing. He bound me with corset strings, tore three rings from my fingers, struck me in the face and then left."

Her screams attracted neighbors, who rescued her. A cut over the left eye was displayed as evidence of the blow dealt her.

How to Cure Rheumatism

Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription Easily Mixed at Home.

This simple and harmless formula has worked wonders for all who have tried it, quickly curing chronic and acute rheumatism and back-ache. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them in a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed-time." Good results come after the first few doses. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original, one ounce, sealed, yellow package. This was published here last winter and hundreds of the worst cases were cured by it in a short time.

QUIET YEAR ON THE BOARD

Total Amount of Domestic Grains Handled, 50,425,000 Bushels.

The year 1911 on the Duluth Board of Trade has been by no means a record-breaker in the volume of business. There have been many years with a smaller volume of business, but there have been many others with a far more greater.

In comparing the business of these various years, only the domestic receipts are here taken into consideration. The foreign receipts are very small in comparison, and for the most part, they do not represent business done on the Duluth board, although the board keeps a record of the bonded grain moving through Duluth. Most of this bonded grain moves through the city's warehouses, without really belonging to Duluth business at all.

The total amount of domestic grain and flaxseed moving through Duluth during the year 1911 was 50,425,000 bu. During the year 1910, the total was 55,725,000 bu; in 1909, 79,677,000 bu, and in 1908, 84,509,000 bu. The largest amount in any one of the last twenty-seven years was in 1907, when the total receipts were 88,409,000 bu. The smallest in this same period of time was in the year 1888 when the receipts were 8,309,000 bu. The total receipts of domestic grain at Duluth in all these years were 1,443,573,000 bu. The following statements give the receipts more in detail:

Wheat—Receipts in 1911, 32,225,000 bu; 1910, 32,285,000 bu; 1909, 52,867,000 bu; largest year's receipts in 1898, 66,413,000 bu; smallest year's receipts in 1904, 7,994,000 bu; total receipts in twenty-seven years, 1,011,449,000 bu.

Corn—Receipts in 1911, 1,059,000 bu; 1910, 698,000 bu; 1909, 1,225,000 bu; largest year's receipts in 1899, 7,090,000 bu; smallest year's receipts in 1903, 1,000 bu; total receipts for twenty-six years, 30,923,000 bu.

Oats—Receipts in 1911, 4,496,000 bu; 1910, 5,856,000 bu; 1909, 4,685,000 bu; largest year's receipts in 1904, 9,987,000 bu; smallest year's receipts in 1893, 24,000 bu; total receipts in twenty-six years, 83,944,000 bu.

Barley—Receipts in 1911, 6,421,000 bu; 1910, 10,701,000 bu; 1909, 10,298,000 bu; largest year's receipts in 1910; smallest year's receipts in 1889, 2,000 bu; total receipts in twenty-six years, 112,313,000 bu.

Rye—Receipts in 1911, 704,000 bu; 1910, 343,000 bu; 1909, 553,000 bu; largest year's receipts in 1898, 2,198,000 bu; smallest year's receipts in 1889, none; total receipts in twenty-four years, 15,965,000 bu.

Flaxseed—Receipts in 1911, 5,520,000 bu; 1910, 3,842,000 bu; 1909, 10,049,000 bu; largest year's receipts in 1906, 21,785,000 bu; smallest year's receipts in 1887 and 1888, 1,000 bu in each; total receipts in twenty-five years, 188,979,000 bu.

DECEMBER A MILD MONTH

Mean Temperature Was Nearly Three Degrees Above Normal.

December 1911 was a comparatively mild month, according to the monthly meteorological summary, which has been issued by the weather bureau.

Figures compiled by Forecaster W. H. Richardson show that the mean temperature for the month was 20.2 deg. while the normal mean temperature for December, based on records going back forty-one years, is 17.7 deg.

The coldest day in December was Dec. 28, when the mercury dropped to 12 below, while the warmest day was on Dec. 9, when the thermometer registered 40 deg. The greatest daily range of temperature occurred on Dec. 29, when there was a difference of 24 degrees between the maximum and minimum temperatures. The heaviest snowfall also occurred on Dec. 29, 8.5 inches falling at that time. At the end of the month there was 14.5 inches of snow on the ground.

Southwesterly winds prevailed during December, the average hourly velocity being 13.9 miles per hour. The stiffest blow of the month occurred on Dec. 27, when a northwest gale swept over the lake region at the rate of 46 miles per hour.

There were but seven clear days, eight that were partly cloudy, and fifteen that were cloudy.

NO SIGN OF MODERATING

Weather Man Sees No Prospect of Break in Cold Snap.

Mercury Likely to Remain Below Zero Until Thursday at Least.

Although the temperature was higher this morning than yesterday morning, there is no sign of a break in the cold snap. The weather man this morning put out the cheerful bulletin that the intense cold is very likely to continue for two days yet.

The cold reached its greatest intensity of the last twenty-four hours shortly before midnight last night, when the mercury registered 13 deg. below zero, and the mercury is expected to remain below zero all day, with some more intense cold tonight.

The cold snap is general throughout the Northwest. St. Paul reported 16 deg. below this morning; Moorhead, 18 deg. below, and Grand Forks, 24 deg. below. The coldest spot was Minnedosa, where the temperature was 30 deg. below zero.

Any Man May Easily Regain

New Vitality

Strong, vigorous vitality, the crowning glory of mature healthy manhood.

Do you know, reader, what this means to you?

If by these few simple inspired words (which every man may with profit read) I should be the means of pointing out to you or other men the straight and sure, if narrow, road to new manhood, new powers, new capacities for a better and more glorious physical and vital development, then in doing this I have rendered a great and lasting service to my fellow beings, and one which is infinite in its power for good.

This self-same VITALITY, this builder of manhood and manly vigor, may easily be regained, and I will tell you how.

Have you ever stopped to consider that it is this VITAL FORCE which makes rugged men the real men that they are? It is this same MAN FORCE which is behind every great achievement in the world today, which gives the flower of our army and navy the courage to meet and face death unflinchingly, which gives the rough and rugged man of the plains that compelling power to rescue at all odds a loved one from some great peril, as our illustration here portrays, and it is this self-same, identical VITAL VIGOR which I must impart to you, reader, if you are not the man you should be.

Therefore, if I give you new vitality, I make you young again and keep you feeling young the balance of your days. By increasing your vital supply, I soon have you answering "Simply feeling fine" to your friends' morning greetings, while they in their turn will secretly marvel at the wondrous change for the better which has come over you. A thoroughly vital manly man is the greatest inspiration in the world; his power and fascination are felt by all women and all men alike who are near him. Nothing but death can conquer the giant of strength and manly vigor. On the other hand, how different with the half-man, the neurasthenic degenerate, who is burning up his vitality in dissipation and excesses! Is there any sight more pitiable, more repellant to one's sense of decency, than the weakling who deliberately kills his manhood and self-respect by acts of willful debauchery? Such a man has neither my sympathy nor can he profit by what of wisdom I can impart. But any man who is willing to make a fair, square fight for the return of his lost vitality and lost manhood, who will promise faithfully and honestly to discontinue any debasing practices or excesses he may be indulging, who will help me thus by helping himself to such, no matter how dependent he may be, no matter how weak and debilitated, no matter what years of folly have passed, to such a man I can offer all the encouragement in the world. Just lead a decent man's life, my friend, and then increase your VITALITY. All else will come.

I make and distribute a vitalizing appliance which I call a HEALTH BELT. I do not want you to get one of these HEALTH BELTS now or tomorrow nor next week, for that matter, but first wish you to write for or call and get one of my little free books. I want you to thus have my whole story of this subject of VITALITY, so that you may judge for yourself. My HEALTH BELT, with suspensory attachment, is a complete treatment in itself; that is, you place it comfortably around your waist nights when you go to bed and wear it all the time when you are asleep. The vitality which it produces and sends into your system hour after hour is felt as it flows in. There is no shock, but merely a pleasant, warm, soothing sensation which induces a sound, refreshing sleep. Weak back often disappears at once, and a better feeling is immediately experienced. Two or three months' wear is usually sufficient. The cost is nominal. With special attachments, my HEALTH BELT is used by women as well as men for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc.

Let Me Send You THIS BOOK Free

My book, as described above, will be sent in plain, sealed envelope to anyone who fills in the below coupon. It is fully illustrated with photo reproductions, printed on fine coated paper, and should be read by every man, young, middle aged or elderly, whether ailing or strong. Write or call today. Hours 9 to 6.

Dear Sirs:—Please forward me your Book; as advertised, free, sealed.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

Ardell Lamont, a well dressed, attractive girl of 16 years, with black hair and flashing dark eyes, is passing the hours in the woman's department at police headquarters wondering just what is going to happen to her.

Ardell was taken to the station in the wee, small hours by Detective Terry and a charge of vagrancy booked against her. What disposition to make of her is bothering the police about as much as it is worrying Ardell.

Not a great deal is known about her, further than what she tells herself. She claims to have a home at Fargo, where her folks are in business. But Fargo was evidently too slow for her, as she asserts that she left home, or ran away from home, to seek excitement and see something of the world beyond the confines of the Dakota city.

She has now been gone about five months, according to her own statement. During that time she states that she has been in several different cities, working her way from one to another, getting employment as a stenographer. When she had saved a "stake" she sought other fields. She says she has not found the world as gay a place as she had seen it in her dreams; that it is not all fun and laughter and bright lights, and that home is a pretty nice refuge after all. She states that she is willing and anxious to go back to her parents and that nothing would delight her more than to be sent back.

The police took her in charge after some one reported to them that she appeared to be without funds and had been making inquiries as to the best way to get back to Fargo. So she was locked up and in the meantime she will be held until the officers have investigated the truth of her story.

* * *

The old query of "when is a man drunk" was thrashed out in police court yesterday afternoon. James McTaggart declared that he wasn't drunk and the policeman who had arrested him swore that he was.

"How could I be drunk, your honor," James asked when brought before the court, "when I only had two drinks? I only had two, and I couldn't be drunk."

"He was falling all over himself," said the officer. "He came into the police station to get lodgings. The only way he was able to steer a course was by groping along the walls, and then it was plain that the ship was without a rudder. He couldn't talk any straighter than he could walk, and his breath, phew—" and the recollection caused him to stop in the middle of the sentence.

"That may all be true, what he says, your honor," James cut in, "But I only had two drinks and I couldn't have been drunk."

Whereupon the court, knowing the futility of further argument, pronounced him guilty and gave him five days in which to figure out how a man can be drunk when he has only had two drinks.

Stealing summer suits in the winter time will not appeal to Fred Carlson again. Several days ago he extracted the warm weather rags of Peter Simonson from his room in the Nicollet hotel. He admitted that he had done so when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. He went over the hill for sixty days, being unable to pay a $75 fine.

John N. French was arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his brother, Walter W. French, charging him with having failed to support his 13-year-old daughter. The girl has been living with relatives and it is alleged that he has done nothing to help maintain her. He pleaded not guilty and will be tried tomorrow morning.

Mike Burke, arrested on a charge of having carried concealed weapons, was discharged after a trial in police court yesterday morning. It was claimed that he had drawn a knife during an altercation with Horace Holbrook on a street car last week.

Olof Nelson doesn't seem to have used much tact after stealing a sheepskin coat from Litman Bros. store near Fourth avenue east and Superior street. After purloining the garment it is claimed that he sold it on the Bowery. This morning he came back and wanted to sell Litman a pair of rubbers. Litman remembered him and caused his arrest. The police had recovered the coat and they now are waiting to get a report of a pair of stolen rubbers. Nelson will be tried for petty larceny in police court tomorrow, having entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned this morning.

Frank Heinich, who runs a restaurant in the rear of 605 West Superior street, was arrested this morning on a charge of having sold beer in his place last Sunday. He denied that he had been blind pigging and will be tried in the morning.

WILL SPREAD THE GOSPEL OF FARM DEVELOPMENT

Commercial Club Committee Maps Out Its Year's Program.

Lecture Courses, Garden and Poultry Schools and Potato Special.

PLANS FOR AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT IN COUNTY.

Determination of seed potato supply and growing of seed potatoes for the market.
Annual lecture course.
Garden school.
Poultry school.
Potato special.
Experiments with sugar beets.
Experiments with peas and other canning vegetables.
Exhibit at permanent display of Northern Minnesota Development association at Minneapolis.

The agricultural committee of the Duluth Commercial club held a meeting at noon today and made ambitious plans for the year's work. The plans contemplate the encouragement of further diversity in the growing of staple products and the development of new industries through the agricultural development. Follow-up work will be done on the lines laid down heretofore and some new features will be introduced.

The prominence gained by St. Louis county potatoes during the year just closed is expected to bear fruit by heavy production and sales of St. Louis county potatoes, not only in the market for consumption, but also in the market for seed potatoes.

A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the club, was instructed today to ascertain the supply of seed potatoes in the county with a view to arranging a plan of distribution whereby quantities of seed potatoes will be raised next year for sale in car load lots to other potato-growing communities. The seed potato industry is an important and profitable one and farmers with good potatoes will take advantage of it.

Lecture Course.

The annual lecture course, conducted jointly by the Commercial club and the Y. M. C. will be started soon. Efforts will also be made to have instructors sent from the state school of agriculture to conduct a school in gardening and also another poultry school. The poultry school conducted for a week last spring was productive of good results.

Negotiations will be started with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and Duluth & Iron Range railroads for the furnishing of equipment for another potato special to work along the same lines as the train sent out last year.

The committee decided to recommend that the Commercial club install an exhibit for St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties in the permanent exhibit of the Northern Minnesota Development association's immigration bureau at Minneapolis.

Mr. Hostetter was instructed to obtain seed for distribution for experiments in raising sugar beets and also in the production of peas and other canning products. The experiments will determine the adaptability of the seed to the differernt soils and will determine the advisability of encouraging the growing of those products and the establishment of plants for handling them.

Mr. Hostetter will represent the Commercial club at the annual meeting the state agricultural society and other bodies at St. Paul, Jan. 9 to 12.

BOARD STILL IN SESSION

County Commissioners Dispose of Large Amount of Routine Business.

County Has Cash Balance of $608,489 at Beginning of Year.

Chairman Neil McInnis of the county board, Auditor Halden and J. P. Johnson,, the members of the board of audit of St. Louis county, reported at the meeting of the county commissioners this morning that there is to the credit of the county in various banks, the sum of $608,489.29.

The commissioners met this morning at the board room at the courthouse for the continuation of their annual meeting which was begun yesterday with the election of officers.

There was so much routine business to transact this morning, that the commissioners did not reach the resolutions and contracts until this afternoon.

The applications for liquor licenses and road petitions were read and laid away under the stress of the more important business of the annual meeting.

There seems to be a contest on for the office of jail physician. Dr. F. F. Clark, the present jail physician, wants to succeed himself and Dr. R. E. Cavanaugh, a former holder of the position wants it again. No decision was reached by the board members.

The report of clerk of the board, J. O. Walker, showed that $13,438.07 has been spent during the year 1911, on state highways in St. Louis county. The money was spent on the roads known as Roads No. 1, 2, and 3.

A petition to extend the Howard and Gnesen road about a mile from its present ending was received and filed. Some of the settlers want the road extended about one mile farther north. The hearing will be held on March 6.

Money For Roads.

For work on the Sturgeon Lake road, the Net Lake road and the Gheen road, the commissioners voted $6,369.02. The roads are located in the seventh or Commissioner Ryan's district.

Commissioner Overton asked the county board to authorize the purchase of a pile driver to be used in the Fifth district and the request was granted.

The date for receiving bids on office supplies which consist of books, blanks and other office equipment was changed from Jan. 15 to Jan. 20 at 2 o'clock.

The clerk of the county board was directed to call for bids for road tools. He will do this upon the recommendation of the purchasing committee, the members of which will meet soon to discuss what is needed for 1912.

Coroner J. A. McCuen submitted his report, which showed his fees during the year 1911 had amounted to $962.25.

County Treasurer Holgate, in his report, showed that the salary and fees of his office had amounted during last year to $3,975.51. Clerk Johnson, by a similar report, showed that his salary and fees had amounted to $3,428.83.

E. K. Coe submitted a report asked last regular meeting, in which he stated that as a great part of the work is as yet unfinished, it would be impossible to give an accurate report of just what has been done and what it has cost as the figures are not yet available. The report did state, however, that the average cost of clearing and grubbing new roads is $390 per mile. He stated that the average cost of clearing, grubbing and turnpiking is $720 per mile.

FIGHT OVER CALF

Brings About Assault Trial in Brainerd Court.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case against David Cluff of Watertown, accused of assault in the first degree, is on trial in the district court. It is said Cluff fired a shotgun at Alfred Anez, while in a dispute over a calf.

The case of the state vs. the Northern Pacific railway was continued.

In the case of George Benz & Sons vs. Edward Boppell, et al, was shown that the issues were for the court only.

Orders were entered by Judge McClenahan allowing $30 to Attorney G. S. Swanson for defending Nels Carlson, accused of burglary in the second degree, and ordering $20 paid Attorney W. W. Bane for defending Joseph Johnson, accused of burglary in the second degree.

The case of John G. Davis vs. Mary Howe, et al, was not properly on the calendar and was stricken therefrom. In the divorce case of William Meekins vs. Grace L. Meekins, the case was taken under advisement by Judge W. S. McClenahan.

ALLEGED MENOMINEE BURGLAR IS CAUGHT.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Lucias, wanted on the charge of burglarizing of the Grand Department store, was arrested yesterday in Fond du Lac. He is supposed to be a professional who has been operating extensively in the upper peninsula.

SAY CITY IS BEING HELD UP

Property Owners Ask Exorbitant Prices for Land Needed for Park.

Business men and residents of West Duluth are incensed at the property owners who are putting such large valuations on their land in the vicinity of Kingsbury creek, needed for the Fairmont park addition.

A number of the members of the West Duluth Commercial club attended the meeting of the park board committee and the special committee of the council, yesterday, and heard the reports of the various real estate agents representing the owners of the property. The owners value their property at from $1,000 to $2,000 an acre. The proposed park covers about 100 acres, 60 acres being under water.

"It is an outrage," said one of the business men this morning," for these owners to value their property at $1,000 an acre, and some even as high as $2,000. In an open market we could all buy that property for $500 at the highest and I am sure that most of it would bring less than $150 an acre. It is simply a 'hold-up' game on the part of the property owners.

No action was taken last evening by the council regarding the proposed condemnation proceedings. The members of the council postponed action until next week and in the meantime the special committee will work with the board of park commissioners with regard to the prices of the land.

WILL REPLACE BRIDGE WITH FILL.

At the council meeting last evening the board of public works recommended the repairing of the road to New Duluth, which was closed last week when the bridge at Eighty-second avenue west partially burned. The members suggested the dirt fill as the more practical and even though City Engineer McGilvray showed in his estimates that the fill would cost more than the repairing of the bridge, they think it more advisable.

Members of the Commercial club at their meeting Friday evening passed a resolution to the effect that they would rather have the fill and City Engineer McGilvray made an estimate on the cost of a fill. The proposed fill will cost about $3,500.

HAVE PLANS FOR LARGER GYMNASIUM.

The Merritt Athletic association, recently organized by the members of the Maroon Juniors, will hold a business meeting tomorrow evening at Cedarholm's store, corner of Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street. The members will consider plans for moving to larger quarters and establishing a better equipped gymnasium.

The association is one of the younger organizations of the city, being composed mostly of boys ranging from 15 to 17 years of age. The boys made an enviable record while playing as the Maroon Juniors and have a number of championships to their credit. A hockey team will be formed this evening and plans made for a baseball team this spring. The members plan to enter all the sports this year and with the many members already in the organization are anxious to enter teams in every event of the year.

NO GAMES AT WESTERN CLUB.

There were no games at the Western Curling rink last evening as nearly all the members accompanied a team to the downtown rink to watch the game between the two teams for the Manley-McLennan trophy. The West Duluth team has been defeated twice and is now out of the running.

In the Commercial club event Ashley will play Method this evening in the semi-finals for the right to meet Judson. There are several games to be played in the preliminary of the Union Match event and Barnes and Wieland are matched for this evening. Ashley will play Judson, the winners of the two games to meet Olson and Clark respectively in the first round.

LADY MACCABEES ELECT OFFICERS.

The Lady Maccabees of the Golden Rod hive, No. 43, at their regular meeting, chose the following officers to hold office during the year: Olive Knudsen, commander; Anna E. Tupper, past commander; Typhena Bowles, lieutenant commander; Nellie McKay, record keeper; Matilda Kruger, finance auditor; Hanna Gusterson, sergeant; Johanna Jacobsen, lady-at-arms; Mary McDonald, chaplain; Catherine Millen, sentinel; Avena Rendl, picket; Edith Berger, musician; Mary Fischer, official prompter, and Anna E. Tupper, installing officer. The special installation ceremony will be held the latter part of next week.

For Blind-Pigging.

Mrs. Mary Fereith, Mrs. J. Brobach and Mrs. Mary Ganack were arrested at noon today by Charles Pearson and Patrolman L. A. Root, on a warrant charging them with running a blind pig. The women have been selling beer at New Duluth for some time, it is claimed, and they were taken to the Central station this afternoon. They will be brought up on the charge tomorrow morning.

Recovering From Burns.

Albert Bullock, the pumpman at the Zenith Furnace company, who fell into a vat of hot tar Saturday evening, is slowly recovering at St. Mary's hospital, where he was immediately taken after the accident. The attending physicians expect his recovery even though Bullock sustained severe burns on his side and arms.

West Duluth Briefs.

A son was born last evening to Rev. and Mrs. G. Oberg, 427 North Fifty-third avenue west.

The Willing Workers of the Swedish-Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Miss Ellen Jackson, 402 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

Miss Helen Lee and Miss Bessie Phipps of Zealandia, Sask., left this morning for Shell Lake, Wis., after spending the past week with the former's aunt, Mrs. J. F. Lee, 613 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Miss Katherine Newbauer of Kalavala, Minn., is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Newbauer of Smithville.

Miss Ethel Mahoney of Eau Claire, Wis., left for her home yesterday after spending the past week in Smithville as the guest of Mrs. J. G. Brink.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Greene street, will meet tomorrow evening in the church parlors for the annual election of officers.

Miss Stephania Polasky, 315 North Sixty-first avenue west, left yesterday for Cook, Minn., after spending the past week with her parents.

Mrs. L. J. Nordheim and her nephew, Henry Johnson, 323 Sixty-third avenue west, left yesterday for Montana, where they will make their future home.

Watch repairing, Hurst, West Duluth.

MARRIED IN COUNTY JAIL

Love not only laughted at locksmiths this afternoon, but gave the merry laugh to steel bars and cell doors at the county jail.

Antonio Cacehio is serving a sentence for petty larceny at the county jail, but this did not prevent his wedding. His sweetheart, Donato Alpierl, appeared at the jail this afternoon with Rev. John Zarelli of St. Peter's Catholic church, and became Mrs. Antonio Cacelio. Then she returned to her home in the West end and Antonio went back to his cell, but it will be only a few days until he regains his freedom, and the honeymoon will then be taken.

MAN AGAINST BEAST.

New York Tribune: The conflict between man and wild beast in India continues to be waged on an increasingly tremendous scale. Year by year the number of savage or noxious animals slaughtered by men increases, and year by year the number of human beings who fall prey to such creatures also increases. By far the largest items in both accounts pertain, of course, to snakes, but the doings of many other creatures also figure largely. The grand total of all in 1908 was 21,904 persons killed by beasts and 22,662 beasts killed by men. In 1909 the deaths were 23,860 human beings and 105,859 animals, and in 1910 they were respectively 24,878 and 110,386.

It is of interest to note that last year only 23 wild elephants were killed, while 55 persons were killed by them; the figures in both cases being about the average for some years past. Hyenas killed 25 persons, presumably chiefly children, while 414 of the beasts were slain. The "gray brothers" of Mowgli are still numerous and destructive, for 319 persons were killed by them, while 3,114 wolves were killed. Bears killed 109, and themselves were killed to the number of 2,292. Leopards were charged with the deaths of 351 persons, and 5,029 of them were slain. The balance between the number of human and animal victims was closest in the case of tigers, for while only 1,421 of those dreaded marauders were killed, they killed no fewer than 853 human beings. As for snakes, 19,586 of them were killed, and the appalling number of 22,471 persons fell victims to their venom.

These are the statistics of a country which is still only partly civilized, and of which half is largely covered with overgrown with savage jungle and forest. It would be instructive to compare them with the statistics of disease and death in this country which are due to wild creatures of different kinds, the flies and mosquitoes, which are purveyors of agues fevers, typhoid, cholera and other of our deadliest plagues, and which continue to exist and to ply their destructive trades largely through the carelessness, the slovenliness and the willful ignorance of those who tolerate them.

WEST AFRICAN EARTH EATERS.

Scientific American: Henry Hubert publishes in the Bulletin du Comitz de l' Afrique Francaise an interesting account of the practice of geophagby in the French Sudan. Although the practice is common in many parts of the world, this particular case is remarkable for the systematic way in which the dirt is collected and for the fact that it occurs in a well cultivated region where food is abundant.

The earth consumed is a clay, which is found intercalated among the grits of the region in beds of various thickness. The deeper layers are preferred and for this reason the natives dig galleries, which are so crudely constructed that falls of earth frequently occur, sometimes with fatal results.

When an unlucky miner is thus buried, no attempt is made to rescue him, as it is believed that the divinities of the mines require an annual victim. It is stated that individuals not infrequently consume seven and a half pounds of clay daily.

In reducing milk to powder, a patented Swiss process evaporates about 85 per cent of the water at a temperature of 50 to 60 deg. C. The milk is then exposed four seconds in a layer of an eighth or a quarter of an inch in depth on a surface heated to 105 deg. The second heating removes 9 or 10 per cent of the remaining water, and the resulting milk powder is not only sterile, but the albumen is not coagulated.

MISS STONE RETURNS TO MISSIONARY POST

—Copyright by Purdy.

MISS ELLEN M. STONE.

Helen Stone is returning to Turkey as a missionary. Ten years ago, while she was a missionary in Bulgaria, she was held for ransom to the disgust of the state department, which was obliged to go to her rescue. The government at Washington was distinctly hopeful that Miss Stone had had enough and that she would retire from the public eye.

HANGS HIMSELF TO GAS PIPE

Peter McAlpine Takes His Own Life in Portland, Or.

Peter McAlpine, who formerly lived in Duluth with his family at 122 North Sixth avenue west, was found dead in the cellar of his residence at Portland, Or., yesterday, having hung himself to a gas pipe. Despondency over the fact that he had lost $3,500 in a lumber deal which he considered crooked and because he had drawn his last money from a Portland bank in the morning, is given as the cause of the man's action. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

When in Duluth, Mr. McAlpine was in partnership with William Quinn in the lumber business. Last October Mr. McAlpine left with his family to take up his residence in Portland.

CHANGES ON THE GOPHER

About $10,000 Will Be Spent for Improvements This Year.

Improvements and alterations, costing approximately $10,000, will be made on the U. S. S. Gopher, training ship of the Minnesota naval militia, this winter. The ship now lies at Grignon's shipyard, where the changes will be made.

At a meeting of the officers of the militia today the changes to be made were determined upon. The main deck will be extended out from the pilot house, making quarters for about fifty additional men. New ventilating systems will be installed in the boiler and engine rooms and also in the forward berth deck. The bridge will be rebuilt and other minor changes made so as to bring the ship right up to the minute in efficiency. Two motor boats will also be furnished.

The boathouse now under construction on Park Point is nearing completion. It will be the base of the new militia next year. Stalls are being built for boats; there will be a comfortable clubhouse and membership in the naval militia will mean much more than heretofore.

The two divisions are busy this winter making the most of indoor work. The First division, under Lieut. Smith, drills each Monday evening, and the Second division, under Lieut. Hugo, drills every Friday evening. The four-pound gun, equipped with a ping pong arrangement for indoor target practice, is in place in the Armory and will be used for target practice during the winter months.

ON TRIAL FOR BURNING BRIDGE

Mike Medinich, charged with setting fire to a wagon bridge at Commonwealth avenue, New Duluth, on the night of May 28, 1911, was placed on trial in municipal court this afternoon. The offense charged is a misdemeanor. Mike Belatovich, the complaining witness, was the first witness on the stand. He testified that he saw Medenich set fire to the bridge and then run into the woods.

PROFESSIONAL POISONERS.

Arsenic as means of procuring the death of one's enemies has a long history. In the fourteenth century it was a favorite instrument of the professional poisoners, Charles the Wicked recommended it to one of his agents, "Go thou to Paris," he directed, "do what I tell thee and I will reward thee well. There is a thing which is called sublimed arsenic. "If a man eat a bit the size of a pea he will never survive.

"Take it and powder it; and then thou shalt be in the house of the king, of the Count de Valois his brother, the Dukes of Berry, Borgundy and Bourbon, dear and beake thyself to the kitchen, to the larder, to the cellar, or any other place where thy point can be best gained, and put the powder in the soups, meats or wines, provided thou canst do it secretly; otherwise do it not."

Two great criminal schools arose from the moral chaos of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries in Venice and other parts of Italy, when even the state itself sometimes approved of secret assassination by poison. Foremost in the use of drugs thus used was arsenic, says American Medicine. There is a mass of data relating to these Italian poisoners.

They became famous for their knowledge of poisons as well as by the notoriety which came to them from their associations with the fiendish Tofana. She was the inventor of one of the most destructive and most subtle poisons of the period, aqua Tofana.

This famous murderess, a Sicilian by birth, in her early years had resided at Palermo, where she was known to have delved into the mysteries of poisons. Later she went to live in Naples, and by the exercise of her profession she made such a name for herself that history will never forget it.

This woman's poison, the aqua Tofana, was distributed by her especially to young married women desirous of ridding themselves of their spouses. The better to conceal the nature of her potions she put it up in small vials marked "Manna of St. Nicholas of Bari," which she ornamented with an image of the saint.

Quickly the fame of this drug spread to Rome. The ladies of the imperial city availed themselves of its use to get rid of obnoxious husbands or to make way for others more acceptable in life. So many young husbands died in Rome that an investigation was started by the authorities of the city, which resulted in the discovery of a society of young matrons banded together for the purpose of poisoning their husbands. These women were under the direction of one Hieronyma Spara, a pupil of Tofana. Spara and many of her society were put to death after confessing, under torture, to numerous crimes.

In a letter to Hoffman, Garelli, the physician to Charles the Sixth of Austria, writes that his sovereign informed him that while governor of Naples, during the trial of Tofana, he had an opportunity of examining the documents of the case and that he found from them aqua Tofana to be crystallized arsenic in water. The symptoms of the poisoning by this solution as recorded by Hoffman correspond in detail to symptoms of arsenic poisoning.

From Italy this poison found its way into France, where in 1670 there was another era of secret poisoning by arsenic. This time its perpetrator was not one of the lower class, but an intimate of the court of Louis XIV., Maria Margaret, Marquise de Brinvilliers. An educated daughter of Captain of the Court Guard, married to an overindulgent husband who would not suspect her fidelity, she fell a ready victim to the wiles of a villainous soldier, Jean Baptiste de Gauden, Seigneur de St. Croix.

While incarcerated in the Bastille he was taught the preparation of poison by a state prisoner named Elli. After his release from confinement he took to professional poisoning as a means of filling his coffers with gold. He was killed instantly by the fumes of a poison he was preparing. His domination over the Marquise seems to have been absolute, and she became a zealous accomplice and an adept pupil of his wickedness.

Among St. Croix's goods confiscated by the state was found poison enough to kill the entire community, together with many documents incriminating the Marquise, who fled to England to escape arrest. After she had been enticed back to France she was put on trial, was convicted, and on July 16, 1676, was beheaded for her crimes. Among her papers was found one giving a complete confession of her criminal actions.

Not content with killing her entire family to gain funds with which to meet the extravagant tastes of St. Croix she even went so far as to assume the habit and duties of a nun, so that she might, under the protection which that dress afforded her, administer her poisons to the poor and to the afflicted at the Hotel Dieu simply to tell the strength of her concoction. The drug used by her and by St. Croix was arsenic.

Officials of one of the great London underground railways are about to install a system by which eighty million cubic feet of ozonized air will be pumped into the tube stations and tunnels every day.

SURPRISING MOVEMENTS

Wheat Sags in Spite of Foreign Demand and Bullish Cables.

Higher Flaxseed at Buenos Ayres Makes Duluth Seed Sell Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 3.—In the face of bullish news, wheat closed lower today at Duluth and on other leading North American markets. Late in the day the Chicago crowd began selling wheat and there was a sudden slump that affected markets on all parts of the continent. Early in the day, wheat acted as might have been expected from the news that was at hand, and showed good gains.

Duluth May wheat closed at a decline of ¾c. Cash closed at the May price. Durum closed ¾c off, corn ¼c off, barley 2c up and oats and rye unchanged. January flax closed ¾c up and May 1¼c up.

The wheat markets of Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago cut up some queer capers late in the morning. All the news seemed to be bullish, when they suddenly reacted from the strong upward movement they all had during the early part of the day, and took a slump that carried them below the closing prices of yesterday. Whether this was due to manipulation, sudden profit-taking or to some other cause, none of the Duluth brokers cared to express an opinion, but they freely predicted that the markets would again go up tomorrow in consequence of the very evident bullish factors that have been operating upon them.

Reports of great damage to wheat in the fields in Argentina by black rust, especially in the province of Buenos Ayres, was the principal bearish factor of the day. Buenos Ayres wheat closed last night with January at an advance of ⅞c and February ⅝c up. This morning the same market opened with wheat ⅝c higher for January delivery and ⅜c up for February delivery. Liverpool wheat closed ½@¾d higher. Not only the Argentine news but light Platte and Manitoba offers, firm American offers and a good Continental demand stiffened up the price on that market. Primary wheat receipts of America were about the same as a year ago, but away behind those of a week ago. Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.07, opened this morning at $1.07⅛ and then began an upward movement that gave promise of a very bullish day. But some mysterious cause brought about a sudden reaction and at noon it was selling at $1.06¼@1.06⅜.

Flax Is Strong.

Flax was bulled by reports of higher price at Buenos Ayres on account of the lateness of the crop and long-continued bad weather for thrashing in Argentina. Buenos Ayres anuary flax closed last night at the very high price of $2.12⅝ being 2¾c up. This morning it opened at a further advance of 1¼c. American crushers, especially those of the East, are not inclined to buy on the basis of the present high prices at Buenos Ayres. Most of them still entertain hopes of a break in that market. This is true especially of the Eastern American crushers. Hence, the upward movement at Buenas Ayres does not bull flax at Duluth as it would if the American crushers had no hope of lower prices at Buenos Ayres in the near future. Nevertheless, Duluth January at noon today had gained ¾c and May 1c over yesterday's close.

Broomhall wired from Liverpool: "The wheat market responded to lighter offers and opened firm, with prices ¼@⅜d higher than yesterday, and following the opening further advanced ⅛@¼d, with shorts nervous. Buying was stimulated by the firmness in Buenos Ayres yesterday and the scarcity of Plata offers. American offers were firmer and Manitobas were offered lighter, with a good demand here for low-grade Manitobas. Spot market was generally ½d decided at the opening, with an increased demand from the continent for cargoes arriving. During the morning there was some little profit-taking by scalpers on a late advice from Argentina of hot weather, but generally the undertone was one of firmness, with prices at 1:30 p. m. ⅜@½d higher than yesterday.

"The corn market was dull and unchanged.

"The Buenos Ayres market closed firm and ⅝@¾c higher, thus showing a net advance of 1⅛c for the day. Shorts covered on the forecast of unfavorable weather, deferred movement and unfavorable crop advices, figures regarding the exportable surplus being reduced. There is a good demand from foreigners.

"Our agent cabled late last night that the weather was fine and hot.

"Some apprehension is being felt here ragarding future supplies. Foreigners have deferred buying, hoping to secure at a concession, but the reduction in the Argentine surplus has caused firmness among holders, and there is generally more inquiry."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Goes Above Dollar Mark on Argentine Export News.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Reduction of the Argentine export surplus lifted wheat today squarely above $1 a bu. In this connection, Liverpool reported shorts nervous and buying stimulated because of firmness at Buenos Ayres, and on account of the general scarcity of offerings. Severe cold and small receipts northwest of Chicago tended also to help the bulls. The opening was ⅛ to ¼c higher. May started at $1.00 to $1.00⅛, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether. A rise to $1.00¼ followed.

Subsequently statements purporting to show that crops in Europe exclusive of Russia made the Argentine shortage unimportant brought about a setback. The clase was easy with May ⅞c net lower at 99½c.

Little corn was sold. May opened a shade to ⅛c up at 63½@63⅞c, and advanced to 63¾c.

Slowness of Eastern demand led afterwards to a reaction, and the close was steady, ⅛@¼c net lower at 63¼@63⅜c.

May oats started ¼c to ¼c higher at 48c to 48⅛c and ascended to 48¼c.

An easier feeling prevailed in the market for hog products. First sales were unchanged to 5c lower, with May $15.87½ to $15.90 for pork, $9.35 to $9.37½ for lard and $8.60 for ribs.

Car lot receipts—Wheat, 28 cars, with 1 of contract grade; corn, 467 cars, with none of contract grade; oats, 127 cars. Total receipts of wheat at Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth today were 190 cars, compared with 492 cars last week, and 231 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Forced to Lower Figures After Strong Opening.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3.—After a strong opening wheat was forced lower on account of lack of support and moderate selling pressure. Pit inactive and trading light. Both May and July closed ¾c lower than yesterday. Local elevator stocks decreased 75,000 bu for four days.

Car lot wheat receipts—Minneapolis today, 126; week ago, 261; year ago, 55. Duluth today, 36; week ago, 154; year ago, 105. Winnipeg today, 305; week ago, 521; year ago, 73.

Cash wheat was firmer today. Demand was excellent and offerings were light. Millers bought freely. No. 1 northern sold for ½@1c above the May contract.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,561 tons. Bran was in good demand, but heavier grades were dull. Prices unchanged.

Wheat—May opened $1.08¾; high, $1.08¼; low, $1.06⅞@1.07; closed, $1.07. July opened $1.09; high, $1.09; low, $1.07¾; closed, $1.07¾.

Closing cash—No. 1 hard, $1.08; No 1 northern, $1.07½; to arrive, $1.07½; No. 2 northern, $1.05@1.07½; to arrive, $1.05½; No. 3 wheat, $1.03@1.03½; No. 3 yellow corn, 60c; No. 3 white oats, 45@45½; No. 2 rye, 88@88½c. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $23.00@23.50.

Flour—Prices were advanced today on account of strength in both futures and spot wheat. Demand continued dull. Shipping directions were slow to fair. Shipments, 81,012 bbl. First patents, $5.20@5.50; second patents, $4.80@5.10; first clears, $3.60@3.95; second clears, $2.50@2.90.

Flax—Receipts, 10 cars, year ago 1; shipments, 12. Demand good for spot flax at ½c below Duluth January and to arrive at 1c below. Closed, $2.13½; to arrive, $2.13.

Barley—Receipts, 23 cars, year ago 9; shipments, 25. Demand was excellent for all grades of barley today. Offerings were light. Cash barley quoted in a range of 2@5c higher than yesterday. Closing range, 80c@$1.24.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, Jan. 3.—Close: Wheat—Spot, steady; No. 3 Manitoba, 7s 9½d; 7s 3⅞d; July, 7s 4⅝d. Corn—Spot, futures, strong; March, 7s 2¼d; May, steady; American mixed new, 6s 3d; American mixed old, 6s 7d; futures, steady; January, 5s 8¾d; February, 5s 8d.

New York Grain.

New York, Jan. 3.—Wheat—May, $1.03½@1.03⅝; July, 99¾c.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 3.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 3@9 points, in response to the firm showing of the English spot market, continued support of the leading spot houses, covering of shorts and fresh buying for long account.

Offerings were very heavy on the advance, however, owing to reselling by old bears, while it also seemed that the high prices were attracting renewed selling by the South. The market eased off shortly after the opening, and during the middle of the morning was within a point or two of last night's closing figures.

Futures closed barely steady; bids: January, 9.06; February, 9.06; March, 9.14; April, 9.19; May, 9.27; June, 9.32; July, 9.39; August 9.41; September, 9.47; October, 9.52; November, 9.55; December, 9.57.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Is Given Decided Setback By Heavy Realizing Sales.

Nearly All Well Known Stocks Drop and Close Is Weak.

New York, Jan. 3.—Most of the important stocks rose fractionally on the opening transactions today. The active stocks continued to be in brisk demand. This was particularly true of the coalers, and Lehigh Valley advanced 3 points and Reading a point. The copper stocks rose briskly and International Mercantile Marine preferred recovered ⅝ of its recent loss. Union Pacific was the only one of the important stocks to show any heaviness, and its loss was restricted to a small fraction. American Can preferred lost 1½.

United States Steel had reached 69⅞ and other active features were up smartly when profit-taking sales began to appear. Lehigh Valley reacted 1⅛ and Reading, Union Pacific, and St. Paul 1. The decline sent some stocks fractionally below yesterday's close.

Heavy realizing sales gave the stock market a decided setback today after an early advance. The Harriman stocks were the weak features among the leaders, being depressed by reports of further labor troubles on the Southern Pacific.

United States Steel gave way from 69⅞ to 68¾, with one block of 5,000 shares and another of 4,200 changing hands. Nearly all of the well known stocks sold under yesterday's closing figures. Recent strong features weakened materially, especially Interborough-Metropolitan preferred and Great Northern ore certificates, which sagged 1⅜ and 2 points respectively. Bonds were steady.

Lower prices were made when the market became active again, leading broke to 151½, but Union Pacific and United States Steel did not increase their loss much. Copper stocks were more active, American Smelting giving way 1¾. St. Paul sold off 1 point and Lehigh Valley retained only about one-third of its early jump of over 3 points.

The market closed weak. Unusual activity in the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis stocks gave rise to considerable conjecture as to its cause. The common stock advanced 2½ and the preferred 6½, the latter making a 13-point rise in two days. Pacific Telephone also was heavily bought at an improvement of 2 points, but the market otherwise was weak. Union Pacific extended its decline to about 2 points and Amalgamated Copper, Reading and United States Steel showed a loss of half as much.

London Stocks.

London, Jan. 3.—American securities opened steady and about unchanged today. During the first hour the market advanced under the leadership of Canadian Pacific, and at noon prices ranged from ⅛ to 1 point higher than yesterday's closing.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Cold weather has boosted the prices of butter, eggs and poultry. At the same time it has tied up a large portion of the trade of the wholesale produce dealers, as most of the railroads are refusing to accept shipments of goods that are likely to be damaged by freezing. A great deal of trade with the range country has thus been brought to a standstill.

Quotations given below indicate what the retailers pay to the wholesalers, except the hay list, which gives what the farmers receive from the jobbers.

HOUSEKEEPERS

THIS IS FOR YOU!

When you want a tenant for your vacant room, telephone a good ad to The Herald, one that will bring quick results. Here is an example of an ordinary ad:

"FOR RENT—FURNISHED ROOM for gentleman; good location. Telephone Blank 243 X."

"FOR RENT—NICELY FURNISHED room for gentleman. East end, modern home, private, every convenience; use of telephone; one minute from car line, 2 minutes from Third avenue west; $3 per week. Blank 243 X."

Costs a little more than the ordinary ad. Yes: but in nine cases out of ten the results are so much better and quicker that it pays in the end.

RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA WILL COME YET, DECLARES FOSS

He Says Similar Relations Should Be Had With Other Nations.

Massachusetts Governor Enters Upon Second Term in Office.

Advocates Direct Election of Senators and Presidential Primary.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 4.—In entering today for a second term upon the governorship of Massachusetts, Eugene N. Foss, noting that the Canadian Northwest is becoming one of the principal granaries of the world, declared that "We are entitled to a share in this great development, for the port of Boston is the natural port of Canada as much as it is of New England," and to this end he recommended the public ownership of docks and water terminals, and also of railroad terminals if necessary.

Declaring that "the business experience of the country now points to the policy of a lower tariff and reciprocity as the agency most surely conducive to our natural progress." Governor Foss said:

"We shall establish reciprocity with Canada as soon as this principle is approached in its proper relation to general tariff reduction, and in a manner which the common sense of both peoples shall approve. Reciprocal trade relations with other countries, not only on the North and South American continents but also throughout the rest of the world, are equally necessary."

Governor Foss advocated the direct election of United States senators and a law enabling the voters to express their choice for candidates for nomination for president and vice president. He also recommended that the legislature prohibit all participation by corporations in elections.

The governor asked that provision be made for submitting the question of woman suffrage to the voters.

BOY KILLS HIS LITTLE SISTER

Points Gun at Her and Pulls Trigger—Says He Was Playing.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 4.—Six-year-old Anna Baranowski of West Hammond, Ill., is dead today with a bullet through her heart and her brother, Peter, 11 years old, is trying to explain how he shot her.

His little brothers and sisters told the mother that Peter told little Anna to stop crying and pointed a small rifle at her. He pulled the trigger and Anna fell dead. Peter ran from the house and when found later insisted that he only intended to frighten his sister.

COLORADOANS FORM CHAMP CLARK CLUB.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Jan. 4.—The Democrats of El Paso county, Colo., today organized a Champ Clark club, the first in Colorado. The club pledged itself to use every effort to deliver the Colorado delegation to the national convention for Clark.

ECKHOFF IN INDIANAPOLIS

Will Be Important Witness in Dynamite Investigation.

County Grand Jury at Los Angeles Begins Its Work.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4.—Though every effort was made by Detectives today to hide the whereabouts of Frank Eckhoff of Cincinnati, it was understood he was in this city and ready to appear before the federal grand jury to tell his story about men alleged to have been associated with John J. and James B. McNamara and Ortie E. McManigal in dynamiting depredations all over the country.

Eckhoff, confidant of John J. McNamara and a neighbor of the McNamara family in Cincinnati, has been for weeks guarded by Detective William J. Burns' assistants against contact with persons alleged to be interested in sealing his lips.

Is Star Witness.

It is known he is one of the principal witnesses relied on by the government in its efforts to expose groups of men in many cities charged with

COMBINE IS POWERFUL

Probe Into the Great Shipping Trust May Be Ordered.

Trans-Atlantic Pool Fixed Rates and Proportion of Business.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee on rules will begin on Jan. 15 a hearing on the resolution of Representative Humphrey of Washington, directing an investigation into the so-called shipping trust. The resolution has been pending for some time and came near to passage in the Sixty-first congress. The agitation which led to it has been of even longer standing, but it is renewed today with increased vigor because of the approaching completion of the Panama canal and the hope that as a result American shipping may thereby be materially stimulated.

The average traveled American—and for that matter hosts of Americans who would have liked to travel abroad but abandoned the plan after visiting a steamship office—knows that some sort of a close combination exists among the trans-Atlantic lines. It is not mere coincidence that makes the rates of passage on all these lines identical for ships of the same class. Nor is it by chance that, though the number of lines increases and more and bigger ships are being added to the fleets every year, rates of passage

MILLIONAIRE'S SON WORKING IN MINE

Lawrence Brown Pounds Drill to Support Wife and Baby.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 4.—Lawrence Brown, the only son of J. J. Brown, millionaire mine owner and prominent in Denver society, is compelled to pound a drill in a mine at Victor, Colo, in order that his young wife and 5-week-old son may have the necessities of life.

More than a year ago Brown met Miss Aileen Horton, a Kansas City debutante. The two were married and young Brown brought his wife to his father's home. The father did not take kindly to the marriage on account of the youth of the two, and told his son he would have to shift for himself.

Brown went directly to Leadville and several months later he and his wife moved to Victor, where he obtained employment in a mine. Young Brown says he and his family are happy and thoroughly contented and he will not ask his father for support so long as he is able to work.

DETROIT BUILDING DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 4.—The four-story brick building at the corner of West Fort and Fourth streets, occupied by the Chamberlain Metal Weather Strip company, the United States Cap company and one or two smaller concerns, was destroyed by fire early this morning with an estimated loss of $200,000.

Sugar Prices Reduced.

New York, Jan. 4.—All grades of refined sugar were reduced 10 cents a hundred pounds today.

MANY MOURN "BOB" EVANS

Popular Admiral Dies Suddenly at National Capital.

Acute Indigestion Causes Death—Fought in Two Wars.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Most of official Washington did not learn until today of the sudden demise last evening of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, retired. It caused a great shock, and many were the expressions of sorrow and of sympathy for the aged wife and family of the brave old sailor. By telegraph and by mail came condolences, and many high officials of both the army and navy, besides other prominent officials, called at the family residence and left cards.

It had happened that Lieut. Commander Franck T. Evans, the only son of the deceased officer, who was supposed to have sailed yesterday for the West Indies on the torpedo boat destroyer Monaghan, had been detained at Boston and consequently received the telegram despatched to him last night, informing him of his father's death. He caught a night train and reached home this morning.

Capt. Marsh, who married one of Admiral Evans' daughters, was reached by wireless on the battleship Michigan, but was unable to interrupt the cruise to the West Indies and return to Washington.

Funeral arrangements were well advanced today. There will be services

EXHUME BODY OF CHARLES MORROW

Accused Widow's Attorneys Get Court to Issue Order.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Interesting developments were promised today in the investigation of the death of Charles B. Morrow, the inventor, who was found shot to death on the porch of his Michigan avenue home.

On an order by Circuit Judge George Kersten, the body is to be exhumed and a new autopsy held at Rose Hill cemetery. The court order was at the request of counsel for Mrs. Morrow, who has been accused by the police of firing the shots which caused her husband's death.

Morrow was found, shot to death, on the rear porch of his home. Mrs. Morrow said she heard shots, but had feared her husband would end his life because he had threatened to do so. She said she had not seen him since the night before.

Neighbors, however, told the police Morrow and his wife had quarreled at a late hour; that they had frequently quarrelled. A maid in an affidavit said the Morrows' domestic life had been unpleasant; that Morrow was made to remain in one room and had no key to the house, which with other property, belonged to Mrs. Morrow by reason of a pre-nuptial agreement between the 52-year-old inventor and his wife, 32 years old; that Mrs. Morrow and a roomer at the place had been on intimate terms.

DENIES THAT N. P. HAS BEEN GOBBLED UP

Louis W. Hill Says Northwestern Road Has Not Secured Control.

Brands Rumor Current in Railroad Circles as Fairy Story.

Northern Pacific Is More Likely to Do the Absorbing.

Following the banquet given in his honor last evening at the Spalding hotel, Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, and one of the largest stockholders in the Northern Pacific, emphatically denied that the Chicago & Northwestern road had secured control of the Northern Pacific.

The rumor has been current in railroad circles for months. It probably arose from the fact that the Northern Pacific road is now running its coast trains from Chicago through St. Paul, using the Northwestern road from Chicago to St. Paul. It was quite generally believed in railroad circles that this meant that the Northwestern road had secured a controlling interest in the Northern Pacific, for the purpose of fighting its most powerful rival, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road.

But Mr. Hill denied this last evening. "That is a fairy tale," said Mr. Hill, when questioned regarding it. "There is no truth in it. It would be more reasonable to suppose that the Northern Pacific had absorbed the Northwestern, if you were getting up stories like that. It is not with any intention of boasting that I make this statement, but if you were in St. Paul, I could show you some figures on this point that would open your eyes. No, that is a fairy story."

Mr. Hill was asked if he had anything to add to the statements he had made at the banquet, regarding the Great Northern's plans.

"No, I guess I have said too much already," he replied smiling. "I guess I talked so long they were all ready for me to quit when I got through."

SCORE IN FIRE PERIL.

Chicago Firemen Carry Women and Children to Safety.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Twenty men, women and children were trapped in a four-story brick building today by a fire which broke out after attempts had been made to thaw frozen water pipes. Firemen carried a number of women and children to safety after volunteers had rescued those on the lower floors. Three men carrying children to the ground fell when the ladder they were on broke. None was severely injured, and the fire was extinguished with small loss.

Big Dock Launched.

Porto Cabello, Venzuela, Jan. 4.—The fourth and last section of the big steel floating dock which is under construction for the Venezuelan government by an American contractor was launched here successfully today.

MERCURY IS BEARISH

Goes Down to 24 Below With No Recovery in Sight.

Eight Die of Cold in Kansas, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

There will be no break in the present cold spell for at least forty-eight hours, according to the prediction made this morning by Forecaster H. W. Richardson of the weather bureau.

During the night and early morning, the thermometer hovered around the 24 below mark and this morning at 10:30 o'clock there had been no appreciable rise in the temperature, as the mercury at that time registered 22 deg. below.

Brisk winds, having a velocity of about thirty miles an hour will probably prevail tonight. Forecaster Richardson says that he can offer but little consolation to those who are looking for warmer weather today or tomorrow.

Dog By Master's Corpse.

Netss City, Kan., Jan. 4.—The howling of a dog led to the discovery near this city today of the body of S. E. Taylor, a farmer, who had fallen from his wagon on the way to market and frozen to death by the roadside.

Taylor's team was found by farmers yesterday wandering about the country. A searching party was organized. They had traveled over miles of drifted country roads when they came upon Taylor's dog, shivering beside the snow covered body of his master. Taylor is survived by a widow and five small children.

At least five persons are known to have frozen to death in this section

NICARAGUA BANK IN CONNECTICUT

Will Have Power to Issue Notes and Coin Metal Money.

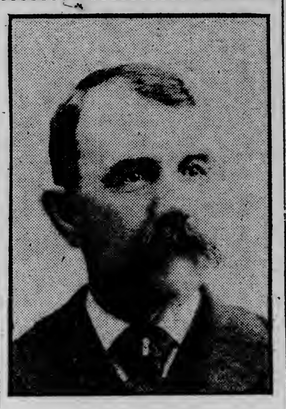

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 4.—The National Bank of Nicaragua Inc., has filed a certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state. By the provisions of the certificate the company has the right to be and to act as the fiscal and disbursing agent of the Republic of Nicaragua and to be the depository of the government funds of the republic; to put into effect and maintain a plan for a currency system in the republic; to issue bank notes in accordance with the plan; to coin money in gold, silver, or such other metals as the republic may decide upon, and to transact other financial business for that government.

The capital stock authorized is $5,000,000 and the incorporators are James Brown and Frederick Strauss of New York and T. M. Brown of Locust, N. J.

While Hartford is to be the home city of the bank, it is provided that the institution shall not have the power to transact any banking business in Connecticut.

ALBION BANKER AND SON ADMIT FORGING NOTES FOR $165,000

SAYS HE KNEW MAINE WAS TO BE BLOWN UP

A. C. BRICE.

Washington, Jan. 4.—A. C. Brice, consul at Matanzas, Cuba, in 1897, says that he notified the Havana consulate of the plot to blow up the Maine two days before the disaster. His informant was a former Spanish officer no longer connected with the Spanish army. Mr. Brice says he kept the fact that he had been warned of the intention to destroy the Maine from becoming public at the request of President McKinley.

"It's Leavenworth Prison for Me," Says H. M. Dearing.

Aged Michigan Man Says Depositors Can Have No Hope.

He Surrenders With His Son to the Federal Authorities.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 4.—"It's Leavenworth prison for me, and the sooner the better," said H. M. Dearing, the aged Albion banker, as he prepared to leave for Detroit today with his son, Palmer M. Dearing, in custody of a United States marshal. Father and son have confessed forgeries amounting to $165,000 that resulted in the closing of Albion National bank last Tuesday.

"Is there any hope for the depositors?" the elder prisoner was asked.

For an instant the man appeared on the verge of breaking down, then he choked back the tears and replied:

"No, none at all."

Deposits Were $265,748.

The total resources and liabilities of the bank, according to its report to the comptroller of the currency on Dec. 5 last, amounted to $293,927. Loans and discounts were $248,299;

MILES TELLS ABOUT POOLS

Former Armour Manager Is Questioned in Packers' Trial.

Proves Less Willing Than Government Had Anticipated.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—William D. Miles, formerly general manager of the Armour Packing company at Kansas City, continued his story of the operations of the old packers' pools this morning when the trial of the ten Chicago packers charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law was resumed before United States District Judge George A. Carpenter.

The government is preparing to introduce a mass of documentary evidence in support of its contention that the packers violated the law by fixing the price of fresh meat and apportioning the volume of business on a non-competitive basis. Most of this evidence consists of letters sent out by the alleged combination of packers at different times.

It is expected that the examination of Miles will not be concluded until late in the day.

The government may call Ferdinand Sulzberger of Schwarzchild & Sulz-

TERRE HAUTE BANKER SHORT

State Institution Is Closed and Receiver Will Be Named.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 4.—With the statement that W. H. Taber, president of the American State bank, is short in his accounts $25,000 and that the bank has made loans on worthless securities amounting to $20,000 more, the state banking department today closed the institution. A receiver will be appointed.

ITALIANS SHELL TURKISH CAMP

Field Guns From Red Sea Station Reply to the Fire.

Hodeidah, Arabia, Jan. 4—The Italian crusers Piemonte and Puglia, which form part of the Italian fleet cruising in the Red Sea on the lookout for vessels carrying Turkish troops or contraband of war to Turkish ports, yesterday shelled the Turkish military encampment at Djabana, where a large force of Turkish troops is stationed.

No casualties are reported on the Italian side, although the Turks replied to the bombardment with field guns.

LA FOLLETTE MEN GATHER

Minnesota Progressive Republicans Meet in Minneapolis.

Louis D. Brandeis Chief Speaker—Senator Is in Illinois.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, prominent in the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy, as the chief speaker of the day, the Minnesota Progressive Republican league today is celebrating the first anniversary of its founding. The celebration here today, at which prominent Progressives from all parts of the state are expected, is considered also as the opening of the presidential campaign in Minnesota of Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin.

Three meetings are scheduled for today, at all of which Mr. Brandeis is scheduled to make addresses. The first will be the luncheon at 1 o'clock of the Saturday Lunch club, which will be followed by a meeting of the Progressive League executive committee. The principal meeting is to be held this evening, with Senator J. M. Hackney of

DISCUSSION ON THE INVESTMENT OF THE FIRST $1,000 OPENS BRISKLY

Replies to New Contest Inaugurated By Herald Come in Early.

Many Offer Advice to Man Who Wants That Commodity.

It already looks like a busy time for the contest editor as answers to the new contest launched yesterday have already begun to pour in.

The subject for discussion is a live one and that is probably responsible for the interest which has already been manifested in the contest.

Opinions differ widely of course. In the first batch of answers, of which three are published today, one contestant urges that the man with his first $1,000 to invest it in a fruit farm, another advies going into business, while a third, who appears to be more conservative, would have the first thousand converted into United States bonds.

Three of the letters received since yesterday are as follows:

W. F. Stephenson, 1627 West First street — In answer to "How Shall I Invest My First $1,000?" I would advise: Buy ten acres of fruit land in Oregon. It will cost $3,000 and can be paid on easy payments. That will include the cost of planting the fruit trees and cultivating for three years. The interest is small on the unpaid principal. Hold the position you have and at the end of five years you will have a bearing orchard in a fine climate and, also, a good income and you can take things easy the rest of your life and put a nice bank roll away each year.

This is no gamble or game of chance of any kind, but an actual fact which can be easily proven by a little investigating.

Max Oreckovsky, 527 West Superior street—There's an old saying that one can't profit by someone else's experience, but can only profit by one's own experience, still, I believe there are many people who are anxious and willing to follow the example of those who have succeeded, in different pursuits of life, even in a small degree. With that belief in mind, I will give a brief account of what I did with my first $1,000, which amount was saved out of my earnings, from the time I entered the business world at the age of 14 and until I was 20 years of age, at which time I decided to engage in business for myself. After securing the necessary location, I followed up the line of business in which I had the most experience, and have never since regretted the step I took. On the contrary, I am satisfied that I have done better by engaging in business for myself, than I could have done working for others.

Now, as to the man of 35 with his $1,000, I would advise him to engage in a business in which he had some experience, or if he had no business experience, to select a business which looked best to him. It wouldn't take long to get the experience if one kept at it. An advantageous location should be secured. It need not be very large to start with, and if one does fairly well, he should stick to the same location, as only by doing so would he derive the greatest benefit of any good business period which might come along at any time. And if there is only one good year out of five, which is about the average in this country, and he could just about break even in the other four, he would still be far ahead of the man working for a salary. It is hard to tell in advance which is to be the good business year. For the reason those who are in the game constantly are bound to reap the benefit of it when it does come.

I believe this would solve the problem for the man with a $1,000, by keeping him constantly employed for himself and would also be the means of taking good care of his family.

If my letter should win a prize, I will donate it to the Children's Home Society of Duluth.

Harvey Erickson, 432 South Twenty-first avenue east—In answer to your question in The Herald of the man having saved $1,000 and knowing not what to do with it, I would advise him to invest his $1,000 in United States bonds because they bear good interest and never fail. This would suit him best I think because he could help his family through life with the interest which comes annually or quarterly. If he goes into business he might fail but the United States bond never fails. So my opinion is that the United States bond is the best way for him to invest his $1,000, because when he gets old he can draw his money out and he will not need to starve or go to the poor farm.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

For the next best answer The Herald will give a prize of $5.

For the third best answer The Herald will give a prize of $3.

LEWISMEN TO HOLD BANQUET

Natives of Island Will Gather for Dinner, Songs and Speeches.

The Isle of Lewis, Scotland, will be toasted in speech and song at a Duluth gathering of her native sons and daughters Friday evening.

The Lewis society of which there are a number of members in this city, has aranged for a banquet and program. The affair will be held at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street.

Only those who are natives of the island are admitted to membership in the society.

Following the dinner, a sketch and a musical program will be given. D. M. Morrison, president, will deliver the annual welcome address. Alex Macrae will toast "The Land of Our Birth" and Simon Clark will pay his respects to "The Land of Our Adoption." Other toasts assigned are "Absent Friends," Norman MacKenzie; "Our Guests," A. G. Macauley and "The Ladies," John G. Ross.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

The boys' department, Y. M. C. A., members enjoyed a skating party at the Duluth Curling club this morning. The rink was turned over to the club and a most enjoyable time was spent. This afternoon at 1:30 the newsboys were guests at the boys' department. At 4:30 the intermediate gymnasium class will have a regular class and games, after which they will have their first annual dinner. In the evening there will be basket ball and an evening of fun in the gymnasium.

Friday will conclude the special program that has been on for the past two weeks.

SERIOUSLY ILL IN CALIFORNIA

H. H. Hoyt in Critical Condition in San Diego—Daughter Summoned.

Judge H. H. Hoyt, the well-known Duluth attorney, is critically ill at San Diego, Cal., according to a message received by George M. Smith from Mrs. Hoyt this morning.

Judge Hoyt has gangrene of the leg, and a very critical operation will be necessary. It is feared that he will not survive, and his daughter, living at Spokane, and Mrs. Hoyt's brother from New York, have been summoned to San Diego. Mr. Smith's brother, Theodore Smith, who lives at San Diego, is with the Hoyt family.

Judge Hoyt has an interesting personality. At considerable personal sacrifice to himself he conducted a fight of many years' duration on behalf of squatters on land claimed by the Northern Pacific railroad under indemnity scrip. He was active in the fight up to the time his health failed, so that he was forced to seek the warmer climate.

Trying Cuyuna Man.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Hill of Cuyuna, accused of stabbing a Finn in a fight at Cuyuna, is being tried in the district court. He is charged with assault in the first degree. A jury is considering the case of David Cluff of Watertown, accused of shooting a man in a quarrel over a calf.

FORGAN TO SPEAK HERE

National Monetary Reform Plans to Be Explained to Business Men.

Meeting at Commercial Club Jan. 11 Called By Citizens' League.

The need of monetary reform and the suggested plans for bringing it about will be fully explained to Duluth business men by David R. Forgan of Chicago, who wil speak at a meeting to be held at the Commercial club Thursday evening, Jan. 11.

The meeting will be under the auspices of the Citizens' league of Minnesota, which was recently organized as a branch of the National Citizens' league. F. A. Patrick is one of the vice presidents of the Minnesota organization and is deeply interested in its work.

Mr. Forgan, who is to make the address here, is well known in Duluth, as he lived here some years ago. He is a monetary expert of national reputation and is one of the best speakers on the subject of monetary reform yet to appear before the public.

The Citizens' league is not committed to any one plan of reform, but has outlined the reforms which it wishes to bring about and is conducting a campaign to obtain legislation which will effect the changes desired. It is composed of business men, who are interested in monetary matters as they affect the business of the country, and stability of business is the end they wish to bring about.

The plan of the meeting here has not yet been determined upon. It will probably take the form of a business men's dinner.

INDIANS WANT THEIR SHARE

Three Members of Chippewa Tribe on Way to Washington.

Charles A. Wakefield, William H. Lyons and Dave Burnoway, a delegation representing the Indians in the vicinity of Bena, Cass county, and Ball Club, Itasca county, passed through Duluth last night on their way to Washington, where they will present a claim to the Indian bureau on behalf of the Indians on the Chippewa reservation and White Oak Point. They belong to the same band as the White Earth Indians, who have received lands and money from the government during the past forty-five years. The Indians represented by the delegation have never received any aid from the government, and they claim they are justly entitled to a share of the timber money and the proceeds of the Chippewa lands. They will interview Congressman Miller when they reach Washington, and seek his assistance in presenting their claims to the Indian bureau.

BILL CUTS STEEL DUTY

Carpenters' Tools Affected By Agreement in House Committee.

Washington, Jan. 4.—A bill making a general reduction of from 30 to 35 per cent on all steel and iron duties of the present Payne-Aldrich tariff law was agreed upon by a house ways and means sub-committee today. The bill would add to the free list carpenters' tools and other articles of ordinary use among consumers.

LA FOLLETTE IS TAKEN ILL

Senator Is Victim of Ptomaine Poisoning During His Tour.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 4.—Still suffering from the effects of ptomaine poisoning, which attacked him late last night, Senator Robert M. La Follette spoke for half an hour here today in a crowded theater.

The senator arrived here in care of physicians. He was taken at once to a hotel and given treatment by the physicians before they would allow him to start his speech-making. Walter Clyde Jones and Hugh Magill, Progressive candidates for Illinois offices, held the crowd until the presidential aspirant arrived.

After his brief speech, he and his party left on a special trolley car for Morris and other down-state towns.

OPPOSE CUT IN DUTY ON SUGAR

Wisconsin Society of Equity Sends Resolutions to Congressmen.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 4.—A protest in the former of resolutions against the reduction of the import duty on raw sugar was sent today to the Wisconsin delegation in congress by the executive board of the Wisconsin union, American Society of Equity.

The resolutions recite the desirability of the growing of sugar beets on Wisconsin farms and declare a reduction in the present duty on sugar would tend to destroy the beet sugar industry in the United States.

1912 GIVES STAR GAZERS GREAT OPPORTUNITIES FOR ENJOYMENT

Yesterday, the earth was nearer the sun than it will be at any other time during the year. On July 4 at 6 p. m., astronomers say, the earth will be the greatest distance away from the sun. The difference between the two distances is 3,102,000 miles.

The year 1912, to those who take pleasure in watching the sky will be a most interesting one. The ever changing and beautiful contellations will alone afford an inexhaustible field for study even for those who possess but a small telescope.

Astronomers have also stated that there will be no single night of the entire year, that there will not be at least two bright planets in a favorable position for observation and that during more than half of the year, the three brightest will be shining in the evening sky.

During 1912, there will be no less than four eclipses—two of the sun and one of the moon. The first eclipse will be of the moon and will be invisible to North Americans. The second will be that of the sun and will occur on April 17. The second eclipse of the moon, which will be visible to Duluthians will take place on Sept. 26 and the second total eclipse of the sun will occur on Oct. 10.

In January, both the evening and morning skies are beautiful. In the morning the two bright planets of Venus and Jupiter may be seen. The swiftly moving Mercury may also be detected in the dawn towards the southeast.

No More Arrests.

There was no developments yesterday in the matter of making a third arrest in the case of the death of Miss Lizzie Carlin, for which Dr. J. G. Barnesdale and Mrs. George Young have already been arrested, charged with manslaughter. Mrs. Young yesterday secured her release on $1,000 bonds furnished by George Thorpe and Chris Nelson. Dr. Barnesdale furnished $3,000 bail Wednesday.

Separate Reports.

Inability to reach a mutual agreement as to the erection of an addition and the making of several repairs at the Matt Carpenter school by members of the building and sites committee, resulted yesterday in a request by the school authorities to have each member of the committee submit a separate report.

Work on New Bridge.

Work on the erection of the new unloading bridge contemplated by the Northwestern Fuel company at its St. Louis bay dock will begin at once. The contract is in the hands of the Heyl-Patterson company of Pittsburg and the officers plan to start active work within the next month. The estimated cost of the bridge is $50,000.

Lodges Install Officers.

Despit cold weather a large number attended the joint installation of officers held last evening by the Sons of Norway and the Daughters of Norway lodges at the former's hall. An interesting program was given in connection with the exercises in commemoration of the fifth anniversary of the foundation of the local order of the Daughters of Norway.

Mayor Suggests Farm.

To clear about 1,000 acres of land owned by the city and known as the Stinson land, thereby givin employment to many men at a nominal salary, and in addition considering the advisability of establishig a municipal farm, was the proposition submitted by Mayor Crumpton to the city council last evening at its regular meeting.

Mrs. Glonek Gets Verdict.

Mrs. Theresa Glonek was yesterday awarded a verdict of $1,500 against the Omaha road for injuries which she and her child received when run down at an unprotected grade crossing over the tracks. She sued for $10,000 claiming that she and her child were ill for six weeks following the accident.

Commercial Club Caterer.

The board of directors of the Superior Commercial club yesterday authorized the chairman of the house committee to secure a caterer for the organization. A first-class man will be secured.

No More Money Needed.

Out of the $40,000 which the city was recently authorized to borrow to meet current expenses only $20,000 has been borrowed, although the fourth month of the fiscal year has just started. It will not be necessary to add to this amount as the amount received from the state as its share of the street railway tax and the various taxes collected in December will meet all expenses that come due during the balance of the year.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MINNESOTA POLITICS

In an interview given to a Minneapolis newspaper, Harold Knutson, who has been associated with Alvah Eastman on the St. Cloud Journal-Press, stated that Mr. Eastman would shortly announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congressman-at-large. The announcement may be taken as authentic, for Mr. Knutson has been as close as anybody to the St. Cloud editor.

The Eastman boom was started in a small way as a compliment to the St Cloud man. The press of the state took it up and Mr. Eastman was showered with encomiums. At first he would not consider the boom seriously, but now he sees that there is a real demand on the part of his friends for his nomination and he will probably make a fight for it, if a fight should be necessary.

The slate-makers have bowed to the inevitable, apparently, and have decided to put Mr. Eastman on the ticket if the slate can be jammed through the convention. Mr. Eastman has not always run according to machine rules, but he has been a consistent Republican and his nomination would put a temporary quietus on Ripley Brower's ambitions toward the governorship, for Mr. Brower also makes his home in St. Cloud.

State Senator Olai Lende of Canby denies that he authorized the Marshall News-Messenger to announce that he would not be a candidate for the nomination for congressman-at-large Senator Lende is a La Follette adherent and will enter the race with the tag of the Progressive Republican league attached. Should Mr. Eastman and Senator Lende be the only candidates, the reapportionment issue will figure in the fight, for Senator Lende was bitterly opposed to any reapportionment legislation at the last session of the legislature.

There has been little talk of Democratic candidates for congressman-at-large, but it will all come in good time. The Democrats will have a strong man on the ticket and the Republican nominee will be pitted against formidable opposition for the office.

• • •

If the strain of the trip does not cause a change in the plans, Senator La Follette will probably extend his present trip into Minnesota and the Dakotas for about two weeks. The extension will depend upon the senator's physical condition at the end of his present tour, for he has not stood the strain well thus far.

The La Follette movement, which developed early strength in Minnesota, has not continued to gain, although the Progressives in the Twin Cities are busy. A renewal of activity is expected shortly, and meetings will be held in every congressional district to stir up interest in the La Follette cause.

The North Dakota presidential primary will be held in March and if the names of Taft and La Follette have no companions on the ballot, La Follette will carry the state by a big margin. South Dakota is not in the La Follette column by any means, and a few district delegates is the best in sight for the Minnesota Progressives, from present indications.

• • •

State Senator Ole Sageng of Otter Tail county is going to be a candidate for a higher office next year, but he hasn't determined just what it will be. Some of the Progressive Republicans believe that Ole would have a better chance of defeating Senator Knute Nelson under the Keefe law than would James A. Peterson of Minneapolis, who is anxious to make the run. On the other hand, Sageng's friends in the Ninth district want him to take another shy at Congressman Halvor Steenerson by going after the Republican nomination.

Senator Sageng will be in St. Paul next week and will confer with the Progressive leaders. Congressman Steenerson has declared for La Follette and some of the Progressives do not want Sageng to oppose him. They would rather run him for senator. James A. Peterson and his friends offer strenuous objections to such a course. Ole's status will probably be determined next week.

• • •

The Progressives are talking of running James Manahan, the fiery ex-Democrat, for the Republican nomination for attorney general. Manahan had the congressional bee and was figuring some on contesting Fred Stevens' seat, but Hugh T. Halbert has ambitions, and J. A. A. Burnquist may also enter the race for congress.

Manahan is the real fire-eater in the Progressive camp. He will go the limit on the recall of judges and doesn't hesitate to speak his mind on any subject. Some fearful rents are made in the air when he tears loose with his extensive vocabulary and forensic eloquence and he is a great little campaigner.

• • •

The St. Cloud Journal-Press says that the Progressives now hope to get Samuel Lord's consent to be their candidate for governor. A ring of Progressives opposed to Gordon seems determined to get another man into the game, which would certainly give the nomination to Eberhart with hardly a struggle. Gordon seems to be good enough for the rank and file of the Progressives and the leaders are receiving little encouragement in their efforts to stir up opposition to him.

• • •

Governor Eberhart has appointed F. S. Bell of Winona, a wealthy retired lumberman, to succeed Louis W. Hill on the state highway commission. Mr. Bell is an enthusiastic friend of good roads. His appointment distributes the membership of the commission geographically over the state, and it is expected to appease Southern Minnesota people who have been shouting that too much road work is being planned in the northern part of the state. The governor evidently picked a good man for the place, but didn't lose sight of political advantage for a minute.

COAL MEN SWAMPED

Unable to Fill the Orders That Are Pouring In

Twin Cities and Western Towns Are Clamoring for Fuel.

Coal sales, both wholesale and retail, have taken a tremendous jump during the cold spell. There is a sharp demand for coal in the West and in the Twin Cities. This demand is all the more exaggerated, contrasted with the sluggish movement of coal during December.

Added to the difficulties of the local coal companies in filling the heavy demand being made from points west, extending through the Dakotas and past the Montana line, and also including a wall from the Twin Cities, is the fact that switching is doubly hard in the kind of weather being enjoyed at the present time.

A manager of the wholesale department of a local branch of one of the large companies, stated today that the wholesale business of the various Duluth companies was more at the present time than the companies could take care of.

"We have more orders than we can fill," said the manager. "Our difficulties have been increased by the difficulty of switching cars in this kind of weather. We are doing the best we can and are moving a lot of coal.

"We are shipping coal to Dakota and to points further west. There is an unusually heavy demand from the Twin Cities. In December there was a very slow movement. There is plenty of coal on hand, the great difficulty being to fill all of the orders that are pouring in from various points in the quickest possible time."

"It is the old story," said another of the coal men today. "Every season the coal people and the railroad men co-operate in an endeavor to get the various outside people to order their coal early. If this advice was followed there would not be the annual rush to get coal. But in warm weather it has generally been found that people will not order fuel and a cold spell like the present one usually finds many points to be supplied with coal in the shortest possible time."

The local situation differs very little from the demand for coal from outside points. Every wagon or sleigh that can be secured is being pressed into service by the various companies. Extra men are being hired to help to move coal. It is figured by the local dealers that the sales have increased to a daily average of 50 per cent over the average maintained during the Indian summer days, enjoyed up to the present cold spell.

"THE CHRISTIAN" AT THE LYCEUM

Stock Company Presents Dramatized Version of Famous Novel.

A lesson of profound meaning is taught by Hall Caine's play, "The Christian," which was presented at the Lyceum theater yesterday afternoon and evening by Gus A. Forbes and his company, and will be repeated by them on each evening for the remainder of this week and on Saturday afternoon.

The moral is by no means a new one. The strength of the play lies rather in the powerful manner in which its teachings are impressed on the minds of the audience, than from any especial originality in the conception of the plot.

Mr. Forbes handles the star role in a forcible, earnest manner exactly in keeping with the character, which is that of John Storm, a young Catholic priest, who suffers all the agony of being desperately, though hopelessly, in love. His tremendous and finally successful, though often despairing, efforts to rescue the object of his affection from enemies who seek to drag her down to a life of degradation, constitute the central thread of the plot of the play.

The girl whom he thus saves is Glory Quayle, who like many another young woman has been lured from the safe environments of the rural home in which she was raised by the glamour of life in a great city, where she expects to accomplish great things in the fields of music and art. This part is charmingly handled by Miss Corinne Cantwell.

Scarcely less interesting than the hero and the heroine themselves, is the character of the arch villian, Lord Robert Ure, who for a time holds the confidence of the girl. She looks upon him as a true friend, who will assist her in reaching the goal of her ambition. He attempts to rid himself of the priest's opposition to his designs by disgracing the latter and getting him removed from his parish, but in this he is thwarted by a second lover of the girl. The character of Lord Ure is most realistically taken by Horace V. Noble.

Frank Van Renselear makes a pleasing presentation of Horatio Drake, whose affection for Glory is not reciprocated. For a time he lends his aid to the work of Lord Ure against the priest, not realizing the full villainy of the latter's designs. When he does learn the nobleman's entire scheme, he deliberately ruins it, and saves the reputation of the priest and the heroine, though the later has just declined his proffers of marriage.

Amusement Notes.

Julius Tannen, who is at the Orpheum this week, chides Channing Pollock about his chapter on "Vaudeville" in Mr. Pollock's new book, "The Footlights, Fore and Aft."

"I have just read with much amusement," says Mr. Tannen, "extracts quoted by Frank Fogarty from 'Panning' Pollock's vaudeville views. Mr. Pollock has evidently been getting his hair cut again, which appears to have exposed not only his dome of thoughtlessness, but his utter ignorance of vaudeville conditions as well. An appetite for alliteration is no excuse for misstatement. When Mr. Pollock states that 'variety and virtue were synonymous,' it reflects more credit on his regard for euphony than his respect for truth.

"It is a well known fact that when it was 'variety' it bore the same relation to the dignified vaudeville of today that the fly-by-night barnstorming aggregation did to the present commercially conducted companies of Messrs. Frohman, Klaw & Erlanger.

"It is news to him, permit me to suggest most respectfully, if he has doubts of the mentality of the average theater-goer, that he stop any average variety patron he may meet coming from the theater and ask him where he first heard Mr. Pollock's witticism anent 'new ditties and nudities.' But tell him to be fair and pick out a man over 40 or 45 years of age.

"But there is no benefit to be gained, if I may suggest it to Mr. Fogarty, from passing resolutions regarding the book or from requesting the gentleman's resignation. Let us wait until he has a new growth of hair, and then, perhaps, like Samson of old, his strength may return to him, and with new physical funds he may grow richer mentally, and, like Mr. Taft and his Winona speech, do the manly thing and admit his error."

• • •

Phil Bennett, who is appearing at the Empress this week and whose beautiful tenor voice has formed one of the principal topics of conversation amongst Duluth's theater-goers this week, is a genuine optimist. Nothing seems to bother him and his cheery smile is proving infectious around the Empress this week. In his early youth, Mr. Bennett studied for grand opera, which is the aim of most all young singers, but he found grand opera a difficult proposition to overcome. Finally he was successful and he sang with some of the largest grand opera compaies in St. Petersburg, his home city. Mr. Bennett, however, soon became tired of grand opera and entered vaudeville. In speaking of this change, Mr. Bennett says: "The average singer believes that he lowers himself when he enters vaudeville, but to my idea, he does exactly the reverse. Of course, grand opera is fine; the salaries are large, etc., but what a small per cent of the average class hear you sing. Of course, the primary object of my choosing a stage career was because one could earn a nice living, but almost equally important was my desire to amuse. Nothing pleases me more than to please the public, especially the middle class and that is why I entered vaudeville." Mr. Bennett's offering at the Empress this week includes several grand opera selections, however, and in addition some lullabys in which he introduces some yodeling of a quality which reminds one of the late Fritz Emmett.

The Lambardi Grand Opera company, that fine organization of Italian artists which comes to the Lyceum theater on Jan. 8, 9 and 10, embraces a roster of vocal celebrities the equal of which has not, perhaps, been before heard on the local stage. A glance at the list is convincing, and while there may appear a few who are not so well known to western audiences, it is by reason of their newness to American shores.

After a lifetime spent in grand opera production Impresario Lambardi seems to have arrived at the crowning point of his career and his organization, both from a numerical and artistic standpoint, is said to be complete.

The roster of singers embraces the following artists: Mme. Deanette Alvina, dramatic soprano; Lidia Levy, colovatura soprano; Elvira Bosetti, dramatic soprano; Adalgisa Giana and Ida Fassio, sopranos. Mmes. Elvira Casazza, Luisa Cecchetti and Elisa Baroldi, mezzo sopranos. Messrs. Manuel Salazar, the Spanish tenor; Carlo Cartica, Salvatore Sciaretti and Francesco Albiach, tenors. Messrs. Angelo Antola, Giuseppe Maggi and Michele Giovacchini, baritones. Messrs. Antonio Sabellico, Alceste Morl and Buonaventura Marco, bassos.

Two distinguished musical directors will conduct the operas—Chevalier Fulgenzio Guerrieri and Giacomo Spadoni. Signor Guerrieri is the only living conductor who uses neither score nor baton in directing the great operas, while Signor Spadoni is one of Italy's most noted maestros and a famous choral director.

The Lambardi orchestra enjoys perfect instrumentation, capable of rendering the most intricate music in the operatic domain, and is a noteworthy feature of the Lambardi performances.

The subscription seat sale for the coming engagement is now open.

MARINE

LAKE TRIP IN ZERO WEATHER

A new record for lake navigation was made yesterday when the steamer Easton of the Booth line arrived in Duluth from its Port Arthur trip, making the 200-mile run in weather 20 deg. below zero. The Easton arrived at the local Booth dock at 5 o'clock last evening.

With the exception of the extreme cold the trip was uneventful. There was, however a little difficulty experienced in getting into Grand Portage. It was necessary for the Easton to plow her way through ten miles of ice, six inches thick.

The Easton left Duluth Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock for Port Arthur, making twenty intermediate stops at north shore stations. This will be her last trip as far as Port Arthur is concerned. The boat will run to Grand Portage again, as the settlers in that community are depending on the boat to bring them supplies to last them the rest of the winter.

SUPERVISING INSPECTOR VISITS PORT OF DULUTH.

Capt. Charles H. Westcott of Detroit, officer in charge of the Eighth supervising district of the steam vessel inspection service, is in Duluth today on his annual official visit. There is no special significance to his visit at this time.

New York's Death Rate Lower.

New York, Jan. 4.—A death rate of 15.13 per 1,000 in New York city for 1911 is officially announced by Health Commissioner Lederle. This is the lowest on record, last year's rate, the former record, being 15.98 per 1,000. The figures show 75,423 deaths last year as against 76,742 in 1910.

DINNER FOR SALES FORCE

Northern Shoe Company to Entertain Its Men at the Spalding.

Bright Prospects for Business During the Present Year.

The salesmen who cover the territory from the Soo to Western Montana for the Northern Shoe company are in Duluth this week for the annual "get together" meeting of the forces of the house. The men who cover Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Alaska for the company did not come for the meeting this year.

This evening at the Spalding hotel, the sales force and the department managers will be guests of the officers and directors of the company at the annual dinner. Talks will be made on the subject of the business policy of the firm and plans will be laid for the campaign of salesmanship this year. A luncheon will be held at the Commercial club at noon tomorrow and other phases of the same subjects will be covered.

The salesmen arrived yesterday morning and are putting in their time at the house, looking over new samples, getting in touch with each other and the officers of the compnay and absorbing company spirit. Tomorrow morning a meeting will be held at the office of the company and the department heads will go over the records of the past year and the plans for the coming year.

All of the salesmen bring optimistic reports. The orders for spring delivery are far ahead of those of last year and the sales during the last few weeks have been heavy. Stocks throughout the country have run low and the outlook for business this year is unusually good. The sales force will invade additional territory in the West this year and will endeavor to carry Duluth-made shoes to many more people.

JUDGE LEWIS RETURNS.

Former Supreme Court Justice Opens Law Office in Duluth.

Judge Charles L. Lewis, who retired from the state supreme court Jan. 1 after twelve years' service, has opened offices at 600 and 601 First National Bank building, and will resume his practice there.

Judge Lewis first came to Duluth in 1891. He was elected to the district court in 1893, and in 1898 was elected to the state supreme court, assuming his duties there Jan. 1, 1911. He was re-elected in 1904 for the term beginning in 1906, but was defeated for the nomination by Judge E. E. Brown of Luverne in the Republican state convention in 1910.

OCONTO THEATER PANIC WITHOUT ANY FATALITIES.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The burning of a film at the Elite theater in Oconto caused a panic. The theater was packed to its capacity when the fire broke out and the audience made a mad rush for the exits. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt. The loss will not exceed $500.

UNDERWOOD TO KEEP OUT

Will Not Attend the Jackson Day Banquet at Washington.

Decision Is Announced After Bryan Is Given Last Speech.

Washington, Jan. 4. — Democratic Leader Oscar W. Underwood's decision not to attend the Jackson day banquet here next Monday night, which became known here immediately after the announcement that the managing committee had given to William J. Bryan, at his own request, the last place on the speaking program, has thrown Democrats in congress into a flurry.

Mr. Underwood declared he would not attend the banquet because of his recent attack of threatened appendicitis. His physician, he said, had ordered him to attend no banquets, and particularly to make no speeches nor do anything requiring unusual exertion.

"I will not have any speech to be read at the dinner," added Mr. Underwood. "If I were to make a speech I would desire to deliver it myself."

Caused Much Talk.

Nevertheless, the predicted absence of the majority leader of the house from a national Democratic affair at which other leaders of the party and men who are mentioned as candidates for the presidential nomination are to speak, aroused discussion, particularly in connection with the so-called break between Bryan and Underwood.

Mr. Underwood's letter to the managing committee announcing he would not attend was sent after it became known that Bryan was to speak. The arrangement did not meet the approval of many leaders, but it will stand. Some of Mr. Underwood's friends pointed out that Mr. Bryan, speaking last on the program, would be in a position of decided advantage to make declarations which would of necessity remain unanswered, and that such a contingency was to be avoided. Others said Mr. Underwood did not wish to enter an oratorical contest with Mr. Bryan.

Old Break Renewed.

The controversy between Mr. Bryan and Leader Underwood, which developed over the woolen schedule, the secret caucus and other party affairs at the special session of congress last year, was recently renewed when Mr. Bryan practically referred to Mr. Underwood as Wall Street's choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

SOCIALISTS CELEBRATE.

Escort New Member of New York Legislature to Capitol.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4. — Bearing aloft a big red banner with the inscription "Socialism, the hope of the world", and headed by a brass band, a delegation of about 100 Socialists from Schenectady, Albany, Troy and New York made a descent on Albany on the ocasion of the induction into office of Herbert M. Merrill, the Socialist member of the assembly from Schenectady county, who was escorted by the marchers to the capitol. Each Socialist wore a red ribbon and there were a number of women among the marchers. "Votes for Women" signs also had a conspicuous place in the line.

SEES HUSBAND KILLED BY CAR IN DETROIT.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 4. — William H. Parry, 79 years old, of Canadaigua, N. Y., was killed in the presence of his wife and hundreds of spectators last night as he tried to alight from a moving street car. Mr. Parry tried to jump off the car. He slipped and fell under the trucks which passed over his body, killing him instantly.

KINDLING WOOD TRUST PLEA IS TURNED DOWN.

New York, Jan. 4.—Judge Coxe of the United States district court, in a decision just filed, denies the application of the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' association and other defendants in the government's suit for dissolution of the "kindling wood trust", that the testimony be taken and the cause tried in court. Judge Coxe says that hearing the action in open court is impossible if the court is to keep abreast of the calendar in the circuit court of appeals. He adds that when the cause is ready for argument, the court will designate three circuit judges to hear it.

GIRL LOSES LIFE IN TRYING TO SAVE BROTHER.

Red Deer, Alta., Jan. 4.—In a futile attempt to save her baby brother, Florence Boyden, aged 12, daughter of C. A. Boyden of Lausana, lost her life at that place when the home was destroyed by fire. She had escaped from the house but returned for the child. The roof fell before she could escape, both being burned to death.

St. Paul as chairman. An address also is to be made by Senator O. A. Lende of Canby.

Senator in Illinois.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—On his speaking campaign to promote his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the president, Senator Robert M. La Follette plans to visit various points in Illinois today. He was scheduled to leave Chicago in time to arrive at Joliet at 9:42 a. m., where he was to speak before a Progressive Republican organization.

Other points at which he proposed to make brief addresses were Morris, at noon; Ottawa, at 1 p. m.; Streator at 2 p. m.; La Salle at 4 p. m.; Spring Valley at 5 p. m.; Bureau at 6 p. m., and Peoria in the evening.

Senator La Follette will remain over night at Peoria, leaving Friday morning for Bloomington.

When asked for a statement relative to President Taft's declaration that "only death" could keep him out of the presidential campaign this year, Senator La Follette said:

"It won't? Well, all right; I have nothing to say."

"Cause of High Prices."

Asserting that over-capitalization of corporations was the primary cause of the high cost of living, Senator La Follette in his speech here last night, marking his first appearance in Illinois on his present campaign tour, declared it was impossible for the government longer not to subject great money interests to reform.

"I know as much about the trust side of this question as I know about the people's side," Senator La Follette said. "I am not afraid of the biggest trust on earth. They cannot continue to strap upon the people the burden of this over-capitalization which is the cause of the high cost of living. Over-capitalization has gone on to the extent that all the big business of the country is on stilts. We have got to bring it down.

Must Go Slowly.

"But it cannot be done in a moment. If you took all of the water out of it at once, it would do much harm and hurt many innocent people. This problem—the problem of the beef, the harvester and the steel trusts—has to be worked out scientifically. It will be worked out scientifically, if I have anything to do with it, and I expect to have a good deal to do with it."

When Senator La Follette said he expected "to have a great deal to do with it," he was interrupted by prolonged cheering. The assertion was taken by his friends as dispelling any doubt as to his intention of remaining in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

While he spoke, Senator La Follette pushed tables and chairs from side to side of the platform.

"You See, I'm a Boss."

"You see, I always have my own way about everything. I'm a boss," he said. "But up in Wisconsin the people have come to believe that in so far as I have been a boss, it has been in their interests solely."

Clapp Praises Roosevelt.

Sterling, Ill., Jan. 4.—Theodore Roosevelt was exploited as an exponent of Progressive Republicanism by United States Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota in an address here last night, in which he pleaded for a return of the Republican party to power in the presidential election next autumn on the ground that it was best equipped to handle the affairs of the nation.

He praised also the policies of McKinley and Roosevelt which, he said, had moved Democratic states over into the Republican column, and assailed "Cannonism" and "Aldrichism" as symbols of "reactionary hopes."

"The two factions in our party," said the senator, "cannot be joined. One or the other must triumph. I believe that Rooseveltism will win. As a Progressive, I believe that the principles of the Republican party—Progressive—are based on the policies of Theodore Roosevelt."

MILES TELLS ABOUT POOLS

berger company as its next witness.

Identified Memorandum.

Mr. Miles was shown a pencil memorandum in his own handwriting bearing on the alleged packers' agreement of 1902, which he identified. He was unable to say what use had been made of the figures in the memorandum.

He was shown a copy of an unsigned letter addressed to C. W. Armour of the Armour Packing company at Kansas City, which he said he had seen before. He, however, was unable to explain all the figures in regard to shipments, but said he believed it had been sent out from the packers' combination in Chicago.

"Did you ever see that letter in the grand jury room?" shouted Attorney Sheean.

Objections Sustained.

Counsel for the defendants instantly were on their feet to object and they were sustained by the court. Further efforts by the government's attorneys to admit that he had seen the letter when he was before the federal grand jury, were ocerruled by the court.

The witness said he remembered specific instances where certain members of the combination were permitted to ship more than their maximum percentage of fresh meat to Baltimore and Washington.

He was unable to remember certain resolutions for the limiting of shipments offered at a meeting of the packers' pool in 1902.

To Prevent Glutting Market.

Miles, testified yesterday that the old packers' pool were organized to prevent the glutting of the market with fresh meat and that there always was active competition between the members in all parts of the country. He followed Henry Veeder on the stand, and was the third witness called by the government. Despite the fact that Miles had on two occasions given testimony against the packers before federal grand juries, he proved an unwilling witness, and little was gleaned from his direct examination of great value to the government in strengthening its case.

Miles had been heralded as one of the most important witnesses for the prosecution, and counsel for the government made no effort to conceal their disappointment at his evasive answers to certain questions.

Uniform Cost System.

The witness gave an elaborate description of the uniform cost system used by the packers and explained the method of figuring margin profits and other features of the intricate system of accounting.

He brought out for the first time that there was a "black test cost," and a "red test cost" used in the bookkeeping of the Armour Packing company, the former being used as the flat price of the animal, and that the latter included freight and other items of expense. The government coends that the "red test cost" was secretly used by the combination in the fixing of the price of meat.

Miles told of attending the meetings of the packers' pooling in the Councilman building, Chicago, but the efforts of the counsel for the government to induce him to admit that the members fixed the price of fresh meat at these sessions were unsuccessful. He identified several letters which he received from the pool office on June 19, 1893, in regard to shipments and margin price to be charged for fresh meat and which had previously been introduced in evidence by the government.

of Western Kansas since the heavy snow and cold wave came a week ago.

Two in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—The bodies of two men frozen to death during Tuesday night's storm have been discovered here. Edward Tellom, 25 years old was found dead in the cellar of a building near his home. George Sibert, 65 years old, died in an open lot. Both bodies were stiff from cold.

Man Frozen to Death.

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 4.—An unidentified man was found frozen to death in the school yard at Big Suamico today. His home is believed to have ben at Dunbar or Pulaski.

Much Suffering in Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 4.—With the damage attributable to cold in Western Kansas already at a high figure, reports to the local weather bureau today showed a still further drop there since yesterday. At Dodge City the mercury stood at 4 below. The longest period of cold and deep snow known in many years has, according to reports, caused great loss of live stock, frozen or starved to death on the ranges.

West of Great Bend train service on the branch lines has completely been blocked for more than a week and isolated towns are crying for aid.

Difficulty has been experienced in keeping the through railway lines open to traffic. Supplies among the farmers are reported still plentiful, but liable to give out if the snow remains much longer. A force of three hundred men is working day and night in an effort to rescue a stranded freight train and open the branch line to traffic.

Temperatures in Oklahoma and Texas were considerably lower than yesterday, 12 deg. being recorded at Oklahoma City and 18 at Fort Worth. A drop was shown in Nebraska and Iowa. It was 6 below at Des Moines and 2 below at Omaha.

La Crosse Gets a Chill.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 4.—The government thermometer at the Mississippi river wagon bridge stood 22 below zero at 8 o'clock this morning, the lowest temperature recorded here for several years. All out of door work is suspended, trains are running far behind time and switching in the railway yards is carried on with the utmost difficulty.

Marooned in Train.

Hutchinson, Kan., Jan. 4.—Marooned for a week in a way car attached to a Santa Fe railroad freight train stuck fast in the snow near Laird, in Western Kansas, two brakemen are living on jackrabbits. All efforts to reach the train, which is on a branch line, have failed. As fast as rotary snowplows have eaten their way through snow lying eight feet deep in the cuts, the wind has drifted them full again. A large force of Mexicans with picks, shovels and dynamite have been put to work opening up the line.

Twenty-Nine Below Zero.

Sheridan, Wyo., Jan. 4.—Twenty-nine degress below zero, the coldest weather in five years, was the record here yesterday. Frozen water pipes caused a terrific explosion in a kitchen stove here, which partially wrecked the building. The householder and his wife had stepped from the room but a moment before the explosion.

ALBION BANKER AND SON ADMIT FORGING NOTES FOR $165,000

capital, surplus and profit, $53,224, and deposits $295,748. The son stated in an interview last night that he had been forging the notes for over five years in order to finance the Cook Manufacturing company, of which he was secretary and treasurer, and which closed down Tuesday.

Very Well Known.

The senior Dearing is one of the best known bankers of Michigan.

That "there couldn't be anything wrong about the old man" was an expression frequently heard when suspicions of forgery were first reported.

The son, who had been apparently unaffected during the hearing before United States Commissioner Clark here last night, continued to leave most of the talking to his father up to the moment of their departure for Detroit.

After the men were bound over to the federal grand jury at Detroit under $25,000 bonds each, the proceedings in the commissioner's office here were extended late into the night in order to give time for the preparation and signing of statements showing that the confessions were entirely voluntary.

The two bankers came here voluntarily from Albion and met United States Marshal Campbell and United States District Attorney Tuttle last night at Commissioner Clark's office.

In Jail at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 4.—H. M. Dearing and his son, Palmer M. Dearing, the Albion bankers and confessed forgers were received at the Wayne county jail today as federal prisoners. The grand jury is not in session and it may be two months before indictments can be returned.

Irwin Is Receiver.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Comptroller of the Currency Murray today appointed Frank L. Irwin of Albion, Mich., receiver for the failed Albion National bank.

LINA CAVALIERI GIVEN DIVORCE

Chanler's Refusual to Admit Her to Home Cited By Court.

Paris, Jan. 4.—"If Cavalieri comes in by the door, I will jump out by the window," was the statement made by Robert Winthrop Chanler of New York, according to the decision of the civil court here in granting a divorce to Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the grand opera singer, from Chanler, on the ground that Chanler constantly refused to receive his wife at his conjugal domicile.

Chanler adhered to his purpose not to contest the divorce, and the proceedings were of a purely formal character. The court found that it had no choice but to accord a divorce in favor of Cavalieri. There were no pleadings and the judgment was read in an empty court.

It was pointed out that all legal requirements to preserve the union had been observed.

"When an authorized agent," says the judgment, "summons Chanler to take up married life again, Chanler replied that he declined to live with his wife, adding that he had enough and had mapped out his life otherwise."

It was further set forth that when the sheriff visited Chanler with a summons, Chanler finally signed it, saying he did so on condition that he would never again hear his wife spoken of. The court then quoted Chanler's expression that if his wife insisted on entering the house, he would jump out of the window, and concluded by naming a liquidator to arrange the property rights of the parties. Chanler was ordered to pay all the costs of the proceedings.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Lindbergh Wants Copper Probe.

Washington, Jan. 4.—How the Amalgamated Copper company was financed and what speculation had been carried on the Central of New Jersey and leading railroads by those controlling the National City Bank of New York are some of the things named for specific investigation in resolutions to the house by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, in furtherance of the proposed inquiry into the "money trust."

Michigan-Erie Canal.

A canal from Lake Michigan to Lake Erie is proposed in a resolution introduced by Representative Mann of Illinois, directing the secretary of war to have a survey and estimate of cost made. The resolution would direct that the line of the canal be from Lake Erie at a point near Toledo, Ohio, to the Calumet river, near South Chicago, Ill.

Would Recognize China.

Recognition by the United States of the "republic of China" as member of unions, is called for by a resolution introduced by Representative Sulzer of New York and referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Consider Stephenson Report.

The Stephenson investigating committee of the senate probably will meet Saturday to consider the report by Chairman Heyburn of Idaho, exonerating Senator Stephenson from all charges of corruption. The report finds that no member of the Wisconsin legislature was shown to have been influenced in Mr. Stephenson's behalf by the use of money. It comments upon the expenditure of $107,000 in the campaign as due to the existence of a primary election law in Wisconsin, but that law is not condemned in terms in Mr. Heyburn's report.

Oppose Fur Seal Treaties.

Opposition to some features of the Sulzer resolution to make effective the fur seal treaties between the United States, England, Russia and Japan developed at a hearing before the house committee on foreign affairs. Bestowal upon the president of the power "to make and enforce criminal statutes" aroused objection. Representative Gardner of Texas and Representative Foster of Vermont, thought the bill too general in granting powers to the executive.

A. S. Houghton of the Camp Fire Club of America urged a 15-year closed season on seal. So did H. W. Elliott of Cleveland, Ohio. The treaties prohibit pelagic sealing only. Special Agent Lembke, in charge of the Pribiloff seal herds, Dr. Barton W. Evermann, chief of the division of Alaskan fisheries of the bureau of fisheries, and Capt. E. P. Berthold, captain commandant of the revenue cutter service, also testified.

Ten Countries Would Export Paper.

The United States court of customs appeals, it is expected by officials of the treasury, will render its decision in the tariff controversy over the free entry of wood pulp and paper before the end of March. This calculation is based upon the assumption that the board of general appraisers at New York will dispose of the question and open the way for appeal to the customs court by the end of January. Importers of paper from Belgium and England have added their appeals for free entry to the eight other countries claiming the privilege.

Will Study Leather Tariff.

The tariff board's investigation of the leather schedule will actually begin Jan. 16, when shoe manufacturers and tanners throughout the country will be given a hearing as to the method of conducting the inquiry. Shortly after the conference the board will send its agents into the field to study the industry and gather the statistics upon which the board will base its conclusions.

As the board has only about $80,000 of its appropriation on hand and as its continuation was threatened by the Democrats at the close of the current fiscal year, it is not known how extensively it will be able to go into the two schedules. The report on the cotton industry, it is now expected, will not be presented to the president until Feb. 1.

Indians Accuse Crandall.

As a result of an investigation of charges made against him, C. J. Crandall, superintendent of the Santa Fe boarding school for Pueblo Indians, has been transferred to the superintendency of the Pierre Indian school, South Dakota. Protests had been made by the Pueblos that Mr. Crandall was not properly protecting their interests. A principal charge made against Mr. Crandall was that others than Indians were having too much grazing privilege without proper compensation on Indian lands. Complaints have been made against him at various times during the last few years.

DULUTH FIRM'S DISPLAY.

Kelly-How-Thompson Making Good Exhibit at Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. G. Beeson, special stove man; J. E. Tremper, sporting goods line, and C. Q. Blodgett, traveling salesmen in this territory for Kelly-How-Thomson Co. of Duluth, have special headquarters for the present which they have opened up in the Palace Hotel block, where they have a line of goods on display which would stagger the average layman. Hardware, stoves, cutlery, sporting goods of all kinds, and everything found in a hardware store.

They will probably keep open house for the hardware dealers of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota until next Wednesday, and are doing business on the wholesale plan every minute of the time.

NEARBY BANKS ARE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Concerns in Ishpeming and Negaunee Simultaneously Destroyed.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Miners' National bank here and the Negaunee state bank at Negaunee, three miles distant were both destroyed by fire, breaking out simultaneously yesterday. The loss to the Ishpeming bank amounted approximately to $150,000, while the Negaunee bank loss will be close to $100,000. Incendiarism is suspected.

Congressman H. Olin Young is vice-president of the local bank.

CLAN STEWART HAS GALA TIME

Initiation, Installation and Program of Scotch, Music and Songs.

Duluth Scotchmen crowded Foresters' hall to its capacity last night on the occasion of the installation of the officers of Clan Stewart, No. 50, O. S. C. The installing officer was Royal Tanist A. G. Findlay of Seattle, Wash., and he performed his duties in a most impressive manner. He was assisted by John Christie, who acted as royal henchman.

The installation ceremony was preceded by the initiation of a class of candidates. Chief McMillan of Clan Cameron, No. 55, Superior, conducted the inititory ceremony.

After the installation a pleasing program was presented, which was received most enthusiastically by the clansmen. George Macaskill, Waldron Hough and Frederick Campbell first gave a violin-cornet trio, and they were followed by P. M. Young, Norman McKenzie, Norman Matheson, and John McKay in a lively Scotch reel which set all the clansmen to expressing their extreme exuberance of spirit in the characteristic Scotch "hooch." John Matheson warbled some Gaelic lays and was followed by young Ronald Myron who gave a piano selection.

Philip Gordon Brown sang a "Wee Bit Land," and "Mary of Argyle," in his usual splendid style and George L. Tupper led the singing of several old Scottish songs with his violin. Jamie Myron was in fine fettle as he sang "John Grumlie," and "The Laird of Cockpen." John T. Smith sang "Anne Laurie" most acceptably and John Kelly rendered some fine selections on his harmonica.

The entire clan joined in the singing of "Will You Not Come Back Again," as an invitation to Royal Tanist Findlay to again visit Duluth and then "Auld Lang Syne," sung in the usual Scottish fashion brought the program to a close. After the concert the most enthusiastic of the clansmen stayed around the piano and sang Lauder songs until the "wee sma' hours." The newly installed chief, Alex Macrae, presided during the program.

Another particularly pleasing feature of the affair was the presentation by Royal Tanist Findlay on behalf of the clan, of a fine comfortable rocker to the retiring chief, Robert Ferguson.

Many a Duluth Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Duluth. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says: "I do not wish to withdraw anything from the statement I gave some years ago in which I told how effectively Doan's Kidney Pills had rid me of kidney complaint. For some months I was bothered with pain and soreness in my back. I had other troubles and they all showed that there was much uric acid in my system. When I was feeling poorly, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I immediately got a box and they were just what I required. In a short time they cured me and about a year ago they quickly drove away a spell of backache that had come on me. My high opinion of this remedy has been formed by the way in which it has helped me."

FEARS TRAP IN TREATIES

Senator Hitchcock Talks Against Arbitration Pacts as Framed.

Says They Would Draw America Into Entangling Alliances.

GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Flatly charging that the administration was blundering into an entangling alliance with Great Britain, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, on the floor of the senate today, denounced the proposed arbitration treaty with that country. He declared the plan to permit the president to appoint commissioners to a high court of arbitration without the consent of the senate was revolutionary and dangerous. The proposed treaty, he said, would wipe out this nation's time-honored treaty-making plan and result virtually in the adoption of the system practiced by the monarchial powers.

"The president could authorize three commissioners to negotiate and submit differences to arbitration without consulting constitutional representatives of the people of the United States," he insisted. "That is the legitimate and honest interpretation of this treaty. That is what the joint high commission is for.

Trap in the Treaty.

"It is the trap in this treaty. It is a device to permit an entangling alliance by empowering our executive to treat, without restraint from the senate, with the government of Great Britain, and in my opinion, Mr. President, it must lead to, and it was designed to lead to, an entanglement of the United States in the foreign policy of Great Britain."

In support of his assertion Senator Hitchcock read an extract from a speech by Sir Edward Grey, secretary of state for foreign affairs in the house of commons, on March 13, last, when he said:

"But supposing it took place and two of the greatest nations in the world were to make it clear to the whole world that by agreement such as that, that in no circumstances were they going to war again, I venture to say that the effect on the world at large of the example would be one which would be bound to have beneficial consequences. It is true that the two nations who did that might still be exposed to an attack from a third nation who had not entered into such agreement. I think it would probably lead to their following it up by an agreement that they would join with each other in any case in which one only had a quarrel with a third party by which arbitration was refused."

Very Significant Language.

"Mr. President, that is very significant language," the senator resumed, holding the document aloft. "It would be significant in the mouth of any public man in Great Britain, but it has peculiar significance coming from Sir Edward Grey, secretary of state for foreign affairs. It throws a flood of light on this proposed transaction between the United States and Great Britain.

"At the time those words of Sir Edward Grey were uttered, the relations between Great Britain and Germany were strained, and they are strained even today, as all the world knows, and the talk of possible war between Great Britain and Germany is almost constant in both those countries. When, therefore, Sir Edward Grey referred to the possibility of a quarrel with a third power which refused arbitration, it is hard to escape the conclusion that he referred to Germany, and it is easy to see why, under such a condition, he would desire to follow up the pending treaty by an agreement with the United States to join Great Britain in her quarrel if Germany refused to adopt arbitration.

Fears Entangling Alliance.

"I am therefore opposed, Mr. President, to the treaty in its present form, because I believe it may lead and was intended by Great Britain to lead, into an entangling alliance, which is contrary to the settled policy of the United States."

The senator said he believed the United States to be in more danger from the diplomats of Great Britain than from the dreadnaughts of her navy.

"We all know" he said, "how this country was embarrassed by the concessions we made to Great Britain in the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. We know that when we undertook to build the Panama canal we were confronted not so much by the physical obstacles of construction as we were by the terms of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, in which our diplomatic representatives had practically conceded to Great Britain rights and interests in the canal zone equal to our own.

"It is one of the reasons why I am opposed to a treaty which seeks to bind us to enter into the arbitration of vital questions without the specific consent of the senate in each particular case."

Mr. Hitchcock said he was aware that the proposed treaty was defended by some on the ground that even if the joint high commission was entrusted with the power of its interpretation, the senate could override the decision and repudiate the action of the commission by refusing its consent to the terms of the arbitration.

Consent of the Senate.

"In other words," he continued, "these people say that after the commission had decided a question shall be arbitrated, it will still be necessary to have an agreement between the two countries as to the details of the arbitration, and to this agreement the senate must at the time consent. These apologists of the treaty say that the senate will have constitutional power to refuse its consent to the agreement and thus block the proceedings, or that it can so modify the terms of the agreement as to make the arbitration a farce.

"Mr. President, I do not think that a self-respecting country would enter into an agreement of this sort with the mental reservation that it could nullify it any time. To me it seems too much liked bad faith, and aside from a moral consideration, it is objectionable because it would almost inevitably subject us to international quarrels."

In conclusion Mr. Hitchcock declared he not only was in favor of striking out the last clause of article III, providing for a joint high commission to interpret the treaty, but that he also favored an amendment specifically asserting on the part of the United States that the treaty could not be construed so as to authorize the submission to arbitration of any question involving the traditional attitude of the United States concerning American questions or other purely governmental policies.

Makes a Bad Cough Vanish Quickly--or Money Back

The Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy You Ever Used. Family Supply for 50c. Saves You $2.

You have never used anything which takes hold of a bad cough and conquers it so quickly as Pinex Cough Syrup. Gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours. Guaranteed to give prompt and positive results even in croup and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other healing pine elements. A 50-cent bottle makes a pint—a family supply—of the best cough remedy that money can buy, at a saving of $2. Simply mix with homemade sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—directions in package.

Children like Pinex Cough Syrup—it tastes good, and is a prompt, safe remedy for old or young. Stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both good features. A handy household medicine for hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, etc., and unusually effective for incipient lung troubles. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The clouds which have darkened the last weeks for little 16-year-old Donato Altieri of 322 South Seventeenth avenue east and threatened to cast a shadow over her life, were brushed away in the county jail yesterday afternoon when Rev. Father John Zarelli pronounced the words which made her the lawful wife of Antonio Cacchilo.

The future has once more assumed a sunny aspect for her and she is happy in the thought that it will not be long before the doors of the county jail will swing open for Antonio and he will step forth a free man.

A jail does not form the proper setting for a wedding, but force of circumstances sometimes compels the observance of even so holy a rite as the marriage ceremony in the gloom of steel bars and iron-studded doors. To Donato it was a question which assumed gigantic proportions and she would have married Antonio Cacchilo anywhere, although it is hard to conceive of a more undesirable place than that in which the wedding was solemnized. To her it was a matter of saving herself from a shame which would have left an indelible stain upon her whole future.

Donato met Antonio about a year ago at her father's home. They had come from the same town in Italy and he was made a welcome guest. Antonio paid attentions to Donato and when he left for Montana to work they exchanged letters. They were very tender. When Antonio came back several weeks ago he made ardent love to the girl. He asked her to marry him. She consented and he asked her father for her hand.

Under the spell of his fascination and his promises, she failed to withstand temptation. Unsophisticated and unlearned in the ways of men—some men—she allowed herself to be led. After which Antonio's love seemed to cool. He did not care for her as he had before.

She learned that he was going away. As a last resort to hold him in the city she took his money from his pocket early one morning. He wanted her arrested. Instead, he was thrown into jail after the girl had told her story to Capt. Fiskett. The girl was under age and a charge of having carnal knowledge of a minor was placed against Antonio. In the police station he declared that he would never marry her. But in the county jail, with the prospects of a long term of imprisonment before him, he began to reconsider. The marriage followed.

Their friends are hoping that the union, despite the unpleasantness leading to its consummation, will prove best for both of them. The girl is saved from the odium of being classed an outcast by her people; the man is saved a probable term in the penitentiary. For their own good the past should be allowed to bury itself that they may work out their own future, say the police.

Pearl Black, 17 years old, and Bessie Beseth, a year her junior, were picked up by the police in the Soo depot last night in company with two news agents who were none the better for the liquor which they had consumed.

The girls were trying to get back to their home at Ishpeming, Mich., which they had left about a week ago. Their money was gone and it is stated that they were trying to negotiate with the news agents for a free passage. The news agents had probably told them that they could induce the conductor to carry them gratis.

Although the girls were without money and really wanted to return to their homes, the police could not believe that the men were acting from entirely disinterested motives. They brought the four to the station, but as there was no charge against the men they turned them loose. They kept the girls in the woman's department, and they stayed there today.

Later it is expected that they will return to their homes. Chief Troyer has communicated with their parents and he will probably receive an answer and transportation from them today.

Since leaving Ishpeming the girls have been in the city doing nothing. They had $30 and spent it stopping in a downtown hotel. They couldn't find work and had no place to go. They were taking rather long chances and it may be that the police saved them crossing a line which might have prevented them from going back to their folks.

Ardell Lamont, who was taken from a downtown hotel by the police early yesterday morning, was started on her way back to her home at Fargo this morning. While she claimed to be but 16 years of age the officers state that her appearance belies that statement. It was at first believed that a traveling man had induced her to leave her home and taken her about the country with him. But her story appeared to be too flimsy to warrant any search for the traveling man and she was sent on to Fargo. Had the conditions warranted it, Uncle Sam would have been called into the case and the man in the case would have been in eminent danger of being compelled to answer to a charge of white slavery.

* * *

Peter Swanstrom was taken out to the poor farm yesterday from the police station. He is past 60 years of age and in bad condition from rheumatism. There is little reason to doubt but that he will spend the rest of his days at the county institution. He has no relatives or friends and has no money with which to support himself. He has worked most of his life on railroads as a section hand, and what little he was able to put away went for medicine. He is not a drinking man and his circumstances are the result of misfortune. When he dies he will probably be laid away in the paupers' field, with a small slab bearing his name to mark his last resting place.

* * *

Abraham Levine, who was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of drunkenness after he had driven his wife and children from their home near Twentieth avenue west and Michigan street with threats of killing them, is still held by the police. They are uncertain as to what disposition to make of his case. About six weeks ago he tried to kill himself by drinking carbolic acid. The family is destitute and even though he is allowed his liberty it seems very uncertain that he will do anything to help them.

* * *

Patrolmen August Noren, who was injured recently when his horse fell on his leg, splintering a bone, was able to be about today. He had difficulty in making progress, but expects to be back on the job within a few days.

* * *

Mike Burke came into the station last night looking for lodging. But it was plain that he had been consorting with John Barleycorn and he was arraigned in police court this morning for drunkenness. He was sent over the hill for ten days.

* * *

William Linn, who has been a frequent visitor in the police grist lately, got thirty days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to vagrancy this morning. Olof Lindberg got the same dose on the same charge.

* * *

Albert Perry, a woodsman, was sent over the hill for three months this morning when he pleaded guilty to petty larceny. The police reported that he had stolen a watch from a lodger in a Sixth avenue rooming house and in addition had attempted to go through the clothes of several other men in the place.

Frank Heinich was convicted of selling liquor last Sunday in his restaurant in the rear of 625 West Superior street, after a trial this morning. He paid a fine of $100.

RAILROADS

3,066 MILES OF NEW ROAD

Railways Made Fewer Extensions Than Usual During Year 1911.

Average Number of Miles Built Each Year Is 3,885.

Statistics which have been compiled show that 3,066 miles of new main line was built in the United States by the railroads during the year, 1911, as compared with 4,112 miles during 1910.

This is the smallest figure since 1897, when 2,109 miles were added. The average number of miles added each year since 1893 is 3,885. The 1910 record was 374 miles more than the preceding year. The figures do not include any relaid tracks, sidings or electric lines.

The longest single stretch of line completed during the year was built by the Chicago & Northwestern. A total of 162 miles was laid. The Kansas City, Mexico & Orient was second with 117 miles. The Harriman lines constructed 320 miles of new road and the Santa Fe lines, 195 miles.

In Canada, the Grand Trunk Pacific built 271 miles in the provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia and the National Transcontinental, which is building the eastern end, constructed 280 miles. On the western end work is now under way on 1,167 miles and surveys are being made on 627 miles, while an the eastern end, work is now under way on a total of 490 miles. The Canadian Pacific built a total of 487 miles and has work under way on 368 miles on western extensions. The Canadian Northern in Ontario during the year built 47 miles and has 944 miles under way. The Canadian Northern lines in the western provinces added 456 miles during 1911 and rapid progress is now being made on the western end of the transcontinental system.

In Minnesota during the past year, the Duluth & Northern Minnesota built from milepost 62 to milepost 68, a distance of six miles; the Soo line built through Pine county, a distance of 30.28 miles, and the Northern Pacific made a 3.8 mile extension from Deerwood to ore lands on the Cuyuna range. This makes a total of 40.08 miles. The Duluth-Virginia line of the Canadian Northern, 70 miles long, is not yet completed.

In Michigan, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic constructed 12.6 miles of new road and the Detroit & Mackinac 12 miles. The Lake Superior & Ishpeming added 2.85, making a total of 27.45 miles for Michigan during the year.

In Wisconsin, the Chicago & Northwestern constructed 161.7 miles; the Soo line built from Frederick to Superior, 33.42 miles; the Superior & Southeastern constructed 8 miles of new track between Wisco and Manekagon Lake, while the Wisconsin-Northwestern built 6 miles of new extensions. Wisconsin's new mileage is 209.13 for 1911.

PRESIDENT OF GREAT NORTHERN GUEST OF HONOR AT BANQUET

URGES CITIZENS TO AT ONCE BEGIN PLANNING FOR A NEW UNION DEPOT

WELCOMED AS FORMER DULUTHIAN

Frankly Asks Business Men What They Want From Railroad.

Promises to Co-operate in the Development of Northeastern Minnesota.

Local Speakers Tell Duluth's Needs and Praise the Work of Hills.

Duluth renewed its friendship with Louis W. Hill last evening at the Spalding hotel, when the president of the Great Northern railroad was the guest of honor at a most notable banquet that was attended by men representing practically every large business enterprise in the city.

Mr. Hill was welcomed back to the city as a former "Duluth boy," who had received his early business training here and had returned after taking his place as the head of one of the largest railroad systems in the country and "making good."

The keynote of the banquet was the development of the Northwest and co-operation between Duluth and the railroads, especially the Great Northern.

The banquet was a most elaborate one, and the manner in which it was served reflected great credit on the management of the Spalding hotel. The tables completely filled the Flemish room of the hotel, and about 150 of the most influential and representative citizens of Duluth were in attendance.

Mr. Hill came to Duluth in the afternoon on a special train, accompanied by a party of fourteen St. Paul and Minneapolis friends. In the party were: Eli Warner, vice president of the Association of Commerce; John M. Jackson of Lampher, Skinner & Co.; Sherman Finch of Finch, Schlick & McConville; Will A. Campbell, secretary of the Northwestern Development league; H. H. Bigelow of Baird & Bigelow; Leo Guiterman of Guiterman Bros.; Charles Patterson of the O'Donnell Shoe company and the Patterson Gas Light company; Frank B. Kellogg, attorney, of Kellogg & Severance; L. C. Gilman, assistant to the president of the Great Northern road; L. P. Ordway of the Crane-Ordway company; W. P. Kenny, general traffic manager of the Great Northern, all of St. Paul; P. L. Howe, president of the Imperial Elevator company, and E. J. Stillwell of the Minneapolis Paper company of Minneapolis, and C. I. McNair of the Northwest Paper company of Cloquet.

The Duluth reception committee was composed of M. H. Kelley, chairman; A. D. Thomson, George Spencer, A. L. Ordean, Mills Bunnell, A. C. Weiss, George C. Stone, Henry Turrish, W. A. McGonagle, A. M. Chisholm, Dr. W. H. Magie, W. J. Olcott, F. A. Patrick, C. E. De Witt, Thomas F. Cole, A. M. Marshall, Julius H. Barnes, W. G. Hegardt, A. H. Comstock, David Williams, J. O. Lenning, C. R. Rust and A. L. Warner.

Among Old Friends.

Mr. Hill found himself among old friends last evening. During his residence here several years ago, he had become acquainted with many of the men in the banquet hall, and the evening was marked by the feeling of good fellowship which made itself evident in all the speeches.

W. A. McGonagle, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, and president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, acted as toastmaster, and called upon men representing all the different lines of industry in Duluth, to say a few words.

He welcomed the guest of honor as "one of our own people," and then called upon Mayor Cullum as the first speaker.

Mayor's Welcome.

Mayor Cullum gave a very brief but effective little talk. "In the first place," he said, "I wish to heartily indorse the sentiments of our toastmaster, but aside from the personal greetings, I take great pleasure in extending the hearty greetings of Duluth to this distinguished railroad man and assure him enthusiastic support in the progressive co-operation movement to promote the interests of Minnesota and the Northwest. You will find around this table many individuals who are fatalists. They feel secure in their fatalistic belief in this particular God favored spot where we shall develop the heart throbbing center of the Northwest.

"The Twin Cities glory in their prosperity and their growth from year to year. It may not remain for you residents of the Twins, or your children, but it will be the privilege of your grandchildren to come to this center of the universe." (Applause and laughter).

C. A. Luster Speaks.

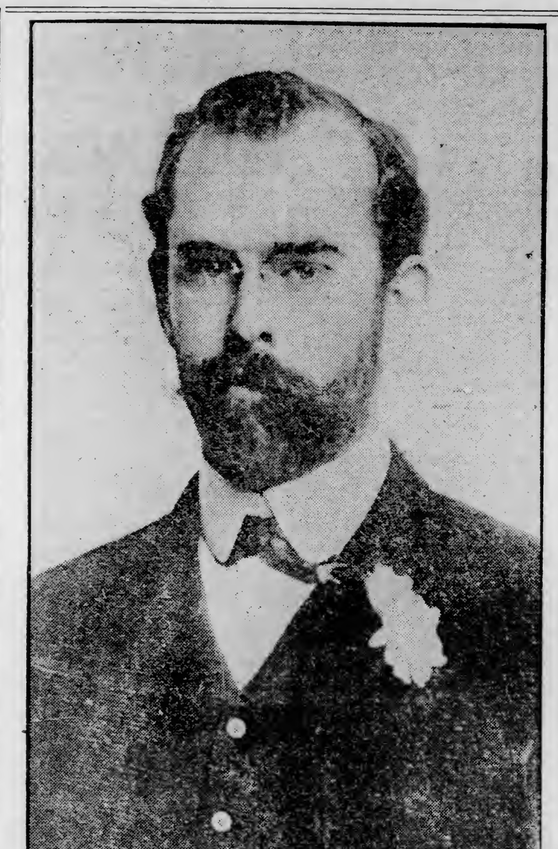

Following Mayor Cullum, C. A. Luster president of the Duluth Commercial club, was introduced by Mr. McGonagle.

Mr. Luster welcomed the guest of honor on behalf of the club. He spoke as follows:

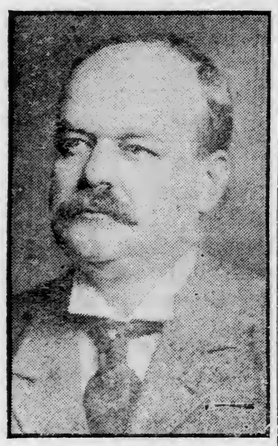

"I thank you heartily on behalf of the Duluth Commercial club and its 1,000 members for the opportunity to extend greeting to Mr. Hill. Mr. McGonagle prefaced my introduction by saying that Duluth has a great Commercial club, and that it is one of the best in the country. I would also like to state that the public affairs committee of the Commercial club is a great factor and is doing a work of much importance of great diversity. It is but a few years ago that the country surrounding Duluth produced nothing for the local markets, and all of the produce was shipped in from considerable distances. All that has been changed, and instead of having to ship in from outside our territory, we have produce to ship elsewhere. St. Louis county carried off the honors for potatoes at the St. Paul Land show and it would have done the same in New York for North America if Vancouver had not happened to have more varieties. Theirs was no better quality. The public affairs committee plans to establish an industrial bureau on a sound and effective basis, to develop more extensively the resources of Duluth, and of the surrounding territory. There are numerous products of this immediate territory, ore, wheat, flax and other things which should be manufactured here more extensively. We have got to have the co-operation of the railroads, however, and we doubtless shall have it, and I have no doubt that the Great Northern will get its share of the business re-

Mr. Patrick's Welcome.

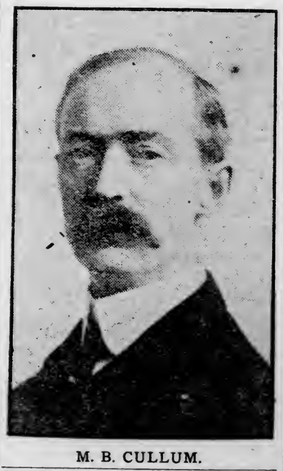

F. A. Patrick, representing the Duluth jobbing interests, welcomed Mr. Hill, both as a public-spirited railroad president and as an old friend.

LOUIS W. HILL,
The Guest of Honor.

W. A. McGONAGLE,
Toastmaster.

M. B. CULLUM.

C. A. LUSTER.

EXTRACTS FROM MR. HILL'S TALK.

"Find out what you need.

"Minneapolis and St. Paul have convinced the most stubborn that they need a new Union station. In all seriousness I believe it is time your citizens were taking up the question of a new station. I do not want to appear in the light of putting it on the other fellow, for personally I own a greater interest in the Norhern Pacific than I do in the Great Northern. I would suggest that you take it up just as they did in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

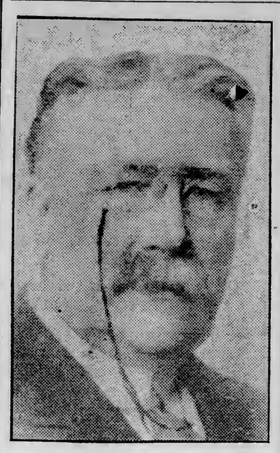

"I would like to be told what the Great Northern can do to keep its end up in Duluth.

"There is one matter which I think should receive the continuous and continued encouragement of the people of Duluth. At all times there is a disposition to be a little hard on the Steel company.

"They're no friends of mine—I tell you that. The Steel company and the interests I represent have their differences, their difficulties and troubles, but in the matter of such importance as the development of this section I will stand aside and say: 'Do all you can for them.' It is more important than anything the Great Northern can ever do for you, and I will help in every way I can, because as I see it, this is a fertile field and an opportunity for the development of Duluth.

"The coming of the steel plant to this district means more than anyone knows for your city.

"I want to say to you businessmen of Duluth: Find out where we are short, find out where our facilities are not sufficient and when you have told us of these, we will try to do the best we can for you."

F. A. PATRICK.

In introducing Mr. Patrick, the toastmaster warned the Twin City men present of the growth of Duluth as a jobbing center, and advised them to secure sites without delay, not only for the location of branch houses here, but with a view to ultimately locating their headquarters in this city.

"There are but few good sites left," said Mr. McGonagle, "and I would advise you to pick them up before you leave."

Mr. Patrick stated that he had been a schoolmate of Mr. Hill's brother at Exeter, and that when Mr. Hill came to Duluth in 1895 he felt that he was an old acquaintance. "That acquaintance continued, and I hope it will continue. I have been deeply interested in watching the career of Mr. Hill. Great responsibilities have been placed on his shoulders, and it has gratified not only his personal friends, but a multitude of other people, that he has not only been successful, but that he has greatly exceeded the expectations of many in achieving success. It has been interesting as well as gratifying to observe that he has developed along certain very important lines—lines of tremendous importance, in fact, and of interest to all the Western states. I want to say that the recent governors' trip to the East was a great success that was due to Mr. Hill. The campaign of development in Montana, in North Dakota, Idaho and other Northwestern states is due to Mr. Hill, and his trip to Duluth we hope will be the precursor of new ideas and projects that will be of importance to Northern Minnesota. What Mr. Hill starts he finishes. He has proven his sagacity and effectiveness in the field of peaceful conquest, and we think that he is ready to take up this field of development back of us."

Mr. Patrick also related a little incident of a recent trip through the West with Mr. Hill, illustrating the democracy of the president of the Great Northern road. A man who bore every appearance of being 'down and out' asked for a ride on the president's car from Great Falls to Billings, and it was promptly given him. After he had enjoyed a meal and a cigar at the expense of the railroad president, the stranger remarked: "Why, he's just a plain, ordinary, every-day sort of cuss like the rest of us, ain't he." Mr. Patrick welcomed the guest of honor as just a "plain, every-day sort of cuss." Later, Mr. Hill finished the story, and turned the point against Mr. Patrick, whom he said, succeeded in selling the stranger an entire bill of drygoods before he left the train.

Introduces Mr. Hill.

Mr. McGonagle then introduced the guest of honor for the evening, prefacing his introduction with a few well chosen words of praise for the work of Mr. Hill.

"Mr. Hill began his career as president of the Great Northern by learning the wants and needs of the settlers along its line," said Mr. McGonagle. "He has always taken a deep interest in public problems. "He has been present in person or has been represented at all the great land shows, development conventions and public gatherings for the upbuilding of the Northwest country. He has taken a deep interest in the Northern Minnesota Development association, being present at St. Cloud, where he made a great speech, although he will not admit it.

"Our growth and supremacy is due in a great measure to the foresight, integrity and courage of James J. Hill. His son, who is our guest tonight, developed great constructive ability, and the father gradually learned to rely upon him more and more. The result was that he is now at the head of the Great Northern railroad and we are here tonight not only to greet and honor a friend, but to testify to the fitness of the selection of the man to direct the affairs of that great system. He has a store of knowledge of the wants of this city and territory and the feasibility of granting them.

"Mr. Hill is welcome, and entitled to special credit, as one who has had honors thrust upon him and makes good. Duluth welcomes him for what he is, a successful railroad president, and we shall take this time to cement friendship."

Given Warm Greeting.

The guest of honor was given a warm reception when he arose to speak, those present standing, clapping their hands and cheering.

The first part of his speech was devoted to reminiscences of the days he spent in Duluth, intermingled with some good stories, which brought laughter and applause. His hit at the expense of Mr. Patrick was especially appreciated, and another story told of "a cousin of 'Mike' Kelley's" also drew the attention of the banqueters to Mr. Kelley. He told of the days when Duluth was bounded on the east by "Gil Hartley's farm" and on the west by Beriah Magoffin's, and spoke of the rapid growth since that time.

"I like to see the spirit of development," said Mr. Hill, warming up to the subject that seemed to interest him most. "Minnesota has not had that spirit of development, but it has it now. Why is it? There are many reasons.

"Everything the Twin Cities try to do in the West, Duluth should help in. That is right and fair. What helps the Twin Cities in the West, helps Duluth. There should be the spirit of co-operation.

"I like to work in a fertile field. If one section is holding back and another moving ahead, I go to the one that is moving ahead, and try to reach out behind and help the district that is holding back. But I can accomplish more in a fertile field.

"The state is awakening, but I want to say that if a man does not believe in our state, we want to come as near as possible to putting him out of it. There are too many people in Minnesota who do not realize what this great state has to offer the people."

The speaker alluded to a conversation with a professor of the state agricultural college at the land show, "this agricultural professor made a more startling statement and one that particularly pretained to your home county of St. Louis," he said. "'I don't believe in the whole thing,' he exclaimed, refering to the land show. 'It's a regular promotion scheme. Why! there's St. Louis county; what is it doing at an agricultural show?'"

Laughter greeted this and Mr. Hill went on to explain that he told the professor that while there was iron in St. Louis county, seven-tenths of it was agricultural and some of it the best land in the country. Following this observation, Mr. Hill asked, "Why should we have men connected with our state government who do not realize what this great district has to offer to the people of the world?

"Why should the state pay salaries to men who do not believe in its future development? There are too many men down at the capitol waiting to take a position, willing to take salaries, willing to take responsibility, but who don't care or don't realize—well, I won't say they don't care—but they certainly do not realize the importance of the positions they hold and what they owe to their state.

Western Lands.

"When I left college in 1893, you could buy land in the Wenatchee valley for $1.50 an acre. Now it is selling for $2,000 an acre. Only three or four years ago, when we began our campaign in Montana, they told us the sheep herders would kill us if we went out there. Then the land was selling for $3 an acre. Now it is selling for $30. Minnesota has this opportunity, and more. You have the great advantage here that nearly all of your land is patented, and the settler or purchaser does not have to wait wears for a patent.

"We have about the only state left where a man can get good agricultural land for $3.50 an acre upwards. There is no other place where a man can go with nothing but his own hands, and carve out a home for himself. He has the timber for buildings and for fuel right on his land. It is so much cheaper in the end than a free government homestead.

"Your interests here in Duluth lie in the territory right around you. Your problems are the same as those of the Twin Cities. Work them out together.

"The complaints have been made that the Great Northern is developing Montana, and neglecting Minnesota. At a gathering of land men, recently in the Twin Cities, I offered them the same Great Northern car that made Montana famous, and offered to send it East if they would equip it. They considered it for a time, and turned down the offer, saying that it was a railroad development scheme. Now you can't develop this country without benefitting the Great Northern railroad. We have our tracks down, and we can't tear them up. We are here to stay. Just because the road is there is a poor excuse for not developing this state. I don't want to appear to scold, but Minnesota has too many men right around the state capitol who are holding back."

Steel Plant.

Mr. Hill then touched on the steel plant at Duluth.

"Every time I go to New York," he said, "I ask them how the plans are coming along, and this year I got more encouragement than I ever did before. The steel plant means so much not only to Duluth but to all this Western country, that it should receive your continuous encouragement. It is your fertile field."

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Hill stated that he came to Duluth determined to find out what this city wants from the Great Northern railroad, and said he would be glad to receive suggestions, either from speakers following him or in conversation at the close of the banquet. He made the suggestion regarding the new union station quoted above. "I do not want to appear to be putting it on the other fellow," he said, "but the Northern Pacific is the road that should take this up. We have bought extensive terminals in other cities, but we could not seem to find suitable terminals here. The Soo came in and got fine terminals. We couldn't see it where they did, perhaps, but the fact remains that they got fine terminals here.

"The tenants will ultimately pay the cost of this union station, and I would suggest that you take up the problem as they have in St. Paul and Minneapolis."

Andrew Jackson of St. Paul also spoke, following Mr. Hill.

Mr. Jackson gave a forceful address, dwelling on the need of co-operation between Duluth and the Twin Cities, and warmly praising the guest of honor for what he had accomplished in the development of the Northwest.

Bishop McGolrick Talks.

Bishop McGolrick also gave a brief and semi humorous address. Those present all arose as a token of respect to Duluth's honored prelate, and he was given a hearty reception.

He told of some incidents connected with former metings with James J. Hill, and urged upon Mr. Hill the necessity of building up the country between Duluth and Pine City.

"I want to see the day," said Bishop McGolrick, "when there will be as many people between Duluth and Pine City as there are between Pine City and St. Paul."

Bishop McGolrick also reviewed briefly the work he has been doing in getting settlers for the farms of Minnesota from the crowded cities of this country and Europe, and bespoke the support of the guest of honor in this work.

A bit of comedy was introduced by Toastmaster McGonagle in the presentation of a gigantic loving cup of a material known only to those who fashioned it and in the bowl of which was a drum. The president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern grasped the tiny sticks and beat a rub-a-dub-dub, as he called to the speaker's table Eli Warner of St. Paul. The toastmaster referred at length to the good work of the well-known St. Paul commercial expert and assured him that he stood just as high in the estimation of the people of the Zenith City as those of his own town. Mr. Warner responded in kind.

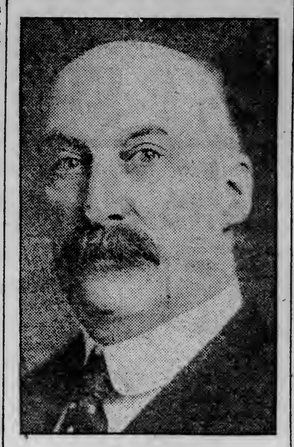

BISHOP McGOLRICK.

A. D. THOMSON'S TALK.

Duluth Grain Dealer Recalls Visit of Father of Guest of Honor.

A. D. Thompson, representing the Duluth Board of Trade, was given an ovation when he rose. He spoke in part as follows:

"It is certainly a great pleasure to say a few words at as representative a gathering as this is—probably more representative from the standpoint of its varied interests than any gathering of a similar nature previously held in Duluth or in the Northwest. And, in this connection, you will pardon me, I know, if I take a little look backward. It was, I think, in January, 1885, (and outside it was an awfully cold night). We were just completing the building of the first Board of Trade in Duluth. Wishing to celebrate the occasion, we sounded the tocsin from the housetops and the hilltops, and invited our friends from far and near to come and sup with us, and to mingle with us and to tell their opinion of us, and to admonish us."

A. D. THOMSON.

"One of the friends who heard the tocsin sound and the welkin ring at that time was Mr. James J. Hill—he with vision as prophetic as Moses—and with Titanic courage to forge his prophecy into life's realities. He came to us and spoke to us as if in the citadel of the Empire that he was building, and brought with him his kindliness and his friendship—and his two young boys, Louis Hill and James Hill. They were quite young lads at the time and wore knickerbockers, and at this time it would seem that they were much like unto our own city which was also in its 'knickerbockers.' And now, after looking at the goodly proportions to which Mr. Louis Hill has since grown, it is also a great source of satisfaction to know that Duluth has grown to goodly proportions also, and for this we are happy and proud.

"At that time, Mr. James J. Hill, in his address, given us that evening, looked along the corridors of the future and pictured to us his idea of the growth of our own city and its commerce, and of the growth of the Northwest. And, if he erred in thus picturing our future, it was that he did not draw it large enough or great enough—for Duluth and the Northwest have since grown to be much greater than even Mr. Hill at that time portrayed.

Sent Sons Here.

"Not the least of the many good things that Mr. Hill and the Great Northern railroad have done for Duluth was his later sending his two boys here, one by one, to learn the art of railroading and navigation and business, and to get acquainted with us—to study and learn our needs and to help us in all things which a great railroad and a great vessel system could do, and afterwards sent them through the Northwest to the various points where development and business could be brought together to the best advantage. No other great railroad man of America in the past has done this, and, while it is an adverse criticism that they have not, it is all the more a still greater credit to Mr. Hill that he has done so. The result is that the present president of the Great Northern road is familiar with all its business, is friendly with all business interests, and is still studying our wants and needs at the Head of the Lakes, and is enthusiastically ambitious and tremendously energetic for the further development of the Northwest, and this from a practical standpoint.

"When Duluth wants certain changes, or certain additions in its connection with business and the development of business through and from Duluth, it knows that in approaching the president of the Great Northern road in connection with these matters that they will be taken up in a practical and businesslike manner, and if practicable, carried through. And it knows that in the development of the Northwest from here to the Pacific coast that the interests of the Great Northern and Duluth are identical, and that the Great Northern road will do in the future what it has always done in the past, namely—that it will be the leader and will do more than its share in such development. And, in this connection, if this comparison is correct, we shall hope that Mr. Hill in the future will grow physically like unto a large mountain and in wisdom like unto Solomon of old.

Place of Wheat.

"It would be unfair to Duluth—to the Northwest—to the Great Northern road and its management, if I were to close these remarks without saying something for wheat. It may not be generally known to you that the Great Northern road brings in about two-thirds of all the wheat that comes to the Head of the Lakes, and has always brought in that or more; and that the Great Northern road is carrying on the greatest campaign in its history to extend and increase the growth of wheat and corn in the Northwest and to develop the Northwest still further. Since Mr. L. W. Hill has been president, it has expended and done more to increase this growth than all the other railroad interests in the United States put together—and Duluth should be doubly grateful and doubly appreciative to the Great Northern road for this. I have heard in previous gatherings of business interests in Duluth of the magnitude and the richness and the extent of the iron ore mines and the riches that have resulted from them—and the magnitude of the lumber and the timber interests, and of the jobbing interests—but I have heard very little about wheat, that sustainer of men, that maker and sustainer of nations. somehow or other wheat is not touched on now by the speakers of the day. Yet it gave Duluth its first start and maintained it in a large measure, and, both directly and indirectly, maintains it today.

From the dawn of time wheat came down the Nile and its tributaries to Alexandria—came down the Danube to the Mediterranean—came through the Indian ocean. And at that time great tonnage of various rich ores and great rafts and shiploads of timber came down the Nile and the Danube and through the Indian ocean. Ages and ages ago the various rich ores, and the great forests, became exhausted, and the world no more sees or hears of metals or ores and timber coming from those once great areas of production. Yet wheat still comes to them as it has been coming from the beginning, and it will continue to the end. The prairies of the West still pour into the granaries of Duluth their argosies of golden grain. Agriculture still remains the most ancient and honorable occupation of man. Our storehouses and our granaries and boats and cars speak like majestic voices a tribute to that mighty Hill who stormed a wilderness and a desert, whose far flung battalions of laborers fought the battles of peaceful conquest, whose locomotives shrieks mingled with the cry of the eagles of the crags—of this mighty man and his worthy son, who are today blending and forging agriculture and transportation into a common mass that speaks good for public needs and public wants. In the years to come Duluth will cease to be noted for its shipments of iron ore and timber. They will pass away as the others have, but wheat will come as long as the world lasts and as long as the Great Northern road can carry it. And ages hence the Great Northern railroad will be carrying wheat to Duluth when the carrying of timber and ore is only a memory.

"In conclusion, gentlemen, and at this New Year's time, Duluth's best wishes to Mr. Hill and his family are that it hopes that the past contains only pleasant memories, and that the future be one long continued summer, and in all things may God be with him."

MR. HARTLEY'S TALK.

Frankly Tells Guest of Honor Some of Duluth's Needs.

G. G. Hartley, when called on by the chairman, told some interesting reminiscences of Mr. Hill, Sr., and then, in response to the previous request of the guest of honor, frankly stated some of Duluth's needs, and desiries.

Mr. Hartley spoke in part as follows:

"The last time I knew of our distinguished guest visiting Duluth was when Bob Smollett arrested him for alleged fast driving on Superior street, and I think he knows that his friends here were more annoyed than he was by that unimportant event.

"Mr. Hill has not always had the easy end of it. The son of a big man is handicapped. If he attempts important undertakings people say he is trying to imitate his father; if he doesn't, they say he disgraces his father. The transportation business in this great and growing country of ours is demanding and employing the best ability of the land. No weakling can hold his heels long as president of a big railroad company.

"I had some work to perform in the vicinity of some of the operations of our guest in the early stages of his service of the Great Northern and saw him with little capital and against the protests of his superior officer, accumulate enough value in merchantable iron ore to build a railroad from Lake Superior to the Pacific coast, and I was then led to believe that he could see a hole through a ladder.

"In my estimation it is important that a prominent railroad official, especially the executive head of the organization, shall take a human interest in the affairs of the patrons of his road and all the communities served by it and that he shall at all times be reasonably approachable. A prominent and active railroad official lives across the street from my house, and one of the home privileges that I value highly is his permission to me to run across the street or call him up on the 'phone and ask a favor or tell him a tale of woe.

"I have noticed when public enterprise is called for at Mr. Hill's home city such as building an auditorium, pulling off a big land show or entertaining the president of the United States, he is expected to take the lead. He is the public chore boy, and out in Montana and the other Western states traversed by his road he is the "king pin" in all undertakings for the development of the resources of that region. This brings his company the good will and very close friendship of the public, one of the most valuable assets of any corporation.

Want to Hear Kicks.

"Our guest told me once if I had any fault to find with rates on the Great Northern or Northern Pacific to make complaint to him rather than go to the railroad and warehouse commission or seek redress through political channels. I have tried not to abuse this privilege, but I have in several instances asked him for lower freight and express rates, and in every case the request has been granted.

"I have had credit in some directions for instigating suit for lower rates on iron ore from the Minnesota ranges to Lake Superior, and perhaps in the future independent furnace men may rise and call my name blessed. In that case I will get this unearned credit as the boy gets the itch by sitting next to it.

Might Ask Improved Service.

"Having been so successful in every request I have made of Mr. Hill, I have been almost emboldened to ask for a local freight depot on the Great Northern in Duluth, since that road collects many times as much freight at this port as it does in St. Paul. I would also ask an up-to-date passenger service on the Northern Pacific from Duluth to the coast without going around by St. Paul. The Northern Pacific has been in operation forty years without ever sending a passenger train with regular dining car service and through sleepers to the West, except around by St. Paul, which takes it 150 miles out of its way, in order to pay homage to that enterprising city. An improvement in this service would help Duluth and the road. A Great Northern depot in Duluth would save money and time for our merchants and improve the business of the road.

"Asking for this depot reminds me of starting a farm in Dakota years ago, which farm I still operate. The father of our guest showed me where he was going to build a new line, and I located a farm on that proposed line. Soon the road was built through my land and a siding installed on it. I asked Manager Manvel for a depot. He called a clerk, who told him there was no reasonable demand for it. I appealed to Mr. Hill, Sr. He called for the same clerk, who told him the same story. He then sent for Mr. Finleyson, who had charge of depot building, and told him to go with me to my farm and build just such a depot as I wanted and hand the keys to me. He looked very severe when he told Finleyson that I neded the depot for storage purposes, that the company had no use for it whatever. The depot was built. There are now five grain elevators at that point.

Sure Sign of Panic.

"There has been some talk recently about a business panic in this country. I can describe an unfailing sign of such a panic. If Mr. Hill, Sr. is hoarding money in the banks and trust companies from Amsterdam to St. Paul, there is going to be something doing. It is as sure a sign as for a black bear to be gathering leaves and much litter before a cold winter. In times of financial stress Mr. Hill always seems to have unlimited cash resources and he has helped many merchants, banks and others over the rocks in such times. These and other acts of consideration give him strong friends. I believe some of those old timers would go out and burn a church if he asked it.

"Maj. Fridley, whom some gentlemen present will recollect, used to be on his staff. The major was originally comfortably fixed, but engaged in real estate speculation in Minneapolis and lost all. Then he was taken sick and the only surviving one of his family was a beloved son, not very strong physically. Mr. Hill, Sr., returned from the East after a long and successful contest with an opposing faction among his stockholders. In those days the authority of his subordinates was somewhat limited. No one could authorize even a special train to the fair grounds without his approval and with his heel he located the head block for the switch for every sidetrack before it could be installed. On his return, after this long absence, his office swarmed with people awaiting him. He was told of Maj. Fridley's illness, and making a short call at his own home, took a jug of whisky from his cellar and an attorney from his office by special train to Fridley's home. There he found the old man in bed, sick and discouraged. He gave him a little stimulant from the jug to warm the cockle of his heart and told him to put the rest away for future use. Then the major asked Mr. Hill what he could do for him. He answered, 'Nothing, I have come to see if I might be of some comfort and help to you at this time. I brought along an attorney, thinking as you are getting along in years with the rest of us, you might want to make a will.' The major answered that he had lost all and had nothing to will. 'All that is left is my son, who is ill.' Mr. Hill said. 'You have an equity in that land at Fridley park near Minneapolis and it is just what I want. I will pay off the mortgage and give you a good price for your equity,' and he then and there settled upon the old man a good sum, had his affairs arranged by the lawyer, giving him a competency for his own remaining days and for his son, and left the old man overwhelmed with joy and gratitude.

Mr. Hill's Kindness.

"I was in the office of Mr. Hill, Sr., once and he was showing me samples of 65 per cent iron ore from Oregon or Washington, when the veteran journalist and ex-congressman, Col. Bill King, came in, old and infirm and almost blind. It was Burns' "Age and want, Oh. ill-matched pair." He wanted to borrow a few thousand on a second mortgage on some acres outside of Minneapolis. Mr. Hill asked him how much, and without waiting to hear about the security, told his man to take the papers and give the colonel a check. The colonel wanted to tell him about how good the security was, as Mr. Lorring would have the city buy it for a park, but Mr. Hill handed him a check and, without listening to his story, returned to the iron samples. I noticed the colonel sitting there in the corner crying like a big boy and called Mr. Hill's attention to it. He hastened to his side and said: "Now, Bill, I am through with Hartley; tell me about this security." And he agreed with Bill that it was gilt-edged and that Mr. Lorring's park would be a grand success, and asked him how long he wanted the loan to run. Bill dried his tears and said he would pay him all in a year. Mr. Hill said, "Now, Bill, make it two. Upham is only paying me 3 per cent and you are paying me 6 per cent. I would be glad to have you make it two years, then you can pay it sooner if you wish." Before the note matured Bill was over the divide.

Profuse of Good Deeds.

"Mr. Hill has performed many deeds of this sort in times when they were needed, some in Duluth that I know about. It is true he has contributed largely towards driving the buffalo and the Indians from the beautiful picturesque prairies between here and the Rocky mountains, and he has stretched several railroads across these prairies and one through the mountains to the coast beyond, and he has helped to people this great expanse with Dutch and French and Irish and Greeks and Portugueses, Norwegians and Americans and a tremendous supply of Swedes, but when his work is done and he lies down to rest, he will get more comfort from these kindly deeds, always performed in that gentle manner without ostentation, than he will from all the wonderful business achievements of his masterly life.

"In conclusion, I want to say, Mr. Chairman, it affords me unusual pleasure on this occasion to join with other business men of Duluth in extending a most hearty welcome to the distinguished guest of the evening, Louis W. Hill."

W. J. OLCOTT'S TALK.

Son of Wealthy or Prominent Men Under Heavy Handicap.

W. J. Olcott spoke very briefly as follows:

"The gathering tonight occurs at a most appropriate season of the year, when we have for a short space laid aside the cares and activities of strenuous business life and devoted some of our time and attention to the enjoyment of our family circles and we hope, endeavored each in his own measure, to bring some relief and gladness into the homes and lives of the less fortunate.

"It is also a time to seriously reflect upon what we have failed to accomplish in the past and to make stronger resolutions as to the year upon which we are entering.

"It is especially a season of rejoicing, when we should forget our troubles and extend to all, high and low, the right hand of fellowship; to wish all A Happy and prosperous New Year. It is this sentiment that has brought us around these tables tonight.

"Under the law of events, it is not permitted that more than a few shall accumulate large fortunes or attain eminence and distinction, but to my mind that is not the measure of true success. Every man has it in his own power to make the best use of the talents entrusted to his care. The road is open and the way is celar for everyone to do his share to make less oppressive the burdens of the weaker and less fortunate and to promote the welfare of humanity.

"With each succeeding year, and based upon careful observations, I am more and more impressed with the handicap placed upon young men of wealthy parentage and I cannot but feel that a young man is placed at an unusual disadvantage when he attempts to follow in the footsteps of a father who has, through wonderful ability, marvelous intensity of application and keen business foresight attained a world-wide reputation.

In Spite of Advantages.

"It is a pleasure for me to be here tonight, as a loyal citizen of a city, proud of its hospitality, confident of the integrity of its people and strong in the abiding faith as to its future, when it will come into the enjoyment of those advantages due to her inherent qualities of favorable location and high citizenship; and to pay my highest respects to one who, in spite of the handicaps, such as those to which I have alluded, has rapidly and successfully, not only assumed the heavy responsibilities of an extensive commercial organization, but has of his own initiative and with marked originality, taken a deep practical interest in all matters that pertain to public welfare, not only of our own state, but also of that vast territory between here and the Pacific coast the proper development of whose resources means so much for our entire country."

J. H. BARNES' TALK.

Head of Traffic Commission Gives Resume of City's Position.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the traffic commission of the Commercial club, spoke briefly on the traffic conditions here.

"It is with great diffidence that I speak this evening and I would hardly venture to do so except that the presence here of one of the kings of transportation must needs turn our thoughts to the problem of transportation, and under that consideration I ask you to weigh a few conclusions of my own," he said.

"Community effort to be successful must represent the crystalization of the aims and purposes of leaders. Community ideas which lead to effort are crystalized by full and free discussion. Wrongly directed efforts may fruitlessly waste your time and your energy.

"Take a map of North America that shows Duluth in the farthest inland point of cheap water tranportation. Ask yourself why a port which should be the entry for a territory larger than all of Europe should not be indeed the great commercial power in this country.

"Why should not this city thrive on the tribute of the necessities and luxuries of prosperous millions? Have you ever thought of it clearly?

The Bar to Progress.

"Two hundred miles north of Duluth a single black line runs across that map like a wall across the path of destiny. That line says 'No' when we should say 'Yes.'

"Behind that barrier the patriotism and self interest of a people alert and industrious as our own labors ceaselessly to raise that barrier as high as heaven.

"Behind that line the patriotism and self interest of a separate people has created its own lake port, a needless duplication.

"Behind that line the patriotism and and self interest of a separate people with its weapon of the tariff forces from Duluth the shipping and distribution trade of the great empire that nature plainly planned for us alone.

"Fourteen times the Great Northern railroad, the boldest of our pioneer railroads, has started towards that boundary as if it were going to crush its way through and only at three points really crossed it.

"Study the railroad map and see the benumbing effect of a hostile tariff wall.

"How does it work in actual practice? Every pound of jobbing trade throughout the Canadian Northwest should go through this port. All the thousand necessities and luxuries of a rich and prosperous people should be supplied through this city, but in effect not a dollar of tribute passes through our hands.

"Even free railway communication cannot solve this for us. For instance, a jobbing house in Winnipeg doing $1,000,000 of business a year will import its stock and pay its duty on a wholesale valuation of $750,000. The same distribution of trade from Duluth crossing its border in retail lots pays a duty based on $1,000,000.

"On their average duties this means a difference against Duluth of $60,000 to $750,000 a year for that one house.

"Is it any wonder that Marshall-Wells have their own house in Winnipeg, their own house in Edmonton?

"No matter how loyal a citizen nor how commanding a personality may be, he cannot overcome such a natural handicap to commerce.

"Multiply these instances time and time again in volume. Apply it to the manifold commodities that make our civilization. Then can you longer wonder at the marvelous growth of Winnipeg and its western sisters?

"Then can you fail to appreciate how much their development owes to the factories and workshops that always accompany the distribution trade and that, but for man-made boundaries, would center at Duluth and not at Winnipeg?

Wall Cost $50,000,000.

"Fifty millions of dollars the grain raisers of Western Canada this year have sacrificed in the value of their grain crops to keep that black boundary line across the natural path of trade.

"Man-made barriers may prevail for a time, but the under-lying laws of trade will sometime, somewhere demolish this.

"Foiled then in the extension of our trade to the north in territory which, by all the laws of nature, should belong to us, our merchants turn to the south and there to meet the competition of older and richer communities more firmly intrenched and with the influence which friendship and superior tonnage both command in their making of railroad rates.

"Territory in that direction must be extended step by step. Argument and our rights, backed by the logic of changed conditions, must gain us little by little the extension of trade we covet.

"Strong men are usually just men and from the strong men of the railroad world we confidently look for fair and just treatment just as fast as calm logic and sound reasoning can convince them of the justice of our claims.

"Duluth has always played in hard luck. Artificial commercial limitations to the south and artificial political limitations to the north have hitherto restricted its legitimate field of commerce.

Will Get Results.

"We do not mind; we do not complain. We face the facts calmly and knowing what we want and what the resistless current of commerce will in time do for us, we labor patiently with the calm, sure courage of ultimate accomplishment.

"It is a bold man who says railroad cheapening of transportation has reached its zenith. It is a blind man who does not see the return of trade favor to deep water routes.

"The next three years will be epoch-making in the history of American transportation. Old cities will be revived. New centers will be created. The Panama canal will re-align the commerce of the coast, but, more important, the deep water Erie canal will assuredly help Duluth to levy its tribute upon the commerce of the great West.

"The great cities of the West will be found finally as ever, where water-borne commerce meets the rails of great distributing lines.

"The time will come and soon when Duluth will enter upon its rightful place and when its growth will be commensurate with its possibilities which means a million added opportunities for ambitious industry, thousands of homes contented because of sure employment, larger opportunity and greater contentment.

"And when that time comes, and before it, we hope the strong men of the railroad world will prepare for it rightfully, justly and capably and in the effort for added dominion for our merchants that we will find them on Duluth's side, and then, as now, Mr. Hill, we hope always to have you as our welcome guest."

MR. KELLOGG'S TALK.

St. Paul Trust Buster Draws a Lesson in Grain Growing.

Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul made a rather startling comparison of the wheat production of the Northwest and of France.

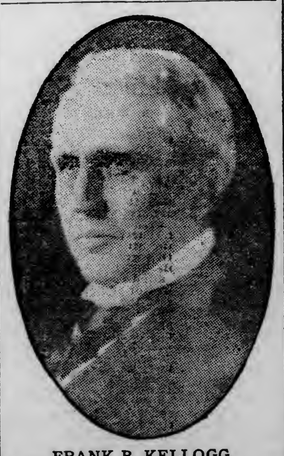

In opening his address he humorously complimented the "city that has a Cicero in every commercial organization."

"I was raised on a farm in Olmstead county," said Mr. Kellogg, "and down there when I was a young man they were abandoning wheat growing because the land was exhausted. In France they have been raising wheat since the armies of Caesar swept the plains of Gaul. In France last year they raised 375,000,000 bushels of wheat in addition to the great crops of other products. In this, the greatest wheat belt in the world, we raised only 175,000,000 bushels.

"The foundation of empire is on the farm. You can't develop the cities until you develop the country.

"Optimists always accomplish things. James J. Hill was an optimist. He built the Great Northern road to the coast, when it took every dollar he had and could borrow. His friends told him he would bankrupt himself and his friends, but he went ahead. Then his son came and saw that the country needed something. He set out to find what its needs were.

"For the hardy man, the man of ability, the man of brains and integrity, Mr. Hill has shown that there are great opportunities in the development of Minnesota, the Dakotas, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. Millions of acres there await his hand for development. He saw that to get the most out of the Northwest there must be builders of empires as well as builders of railroads and he foundation of an empire is the farm where the millions of people draw upon its wealth untold. Now what we need is to build up that country and as that country grows Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and all the other cities that spring up from here to the coast will correspond in their development."

FRANK B. KELLOGG.

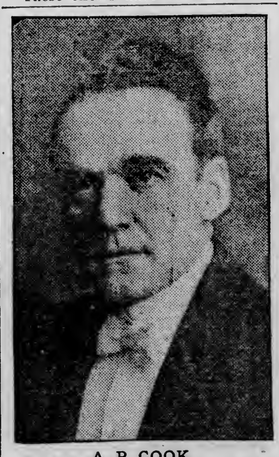

A MIGHTY FUTURE.

A. P. Cook Foresees the Great Destiny of the Great Northern.

A. P. Cook, postmaster of Duluth, speaking of the upbuilding of the Great Northern system, said:

"These efforts have subdued a continent and converted a wilderness into a beautiful and smiling garden and bound it with bands of steel, thereby making the connecting link between the the Orient and the Occident. Every business enterprise, no matter how gigantic its proportions, if built upon the solid foundations of justice, equality and friendship, has all of the elements of success, and from its inception will march an invisible guard in the van of all true progress.

"If we may judge the future progress of this great railway system by its progress in the past, it does not require that one should be endowed with prophetic vision to predict that in the future this young but great railway system, woven as it is of the stout fibre of the best brain and energy of this Western empire and nurtured by the best efforts of younger blood, when it has cast off its swaddling clothes and stands forth erect, clothed in robes of majesty and power, as intended by the great mind which made her and the great mind that guides her, shall henceforth move along the great highway of this Western world, standing at the head of the procession and marching in the van of civilized liberty. Her manifest destiny is to light and hold the torch of justice and equality, until it shall illuminate the entire pathway of the railroad world, and then equality and human rights will become heritage of mankind, and Duluth, or Duluth, will blossom like the rose."

ADVANCE IN PRICES OF OIL IS ANNOUNCED.

New York, Jan. 4.—The Standard Oil company has announced an advance of 15 points in all grades of refined oils. Refined in cases 900; standard white, 750; bulk, 400. They also announce an advance of ½ cent per gallon for all grades of naptha.

GOMPERS DENIES BOOKWALTER STORY.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Commenting upon a statement by Former Mayor Bookwalter of Indianapolis that prominent labor officials were informed more than two years ago that J. J. McNamara was engaged in dynamiting outrages, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor said:

"No person living or dead ever made such a statement to me, or even gave a hint that J. J. McNamara or any one else was engaged in a dynamite exploit or dynamite campaign."

STRIKE AGAINST THE SCIENTIFIC TIME PLAN.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 4.—There has been a walkout of mechanics at the Norfolk navy yard here as a protest against what they claim is an effort to introduce a scientific time system. The men refused to sign time cards offered to them. A total of 800 men had quit work at the navy yard. There are upwards of 2,000 men employed at the yard.

BUCKING HORSE HELPS CAPTURE BANK ROBBER.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 4.—Walking into the bank of Bixby, a small town fifteen miles south of here, a man at the point of a gun held up Cashier Lipscond yesterday, secured $700, rushed out of the bank and mounted a horse, which, however, was a Texas broncho, and commenced bucking. The cashier had given the alarm and the man was pulled from the horse by a crowd that had congregated. He was found to be O. C. Brock, a dishwasher in a Bixby restaurant, and was placed in the Tulsa city jail.

WILL OPPOSE BURNS' CLAIM TO REWARDS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—Samuel L. Brown, chief of the detectives attached to the office of the county district attorney, has announced that a legal battle was imminent between himself and Detective William J. Burns for the rewards offered for the arrest of the persons responsible for the dynamiting of the Times building. He said the rewards still in effect approximated $80,000.

Actress Commits Suicide.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—A woman leaving a note in which she gave her name as Anna La Peerier of Marinette, Wis., and her age as 21, committed suicide in a rooming house here yesterday. She said in notes that she was an actress out of a position and was tired of life.

Take Alleged Black Hander.

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 4.—Postoffice Inspector Wood has arrested Lee Canaan, a young farmer of Sully county, charging him with the authorship of recent Black Hand letters in that county. He will have a hearing Friday before United States Commissioner McCord.

Something Very New in Publishing

WE are bringing out a WEEKLY MAGAZINE. The first issue will be on sale at all news-stands on Thursday, January 4th. The name of this magazine is

THE CAVALIER

This is the first time a great big magazine has ever been issued as a WEEKLY, and THE CAVALIER is a great big magazine of 192 PAGES. Weekly publications are always thought of as of pamphlet shape. But slavery to conventionality of this sort, which is wanting in common sense, has never had much of a pull with us. The regular magazine shape, which is of the nature of a book, makes the best publication for reading and for preservation, be it weekly or monthly.

The frequency of issue has no bearing on the problem.

A NEW STORY EVERY WEEK

We shall begin a new serial story every week in THE CAVALIER—52 A YEAR. This is a whole library of books, and in addition you will get six or eight hundred short stories. All this enormous volume of reading will cost, by the year, ONLY FOUR DOLLARS. Then, too, each issue of THE CAVALIER will have a baseball article by CHARLES E. VAN LOAN, who is easily the cleverest baseball writer in the world. These baseball articles simply hum with the whir of the ball.

The Destroying Angel

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

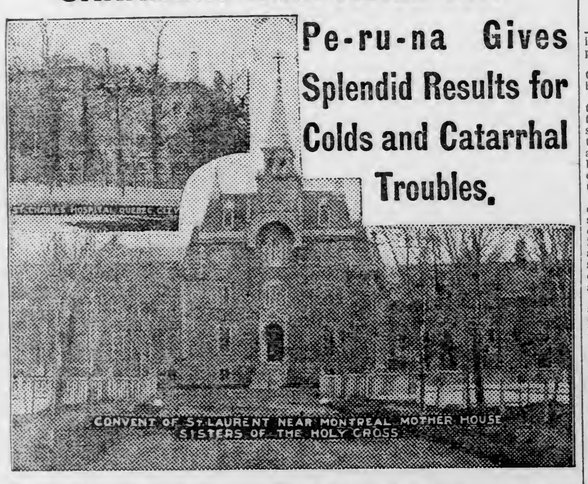

This story is very much worth while. Vance is one of the most popular book authors of the day. His books sell for $1.50, and are among the very big sellers.

Get this first copy of THE CAVALIER, in which this Vance story starts. Ask your newsdealer for it. If he has sold his supply, he can get you a copy, or you can get it from us. The price is TEN CENTS.

CANADIAN HOSPITALS SAY

Pe-ru-na Gives Splendid Results for Colds and Catarrhal Troubles.

ST. CHARLES Hospital, Quebec City. One of our sisters who commenced to take Peruna, has improved and will continue to take it. Some others are trying it also. Sr. Ste. Marie, Superior.

CONVENT of St. Laurent, near Montreal, Mother House Sisters of the Holy Cross.

After using Peruna for two or three months several members of the community have experienced such good effect that they can recommend its use to others. Sisters of the Holy Cross.

HAVING used Peruna for the past few months, for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction. The Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Montreal.

After a continued use of the remedy, this institution has found no reason to change its good opinion of the remedy and expreses its satisfaction in the following terms:

WE found Peruna a relief in several cases.

We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful. Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital of St. John, who write as follows:

WE are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old. Renoui Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

A YOUNG girl, fifteen years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

Before the treatment I could not walk for a quarter of an hour without experiencing much fatigue. Now I can walk a mile easily.

Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy.

Hospital St. John, of St. Johns, Province of Quebec.

THREE weeks ago I wrote to tell you how satisfactory we found Peruna. We recommend it highly for colds, coughs, catarrh and neuralgia.

I have used it myself as a tonic with the best results, taken as directed, half a teaspoonful every half hour.

PERUNA not only promptly relieves coughs and colds in their first stages, but is equally prompt and efficient for catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage. It is only reasonable to suppose that less medicine will be necessary to cure a slight attack than after it has been allowed to become chronic.

Catarrh of the respiratory organs is a common ailment in Canada. Therefore, when Peruna was discovered by Canadian people to be a reliable remedy for these catarrhal diseases, it at once became a popular medicine.

DULUTH AND THE RAILROADS.

The banquet to Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, was a very pleasant affair. Duluth enjoyed it, and Mr. Hill seemed to enjoy it, too. It was the occasion for a renewing of old acquaintance and for ample assurances of good will and good intentions for the future.

Mr. Hill was kind enough to say that he wanted to know just what Duluth wishes from his railroad. Duluth thought it had been making that clear. If it hasn't there should be no difficulty about making it plain. Duluth wants exact justice, not only from the Great Northern but from all other roads. It asks no special favors for itself, and it wants no special favors given or continued to other communities.

The Head of the Lakes has been moved to the Twin Cities by railroad favoritism. In other words, Duluth's advantage of adjacency to a great water highway was taken away from it by railroad differentials in favor of its competitors. In both passenger and freight traffic Duluth has been treated by the Hill roads—the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific—as a sort of poor relation of Minneapolis. Things have improved somewhat since Duluth got its back up and created a traffic commission. They are going to improve much more in the future. We should like very much to believe that last night's pleasant exchange of courtesies marks the dawning of a new era in Duluth's relationship with these railroads, and we are going to try to believe it.

There is one very substantial thing that helps us do that. Up to a recent time, Duluth had no way of retaliation against the railroads that scorned it, because it had no other western rail outlet. Now, however, the Soo road has come in, and the situation has changed radically. There is competition.

There isn't the slightest doubt about what Duluth wants. Nor is there any doubt that it is going to get it, and all of it. If Mr. Hill and the railroads with which he is associated wish to meet Duluth half way, all the better. If they don't, that won't enable them to escape meeting us, for Duluth is coming whether they come or not.

Mr. Hill spoke of a new union station, though he intimated that that is up to the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern being only a tenant. Duluth will appreciate his co-operation in a fight for a new station. It is needed. So is a Great Northern freight depot in Duluth, which isn't up to the Northern Pacific.

When things have to be done, men of sense and discretion like to do them amicably and in a spirit of co-operation. That's the way Duluth feels about it. But things that have to be done have to be done; and if they can't be done by friendly negotiation and a liberal policy on both sides, then they must be fought for. However they are done, they must be done; and that's distinctly the case with Duluth's demand for justice from the railroads.

Duluth has its own way to make, its own problems to work out, its own future to make certain. It has waited too long for others to do things for it, and it has depended too long upon the manifest destiny of its logical situation. Hereafter it will stand upon its own bottom and demand its rights, knowing that because they are rights it will get them. It will welcome all concessions, heartily respond with good will to all sincere offers of help, and generally comport itself as a city of character and dignity should. But there must be no mistake about this: that Duluth wants its full measure of justice, and that it proposes to get it.

NOT THE REAL REMEDY.

In his annual report Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor says: "The mere breaking up of large combinations into a number of smaller parts by no means meets the whole trust question."

It must be pretty plain by now to nearly everybody that that statement is true.

The Sherman law might have done some good if it had been used to prevent the great combinations that were made under its very nose during the busy year following 1897.

It doesn't seem to be doing a particle of good in remedying the conditions brought about by these combinations.

The capital of most of these trusts is grossly inflated. The Sherman law is doing nothing toward puncturing the balloon of inflated capitalization, nor will it do anything. Watering stocks is not forbidden by the Sherman law or by any other law.

The cost of living is too high, and here lies the crux of the problem. The Sherman law is doing and will do nothing toward lowering the cost of living. If anything, it will increase it. If there is any effect whatever, so far as the consumer is concerned, in splitting a trust up into three or thirty-three separate parts, it will consist of increasing the cost of its product to the consumer by increasing the overhead cost of production and distribution.

If the Sherman law had any purpose in the beginning it was to protect and preserve competition. Competition was slain while the Sherman law looked on, indolent and uninterested.

If the enforcement of the Sherman law against combinations made in violation of its provisions has any purpose aside from the punishment of powerful evildoers, it is to revive competition; but it is not possible to revive a dead thing.

The people want the powerful evildoers punished, but the way to punish evildoing is to punish those who do the evil, not to waste time and money and effort in rebuking the instruments with which they did evil.

But above all, the people want RESULTS—cheaper living, lower costs for the necessaries of life.

They will not and cannot get such results through the Sherman law. That law is wholesome in its aims, but impotent in its effects against violations that have crystalized in permanent form because of the neglect to enforce it for many years. But, however wholesome, it can do nothing toward bringing about economic justice so long as it fails to cure the evil of watered stock or to lessen the oppression of a high cost of living.

The one proceeding under the Sherman act that is logical or that can result in good is the present criminal prosecution of the men guilty of forming a meat trust and of using it to squeeze unjust profits out of the people. If these men are convicted and are punished personally, good will come of the example it will furnish. Fear then may restrain greed where moral precepts and public spirit fail to curb it.

Regulation of the great business interests by the public for the public benefit will produce real results. There will be little progress toward the solution of the trust probem until that course is adopted.

THE FIRST MILEPOST GAINED—WHAT NEXT?

Many a millionaire, securely buttressed by his abundant wealth, has told aspiring youth that the hardest work on the road to fortune is to accumulate the first thousand dollars. With that as a start, they said, the rest was easy.

As the second in its series of contests The Herald presents the letter of a young man of 35 who has a family, a permanent position, and a thousand dollars which he has saved in ten years. He wants to know what use he shall make of his savings to carry him further on the road to fortune. Shall he keep his job and invest the money, and if so how shall he invest it? Shall he go into business, and if so what kind of business and how shall he go about it?

It is taken for granted that this young man has intelligence, industry and ambition. His letter shows that he has.

The Herald will be glad to receive answers to his question, subject to the rules governing the contest, and it will publish as many of them as it can. For the three answers judged to be the best it will award prizes of $10, $5 and $3.

This question should appeal to men who have had experience, and who can therefore give testimony of unusual value. The contest gives them a chance to make public use of their knowledge, hard won in the school of life. The Herald hopes to get replies from many to whom the prizes will not appeal because they do not need the money; but the contest is open to all.

THE COMMISSION PLAN IN OPERATION—14.

Corpus Christi, Tex., adopted the commission plan in 1909. Since then the city has paid $18,000 of its floating indebtedness, which is a good deal to do in a town of 9,000 people. The old government had made no permanent improvements. Under the commission form extensive improvements have been made in regrading and paving the streets and building sidewalks, and in the construction of water and sewerage systems. Property values have doubled.

It isn't a very farfetched notion, is it, that a plan of city government that could accomplish so much for Corpus Christi and other communities would do Duluth some good?

HOW FRANCE HELPS HOMEBUILDERS.

Consider for a moment the way in which the French government helps its citizens to become home-owners.

It may be taken for granted that everybody believes in home-owning. Governments ought to by all means, because home-owners are better citizens than renters and boarders. In fact a man is scarcely a citizen at all, in the full sense of the word, until he gets a property stake in the welfare of the community, the state and the nation.

In this country building associations, installment plan corporations and other more or less private concerns have to jump into the breach. They serve a useful purpose, and they have helped many to get homes who could not have gained them otherwise. But the public—the government, that is—does nothing.

And that brings us back to France again, even if we did wander far from there for a moment.

Three years ago the "law Ribot" was passed in France, named after its proposer. Its object was to help workingmen get homes. Under it the state lends money to the peasant or workingman at 2 per cent. He repays this, a little each month as he may, until finally the government is repaid and he owns his home.

The state will not lend to everyone. Only the poor man is favored. The amount that can be borrowed is limited. Those who borrow must give assurance that they are thrifty and will make good. Obviously, the best method of giving that assurance is to produce savings; so that is the basis. The prospective builder must have in hand a fifth of the cost of his home. He must take out and carry a life insurance policy to secure the state for the amount he borrows. If he dies, his widow comes into possession of the home, fully paid for. The state is reimbursed out of the life insurance.

For instance, a man who has saved $160 can borrow $640. After the style of house he wants is approved and other formalities complied with he can begin building. He pays the state $3.75 a month, and his home is paid for in twenty-five years. Of course if he has a good position he can pay more and get his title sooner.

In St. Omer there are two neighboring houses, very like each other. The first one, which has no garden, rents for $6 a month. The other, next door, has a good garden—which means a lot to the frugal and industrious French wife, because she will raise in it a large proportion of the family's food. The second house was built under the law Ribot by a brakeman who had saved $300. He borrowed $840 from the government at 2 per cent interest. He is now paying $5 a month, and he will own his home in twenty-five years. His neighbor pays a dollar a month more for a poorer place, which he never will own no matter how long he pays.

That's making the government very useful to the poor man. But of course anything so rankly paternalistic—even "Socialistic," if you please—is not to be thought of in this land of the free.

GOOD WORK, COUNCIL!

The city council did two pretty things Tuesday night for which it deserves full credit. In providing funds for the rock pile so that employment may be given to needy workingmen out of jobs, and in providing winter drinking fountains so that working horses may get water during the winter, it did signal public service. All praise to it.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

APPRECIATION FROM LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have at hand your editorial of Dec. 2d, upon the "city plan." I am much pleased that it comprehents so much that is practical rather than that which merely appeals to the eye. I have appreciated for a long time the opportunities of Duluth, both in the way of a city plan, a park system, or well developed private homes. Yours sincerely,

A. PHELPS WYMAN.

Minneapolis, Jan. 2.

Labor is Worship.

Pause not to dream of the future before us;
Pause not to weep the wild cares that come o'er us.
Hark, how Creation's deep, musical chorus,
Unintermitting, goes up into heaven!
Never the ocean wave falters in flowing;
Never the little seed stops in its growing;
More and more richly the rose heart keeps glowing,
Till from its nourishing stem it is riven.

"Labor is worship!"—the robin is singing;
"Labor is worship!"—the wild bee is ringing;
Listen! that eloquent whisper upspringing
Speaks to thy soul from out Nature's great heart.
From the rough sod blows the soft-breathing flower;
From the small insect, the rich coral bower;
Only man, in the plan, ever shrinks from his part.

Labor is life! 'Tis the still water faileth;
Idleness ever despaireth, bewaileth;
Keep the watch wound, for the dark rust assaileth;
Flowers droop and die in the stillness of noon.
Labor is glory!—the flying cloud lightens;
Only the waving wing changes and brightens;
Idel hearts only the dark future frightens;
Play the sweet keys, wouldst thou keep them in tune.

Labor is rest from the sorrows that greet us,
Rest from all petty vexations that meet us.
Rest from sin-promptings that ever entreat us,
Rest from world sirens that lure us to ill.
Work—and pure slumbers shall wait on thy pillow;
Lie not down wearied 'neath Woe's weeping willow;
Work with a stout heart and resolute will!

Labor is health! Lo, the husbandman reaping,
How through his veins goes the life current leaping!
How his strong arm, in its stalwart pride sweeping,
True as a sunbeam the swift sickle guides.
Labor is wealth! In the sea the pearl groweth;
Rich the queen's robe from the frail cocoon floweth;
From the fine scorn the strong forest bloweth;
Temple and statue the marble block hides.

Droop not, though shame, sin and anguish are round thee;
Bravely fling off the cold chain that hath bound thee;
Look to yon pure heaven smiling beyond thee;
Rest not content in thy darkness—a clod.
Work for some good, be it ever so slowly;
Cherish for some flower, be it ever so lowly;
Labor! all labor is noble and holy;
Let they great deeds be thy prayer to thy God.

—Frances S. Osgood.

There, 1911, Take That!

New York Sun: With no wish to jump upon an officeholder just kicked out, we must be allowed to say that the "departing year" was a shambling futility, failure, quack and humbug. An ass of a year; a Dogherry of days. Business, trying to lift its head, was bulldozed, swatted and wickershammed. Both political parties and most of the politicians bid against one another in their fury to demonstrate which could put the most cruel proscriptions on energy, thrift, success, strangle tightest the development and the free action of industry, offer the largest bribe to envy and ignorance, get furthest away from government according to the Constitution and the nearest to the tumultuous whimsies of the mob.

A year of demagogism, of hollow vociferant ranting, of convalescing business frightened or forced out of its natural recovery, of politics putrid and unashamed. So much for 1911; the devil fly away with him and much good may it do him!

May that horrible example be profitable to his successor!

The Yellow Press.

Sydney Brooks in Harper's Weekly: Have we a yellow press in England? I think we undoubtedly have but in a different and less concentrated, and therefore less harmful, form. If you were to take a paper like the Lloyd's News or the People and mix it up with the Police Gazette and Comic Cuts and Ally Sloper and Illustrated Bits and the Tatler—or whatever other of our weekly papers is the chosen haunt and promenade of our actresses and chorus girls—and add a dash of the Daily Mail in one of its more ebullient moods and especially on Sunday, you would get something that tamely and distantly resembled the ordinary "yellow" journal of the United States. The British "yellowness" is diffused among a multitude of little sheets, mostly weeklies, that the ordinary man hardly ever sees. The American "yellowness" is brought together under a single cover and exploded upon the city in a way there is no escaping. Still, the disease is with us, but in a mild form and isolated cases. There are any number of penny weeklies in England that hand out to their readers every week a serial story about life in the "highest circles," a short story packed with "heart-interest," articles on the removal of grease-spots and the best method of coping with the cold mutton, anecdotes of royalty, photographs of peeresses, hints on dress, chats about baby and sweet peas and premature grayness, great thoughts from the dead, half hours in the editor's cozy sanctum, a slab of brown paper as a pattern for a tasty tunic, advice on matters of the heart by Dr. Cupid, picture puzzles, missing word competitions (which are smeared over with a grease of piety in the case of the religious papers), a pound a week for life or a cottage and a wife, which ever you please, if you guess the number of words in Mr. Lloyd-George's next speech, and a paper cooking bag. I do not know whether these productions ought to be called "yellow," but I am very sure that for sheer brainlessness, snobbishness, and worst of the American "yellows." So I do not think that we English should give ourselves too many airs.

NO POLITICS AT ST. CLOUD?

They Need Glasses.

Elk River Star-News: The up-country newspapers seem to be contented with the statement that there was "no politics" at the St. Cloud development meeting. The boys must have something the matter with their eyesight.

Politics Inevitable.

Bear River Journal: The Northern Minnesota Development association meeting at St. Cloud developed a whole lot of politics in spite of the half-hearted protestations of its officers that politics would be barred. It's amusing to read such statements when every question on the program for discussion is loaded with political dynamite.

More Was Expected.

Brainerd Journal Press: The Northern Minnesota Development meeting held at St. Cloud turned out somewhat different than was expected by a majority of the people of the state. At the Brainerd meeting a year ago the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, further, That in the event of the 1911 legislature failing to pass a reapportionment measure, we urgently request that the governor reconvene the legislature in extra session for the express purpose of passing a reapportionment measure."

And still the association turned and only affirmed the stand taken previously. This is possibly due to some extent to the association being dominated by outside political interest to a great extent. It is further said that there were two politicians there to every delegate to the meeting, and to say that this would not have any bearing on the association would be making a wild statement. And it is to be regretted that politics to any degree should enter into the business of the association, and turn it from the clear stand it has heretofore taken.

The Truth About It.

Cass Lake Times: The scheme for an extra session originated in politics and has died in politics. It is impregnated with poison and should be handled with antiseptic gloves. It has nearly been the undoing of Mr. Gordon, but he may have learned something.—Duluth News Tribune.

If "the scheme for an extra session" did not originate with Governor Eberhart, he emphatically indorsed it. It died in politics because it died at the St. Cloud convention. The doctor's certificate reads—Too much G. O. P., which produced the "poison," hence the "antiseptic gloves."

Did Not Increase Strength.

St. Hilaire Spectator: There were two political lobbyists to every delegate at the St. Cloud convention and they used all the influence they could exert to prevent the association reaffirming the demand of the Brainerd convention for an extra session. The Northern Minnesota Development association did not increase its strength or influence by this abandonment of the courageous stand it took at Brainerd.

Selfish Politics.

Monticello Times: From a perusal of our exchanges we judge that the recent meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association at St. Cloud contained more politics than development—and selfish, personal politics at that.

Middleton's View.

Cass Lake Times: Attorney C. R. Middleton and Mayor J. U. Williams returned Monday from the big convention at St. Cloud, in a very disgusted frame of mind. The triumph of the politicians in the extra session fight was a bitter pill to swallow. However both gentlemen covered themselves with glory. Mr. Middleton was on the committee dealing with reapportionment, and found himself practically alone in the plea for justice for Northern Minnesota.

He made a rousing fight, however, and forced the issue into the convention hall and got it before the delegates. While he did not win he made a name for himself as one of the big men of Minnesota. He showed that he was not at the call of the politicians and the interests, and he made many friends among those who have the real interests of Northern Minnesota at heart. Mayor Williams gave him able assistance. Baudette has every reason to be proud of its delegtes.—Baudette Region.

The returns from the state country press are more and more convincing that the convention at St. Cloud was a political conclave veneered with a few good resloutions to cover the purpose of the meeting—that of patching up the Republican machine for another contest. Patches were needed it is true, but the ones applied at the convention will not serve. When they talk of "justice to Northern Minnesota," read what Mr. Middleton says in the above, as standing "practically alone" in his fight as committee on reapportionment. Cut it out and paste in your hat.

Maxfield's Appointment.

Pine River Sentinel: A great many will have to agree with The Duluth Herald that there were some politics at St. Cloud. The appointment of H. J Maxfield by Governor Eberhart as immigration commissioner looks a good deal like payment for his anti-extra session talk in reviewing the work of the association. We have no fault to find with Mr. Maxfield as an applicant for the position but it seems that there were those just as deserving who wanted it although they were not quite as strong against an extra session.

As to 1-Cent Postage.

Leslie's Weekly: A scheme has been devised, obvious on its face, to create public sentiment for 1-cent postage, and over this, through raising the rate for second-class matter, to strike at all newspapers and periodicals. To offset the protests against increasing the second-class rate which has prevailed for over a quarter of a century, the One-Cent Letter Postage association, abundantly financed, is making a systematic effort to line up senators and representatives at Washington for a demand for a 1-cent rate bill.

It is the city that uses red stamps—not all its inhabitants, either, but the great offices that center in the city. A single large mail order house or one of our great insurance companies will probably use more 2-cent stamps in a year than several rural counties. Government reports show that about 63 per cent of all letters are mailed from first-class postoffices, while the twelve largest cities alone mail 34 per cent. In contrast wtih this we have only 4.8 per cent mailed by rural routes in 1909. But if the farmer's share of first-class mail is small, his proportion of second-class mail received is extremely large. With but 22 per cent of the population, the farmers on rural routes receive nearly 33 per cent of all the newspapers and periodicals sent through the mails. Penny postage would mean the foisting of a large part of the $60,000,000 deficit upon the village and country population. This would be injustice of the worst sort, and yet, by maintaining the present 2-cent rate injustice is done to no one. The large purchasers of 2-cent stamps in the cities cannot complain, for they are thus able to solicit business over an unlimited territory, at the trifling cost of a stamp.

A Voting Resolution.

Kansas City Star: New Year's resolution for election year:

I will vote for those city, state and national candidates who I believe will be most effective in managing the public business, in getting rid of privilege and in furthering social justice and the square deal. And this I will do without regard to which party saved the Union or stood for home rule a generation ago.

The Ignorant Thing!

Washington Star: Mrs. Kaller—Cooks are such ignorant things nowadays.

Mrs. Justwed—Aren't they? They can't do the simplest things. I asked mine to make some sweetbreads the other day and she said she couldn't.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

•••Miss Florence Ames entertained about forty of her friends last evening at her home on West Third street. It was a quotation party and Scott Cash won first prize for digging out the greatest number of quotations.

•••Among the New Year's parties given was that of the Ladies' Eucher club at the residence of Alderman C. A. Long. The party was arranged by a committee consisting of Mesdames C. A. Long, E. R. Brace, W. D. Helmbach and R. S. Powell, and about twenty-five couple were present. Mrs. E. E. Kennedy won the first prize for ladies and Mrs. A. C. Otis the second. A. C. Otis won the first prize for gentlemen and E. C. Holliday the second.

•••C. E. Peaslee of Taylors Falls, Minn., is in the city. He is the senior member of the commission firm of Peaslee & Co., of West Duluth.

•••The people of Lakeside are circulating a petition to have H. G. Inman appointed alderman to fill the unexpired term of J. M. Smith, who resigned to go to New York.

•••The annual meetings of the stockholders of the Motor Line Improvement company was held today and the following directors were elected: G. G. Hartley, J. D. Stryker, J. D. Ensign, Joseph Sellwood, A. R. Macfarlane, W. W. Billson, E. M. Hunter, J. A. Willard, J. B. Howard, H. W. Coffin and Austen Mendenhall.

•••The Duluth Curling club, formed lately with about thirty members, has just covered its rink at Third avenue east and Superior street and will start playing at once, after a wait of several weeks for ice.

•••The Ohio Mining company, which has two pits in ore on the Mesaba range, completed its organization today. Its officers are Governor James E. Campbell of Ohio, president; M. R. Baldwin of Duluth, vice president; Dr. Fred Barrett of Tower, secretary and treasurer. The incorporators are James E. Campbell, E. D. Sawyer and W. J. Hilands of Cleveland, C. F. Nester of West Virginia, S. R. Ainslie of Milwaukee, Dr. Fred Barrett of Tower, R. S. Munger, M. R. Baldwin, T. H. Pressnell and J. K. Persons of Duluth.

•••G. H. Reeves has resigned his position as station agent at West Duluth and will be succeeded by H. P. Brown, at present agent at Twentieth avenue.

•••J. M. Derby, the well known land attorney, was found dead in his room at the Spalding yesterday. He had a bad cold the night before and took some cough mixture. It is thought an overdose caused his death. He was nearly 40 years old and leaves a wife and son.

SIMPLIFIED CITY GOVERNMENT.

Clinton Rogers Woodruff in Yale Review: The commission system has appealed strongly to public sentiment in the East as well as in the West. Of this fact there can be do doubt. One has only to examine the figures. One hundred and seventy communities are now operating under the plan, and more than as many more are thoughtfully considering its adoption. On the other hand, there are not wanting those who predict an early failure of the whole idea. The president of the Dallas Citizens' association (which nominated the present board of commissioners) is quoted as frankly declaring that it has not as yet "met its real test." He is further quoted as saying: "As the newness wears off it remains to be seen whether the politician, the spoilsman, the grafter, and the demagogue may not under it obtain a firmer and more dangerous hold on the municipality than was ever possible under the old aldermanic form of government. As time passes, the public conscience will become less acute and the busy private citizen, accustomed to careful and honest administration of his city's affairs, will naturally cease that constant watchfulness that is the price of civic decency. Then the professional politicians and spoilsmen, who have been temporarily separated from their chosen profession, will be quick to take advantage of the lethargy of the busy good citizen and the lull in public conscience and will come again into what he considers his own—the control of the city's government. When this time shall come, and unquestionably it will come in some of our cities which have so propitiously started out under the commission form of government, the opportunity for graft and bossism will be immeasurably increased over what was ever possible under the older form of government, when authority was more widely distributed and power less concentrated."

This observer overlooks certain important facts in regard to this movement. "It was a fool," declared Mark Twain, "who said 'don't put all your eggs in one basket.' The wise man puts all his eggs in one basket and then watches that basket." The ordinary government of American cities has exhibited the folly of putting the eggs in many baskets. In our fear that some of our public officials might steal and egg now and then, we have so scattered our eggs that nobody could watch them, nor, for that matter, even tell where they all were. The keystone of success of American private corporations, as a recent writer has pointed out, is a system by which in the entire business some individual is held personally responsible for everything done or left undone. The recognition of this necessity has created the new profession of "business systematizers."

Until recently the average citizen did not know who was responsible for his defective municipal charter and the unsatisfactory budgets and reports. Nor did he know how to go to work to change this condition. It is doubtful if even a finance commission like Boston's could readily do so. It may be that a city is getting as good value for its expenditures as its neighbors for their smaller ones. It may be quite the reverse. It may be that all its officials are honest and competent. The point is that under the present system it is difficult to find out and determine these facts.

Under commission government such a situation does not exist to the same degree. Some official is made personally responsible for every dollar of public expenditures, and any man of average intelligence can with a little attention find out who spent the money, for what it was spent, and whither the article purchased cost more or less than private individuals paid for the same thing. This is a great advantage, and the results attained have been achieved because of this direct and almost unescapable responsibility of the commissioners. It is generally believed by those who have studied the situation that the records of the commission-governed cities show that the plan has invariably led to improvement over the old system. In some instances, the improvement has been marked, even phenomenal; but in most cases it has been merely what might be reasonably expected from the introduction of better business methods. It has not always resulted in an actual reduction in the cost of running the city, but it has invariably resulted in an improvement in the services rendered. In all cases the city has been placed on a cash basis, and its credit raised to par and above. All cities have received interest on their deposits, and have obtained such discounts as have been offered for cash payments. In general, there has been an increase in the yearly improvements made, and in most cities a more liberal park policy has been pursued. In practically all cities operaing public utilities, there has been an increase in the revenue and a reduction in operating expenses.

How to Determine Profit.

Business for December: Profit is what is left of the selling price after all costs and expenses have been paid. Expense begins with the goods. The first step in determining profit, therefore, is to determine the cost of the goods as laid down in the store.

To lay goods down in a store, there is first the initial cost of buying—the buyers time. In the ordinary store this is inconsiderable, and is consequently disregarded. In a department store where a buyer is kept busy the greater part of his time, that time is chargeable directly against the cost of the goods. Second is the list cost of the goods purchased. Third is the freight. Fourth is the drayage and time of employes in placing received goods in storage, on the shelves or on display. These charges, totaled, are the first group of expenses.

To keep goods in a store there are two sets of charges. First are those running against the building, whether owned or rented. If owned, the items of interest, rent, insurance, taxes, heat, light and water, and depreciation are chareable as fixed expenses. Second are parellel charges against the goods—charges that come whether the goods are sold or not. Interest, rent, insurance, taxes and depreciation are chargeable against the store.

To sell goods several sets of charges mature. First is cost of labor, to include clerks and other employes on pay roll, your own salary, and that of any of the members of your family, wheter on the pay roll or not. Second, advertising expense, including advertising of whatever kind, including cost of window displays, donations, and dues to local, state or national associations, and money spent entertaining customers to further asles. Third, "sales wear," or "sales depreciation;" goods sent out and returned damaged; goods destroyed, lost or stolen, or not charged. Fourth, collection costs and concessions, allowances and discounts on customers' payments; collection expense. Fifth, deliverv expense.

When the foregoing items (exclusive of the first group) are totaled, it gives the cost to run. This total, divided by the total sales for the same time—preferably one year—gives the per cent which it costs to run.

To determine the net profit or loss on any item, deduct the percentage it costs to run, from the price at which sold. From the figures so obtained, subtract the cost (buyer's time plus list price plus freight and drayage); this gives net profit or loss on that item.

Lost.

Harper's Weekly: "Well, Tommie," said the joyous Slithers, "you must congratulate me. I am going to marry your sister."

"Oh, thunder," growled Tommy.

"Why, Tommie!" protested Slithers. "Don't you like me?"

"Oh, yes, I like you well enough," said Tommie, "but I bet Mabel a pound of candy you wouldn't be fool enough to ask her, and she bet you would."

The "Giving-up" Habit.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Do you expect to give up anything at the beginning of the year?"

"Yes. I'm going to give up a month's rent, for one thing."

Annual Meeting Jan. 17 at Association Building.

The regular annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian association will be held at the association rooms in Duluth, Minn., on Wednesday, Jan. 17, beginning at 8 p. m. for the purpose of electing directors and one trustee, and amending the articles of incorporation and to transact any and all other business which may come before the meeting.

TWO CONCERTS.

Normanna Chorus to Sing in Hibbing.

The Normanna Male Chorus if this city will go to Hibbing to give two concerts there on Sunday afternoon and evening at the Power theater. Gustav Flaaten is the director of the chorus which is one of the best musical societies in the state. Mrs. Gustav Flaaten will be the accompanist at the concerts and Mrs. Alphin Flaaten, soprano, and Miss Valborg Gunderson, violinist will be the soloists on the program.

WOMAN'S COUNCIL.

Drama League and Other Matters to Be Discussed.

Discussion of the formation of a Duluth branch of the Drama league will be one of the principal topics at the meeting of the Woman's council which will be held tomorrow morning at the library club room at 10 o'clock. The women in Mrs. Seymour's dramatic structure classes have considered this question although nothing definite has been done but matters are gradually coming to a point where the organization of such a branch in Duluth will soon be effected.

Other public questions will be discussed by the council and reports of the work which the various committees have been doing will be given. Mrs. J. L. Washburn will preside.

VARIED PROGRAM.

Mme. Alda Will Sing Twenty Songs.

The program which Mme. Frances Alda, the noted lyric soprano will sing at her concert here on Monday evening, Jan. 15 at the Lyceum theater is a wonderfully well chosen program and one which should please the most critical. Mme. Alda will sing twenty numbers arranged in four groups. There is a French group, a German group, an Italian group and a group of English songs comprising a program sufficiently varied to display the artist's versatility and ability.

Mme. Alda received the following notice in the "Musical America" after her concert in New York on Dec. 5:

"No recital singer in New York has the ability to attract so brilliant and distinguished an audience as Frances Alda, and when the young soprano made her annual appearance in Carnegie hall last Tuesday afternoon the auditorium was a sight to behold. Many of the leading lights of the Metropolitan Opera company—among them Caruso, Toscanini, Segurola, Louise Homer and scores of others of social and artistic prominence—occupied the boxes and applauded the work of the diva with uncontrolled delight. And the floral tributes after every division of the program elicited 'ahs' and 'ohs' from almost everyone in the house.

"Mme. Alda deserved all the applause and flowers that she got. Her limpid, crystalline voice was at its loveliest and she poured it out with lavishness. Her admirers further noted with no little pleasure that she uses it with more artistic discretion than formerly and that the tones have become more equalized throughout its compass. Experience in recital singing has imparted to Mme. Alda's delivery far more poise, authority and mature finish than marked it when she first entered the field."

Informal Party.

Miss Florence Wade was hostess last evening at an informal evening party. The time was spent with music and games by the following guests:

Misses—
Minnie Hatley, Mary Cosgrove,
Mary Devaney, Marion England,
Elizabeth Devaney, Mary Wade,
Rose Warm,

Messrs.—
Leo McArthy, Ernest Wetterhahn,
James Hover, Arthur Green,
Clarence Hegland, John McArthy,
Earl Burkley, James McDonough,
Cecil Carroll,
Walter McArthy,

FETE TO BE SURPRISE

Dancing and Tableux on Program at Spalding.

One of the most interesting events of the season is the King's Daughters' Fete, which will be given tomorrow evening at the Spalding hotel for the purpose of starting a Day Nursery fund. A vaudeville performance by society people will take up the first half of the evening. Interpretive dancing by society matrons and members of the King's Daughters' society, folk dancing by a group of little children and solo dance by little Miss Elizabeth Maule, Joan Robson and Gertrude Collins.

Several tableux have been planned and other features which the members of the program committee decline to divulge as they say it is to be a complete surprise.

The vaudeville program will commence promptly at 9 o'clock and will continue until supper is served in the cafes. After the supper a dancing party will be held.

There has been some confusion in the matter of invitations, many people reporting that their tickets did not reach them and the King's Daughters have appointed a committee to be at the hotel just before the fete to give out the tickets to all who expected to attend but who failed to receive invitations.

THE EVENING STORY

A SHOCKING IMPRUDENCE

By Florence Warden.

Author of the "House on the Marsh," "Tom Dawson," etc.

"It is most kind of you!"

Thus, gratefully and warmly, Ermyntrude Sedgeley, a merry brunette of 20 years of age, to a quiet mannered-man of about 35, with a dark moustache and a look of demure fun in his black eyes.

From the other side of the hedge, raising his hat politely, and speaking in a melodious and winning voice, he had offered his services to a party of three forlorn girls and a dismal, elderly maid, who were all running distractedly in and out of Cheringham cottage, waiting for the furniture vans which delayed their coming most unmercifully.

For two hours they had waited in the empty house they had taken, until Mrs. Sedgeley, mother of two of the girls, aunt to the third, and mistress to the elderly maid, had wandered away in despair into the village, rather with the vague feeling of unrest consequent on her unhappy situation than because she thought she could hurry along the vans which were not yet in sight.

"Now, what do you want the most?" asked the chivalrous stranger, as he got over the hedge with the help of the low bough of an overhanging tree, and kindly warnings to "take care!" from the young ladies. "Suppose we make a beginning with a small table and some chairs?"

"Oh, thank you so much! I don't know how to thank you. Poor mama will be so grateful!"

"And then you would like some tea. I'll have some sent in. I know that, when ladies are ever so miserable, it only takes the sight of a cup of tea to raise their spirits again to the proper level." There was a chorus of delighted giggles, and he went on—"That's because they are so much better tempered by nature than we men are. It takes a jolly lot more than that to make us amiable."

"Not when they're like you," cried Sheila, a shy young creature of sixteen, whose shyness was momentarily conquered by the force of circumstances.

The stranger made her a low bow.

"That's nice of you," said he. "Nobody has ever said quite such a nice thing to me before. I must earn the right to it. I'll have that tea before you can count 100."

"Then it won't have 'drawn' properly!" cried Ermyntrude merrily, as he hurried down the little garden to the gate, to make his exit in a more dignified manner than he had made his entrance.

He looked back laughing and raising his hat, amidst a merry chorus of laughter from the grateful girls, who at once began a babel of comment upon their neighbor's kindness.

"Who is he?" asked Rosemary, the cousin. She was 25, a prim young woman, who disapproved, as much as did her aunt, of chance acquaintances.

"Why, of course, he must be Sir Gregory Ilford, since he comes from that big house next door," said Ermyntrude. "Cheringham Court it's called. Yes. Look. He's going in there."

"I wish aunt had been here," said Rosemary anxiously. "You don't know anything about these people, and I know she wouldn't approve of you putting ourselves at once under obligation like this."

"Oh, how absurd, Rosemary! And how ungrateful! I'm sure he's the nicest man I ever met."

"And he's so good-looking," added Sheila, enthusiastically.

"Perhaps Mrs. Sedgeley will be back before he comes," she said nervously. "Oh, dear, no, there he is!"

A chorus of merry laughter from the girls announced that the new friend was in sight. Struggling manfully with a table in one hand and a couple of light chairs in the other, and half extinguished by a basket arm-chair which he had placed on his head, he stalked down the garden with an assumption of a martial tread, followed by an imposing butler with a tray and tea-cups.

"Don't laugh at me! It's unkind!" said the stranger, plaintively, as he staggered up the garden path, and stopped before the cottage porch. "Just tell me where to put these things and then I'll go back for some more."

Master and man entered the cottage, placed table and chairs and tea-tray in the front room, which was to be the drawing-room, and retired to fetch further supplies.

The girls were chattering gaily, laughing merrily, and reclining at their ease in the chairs already provided by their thoughtful friend, when the door opened, and Mrs. Sedgeley, severe in matronly indignation at the failure of the mover's men, entered the room.

She uttered an exclamation of surprise at what she saw, instead of the comfortless, bare room she had left, she now beheld seats and delightful preparations for much needed refreshment.

"Where did all these things come from?" she gasped out. "Not I hope from—"

Her voice, in which rising disquietude could be noted, was drowned in a merry chorus of explanations.

In the midst of the various replies, one phrase caught Mrs. Sedgeley's ear, vivid, significant, unmistakable!

"The gentleman from next door."

"From next door!" she exclaimed with tragic emphasis, a low wail of horror and dismay escaping the matronly lips. "Just what I most wished to avoid! We must send them back at once. Field, you must take back the chairs and table, and tell Sir Gregory Ilford that we are much obliged, but that our own things have come."

"But he's sending us in some tea! Oh, mamma, do be reasonable. Whatever he has done, he is awfully nice," said Ermyntrude.

"Yes, he's a charming man, I know. But that is only another reason why he should be avoided. Unfortunately, his manners are better than his morals."

"Well, what has he done?" demanded the girl.

"I can't tell you. It's too shocking."

"Perhaps it isn't true," urged Sheila, quite excited in defense of the fascinating stranger.

"It is true," reiterated Mrs. Sedgely, losing her temper before the threatened revolt. "This Sir Gregory Ilford is a man of infamous character. He is a bigamist, and he treated his wife shamefully."

"I don't believe it. I don't believe he could treat any woman badly. He's too nice," cried Ermyntrude with passion. "Sh-sh!"

Standing at the open window, very calm, but perhaps rather paler than he had been when they saw him last, the courteous stranger was holding a teapot in one hand and a sugar bowl in the other, while the butler, who looked rather scared, was standing behind him, with a cream jug, a plate of bread and butter, and baskets of fruit and cake on a large tray.

"I've been knocking at the door, but I couldn't make you hear, and there doesn't seem to be any bell," said the stranger mildly. "I've brought you some tea, if you care to have it."

Mrs. Sedgely was making her way to the window, but Ermyntrude interposed her person, and answered him with a gentle and grateful smile.

"It's so very good of you," she said gratefully, "but—"

"Oh, don't say but. Do take it. What does it matter who I am or what I've done, as long as you're hungry and tired."

His tone betrayed a touch of temper.

Ermyntrude looked distressed and bit her lip. Mrs. Sedgely took advantage of the pause and placed herself between her daughter and the window. Speaking in that sub-acid tone adopted by matrons when they intend utterly to crush a member of the obtrusive sex, she said with a convention smile which did not mask an expression of penetrating disapproval—

"It's so very good of you and we should have been delighted, but we have had tea already. And we really couldn't think of imposing upon your kindness any further. So you'll let me send back the chairs, won't you?"

The stranger raised his eyebrows and withdrew the teapot.

"Oh, certainly," he said in the tone of coldness corresponding in the crushed male to hers. "I apologize for my instrusion."

He bowed in as dignified a manner as it is possible to do when one is encumbered with a tea pot and sugar bowl, and abruptly withdrew.

"Field, why don't you refuse the loan of the chairs?" The maid who had been many years with the family, shrugged her shoulders. "It's no use talking with Miss Ermyn," she said rather tartly. "She was determined to make friends with this gentleman and I could not stop her."

Meanwhile she was collecting the borrowed furniture and striving in vain to get the basket chair through the door. While doing this, she instinctively turned round to look for help and then made the disconcerting discovery that her two daughters had disappeared.

"Where are those girls?" she cried sharply.

Her niece and the maid exchanged a stealthy glance, but said nothing. They probably guessed at the shocking act of mutiny of which Ermyntrude and Sheila had both been guilty.

For those two girls had stolen out of the room, and gone into the garden, where, standing together close to the hedge, they could see the cruelly treated tenant of Cheringham court slowly making his way up his own garden, with the despised teapot in one hand.

On catching sight of the two girls, the rebuffed propreitor of the tea pot exchanged his brisk pace for a saunter, and, looking over the lid of the vessel, heaved a deep sigh.

The girls tried hard not to giggle, not even to grow red, but they did both, and their neighbor, waving the tea pot as a sort of flag-of-truce, came stealthily near the hedge, and looking over, sighed deeply.

"I'm awfully sorry to have been guilty of overhearing what was not meant for my ears," he began in a subdued voice "but I really couldn't help hearing what the lady who has the honor to be your mamma said about me."

The girls did not know which way to look. Confused, distressed, perplexed, and half incredulous, Ermyntrude floundered into speech.

"Oh, I'm so dreadfully, dreadfully sorry. She—mamma — didn't understand how kind you had been," she said apologetically.

"Oh, it's all right. Don't distress yourself about it. I don't mind really. And as for what I did, I assure you," and he waved the tea pot with so much energy that the hot tea came out over his hand and made him jump, "I assure you that you wouldn't have blamed me if you had known all the circumstances."

"Oh, no, I'm quite sure we wouldn't," murmered Ermyntrude hastily, anxious not to have to listen to a disconcerting confession.

But he refused to be silenced.

"What can you do with a wife who won't lend you her embroidery scissors to cut your tobacco with?" As the girls stared at him with puzzled faces, he went on stamping his foot and gesticulating violently, but this time taking the precaution not to use the tea pot hand. "What can you do with a wife who doesn't use hairpins? That's what I married her for, so that I should always have a hairpin handy to mend my motor car or to clean my pipe! And the creature won't use them just to spite me! So there was no help for it, you see, I had to get another one. And I behaved beautifully over it. Instead of being unkind or rough, as any other man might have been, I just took her up by the head—her hair was too short, you see, for me to take her by the hair, and I held her out of the first-floor window and shook her two or three times, and then let her drop. Now, if I'd been cruel by nature, I shouldn't have chosen a first-floor window, but a third floor. What are you laughing at? Really ladies, this is a serious matter. Ask your mamma if it isn't?"

"It isn't true," cried Shiela, bursting out at last into the laughter she had in vain been trying to repress. "You never did that to any wife!"

He turned, with a face of unmoved gravity, to Ermyntrude.

"And what do you think?" he asked slowly.

"I don't think, I konw," said she shyly.

He gave her a quick look, thanking her silently. Then he called the butler—

"Miles, go and ask the mama of these young ladies, whether Mr. Warren Ilford may not after all, send them in some fruit."

At that moment, Mrs. Sedgeley, hearing voices outside, appeared in the cottage porch. Sheila ran up to her.

"Mamma, there's been a mistake," whispered she.

And as the lady, perplexed and bewildered, stepped out upon the garden path, Warren Ilford, smiling and bowing humbly on the opposite side of the hedge said, addressing her in the meekest of voices—

"I hope, madam, that you will not continue to visit the sins of my cousin, Sir Gregory Ilford, upon me. I have never had two wives. I've not even had one. I'm the most lonely of bachelors, indeed. At the same time"—and as he spoke, he unconsciously cast a glance at Ermyntrude, who had taken his part so valiantly—"I am not a hardened one."

Mrs. Sedgeley made excuses, but they were overborn by the young people, who, taking advantage of her mistake, were getting unruly and self-willed.

And even before the vans arrived with the furniture it began to be evident to all the party that if Mr. Warren Ilford were to remain a bachelor for another six months, it would be very much against his will.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS CRUSHED BY BIG STONE.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 4.—John Briner, a pioneer of Morton county, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon near here when a large stone which he was loading on a flat car slipped off, striking him on the head. His head and trunk were badly crushed.

SUPERSEDEAS GRANTED TO EVELYN ARTHUR SEE.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 4.—Chief Justice Orrin N. Carter of the Illinois supreme court has granted a writ of supersedeas to Evelyn Arthur See, the leader of the "Absolute Life" cult, who was found guilty in the criminal court of Cook county of the abduction of Mildred Bridges. A number of errors on the part of the lower court are alleged by See in his appeal.

It was alleged at the trial that See took the Bridges girl, who was 16 years old, from the home of her father, Stephen Bridges, and accompanied her to his home.

The jury that heard the case also found that See was a teacher of a religion, or creed, known as the "Absolute Life," and that through his teachings Mildred Bridges was given an improper conception and idea of morality.

KIND LUMBERJACKS.

Contribute to Help Sick Settler and Aid His Wife.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the much-maligned northern Minnesota lumberjack has reformed, to a large extent, in the matter of possessing a consuming thirst for intoxicants, and that his big heart still overflows and is responsible for kindly acts, is evidenced by the work of the men who are employed in the logging camp of Page & Hill at Whitefish Junction, near Nebish, on the M. R. L. & M. railroad, twenty miles north of Bemidji.

At a dance participated in by the settlers and woodsmen the sum of $42.20 was raised by a hat collection, to be used in sending Andrew Edwards, a settler living near Whitefish, East for medical treatment. The lumberjacks went to the home of Mrs. Edwards and hauled a large quantity of wood to keep the woman and her children warm.

NEW ATTACK ON GUFFEY.

Effort to Oust Him From National Committee Renewed.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Renewed efforts to depose Col. James M. Guffey as Pennsylvania member of the Democratic national committee, in favor of Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, will be made at the meeting of the Democratic national committee Jan. 8, when it convenes here to name the time and place for holding the Democratic national convention.

A statement to that effect has been sent to the members of the national committee by the opposition to Col. Guffey, signed by George W. Guthrie and James I. Blakesly, chairman and secretary respectively of the Democratic state central committee of Pennsylvania, and by Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, a member of the national committee.

Representative Palmer, in a supplementary statement, declared the Democratic party of Pennsylvania "must be rehabilitated and that the house cleaning must be complete."

JOHN D. GIVES $10.000 TO FIGHT WHITE PLAGUE.

New York, Jan. 4.—Pohn D. Rockefeller has given $10,000 toward the new buildings of the "Tuberculosis Preventorium" for children at Farmingdale, N. J. The directors are now within $26,000 of the $150,000 total which they started out to raise. The Rockefeller gift is contingent on the $140,000 being obtained from other sources. Other gifts have been $50,000 each by two contributors and smaller amounts by over 200 subscribers.

ROB JEWELRY STORE IN SIGHT OF CROWDS.

Newark, Ohio, Jan. 4.—In full view of passing crowds and in one of the principal business streets of this city, three burglars looted a jewelry store of diamonds and other valuables valued at more than $10,000 at 8:30 o'clock last evening.

Paynesville Bank Burns.

Paynesville, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire early yesterday destroyed the building owned and occupied by the State Bank of Paynesville doing several thousand dollars damage. The blaze raged several hours but surrounding property was saved. The bank besides losing its fixtures lost valuable papers and other articles not in the vault which was not harmed.

Actress Found Dead.

Ned York, Jan. 4.—Mollie Lorraine, an actress living on Central Park west, was found dead in her apartments today by a neighbor. Miss Lorraine had been ill since her return home yesterday. An autopsy will be performed today.

Danderine

Grows hair and we can prove it

Hair Becomes Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Beautiful Immediately After a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair—No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Try as you will after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it, if you will just try a little Danderine. Real surprise awaits you.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

LIFE OF CHRIST.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JAN. 7.

Luke 1, 5-23: Birth of John the Baptist Foretold.

FOREWORD.

The lessons for the whole year will be on the Life of Christ and will be taken from the "Synoptic Gospels," as Matthew, Mark and Luke are called, because they present a "general view" or synopsis of the same data, while John gives Christ's speeches and uses data that the others say very little about. Of the three Luke was a cultured physician and a careful investigator. Matthew writes mainly for Jews as we can easily see; Mark writes for Romans, as he presents Christ in action so suitably for the Roman point of view; Luke seems to have in view the Gentile world as such; while John has the whole race in mind.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Worthy Parents. 5-7.

"There was in the days of Herod, king of Juden, a certain priest named Zacharias of the course of Abijah; and he had a wife of the daughters of Aaron and her name was Elisabeth. And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless. And they had no child, because that Elisabeth was barren, and they both were now well stricken in years."

1. RIGHTEOUS.—It was real righteousness, not formal; it was "in the sight of God," as well as of men. The thorough discharge of the duties of his office and of the ceremonial law made him a righteous man. He did right. His inner trueness, with his reverence for God, made him a good man. One may be a fairly good official and not so good a man. His wife was as good as he. Take an inventory then—good stock, the best there was; good official, good people not a kink in their natures. God shows what he thinks of heredity in the choice He made of parents for a great man.

2. PRAYERFUL.—There was one blessing they had been denied—a child. For that they had prayed. Their prayer was about as unselfish as could well be. They wanted a son to help rouse the sinful nation to a holier life, a worthy ambition; they may have thought their son might be the Messiah, as that was the ambition of so many good people and made childlessness such an affliction. The words of the angel show us they had been praying and now, that age was dimming their hope, their prayers seemed abating.

II.

The Angel's Promise. 8-17.

"Now it came to pass, while he executed the priest's office before God in the order of his course, according to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to enter into the temple of the Lord and burn incense. And the whole multitude of the people were praying without at the hour of incense. And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of incense. And Zacharias was troubled when he saw him, and fear fell upon him. But the angel said unto him: Fear not, Zacharias, because thy supplication is heard, and thy wife, Elisabeth, shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John. And thou shalt have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth. For he shall be great in sight of the Lord, and he shall drink no wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Spirit, even from his mother's womb. And many of the children of Israel shall he turn unto the Lord their God. And he shall go before his face in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to walk in the wisdom of the just; to make ready for the Lord a people prepared for him."

1. HONOR.—All kinds of honor came to the faithful old man. He was chosen by lot to enter the Holy Place to offer sacrifice for the sins of the people. For a plain rustic this was an honor. There were twenty-four courses to serve as David had divided them up, and his turn was for some days. The second honor was the appearance of the angel to him. The third was the promise of a son, the very thing he wanted. The fourth was that his son should do about what he had hoped and prayed for—help remedy the conditions of the nation—and that son would be exactly fitted by nature and nurture to do it.

2. GREATNESS.—He was to be great, even in the eyes of men as well as of the Lord. The angels, in telling what that son would do, outlined the nature of his greatness. There are several specifications. He would be a joy-bringer both to his parents and to many others. Next, he would be in perfect command of himself, in the way of restraint. He would leave alone what would injure him, even though he entered the order of the Nazarite. Again he would be able to command himself in a positive constructive way. He would sound a call that would draw many of the nation away from their sins and he would be a man whom evil-doers would fear as they feared the day of judgment. We know how well John did that. No such power had ever walked out into the open since the days of Elijah. In fact, he was to fulfill the old prophecy about Elijah returning to finish his work. Again, he would have a most intimate association with the coming Messiah, related to Him as forerunner. He would prepare a constituency for Him. That was the greatest honor given to any one. The reason for his greatness is given—he should have the divine Spirit as his guide and teacher from his birth. What more could Zacharias ask, with his prayer more than answered? But there is an element of weakness in all of us.

III.

The Sign Given. 18-23.

"And Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife well stricken in years. And the angel answering said unto him, I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and I was sent to speak unto thee, and to bring thee these good tidings. And behold, thou shalt be silent and not able to speak, until the day that these things come to pass, because thou believedst not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season. And the people were waiting for Zacharias, and they marveled while they tarried in the temple. And when he came out, he could not speak unto them; and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple: and he continued making signs unto them, and remained dumb. And it came to pass, when the days of his ministration were fulfilled, he departed unto his house."

1. DOUBT.—Why did he doubt? Because of the age of himself and his wife. Then why did he continue to pray? Perhaps he had quit praying for that. If God was to put forth His power why should he not trust, even in the face of the natural difficulty? He was human. His mistake was not in giving up hope of a son long before, but in not believing the angel at once and fully. He had continued to pray for the redemption of Israel and God approved of that. He frankly expressed the doubt.

2. PENALTY.—God must have been very kindly with the good but he ought to have his doubt treated properly. His dumbness would serve that and other ends. The name John means "Jehovah is Gracious." The presence of the people outside showed expectations and when they saw he was dumb, they knew something was coming.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The prophecy at the end of Malachi (iv, 5-6) seems to have been interpreted literally and the interpretation that found favor for many ages, is indeed probably not yet obsolete in Jewish circles. They expected the great prophet who had not died to return to the world which he had so strangely quitted, perhaps as the herald of the Messiah. They also believed, and to some extent still believe, in his occasional presence among men in various disguises, or invisibly, as the helper and friend of his people.

Plato and Aristotle approved of parents' abandoning weak and sickly children whom they were unable to support, or who could not be of use to the state. Whoever picked up a child who had been deserted could dispose of it and treat it as a slave. Christianity taught parents that their children were a gift from God, a pledge entrusted to them for which they were responsible to Him. It spoke not merely of the duties of children, but also of the duties of parents and, since it invested these, as representatives of God, with something of His majesty and honor, it appointed to them the lofty task of educating their offspring as children of God and for His kingdom. There could no longer be any claim to an unconditional right over children after men had learned to look on them as God's property.—Uhlhorn.

The murder of female children, in India, whether by the direct employment of homicidal means or by the more inhuman and not less certain measures of exposure to privation and neglect, has for ages been the chief characteristic crime of six-sevenths of the inhabitants of British India.—Thompson.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Ought one ever to quit praying for what one decided it was right to pray for, at the outset?
2. How far ought our prayers to be limited by natural conditions?
3. Can one who really prays for an object fail to receive the essence of what he prays for?
4. What are elements of true greatness?
5. Is it possible for any one to sustain the relation of forerunner to Christ?

CALL TARIFF CHIEF ISSUE

National Democratic Club Holds Dinner in New York City.

Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey Is the Main Speaker.

New York, Jan. 4.—The National Democratic club launched last night a movement to make tariff reform the paramount issue of the coming presidential campaign, at a largely attended dinner in its new clubhouse on Fifth avenue, with Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey as the principal speaker. Governor Wilson insisted that the time had come for the country to set itself free from the burdens of the protective tariff.

"We are rich enough, we are safe enough in our prosperity, sure enough of our capacity, of our skill, and of our resourcefulness to do this," he said.

Congressman William C. Redfield of Brooklyn and Francis Burton Harrison of New York were other speakers.

Governor Wilson addressed the club on the topic, "The Democratic Pary and the Tariff." Once again, Mr. Wilson said, the tariff had become "the chief and most critical question of a campaign which must decide the policy of our government, not only in this great matter, but in regard to a score of things which touch the general adjustments of our life."

He continued in part:

"Our tariff policy has not for several generations been based upon any principle whatever, but only upon a system of favoritism, of patronage, of arbitrary fosterage by the federal government.

Strength of Industry.

"The strength of American industry lies in the skill and intelligence of the American workman, and the capacity of American superintendents and managers; and the efficiency and glory of the workingmen depend upon all the moral and physical elements involved in the circumstances of his employment.

"If this country is to be the snug harbor for those who are at a vantage in the markets of the world, why should it not also, by the convenient method of combination, be a refuge for those who are also at a disadvantage in the markets of America itself? Are there not evidences that it has become just that? Have not great combinations recently effected in this country brought about just such a result? Of a dozen mills or factories brought together in a single trust or combination, there is always a very considerable variety in the so-called cost of production. In some the machinery has not been brought up to date, the plant is not built in a way to lend itself to the most efficient methods of production; the market is not quite so accessible; the source of raw materials is more difficult of access.

"Again and again it has happened that after the combination was effected, the less efficient factories and mills were closed down and only the more efficient continued in operation; but the business as newly constituted had to carry the cost of the original merger of the inefficient mills and factories. They were probably put into the combination at a figure greatly exceedin their real value.

Issues of Securities.

"This figure enters into the issue of the securities of the corporation; the profits must be made upon those figures if the stockholders are to get dividends; and so the country must carry for an indefinite period inefficient establishments which have been actually closed and put out of business. And this very process itself shows the futility of any attempt to base duties upon 'cost of production.'

"When America was in her infancy; when her resources were undeveloped; when her industries were at their beginning, there was much to be said for a system of artificial stimulation and protection. But long after that period was passed, and that reason for the maintenance of the system of protection cut away, it was maintained upon other theories and with other purposes, and it has grown until it has become a veritable incubus, not merely upon the consumer, but upon the business of the country itself. And on it have been built up great combinations and monopolies, which have drawn upon themselves universal condemnation.

Ready to Be Set Free.

"We are rich enough, we are safe enough in our prosperity, we are sure enough of our capacity, of our skil, of our resourcefulness to set ourselves free at last. We are ready now in our majority to return to the uses of government of which the mature can approve. Taxation must never be used for the benefit of some at the expense of others. The power of government must never be loaned to those who canont sustain themselves. The only legitimate object of taxation is revenue for the support of the government."

IMMIGRANTS STOP IN MINNESOTA.

W. A. Campbell, secretary of the Northwestern Development league, who was in Duluth with the Louis W. Hill party, stated that he expected to see Northern Minnesota get from 15,000 to 18,000 new settlers during the years 1912 and 1913. He said that at the present time about 51 per cent of cars loaded with household goods which pass through the Twin City terminals are billed for Minnesota. He looks for extensive settlement in this state of people coming from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Iowa.

PROGRAM FOR MASONIC CONCERT

Good Music on Organ and Singing By Scottish Rite Quartet.

Following is the program for the second free concert at the auditorium of the Masonic temple next Sunday afternoon at 3:30:

Organ—
"Huldigungsmarsch" ..... Wagner
"Drinking Song" from "Lucrezia Borgia" ..... Donizetti
Vocal—"In Old Madrid" ..... Trotere
Scottish Rite Quartet.
Organ—
"Mordio," Op. 141, Italian air..... Terschak
"L'Arlesienne," 2nd Suite, Farandole ..... Bizet
"L'Arlesienne," 2nd Suite, Minuet ..... Bizet
Vocal—"Gipsy John" ..... Clay
Scottish Rite Quartet.
Organ—"International Congress of Nations" ..... Sousa

In the program the first number is one of the most tuneful of Wagner's compositions and was dedicated to Ludwig, king of Bavaria, who befriended him when in great need. It has a swing and a melody which stays with the hearer. The "Drinking Song" from "Lucrezia Borgia," is known wherever music is heard and its brightness and jollity are typical of the subject.

"Mordio" is an Italian air, or rather several airs pleasantly woven into one piece. It is very musical and sweet and typically Italian. Following that are two parts of a Bizet suite, both peculiar in possessing the rhythm of the dances. The last organ number is a collection of national airs of the principal nations who might be expected to meet in international consultation and is particularly appropriate to this time of international treaties. It begins with Yankee Doodle in fugue form.

The vocal selections are taken care of by Charles O. Applehagen, D. G. Geavhart, Don Cole and A. H. Bjorkquist, with A. F. M. Custance, leader and accompanist, as the Scottish Rite Quartet and each selection has red blood in it with no maudlin sentimentality or mushiness. The tendency of these concerts is to create a liking for the strong, healthy, vigorous, stirring music of the heroic character, as well as the compositions of the recognized best composers of the easily comprehended classic style, some of which are classic in their simplicity.

CONTRACTS LET BY COUNTY BOARD

Lengthy Session of Commissioners in Annual Meeting Ends.

After being in session two days, Tuesday and Wednesday, the county commissioners adjourned yesterday afternoon after holding their annual meeting.

At the late afternoon session yesterday The Duluth Herald was awarded the contract for the printing of the county financial statement. The Duluth News Tribune was awarded the contract for the printing of the board proceedings and the delinquent tax list.

The Continental Bridge company was awarded the contract to construct a two-span bridge over the St. Louis river. The bridge will cost $6,490.

The commissioners voted an appropriation of $1,200 for the Duluth Humane society and $1,000 as a contingent fund for the county attorney.

Dr. F. S. Clark was appointed to succeed himself as jail physician for the coming year.

The county health commissioners for 1912 are P. J. Ryan, Hibbing; U. S. Grant McMahan, Ely.

W. F. McKay will again serve the county as supervisor of assessments in unorganized districts.

On Feb. 5, bids will be opened for a bridge over Pike river on the Tower and Itasca road.

SOCIALISTS SPEAK AT PARK POINT MEETING.

The Socialists held a well attended meeting last evening at Mission hall on Park Point. The gathering was addressed on local issues of interest by three of the best known members of the party in Duluth. They were J. A. Johnson, candidate for mayor; Richard Jones, candidate for alderman of the Fourth ward, and John A. Keyes.

Mr. Johnson devoted considerable of his time to a discussion of law enforcement relative to the city, in addition to speaking of Socialism generally. He stated that the laws should be more rigidly enforced and that if the laws are at fault they should be repealed or amended. He asserted that the saloons should be closed during the hours fixed by law and that moral conditions should be improved.

Richard Jones discussed the bond issue in connection with public ownership, which is one of the leading planks of the Socialists. He also declared for law enforcement and for 5-cent fares on Park Point with free transfers. Mr. Keyes talked along the same lines as the other speakers.

GREAT NORTHERN ROAD EXONERATED

North Dakota Coroner Finds Company Not to Blame for Wreck.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 4.—Coroner Dr. M. P. Savre of Steele county, who was on the ground a few minutes after the wreck of Great Northern Train No. 3, at Sharon, N. D., stated: "I will state positively that there were only five killed in the wreck and that all the bodies had been recovered and identified beyond a doubt."

He said that were no bodies cremated beyond recognition, and the story that eight were killed was absolutely without foundation of fact.

He said there would be no investigation and that the wreck was caused by a hollow rail, which the company had no way of discovering. It was purely accidental for which no one was to blame.

Settling With Wreck Victims.

Fifty or more personal injury claims have already been settled by the Great Northern claim agents, in connection with the wreck. These claimants received checks and signed documents relieving the Great Northern railway of further responsibility. While some settlements were made carrying fair-sized amounts, a large majority were for the sums of only $5 and $10.

HOLD RECEIVERS AS HOSTAGES FOR PAY.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 4.—Two federal court officials, receivers for the bankrupt Smithfield Marl, Clay & Transportation company at Smithfield, Va., are held as hostages by Italian laborers who are clamoring for their pay. The receivers, Messrs. J. J. Heard and John T. Reid, were captured when they attempted to take a boat for Norfolk and were forced to return to a hotel. The receivers are not believed in immediate danger. Reid was armed when he left here.

SIOUX SEEK THEIR LANDS

Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes Claim Minnesota Has Defrauded Them.

Request and Granted Audience With Governor to Present Claims.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Couched in English typically as spoken by the Red Man, the chiefs of the Sisseton and Wahpeton tribes of the Sioux Indians have notified Governor Eberhart, through his messenger "Billy" Williams, of a council recently held at which the question of recovery of lands taken from them following the Sioux massacre of 1862, was discussed, and of their intention to call on the governor for assistance in obtaining restitution from the federal government. The Red Men claim a tract of land was ceded to them in 1851, ten miles wide on each side of the Minnesota river, and that following the up-rising, it was taken from them. They claim that an outbreak of their forefathers should not deprive them of their vested title to the land.

The letter to the governor's secretary was written at Eden, S. D., Dec. 27, 1911. After reading it, the governor directed Mr. Williams to inform the Red Men he would receive them.

What Indians Claim.

Their letter said:

"Dear Sir: I write few lines personally and to ask you for one thing at before you.

"We, the Sisseton and Wahpeton tribes of Sioux Indians, which we have a general council on the date 20 days of Dec. 1911, therein, therefore decide to have written you a this letter honorably, we wishing to come to go to see you again. In this year, at next month in January in time, therefore we want mention of one thing more again, that is; we have a matter that related upon us that in year 1851 therein, we have been made a treaty was, and in Minnesota river ten miles wide on each side, land lies a reserve, our tract. We knew this matter for us, therefore we are bring it to you about this matter for us now, in last year, and that put into your hand. Therefore we want mention of one thing more again, into this matter, or pushed at this purpose therein. We thought our consent and notification to you this before settlement. Yours very truly

"F. L. RED STAR,
"Resistance League Vice President.
"H. B. RED STAR,
"Resistant League of Secretary."

Not a word in the letter is misspelled, although the superfluity of prepositions and pronouns is apparent.

The Indians were here to see the governor a few months ago and were told that he would do whatever he could to help them. It is believed by many that they have a legitimate claim against the government for the land. There is no record, according to state officials, of the government ever having obtained possession of the ten-mile strip on each side of the Minnesota river, other than by forcible possession. The land is now worth millions of dollars. Apparently, the Indians have organized a "resistance league" to gain possession of the land.

CHILDREN INJURED

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation, except of course when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of packages, 10 cents, 25 cents, and 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store.—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

RED RIVER GANG ARE SENTENCED

Crooks Operating Around Moorhead Sent to Penitentiary.

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 4. — William Ross, Frank Schultz and Bert Page, colored, were each sentenced by Judge C. A. Nye to serve an indeterminate sentence in the Minnesota state reformatory for grand larceny in the second degree. The trio are members of a gang of thieves which has been working with considerable success on the Minnesota side of the Red river.

They have been in the habit of crossing the river at night and getting back before morning, thus escaping arrest without papers. Sandy Ross, who the arrested trio say is the leader, is still at large on the North Dakota side.

MINNESOTA FIRE LOSSES ARE LESS

Year Just Closed Makes Better Showing Than the Previous Period.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire losses in Minnesota during the first eleven months of 1911, decreased more than $100,000, according to figures compiled in the office of J. A. O. Preus, state insurance commissioner. In 1910, the loss paid by standard companies during the period stated, aggregated $340,000. During the same period in 1910, they aggregated only $235,000.

Mr. Preus has prepared the following tabulated statement, showing the losses throughout the United States for each month during the past three years:

FOREST RANGERS BEING ADVISED

State Forester Cox Is Meeting With State Fighting Force.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Forester Cox is presiding at a meeting being held here today of all the forest rangers of the state. A decision has been reached to join the railroads in an effort to stop the peril of locomotives starting fires by joining with representatives of the railroads in a meeting to be held in the near future.

It also was decided to wage a systematic campaign of education among the farmers as to the proper way of disposing of their slashings after clearing land.

Forester Cox expressed the hope that the forestry system organized by him in Minnesota last May would have reached such a stage of perfection by next spring that serious conflagrations will be impossible.

To Impress Legislature.

He said he hoped it would be so apparent to the legislature when it next assembles that the work of guarding the forests is of such importance that proper appropriations will be readily available.

The rangers present were: Walter Eisenach, Aitkin; Percy Vibert, Cloquet; J. P. Saunders, Brainerd; H. C. Nelson, Grand Rapids; M. J. Thornton, Deer River; A. C. De Puy, Park Rapids; Percy Records, Thief River Falls; E. A. Linder, Warroad; William Kilby, Baudette; H. W. Winslow, Northome; Gus Peterson, International Falls; Fred Bessette, Orr; E. E. Campbell, Tower; Hans Kasper, Grand Marais and L. F. Johnson, Bemidji.

WISCONSIN LABOR WANTS.

State Federation Passes Resolutions Asking Certain Things.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 4.—The executive committee of the Wisconsin federation of labor has decided to ask the Wisconsin delegation in congress to support the Esch bill, which provides for the elimination of phosphorus in the manufacture of matches.

Resolutions were adopted asking that the state inheritance tax be repealed and old age pensions be provided in its place for the benefit of widowed mothers. Another resolution asks if the inheritance tax is not repealed, it should be so amended that a portion of the tax be used for the benefit of labor, which it is charged, is responsible for inheritances, because labor produces the means, which make big fortunes possible.

LONG MISSING ONE IS "LEGALLY DEAD"

North Dakota Court Acts in Strange Case of O. Thorwaldson.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—O. Thorwaldson has been adjudged dead by the Grand Forks probate judge, his disappearance eight years ago, when he retired to a berth in a Great Northern sleeper bound from Grand Forks to Minot, never to be heard from again, being responsible for the action. Application for the appointment of an administrator and the distribution of the property was made by a brother of the missing man, who, with other relatives, made a showing as to the futile search.

The disappearance of Thorwaldson was most peculiar. With his sister he had just left for the Pacific coast for a visit, and they were only a short distance from Grand Forks when he retired to his berth. The next morning, when he failed to appear, the sister began inquiry, and he was not found, nor has he been, to this day, ever heard from.

HOLD SMUGGLED FURS.

Articles Brought From Canada Held at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—Many Minneapolis and St. Paul women who did not receive their Christmas furs may find them in the office of the United States customs office in the federal building, where several thousand dollars worth of expensive furs are now stored, but they cannot take them, they have been seized by the federal officers for non-payment of the duty from Canada. They were smuggled into Minnesota and were seized at the boundary line by the government agents.

GRAFTON COUNTY O. K.

Per Capita Bank Deposits Amount to $164.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bank deposits averaging $164 for every man, woman and child in Grafton are reported by the banks of the county.

The banks in this county have combined resources of $3,692,256.57; total deposits, $2,883,639.

While the bulk of the 1911 crop has been marketed, the farmers still have considerable grain.

CITY IN NEW HANDS.

Government of Thief River Falls Has Changed.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new administration has taken control of city affairs, Mayor Lars Backe succeeding T. P. Hamre. Nick Tearrant, the new municipal judge, also assumed office, appointing Louis Lonson his clerk.

Attorney Naplin is the new special municipal judge. City Clerk Anderson gives way to a Socialist, Walter Quist, who resigned a position as city carrier of mail. B. Erickson takes the place of Andrew Lang as chief of police.

Just what changes in administration the Socialist board of aldermen will put into operation cannot be foretold, but they are all determined that the city shall have an economical administration of affairs.

COMMISSION MEN IN MILL CITY CONVICTED.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4. — With the conviction in Minneapolis yesterday of a dozen or more commission men operating without license, the state railroad and warehouse commission has trained its investigation on St. Paul, and temporarily will devote its time to finding and prosecuting violations of the law there. The work will start the latter part of this week.

BIG RESERVOIR DAM

Planned on Chippewa River to Supply Power Plant.

Corderay, Wis., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is stated on good authority that the dam site that Government Surveyor Stewart and crew have been surveying on the upper Chippewa river in Sawyer county is for the Arpin Lumber company of Grand Rapids, Wis. The dam will be a reservoir to supply the large concrete dam the company has had under construction across the Chippewa river near Radisson, six miles from here, work on which has been going on for the last three years, and will be completed next summer.

It has been decided to build the new dam on the Chippewa river, about eighty rods south of the mouth of the east fork. This will necessitate the removal of Paul Lessard's summer resort and all his farm buildings, and all the buildings at the old Indian trading post in the Couderay Indian reservation, and the building of many miles of highways.

Construction work on the dam will be started in the spring.

DR. MAYO RETURNS; BROTHER MUCH BETTER.

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 4.—Dr. William J. Mayo and Miss Margaret Henderson have returned to Rochester from New York city, where they went in a special train to the bedside of Dr. Charles Mayo, who underwent two serious operations at the Presbyterian hospital. Dr. Mayo believes that his brother is well on the way to recovery.

BEMIDJI MILL SUBURB HAS DAMAGING FIRE.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire at Nymore, a mill suburb of Bemidji, destroyed three buildings at a loss aggregating $9,000, including the C. G. Johnson hotel and restaurant, the Thome & Quinn saloon and Anton O. Krog's confectionery store. All were frame structures.

The Moorhead National bank declared a 10 per cent dividend and carried $5,000 to surplus. This is the sixteenth successive 10 per cent dividend declared by this bank.

Little Falls—O. Duclos left for Minneapolis Monday and will there join a party of eight more gentlemen who will journey to Escuintla, Chiapas, Mex., to look over the merits of the rubber producing lands of that section. In Escuintla there are several thousand acres of land with rubber bearing trees from 4 to 10 years old, and Mr. Duclos has become interested in these lands.

ECZEMA MADE BABY'S FACE RAW AND RED

Used Different Remedies With No Benefit. Doctor's Wife Advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Baby Perfectly Cured.

Birchwood, Wis. — "My baby's face got kind of pimply blotches on the cheek and it spread over on each cheek. It itched so that she couldn't sleep except a little while at a time. It made her face raw and red. My baby had this eczema for about two months and I used different remedies with no benefit until our home doctor's wife advised me to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did and she is perfectly cured now through their use. I also had an itch on my hand and I cured it with Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. W. J. Thomas, Nov. 9, 1911.

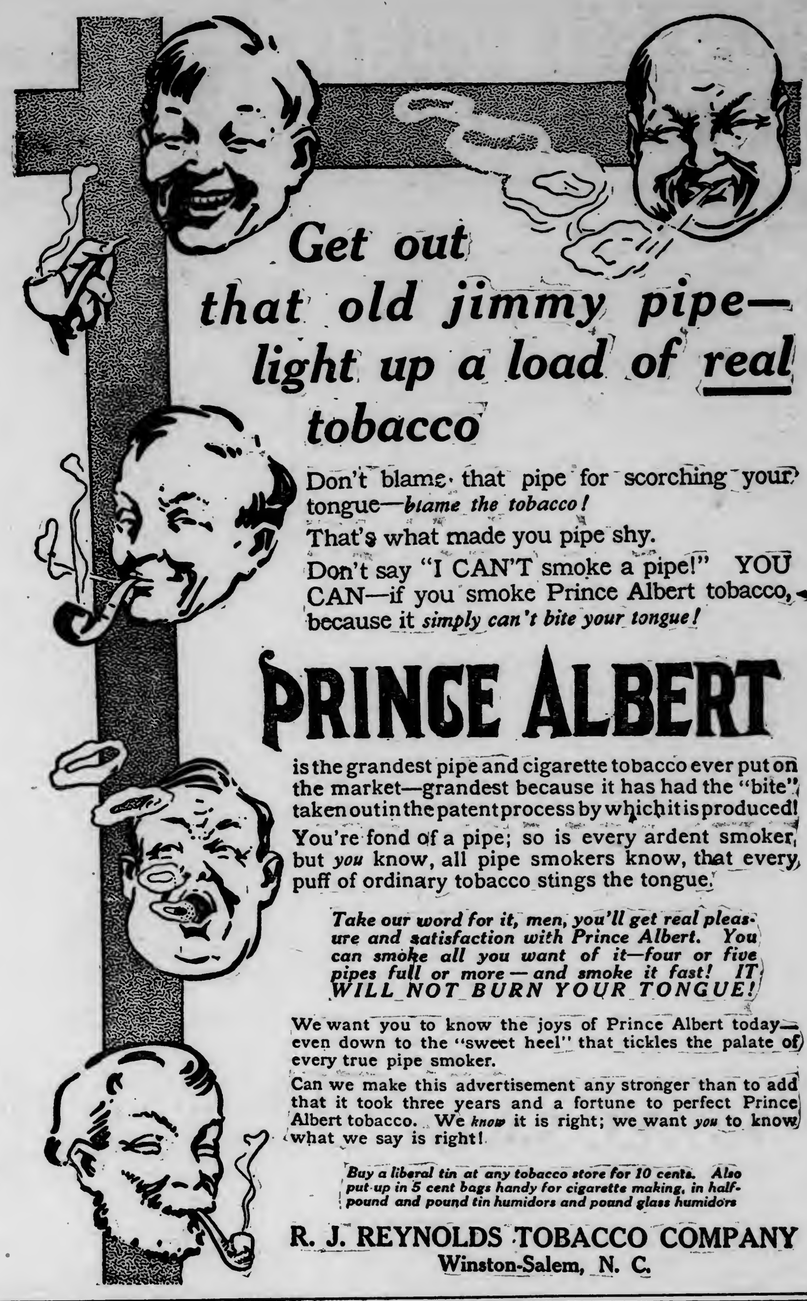

DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

For 20 Years. Itching Intense and Constant.

46 W. 22nd St., New York City. — "For twenty years I have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair, itching and burning scalp, and in that time I have used dozens of widely advertised hair tonics, dandruff cures, and scalp treatments. The dandruff was so bad that my coat collar and shoulders were continually covered with the great white scales, and my hair was becoming very thin. The itching and smarting was so intense and so constant that at times I could not sleep.

"I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I used the Cuticura Ointment once a week before retiring and following it the next morning with a light shampoo with Cuticura Soap. Now my scalp is as healthy, clear and free from dandruff as any one's and my hair is perceptibly thicker. It never comes out now when I brush and comb it." (Signed) F. F. Stone, Nov. 24, '11.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

Get out that old jimmy pipe—light up a load of real tobacco

That's what made you pipe shy.

Don't say "I CAN'T smoke a pipe!" YOU CAN—if you smoke Prince Albert tobacco, because it simply can't bite your tongue!

PRINCE ALBERT

is the grandest pipe and cigarette tobacco ever put on the market—grandest because it has had the "bite" taken out in the patent process by which it is produced!

You're fond of a pipe; so is every ardent smoker, but you know, all pipe smokers know, that every puff of ordinary tobacco stings the tongue.

Take our word for it, men, you'll get real pleasure and satisfaction with Prince Albert. You can smoke all you want of it—four or five pipes full or more—and smoke it fast! IT WILL NOT BURN YOUR TONGUE!

We want you to know the joys of Prince Albert today—even down to the "sweet heel" that tickles the palate of every true pipe smoker.

Can we make this advertisement any stronger than to add that it took three years and a fortune to perfect Prince Albert tobacco. We know it is right; we want you to know what we say is right!

Buy a liberal tin at any tobacco store for 10 cents. Also put up in 5 cent bags handy for cigarette making, in half-pound and pound tin humidors and pound glass humidors

Woman's Happiness

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts nature provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an oily emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

WEST END

CAMPAIGN FOR AMENDMENT

Twenty-Seventh Avenue Property Owners to Explain Charter Change.

Members of the special committee representing the Twenty-seventh avenue property owners, who were instrumental in bringing the paving amendment before the charter commission, met at County Commissioner Joseph Cumming's home last evening and made arrangement for the campaign to be waged during this month. The members are all anxious to have all the people understand the amendment to the letter, before the general election on Feb. 6.

The committee consists of Alderman William Bernard, County Commissioner Joseph Cumming, James W. Preston, former member of the board of public works; Charles E. Dice and Edward Rudberg. They will appoint one of their number to appear at every political meeting that is to be held during the month and will ask every candidate in the city to speak on the amendment and the necessity of every man voting for it.

Both Mayor Cullum and Dr. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, are in favor of the proposed amendment providing for annual payment for street paving and property improvements and the committee will ask them to bring the matter up in a few of their political addresses. The committee members will also address the various improvement clubs during the month.

WEST END MAN DIES AT BAUDETTE

Andrew Anderson, Who Left for Border Three Weeks Ago, Called Suddenly.

Andrew Anderson, 27 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, 2015 West Sixth street, died suddenly Tuesday evening at Baudette, Minn. His family at the West end was notified of his death yesterday afternoon. The young man's father left for Baudette last evening and will return with the body tomorrow morning, when funeral arrangements will be made.

Mr. Anderson was a graduate of one of the West end schools and had a large number of friends in this end of the city. He left for Baudette three weeks ago to engage in the restaurant business. He worked formerly as engineer on the Canadian Northern railroad. He is survived by four sisters and three brothers, besides his parents. The sisters are Mrs. A. Halvorson of Superior, Miss Atley, Anna and Irene Anderson, and the brothers are Arthur, Edwin and George Anderson of Duluth.

According to the telegram received yesterday by the family, it is thought that death was due to heart failure. The coroner of Beltrami county will hold an autopsy this afternoon to determine the cause of death.

INSTALLATION OF NEW OFFICERS

Control of West End Lodges Passing Into New Hands for Year.

The annual meeting of the Swedish Christian Sick Benefit society will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. The new officers elected at the December meeting will be installed at the meeting. Following are the officers for the year: A. Thoren, president; Eliof L. Bergholm, vice president; Eric Myhrman, recording secretary; Stephen Eklund, vice recording secretary; Charles Swanson, financial secretary; Charles Mork, vice financial secretary; Andrew Anderson, treasurer; Samuel Anderson, marshal; Carl J. Melander, vice marshal; August Vinberg, trustee for three years; Henry Truelson, trustee for two years; and Frank Fristedt, trustee for one year.

The new officers of the S. H. & E. F. society were installed last evening at the regular meeting held at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. A special program of music and addresses was given after the ceremony and refreshments were served. The following officers were installed last evening: Charles Edgren, president; Charles Hagstrom, vice president; Albert Johnson, recording secretary; John Sanquist, financial secretary; Oscar Peterson, treasurer; Charles Bostrom, marshal; Hugo Nelson, chaplain; C. J. Carlson, inside guard; Victor Johnson, outside guard; L. J. Levine, librarian, and Charles Mork, trustee.

Rice's Point lodge, No. 80, A. O. U. W., will hold its annual installation of officers at the lodge rooms this evening at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. The following new officers will assume their duties: William Hay, master workman; A. Farrington, chief master workman; Joseph Olson, recorder; W. J. Kelcheson, foreman; F. H. Bush, overseer; F. B. Butts, financier; W. C. Burton, receiver; Joseph Miller, guide; H. C. Nelson, inner watchman; J. W. Cumming, outer watchman; and Dr. L. T. Pare, medical examiner.

BIBLE CLASS HAS BANQUET AT CHURCH.

The Bible class of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, gave a banquet last evening for the new members in the parlors of the church. The banquet is the result of a contest held several weeks ago in which the members under 36 years of age were pitted against the older ones in a hunt for new members.

The contest began six weeks ago when the class had but sixteen members and closed last Sunday with seventy-eight active members. The younger element obtained forty-two of the number, winning out in the contest. John G. Ross, president of the class, acted as toastmaster last evening and a number of talks were given by the members. The other officers of the class chosen at the last meeting are: Guy Williams, vice president; Miss Anna McCarthy, secretary, and Miss Piers, treasurer.

Funeral of Mrs. Nelson.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Nelson, 31 years old, wife of Claus Nelson, 505 Garfield avenue, who died early Sunday morning, will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorow afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock from the First Norwegian Lutheran church. Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in the Park Hill cemetery.

Lund Funeral.

The funeral of Josph Lund, 45 years old, who committed suicide Monday afternoon by blowing off part of his head with a shotgun at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Strand, 1931 West Seventh street, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, officiated, and interment was in the Lutheran cemetery.

Will Install Officers.

The St. Clement court, No. 1175, C. O. F., will install new officers at the regular meeting tonight. State Chief Ranger P. H. Martin will officiate as installing officer after which the court will entertain the visiting circle members. A special program of music, and addresses will be given by Rev. Father Augustin, A. T. Rock, State Secretary John McCabe of Superior, and others.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. Joseph Veilleux, daughter, Vivian, and son, Benjamin, and Miss Grace Ronan of St. Paul, are guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dice, 2702 West Fourth street.

The Young People's society of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, met in the church parlors this afternoon.

Miss Marie Nelson of Oshkosh, Wis., is a guest this week at the home of Mrs. Madsen, 1715 West Fifth street.

The Bethany Aid society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ernest Peterson, 2202 West Fourth street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Peterson, 11 North Twenty-fifth avenue west.

Revival meetings are being held every evening this week at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. Rev. E. Hanson of Ashland, Wis., will be here next week to assist Rev. Edward Erickson.

Mrs. P. T. Marion of Chicago left for her home yesterday after spending the past week with friends in the West end.

Rev. Edward Stromberg of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, assisted by his brother, Rev. Fred Stromberg of Lindstrom, Minn., is conducting revival meetings every evening this week.

go steadily up instead of down. When you find the law of supply and demand not working, you may be sure that there is interference somewhere. The addition of several big ships yearly, if there were competition between the lines, would reduce passage rates. But the combination prevents any such effect. Even steerage rates are maintained as they could not be under competition.

Business Divided Up.

Representative Humphrey declares that he will put before the committee so clear a prima facie case that the investigation will undoubtedly be ordered. He expects to prove at the outset that the trans-Atlantic pool maintains headquarters at Jena, to which precise reports are made by each constituent company, and by which the proportion of the business which may be done by each line is fixed. The restriction of competition is enforced by compelling each line to put up with the governing body a heavy bond, forfeitable in the event of violation of the mutual agreement. Every characteristic of the American trust—the most perfect type of artificial monopoly business has yet produced—from the pro-rating of traffic to the forfeiture bond, appears in this combination of foreign corporations for the control of American trade by sea.

If Mr. Humphrey is able to produce the evidence he now outlines, the investigation will beyond doubt be ordered, though the Democratic majority has a good many investigations now on hand and is dubious about adding to them. The suggestion is made now that three investigations, all of which are generally demanded, be combined and conducted by one committee. The three subjects of inquiry are the money trust, the harvester trust and the shipping trust.

Shippers Coerced.

The last, as I have noted, gains particular pertinence now from the anticipated opening of the canal. It involves not only trans-Atlantic shipping, but Pacific, and north and south lines as well. Mr. Humphrey claims that our South American trade is absolutely shackled by the trust, that shippers are coerced by monopoly rates and cajoled by rebates until it has become impossible for new and independent vessel owners to break into the South American trade. He charges plainly that a large section of the press of the United States is under the influence of the trust, and cites a document of record in which the members of the combine agreed to withhold advertising from hostile newspapers.

The Humphrey resolution calls for a joint committee of house and senate, and its author is loath to let his crusade be merged into a general investigation of the three trust topics. His position is weakened by the fact that he is a Republican offering a resolution to a Democratic house but more so by his advocacy of a ship subsidy law. There is no reason why this policy—a matter of bitter controversy and to which the Democrats have always been opposed—should be mixed up with the question as to whether there is a monopoly of the sea, but Mr. Humphrey has in some way succeeded in entangling the two to the detriment of his own particular cause.

The Money Trust.

The chief objection to the program of combining the three questions in one investigation is the extent of the field to be covered. The money trust may be interwoven with the shipping trust and harvester trust. It may, as Chairman Henry of the rules committee asserts, be their life's blood and the breath of their nostrils. But it is a big enough affair to keep an investigating committee busy on its operations alone. The vigor with which Senator La Follette is attacking the money trust is keeping it before the people and alarming the Democrats who see that the insurgent leader is making political capital out of that line of agitation. An investigating committee, created by a Democratic house and with a Democratic majority, could divert public approbation from La Follette to the democracy as a body. This is probably what will be done, even though sentiment is strongly against the creation of new investigating committees at this time.

having furthered explosions against property of employers of non-union iron workers.

Interest in the report of the business connection of Samuel Gompers and Former Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter, alleged by Detective Burns to have significance in Mr. Bookwalter's dropping his dynamiting inquiry two years ago, is following Burns to Philadelphia. He will arrive there late today, and it is believed will examine the labor union affiliations of Hugo Thorsch, who, prior to seven years ago, published a labor paper in Philadelphia. He now is associated with Bookwalter in the printing firm in which, according to Burns, Gompers was concerned.

Statement By Thorsch.

Thorsch, in a statement today denying partnership with Gompers or seeing the labor leader's influence in getting printing contracts with unions, said that the reason he moved his business from Philadelphia to Indianapolis seven years ago was that the National Union of Carpenters and Joiners transferred its headquarters. He had obtained printing orders from Frank Duffy, secretary of the carpenters' union, in Philadelphia, and he was advised, he said, that other labor organizations purposed to imitate the carpenters and move their head offices to Indianapolis. Duffy was treasurer of the McNamara defense fund board.

"After I came here, and as other labor unions moved their national offices here," said Thorsch, "I succeeded in getting big orders from the unions of teamsters, barbers, carpenters and coal miners. John Mitchell is a good friend of mine and he was president of the mine workers' union. I never got any business from the iron workers, though I often asked John J. McNamara for printing work."

No Confirmation.

At none of the various national union headquarters in this city today was it possible to obtain a statement confirming charges that labor officials were advised of the dynamite operations of John J. McNamara two years ago, and that if they had acted then they might have prevented the Los Angeles Times explosion and the attendant loss of twenty-one lives.

No confirmation was issued of Bookwalter's statement that he told a "score of national labor leaders" his investigation of local explosions had conclusively exposed the guilt of McNamara a year before the Los Angeles disaster.

Johannsen Charges Injustice.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 4.—"The McNamara brothers were members of organized labor, also they were members of the Catholic church. There is as much reason in condemning the Catholic church because of the actions admitted by the McNamaras as there is in condemning organized labor by reason of these actions."

So asserted Anton Johannsen, indicted labor leader, who in company with Olaf Tveitmoe, also indicted in connection with the federal government's investigation into the dynamite conspiracy, returned to this city yesterday from Los Angeles.

Probe McNamara Trial.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—This week will see the end of a federal grand jury and the beginning of a county grand jury, both intent upon investigations of dynamite outrages.

The federal grand jury which indicted Olaf A. Tveitmoe, Anto Johannsen and E. A. Clancy of San Francisco and J. E. Munsey of Salt Lake City, all labor leaders, is expected to adjourn Friday. According to United States District Attorney A. I. McCormick, it will be at least three weeks before another jury can be drawn.

The county grand jury, beginning today, gives every indication of delving into the manner in which the defense of the McNamara brothers conducted its case. Alleged attempts at jury-bribing probably will be probed to locate the real responsibility for such as already have been admitted, and to learn if there were others.

Mrs. J. E. Munsey and her son, Alfred Goodrich, examined and excused by the federal grand jury last week but recalled yesterday, got only as far as the witness room and were not asked to appear in the presence of the inquisitorial body. Her husband accompanied Mrs. Munsey to the witness room.

The grand jurors today heard A. D. Gilson, private secretary of Olaf Tveitmoe, and A. E. Yoell, secretary of the Asiatic Exclusion league.

MANY MOURN "BOB" EVANS

at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at All Souls' Unitarian church here, which President Taft attends.

Bearers from the Navy.

The pallbearers have not yet been selected, but will be chosen from among the naval officers who had served under Admiral Evans. The funeral cortege will be composed of four companies of marines, two or three companies of bluejackets from the Washington navy yard, one battery of artillery from the Washington navy yard and the entire battalion of midshipmen from the naval academy at Annapolis.

Interment will be at the Arlington National cemetery, in a plot which the deceased admiral himself selected several years ago.

Death Was Sudden.

Rear Admiral Evans died of acute indigestion. He had been apparently in the best of health up to the minute he was stricken, and expired before a physician could be summoned. He was one of the most popular men in the navy.

Admiral Evans arose yesterday morning apparently in better health than he had enjoyed for some time. He was stricken almost immediately after lunch, and died at 4:45 o'clock.

Admiral Evans started the battleship fleet on its record-breaking cruise around the world resigning command at San Francisco because of his approaching retirement from the service.

At his bedside at the time of his death were his wife, his daughter, Mrs. H. I. Sewell, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank T. Evans, wife of the admiral's only son, a lieutenant commander in the navy. The only other member of his immediate family who was not present was his daughter, Mrs. Marsh, wife of Capt. Charles C. Marsh, commanding the armored cruiser North Carolina.

High Praise from Taft.

The news spread with great rapidity and caused a profound shock. President Taft was one of the first to express his grief and condolence. He said:

"Admiral Evans was one of the most successful squadron commanders we have had in the navy for a long time. He was a rigid disciplinarian, of quick decision and admirably advised in the intricacy of the machinery of cruisers and battleships, and skilled in drilling the men. I am deeply afflicted to hear of his death."

"I am shocked beyond measure at the sudden death of a lifelong friend, Admiral Evans," said Admiral Dewey. "I cannot say more now."

Secretary Meyer paid this tribute to the officer's memory:

"By the sudden death of Admiral Evans the country loses one of its most brilliant and able officers. It was owing to his high reputation that President Roosevelt selected him as commander-in-chief of the fleet that cruised around the world. Although on the retired list, he had kept up his active interest in the service, and his unexpected death came as a shock to the navy."

Former Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, who happened to be in Washington, pointed out that he had himself given Admiral Evans the command of the Atlantic fleet in its cruise around the world, the most distinguished assignment ever extended to an American naval officer in time of peace.

Bound Old Navy to New.

One of the iron links that bound the old navy to the new, a commanding figure in each, was Robley D. Evans. He did not take kindly to the sobriquet of "Fighting Bob," for although of gruff exterior, he was a man of the kindliest impulses. Thus it never was used in his presence by his friends. But his courage and the stoicism with which he bore his wounds made the title so appropriate that as "Fighting Bob" he was known wherever the English language is spoken.

He wanted a battleship and he got one—one of the best—the Iowa, which represented the latest production of the American shipyards.

When Cervera's fleet made its fatal dash through the blockading ships off Santiago on July 3, 1898, Capt. Evans' ship took a notable part in the 50-mile running fight that followed. For his gallantry in this action he received the thanks of congress and was promoted.

As a full rear admiral, Evans was called upon to take the Atlantic fleet around the world. That brilliant achievement was the first world cruise of an armored fleet of that size and power. Sixteen battleships made the 25,000-mile cruise. By the time the fleet reached San Francisco the strain had become so severe that Admiral Evans was unable to leave his bed and it was necessary to relieve him from the command at that place.

Robley Dunglison Evans was born in Floyd county, Virginia, Aug. 18, 1846. He was educated in the public schools of Washington, D. C., and was appointed to the United States naval academy from Utah. He graduated from the academy in 1863, and became an ensign in the navy in October of the same year. In 1866 he became a lieutenant and in 1868 a lieutenant commander. Ten years later he was made commander and in 1893 a captain.

He participated in both attacks on Fort Fisher on Jan. 15, 1865, and in the land attack he received four rifle-shot wounds. It was while he was in command of the Yorktown at Valparaiso, Chile, in 1891, during the period of strained relations between the United States and Chile, that his actions in connection with various incidents earned him the popular title of "Fighting Bob." In the war with Spain he commanded the Iowa in Sampson's fleet on July 3, 1898. His only work of prominence as an author was the publication of his book, "A Sailor's Log," in 1901. He retired from active service Aug. 18, 1908.

THROWS RED PEPPER

Into Eyes of Woman at Carson, N. D.

Carson, N. D., Jan. 4.—There is much indignation here over the action of some enemy of Mrs. Littlefield, who lives in apartments over the Littlefield store, when a few nights ago the fiend in male form called her to the door of her apartments and dashed snow mixed with red pepper into her eyes. The woman suffered intense pain all night, but fortunately her eyesight was not permanently injured. Prosecutions are expected to follow the dastardly act.

HOME FOLKS CAMPAIGN.

North Dakotans to Interest Easterners in Their State.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the publicity committee of the Commercial club, former residents of the East Central states will be enlisted in an effort to interest their former neighbors in North Dakota. All Dakotans who previously lived in other states are asked to supply their local commercial clubs with names of their one-time neighbors, and the latter will be given every opportunity to learn something about this state.

Another activity of the publicity department is compiling data on the last crop in such a manner as to show just what the farmer who obtained them made by the season's operations.

Gen. Bragg Celebrates.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Jan. 4.—Gen. and Mrs. Bragg Tuesday celebrated their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary. They were married Jan. 2, 1854, at Madison. The little general held a reception this evening for many hundred guests who crowded into their home to wish them good fortune and long life.

Brainerd Alderman Resigns.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 4.—Alderman E. O. Webb of the Second ward, has filed with the council his resignation but it was tabled to be considered at the next meeting. Friends are urging Former Alderman Howard Paine to consider filling the vacancy and many of the aldermen are in favor of his selection as a successor of Mr. Webb.

SYSTEM FULL OF URIC ACID—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY CURED.

Two years ago I was very sick and after being treated by several of the best physicans in Clinton, I did not seem to get any better. I was confined to my bed. Seeing Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertised, I resolved to give it a trial. After using is for three weeks, I found I was gaining nicely, so I continued until I had taken a number of bottles. I am now restored to health and have continued my labors. My system was full of Uric acid, but Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I am sixty years old.

Yours very truly,

THE BUSY, PROSPEROUS, WEST END

THE CENTER of Duluth's population lies between 16th and 40th avenues West; in that part of the city known as the WEST END.

¶ Here, in their thousands, are found the homes of the well-to-do workers; and the greatest of Duluth's fine factories and mighty mills.

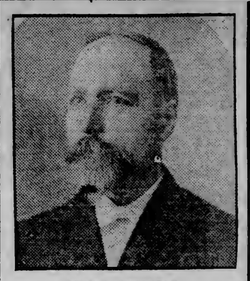

¶ Herefrom, the manufactured product of forest, harvest field, and mine is shipped to the uttermost corners of the earth.

¶ Here also, are found many of Duluth's ablest and most prosperous business men; from whose untiring efforts in the past, the WEST END has drawn much of her present prosperity; and to whom she looks even more for the future prosperity that is to be hers.

¶ In this column, from time to time, we shall present portraits of the-men-who-have-made-the-WEST-END; portraits that will be of vital interest to all West Enders. Look for them!

¶ They will be directed particularly at the fostering of that "get together" spirit which has done so much in the past to help forward this section of the city.

¶ That you may know the men who are helping the WEST END, will be the purpose of these portraits; so that, knowing them, you may help them to help the WEST END and yourself.

JOHN A. ERICKSON.

Who has been in business in the West End for twenty years, is a large owner of property and is constantly improving it by erecting buildings for business purposes. Mr. Erickson is certainly a great booster for the West End and believes in the future of this rapidly growing business district of the city.

Mr. Erickson is located at 32 Twenty-first avenue west and carries a full line of the choicest confectionery and fine cigars and makes a specialty of serving hot coffee and sandwiches.

Mr. Erickson is very broad in his views, always meditating very carefully before expressing himself. He has hundreds of friends in Duluth who have every confidence in his honest and conscientious business methods.

ROUNDING UP SOME TALK ON SPORT HAPPENINGS

Politics May Defeat the Minny League Desires—Ordemann After Big Ones---Johnson to Fight McVey.

(BY BRUCE.)

NATURALLY one of the problems of baseball is its politics. Sport writers are among those often deceived by the complexities of the situation. Those supposedly on the inside are often ambling aimlessly in the dense woods of ignorance. Realizing all this the uncertainty as to what action the American association magnates will take at the coming meeting regarding the admission of the Minny is a question that fairly bristled with uncertainties. In the years past John McGreevy was one of those who worked for the admission of Duluth into the Twin City territory. McGreevy has some powerful baseball friends, including Charles Comiskey. He lined up a strong combination to put in a good word for the invasion of the A. A. territory, and yet when the time came for action he found that this influence availed him nothing.

History may repeat itself at the coming meeting of the A. A. magnates. The latest word from the eight cities is that Toledo still holds out. One of the few encouraging features of the situation is the fact that J. H. Ritchie, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Journal, says we can't come in. Take the reverse of what Mr. Ritchie says and you are usually right.

The invasion of the St. Paul and Minneapolis territory would mean a big thing to baseball in the two towns at the Head of the Lakes. Under the proper conditions Duluth should prove a red-hot baseball burg. If we all get together and boost—this along with other things—there is no reason why there shouldn't be a profit in it for the man who is to handle the team for next season, figuring that we land in a league that shows some life and up-to-date methods.

A man formerly connected with baseball has expressed the opinion that Duluth will be found back in the Minny at the opening of next season. This article started out with a statement regarding the uncertainties of baseball. The gentleman may prove to be right; and yet if he is, the prediction is made right here that Duluth will have the poorest season from the financial standpoint in the history of baseball in this town.

As far as sentiment goes, the Minny league is dead in this town. According to the reports that have come from Superior, the same goes for that city. If any man in control of baseball desires to butt his head into a stone wall, it is his privilege. The man who pays always has certain rights.

It is the rank and file of those who follow baseball here that are hoping there is a change. With the Twin Cities and Winnipeg taking the place of some of the small and absolutely unprofitable towns that were in the league during the past three seasons, there would be the chance to make baseball here something entirely different from what it has been in the past.

FOR the past few years we have been wondering what would be done when Frank Gotch retired from the mat. With the champion in quasi-retirement some solution is offered to this long standing question by the matching of Henry Ordemann and Stanislaus Zbyszko in a finish match. This looks like Ordemann is going after the big fellows. Heretofore Ordemann, Charley Cutler, Westergaard and Americus have been content to wrestle the big fellows in handicap matches, satisfied if they remained upon the mat for a respectable time without being thrown. This practice has had the tendency of developing the defensive side of the American wrestlers without adding to their ability on the offense.

Now the Minneapolis Norsk, after cleaning up Cutler and Westergaard and proving that he is the greatest of the Americans, comes boldly forth and sets a precedent. He is going after the foreigners in straight matches. This means that the Minneapolis promoters believe that Ordemann has improved to the extent of being able to meet the best in the world on even terms.

While the weight of the Minneapolis man is against him when it comes to meeting a wrestler of such wonderful proportions as Zbyszko, Ordemann is possessed of wonderful mat science and is the very best wrestler that America has produced outside of the wonder of Humboldt.

When here this winter Gotch told the writer that Ordemann was better than Jenkins or any of the former champions. "He knows more of the game," said Gotch. "In those days when a few holds constituted the stock in trade of most wrestlers, Ordemann could beat all of those fellows."

If Gotch is going to retire it is time that we start seriously in developing a champion to fill his shoes acceptably. Ordemann is the best in sight at the present time and his move is in the right direction.

PHILADELPHIA JAWN O'BRIEN has a younger brother whom he is coaching along in the arts of the fighting game. The other night in Philly the youngster won a fight with Brother Jawn and James Corbett as his chief seconds. If this kid can overcome the handicap of having Jim Corbett in his corner, there must be some class to him. After all this play to the pink tea stuff, all this talk about the objection of his family to his fighting and the distaste he found for the game, we find Jawn steering his kid brother along the pugilistic path. Philadelphia Jawn could always talk equally well as he could fight—some have claimed much better. It would be a real surprise if a real fighter should develop in the O'Brien family.

IT MIGHT be stated right here that though beaten, The Herald rink is nowise disgraced or discouraged. Optimism is one of its leading characteristics. With two or three months of winter ahead the members of the rink hang tight to the hope that before the season passes quietly to join the troop of other seasons a game will have been won. Look how long Bill Bryan has been optimistic in the face of cold defeat. What a splendid example for us to remember.

NOW that the first announcement has been made of the coming fight between Johnson and his highly colored brother-at-arms, Samuel McVey, the pride of the Paris boulevards, we will all begin to wonder just how long it will take the Chicago smoke to put the blankets on the Paris spade. There are few who doubt but that Johnson can whip him decisively. Once while he is the champion of the world some of us would like to see the big smoke cut loose and show the fighting world just what he is capable of doing.

He stalled with Burns and romped through the earlier battle with poor old Marvin Hart. That was the fight in which the officials robbed Lil' Artha of the decision. He could have won from Hart at any stage of the journey.

In his fight with Ketchel he took matters very easily, always watching with particular interest for any double-cross on the part of Ketchel. Then Willus Britt told Ketchel to go in and take one chance— "But put him out when you hit him, for he will surely kill you if you don't."

Poor Steve Ketchel did try to double-cross the big spade and he came within an inch of being champion heavyweight fighter of the world. Had the terrific swing he landed on Johnson been forward and along the jaw line instead of at the back of the head, there would have surely been a new champion crowned then and there.

When Johnson got up the world had one of its few pictures of this wonderful piece of fighting machinery aroused to earnest action. He is so good that he generally kids through his fights. How good he is we may never know.

ONE of our friends from St. Paul has delivered a message from Young Miller. He says he is coming here to give Sailor Jack the beating of his life. Well, the husky marine has always been able to take care of himself in any kind of mat going and he is not going to turn pale at the threats of Miller. After the affair of next Wednesday evening it is probably that the promoters of St. Paul and Duluth will get down and talk business and arrange the details of the match—unless there is a decided surprise. Next Wednesday evening will tell the story, for the Sailor has young Gustafson to deal with.

CHAMPION HAS BUT TWO FIGHTS

Chicago, Jan. 4.—"I'm going to fight Sam McVey in Paris on the night of the grand prix, I think June 23, and I'll fight Flynn some time before that, either in New York or Nevada."

Champion Jack Johnson thus outlined the pugilistic situation of the future, so far as the heavyweight championship is concerned.

"There has been so much stuff published, it's hard to tell where I'm at," continued Johnson, "and I want to straighten it up. Every manager of a fighter who, by the widest stretch of the imagination might be called a heavyweight, has been seeking publicity for his man by a lot of talk about a match with Johnson.

"Johnson has two matches coming—the two I named and no more. When there are more, I'll announce them."

The champion said the McVey articles would be signed in legal form today and that the Flynn contracts would be signed soon after.

Stage Fight at Paris.

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 4.—The fight between Jack Johnson and Sam McVey, the two heavyweight pugilists, is to take place in Paris on the night of the grand prix instead of in Sydney, on Easter Monday.

Sullivan Is Ill.

New York, Jan. 4.—The condition of James F. Sullivan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, was admitted by his son to be serious. It is feared Mr. Sullivan is threatened with typhoid fever.

Badgers vs. Cornhuskers.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 4.—A game with Wisconsin will probably be the big contest of the 1912 Nebraska football schedule, according to information brought from Madison, Wis., by E. C. Stiehm, athletic director of the Cornhuskers.

FORMER MAGNATE MAY RE-ENTER BASEBALL

A. W. KUEHNOW.

It is rumored in local baseball circles that in the event of Duluth and Superior coming into possession of a piece of Twin City territory that Al Kuehnow will re-enter baseball. Overtures have been made to Mr. Kuehnow but as yet he has not given any decision.

GET YOUR SEATS EARLY

Ticket sale for Ordemann-Pilakoff match opens today at Bob Blackwoods' cigar store. There are 500 good ringside seats. Match occurs next Wednesday evening at the Auditorium. Sailor Jack vs. Gustafson. Avoid the rush by getting seats early.

"MINNY" LEAGUE HEAD RESIGNS

President Leo Bierce Leaves Winona for Position at Grand Rapids.

Winona, Minn., Jan. 4.—Leo N. Bierce, recently elected president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin baseball league, to succeed Frank E. Force of Minneapolis, tendered his resignation today. Bierce, who has been secretary of the Winona Commercial club has accepted a position with the Grand Rapids chamber of commerce, and will leave for that city next month. John A. Elliott of La Crosse, and H. B. Davis of Eau Claire are mentioned as possible successors.

BIG DULUTHS MEET CATHOLIC CLUB TONIGHT.

This evening at the Y. M. C. A. the strong indoor baseball teams of the Big Duluths and the Catholic Athletic club will get together. In a former game the Clothiers defeated the Catholic boys. The latter team hopes to reverse the former result this evening. One of the best games of the season is looked for.

The lineup:

C. A. C.		Big Duluths.
T. McGraw	c	Quinn
Fogarty	p	Harris
Baumgartner	1b	Lingwall
Paull	2b	Hilber
F. McGraw	3b	Beatty
Markey, Summers	ls	Murphy
Poirier	rs	Gallagher
Hayes	lf	Gollinger
Fitzgerald	rf	Blaxall

OARSMAN IS LOST TO THE DULUTH CLUB

VINCE O'DONNELL.

Vince O'Donnell, one of the best oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club, has left for the Copper country, where he is to enter business. O'Donnell rowed as a bantam the year before last and as a member of the crack second eight last season. Although light he was one of the best at the club.

BEGINNING TO SEE LIGHT

National Baseball Commission Emerging From Great Volume of Business.

All Concessions Asked By Class AA Leagues Will Be Granted.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 4.—When the national baseball commission began the second day of its annual meeting here this morning it was the belief of the members that rapid progress would be made in clearing away unfinished matters of business and that an adjournment would be taken some time today. The principal business before the commission was the raising of the American association, the International league and the Pacific Coast league to a higher classification in the minors, the ranking to be denominated as the AA class.

All these baseball associations were well represented here as are numerous other minor leagues and they are impatient for the ruling body of the baseball world to pass upon their claims. It was believed that nearly all the concessions asked by the new AA leagues would be granted.

Decision in Scalping Scandal.

After almost three months of investigation the national baseball commission has reached a decision in the alleged ticket scalping scandal during the last world's series at New York and Philadelphia, and a finding will be handed down, but just what this finding will contain, remains a mystery. The official announcement is that it will be issued Friday night. The reason assigned for the delay is that the document will be voluminous and requires considerable care in its composition.

Chairman August Herrmann, President Thomas Lynch of the National league and President Ban B. Johnson of the American league, labored exactly eight and one-half hours yesterday and reached the above conclusion. Minor league men from all parts of the country haunted the hotel lobby waiting for an opportunity to appear before the commission and give their views on the changes on the national agreement, but all entreaties to hear the minors and allow them to wend their way homeward, proved futile. At adjournment at 6:45 o'clock last evening, they were notified that the commission would hear them at 10 o'clock today.

Barney Dreyfuss, repreesnting the National league and President Johnson of the American league met for about five minutes during the afternoon session yesterday and signed up the schedules of their respective leagues. Both announced that no information regarding the schedules would be given out until the meetings of the leagues in February. Roger Bresnahan of the St. Louis club, who has a grievance against President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago Nationals, was informed that his case should first be taken before the National league. However, Chairman Herrmann mentioned the episode in his annual report.

The Central league had a meeting and decided upon a twelve-club circuit for next season.

Today the national commission will take up the revision of the national agreement and it is a foregone conclusion that besides many minor concessions which will be granted, a special classification known as Class AA, which will include the Pacific Coast league, the American association and the International league will be created.

Many other minor cases will come up before the commission, but it is expected that the annual meeting will adjourn before tonight.

Chairman's Report.

That the game of baseball has grown to an enormous extent was shown in the eighth annual report of Chairman August Herrmann of the commission. The business done out of the office of the commission during the last year, was greater than that of the previous year, when it was shown that the work had increased over 300 per cent.

The chairman also reported that in few cases did the commission find it necessary to review the action of the national association or its secretary.

Twenty cases are now pending before the commission, but with the exception of the Bresnahan-Murphy case and the petition to create a Class AA league, none of them is of an important nature.

In regard to the Bresnahan-Murphy case, Chairman Herrmann in his annual report said in part: "I refer to the accusation of Manager Bresnahan of the St. Louis National league club that President Murphy of the Chicago Nationals openly impugned his motives in the performance of an official act and branded him as a liar in a hotel lobby. Such incidents serve to discredit those in control of clubs and to bring the league with which they are associated into disrepute. I recommend the adoption of a specific rule providing for the imposition of an adequate penalty upon any party connected with organized baseball who through the press or in a public place, makes charged reflections upon the integrity of a league official, owner, manager or player of a club and upon citation of the commission fails to substantiate such charges or to show reasonable justification for uttering and circulating them."

The report showed that the last world's series netted the commission $27,023.35.

The report also urged the passage of state and municipal laws against ticket scalping.

COACHING JOBS OFFERED PLAYERS

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 4.—Capt. Jesse Spalding of the Yale 1912 eleven has offered coachships to several of the players of last season's team and has given them a couple of weeks to make up their minds. It is taken for granted that Capt. Howe will be head coach, and it is expected that Jim Scully will be coach of the tackles and Francis coach of the guards.

Some winter work will be ordered by Capt. Spalding. The quarterbacks will be called out in the gymnasium soon after college reopens, about Jan. 15, for some technical detailed instruction. As all these quarterbacks of the eleven the past season—Capt. Howe, Merritt and Strout—will be graduated in June, it is aimed to develop at least two strong novices. Castles and Loftus from the present freshman class are the most promising. Kenneth McClintock, the freshman quarter of last season, probably will be a candidate next fall.

Spalding is the first Western captain the Yale eleven has had since the regime of Tom Shevlin.

Little Chance for Western Game.

Capt. Spalding, asked whether he favored playing a Western eleven next fall, said: "I see no chance for a game. Our schedule is now heavy, and while there may be a couple of changes, it is safe to predict that no Western game will be attempted. The jump would be a long one for a Yale team to take, and the faculty is unwilling to allow many cuts from recitations to athletes."

Another reason why Yale will not attempt a game with a Western team is that the new stadium will not be ready here till 1913. There is a strong sentiment at Yale for inviting a Western eleven, preferably Lonny Stagg's or Harry Williams' team, to New Haven to help fill the new stadium as soon as it is completed.

INDOOR BASEBALL

AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Adams vs. Jeffersons

BOTH FIGHTERS IN FINE FORM

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 4.—With the arrival of Henry Wirth, the Chicago lightweight wrestler, everything is in readiness for the world's lightweight championship contest to be held here tonight. Billiter and Wirth are in the best possible condition and both are confident of winning. The former will weigh 130½ pounds and Wirth 133.

HURDON LOSES CLOSE CONTEST

Further progress was made in The Herald event last evening. Three games were played, one of the surprises of the evening being the defeat of Hurdon's rink by Harbison. Plotnicky's rink had little trouble with Tredway's crowd and Billy Dinham's green bunch, playing not at all like green men are naturally expected to play, beat up The Herald bunch scandalously.

With the present weather conditions it is expected that some rapid progress will be made in The Herald event games. It is expected that the games in The Herald event will be out of the way within the next two weeks.

The results of last evening:

Spencer,	Goodman,
Tresize,	Kent,
Pugh,	Buck,
Hurdon, skip	9	Harbison, skip 12
Robinson,	Greison,
Crowley,	Taylor,
Harris,	Matski,
Plotnicky, skip	14	Tredway, skip 5
Dunlop,	Ligett,
Miller,	McCarthy,
Glass,	Strand,
Dinham, skip	18	Getty, skip 4

HOCKEY LEAGUE SCHEDULE CHANGED.

At a meeting of the directors of the Amateur Hockey league, held last evening, it was decided to change the evenings of the week on which the games of the league are played from Monday, Wednesday and Friday to Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. The change is made to avoid a conflict with the Duluth-Superior league games.

It was decided to make the future games consist of four quarters. There will be five minutes at quarter time and ten minutes intermission at half time. Commutation tickets will be placed on sale. These tickets will be good for six games.

Horses Leave Mill City.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 4.—Lady Maud C., and Hedgewood Boy, pacers which hold the world's record of 2:02¾, and which have been racing under the colors of M. W. Savage, left Minneapolis yesterday in charge of their owner, W. C. Crabtree, for his home at Taylorsville, Ill. Crabtree intends to race the horses as a team this year, and also will drive them three abreast, using Polly Parrott, a daughter of Lady Maud C., as the third member of the team.

GREAT ST. PAUL STAR IS CAUSING WORRY

MARTY O'TOOLE.

Marty O'Tool's arm is reported in bad shape and one of the worries of Manager Fred Clarke of the Pittsburg Pirates, is as to whether O'Toole will be of any service to his club the coming season. With O'Toole right and showing the wonderful form of last season Pittsburg should be one of the contenders in the race.

PRINCETON AND CORNELL ARE ATHLETIC LEADERS

With the close of the year 1911 in the domain of intercollegiate athletics two universities divide the season's athletic honors. They are Cornell and Princeton. Counting only the number of team championships in the various sports Cornell has the better record, but counting only the four major sports Princeton possibly did a little better than Cornell. The four major sports referred to are football, baseball, rowing and track athletics. Princeton won the undisputed title on the gridiron and diamond, Cornell doing likewise on the water and track.

But while Princeton championships were limited to the major sports Cornell won unsuaul honors in four of the minor sports as well. Undoubtedly there is more honor attached to winning the fooball title than the championship in any of the other major sports. There is not much to choose between rowing, baseball and track athletics, though if Cornell were given the option there is little doubt that the Ithacans would take the unusual distinction of winning a football championship for two of the championships which they now hold.

In the number of actual championships won Yale surpassed Princeton, but the Tigers by beating Yale in football, baseball, rowing and track athletics, the first time they have accomplished this in a great many years, have shoved the Elis into the background. The other championships are divided between the various big and small colleges. Neither Harvard nor Pennsylvania won very much glory in an athletic way during the year 1911.

The team championships won by Cornell were rowing, track athletic, cross-country, hockey and fencing. Princeton was first in football, baseball and wrestling. The other championships were distributed as follows: Cricket, Pennsylvania; golf, Yale; swimming, Yale; association football, Haverford; tennis, Princeton and Yale; shooting, Yale; lacrosse, Harvard.

Cornell's Greatest Year.

Never before in Cornell's athletic history have the Ithacans made anything like this impressive showing. They have been first in track athletics and rowing in the same year, but they never picked up so many minor sports championships in a season before. Cornell also had reason to be very proud of her baseball team, which, if it had not suffered a defeat at the hands of Princeton, would have had a good right to the intercollegiate championship. As it was, the two universities played two games, of which one resulted in a tie after playing sixteen innings and the other a victory by a narrow margin for Princeton.

In the major sports Cornell made rather a sorry showing in football alone. For some reason or other it seems impossible for the Ithacans to put football on a winning basis. They have tried and tried in vain for years, but have never been able to turn out anything but a highly erratic eleven. This year's team was no exception, playing football of the highest and most mediocre types on successive Saturdays.

Ithacan Football Lacks System.

A good many Cornell men have tried to solve their gridiron troubles, but it seems impossible. The consensus of opinion seems to be that Cornell's difficulties are due almost entirely to lack of system. In their endeavor to turn out winning teams they have tried first one plan and then another. It is doubtful if they ever present a winning eleven until they can decide upon a good system and stick to it until it turns out a championship eleven. When it does this there is no doubt that football championships will be as frequent at Cornell as they now are at Yale, Princeton or Pennsylvania.

WINNIPEG CLUBS WILL SEND RINKS TO DULUTH

A dispatch from Winnipeg says that the metropolis of Western Canada will send a large representation of rinks to the forthcoming Northwestern bonspiel to be held in Duluth on Jan. 15.

It is stated that the Granites will send four rinks, the skips being Carn, Chisholm, Lemon, Blackburn and maybe Charlie Kelly, also. Two rinks are expected to represent the Strathcona club. J. T. Hale and W. F. Payne are expected to skip these rinks. Frank Cassidy and "Mac" Braden are looked upon to skip the Thistle rinks. George Nell may also be down.

In addition to these rinks it is said that there may be some others. Winnipeg did not send a rink to the Northwestern last year and the absence of the Canadian rinks was felt keenly. As the Canadians are some of the best curlers in the world, their presence is a big asset.

It is believed that had one or two of the crack Winnipeg rinks been down here last season Bob Dunbar, the St. Paul star, would not have made the great sweep that he did.

Local curiers will hail with considerable anticipation the statement that Winnipeg is to send some rinks down to the coming spiel. The Canadians are the best fellows in the world and their presence adds a great deal. Some very famous rinks are over on the other side of the line, and if the Winnipeg people decide to come, it may be understood that they will send a strong delegation.

ADAMS TAKE FIRST PLACE

Again last evening the strong Adams hockey team gave promise of developing into the best aggregation that has ever played in Duluth. The Adams won their third straight game of the season, swamping the Broadways of Superior by the score of 20 to 3.

The feature of the game was the superb defense of the West end team. Rarely did the transbay players get by the cover point. If they did they were usually neatly blocked by A. Grenner at point. The Adams' defense in the contest of last evening was one of the best exhibitions of defensive playing that has been seen in Duluth for a long time.

"Arnie" Olson and Helmer Grenner played a star game for the West end boys. Olson scored six goals, some of them on long shots. Grenner was close behind with five goals. Grenner made one of the prettiest shots of the evening, caging one from near the middle of the rink. Andy Grenner kept the name of the family up by scoring four goals. Alder put four in the cage and W. Olson had one score to his credit. Moran, the right wing for the visitors, scored all of the visitors' points.

Kriz played a corking game at goal for the West End aggregation. He stopped several difficult shots and it is due to his great blocking that the score of Superior was not higher.

The contest of last evening places the Adams in the lead for the Duluth-Superior Hockey league flag. The Triple A team has defeated the Big Duluths, while the Curling club team has also won from the Broadways. From the showing they have made to date the Adams are looked upon as the real contender in the new league. The contest last evening was played at the Lincoln Park ice rink and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The lineup:

Adams.		Broadways.
Kriz	g	J. Ellis
A. Grenner	p	C. Ellis
W. Olson	cp	McDonough
A. Olson	c	Bradley
Alder	lw	Randall
H. Grenner	rw	Moran

Goals—A. Olson, 6; H. Grenner, 5; A. Grenner, 4; Alder, 4; W. Olson, 1; Moran, 3.

BIG WRESTLING BILL FOR FANS

Because of the big demand for tickets to the big double bill wrestling contest at the Auditorium next Wednesday evening, the tickets have been placed on sale at Bob Blackwood's Superior street cigar store. The ringside seats are in strong demand and have been placed on sale early to avoid a rush later on.

At the last match the ringside seats were sold out two hours before the contest. A plat will be at the place of sale so that early buyers will be able to ascertain where they are going to sit. The sale of general admission tickets will open later in the week.

Ordemann, the American champion, who has made so great a record the present season, will meet Fred Pilakoff, the Finnish Lion, in a finish match. Sailor Jack, the little marine who is tentatively matched with Young Miller of St. Paul for the world's championship, will go against John Gustafson in another finish affair.

It is probable that Young Miller will referee the contest between Ordemann and Pilakoff. George Barton, manager of Ordemann, favors Miller and Pilakoff has interposed no objection. These two matches promise to be the greatest contested here for a long time.

To avoid a crush at the doors the promoters have decided to throw open the big Third Avenue doors to ticket holders. Those holding tickets can go directly into the big Auditorium without encountering a crowd at the ticket window. The doors will open at 7 o'clock to accomodate early buyers.

LITTLE PROGAN MAY BE LOST TO DIAMOND.

Word from Chicago is to the effect that Johnny Evers is but a wreck of his former self. There are doubts as to whether one of the greatest second basemen that ever played the game will be able to be of much service to the Cubs. The dramatic death of a friend the breaking of his leg and the loss of his savings conspired to give Evers many worries.

Ad Wolgast Is Better.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion pugilist who was stricken with pneumonia several days ago, was reported to be so much improved that he expected to be out of bed by the end of the week.

Smith Remains at Madison.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 4.—Frank (Smiley) Smith signed a contract to manage the Madison baseball team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league for the coming season.

Offer for Johnson.

New York, Jan. 4.—A local athletic club telegraphed to Jack Johnson an offer of $15,000 to meet Joe Jeanette in a ten-round bout here. The club managers said it was useless to match "white hopes" with Johnson.

Waugh vs. Welsh.

Los Angeles, Jan. 4.—It has been announced that Bobby Waugh, the Texas lightweight who defeated Jimmie Giblin New Year's day and Freddie Welsh of England had been matched for twenty rounds at Vernon, Jan. 20.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FINNISH DAY AT CHISHOLM

Big Midsummer Festival of Finnish-Americans in Range Village.

Annual Observance of Finland's Great Day to Be Held on June 24.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of representatives of the Finnish societies of the range held here Tuesday, Chisholm was selected as the place for holding the midsummer celebration next June 23 and 24, which means that 3,000 visitors representing the best Finnish people of Northern Minnesota will congregate here. The midsummer festival is an annual event and maintains a custom which is peculiar to their native land.

The 24th of June in Finland is a gala day, and while the celebration is somewhat different in nature, yet it partakes some of the features of our July 4.

On the 24th of June the Finnish people decorate their homes with flowers, flags and bunting, and many of them go into the mountains to celebrate the event, the highest peaks being selected for the reason that at that time of the year the sun is at its highest point and its radiance is cast over the northland for three days without setting.

Speakers and Singers Here.

The Chisholm celebration will bring speakers and singers famed beyond the borders of the state, and every one of the societies on the range will bring along their local glee clubs and brass bands. Among the sports will be athletic events in which leading Finnish athletes of the Northwest will participate. The village council will be asked to provide suitable grounds for the outdoor athletic contests and sports.

The local committee having the celebration in charge is: President, Erick Antilla; treasurer, Matt Boriin; vice president, Peter Wall; secretary, L. Ketonen; advisor, M. Sinkonen. The following towns were represented with delegates at Tuesday's meeting: Hibbing—Adolph Lundquist, Anton Lamminmaki. Jarve, Mattson. Virginia—Conrad, Madsen, Kaskinen, Piirto, Heino. Eveleth—John Alio. Buhl and Kinney—Kangass. Stevenson — David Kukkonen.

LITTLE GIRL'S PLEA EFFECTIVE

Child Prevails on Hibbing Judge to Let Parent Off Easily.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Selma Potolnak, 9 years old, yesterday made a plea in municipal court for clemency for her father, George Potolnak, under arrest on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The family live at 102 Second street. Selma told Judge Brady that she was the only one of the family who spoke English and that neither she nor her mother wanted him sent to jail, because if he was committed they would have no means of support and both she and her mother might be compelled to seek employment to make a living. Besides she told the judge she was a schoolmate of his little daughter and she thought the court ought to take that into consideration.

She said if her father were sent to jail he would lose his position at the Sellers mine, and employments was hard to get this winter. She told Judge Brady if he would let Potolnak off with a fine he would pay it at the rate of $5 a week until it was entirely discharged. The court considered the little girl's motion favorably and imposed a nominal fine for simple assault. Potolnak became involved with Nick Glumos during a dispute at an Austrian barber shop on Pine street Tuesday night.

HIBBING BANK PROSPERS.

Merchants & Miners Makes Good Showing for 1911.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the officers and stockholders of the Merchants & Miners State bank was held Tuesday evening. President Killorin and Director P. H. Nelson were here from Duluth to attend. Aside from the routine business incident to the annual meeting little of importance was transacted. Officers and directors were re-elected as follows: President, J. F. Killorin; vice president, Gust Carlson; cashier, J. L. Lewis; assistant cashier, A. L. Egg; directors, J. F. Killorin, Gust Carlson, P. H. Nelson, G. A. Kellner, W. C. Barrett, James Geary, Thomas York and J. L. Lewis.

The annual report was most gratifying to the stockholders. The business of 1911 was better than had been expected and the outlook for the coming year indicates steady advancement.

HIBBING SALOON KEEPER FINED FOR KEEPING OPEN.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Collier, proprietor of a saloon on Pine street, paid a fine of $25 and costs in municipal court for keeping his saloon open on Sunday. Collier entered a plea of guilty. The specific offense charged in the complaint was committed June 4, 1911. The prosecution of Collier was under the city ordinance.

Virginia Women Entertain.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. C. O. Larson of 829 Third street entertained a number of her friends at cards Friday evening An elegant lunch was served. All enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olson of 831 Third street entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner New Year's eve. Covers were laid for eighteen. Cards were played during the evening.

MUCH ROAD WORK DONE

Large Amount of Highway Improvement in Stuntz Township in 1911.

Road Distance Between Hibbing and Duluth Reduced Eighteen Miles.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The year 1911 was the biggest year in the history of the road building activity of Stuntz township, when the township spent $80,000 for roads.

But this year will beat 1911 for $90,000 has been raised for road purposes for the year.

A large amount of new road has been built by the township during the past year, opening up valuable agricultural land and new farms are being opened up along every new mile of road.

Perhaps the most important road built by the township during 1911 was the piece two miles south from the Du Pont road to connect with the Iron Junction road. This new road not only opens up fine farming lands, but it cuts down the road distance from Hibbing to Duluth by about eighteen miles, and makes it unnecessary for Hibbing to go by road to Duluth via Virginia and Eveleth. This road, with the Du Pont road, built the year before, has resulted in over two score new farms within a distance of ten miles of Hibbing to the south. The road leaves the Du Pont road about a mile west of the new powder plant.

Other Important Road Work.

Among other new roads built the past year by Stuntz township are the following:

The new Chisholm road, three miles long, was finished, about half the work being done this year. The road is now in use.

A road has been completed from the Klizville road to the new Grace mine about one mile in length.

A mile of road was built by the township from Kelley lake to the Itasca county line, the road to Keewatin being completed from there by Itasca county.

The Stevenson road was widened all the way from Hibbing to Stevenson, a distance of about seven miles.

About half a mile of road was built from Mitchell to Klizville. This road connects with the new Washington street road built by the Village of Hibbing to Mitchell.

Two big hills were cut down, one on the Stevenson road and one on the Du Pont road.

A very large amount of repair work was done. In addition, the township kept either two or three men constantly at work on every road in the township, filling up holes, picking out stones and otherwise keeping the roads in condition.

COMMISSION PLAN GROWING POPULAR

Virginia Aldermen and Also Mayor Favor Submitting Proposition to Voters.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alderman E. C. A. Johnson favors the submision by the charter commission to the voters of a proposition to establish a commission form of government for Virginia. Mr. Johnson lauds the present city government, but holds that Virginia is entitled to the best government possible. Mayor Hawkinson also favors a commission form of government as most business like.

Alderman Kimball, who withstood a recall election, wants an amendment to the city charter, providing there be no recall election unless the official sought to be recalled is guilty of malfeasance in office.

ANOTHER VIRGINIAN SEEKING JUDGESHIP

WILLIAM J. ARCHER.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney W. J. Archer today filed as a candidate for municipal judge. Mr. Archer is making an active canvass for the office. Advocates of a municipal ownership ticket met last night and urged M. A. Murphy to be a candidate for mayor. Special Municipal Judge J. H. Fleming and A. N. Thompson, a former mayor, are accredited candidates for municipal judge. Both belong to the Progressive league, which has been active on behalf of municipal ownership. The question of presenting candidates for the offices of president and secretary of the Commercial club was discussed and the candidacy of F. C. Whiting was favored by several.

TAKES LIFE AT HIBBING

Lumberjack Shoots Himself Standing on Steps of Finnish Lutheran Church.

Fires Bullet From Newly Purchased Revolver Into Nose, Dying Instantly.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Standing upon the steps leading to the Finnish Lutheran church here about 11:45 a. m. today, a Swede-Finn supposed to be Otto Gustafson, a lumberjack, fired a bullet into his head from a new .38 caliber revolver he had just purchased and died while being rushed to the hospital.

A man by the name of Todd, who happened to be passing witnessed the suicide and notified the police, who hurried the man to the hospital but it was too late. The bullet entered the nose and tore a gaping hole through the brain.

Had Lumberjack Outfit.

Little can be larned of the deceased here, but he is supposed to have come to town from some of the adjoining lumber camps as he carried his lumberjack's kit containing the usual articles and he was dressed in the regulation style of woodsmen.

On him was found a letter addressed to Otto Gustafson, 413 Front street, Ashland, Wis., mailed at Nobel, Wis., and signed John R. Scott. There was about $4.64 in change on his person. It developed that earlier in the day he had visited a hardware store and purchased the revolver, changing $10 in payment. He did not appear then to be under the influence of liquor or not acting rationally. He was about 35. An effort is being made to communicate with Ashland and ascertain his identity.

HIBBING HAS ONLY ONE COLORED MAN

Porter in Barbershop Said to Be Sole Negro Resident of Village.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing with its cosmopolitan population, speaking twenty-six different languages has but one negro resident, who is employed as a porter at a local barber shop.

Negroes have been gradually removing from the city for some time. The last to leave was "Spike" Robinson, the colored prizefighter. Robinson recently arranged a wrestling match here with Martin Johnson, the Duluth fireman. When the hour the bout was scheduled to start arrived, there were but three people in the audience and the "match" was called off.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO DWELLINGS

Located Outside of Limits of Gilbert, Making Firemen's Task Hard.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin last evening destroyed the Isaac Frandcla residence on Virginia road in the Second addition to Gilbert. The firemen were unable to fight the flames, as the hydrants were too far from the blaze. A house adjoining, which was partly destroyed by fire six months ago, also caught fire and burned to the ground. The buildings were not in the village limits. Isaac Frandela carried $1,000 insurance on his dwelling, but it is not believed the adjoining house was insured as it was vacant.

Waterworks officials are busy this week as the cold spell has caused many broken water pipes in the locations. The main water connections, however, are in good shape.

TO HEAR DULUTHIANS.

Symphony Orchestra Is Expected to Entertain Virginians.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — Arrangements have been made by Supt. Lafayette Bliss for a concert in Roosevelt auditorium by the Glee club of Carleton college the evening of April 2. Some time during the winter or early spring it is expected the Duluth Symphony orchestra also will entertain at the auditorium.

The International Operatic company, consisting of Miss Tekla Farm McKinnie, Burt P. McKinnie, Rose Heidenreich, Lawrence Muehling and Christian Matheson, will give the next number of the high school entertainment course at the auditorium Friday evening.

SHIP MINING TIMBER.

Material for Hibbing Mines to Be Transported This Winter.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shipping has begun from the logging camps on the Hull-Rust cut-off between Hibbing and Silica, where seven contractors are getting out mining timbers and lagging. It is expected that about forty cars a day will be handled through the Mitchell yards from this time until the close of the season to the various mines in the Hibbing district and over the Mesaba range.

DUPONT COMPANY IS ERECTING BUILDINGS.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Dupont Powder company has under course of construction south of the powder plant at Brooklyn a six-room house and office building combined for Ira B. Whitney, its sales manager. There is also being built a garage and barn for the housing of the automobiles and horses used by the sales and delivery department. The house will be modern in every respect with a full basement.

TWO HARBORS HAS BAD FIRE

Northern Hotel, a Landmark, Is Partially Destroyed By Flames.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire starting from an over-heated stove partially destroyed the Northern hotel here last night. The building had been closed for a month and was about to be reopened for business. The building was undergoing a thorough renovation. Estimated damage due to fire and water was $3,000. The building was insured for $4,000 by Andrews Bros.

The Northern hotel was owned by Mrs. C. A. Erickson and was an old landmark, being the first hotel at the ore docks. Later it was moved to its present site and rebuilt.

ITALIAN FACTIONAL ROW

Aired in Court, Two Accused Being Put Under Bonds.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — Ex-Sergeant Peter Nordi and U. Chimi and Patrolman Louis Accefero, leaders of local Italian factions, were tried before Judge William E. Moyan yesterday, the first two being charged with using threats to assault the officers. They were placed under bonds of $150 to keep the peace for six months. They will be tried today together with seven other Italians for destroying the Jackson street police booth and for disturbing the peace.

CHISHOLM NEEDS PARK.

Absence of Pleasure Ground Is Generally Recognized.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The need of a public park here is becoming more evident. During the coming summer Chisholm will entertain several societies of note and many more could be added to the list if the village were in a position to offer the natural advantages they would secure in any other place.

Last year when the Eagles had their state convention here the absence of a park was felt, not alone by the visitors, but by the residents, and more particularly those having the convention in charge.

EVELETH COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL ELECT.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A social and smoker will be given this evening at city hall at the annual meeting of the Commercial club. President James C. Poole and Secretary A. E. Pfremmer are expected to be re-elected. The club plans to hold a big get-together gatherings here next month with prominent speakers on the program.

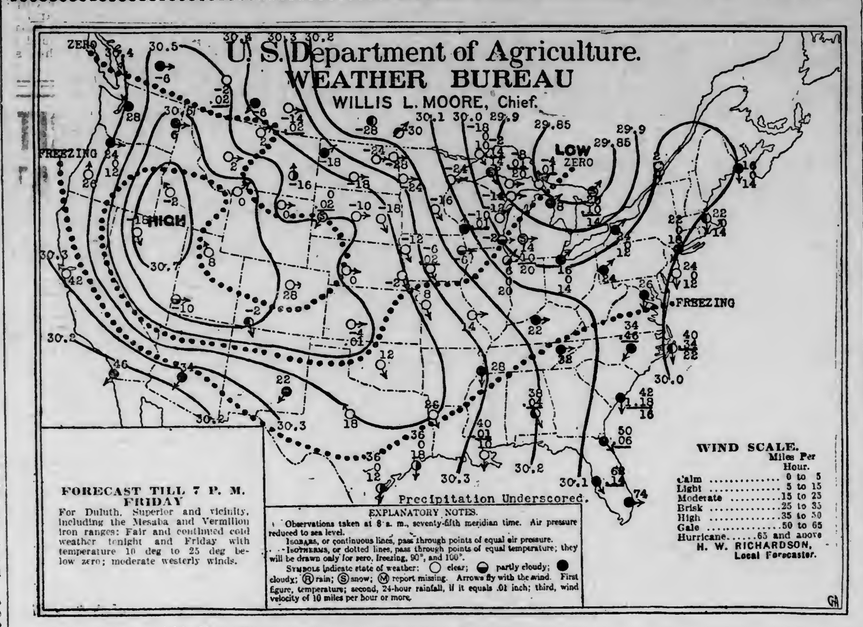

TAKEN TO ST. PAUL.

Body of Gilbert Boy Will Be Buried There.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Robert, the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Masterson, who died Tuesday, was taken to St. Paul, his former home, for interment. by his brothers, William and Jean, his mother and young sister. His father, now a road contractor and who was the first mayor of Gilbert, was unable to make the trip to St. Paul as he is also ill. One of the Masterson girls is teaching in Ironwood, Mich., where the family formerly resided, but she has been notified of the death and will likely attend the funeral in the Saintly City.

The deceased was popular among the younger set of this town and was a member of the city baseball team, and a high school football and basket ball star. He was to have graduated from the local high school in June. He was formerly employed at the Missabe depot here and also assisted at the Barrett drug store.

CONTINUED COLD

Old Man Winter slipped in another stiff jolt early this morning when the temperature dropped to 24 deg. below zero again. That's the second time the figure has been reached this week and winter is certainly retaining the upper hand in the uneven bout. There'll be nothing doing in the way of banana belt weather for the next two days at least. A low temperature of 10 deg. to 25 deg. below zero is predicted for tonight. Now isn't that cheerful?

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:32 this evening, giving eight hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions: "Severe cold weather continues throughout the entire Northwest, the Rocky Mountains, Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and Western Lake region, coldest averaging about 30 deg. below zero in the Red river valley. During the last twenty-four hours light snow occurred over Lakes Superior and Michigan and light to heavy rains fell over South Atlantic and Gulf states. At the Head of the Lakes the present low temperature condition will prevail without material abatement during the ensuing thirty-six to forty-eight hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan—Fair except snow flurries near Lake Superior tonight and Friday; continued cold.

South Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday, continued cold with colder in extreme west portion tonight.

Shippers' Forecast: Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures varying from 5 deg. below to about 50 deg. below zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

CERTAINLY ENDS STOMACH MISERY

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Go In Five Minutes.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of Indigestion or Dyspepsia; or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Biliousness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50 cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

KRAMER FOUND GUILTY.

Is Given Indeterminate Term in State Prison.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — The jury in the Kramer murder case brought in a verdict yesterday afternoon of manslaughter in the first degree and Judge Hughes sentenced Kramer to an indeterminate term in the state prison.

WORKING THE GILBERT.

Force of Men Placed to Work in Property.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty men started work yesterday at the Gilbert mine which has been idle since last spring. The mining buildings are being repaired, and necessary improvements made. Miners will be added gradually and it is planned to work about 200 men.

At one time the property employed 800 men and should there be a large demand for ore the mine and stripping will likely be worked to full capacity. The Schley and Pettit mine forces are being enlarged and the mines in this vicinity plan to ship much ore during the 1912 season.

WOODSMAN FOUND DEAD.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis Deschene, a woodsman, aged 57, a native of Quebec, about whom little is known here, was found dead in bed in a local hotel last night.

Virginia Bowling Game.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—At the Mohami club bowling alleys last night, Dennis Madden's team defeated A. E. Masecar's team by the score of 1,920 to 1,896 in three games. The bowling season has opened with six teams in the league. New pins and balls have just been purchased for the alleys.

Eveleth Odd Fellows Install.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Odd Fellows last evening District Grand Solomon Sax, Grand Warden S. E. Helps, Grand Secretary Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., and Grand Treasurer John Downey installed the new officers.

WANT MORE CARRIERS

West Duluthians Will Seek Improvement in Mail Service.

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers for Commercial Club.

At the regular meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club tomorrow evening the members will bring up the subject of asking for more mail-carriers at West Duluth. Residents in this end of the city have complained of late that the service was inadequate and the commercial club will take up the matter and attempt to secure better service in the future. A resolution will be passed requesting Postmaster Cook to confer with the government regarding the extra help and to assist in securing the better mail service for this end of the city.

The members will also discuss the Fairmont park addition and as the meeting has been opened to the members of the Oneota Improvement club, an interesting discussion will be heard.

Alderman Bernard will make his report regarding the changing of the name Oneota, Jenswold and Ramsey streets to Superior street as suggested at the last meeting and the members of the club will take final action on the matter.

The various committees will report for the year and show the members just what has been accomplished during the past twelve months. The new officers of the club will be elected and the various committees appointed for the year.

Among the most important things accomplished during the year is the pushing to a successful issue of the opening of Ramsey street from Central avenue to Grand. The final step has been taken and the city has already acquired all the property needed for the street, through the agitation of the club, plans were made early in the year for the Getchell road, which will connect the farming district west of Duluth with the center of the city.

The club has also been successful in securing safety appliances for the Northern Pacific crossings at Fifty-seventh, Fifty-ninth and Sixty-third avenues west. The club's park committee has met with success in pushing the proposition to create a riverside park along the bay front near the Kingsbury creek and from the present outlook, it is probable that the park board will negotiate a purchase of the property during the year.

Among the many things that the club has advocated during the year are: the building of a new passenger station at West Duluth; creating public market place for the farmers; extension of the Steel railway to New Duluth; and a new fire hall and police station for West Duluth.

MRS. BROTHERTON PASSES AWAY

Well Known West Duluth Woman Dies After Long Illness.

Mrs. Mary Brotherton, 43 years old, wife of John E. Brotherton, 232 Fifty-third avenue west, died at the Graham hospital at 4 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Brotherton had been ill several weeks and her recovery was doubtful during the past week. She leaves four sons and her husband.

Mrs. Brotherton was one of the most prominent women in West Duluth and took an active part in church and club circles. She was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H., the members of which society will have charge of the funeral. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning from the St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Rev. D. W. Lynch will officiate and interment will be in the Calvary cemetery.

WENT HOME TO GET REVOLVER

New Duluth Man Found Police Waiting on His Return.

Nick Kalembia was arrested at New Duluth last night on a charge of having assaulted Mike Perich, a store keeper.

It is claimed that he threatened to kill Perich and returned home to get a revolver. When he got back to the store he found the policemen waiting for him and it is alleged that he passed the revolver to another man who was in the place at the time. Perich believes that had not the police been there, he would have been shot by Kalembia.

BEGIN PLAY FOR ESTERLY TROPHY

Buckley defeated Mallory, Jr., 12 to 9, and Iltis won from Brown, 13 to 8, in the first two games in the Esterly trophy event played at the Western Curling rink last evening. The Esterly event will be played in squad style with seven rinks in the squad and eight in the other. The two winners in the squad struggle will play for the ownership of the cup.

This evening Wieland will play Olson and Ashley will meet Judson in the Union Match event and Holland will play Evered, and Wade is matched with Mallory in the Esterly event. Four rinks line up as follows in the Esterly event:

Squad 1—Holland, Mallory, Jr., Ashley, Evered, Method, Wade and Buckley.

Squad 2—Brown, Clark, Olson, Wieland, Iltis, Zauft, Judson and Clark.

In the other events at the rink Method will meet Ashley in the semi-finals of the Commercial club event for the right to meet Judson for the trophy. This will be settled probably tomorrow or Saturday evening as will the Union Match event, which will go into the semi-finals with today's and tomorrow's games.

DENIES ANY ATTEMPT TO "HOLD UP" CITY ON PARK SITE

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your West Duluth column of last evening's issue was an article which stated that many of the West Duluth people are indignant at the alleged attempt of the property owners to "hold up" the city on the price of the water front between Sixty-third and Seventy-first avenues west that the park board proposes to condemn for park purposes.

This is one ugly charge, and if true, is extremely reprehensible. Is it true? In the first place, it is not proposed to purchase this property by agreement between the owners and the city. The law gives the city the power to condemn it, and does not leave values to be agreed upon or even arbitrated by disinterested parties. City officials appraise it and the owners will be obliged to take the price they fix or go into court and fight for their rights. That means expensive litigation. Furthermore, the law gives the city the right to tie up the property for one year after it is condemned. In the meantime, if the property advances in value, as this property is sure to do, the city will get the difference between the price fixed by condemnation proceedings and the actual value at the time it is really bought and paid for. In other words, the city forces from the property owners options on their property, and the owners have nothing to say as to the price. If the price finally fixed by a jury is inadequate, or the property should be worth more when actually bought than when it was condemned, in either case part of the actual value will be confiscated by the city, and the property owners will be helpless to prevent it.

Now, I appeal to members of the West Duluth Commercial club, or any fair-minded man, to explain how it is possible for the property owners, or their agents, to "hold up" the city in such circumstances. It is simply absurd.

At the meeting of the park board and the committee of councils held in the city hall on the second, every one agreed with President Mendenhall that there should be a water front opening to Fairmont park and that this is the time to secure it. Those representing the property owners contended that the amount the park board proposes to condemn is far in excess of what the city will ever need for park purposes. They agreed that it will be infinitely better for the city, and particularly for West Duluth, if only a few hundred feet of water front be taken, instead of nearly half a mile, and the remainder reserved for business purposes. Nearly all of the water front on the Minnesota side of the St. Louis bay has been taken up by railroads or other corporations and much of it is in actual use. The last purchase is of land above the Grassy Point bridge and a million dollar dock is about to be built upon it.

Allow For Growth.

If with a population of less than 100,000 so large a portion of the available dock propery is now taken for business purposes, how much will be needed when Duluth has half a million or a million inhabitants? Isn't it better policy to devote to park purposes only so much of the water front as may be actually needed and hold the remainder in reserve for the location of great business enterprises that are sure to need it in the not distant future? In other words, is it not good policy ot get as much business on this side of the bay as we can and not drive it to the other side because we have not suitable locations for it? Suppose that twenty-five years ago all of the water frontage where West Duluth is had been turned into a park. There would not be a prosperous population of 15,000 or more, at West Duluth. Indeed, there would not be any West Duluth and the people living there would be living somewhere else.

Now, what was done at that meeting which could be construed into an attempt to "hold up" the city? F. A. Day, representing the Norton estate, made a statement showing recent sales of that kind of property in that vicinity and gave the prices the West Duluth Land company got on similar property a short distance below. He also submitted the written opinions of the most competent judges as the approximate value of the property it is proposed to condemn. This was done to give the members of the park board an idea of the market value of the property at the present time, and he contended that it would be manifestly unfair to tie up so much property when there is so slight a prospect of the park board being able to pay for it.

The argument made by Mr. Getchell was that the property has "practically no value except a speculative value," and that it should be bought at its assessed value, or a little above; that now is the time to secure it; that it will prove a great investment for the city and "become one of its most valuable assets." The inconsistency of such an argument did not seem to occur to him, viz: that the property will become very valuable and "become one of the city's most valuable assets," and yet "it has practically no value except a speculative value." I quote Mr. Getchell's own words. The force of such an argument can be better appreciated when we consider that two immense coal docks are to be built above the Grassy Point bridge and that one of the corporations paid as high as $2,599 per acre for submerged land.

Leonidas Merritt, of the park board, cited the untold value of Central park, New York, to give some idea of the immense increase in value which this property will make and to show what a fine investment it will be for the city. John Jenswold remarked that if he were permitted to go out and buy Duluth property at its assessed value and sell it for its real value he could soon retire from business and stated that the assessed value was no criterion in fixing the price that should be paid for the property. Z. D. Scott, member of the council committee, was in favor of buying the property now, and paying what is reasonably worth. Members of the park board seemed to agree with Mr. Scott. On behalf of my principals I stated that we would not ask the city to pay more than we would expect any other investor to pay.

In view of all this, I submit that there was nothing said or done at that meeting to justify any one in saying that the owners of the property or their agents showed any disposition to "hold up" the city, and even if any one should want to do so he could not possibly succeed. The city has the advantage in every way and it is given that advantage in order to prevent the possibility of being held up. It seems to me that all of this wild talk is only calculated to prejudice the public by trying to put the property owners and their agents in a false light. It may not be so intended, but it can have no other effect. C. E. LOVETT.

Duluth, Jan. 4.

SCOTT-WILSON.

West Duluth Girl Is Bride of International Falls Man.

Miss Lillian Ada Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Scott, 126 South Sixty-sixth avenue west, and Louis W. Wilson of International Falls, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. W. H. Farrell of the Asbury M. E. church conducted the ceremony following which a wedding dinner was served to the immediate friends of the couple.

The rooms were tastily decorated with smilax and ferns and the out-of-town guests were W. W. Scott, Jr., a brother of the bride, and his son, Leonard, of Two Harbors. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left last evening for Minneapolis and the East following which they will return to International Falls where they will make their future home.

Miss Scott was well known in this end of the city and for the past few years had been teaching school at Ely and Brainerd, Minn., Everett, Wash., and Carrington, N. D.

MAY APPROVE JAIL PLANS

City Likely to Get Indorsement of Board of Control.

City Clerk H. W. Cheadle this morning received a letter from the state board of control asking for a duplicate set of the plans for remodeling the city jail. The addition of another door was suggested and this will likely be complied with.

Although the letter did not state that the board would approve the less costly plan, it was considered highly likely. The local authorities believe that when the duplicate plans have been received and some minor alterations made, the board will approve them. This would save the expense of adding another story, or approximately $10,000.

HARD JOLTS FOR CUPID

Five Mismated Couples Given Divorces in District Court.

Mrs. Flora Anderson Charges Husband With Many Forms of Cruelty.

Charging nearly all the forms of ill treatment that can be imagined, Flora Anderson, 43 years old, was granted a divorce from her husband, Otto Anderson, 50, this morning by Judge Dancer of the district court.

According to the complaint and the evidence of the plaintiff, they were maried in Duluth in November, 1903.

Soon after the cruel and inhuman treatment began, according to the plaintiff. She claimed that he assaulted and beat her, called her vulgar names, threatened to kill her and accused her of wrongful doing.

Today was divorce day in the district court and five mismated couples were separated by the court. There are a number of divorce cases to be heard and they will be on trial this afternoon and tomorrow morning. It is expected that the divorce cases for the January term will be completed by the end of the present week.

Mrs. Ethyl Burbank, 28, was given a decree from her husband, Robert Dillon Burbank, 30, on her simple charge of desertion. She claimed that they were married in Duluth in 1903. There are two children, 6 and 3 years old.

Mrs. Clara Dolter, 38, was successful in her petition for divorce from her husband, John Dolter, 50. The plaintiff charged that her husband has been a habitual drunkard for more than one year past. They were married at Dubuque, Iowa, twenty years ago and there are four children, 19, 18, 13 and 6 years old.

Pearl McNally, 33, was given a decree from her husband, Thomas McNally, 33, on her charge of cruel and inhuman treatment and desertion. They were married at Toronto, Can., in 1905. They lived together until December, 1908.

Fred Thibideau, 27, was given a divorce from his wife, Louise Thibideau, 31 years old. He charged desertion. They were married in February, 1905, and she deserted, it was claimed, in October of the same year.

The case of Anna Smith, 30, against George Smith, 39, will probably be heard this afternoon or tomorrow morning. She claims that her husband is cruel to her, that he drinks, spends his money with women of bad reputation, fails to support his family, beats the plaintiff, threatens to kill her, has chased her out of the house and that as the result of the ill treatment she is now broken down in health. She asks an absolute divorce.

JUSSERAND HAS NO ROW WITH TAFT

French Foreign Office Puts Quietus on Story in Paris.

Paris, Jan. 4.—The foreign office today issued a statement in regard to a newspaper report which has been published here, that the French ambassador at Washington, Jean Jules Jusserand, had been affronted by President Taft and had left Washington on a trip to Panama so as to be absent from the New Year's reception at the White House and thus show his adhesion to his friend Roosevelt.

The foreign office declares that the truth of the matter is quite different. It says that Ambassador Jusserand left for Panama at the request of President Taft, who had repeatedly pressed the French ambassador to visit Panama before the construction of the canal was completed.

M. Jusserand and his wife, accompanied by Attorney General Wickersham and his wife, left for Panama on Dec. 20 and expect to return to Washington on Jan. 9, after which M. Jusserand will go to New York to attend the banquet of the New York Bar, at which he and President Taft are to speak.

"The good relations existing between President Taft and Ambassador Jusserand," continues the statement by the foreign office, "are well known. Far from lacking cordiality and readiness in connection with the negotiations of the treaty of arbitration, as one newspaper insinuated, it was M. Jusserand who was the first to approve publicly of the idea. It was due to his initiative that the treaty between France and America was signed first."

Kenneth Fisher Bingham, Milwaukee concert singer, who was married in a New York hospital on Dec. 16 to Miss Ethel Angella Hanks, died in that city Sunday night. He is survived by Mrs. Edward Ferguson of Milwaukee, an aunt.

Jacob Showles, a former circus owner, clown and gymnastic performer, is dead at his home at Long Beach, N. J., in his 82nd year. Few men were better known in the circus world a half century ago. He traveled with the Dan Rice circus and later performed with the Forepaugh and Doris shows. In the early '80's he owned and conducted the North American shows.

"POSTOFFICE IS PARTY MACHINE"

Norris of Nebraska Makes Charge in Speech in the House.

Washington, Jan. 4.—"The postoffice department has come to be a huge political machine used by any party in power to control party organizations," declared Representative Norris of Nebraska today, in explaining a drastic bill he introduced which would place every postal employe except the postmaster general under the competitive classified service.

"The roll-call of a Republican convention," said Mr. Norris, who is an insurgent Republican, "sounds like a list of second-class postmaster."

OPEN BIDS FOR NEW FIGHTERS

Figures on Oklahoma and Nevada Received By Government.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Bids for the construction of the two 27,000-ton battleships Oklahoma and Nevada were opened here today. The lowest proposals were from the New York Shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., at $5,926,000 for one ship, and the Fore River Shipbuilding company of Quincy, Mass., at $5,935,000 per ship.

The new vessels will carry the most powerful main batteries ever put afloat. Four turrets will house ten 14-inch rifles, three of the big guns going into each of two turrets. The main armor belts will be fourteen inches thick

Congress appropriated $6,000,000 each for these vessels, exclusive of armor and armament. In general design the ships will be almost exact duplicates of the New York and Texas, now being built. They are to have a speed of about twenty and a half knots an hour and will use oil for fuel.

WANT POTATO MARKET.

Brainerd Will Hear Expert on Raising Tubers.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. C. E. Brown of Elk River, an expert in the employ of the state at the experimental farm, will come to Brainerd on Jan. 19 to talk on potato raising at the Commercial club. The meeting is for the purpose of gaining information as to the establishment of a potato market here.

Few Delinquent Taxes.

County Auditor Smart has delivered to County Treasurer Adair thirty-three tax lists calling for the collection of $275,000 and in return received from the treasurer the 1910 tax list of which $23,000 or less than 10 per cent was not collected. The list of uncollected taxes is $5,000 less than last year.

Henry Kluver of Grundy Center, Iowa, was married here yesterday to Miss Maude E. Plummer, the Rev. Charles Fox Davis officiating. The groom owns a fine farm in Iowa and the bride was formerly a clerk in a local store.

GRAND FORKS TRUST COMPANY HAS ELECTION.

AGED WOMAN IS FATALLY BURNED ON HOMESTEAD.

Baudette, Minn., Jan. 4.—Mrs. Libby E. McCreary, aged 75, lost her life Tuesday night when her cabin on her homestead near Roosevelt was burned. Her son, living on another claim nearby, discovered the fire and hastened to his mother's rescue, but was too late. The deceased was to have proved up on her claim in a fortnight.

CHINESE MINISTER AT WASHINGTON QUITS.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The Chinese minister to Washington, Chang Yin Tang, has decided to quit his post here after a stay of a year and a month. The reason is unknown. He will leave next week for China.

There is something more than coincidence back of the fact that it is the advertised businesses that succeed, and the unadvertised businesses that fail.

WHEAT AND FLAX SOAR

Stormy Weather and a Railroad Labor Tie-up in Argentina.

These Two Factors Boost Wheat and Flax in Both Hemispheres.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 4.—Duluth was no exception to the general bullishness that pervaded most of the leading wheat and flax markets of the world today. Damage to the Argentine wheat crop, the impending railroad strike in that country, smaller primary wheat receipts in the United States and a better demand for wheat both at home and abroad caused quite a bulge in Duluth wheat. May closed at an advance of 1⅝ cents. Duluth January flax, boomed by bad weather in Argentina, closed 6 cents up and May 5½ cents up. Cash wheat closed at the May price, durum 1 cent up, oats ¾c up, rye 1 cent up, barley 2 cents up and corn ½ cent up.

Reports of heavy storms in Argentina today sent wheat soaring on the markets of North America and many other parts of the world. Another very bullish factor was the announcement of a great railroad strike, which will begin in that country next Saturday. Buenos Ayres wheat last night closed at an advance of 2⅞c to 1¼c bu. The same market opened this morning with a further advance of 1⅛c to 1¼c. There was bullish excitement on the market at Liverpool, where wheat closed 1⅝d to 2d higher. Antwerp made a close of 2c to 1⅝c higher.

The leading markets of North America opened with a strong bulge in wheat. The strange influence that caused the slump yesterday, in spite of bullish cables, and other news that tended to boost the price of wheat, was entirely overcome today and the prices of wheat went up with a succession of bounds. Small primary wheat receipts in America helped to bull the markets. Chicago reported that the selling of wheat for export had begun on the coast. Montreal wired that the European demand was excellent and the United Kingdom was bidding high. Minneapolis wired that the demand for milling was strong.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.06¼ asked, opened today at $1.07 bid and by noon was selling at $1.07⅞. There were also strong bulges at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Flax Goes Up, Too.

The heavy Argentine rains boosted flax as well as wheat. Last night Buenos Ayres January flax closed at $2.19⅝, an advance of 6¾c. This morning it opened 4¾c higher. Eastern American crushers, alarmed by this increase, concluded to make some purchases on the Duluth market. Heretofore Eastern crushers have been holding off in the hope of a break in the Argentine market. Today's developments seemed to convince many of them that that game was a losing one, and there was a brisk demand for flax on the Duluth market. The offers were fairly large, but not large enough to keep the very bullish situation from boosting the price rapidly. At noon January flax was up 4½c and May was up 5½c.

Snow reports violent storms over Southern Argentina with one to four inches of rain today and more predicted. The harvest is not progressing favorably. Railroad strikes will commence next Saturday.

• • •

• • •

The Price Current, Cincinnati, says: "Growing wheat in the Eastern and Central region is variable. In some places it looks favorable, in others uncertain. The Western and Southern portions are covered with snow and the crop is in excellent position. Colder temperatures are helpful in promoting drying corn, but as a general rule the quality is poor. Interior offerings of all grains are light on account of bad roads."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Weather and Railroad Strike in Argentina Put Wheat Up.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—With the weather in Argentina bad and with a railroad strike just starting in that country, the wheat market today made a sudden upward jump. Commission houses and scalpers of every sort were on the buying side. Advices from Buenos Ayres told of heavy rains throughout the districts where harvesting was in progress.

The most serious aspect of the situation, however, was conceded to be rust damage, causing greatly lowered prospects regarding the yield. The opening was ½c to 1¼c higher. May started at $1.00 to $1.00¾, the same as the market taken altogether. A rise to $1.00⅞ followed.

Improved demand for flour and for cash wheat led to a still further advance. The close was nervous with May at $1.01, a net advance of 1½c.

Corn sympathized moderately with the firmness of wheat. Offerings were comparatively small. May opened a shade to ⅛@¼c up at 63⅜c to 63½c and advanced to 63½@63⅝c.

Little additional gain was scored as wheat mounted in prices. The close was firm at 63¾c for May, a net gain of ⅜@½c.

Oats trailed after other cereals on the upgrade. Selling was only of a scattered sort. May started ⅛@¼c to ¼c higher at 48@48⅜c to 48⅛c, touched 47⅞c and rallied to 48@48⅝c.

Grain in store and a firmer hog market gave provisions a lift. Traders ignored the big increase in packing for the week. First sales were 2½c to 7½c dearer with May delivery $16.00 for pork, $9.42½ for lard and $8.65 for ribs.

Car lot receipts—Wheat, 28 cars, with 3 of contract grade; corn, 538 cars, with none of contract grade; oats, 97 cars. Total receipts of wheat at Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth today were 181 cars, compared with 198 cars last week and 125 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 4.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3@5 points in response to better cables than expected and the big spot business in Liverpool. The market soon turned easier under scattering liquidation and local pressure. Prices late in the first hour were about net unchanged.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 9.35; middling gulf, 9.60. No sales.

Futures closed steady; closing bids: January, 9.03; February, 9.12; March, 9.12; April, 9.24; May, 9.32; June, 9.56; July, 9.43; August, 9.45; September, 9.49; October, 9.56; November, 9.58; December, 9.62.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The extremely cold weather has undoubtedly kept shipments and buyers at home, and the market continues very quiett. Receipts are light on account of shipments being held in the country. Movement made up of light retail orders from city trade. Values unchanged.

BULLS PUSH UP STOCKS

Large Buying Orders in Lehigh Valley Cause Further Advance.

Pressure Against Union Pacific Continues Without Any Explanation.

New York, Jan. 4.—Prices of stocks held steady when trading was begun today, although there was a renewal of the active selling of yesterday. The only points of weakness in the list were Union Pacific and Great Northern preferred, each of which gave way ¾. International Mercantile Marine preferred was again in active demand and rose a point. Canadian Pacific advanced ¾.

Rapid bidding up of a few leading stocks imparted a better tone to the entire list. Bull operations were resumed in Lehigh Valley and some of the specialties, and Union Pacific responded well to supporting orders and short covering. United States Steel climbed to near 69 and the copper group also made some progress upward. Lehigh Valley improved 1½.

Bullish manipulation gave the market an appearance of underlying strength through the morning. Pressure against Union Pacific continued with no authoritative explanation for the heaviness of this leader during recent weeks. A gain of a point was established in Reading, United States Steel and American Smelting. Denver & Rio Grande preferred, Pacific Telephone and American Can preferred rose 1 to 1¼. Missouri Pacific gave way a point at noon and active list was yielding sharply. Bonds were firm.

The market closed firm. Large buying orders were distributed in Lehigh Valley and it mounted quickly to 84½, eclipsing yesterday's high figure. Reports of higher prices for copper metal stimulated purchases of the copper stocks, and there was a decided stiffening also in Pennsylvania and affiliated issues, as well as Rock Island preferred and Wabash preferred. Union Pacific recovered about half its loss, but met effective selling after it had touched 171¾. It again receded nearly to the low level and the rise elsewhere culminated. Before the close the market picked up again.

They Will Sell Anything You Desire to Dispose Of.

Both Phones 324

HOUSEKEEPERS

THIS IS FOR YOU!

When you want a tenant for your vacant room, telephone a good ad to The Herald, one that will bring quick results. Here is an example of an ordinary ad:

"FOR RENT—FURNISHED ROOM for gentleman; good location. Telephone Blank 243 X."

"FOR RENT—NICELY FURNISHED room for gentleman. East end, modern home, private, every convenience; use of telephone; one minute from car line, 12 minutes from Third avenue west; $3 per week. Blank 243 X."

Costs a little more than the ordinary ad. Yes: but in nine cases out of ten the results are so much better and quicker that it pays in the end.

CHICAGO JURY TOLD DETAILS ABOUT BIG COMBINE OF PACKERS

Articles of Incorporation Are Read at the Trial in Chicago.

Arthur Colby, Former Jeweler, Asked About Beef Business.

Relation of By-Products to Total Net Profits Is Shown.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Details of the organization of the National Packing company, formed March 18, 1903, with a capital of $15,000,000, to operate the thirteen independent packing companies previously acquired by the Armour, Swift and Morris interests to be included in the proposed "billion dollar" giant merger, were given the jury today in the trial of the ten Chicago packers charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade.

The incorporators were given as Louis B. Dailey and Kenneth McLaren, officers of the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey, and W. H. Mitchell.

Articles Read to Jury.

The articles of incorporation of the National Packing company, which the government contends was used by the defendants to continue the operations of the alleged old pools, were read to the jury by District Attorney Wilkerson, together with the official minutes of the first meeting of the incorporators, held March 18, 1903, in Jersey City.

Arthur Colby, a director, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the National Packing company, was the fourth witness called by the gov-

VANDEROEF WILL ADMIT HIS GUILT

Pleads Not Guilty to Get Chance to Restore Stolen Funds.

New York, Jan. 5.—Percy G. Vanderoef, former treasurer of the Van Keuren-Thornton company, today entered a formal plea of not guilty to two indictments charging grand larceny. His attorney, Terence J. McManus, said that this plea was entered to permit Vanderoef to remain in New York for a time and attempt to make restitution. When Vanderoef has done all that he can to return the stolen money he will change his plea to guilty, Mr. McManus added. Vanderoef's former employers charge that his alleged thefts approximate $140,000.

WILL NAME BLUE FOR WYMAN'S JOB

Noted Plague Fighter Picked to Be Surgeon General.

Washington, Jan. 5.—President Taft will send to the senate on Monday the nomination of Dr. Rupert Blue of South Carolina as surgeon general of the Public Health and Marine hospital service, succeeding the late Dr. Walter Wyman. Dr. Blue has been connected with the marine hospital service for years and is credited with driving the plague out of San Francisco.

SEVEN ARRESTED FOR MAN'S DEATH

Iowan Said to Have Been Drugged and Left Out in the Cold.

Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 5.—Seven men were arrested today and several others who have left town are being sought by the police in an effort to clear the mystery surrounding the death of Oscar Wundram, aged 20 years.

It is claimed Wundram was drugged and thrown out of a saloon into a shed where he lay all night Tuesday exposed to the cold. He died last night.

SENATE COMMERCE COMMITTEE MEETS.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The interstate commerce committee of the senate resumed its hearing on the trust problem today after a recess during the holidays. S. P. Bush of Columbus, Ohio, was scheduled as today's witness. Owing to the absence of Senator Clapp, the chairman, who is in Ohio campaigning for the Progressive Republicans, Senator Cummins presided. Senator Clapp will return Saturday. Many witnesses are yet to be heard by the committee and the hearings are expected to continue indefinitely.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM THE NEW STATE

CARL HAYDEN.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 5.—Carl Hayden is the new representative in congress from Arizona. He is a Democrat and defeated his opponent by over 3,000. Mr. Hayden was born in Tempe, Ariz., Oct. 2, 1877, and was educated at Stanford university in California and at the public schools of Tempe. He served in the Tempe council and also as county treasurer. He was chairman of the Arizona delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1904.

TALKS ABOUT PUBLIC LAND

La Follette Opens Day With an Address at Bloomington.

Tells Illinoisans His Ideas on the Federal Domain.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 5.—Senator R. M. La Follette is on the verge of collapse from ptomaine poisoning and as a consequence of his hard campaigning. Traveling today he kept in bed during the intervals between stations, and at Clinton was so exhausted that he was unable to address his audience.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Senator Robert M. La Follette today continued his campaign for the Illinois delegation at the Republican national convention, starting out with a speech at Bloomington.

The senator spent the night at Peoria after speaking there last night, and went to Bloomington early today. He planned to make Decatur and Springfield during the afternoon. His tour of the day will end with a meeting in East St. Louis tonight.

The candidate announced that he would talk along the line that has characterized his speeches in the sen-

FACE DEATH ON FUTILE ERRAND

Kentuckians Are Marooned All Night on Island With Dying Man.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 5.—Menaced by imminent death from the high, rushing waters of the Ohio river, three men who had put out in a launch from Paducah, carrying James R. Chandler, the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot, were forced to tie up to a small island in the middle of the river and spend the night. They reached Paducah this morning, suffering from intense cold. Chandler was hurried to an operating table, but he died under the anaesthestic. He had shot himself because his wife is said to be dying of tuberculosis in a sanatarium at Asheville, N. C.

BRYAN'S NAME TO GO ON PRIMARY BALLOT.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 5.—William J. Bryan's name has been advanced for a position on the Democratic primary ballot as a preferential candidate for the presidency by a petition placed on file with Secretary of State Wait here today.

Cold Boosts Egg Prices.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—The lowest total on record for receipts of eggs at Chicago was reported today and there was a consequent increase of 1 cent a dozen for all grades. Responsibility was charged to the extreme cold.

FEEL PINCH OF POVERTY

Democrats Will Sift Out Demands for New Public Buildings.

Passage of Sherwood Pension Bill Makes Slashing a Necessity.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—An early job for the Democrats will be the effort of the committee on public buildings and grounds to sift out the demands for public buildings and to prepare a bill that will find favor with congress in its present economical mood. For the Democratic majority is feeling the pinch of poverty just now after its riotous dissipation of public moneys in the passage of the Sherwood pension bill. True, more Republicans voted for that bill than against it, and almost as many Democrats opposed as favored it. But it bore the name of a distinguished Democrat, was reported by a Democratic committee and was passed by a Democratic house, though a majority of the Democrats did not vote for it. True, also the senate is getting ready to slash it unmercifully, to write a new bill in fact, which will reduce the estimates from $75,000,000 under the Sherwood bill to $40,000,000, or even less. All the same the house Demo-

DASHED TO PIECES IN NEWPORT MINE

Herbert Wright Falls Down Shaft of Mine at Ironwood, Mich.

Ironwood, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herbert Wright fell down the shaft at the Newport mine last night and was killed instantly, his remains being picked up in pieces. He has a brother, Ben Wright. He was single and of English nationality.

POWERS SEEK TO GET PEACE IN TRIPOLI.

Berlin, Jan. 5.—Several of the European powers, including Germany, have been sounding both Rome and Constantinople as to the possibility of arranging an armistice between Turkey and Italy which might perhaps pave the way for peace. The results of these efforts up to the present time have been indefinite.

CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL TRIBUNE IS SCORCHED.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 5.—Fire which started in the fourth floor of the Commercial Tribune building last night caused considerable damage. Quick work by the fire department prevented what appeared to be an ugly fire in the heart of the business district. The paper, however, managed to get out the usual editions. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

REPORT ON HARBOR FOR YEAR 1911

Zenith City Held Its Own With Other Lake Ports.

General Depression in Business Shown By Decrease in Shipping.

Coal Receipts and Lumber Shipments Alone Up to Normal.

Although 1911 was a period of striking irregularity and depression in trade and industry throughout the entire country and Duluth as a great inland port suffered from the unsatisfactory and disappointing season of commerce on the Great Lakes, the Zenith City still held her own with other great industrial centers and markets.

The entire country from one cause or another suffered from a depression of business. In no better way is the commercial and industrial unrest of the past year reflected than through the business done on the Great Lakes. Every port along the great chain suffered as did Duluth, and the falling off of shipments was not confined to any one lake port.

A review and digest of the statistics port, force the conclusion that the year was an exceptionally poor one, especially in the iron trade. Ore shipments on the Great Lakes were the smallest in three years.

Many believe that the panic of 1907, which was preceded by a period of unprecedented era of prosperity, had not yet spent its force and that its effect was felt last year. Others blame the depression to the application of

TOO MUCH SUGAR ON THE MARKET

Williamsburg Plant Is Closed and 5,000 Men Made Idle.

New York, Jan. 5.—The Havemeyer refineries of the American Sugar Refining company in Williamsburg have shut down and 5,000 men have been thrown out of employment. Overproduction is said to have caused the shutdown.

CHILDREN KILLED IN COLLAPSE OF SCHOOL.

Seville, Spain, Jan. 5.—A large number of children and their teachers were killed and maimed by the collapse of the building of a private school here today.

FOREIGNERS MAKE MOVE

British and German Troops in China March to Lanchow.

Britons Will Guard American Section of Railroad.

London, Jan. 5.—According to an exchange company's telegram, British and German troops have been despatched from Tien Tsin to Lanchow, the strategical point of the railroad from Pekin to Mukden, where the imperial troops a few days ago declared in favor of a republic, elected Wang Wie Tze their leader, and announced that they were about to march on Pekin. It was reported yesterday that the same troops had looted and burned the residences of the wealthy citizens of Lanchow and seized the railway at Shan Hai Kwan, where they were holding up the traffic.

The British troops will occupy and patrol the American section of the railway between Tang Shan and Lanchow, where the trains have been completely blocked.

Fighting of the most severe description is proceeding in the vicinity of Lanchow between the Chinese and the Manchu troops, and the telegraph lines, including the private systems belonging to the Chinese engineering and mining company, have been cut.

Foreigners engaged in the coal mines at Linsi, in the neighborhood of Kai Ping, came into Tien Tsin yesterday on a coal train at which the revolutionaries fired several volleys.

Awaits Powers' Action.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Although Minister Calhoun at Pekin has made "some suggestion and asked some questions" about the sending of American troops to China for the protection of the railroads from Pekin to the sea, it was stated emphatically at the state department today that this government would not despatch any soldiers there until the six powers immediately concerned in Chinese affairs had been thoroughly consulted and the government had more information from the scene of the trouble.

LONGSHOREMEN IN BOSTON QUIT

First Such Strike There in Thirty Years Is Begun.

Boston, Jan. 5.—The first general strike of longshoremen in Boston in thirty years went into effect early today, and the absence of 2,500 men from the waterfront working force seriously affected shipping. The strike immediately caused the laying off of 500 freight handlers on the terminal wharves of several railroads.

The dispute arose over the demand of the men for an increase of pay to 40 cents an hour day work and to 50 cents an hour at night.

Duluth isn't as cold as it might be, nor even as cold as some other places, but according to opinions generally expressed by citizens it is "cold enough." The government's comfort recorders showed a temperature of 32 deg. below zero—64 deg. below freezing—at a little after 7 o'clock this morning, and the optimistic weather man suggested that may be it wouldn't get better right off, though it might, perhaps, get a little bit worse.

Virginia, Minn., was the coldest spot in North America this morning, with a temperature of 45 deg. below zero. Next to it in the United States as far as reported, was Grand Forks, N. D., with 34 deg. below. But up in Saskatchewan the mercury slid to 56 deg. below zero.

High Wind Lashes Saint.

St. Paul got a minimum temperature of 26 below zero, but it was aided and abetted by a thirty-mile wind, a feature that was lacking in Duluth. The chill extended well to the south, and Chicago got the leist blast it has felt in two years. Even New York entered the running with a temperature of 14 above zero, with a promise of worse to come.

At Minneapolis the cold weather record of eight years for January was broken today when the thermometer registered 28 deg. below zero. The street car service there is demoralized and much suffering has been reported to charity organizations.

When the temperature dropped to 32 deg. below zero shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, it touched the lowest recorded since Jan. 6, 1909, when 34 deg. below zero occurred. On Jan. 24, 1904, 37 deg. below zero was recorded. The lowest temperature last year was 30 deg. below zero, Jan. 3.

MAIL CAR ON S. P. ROBBED

Two Men Bind and Gag Three Clerks and Get Away.

Eastern Registered Mail Is Taken By the Highwaymen.

Redding, Cal., Jan. 5. — The mail car of the Oregon Express on the Southern Pacific was robbed early today of all eastern registered mail. Three mail clerks were bound and gagged by two unmasked robbers who entered the mail car while the train was between Red Bluff and Redding. The train pulled into Redding at 6:40 a. m. and the robbers, laden with their loot, dropped off and escaped.

The train was northbound and left San Francisco at 8:20 last night. When it stopped at Red Bluff, thirty-five miles south of this city, early today, mail sacks were thrown out and others taken on. One of the three mail clerks was about to leave the car when the two bandits moved past him into the mail car and closed the door.

Took Place of Clerks.

"What's up?" exclaimed Charles J. Ryan, a clerk.

"This is a holdup," cooly responded one of the men, covering the trio with a revolver. Ryan, Robert B. Warner and their assistant were bound and gagged by the second bandit.

When the train reached Cottonwood, seventeen miles north of Red Bluff, the bandits acted as clerks in exchanging mail without arousing suspicion. At Anderson, five miles further on, they repeated the performance, showing complete familiarity with the clerks' duties.

GIVE JEWELS TO HELP MISSIONS

Southern Presbyterian Women Come to Aid of Church.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 5.—Women of the Southern Presbyterian church are sending their jewels and other valuable personal belongings to the foreign mission board in this city to wipe out an indebtedness of $100,000 incurred by the board.

Grave danger of the recall of foreign missionaries faced the board, and an appeal was made to the loyal women of the church to meet the deficit. There were prompt responses in the shape of jewelry, silver ornaments and money.

BARS COMMON LAW MARRIAGE

North Dakota Statute So Interpreted By Supreme Court.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a decision handed down today the supreme court of North Dakota holds that common law marriages are not valid in North Dakota. The decision was in the case of Marthias Schumaker vs. the Great Northern and others. The court said in part: "Prior to the enactment of chapter 91, laws of 1890, the common law marriage was expressly recognized as valid in this state, but by the enactment of said chapter, which is still in force as sections 4032 and 4042, R. C. 1905, which expressly repealed the old statute in toto, it was unquestionably the legislative intention to abrogate such common law marriage in this state, and such intent must accordingly be given effect. The case is reversed."

NEW JERSEY MAY VOTE ON TEDDY

Newark, N. J., Jan. 5.—Progressive Republican leaders in New Jersey probably will place Col. Roosevelt's name on the presidential primary ballots without asking his permission, according to a statement made here today by Everett Colby, a member of the state Progressive league and Progressive Republican candidate for nomination as United States senator. Mr. Colby said that the league would hold a meeting to determine its choice for the presidency.

"Leaders in Essex county want Roosevelt, while the Hudson county men favor La Follette," Mr. Colby said. "The matter was discussed at our last meeting, but no action was taken."

Would Go Ahead Anyway.

Concerning the action of William H. Mackay, former postmaster of Passaic, in sending Col. Roosevelt a petition signed by 1,004 Republicans, asking his consent to the use of his name on the ballot, Mr. Colby said:

"I knew nothing of it until I read the papers, but it seems to me to be the wrong way to go about it. What the Progressive Republicans of New Jersey should do and what they probably will do, is to go ahead and place Col. Roosevelt's name on the ticket without asking his permission."

JOHN PANTON SECURES CONTROL OF LARGE STORE IN SEATTLE

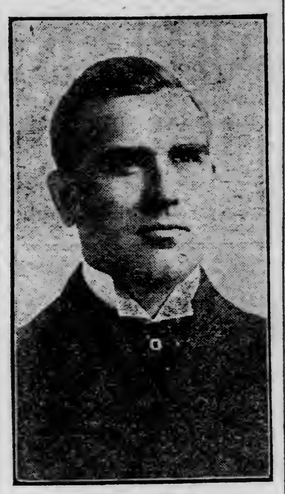

John Panton, formerly of the Panton & White company, will take active charge of the Panton & London company of Seattle Feb. 1.

Mr. Panton recently purchased a controlling interest in the Edwin London company, one of the leading retail firms of Seattle, and upon the reorganization he became the active head of the Panton & London company, the name of the reorganized company.

Mr. Panton goes to Seattle equipped with a business experience gained by many years of successful effort, and his accession to the firm means that the Panton & London company will quickly assume a commandery position among the big retail concerns of the Pacific Northwest.

Mr. Panton was in business in Duluth for twenty-five years. He was a leader among the business men of the city, progressive in his business policies and aggressive in the promotion of Duluth. He was deeply interested in civic affairs and was always ready to lend a hand in any meritorious public enterprise. He had a large acquaintance in Duluth and throughout the Northwest, and all who know him feel certain that his success on the Pacific coast is assured.

Mrs. Panton and daughters left Thursday for Seattle to join Mr. Panton.

PROPERTY WORTH MILLION AND HALF ESCAPED TAXES

Assessor Made Notable Additions to Rolls During Year 1911.

Some Real Estate Overlooked —More Was Improperly Exempted.

Real estate valued at $1,225,000 to $1,500,000 which has heretofore never been assessed and consequently never paid any taxes, were added to the tax rolls in 1911 by the city assessor, according to a statement prepared by Deputy Jacoby.

Those figures represent the market value of the property. Taxes are paid on one-third to one-half the value. On that basis the books of the city assessor show an actual increased assessed valuation of $520,362.

When it is born in mind that the real assessment will not be made until this spring and that the additions are not the result of increased property values, the statement is reasonable. The figures represent property which has heretofore escaped taxation and which will pay taxes during 1912 on the values fixed in the books of 1911.

Deputy Jacoby has divided the property thus placed on the rolls into two different classes, one being property which was omitted from the tax rolls of 1910 and prior years, and the other being property which has heretofore been exempt but was not entitled to exemption. In the first class, property of the actual assessed valuation of $162,362 has been listed; in the second the assessed valuation is given as $358,000, making a total of $520,000.

It is stated that before the work which is now under way in the office of the assessor has been completed, a considerable amount will be added to that which has already been listed under the two different heads.

Overlooked Entirely.

The discoveries of the property which has not been paying taxes have been made by the department in connection with the revaluation which is now being made. Practically all of that in the first class escaped because it was overlooked entirely. Investigation showed that it had been overlooked in numerous cases for years back. The assessor expects that collections will be made for taxes for all the back years during which they escaped. Some of these pieces are in the downtown district and the others are scattered.

In the second class, which is much greater than the first, the property has escaped because it was placed under the head of property exempted by law. For instance, railroads might own the property. But instead of using it for railroad purposes, it had been rented to private concerns. The assessor holds that such property should be made to pay taxes and, as he has had legal advice in most of the steps he has taken, he is confident that the assessments of this nature will stand even though they may be contented, which he does not consider probable in the majority of instances. It has also been found that some churches have owned property not used for church purposes, but rented to private parties. This has also been place o dnthe tax lists.

The preparations for the next assessment are the most thorough and businesslike ever conducted in the office of the assessor. Every piece of property is being checked up. Close track is kept of every new addition which is put on the market, as well as of all sales of real estate which are been placed on the tax lists.

The assessor considers it very likely that when the real assessment has been completed this spring there will be quite a heavy increase in the total assessed valuation, over and above the increase which has been made by the placing of property which has heretofore escaped, on the tax rolls. With one or two exceptions he has found that property throughout the city has had a steady upward tendency. But his object is not to increase the total assessed valuation. He has been working for a revaluation which will cause all property to pay its just share of the taxes, eliminating the present condition, under which some property is greatly overvalued and some just as greatly valued.

CONSOLATION IN THE JUG

Former Missionary and Evangelist Drinking Himself Into the Grave.

Sorrow Over Wife's Death the Cause—Gets Jail Term.

Rev. Oliver E. Harvey, 60 years old, preacher and missionary, was sentenced to twenty days in the county jail in police court yesterday afternoon on entering a plea of guilty to drunkenness. He was not given the option of paying a fine despite his pleadings that he be allowed to do so.

Sorrow over the death of his wife, who passed away several months ago, is said, by those who know him, to have driven the veteran missionary to drink. The desire to prevent him from killing himself with whisky and to give him a chance to get a hold on himself was the reason he was sent to jail.

For years Harvey and his wife spread the gospel throughout the northern part of Minnesota and Wisconsin. During the long winter months they spent their time far away from the paths of civilization, holding services, ministering to the wants of the people, and doing everything within their power to help them. Both are said to have been engaged in gospel work before they met, and after they were married they continued in their chosen paths together. In her younger days Mrs. Harvey was associated with some of the leading evangelists of the country.

Last fall Mrs. Harvey died in a local hospital after a long illness. Her husband accompanied her body to her former home, where she was buried. After a stay of a few weeks he returned to his residence at Fond du Lac, where he and his wife had made their home during the summer months, when they were not engaged in their missionary work. Brooding over her loss is claimed to have driven him to seek consolation in strong drink. The neighbors say that for days at a time he would lock himself indoors with a big jug of whisky and drink steadily, lying in bed most of the time.

Fearful that he would die or be frozen to death, the authorities were notified and a warrant sworn out for his arrest. He was brought into police court yesterday afternoon and given a straight sentence in the county jail.

Hockey Game.

The Big Duluths and the Curling club hockey teams will meet this evening at the curling club rink. Both of the teams are strong and the game should be the best yet played in the Duluth-Superior league. The Big Duluths have been practicing steadily since their defeat by the Adams team.

To the Public.

The members of the County Building commission, which is in charge of the St. Louis county courthouse, have recently received requests for permission to hold political meetings in the courthouse, which requests have all been refused for the reason that there is no assembly hall, and the entire building is occupied by the various county officials. If any political meetings have been held in any room or rooms in the courthouse, it has been done without the authority or knowledge of the building commission.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MINNESOTA POLITICS

A revival of the boom for Judge Homer B. Dibell for the Republican nomination for the supreme court has started at Redwood Falls. The Gazette, published there, pays an enthusiastic tribute to the Duluth jurist and suggests that there is a good chance for his nomination this year.

Judge Dibell was defeated at the last state convention by the exigencies of politics. Judge Charles L. Lewis, who also claims Duluth as his home, was a candidate for renomination. Rather than choose between the two Duluth men, the convention nominated Philip E. Brown of Luverne. There was no question of Judge Dibell's ability and many expressed regret that political considerations brought about his defeat.

Three justices are to be elected this year. Chief Justice Start has announced his intention to seek renomination, and he will be unopposed. Justice Holt, who was recently appointed to succeed David F. Simpson, will probably be a candidate for the nomination and will be supported by Minneapolis. Justice Bunn, a Democrat appointed to succeed Justice Jaggard, will probably be turned down by the convention and St. Paul will put forward Judge Oscar Hallam of the district bench of Ramsey county.

The Twin Cities each claim the right to a man on the supreme bench, and Duluth has the right to make a similar claim if such claims are valid. Judge Dibell's ability is recognized throughout the state. It is likely that the delegates could be prevailed upon to nominate him over one of the St. Paul and Minneapolis candidates, and thus for once leave political considerations out of a nomination for a judicial place.

The judicial situation this year opens a way for Judge Homer B. Dibell of Duluth, than whom there is no abler jurist in the state. It is remarkable that Judge Dibell, a recluse, is admired and loved by practically every man, woman and child in St. Louis county. The secret is: He is a big man. If his consent can be secured St. Louis county will send a delegation to the next state convention solid for Dibell. There will be none of the complications of last year to defeat him and his nomination seems assured unless Minneapolis insists upon naming the man to succeed Simpson.

It would seem that Duluth is entitled to this place. Dibell is exceptionally able and has the support of the best, brainiest and most enthusiastic bunch of boosters in the state. Such a combination should be irresistable.

The St. Paul Dispatch, which is pro-Eberhart, yesterday published a rumor of a political coup planned to put Governor Eberhart in the senate and Robert C. Dunn in the governor's chair by a succession of resignations after the next election. The Dispatch may figure that Dunn's friends will be delighted with the prospect of the Princeton man thus succeeding to the executive office, but even Dunn's friends may balk at the prospect of Adolph O Eberhart representing the state of Minnesota in the United States senate.

The story published by the Dispatch follows:

Union of the R. C. Dunn and Eberhart forces is causing more or less comment in political circles these days, and a great deal of wild speculation. One report has it that the Dunn-Eberhart alignment means a startling coup in Minnesota politics. The program, according to these dopesters, is that Senator Knute Nelson will run and be elected, that as soon as he and Governor Eberhart are comfortably seated, the senior senator will resign, followed quickly by Governor Eberhart's resignation. R. C. Dunn would then realize his ambition to become governor and out of gratitude appoint Mr. Eberhart to the seat vacated by Knute Nelson.

This story has been going the rounds for several days and is called the "Succession of Resignations." The most plausible explanation of the new alignment, however, is that Dunn is picked to carry Northern Minnesota for Eberhart.

The Progressive gathering in Minnesota, Louis D. Brandeis's visit and the probability that Senator La Follette's tour will be extended into Minnesota indicate that new life is to be injected into the campaign for La Follette delegates from this state.

Minnesota is a Progressive state. The majority of the voters believe in Progressive principles, but there is a difference of opinion among the Progressives on the subject of La Follette's candidacy. If the state had a preferential primary on presidential candidates, and La Follette and Taft were the only candidates offered, La Follette would have a chance to carry Minnesota.

Under the convention system, controlled as it is by the stand-patters in general and the federal officeholders in particular, La Follette's chances in the state are narrowed to the gaining of a very small minority of the district delegates. Only a revolution that does not seem likely at this time could give the Progressives control of the Republican delegate convention.

Robert C. Dunn in his Princeton Union this week takes public notice of the assertion that he is slated by the organization for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. It is significant that the Princeton man does not deny that he is a candidate. He merely says it is "interesting" and "news to us."

The Princeton Union says:

Our good friend, the Elk River Star-News, has it that a "slate" has been arranged that contains the name of the publisher of the Union for lieutenant governor, and that the deal was consummated a year ago. This is interesting if true, but, in all sincerity, it is news to us.

Col. Neff of the Lake Crystal Union hasn't a high opinion of the honor of election to the legislature. He flatly denies that he is to be a candidate for the house this year, and publishes the following exchange of pleasantries:

This year, if ever, Col. Neff should show the stuff he is made of by getting into the race for representative. Just think what Col. Neff could do in the marble capitol towards stirring up the "animules!" Surely the genial colonel has worked hard enough for the best interests of the people of this county to deserve something good.—Mankato Journal.

Do you call going to the legislature "something good?"

It's too late now, Ad. We are going to remain at home and keep an eye on the members and see that they give the people in the state a square deal—reapportionment, extend the primary system, vote on United States senator and the presidency, recall and a whole lot of good things for the government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Plug every member who lines up for special privileges for big interests—and make it so warm for him that he will have to duck his head when looking in a glass.

EAGLES INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Dance Follows Ceremonies---Presentation to John Gonska and V. M. Grady.

The installation and dance given last evening by Duluth lodge No. 79, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at their hall at 418 West Superior street was a pronounced success in all particulars. The hall was artistically decorated with the colors of the order. About 300 people witnessed the installation and participated in the dance. The music was furnished by Deslaurier's orchestra. George Dow of the Superior aerie acted as the installing officer.

The officers installed were: Henry Collins, worthy president; William Metter, worthy chaplain; E. A. Pierce, worthy secretary; V. M. Grady, worthy treasurer; R. A. Davis, worthy conductor; Herman Metter, inner guard; Roy Sage, outer guard; Frank G. Sandsteadt, J. L. Crawford and Chris Tracy, trustees.

John Gonska, who served as worthy president the past year and becomes a worthy past president, was presented with a handsome morris chair as a token of his services as the presiding officer of the lodge. V. M. Grady, who was re-elected treasurer, was presented with a beautiful electric reading lamp in appreciation of his services in looking after the finances of the lodge. Both responded briefly in thanking the members.

ABBOTT SAYS TEDDY IS NOT A CANDIDATE.

Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt is not a candidate for the presidency, according to Lyman F. Abbott, president of the Outlook company of New York, with which Mr. Roosevelt is actively associated. This statement is made in the Local Press, a weekly newspaper published here, the home of Mr. Abbott. The statement is long and reviews Mr. Roosevelt's connection with national politics during the last three years. It was brought out, so the editor of the Local Press says, when he asked Mr. Abbott whether Mr. Roosevelt is a candidate for the presidency.

"You must understand to begin with," Mr. Abbott says in what is termed a dictated statement, "that whatever I say in answer to your question, I say solely on my own responsibility and without any consultation with Mr. Roosevelt."

WATER CUT OFF FOR FIVE HOURS

Tanks at Hunter's Park Drained By Flooding of Skating Rink.

Many residents in the vicinity of Hunter's park were without a water supply from about 5 o'clock last evening until 10 o'clock at night. The shortage is said to have been due to the draining of the storage tanks to flood a skating rink. Further than the consequent inconvenience no harm resulted.

The water and light department sent a man to the scene when informed of the condition by telephone. The pumps were started and the tanks, which have a capacity of about 90,000 barrels, were filled.

INDIANA BANKER ASSIGNS HIS ASSETS.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 5.—W. H. Taber, president of the American State bank, whose alleged shortage of $45,000 caused state bank examiners to close the institution, has made an assignment of his assets. Among his assignments were his home, automobile and his interest in real estate. Taber has not been arrested.

"REGISTRATION TEA" FOR SACRAMENTO VOTERS.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 5.—The first political movement of the newly enfranchised women voters of Sacramento will be tinged with a social flavor. The first "registration tea" of the first year of woman suffrage will be held on Jan. 24 in a local church. Assistant registrars will be asked to be on hand to swear in the women between refreshments.

Webster's Cherry Balsam for Coughs and Colds

THE lungs are like two sponges full of tiny cells into which the air we breathe brings oxygen to the blood. When we take cold these cells become clogged with mucus and we feel depressed, feverish and languid. Our blood becomes sluggish and we feel generally run down. Sometimes we suffer from head-aches, a soreness and tenderness of the muscles. Nature attempts by spasms of coughing to get rid of the accumulated mucus, relieving tightness of the chest and so clear the air passages.

Why It Brings Quick Relief

Webster's Cherry Balsam helps Nature in this task. It contains a mild, harmless sedative which relieves the irritation or tickling in the throat and lungs, pure balsams which soothe the inflamed throat and air passages, wild cherry bark which loosens the "phlegm" and makes it easy to throw off—and an antiseptic which sterilizes and purifies the air passages.

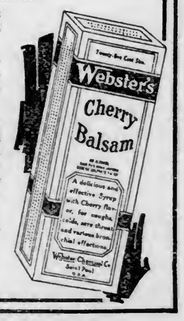

A cough may be the symptom of a more deep seated disease. If it does not yield to the above treatment, a physician should be consulted.

Webster's Cherry Balsam is sold in two sizes, 25c and 50c. Your money refunded if you are not satisfied with the results after a fair trial.

Our forty years' experience as manufacturing chemists has taught us how to make Webster's Cherry Balsam and all other Webster preparations so good that we can absolutely guarantee them.

Under the Webster trade-mark and guaranty are sold 60 different articles, including most effective remedies for all such human ailments as do not require a doctor—household remedies that should be in the medicine cabinet of every family; also pure toilet preparations.

Your druggist has them or can get them for you.

RAILROADS

STORE SURPLUS WHEAT IN DULUTH

Canadian Elevators Filled—Cut Rate to Head of Lakes.

A dispatch from Winnipeg states that the Canadian Northern and Canadian Pacific railways have made a rate of 18 cents on wheat from Regina to Duluth. This has been done in order to relieve the Western Canadian elevators, whose capacity is being severely taxed. By making use of the surplus room in the Duluth and Superior elevators, it is thought that the problem of finding storage room for the vast Canadian wheat supplies, until the market can take care of them, will be readily adjusted.

The new rate was decided upon after a conference between W. T. Motherwell, minister of agriculture in Saskatchewan, and representatives of the Canadian Northern and Canadian Pacific railway companies. Mr. Motherwell declared that the action was imperative, because the railroads could not empty the interior elevators, and the Fort William and Port Arthur terminal houses were filled. There are many Canadian villages from which hundreds of cars of wheat could be shipped tomorrow, if cars were provided. The new rate will mean the shipment of millions of bushels of Canadian wheat to the United States elevators for storage in bond this winter.

The elevators of Duluth and Superior will hold about 32,250,000 bushels. They now contain about 10,000,000 bushels. It is not thought that there will be need of room for more than 15,000,000 bushels in these elevators before the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes. Only twice during the last fifteen years has there been need of more room than that. This leaves room for about 17,250,000 bushels of the bonded wheat, in addition to the usual amount of wheat stored in these elevators in the winter.

CAR BUILDERS REPORT DECREASE

Less Equipment Built in 1911 Than in the Previous Year.

Reports received from the principal car and locomotive builders in the United States and Canada indicate that the total number of freight cars built during 1911 was 72,161; passenger cars, 4,246, and locomotives, 3,530. The figures for 1910 were: Freight cars, 180,945; passenger cars, 4,412, and locomotives, 4,795.

Of the freight cars built during the past year, 68,961 were for domestic use and 3,200 for export. Of the passenger cars, 3,938 were for domestic use and 308 for export, and of the locomotives, 3,143 were for domestic service and 387 for export.

In spite of the discouraging reports, railroad men believe that the coming year will show a favorable record both for equipment built and equipment ordered. Many manufacturers who have done less than half the business in 1911 that they did in 1910 have on hand unfilled orders twice as large as those on their books at the close of 1910.

RAILROADS TO RESCUE.

Will Haul Seed Grain Free to Stricken District.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Jan. 5—Announcement has been made by railways traversing that part of the state lying west of the Missouri river, and four counties east of the river of free freight rates on seed grain into that region. The concession, announced by Dr. W. C. Smith, member of the state board of railway commissioners, is caused by the crop failure of last summer.

DULUTH IS NOT QUITE THE COLDEST PLACE IN NORTH AMERICA

weather bureau on the hill has not been above 4 deg. below zero. Yesterday was the coldest day of the cold spell, the highest temperature for the day being 12 deg. below zero, but today is expected to exceed that record for continuous cold.

There is no relief from the intense cold expected before Saturday night at the earliest. The wind may then get into the northeast and, the lake being open, the temperature may moderate. That is Duluth's only hope, as there is no sign of a break in the cold wave, which extends over the entire Northwest and extends south into Nebraska and Iowa.

It was 26 deg. below zero at St. Paul this morning, 28 deg. below at Moorhead, 34 deg. below at Grand Forks and 32 deg. below at Winnipeg. The lowest temperature recorded in Canada was up in Saskatchewan, where official thermometers registered 36 deg. below zero.

With Forty-Mile Wind.

The extreme cold weather is not confind to the Northwest. At Toledo, Ohio, this morning the temperature was 4 deg. below zero and a thirty-six mile wind was blowing, while at Buffalo a temperature of 2 deg. above zero was accompanied by a forty-mile wind.

Chicago Shivers, Too.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Chicago shivered today before the iciest blast that has visited the city in two years. Zero weather for the first time this winter came in early last evening before a driving northwest wind that continued to send the mercury downward until 2 o'clock this morning, when 6 degs. below was reached. At that hour the gale subsided and four hours later it was 3 degs. warmer, in the government bureau no relief was held out, Forecaster Cox making the prediction that the temperature might go to 10 degs. below zero during the day.

Poor Suffer Seriously.

The bitter blast found Chicago's poor unprepared. The municipal lodging house accommodated 750 men, 300 more than its ordinary capacity. When all beds were filled bunks were made on the floors and in the offices for those who sought refuge from the cold.

When the last inch of space was taken 100 more who could not be accommodated were sent to police stations. Two men were found on the streets by policemen badly frozen, and were sent to hospitals. By a coincidence, one year ago today was the coldest day of the year in Chicago.

Water Plugs Frozen.

Scores of persons were driven into the streets, two buildings destroyed and three families were made homeless by a fire on the South side early today. At one time the flames threatened to wipe out an entire block. All of the water plugs in the immediate vicinity of the blaze were frozen and water was obtained from plugs three blocks away. Much water was frozen in the hoze, bursting it. An attempt to thaw out a frozen water pipe caused the fire.

Zero for Gotham.

New York, Jan. 5.—Zero in New York city and vicinity tonight, was the prediction of the local weather bureau today. Dropping from 25 at 4 a. m., the mercury stood at 14 deg. at 9 o'clock this morning and a cutting northwest wind intensified the coldness. There was a light fall of snow during the night.

St. Paul Apparatus Broken.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new low mark for the winter in St. Paul was made by the plunging temperature this morning when the government thermometer showed 26 deg. below zero at 8 o'clock.

Forecaster Ryker at 9 o'clock today said his weather measuring apparatus was out of gear, and that he was unable to take further record. At 7 o'clock street thermometers showed 30 deg. below and at 9:30 24 deg. below.

A thirty-mile wind drives the frigidity into man and beast.

Des Moines Feels It.

Missouri Is Shown.

In St. Louis the thermometer recorded the lowest temperature of the winter, 5 above zero, with the prediction of 2 above zero tomorrow. Eight hundred and thirty-six homeless men slept last night in the shelter maintained by the police department.

County Isolated.

Calhoun county, Ill., which is without railroads, has been isolated by the cold weather. No food supplies have been taken in for nearly a week. The Mississippi river on one side and the Illinois river on the other are running heavily with ice, preventing ferry boats from running.

Fargo Reports 29 Below.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-nine below zero was the official weather bureau report for last night here. Although the government thermometer registered 30 below Jan. 2, last night felt much colder because a terrific gale swept out of the Northwest and made the cold terribly penetrating.

Colder in La Crosse.

Eau Claire 28 Below Zero.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 5.—The coldest weather of the winter prevails throughout Wisconsin today. Eau Claire reports the lowest thermometer record, 28 deg. below zero. Green Bay reports 20 below and Milwaukee and Madison 18 below.

Racine Don't Mind It.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 5.—The cold wave from the Northwest reached the city during the night, the temperature this morning being stationary at 15 below. Little suffering is reported.

Mississippi Is Blocked.

Burlington, Iowa, Jan. 5.—The Mississippi river here was blocked with ice this morning and the temperature was 11 below zero.

Davenport In the List.

Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 5.—The weather bureau here reported 14 deg. below zero at 9 o'clock this morning.

Wind in Black Hills.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 5.—High winds, drifting the snow and filling all the cuts, have almost stopped railroad traffic in the Black Hills today.

Snow Stops Trains.

Denver, Col., Jan. 5.—Announcement is made by Colorado & Southern officials that because of heavy snow blockades in the mountains, all traffic on its South Park division between Denver and Leadville, Colo., will be ssupended until further notice.

Freezing in Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 5.—Thermometers here registered 23 degs. above at 7 o'clock.

Missouri Valley Cold.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—A cold wave from the northwest, centering over the Missouri valley, gave that district today the lowest temperatures of the winter. The readings ranged from 4 degs. below zero at Kansas City to 24 below in Huron, S. D. In Sioux City it was 18 below, in Omaha 14 below, in Des Moines, 15 below, and at St. Joseph 6 below.

The local forecaster said the minimum temperatures had been reached. The extreme cold was not felt far west of the Missouri river. The southwest did not experience any extreme temperatures.

VISITOR HAS FATAL FALL

William Rogers of Remer Loses Life in Elevator Shaft.

Falls From First Floor of Lonsdale Building to Basement.

William Rogers sustained fatal injuries when he fell down the elevator shaft of the Lonsdale building, from the Superior street floor to the bottom, shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was hurried to St. Luke's hospital but lived only about three hours after reaching the institution. It was stated at the hospital that death was due to shock from his injuries, which included a badly crushed hip, a broken leg and a scalp wound.

Rogers was a lumberman from Remer, Cass county, in the city on a business trip. He is supposed to have walked through the door of the elevator, which was either left open, or opened by Mr. Rogers himself. Ernest V. Le Claire was in charge of the elevator. Rogers fell about twenty feet.

When picked up he was in a dazed but conscious condition. He was able to talk and when the ambulance arrived it was not thought that he was seriously hurt. A telegram has been sent to his son informing him of his father's death and he is expected to reach Duluth today.

RAISE $250 FOR CHILD ACTRESS

Benefit Performance at Lyceum By Amateur and Professional Entertainers.

In a delightful vaudeville entertainment at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon, a company of both professional and amateur entertainers realized $250 for little Corinne Malverne, the child actress, now ill in St. Mary's hospital. The performance was given for her benefit.

All who took part donated their services, leaving every cent of the receipts to go to the sick girl. C. A. Marshall gave the use of the theater free of charge. John Doran, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, was stage manager. He plainly showed that his experience in managing entertainments that the Elks have given from time to time, has taught him a great deal about stage work, which the ordinary layman does not know. The performers were as follows: Gus Forbes and Miss Corinne Cantwell and their company, in a short dramatic sketch, "Conway's Redemption;" Miss Wally Heymar, violinist, and Miss Alice Mae Brown, pianist, both from the Spalding; Inness & Ryan and The Primrose Four, from the Orpheum; Sidney Grant and Phil Bennett from the Empress; George Soffel and Mrs. C. W. Peters, who rendered vocal solos, the former being accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. D. Bostrick and the latter by Mrs. McGill; and Miss Lillian Preston, who rendered several dramatic readings.

The audience consisted largely of women and children. Box parties were given by Mrs. F. A. Patrick, Mrs. W. M. Ryerson, Mrs. Stephen H. Jones, Mrs. F. W. Paine, Mrs. F. A. Brewer and Mrs. James S. Granger.

GOVERNMENT ICE AND SNOW BULLETIN

The storm area referred to in the last issue of this bulletin as central over the state of Missouri moved to the Lake region and northern New England during the early part of the week just passed and added a considerable body of snow to that already on the ground, from the Missouri valley eastward to the upper lakes and in northern New England. Snow occurred again during the latter part of week in portions of the upper Mississippi valley and Lake region, and local snows were rather frequent in the districts from the Rocky Mountains westward.

Snow from 6 to 15 inches in depth now covers the greater part of the upper Lake region, the upper Mississippi, and lower Missouri valleys, and somewhat less depths are reported over the greater part of the Plains region from Western Oklahoma and Eastern Colorado northward to the Canadian boundary. Due to the continued moderate cold over the interior and northern portions of the country, but little snow melted during the week, and the depths at the close of the week were considerably greater than at the end of the preceding week. The increase is especially marked in the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and upper Lake region, where it amounts to from 5 to 15 inches.

There is practically no snow in the Ohio drainage basin, and but little in the Atlantic coast states south of the interior of New York and Southern New England; otherwise in the winter wheat belt there is a fairly good covering.

From the Rocky mountains westward there has been a considerable increase in the depths, especially in the northern districts, where the ground now appears to be well covered even at the lower elevations.

Ice in Rivers and Harbors.

Cold weather was general during the week just closed over the more northern portions of the country, and as a result considerable ice formed over the streams and lakes of those districts. In the Missouri the main stream appears to be frozen over very generally from St. Joseph, Mo., northward, the ice at Bismarck, N. D., being more than 18 inches in thickness. In the upper Mississippi ice from 4 to 6 inches has formed from La Crosse, Wis., northward, and shore and floating ice is reported as far south as St. Louis. No appreciable amount of ice has yet formed on the Ohio or its tributaries, and practically none in the Atlantic coast states south of New England. In Northern New England there has been an increase during the week of from 2 to 6 inches, and the ice in the rivers of Maine is reported in good condition. In the Lake region considerable additional ice formed over Lake Superior, and new ice from 2 to 3 inches in thickness has formed over the northern portions of Lake Huron and Lake Michigan. Only shore ice is reported from the lower Lakes.

The Very Climax of Real Value Giving Is Reached In This Manufacturer's Stock-Clearing

Sale of Munsing Underwear

—In the beginning, there is no better underwear to be had at regular prices than Munsing Underwear. Every garment is made uniformly good and with uniform fit and finish.

—A poor season, owing to the mild winter the country over, left the manufacturers of Munsing Underwear with much stock on hand at the beginning of their Spring season. Prompt disposal at a price sacrifice was their only alternative for storage room, and so we were offered about $1,800.00 worth at one-third less than market price.

—The purchase was indeed timely. It comes right at a time when the underwear need is most pronounced from the present cold snap. There are all weights of garments in cotton, woolen or mixed fabrics, all sizes and for both men and women.

COLD SENDS FOOD HIGHER

Severe Weather Increases Cost of Many Prime Necessities of Life.

Railroads Are Refusing Shipments of Fruits and Vegetables.

The extremely cold weather of the last few days has increased the cost of living, not only by making inroads on the coal and wood supplies, but by raising the prices of many articles of food.

Chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys are 1 cent to 2 cents higher per pound than they were a week ago, and they are very likely to go higher. Farmers are bringing very few of them to the markets these days. In such cold weather as the present, farmers do not like to drive to town. Moreover, few of them have any poultry to sell, for the selling of poultry by the farmers is done for the most part in the fall and early winter, when the farmers get rid of such fowls as they do not care to feed during the winter. At such times the wholesale poultry dealers buy more fowls than the trade requires and great quantities are frozen and put into storage for the trade at a later period. It has now become necessary to draw upon these supplies. There is little doubt that the cost of poultry will be higher than at present, before the winter is over. Dressed turkeys, which have recently risen from 19 to 20 cents a pound at wholesale, will probably be selling as high as 25 cents a pound this winter. At least some of the local wholesale handlers think so.

It is somewhat remarkable that beef, mutton and pork did not go up in price at the same time as poultry did. Local wholesale meat dealers say, however, that the prices of these meats are strong and if the present cold spell keeps up much longer, there is nothing that can keep the prices from rising.

Cold weather has put up eggs as it has poultry. A week ago the best country eggs were selling at wholesale at 33 cents a dozen. Now they are bringing 35 cents a dozen, and local wholesale dealers look to see them as high as 40 cents a dozen in the near future. It is a well-known fact that hens cease to lay in extremely cold weather. Even after a cold spell is over, hens require several days or perhaps two or three weeks to recover from it and resume their laying.

The best creamery butter is now quoted at the same figure as a week ago. It sagged a little between times, but the cold weather restored its former figure and the best that can be looked for at present, is to see it go no higher. Cold weather reduces the production of milk and cream and increases their cost.

• • •

The fresh vegetables, which are rare delicacies in this latitude at this time of the year, have been getting very scarce indeed and very expensive, since the present cold spell began. Railroads running through this region will not handle them for fear of having to face claims for allowing them to freeze. Among these are fresh tomatoes, green and wax beans, head lettuce, cauliflowers, cucumbers, parsnips and radishes. These vegetables, such as are seen on the Duluth market now, have been brought by rail from warmer climes, or raised in hot houses. But no supplies of them have been coming into Duluth for several days and if the weather does not grow much warmer within the next week, the local supplies of these delicacies will be entirely gone. As it is, the prices are going skyward. A four-basket crate of fancy California tomatoes, which a week ago sold for $2.75, now brings $3.25. Green and wax beans, which a week ago were bringing $7.50 to $8 per hamper, are now selling at $12. California cauliflower has risen from $3.25 to $4.25 per crate; hot-house radishes from 90 cents to $1 per dozen bunches, and leaf lettuce from $1 to $1.25 per bushel box.

• • •

The wholesale produce merchants are being seriously handicapped in their trade by the railroads refusing to accept for shipment, either to or from Duluth, any perishable articles. The movements of potatoes, cabbages and various kinds of fruits have been seriously interfered with. Within the last few days, it has been scarcely possible to ship any of these articles to the range country. If the cold weather keeps up much longer, the range people may find themselves sadly short of many articles of food, which they have learned to regard as among the necessaries of life. Aside from the very delicate vegetables, Duluth itself has good supplies of most of the vegetables and fruits that are consumed during the winter. There is just one staple vegetable that is scarce here and that is the sweet potato. These will probably go very high in the near future, if the weather does not moderate sufficiently to allow considerable quantities of them to be shipped into Duluth.

• • •

Irish potatoes and cabbages are considerably higher than they were a week ago. The prices have been raised, not only on account of the difficulty of shipping more of them into Duluth, but because the cost of storage must be added to the price that is charged for them as the winter advances. Cabbages are now bringing $3 a hundred-weight at wholesale and potatoes 85 cents to $1 a bushel.

• • •

California celery has gone up in price because the supplies of Milwaukee celery have been about exhausted, and there is little or no more to be had. The only celery that the Duluth market will have after the Milwaukee celery is gone, will be that from California. The California celery, which a week ago was bringing $1 per box, is now selling at $1.25 per box. Celery can be shipped in the coldest weather without danger of spoiling.

Some of the choice varieties of apples have been put up in price on account of the cost of winter storage. Fancy Ben Davis apples, for example, have been raised from $3.25 to $3.50 a barrel.

Imported limes have risen from $1.15 per box to $1.35 on account of their scarcity.

California oranges will be higher in the near future by reason of frosts and a short crop. Florida grape fruits are also scarce and will probably go up in the near future.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Denounces U. S. Navy

Washington, Jan. 5.—Representative Howard of Georgia, in urging before the house naval affairs sub-committee the reinstatement of Lieut.-Col. C. M. Perkins of the marine corps, declared that Perkins' discharge for alleged "mental incompetence," was a "Dreyfuss" conspiracy, hatched at the Army and Navy club in Washington. Mr. Howard attacked both the marine corps and the navy.

"Only 32 per cent of the officers of the navy," he said, "are in actual service. The remainder sit about Washington engaged in social pursuits. Navy battles are planned and fought in the clubs, where liquor takes the place of the briny deep, with a red cherry as the ship and a toothpick as the propelling force. The officers furnish the wind."

The committee took the Perkins case under advisement.

Taft Considers Living Cost.

President Taft may ask the assistance of congress in solving the question of the high cost of living through legislative authorization for the United States to participate in a world-wide conference on the subject. Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university, who was delegated to press the matter by the American Economic association at its meeting here last week, for the purpose, has laid the plan before the president. It has been indorsed by many Republican senators and others prominent in official life. The president promised Prof. Fisher he would take up the question.

Put an Extra Stomach to Work

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Do the Work of Two or Three Stomachs. Affords Instant Relief.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE.

When your food does not digest, when gases form, when you experience that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, when the breath is foul, the tongue coated and that sour taste is in the mouth—take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and watch how quickly every one of these symptoms disappear. All that was needed was to digest that lump of food in your stomach,—and the glands, whose duty it is to supply the gastric juices, had simply given out from overwork. So when you took that little tablet you were supplying exactly what was necessary to complete the process of digestion that the stomach had begun but was unable to finish.

If you would continue to take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal for awhile, your stomach would have a chance to rest up and get well and strong again.

Try just one box and you will never want to be without this wonderful little remedy for stomach troubles. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain an ingredient, one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. They are so entirely harmless because they have abolutely no effect on the system one way or another, except to do just the one thing—digest food.

40,000 physicians use and recommend this National Remedy. Every drug store everywhere sells and recommends Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The price is 50 cents per box. A sample will be sent free if you will write F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Democratic Caucus Saturday.

The first caucus of the house Democrats will be held Saturday to consider nominations to fill vacancies on committees and the proposal to make Democratic caucuses public sessions, instead of secret meetings. The Democratic members of the ways and means committee has framed a slate for the committee vacancies. The list will be announced after caucus approval. The special committee appointed last summer to report on the advisabily of an open caucus, it is understood, will recommend that all resolutions and definite action taken be made public, but that the caucus should not be open to the press as proposed.

Knox Host to President.

The first dinner of the season to President Taft by a cabinet member was given by Secretary of State Knox last night. Among the guests were Amabassadors Bryce of Great Britain, Bernstorff of Germany and Cusani of Italy, and their wives; Associate Justice and Mrs. McKenna and several senators and their wives.

Will Report on Wiley.

A report based upon a sub-committee's informal agreement to sustain Dr. H. W. Wiley without severe criticism of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, will be speedily whipped into shape at a series of meetings of the house committee that investigated the Wiley case. The investigation of the charges and counter-charges in the pure food fight which centered around Dr. Wiley and his antagonists, was made by the house committee on expenditurs in the dpartment of agriculture during the extra session of congress. The report will be made public within a few days.

No Agreement by Conferees.

All hope of agreement between conferees of the two houses of congress on the resolution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, has vanished. The conferees will report to that effect next week. The difference between the house and senate conferees is based on a question of congressional supervision.

Tariff Board Criticized.

Senator Newlands of Nevada precipitated a lively debate when he attempted to force upon the senate his resolution providing for a legislative program. He sought ineffectually to have his resolution made the unfinished business with the result that the ensuing discussion took a large range, entering the complicated field of the tariff. The report of the tariff board and the board itself also figured. Speaking of the board Senator Reed of Missouri characterized it as an unauthorized and illegally constituted body," when Senator Smoot, supporting the report, expressed the opinion that its recommendations would be embodied in legislation, the Missouri senator replied that he would not permit any man to tell him how he should vote on the tariff. He did not believe that congress should abdicate its functions.

Ask $50,000 Shoo-fly Fund.

The sum of $50,000 to repulse the invasion of the Mediterranean fruit fly is asked in a bill introduced by Representatives Hayes and Kahn of California. California, they said, would call an extra session of its legislature to prepare for war on it. The invasion is threatened from the Hawaiian islands, the fly's native habitat, and fruit brought from there carries the larvae, which flourishes in the California climate.

Check up Bank Examiners.

Comptroller of the Currency Murray has instituted a sort of "scientific shop management" of his own to discover the reason for laxity on the part of certain bank examiners. He instructed every national bank examiner in the country to report weekly what he had done during the previous week, and what he proposed to do during the approaching week, giving them plenty of latitude to change their schedules in emergencies.

BEAR GETS LOOSE AND IS SHOT BY A FARMER.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 5.—Doc Bruin, one of the bears of the city zoo, broke out of his cage here and went on an exploring tour. It ended in his death, but not until he had clawed half the clothes off his keeper and had knocked him out of a tree, and after he had devoured the greater part of fifteen chickens belonging to a farmer and cuffed the farmer out of the chicken house.

Thomas Dwyer, keeper of the zoo, chased the bear up a tree. The bear wouldn't come down. So Dwyer went up. He had a rope, but the bear clawed at the keeper several times, tearing nearly all the clothes off him, and pushed Dwyer out of the tree.

The bear climbed down and was next heard of in the henhouse on John Meyer's farm. When Mr. Meyer found him the bear had eaten nearly all the chickens and was looking for eggs. The farmer sought to shoo the bear out of the coop with his hat.

Doc, resenting the familiarity, cuffed Meyer on the side of the head, cutting a deep scalp wound. Meyer deserted the coop with some precipitation. He returned with a gun, however, and now the bear will be stuffed for the zoo.

Dwyer was not severely injured.

DRIVER IS 80, HORSE 40.

Weston, Or., Jan. 5.—Amasa Phillips, 80 years old, is driving a horse just one-half his age, and both appear to be good for several years yet of work.

Mr. Phillips is the owner of valuable Weston land and town property, and labor with him is not a necessity, yet he is not contented unless industrious from morning until night. He is now hauling gravel for a concrete building he is erecting.

The horse has lost some teeth and its forage must be ground, but it is in good condition otherwise and tugs strongly in the harness.

MILLION PIECES IN TABLE.

Joplin, Mo., correspondent St. Louis Globe-Democrat: A table made up of 1,000,000 pieces of wood, inlaid on a solid foundation of white pine, which required one year for the manufacturer, S. P. Wood, of 1705 Jackson avenue to construct, and which drew a blue ribbon at the Interstate exposition this fall, will probably be sent to the Panama exposition in 1915 for further conquests.

More than a score of native and foreign woods went into its makeup, the entire outside surface being a design colored by the bits of varicolored woods, some of which were not more than one-sixteenth of an inch in dimension. It has been estimated that at least 1,000,000 pieces were required for the entire table. This large number is accounted for by the fact that two blocks on the top were inlaid with sawdust, made when other blocks were formed. Several blocks in the top, which caused any amount of speculation as to the kind of wood used, were made of shavings of many of the blocks. Wood never took a lesson in inlaid work.

He has been a carpenter all his life and interested in the work, but did not study for preparation. The large table was in course of construction for ten months at odd moments. All of the outside surface was inlaid, no piece of wood being duplicated. Another small table, containing a specimen box for the ores of the district, made by him, is also an interesting curio. On the front is a perfect picture of a canoe being propelled by a man. All of the colors are natural woods, the man's fingers being each a separate piece. Either the large table or another one to be begun in the near future will be sent to the big exposition.

Woods has been offered $300 for the small table, but refused this price. The fact that so many foreign woods went into its makeup makes it valuable.

Taking the United Kingdom as a whole, the marriage rate is about 10.5, the birth rate 25.3, and the death rate 13.9 per 1,000.

Every little while the French farmer or peasant sends a few francs as savings to his banker in Paris or some other city. The banker holds the fund till there is enough to buy a bond or some other security, when it is shipped to the farmer or peasant and goes into the family collection. The French savings bank is the stocking, and it is stuffed with securities from all over the world.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BOY CLAIMS TO BE HEIR

New Angle to Thorvildson Disappearance Case in North Dakota.

Famous Hagert Divorce Case Finally Ends in Separation Decree.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claiming that he is the son of Ole Thorvildson, and that he had been recognized as such in the presence of witnesses, Ole Johan Christianson, aged 17, has appeared as an intervenor in the famous mysterious disappearance case in which a decree declaring the missing man to be dead was entered. The boy claims that he is the rightful heir to the property, and asks that an administrator be appointed. The trial will take place Feb. 15.

This turn in the case was unexpected. Seventeen years ago Thorvildson was arrested on the complaint of Ole Johan Christianson's mother, then unmarried, but after a long fight the matter was settled. Now, when a brother and sister of the missing man petitioned that his estate be divided among the legal heirs, the boy appears as an intervenor.

Thorvildson disappeared in 1904, after he had left Northwood for a trip to the Pacific coast. The petitioners declare that they had made search everywhere for him, without success.

Hagert Finally Gets Divorce.

Claus Hagert, who has been in the divorce court of North Dakota almost continuously for four years, and had experience in that court twelve years ago with the same woman, yesterday was granted a decree of separation by Judge Templeton. He is also given $4,000 of the property standing in his wife's name, while she retains the balance, valued at approximately $25,000.

Claus Hagert successfully prosecuted, before the supreme court, a claim for alimony from his wife.

Twelve years ago Claus and Emma Hagert were divorced. They remarried, and four years ago old differences cropped to the surface, and they have been engaged in an almost continuous suit ever since. The fight was made over the property, Mrs. Hagert contending that she was responsible for its accumulation, and that Hagert was not entitled to any portion of it.

SERIES OF DAMS TO SOLVE PROBLEM

Grand Forks Club's Contention Anent Red River Navigation Difficulty.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Red river navigation problem will be solved when a series of dams are constructed to conserve the water supply, is the contention of the navigation commission of the Commercial club, which will present extensive evidence on that point when Maj. Shunk of the war department holds a hearing here Jan. 18. Maj. Shunk also will hold hearings at Thief River Falls and Crookston to consider problems of the Red Lake river. The Grand Forks hearing is for the Red Lake and the Red rivers combined.

The hearings which will be held are looked upon with particular importance at this time, in view of the fact that Congressman Helgesen of North Dakota has introduced a bill providing an appropriation for extensive improvement work on the stream.

SEVERAL MINOT PEOPLE ARRESTED

North Dakota Law Enforcement League Alleges Violations of Law.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 5.—Investigations made by the North Dakota Enforcement league resulted in several arrests being made by Sheriff Nash as follows:

Joe Doe, a Japanese, charged with running a blind-pig in the basement at Second and Main.

Arthur McGahey, charged with running a gambling room in the basement at First and Main.

Forrest Eckert, charged with running a blind-pig in the basement at Second and Main.

Jim Burr, charged with running a gambling den in the basement occupied also as the bowling alleys.

B. F. Carmine, charged with running a bling-pig in the basement of the postoffice building.

Gambling Paraphernalia Seized.

Searches were made and some empties and gambling paraphernalia were secured. The arrests were made on warrants issued by County Judge N. Davis on information furnished by State's Attorney Nash.

The investigation which culminated in the arrests started several weeks ago when F. L. Watkins, superintendent of the North Dakota Enforcement league, visited Minot and took up the matter with State's Attorney Dudley L. Nash. Mr. Nash offered to do everything in his power to co-operate with the State Enforcement league, and a series of investigations was started.

CENTRALIZING WORK

In Certain Departments Favored By Governor Eberhart.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 5.—Urging the abolition of fees in certain departments of the state and the payment of the fixed yearly salaries, Governor A. O. Eberhart, at a meeting of the Office Men's club yesterday, urged the creation of a state land department, a department of geology and mines, better organization in the matter of waterways and changes in the doing of the work of the public health commission. Governor Eberhart declared that in these departments there should be a centralization by placing the work in the hands of one man, a specialist, instead of dividing the work among many.

WOMAN IN CASE ONLY SURVIVOR

Third Suicide in South Dakota Case Involving Four People.

Woonsocket, S. D., Jan. 5.—The case against ex-Sheriff Plottner of Mitchell, accused with Mrs. Kate Quinn of Mitchell of a statutory crime, which was being tried in Woonsocket, came to a tragic end yesterday afternoon when the body of Plottner was found a mile and a half north of the city. Investigation showed that he had committed suicide by taking laudanum. It is believed that Plottner believed he would be convicted and preferred death to a possible jail sentence.

The death of Plottner marks the third suicide which has arisen out of the case. Two years ago, because of the alleged relations between his wife and Plottner, Albert Quinn drank carbolic acid.

Last summer, following a series of troublous events in the Plottner household, Mrs. Plottner ended her life. Immediately after her death Plottner and the woman left Mitchell and subsequently were arrested in Omaha.

The sudden ending of the case against Plottner by his suicide leaves of the four interested persons only the woman in the case. It is said the aged father of Plottner, who is now living in Mason City, Iowa, has lost most of his fortune through the trouble of his son, in which the father came to his aid.

PLANS READY FOR DEMOCRATIC MEET

Harmon and Bryan Both Expected at Fargo Gathering Jan. 17 and 18.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—With the big meeting of Northwest Democrats to be held in this city only two weeks away, the final arrangements for the two-day session are practically complete.

Reservations for delegations from all over the Northwest have been made at the hotels and D. H. McArthur, chairman of the Democratic state central committee' says he expects more than 1,000 delegates. The sessions will cover two days, Jan. 17 and 18, the final event coming on the night of the 18th with a banquet, at which more than 400 guests will be entertained, will be tendered the guests.

Among the speakers on the program are: William J. Bryan, Judson Harmon, J. .. Wade of Iowa, Thomas J. Walsh of Helena, Mont., Frank Petdgrew of South Dakota and Governor Burke of North Dakota. The meeting will be a get-together meeting of the Northwest Democrats. Mr. McArthur says it is to be held in no one's interests. Delegations will be present from Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, North and South Dakota, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nebraska.

ABERDEEN, S. D., FIRE.

Firemen Battle With Flames With Thermometer 20 Deg. Below.

Aberdeen, S. D., Jan. 5.—Fire which broke out at 11:30 last night destroyed a large portion of one of the business blocks, the loss reaching nearly $100,000. The fire broke out in the Poulict building over a saloon. The Radison hotel and the First National bank were saved. A heavy northwest wind and the thermometer 20 deg. below zero made the work of the firemen extremely hard. The flames were not gotten under control until 1 o'clock this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown. Many of the buildings burned were among the first built in Aberdeen.

PERISHES WITH SHOP.

Rushmore, Minn., Blacksmith Is Burned With Building.

Rushmore, Minn., Jan. 5.— The charred body of Theodore Schuster, laborer in a local blacksmith shop, was found yesterday in the ruins of the burned building. It is supposed that the shop caught fire in some manner while Schuster was asleep. Schuster recently had received a check for $100 from a brother in Germany to pay his expenses back to the old country.

MISREPRESENT LAW.

Charge Made Against Liabilities Insurance Operating in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 5.—Liability insurance companies operating in Wisconsin have been asked by Insurance Commissioner H. L. Ekern to withdraw their book of rates and instructions to agents. In his letter to the companies Mr. Ekern inclosed a letter from C. H. Crownhart chairman of the state industrial commission, which administers the workmen's compensation act, and according to Mr. Crownhart the insurance companies have misrepresented the law to so great an extent that employers generally possess wrong ideas as to its contents and intent.

Mr. Crownhart says in his letter: "The instructions to agents interpreting the compensation act are practically all wrong, or misleading. It is difficult to see how these companies could honestly issue such instructions."

ACQUIT SLEEPY EYE MAN,

But He Faces Another Indictment on Cobden Bank Charge.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 5.—Hans Mo of Sleepy Eye, Minn., president of the State Bank of Cobden, was acquitted yesterday of the charge of alding R. M. West, cashier of the bank, who recently pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzling more than $12,000 of the bank's funds. Mo must face trial on another indictment charging him with being an accessory after the fact.

Saved By Alarm Clock.

Merrill, Wis., Jan. 5.—The accidental ringing of an alarm clock probably saved the life of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anschultz and his brother Charles. Mrs. Anschultz, on being awakened, smelled coal gas in the room and attempted to awaken her husband. Failing in this, she rushed to the street where she hailed a passing rig, the driver of which hurried a doctor to the house. Both men are in a serious condition, but it is expected they will recover.

PIG KILLS COYOTE.

Slays Animal That Had Tackled Litter of Pigs.

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 5.—A coyote hunting a breakfast near Midland thought he had found what he wanted in a litter of young pigs in a pen, and jumped into the enclosure to gather in the meal. But he failed in his selection, as the mother of the pigs was at bat, and when the owner of the animals was attracted to the pen by the row to see what the trouble was, the sow was beginning to tear the remains of the coyote to shreds in her rage after having cornered the animal where it could not get out, and killed it.

SEES FATHER KILLED.

Grim Tragedy of South Kearsarge Mine, Calumet.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jeremiah Pearce, a miner, aged 52, was instantly killed Tuesday evening in the sixth level, No. 1 shaft, South Kearsarge branch of the Osceola Consolidated, through being struck on the head by a piece of falling rock.

The coroner's jury found death was accidental. His son, who was working near him in the mine, was the only witness of the tragedy. The deceased was a native of Cornwall, and had been a resident of the Copper country for many years. He was well known and respected. He is survived by a wife and several children.

KOOCHICHING COUNTY BOARD HAS ORGANIZED.

International Falls, Minn., Jan. 5.—The Koochiching county board has organized by electiong John Reed chairman and William Durrin vice chairman. Dr. R. H. Monahan was re-elected county physician. John Henry was retained as superintendent of the poor farm. Charles Van Vleck was re-elected assessor of the unorganized townships.

The Weekly Echo was named as the official paper for the ensuing year and will publish the county's financial statement. The International Falls Press' bid for publishing the delinquent tax list was accepted.

Killed in Montreal.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 5.—Word has been received here that Albert La Joie aged 19, a resident of Calumet, is dead at Montreal from scalds received while working under the boiler of a Grand Trunk locomotive at Montreal and that the foreman who sent the boy under the boiler is held criminally liable.

Wisconsin Wilson Meeting.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 5.—Formal calls were sent out yesterday for a conference of the Wisconsin supporters of the Democratic presidential candidacy of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, to be held in Madison about Jan. 18.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Cambridge—N. N. Oslund has received notification of his election as vice president of the State Horticultural society of the eighth congressional district. This gives Mr. Oslund the general supervision of all horticultural interests in this district and makes him a member of the general fruit committee which makes a report to the society at the annual winter meeting and recommends a list of fruits succeeding best in each district.

Fergus Falls—Mrs. Clemmon E. Cole of this city, died Sunday morning after a long illness of dropsy and other complications. Mrs. Cole was born in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1875.

Mankato—Sheriff Anton Osten has made a demand on Manager Henry Hance of the Mankato Electric Traction company for $7,434.37 to satisfy the judgment awarded the late Fanny Fields by a jury in the district court, which award was affirmed by the state supreme court.

International Falls—J. Shea, formerly manager of the Fourth Street Jewelry company of Duluth, has arrived here to manage the International loan office for John Bennett.

Brainerd—John O. Molgren died Tuesday night from an attack of stomach trouble. He was about 50 years of age and leaves a wife and six children. He was employed for many years as a blacksmith at the foundry.

Albert Lea—Dr. T. F. McKey, a prominent physician of Albert Lea, and well known in the medical and Masonic circles throughout the state, died here Sunday afternoon of hardening of the arteries of the brain, after an illness of two months. He was born in Janesville, Wis., in 1862, and has lived in this state since 1895, locating first in Canby, where he practiced his profession.

Minneapolis—Governor Eberhart has named Judge William Hodgson of Hastings to aid the members of the Hennepin district bench in caring for an excess of business. The appointment was made at the request of Judge John Day Smith, who informed Governor Eberhart that the work in hand was more than they could handle.

Red Wing—The coroner's inquest over the body of Mrs. Anton Schill will be held at the courthouse in this city Friday. Notwithstanding the fact that Coroner Gelb, Sheriff Lundquist, Chief Severson and others have been working hard on the case, the murder mystery still lacks a solution.

Foley—John C. Kensrue, aged 57, single, is dead from inflammation of the stomach, caused by a fall. While cutting wood he fell from a tree to a stump, landing on his stomach. After lying there for some time the injured man managed to walk with the aid of a stick to the home of Ole S. Acker, where he was put to bed. He is survived by two brothers.

Sandstone—Pine hive, No. 85 of the L. O. T. M. elected the following officers at their last meeting: P. C., Abbie Bunea; Com., Gusta Vogel; L. C., May Webb; R. K., Anna F. Scott; F. A., Rachel P. Webb; chaplain, Mary S. Hughes; L. at A., Charlotte Murray; S., Sarah Ritchie; sentinel, Selma Reinholdson; P., Fannie Frisendahl; O. P., Ethel Kochendorfer; C. G., Amelia Sandwick; C. B., Rose Maloney.

Princeton—The Mille Lacs County Agricultural association has elected these officers: Andrew Bryson, president; Frank Gouldine, vice president; C. A. Jack, treasurer; Ira G. Stanley, secretary—the same officers who served last year. The annual appropriation from the state, amounting to $1,066.59, has been received, which enables the society to reduce its liabilities to about $1,840, while its property holdings are conservatively valued at $5,300.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—An effort on the part of certain members of the city council to retain William Dorals on the park, cemetery and street commission, in the face of Mr. Dorais' resignation and the nominating of his successor by the mayor, failed of its purpose, and Nels P. Flodin was appointed, and later confirmed, to fill the vacancy.

Negaunee — Emerson Slough, the recluse known as "Ed Summers," who died alone in his shack near Little Lake several days ago, was buried Wednesday. Slough was a war veteran and during the war he was reported killed. His wife married before he returned home and he was heartbroken, and came to the iron region, where he lived for years as a recluse.

Ishpeming — The Swedish Lutheran church has chosen the following officers: Secretary, A. G. Bergstrom; deacons, re-elected for three years, George Skogberg, John A. Johnson and Andrew Hyttsten; trustees re-elected for three years, Gustaf A. Larson and Andrew Carlson. Karl E. Carlson was elected assistant Sunday school superintendent. Gustaf Larson was chosen as delegate to attend the conference meeting to be held in Marinette next March.

Calumet—The following births have been reported to Township Clerk Martin: Daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wilson, Calumet street; Mr. and Mrs. Matt Minaritch, Waterworks' street; Mr. and Mrs. William Andrews, Calumet street; and Mr. and Mrs. Eserl Lahti of Raymbaultown.

Lake Linden—The Lake Linden fire department has elected the following officers for the ensuing year, to be installed at the meeting next Wednesday evening: Chief, Jacob Steffes; assistant, Charles Werner; secretary, Frank Bittrich; treasurer, William Tappe, Jr.

Hancock—Former Chief J. N. Mitchell of the Hancock fire department has resigned as a member of the local fire fighting force, with which he had been connected for over thirty-nine years of continuous service. His resignation was accepted and in his place Oscar Ongie was elected as a member of the department.

Houghton—Of the thirty-nine deaths of the past year in Houghton, five were violent, two being by drowning, one by suicide, and one by a mine accident and one by burning. The greatest mortality seems to be among the very young and very old.

Menominee—Firm ice has formed on Green bay and the fishermen are preparing for the winter's catch. Fishing is in progress on the bay shore, Green Island and Chamber's Island.

Marquette—Action on the much-discussed bill of Wanless & King, amounting to $5,337, for work on the taking up, cleaning and replacing of the old intake pipe, again was deferred by the water board at its meeting Wednesday, pending a written opinion from the city attorney on the legality of the contract between the board and the contractors, under which the latter were to receive $190 per day until the job was finished, whether or not the weather was such that they could work.

Negaunee—Monsignor Father Langner, prist of St. Paul's parish in Negaunee, died Wednesday. Rev. Father Langner had been the priest of the Negaunee parish for over twenty-one years and in that time had made a friend of every one with whom he came in contact, both Catholic and Protestant. He came to Negaunee in October, 1890 from the Copper country.

Ishpeming—During 1911, 77,112 books were issued from the Carnegie public library for home reading. This was a gain of 5,000 over the circulation in 1910. Many new patrons have been added during the last few months, and it is now expected that the circulation in 1912 will exceed that of 1911.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—Secretary of State Frear has appointed his chief clerk, L. B. Nagler, assistant secretary of state to succeed A. T. Torge, resigned. Mr. Nagler was formerly editor of the St. Croix Observer and for the past several years has been prominent in politics. The salary is $2,000 a year.

Ripon—Michael Zweiger has been missing from his home since the evening of Dec. 21. Zweiger is about 60 years of age and it is feared that he has died from exposure.

Milwaukee—In a neatly written will which he himself penned, Rev. Father Hyacinth Gulski, pastor of St. Hedwig's Polish Catholic church, who died several days ago, leaves all of his estate, valued at $9,000, to Rev. Bronislaus Celichowski.

Marinette—Green Bay is frozen over from shore to shore as far north as Chambers island. At Green Island and south of the island, there is four inches of ice and north of that island, it is only two inches through.

Oshkosh—William Schmidt, who enlisted here in 1906, in the regular army and re-enlisted at Columbus, Ohio, afterwards, deserting at Fort Day, Wyo., walked into the police station in this city Thursday and surrendered.

Ashland—Norbert Sero, who for a number of years was assistant Indian farmer at Odanah, is acting farmer there at present and his name has been forwarded to the Indian department for approval.

Racine—At the Main street home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Mitchell, at noon Wednesday, their eldest daughter, Miss Mabel M. Mitchell, was married to Joseph E. White of Searchlight, Nev. It was a brilliant function, many society people of the city being present, also guests from various cities of the country.

Marinette—The contract for building the Marinette municipal dock has been let to Martin Johnson for $4,621.

Madison—Madison will vote on the commission form of government by Feb. 1. The committee of 100, comprising influential citizens of Madison, which is pushing the campaign for the commission form, has decided to force the issue before Feb. 1. A canvass for signatures throughout the city has already been begun.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bismarck, N. D. — Hans Olson, who was arrested Saturday night by Sheriff Barnes on a charge of violating the prohibition law, was before Justice Pierce this afternoon, and had his hearing set for Saturday. He was required to raise a bond of $1,500.

Yankton, S. D. — The date selected for the mid-winter meeting of the South Dakota Press association is Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 18, 19 and 20. The meeting will be held at Yankton.

Deadwood, S. D. — Mayor Adams of Deadwood says that plans are under way for the erection of a log constructed hotel in the canyon of the Spearfish, which will resemble some particulars of the famous hostelry in Yellowsome park near the "Old Faithful" geyser and known as the Old Faithful inn.

Fargo, N. D. — At the annual meeting of the members of the First Lutheran church C. E. Natwick was elected deacon for a five-year term, and H. Lobben and John A. Aasheim were elected deacons for two-year periods. O. A. Olson was elected Sunday school superintendent, Ole Fjelstad, O. J. Herreid, Joseph Dahl and Melvin Kjorlaug were elected ushers.

Grand Forks, N. D. — Willis A. Joy of this city is being seriously considered as a candidate for membership in the next national Democratic convention as one of the North Dakota delegates.

Grafton, N. D. — Sheriff Andrew S. Brown of Dane county, Wisconsin, arrived here from Madison with requisition papers for Charles Zimbrich, who was arrested at Grafton and held for extradition by the officers of Walsh county, on a statutory charge.

Grand Forks, N. D. — Rev. G. O. Mona, for nearly five years pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church of this city, has tendered his resignation. Mr. Mona has been troubled during the winter months with a throat difficulty that renders it imperative that he should seek a milder climate. While his ailments trouble him greatly, Rev. Mona will remain in Grand Forks for the coming six months.

Bismarck, N. D. — Passenger trains were held here and at McKenzie, twenty miles east, Wednesday on account of fifteen freight cars lying in the ditch. Work of the wrecking crew was hindered on account of the intense cold. There was no suffering on account of hunger among the passengers.

SOME INVESTMENTS SUGGESTED BY READERS FOR THAT FIRST $1,000

One Woman Suggests General Store in Small Growing Town.

Duluth Man Has Leanings Toward a Corner Grocery.

There seems to be great interest in The Herald's new contest "What can I do with my first $1,000," for the letters began to come in with a rush yesterday.

It has been often said that the saving of the first $1,000 is the hardest work in the accumulation of a fortune.

A young man of 35 has saved the first $1,000 and has written The Herald asking what to do with it. The Herald leaves the matter to the judgment of its readers. For the best answer a prize of $10 is offered.

In writing the answers, it must be remembered that only one side of the paper should be used. Several of the letters received yesterday are written on bot hsides of the paper. These cannot be considered.

A few of those received yesterday follow:

C. Knutson, Michigamme, Mich.—If I had $1,000, I would invest $300 in New York real estate, $300 in California oil stocks and the remaining $400 I would put for safe keeping in a postal savings bank, or a reliable private bank. The New York real estate security bonds are issued in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000 with interest at 6 per cent, payable annually.

I do not believe it is safe to put every cent in an investment, no matter how safe it may seem.

Mrs. Gertie Behrens, Wright Minn.—My suggestion to the man with the $1,000 would be this, and I am positive a success would follow. Go into a small town—say of from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants—and open up a small grocery or general store. I would advise going into a mining town or where there are sawmills or something, where there is a good foundation for the town to build on.

One thousand dollars will start you on a small scale. With a good level head and a sign hung up that reads like this, "No Trust, No Bust," or, at least, not too much of it, you are sure to more than double your $1,000 in a year's time. Then after you are satisfied you are square with the world you can keep adding to your small stock. Then, of course, your surplus account you can invest in property. You can start a bank account and I am sure in the course of a few years that Rockefeller or Gould or any of the rich men would have to look to you as an equal.

Here's hoping this suggestion may be of some help in starting you on the right road to success.

George H. Gross, Duluth — If I should have $1,000 I would rent a little 2 by 4 office and be a loan shark, loaning out money on pianos and sewing machines.

Frank Thiry, 202 East Fourth street—You have the $1,000; but if I had the $1,000 and was working like you, I can say what I would do.

The first thing I would buy me a corner lot, somewhere between Eighth and Twelfth streets, in a fast growing settlement and pay cash for it. Then I would put a frame building with a store in front and four living rooms in the rear, paying part cash on the lumber and the balance on payments. In the four rear rooms I would live. In this way each month I could make payments on my own home instead of paying rent.

In front I would put in a small line of groceries and confectionery, let my wife take care of the store during the day, and I would take care of it in the evening. By doing this it would cut the high cost of living from 15 to 20 per cent and also leave me a small profit.

I would keep on working, and in one year's time my home would be clear and my store would be making my living.

Then, if I wish to work for ten years more I could save my earnings, which, if I were earning $60 per month, in ten years' time I would have at least $5,000 saved up.

Then I would quit working for others and take care of my little store. I would deliver a few things by hand, but never with a rig.

Then in the summer if I wished to work, I would. But in the winter I would sit around the store and soak up the heat in my own store and home.

Now, don't you think these "Ifs and "Ands" sound pretty good.

And then if I got too fat I would get out and run for alderman. Maybe, after a term of alderman I would get out and run against Mayor Cullum or Dr. McCuen—a foot race, I mean this time. But I haven't got the $1,000, I'll admit.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

For the next best answer The Herald will give a prize of $5.

For the third best answer The Herald will give a prize of $3.

DESERTED WIFE ENDS HER LIFE

Domestic Troubles Cause Mrs. Jamas Azzo to Commit Suicide.

Mrs. James Azzo, 35 years old, committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid at her home in the United States block, corner Nineteenth avenue west and Superior street. Her husband left her about six months ago and she has been despondent since. This is given as the cause of her act. There are no children.

Mrs. Azzo resided with her father, J. L. de Meil, and her sister, Mrs. Doris Seashore, in flat No. 5 of the building. When found by her sister, she was lying in the bathroom with the empty acid bottle at her side. The body was removed to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. The funeral arrangements will be made some time this afternoon.

BUSY WEEK FOR WEST END LODGES

New Officers Assuming Their Duties in West End Organizations.

Every West end lodge and society is either holding special installation ceremonies this week or next week and with the many programs planned for each organization, lodge members in this end of the city will be kept busy during the week. The lodges that have already installed their officers this week are: S. H. & E. F. society, Vasa Order No. 170, Swedish Christian Sick Benefit society, Rice's Point lodge No. 80, and the G. I. A of the Brotherhood of the Locomotive Engineers.

Last evening St. Clement court No. 675, Catholic Order of Foresters, installed its officers for the year and entertained for the visiting circle in the club rooms at Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. P. H. Martin, state chief ranger, was the installing officer and Father Augustine Brockmeyer gave a short talk on "Socialism." The following officers were installed: George F. Walters, chief ranger; F. L. Tambarino, past chief ranger; P. A. Hughes, vice chief ranger; T. G. Harrie, treasurer; P. J. O'Toole, recording secretary; J. L. Golez, financial secretary and T. G. Harrie, speaker.

The following West end lodges and societes will install their officers during next week:

Duluth camp No. 2341, M. W. A.; Norstun lodge, No. 16, Sons of Norway; Zenith lodge, No. 160, I. O. O. F.; Court No. 205, W. C. O. F.; St. Louis court No. 177 C. O. F.; French Naturalization club; Division No. 6, A. O. H.; Duluth lodge, No. 2250, M. B. A.

OBJECT TO USE OF CHLORIDE

West End Residents Ask That Streets Be Sprinkled With Water.

Charles Benson, 2301 West Second street, yesterday presented to the board of public works a petition signed by residents of Second street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west, requesting the board to use calcium chloride as a covering for the dust on the street. His plan has been taken up by many residents in the West end and a general petition will be circulated among the property owners in a few days.

Mr. Benson and his neighbors in the block claim that the chloride becomes muddy and is a nuisance instead of a help. They heard that the city was planning to use the chemical again this summer and the petition is the result. The residents claim that they objected to the chloride last summer also, but their protest was not heeded by the board of public works. The petition asks that the water sprinklers be used more extensively.

Several real estate men in the West end have taken the matter up at the suggestion of Mr. Benson and will circulate the general petition, they say. In speaking of the present move one of the Superior street merchants, who lives in the West end, said this morning: "We will not stand the condition this year if it can be helped, and the board of public works will have to listen to us."

WILL ARRIVE WITH SON'S BODY SATURDAY.

The body of Andrew Anderson, 27 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, 2015 West Sixth street, who died suddenly Sunday evening at Baudette, Minn., did not arrive this morning as expected, on account of the inquest that is being held there by the coroner. Mr. Anderson, father of the young man, left Wednesday evening to bring the body here for burial and will return Saturday morning, according to the message received last evening. The funeral arranged for tomorrow afternoon will probably be held Monday afternoon.

Miss Ekholm Entertains.

Miss Esther Ekholm, 2015 West Third street, entertained at her home last evening. The rooms were decorated in red and green and the evening was spent in music and games, following which a luncheon was served. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames J. D. Nelson, Victor Frederickson, J. Arnberd, J. Ekholm; Misses Esther Bergquist, Muriel Frederickson, Freda Lindberg, Thelma Lindberg, Vivian Iybeck, and Messrs. Albert Johnson, George Johnson, Gust Lindstrom, William Ekholm and Clarence Frederickson.

ST. OLAF'S BAND GIVES ENJOYABLE CONCERT.

The St. Olaf concert band of Northfield, Minn., played before a large audience last evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The concert was given under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

Adolph Olson as the soloist of the band, made a decided impression with his violin playing. The directing of F. Melius Christiansen showed his perfect confidence in his men and his wonderful understanding of music. A feature of the program was the "Miserere" from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," played as a cornet-trombone duet by George Mohn and Trygve Helseth.

Class Chooses Name.

At the banquet of the Bible class of the Second Presbyterian church, 1615 West Superior street, Wednesday evening, the members adopted the name of the Servo Adult Bible class and the motto, "For Others." There are seventy active members in the organization at present and the banquet was given in honor of the new members recently secured in a contest campaign waged among the older members. Rev. J. A. McGaughey, pastor of the church, has charge of the Bible study.

Funeral of Miss Nelson.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Nelson, 31 years old, wife of Martin Nelson, 1927 Piedmont avenue, who died early Sunday morning, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the First Norwegian Lutheran church, First avenue east and Third street. Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the church, officiated and interment was in the Park Hill cemetery.

Ladies' Aid Election.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church met last evening at the parsonage, 215 North Twenty-first avenue west and elected the following officers for the year: Mrs. Eben Olson, president; Mrs. C. A. Nelson, vice president; Mrs. G. A. Hjertz, secretary; Mrs. L. M. Johnson, vice secretary and Mrs. Nels Pearson, treasurer.

West End Briefs.

The annual meeting of the Central Baptist church will be held this evening at the church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. Election of officers will be held and a luncheon will be served by the men of the Brotherhood.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Swedish M. E. church was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Broman, 1913 West Third street.

The Parthenoe society of the Swedish Mission church will hold its annual election of officers this evening at the parsonage, 215 North Twenty-first avenue west.

A benefit dance for the Young Men's sodality of the St. Clement Catholic church will be held this evening at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The Rebecca guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, met in the guild rooms of the church last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Reynolds, 2324 West Superior street, moved to Virginia yesterday, where they will make their home.

G. H. Burnside, 2017 West Superior street, left last evening for St. Paul, where he will receive treatment for his eyes.

The Tabitha society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church was entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Swanstrom, 502 North Twenty-third avenue west.

Marquettes' Deaths in 1911.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 5.—There were 212 deaths in Marquette during 1911, it being the first year since 1907 that the number of deaths has exceeded 200. In 1910 there were 196 deaths and 187 were recorded in 1908 and again in 1909. Marquette's death rate is usually higher than that of a city where normal conditions exist, owing to the two hospitals, the county house and the prison, to all of which many outsiders come and pass away here.

Honor Mill City Pair.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 5.—Bankers, railway presidents and financiers from all parts of the country, representing capital amounting to millions, were guests last night at a banquet given at the Minneapolis club by Minneapolis bankers in honor of W. H. Dunwoody and M. B. Koon of Minneapolis. Mr. Koon and Mr. Dunwoody yesterday celebrated the seventieth anniversaries of their birth and the end of the thirtieth year of connection with a local bank.

BUSINESS IS BRIGHTENED

Cold Snap Benefits Eastern Furriers, Clothiers and Woolen Interests.

Manufacturers Are Facing a Big Demand With Small Stocks.

New York, Jan. 5.—The cold wave has brightened business for all the furriers, clothiers and woolen interests and as far as woolen manufacturing is concerned there are more employes in the mills at this time than ever before.

In woolen goods the often told story of very small supplies lying intermediate of the looms and the consumers accounts for the demand from the merchants and the present activity at the mills.

During the winter of 1908-1909 it was well known there was to be action by congress upon the tariff schedules of woolens and the manufacturers and merchants closed out stocks to the very lowest possible point.

In the winter of 1909-1910 it was apparent that the woolen schedules as adopted by congress were not satisfactory and would be revised at the earliest opportunity, and no surplus stocks were bought or carried.

The same policy prevailed last year, and now the woolen dealers and manufacturers face a large demand with very small stocks to draw upon; consequently, the greatest activity for many years in the mills that manufacture woolens.

The holiday business in the various exchanges is ordinarily without much life, and that of the present year is no exception to what may be termed the rule.

Good Trade in the South.

Yet while business in the bonds and stocks is not heavy there is no mistaking the firm, buoyant and confident tone in all business matters, including those that bonds and stocks are directly linked with.

The cotton exports continue exceedingly heavy, and parties from the South report cotton very plentiful, despite the enormous shipments that have been made.

Cotton alone is now placing to our credits abroad many millions of dollars each week, and promises to be able to continue this for several months yet.

The times in mercantile circles in the Southern states never were so good as they are this winter, and the railway interests in that section have all they can well attend to, while the people of the South are enjoying the most prosperous year in general business that they have ever had.

There is now throughout the South the good results that follow from diversified crops, the cotton that was formerly the only money crop of great value being supplemented by other crops from the cultivated soil that pay fine profits.

This crop of cotton will produce an enormous amount of cotton seed and the demand for it, both in this country and in Europe, is very strong at this time.

In the first ten months of this present year cotton seed oil, cotton seed and cotton seed meal to the value of upwards of $23,000,000 were exported.

The scarcity and high price of grain in Europe has accentuated the demand for cotton seed meal as food for cattle and this is largely aiding in the exportation.

Will Use the Canal.

The Hansa Line of Bremen, the third largest of the great German steamship lines, announced last week its intention to engage in trade to the Pacific coast of America through the Panama canal when it is completed.

Freight steamers will be put upon regular runs from Atlantic and gulf coast ports to the Pacific ports and return.

The extension of our trade upon the opening of the canal will cause great changes throughout the Southern states and will attract many thousands of persons to the Gulf coast cities by the opportunities presented in commerce and for employment in the various branches that accompany ocean trade.

The talk of the town is the proposed investigation by congress of what is termed the Money trust, also the Shipping trust and the Harvester company.

There exist two distinct and diametrically opposite opinions as to the effect of these investigations upon general business and upon the business of the Shipping trust and the Harvester company.

One is that the investigations will surely create confusion and turmoil and prolong a period of uncertainty that seemed about to close.

Those that hold to this opinion are largely under the influence of the views of the men interested in the Shipping trust and the Harvester company or similar close corporations.

The other opinion is that disclosures will result from these investigations that will serve to make business more diffuse, less concentrated, and will relieve the country from the ill effects of too great profits upon capitalizations created by organized pumping of water through well arranged conduits to treasury reservoirs, built by able and experienced manipulators.

Money Trust Probe.

That surprises will be found in Shipping trust affairs and possibly in Harvester company organization and operations is expected here, but when the Money trust is discussed, while numbers are ready to declare it is in operation and men speak of this and of that as evidences of its action, yet it will be found most difficult to locate or define.

It will be found to be direct, positive and exceedingly real and materialistic if the thousands of men who have similar stories as that of the Merritts of Minnesota, to tell are listened to, but the trust itself can no more be located than can the snows of last year.

Illusive and evanescent both before and after its absorption of others' property or its defeat of others' business aims, it materializes but to capture or destroy, and, like the genii of the "Arabian Nights" tales, it vanishes to assume forms of men above reproach, freely uttering words of kindliness and friendship.

CANCER CURE IS SOUGHT BY WOMAN

She Works Daily Surrounded By Rats, Guinea Pigs, Etc.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 5.—A lone woman, living in a shabby two-story brick house, with the northwest wind driving snow in through broad cracks and having for company a small menagerie of rats, white mice, dogs and guinea pigs, is at work eighteen hours a day, seven days in the week, "in the interests of science."

The woman is Maud Slye, a former instructor in the medical department of the University of Chicago. The goal for which she is striving is a cure for cancer.

The experiments are being conducted under the direction of the Institute for Medical Research founded by the late Otho S. A. Sprague. Miss Slye has been engaged in her present line of experiments since early last spring. A maid, who is present at the laboratory during the day, is the scientist's only attendant.

The maid was acting under permanent instructions when she announced to a visitor that "Miss Slye's time is taken up entirely by her work. Her orders are that she will see no one."

Persistent requests that she express in persons her disinclination to see visitors were rewarded by admission to the house.

The lower floor of the building is arranged for the accommodation of the animals, which serve as subjects for the experiments. Cages for rats and mice line the walls. In the center of the room a little arena is fenced off for the dogs.

Miss Slye was engaged in studying the contents of a test tube by the strong light of a calcium burner. A long line of test tubes, each numbered, was arranged in a rack. The numbers of these tubes run up into the hundreds and are the results of previous experiments.

Miss Slye ignored the visitor until she had concluded the test, carefully numbered the tube and arranged it in the rack.

"The purpose of my securing this little building is to be away from the distractions of the university campus," Miss Slye said.

She admitted that the methods which she was using had never before been tried. She said they were partly original and partly a crystallization of the thought of the American medical profession on the question of a cure for cancer.

"We may have that knowledge which the world in general and the medical profession in particular is awaiting within a few months. However, nothing will be announced until we have found a certain cure," she said.

"The collection of animals which I keep here is for use in testing out the results of my experiments. It will not be necessary to try out the cure, when found, in a clinic. I can arrive at positive conclusions here by the use of the animals."

COST OF DEATH HIGHER.

Rates for Hearses to Be Increased in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 5.—It will cost more to die. An adjustment of funeral livery prices is to be made, according to Louis Landvogt of the Landvogt Livery & Undertaking company, president of the St. Louis Livery and Undertaking association, whereby carriages will cost $1 more each, while the price for the hearse will remain uniform throughout the week. The adjustment means an increase in the cost of funerals.

The automobile and the owl car are blamed for the increase; also, the rising price of feed, and, in general, the increasing cost of livery upkeep. The new funeral scale is to be uniform throughout the week. Heretofore the scale was $5 for each carriage and $10 for the hearse on week days, and $6 and $12 respectively, on Sundays. The new scale calls for $6 and $10 throughout the week.

"The automobile has just 'put the cab to the bad.' What the automobile has't done the owl car has. I don't blame people for riding in automobiles and street cars, nor can the liverymen be blamed when he endeavors to keep from going to the wall."

But Johnson and Stotesbury Won't Discuss Purchases Abroad.

Philadelphia, Jan. 5.—John G. Johnson last week received a box of valuable paintings from abroad, but he refused to tell what works of art he acquired. It is reported that Edward T. Stotesbury recently purchased paintings to the value of $100,000 abroad. When asked about this Mr. Stotesbury declared that the public was not interested in his picture purchases.

"You don't expect to give this latest shipment away," he was asked.

"I may give them away," he answered. "I can't tell. But that is my own affair."

HEAD TWISTED AND SHE CANNOT TURN IT BACK.

Anderson, Cal., Jan. 5.—Word has been brought here of an accident to Mrs. Alexander Gibson of Coleman, while driving with her husband and another woman.

On the road just above Balls Ferry an automobile was met, and the team driven by Gibson became unmanageable, and Mrs. Gibson was thrown out upon her head. The nature of her injuries are peculiar, as her head is twisted and she cannot turn it back.

FOR YOUR HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

But, when the hair roots retain any life, we believe there is nothing that will so surely promote hair growth as will Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. To prove that statement, we promise to promptly return all the money you pay us for Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, should it not please you.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic destroys the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and, by promoting circulation, nourishing them.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic helps to relieve scalp irritation, to remove dandruff, to prevent the hair from falling out, and to promote an increased growth of hair. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

THE BITTER CRY OF THE POOR.

Through the Associated Charities comes an appeal from those who have not to those who have—the bitter cry of the poor for help.

At a meeting of the directors of the Associated Charities yesterday facts were developed that warranted a call upon the generous public of Duluth, which never yet has failed to respond to any worthy appeal.

The condition that now exists is not due so much to any extraordinary poverty in Duluth as it is to the fact that the Bethel, which in previous winters shouldered a large share of the burden of caring for the poor, is now out of existence, so that a heavier demand is being made upon the Associated Charities, which is the official clearing house for private charity.

But widows and orphans are without clothing, fuel and food. Men of family are without work. Work is needed for those who lack it, and money for temporary relief is needed to save the city's unfortunates from suffering.

In this bitter weather the thought that human beings are cold and hungry has peculiar poignancy, and the call that has been issued will not go unheeded.

The Associated Charities directors concluded that a thousand dollars would be needed to carry its work through the winter months. This money will be in addition to the regular donations to that organization, and will be used to meet the extraordinary emergency that has arisen.

Each of the directors has undertaken to raise $50, and they should have no difficulty in doing it. This, in its way, is as vital an occasion for public generosity to display itself as any of the great spectacular catastrophes that have pierced the rock of human selfishness and caused a flood of money to flow forth.

Those in whose behalf the Associated Charities appeals to the public are deserving. They are hungry and cold, and they must be warmed and fed.

THE TARIFF.

"Our tariff policy," said Woodrow Wilson in New York Wednesday evening, "has not for several generations been based upon any principle whatever, but only upon a system of favoritism, of patronage, of arbitrary fosterage by the Federal government."

True and well said.

It has been favoritism to those who, being wealthy and therefore strong, least needed government favoritism but were best able to command it. While the government, Janus-like, has turned a smiling countenance upon the powerful, it has turned a hard and oppressive face upon those who, being weak because poor, have had to bear the full burden of this favoritism.

It has been patronage of those interests which, being wealthy, were best able to return patronage in the form of bribes to men and parties—not always money, but sometimes political power and "honors."

It has been fosterage of gigantic combinations whose watered stock could yield dividends only through the power the protective tariff gave to tax the many for the few.

And always the full cost, the enormous, oppressive, iniquitous cost, has been borne by the people.

The protective tariff has been responsible for more corruption in public life and more poverty and deprivation and suffering in private life than any other one thing in American history.

It is well that its day is about done.

THE NEWSPAPERS AND THE RAILROADS.

President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has stated that five years ago sixty-five out of every hundred newspaper articles about the railroads expressed hostility, and now 90 per cent of such articles are friendly in their tone.

Not many newspapers, whether published in city or country, have ever been hostile toward the railroads. Hostility toward railroad mismanagement and resentment of railroad aggressions is one thing; hostility toward the railroad business is another: and there hasn't been much of the latter. A feeling of hatred toward the railroads, which are valuable and indispensable public servants, would be as sensible as a feeling of hatred toward one's bread and butter because some of those who deal in these essential commodities have acted unfairly.

Five years ago saw the beginning of the end of a long period of railroad activity in politics, state and national. Railroads manipulated conventions. They packed caucuses. They supplied free passes and campaign funds which formed the chief stock in trade of the bosses. They employed as attorneys, either as general counsel or in some minor capacity, lawyers skilled in political manipulation. They had their own agents in the congress of the United States and in the state legislatures, and their lobbies were busy, untiring and effective. So they managed, thus, to run things about as they pleased. They charged what rates the traffic would bear, and they let themselves off with taxes as light as they dared.

It is not astonishing, then, that when the spreading realization of this condition burst into concrete and vehement protest, that people and newspapers were bitter toward the railroad managements.

Nor was it surprising that in most of the states and in a large degree in the nation railroad domination ceased when its existence became so obtrusive that none could deny it.

The reason newspaper comment has grown milder is that the occasion for bitterness has grown less. The bitterness never was against the railroads, but always against the arrogance and impudence of railroad managements which interfered in the processes of the people's government to their own profit and to the people's harm. The wonder of it is that resentment of this long-continued intrusion of private interests in public affairs did not result in more retaliatory measures than it did. Generally the people have been vastly more just with the railroads than the railroads ever were with them.

In most states this railroad domination has been stopped, but not yet in all states.

That Minnesota is not yet free was made clear during the last year, when though this is the only Northwestern state whose people are compelled to pay 3 cents a mile to travel on passenger trains, and though it was disclosed that railroad taxation in this state is absurdly low, the railroads and their allied interests were able to prevent the calling of an extra session of the legislature to propose to the people an increase in railroad taxation.

Unquestionably the rate of railroad taxation in this state will be increased by the next legislature. The public demand that railroads shall pay their just share of the taxes is too pronounced and emphatic to be ignored. But the success of the Minnesota railroads in preventing an extra session saved them from the increase for two years, and lost the other taxpayers of Minnesota millions of dollars which they can never regain.

Most states are free of railroad domination. Minnesota is not free yet.

ALL STILL IN THE RING.

President Taft says that nothing but death can take him out of the contest for the presidency. Senator La Follette scoffs at the idea of his withdrawing. Apparently nobody is going to pull out.

But presently the national conventions will be held, and then all but two will be withdrawn. Then will come the election, and after that but one will be left, and that one, on March 4, 1913, will become president.

Who will be that one? It is on the knees of the gods, or, rather, in the hands of those who control conventions. The people, fortunately, still control elections, so that unless both conventions make mistakes the people can be depended upon to pick the best man.

THE COMMISSION PLAN IN OPERATION—15.

Minot, N. D., adopted the commission plan in 1909. Property valuations for purposes of taxation for the entire city have been reduced an average of 20 per cent below the valuations of the last five years. The various departments of the city government are getting better results for less cost than the old system of government ever did. Some of the departments have been so thoroughly diverted into businesslike lines that they will need no appropriations for their work of the coming year.

Wouldn't you think it possible, to say the least, that a form of government that would work out these results in Minot might help Duluth just a little?

A CHILD LABOR DAY.

The National Child Labor committee has issued a call to the churches of America asking them to observe Sunday, Jan. 28, or Saturday, Jan. 27, as Child Labor day.

It is to be hoped that many churches will respond to this invitation; that many pastors will investigate the statistics and find out the appalling number of child bread-winners there are in this country; and that many congregations may be awakened to the iniquity of this condition and to the enormity of an economic system that not only permits it but fosters and even forces its continuance.

The National Child Labor committee, which labors unselfishly to the end that childhood in this country shall not be denied its birthright at the compulsion of organized and politically buttressed greed, is supported entirely by contributions from those interested in its splendid purpose; and while the call makes no suggestion on this point, it would be a fine thing if in every church on the days indicated special collections were taken up for the benefit of the movement.

The committee reports that during the year just closed better child labor laws have been passed in thirty states, and that the commission on uniform laws of the American Bar association has prepared and sent out to the public a model child labor law to be used as a standard of uniformity in all states. There is nothing in which the need of uniformity is so great as it is in child labor legislation. When an attempt is made to pass a civilized child labor law in any state, manufacturers and other employers are often able to defeat it by pointing out that the laxer laws of other states would foster a competition that would force them to break the proposed law or lose money. In this, as in many other features of modern industry, the tendency is for the most remorseless, the most unscrupulous and the most greedy to establish the practices of employment. Manufacturers who hate to employ children have been forced to do it because they must to compete with others who use this cheap and dreadful form of labor.

The report of the commission, while calling attention to gratifying gains, also calls attention to conditions against which every church ought to issue its protest; especially against the abuse of young children in coal mines, glass factories, cotton mills, cigar and cigarette factories, oyster and shrimp canneries and in the sweatshops of many large cities. Particular attention is called to the fact that although there are over thirteen thousand licensed tenement workshops in New York city alone, and that these licenses cover but a fraction of the houses in which home work is actually done by children, there is at present no adequate law to combat this evil.

In 1910 the committee announced that child labor in the night messenger service had been abolished in but two states. Through the continued activity of the committee nine other states were added to the list in 1911, and the morals and health of these children thus safeguarded. But in a majority of the states it is still possible for young boys to be subjected to all the moral hazard involved in this service, and vigorous measures are needed to correct the abuse.

The committee makes it clear that it is not asking the churches to contribute funds to its work, but to help bring the facts to public attention. The suggestion that collections be taken up is made voluntarily by this newspaper, in the belief that the money of Christian men and women could hardly be put to better or nobler use than in fighting the system which oppresses childhood and coins its joy and health and morals into profits.

The committee offers to send any pastor interested, without charge, up-to-date information on the subject, and this can be obtained by writing to Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WANTED—A PARODY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you please publish in The Herald the parody on the poem, "Maud Muller." The first two lines of the parody read like this: "Kate Ketchem on a winter's night, went to a party dressed in white." Please publish it as soon as possible and greatly oblige, Home.

There's a dark little flat in a poor little street,
Where never a sunbeam falls,
And never the patter of children's feet
Is heard in the dingy halls;
And never a fairy has entered there
And never a playful gnome;
The rooms are cold and the walls are bare,
And silence broods in the dampened air,
But somebody calls it home.

There's a poor little hut where the smoke is thick,
And never a blossom blows;
Where a light that feeds on a greasy wick
In the evening feebly glows,
And never an eye is gladdened there
By picture or worthy tome;
The stove is cold and the floors are bare,
But the mother teaches her child a prayer,
And somebody calls it Home.

There's a splendid palace upon a hill
Where the halls are wide and long;
Where roysterers gather at night and fill
The spaces with ribald song,
And all is brilliant and gorgeous ehere
From cellar to lofty dome;
But never a child has lisped a prayer
Within those walls, with their treasures rare—
Yet somebody calls it home.
—S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.

The Story of a Pension.

Collier's Weekly: The fundamental aspect of the Woodrow Wilson-Carnegie fund exposure seems to us to have escaped attention in the discussion that has raged about it. The trustees of the Carnegie pension fund for retired college teachers are:

Frank A. Vanderlip, Jacob G. Schurman, A. Lawrence Lowell, S. H. McCormick, Edwin B. Craighead, Henry C. King, Charles F. Thwing, Thomas McClelland, Arthur T. Hadley, H. McClelland Bell, George H. Denny, James M. Taylor, William Peterson, Samuel Plantz, David S. Jordan, Ira Remsen, Nicholas Murray Butler, William H. Crawford, Henry S. Pritchett, T. Morris Carnegie, Robert A. Franke Franks, Charles R. Van Hise, William L. Bryan, Alexander C. Humphreys.

These men, in November, 1910, received and passed upon an application for a pension from Woodrow Wilson. For more than a year they did not treat the existence of this application in any other manner than they treated hundreds of others of which they were the official custodians. But in November, 1911, at a time likely to injure Mr. Wilson's ambition to obtain a high public office, they permitted the facts of this one application to become public. It was made public through the paper which is the recognized court circular of the sort of man that Mr. Frank Vanderlip, for example, is—that is to say, a Wall Street bank president who doesn't like the kind of presidential candidate that Woodrow Wilson is. It was made public with a circumstantiality which paraded rather than concealed its source; its authoritativeness was not less conspicuous than its malevolence; and this gives rise to what seems to us the fundamental question: If their conception of the perquisites of their position permits these trustees to make use of official information so as to influence an important public matter, will they not with equal certainty and greater effectiveness make use of their control of $10,000,000?

Some years ago William Jennings Bryan persuaded the Nebraska legislature to reject a bill permitting the teachers in the university of that state to become the beneficiaries of the Carnegie fund; he feared a time when the custodians of that fund might intimidate college professors looking to it for comfort in their old age. For the same reason, Joseph W. Folk, when governor of Missouri, vetoed a similar bill. These men thought that college teachers should not be subjected to the temptation of considering what sort of teaching might seem desirable, and what sort undesirable, to the custodians of $10,000,000—a distinction which is made measurably clear by the present episode. At the time we thought Mr. Bryan and Mr. Folk were needlessly suspicious. We are now disposed to believe they were wise. If any of the trustees think our criticism is too inclusive, we anticipate their just grievance and promise to limit our comment to the responsible individuals, upon receipt of the necessary information from the only person capable of giving it.

Promise of Release.

Washington Star: Karin Michaels, the author, was talking in New York about her idea of divorce insurance.

"There would be less need of divorce, in time," she said, "if there were not so many mercenary girls and foolish graybeards. When a mercenary girl marries a foolish graybeard, then the divorce insurance agents should flock around."

The well-known novelist here told an appropriate story.

"Chorus girl," she said, "having just married an aged millionaire, got a letter to this effect:

"'If you do not put $50,000 in the treebox before your house tonight, we will blow up your husband.—The Black Hand.'

"The young bride, instead of putting $50,000 in the treebox, put this note there:

"'Cannot meet your views as regards cash, but otherwise your proposition deeply interests me.'"

The Office-Seeker.

Washington Star: Senator Bourne was talking about a confirmed office-seeker.

"His little son," said Senator Bourne, "looked up from his history lesson one night and said to his mother:

"'Mother, if anything should happen to the king of England, who would be king?'

"'The prince of Wales,' his mother answered.

"'If the prince of Wales should die, who would be king then?'

"The mother hesitated. She stammered something or other. It was plain she didn't really know who would succeed the prince of Wales. Then the boy interrupted her:

"'Well,' he said, with a sigh, 'anyhow, I hope father won't try for it.'"

The Farmers in School.

World's Work: The idea that has guided B. H. Crocheron in building up an agricultural high school in Baltimore county, Md., is to be of service not only to the students, but to every individual in the community. One of the most important things he did was to establish a winter lecture course for farmers. The subject was "Soils," because in that the farmers seemed most interested. Persons, when asked whether they would attend uniformly said either that they "didn't know" or that they "might come once or twice."

Nevertheless the first lecture was attended by sixty persons, the second by ninety, the third by a hundred and so forth. For the entire course the attendance average 125 at each lecture. The audience was more remarkable when it is considered that all had to come in the dark along country roads through mud, slush, and snow.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

Difference in the Men.

St. Cloud Times: Governor John A. Johnson traveled through Minnesota and outside of the state more than any governor who preceded him and he gained thereby the title of "the boosting governor."—Hibbing Tribune.

Governor Johnson's travels did not equal 50 per cent of Eberhart's. But they did amount to 1,000 per cent more. So great was the impression he created, that he was hailed as the "coming man" for the presidency. No one ever mentioned Adolph for president. He has been talked of as the governor who gives away brides at county fairs.

The Show-Down.

Breckenridge Telegram: The threatened assumption of the reins of the state government by Lieutenant Governor Gordon during the absence in the East of Governor Eberhart served one useful purpose. The city corporation dailies were forced to show their hands.

Most "En Route."

Luverne Journal: Better that the state capitol should be Browns Valley, Minn., than Pittsburg, Pa., or "en route."

Nor of the Owners of the Cars.

Brazen Comparison.

Grand Rapids Independent: The Duluth News Tribune brazenly likens Governor Eberhart with the lamented Governor John A. Johnson. The News Tribune has done many things of which it ought to be heartily ashamed, and this is not by far the least of them.

Gordon's Popularity.

Austin Transcript: Lieutenant Governor S. Y. Gordon is growing in popularity daily. He is wise in keeping in touch with the people and their interests. A lot of third rate politicians are trying to down him through misrepresentations but nobody takes stock in their foolish attacks.

Two "Wows" and a "Phew."

Hinckley Enterprise: E. E. Smith, the chairman of the state central committee, says Eberhart thinks himself "the man of destiny." Wow!!

Sam Still on Top.

Virginia Virginian: The politicians tried hard to put Sam Y. Gordon into a hole, but they will find in due time that they did not succeed nearly as well as they attempt to make the people of the state believe.

"Fortunatus."

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: It is now Fortunatus Eberhart according to the Duluth News Tribune. Presumably this last handle is to get the literary folks and the stage people—being so romantic. He can still get the Scandinavians with the middle initial commemorating the name of Olson, the Germans will kowtow to Adolph and the corporations as usual will be satisfied with just plain Eberhart.

Three Sorrows.

I.

There are three Sorrows, worth my while to grieve:
Death, when I may be called upon to leave
The friends I love, or they to part from me
As mariners upon the uncharted sea
That stretches, bleak and black, here at my feet,
Where ships go forth to join the phantom fleet
Of souls adrift upon an unknown shore,
And what my port, I may return no more.

II.

There are three Sorrows, worth my while to name:
Dishonor, with the burden of its shame,
Bidding me bow my head and cast my eyes
Upon the ground; a life of tinseled lies,
Of practiced subterfuges and deceits,
Dishonesties, illguarded trusts, and cheats;
Dishonor of myself, for that I slept
Upon the post I had, in honor, kept.

III.

There are three Sorrows, worth my while of tears:
Lost Faith—that I had hallowed all these years
Of love and friendship—faith that lies in dust
With all the joys and symbols of my trust;
Faith that was like a joyous dream, and left
Me wide awake and wondering—bereft
Of what I dreamed I had—a broken vase
That had my heart for its abiding place.

IV.

There are three Sorrows, worth my while to share;
All else that seemeth sorrow I may repair
With a soft word, a smile, a hope, that swings
The gate into the garden of better things;
So I shall measure up the grief to see
If it be ought or part of these, the three,
And if it be not one of these worth while
I shall be glad, and melt it with a smile!
—J. W. Foley in New York Times.

Knowing One Another.

Zona Gale in La Follette's Magazine: I have a friend who says: "When I first saw the oriental rugs of the professor of our new red brick high school building's wife hangin' on the line, I says to myself: 'No. Not that woman. I won't never vote for her for president of the ladies' aid. She ain't one of us.' And while they were votin' that day I set over in one corner feelin' mean and thinkin': 'No. You don't get no ballot out of me. You ain't folks.' And then the next mornin', while I was gettin' breakfast, she come walkin' across the yard between our two houses, and she says: 'Oh, Mis' Arthur, I'm makin' johnny cake, and I can't tell whether you put in soda or bakin' powder. Which do you?' And when I'd told her how, and she'd started back, I stood inside the screen door just lookin' after her. And I thought: 'Why, my land! Underneath your oriental rugs you was like that all the time. Why, you're folks—'"

"One thing is as simple as the light. Getting to know one another is the problem. Social centering is the way to work it out. And, at the last, democracy is the answer.

At the Present Rate.

Boston Globe: On to the jungle, March 23, 1909: "Never again !!!"

Return from the jungle, June 18, 1910: "Not thinking about the presidency."

Early in 1911: "I refuse to consent to the use of my name as a candidate for president."

Summer of 1911: "No, I have not changed my mind, I shall not be a candidate."

Dec. 27, 1911: to Philadelphia Republican leaders: "I am not a candidate for president AT THIS TIME."

March 1, 1912: "Well, I suppose I cannot prevent Roosevelt delegates from being sent to the convention."

June 1, 1912: "Well, boys, do what you think is best. I am in the hands of my friends."

Extra! Roosevelt nominated at Chicago.

Had a Reason.

Chicago Post: "May I ask," inquired the interviewer, "why you paint none but nudes?"

"Certainly," replied the painter. "The style changes so rapidly in clothing that a picture would be out of date almost before the paint is dry."

HOW LORD FINN BROKE A DROUGHT.

Roy L. McCardell in the New York World: "Clumpity! Clumpity! Clumpity!"

It is a cow pony bearing a man in buckskin.

"Whoa!"

"Halt! Who goes there?"

"Three cheers, boys! It's Buffalo Bill! We are saved! The demon Redskins are baffled!"

That's the way it might have been, but, as a matter of fact, Buffalo Bill drove up to the Waldorf in a motor car.

Well anyhow, we had breakfast with him. Buffalo Jones was there and Buffalo Maj. Burke, and Buffalo Johnny Baker, and Buffalo Link and Buffalo Getchell, and Buffalo Roth, and Mr. Nutt of Nutley, the only tenderfoot present, and myself. It was SOME breakfast.

We didn't have johnny cakes and jerked venison, but it was SOME breakfast.

Not for what the awestruck Swiss waiters served us, but from what stirring tales of trail and prairie that there were told.

It was a gathering of the scouts I tell you, this breakfast at the Waldorf. You see, it was this way:

Buffalo Bill was to take the train for North Platte that evening to spend the holidays with his children and grandchildren. Buffalo Jones was in town, and wanted his old friend to see the moving pictures of how he captured wild animals in Africa with a lasso.

There was Buffalo Bill, then, and good old Maj. Burke, and Johnny Baker—I remember Johnny Baker as "The Cowboy Kid." And he could ride a horse before he was weaned. And here he was, a bald and chunky quiet man of 40. Then there was Buffalo Jones, looking, save for his sombrero, like a downcast deacon, and Maj. Burke, fat and cheerful with his Studebaker mustache, and Mr. Getchell, the mining expert, and Mr. Link, the mutual friend, and the rest of us, who don't count much in this story, and the Swiss waiters sticking around.

"I've got to meet Gen. Miles, he's in town, and I've got to see Bat Masterson, and I must look at your wild animal pictures, friend Jones, and I've got a lot of things I must get for the folks at home!" said Buffalo Bill. "So this is my busy day!" But we didn't hurry this wonderful breakfast for all that.

Buffalo Bill told us about the most fun he ever had buffalo hunting. It was with Lord Finn, an Irish earl who had been in some big British government position in India for many years. The suns of Hindustan had turned him to a human thirst.

"I've hunted with the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, with Lord Dunraven and many others of the foreign nobility, but never with such an arid titled personality as Lord Finn," said the great scout. "They learned all they knew about irrigation from Lord Finn, in that part of the West.

"But a dreadful calamity overtook us five hundred miles from civilization. The bar wagon went over a precipice into a canyon and was swept away by the surging stream below.

"Lord Finn was a big, strong man, but he broke down and wept. Then I remembered a dying town ninety miles away. Perhaps we might yet be saved. We mounted our best horses and rode like the wind. We found the place. The frontier tavern, a stout edifice of logs, was closed and barred and padlocked. Finally our cries of distress aroused an old woman who hobbled out from a cabin farther up the pass. She said the man who ran the tavern had gone to get a team to haul his stock away. The camp was played out. Everybody was gone.

'Could we get in? We could not. Was the place for sale? It was. She had heard the man say he'd take $300 for the place and stock, but there was no key.

"Without a word Lord Finn handed over $300 and remarked to me 'Now show your blooming American ingenuity!'

"There was a mud daubed chimney of sticks. I threw my lasso over it, also another lasso at Lord Finn's saddle horn. Then we turned our ponies and gave them the spur. The chimney shook, swayed and toppled over in a cloud of dust, and we entered by the fireplace. Lord Finn had broken the great drouth.

"To this day, those rough Westerners take off their hats when they breathe the name of Lord Finn. He wasn't a lord; he was a prince. Every man of our party, every miner, every settler in the region was given two bottles. Lord Finn only took two bottles himself. That's the kind of a sport he was!"

It was remarked that two bottles was not much for a human thirst who had been decorated by the Maharajah of Allothabhad with the Order of the Rising Sun for staying up so often to see it.

And now it was time to see the pictures of Buffalo Jones' gunless hunting of big game.

The breakfast party mounted its motor cars and was soon speeding across the wilds of New York to where Fourteenth Street pass leads into Fifth Avenue Canyon. Here the party alighted and was taken up among the cliff dwellers.

Buffalo Jones greatly excited himself as he told the great story of this greatest hunt—a hunt where the wild beast was conquered and captured and subdued, but never slain.

He was not telling it to us: he was telling it to his old friend, his fellow scout, his old companion on many a hunt.

"I never carried a gun or pistol in all my life!" said Buffalo Jones, "and these pictures show you, my friends, the truth of God's ordinance that man was given dominion over the wild beasts!"

As we came away Maj. Burke said Buffalo Bill was keenly interested in the uplift of the Indian. "The Wild West has taken thousands of Indians around the world in the quarter of a century of its existence," said the major. "It has taught these, who have told the others, of the futility of fighting the white man in his might and millions."

"Will the Wild West go out again?" I asked.

"That I can't say," replied the major. "But I want Bill to show a scene next year of the West as it IS, to conclude the scenes of the West as it WAS."

"What will that be?" I asked.

"A trolley car full of Indians in college cut clothes singing 'Oh, You Beautiful Doll!' while on their way to town to see the moving picture show!"

Then we shook hands all around and so we parted.

A New Year Suggestion.

Chicago Tribune: A reader of the Tribune, writing Dec. 21, in the full torrent of Christmas preparation proposes that this newspaper, having led in the educational assault upon the insane Fourth, now undertake a similar campaign on behalf of a sane Christmas.

The Tribune receives gratefully the compliment implied, but it ponders the proposal with considerable misgiving. Not that our correspondent is not altogether right in her protest against the insincerities, inconsistencies, and excesses that have crept into our celebration of the chief our holidays. But the sane Fourth campaign was child's play to a crusade like this.

The folly of blowing one's hand to pieces as an expression of patriotic enthusiasm was pretty plain once we began to talk about the matter. The wrong to the real spirit of Christmas done by conventional giving, by grudged interchange of gifts, by extravagance of spending even where the giving is sincere—the waste, in short, of purse and strength and spirit—all this is so entangled with what is good that it is not easy even to preach against it, save in those generalities we alreadp accept.

All the same our correspondent is not merely eloquent and right when she urges reform. She lays down a practicable principle for it when she says: "To satisfy beautiful faith on the one hand and meet urgent need on the other—wouldn't this be adequate expression of the spirit of love and good will that animates us all at this season?"

"For children and the poor." There is the slogan for a true Christmas crusade.

Wouldn't it win in time?

Saved by a Nose.

Chicago Post: "The wolves were upon us," he related to the girl he was trying to impress. "Their howling penetrated to our very marrow. We fled for our lives. But each second we knew that the ravenous pack was gaining on us. Closer, closer—at last they were so close that we could feel their muzzles against our legs, so that—"

"Ah," sighed the lady, greatly relieved, "now glad you must have been that they had their muzzles on!"

MARCHAND WAS REAL PIONEER

Old Timer Who Died Recently at Kettle Falls Wash.

Spokane, Wash., Jan 5.—Joaquin Marchand, trapper, Indian fighter and frontiersman, who died at his home in Kettle Falls, Wash., at the age of 98 years, was one of the earliest permanent white settlers of Stevens county, where he lived 56 years. He is survived by Mrs. Marchand and eight grown-up children, born in the homestead in the Colville valley.

Marchand was born at Three Rivers, Que., in 1813 and migrated to St. Louis, Mo., in 1850, where he and Moses Dupree, a resident of Kettle Falls, joined the Hudson Bay company, afterward joining a fur trading company at Fort Benton, Mont. They experienced much suffering and hardship from exposure and lack of food. Their horses and supplies were stolen by Indians, and they continued on foot to Colville mission, in eastern Washington.

Indians Caused Apprehension.

The region was a wilderness. No towns or settlements were passed on their journey. Their only supply was game, fish and berries. The Crow and Blackfeet Indians were friendly, but the Sioux were treacherous; still the whole journey was made without violence on the part of the Indians.

They followed up the Missouri river to its head, then crossed the Rocky mountains through the pass used by the Lewis and Clarke expedition. They struck the headwaters of the Pend Oreille, following it to the Box canyon, crossing to the Colville valley, arriving at the Hudson bay trading post and fort near Kettle Falls in 1855.

Tried Placer Mining.

Marchand squatted on a piece of land in the Colville valley which is now known as the Sacred Heart mission. There was no money in the country in those days, the principal medium of exchange being gold dust and furs. He worked for a time at placer mining on the Columbia river near the mouth of the Pend Oreille river and saw three pans of dirt that washed $1,500. Each locator was entitled to fifty feet frontage on the river. With crude appliance the usual amount was about $15 to the man a day.

Marchand freighted supplies to the missions from Fort Walla Walla and many times passed over the ground where Spokane stands. He was once attacked and robbed near the Spokane river by renegade Indians.

Of the Japanese factory laborers the average "work life" is short, very few being able to last longer than five years. Hence the rural population hesitates to migrate to the city when country employment is abundant.

There is no remedy more useful in a family than a trustworthy laxative. Scarcely a day passes in a family of any size that some member of it does not suffer from temporary constipation, headache, gas on the stomach, lassitude and similar disorders. In all these instances there is need of a laxative, and no better laxative can be taken than DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN. It has everything to recommend it as a laxative for all the family, from the baby to the grandparents. It is mild, it acts gently and does not gripe, it is thoroughly effective in old or young, and the doses taken to bring satisfactory results are small. In this way it differs favorably from cathartic pills, which not everyone can swallow, and from salts and purgative waters, of which one must take much to bring results. And these latter when taken often quickly lose their effect, and more and more has to be taken to bring the original results, until finally an entire box or bottle has no effect. With DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN it is different. The dose is small and need not be increased, and on the contrary, after it has been taken for a little while the dose can be diminished and then entirely dispensed with, and nature again does its own work. This applies to children as well as to grownups—it is equally effective at all ages. It is especially the ideal laxative for children because it is pleasant to the taste and children like it. When the child is peevish, irritable, not interested in sleep, food or lessons, give it a dose of SYRUP PEPSIN and watch how quickly it recovers its good cheer.

Mothers Keep Their Children Healthy Using DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN

IVAN VICTOR MATSON

Dr. Caldwell:
I have tried your sample bottle that you sent me and it seemed to help, so I went to the drug store and got a 50c bottle. I think it is the best thing in the world for constipation. I have been bothered with it for years and never got anything to cure before I used your Syrup Pepsin.
Miss Marie Yager,
Marinette, Wis.

Dr. Caldwell:
I received your free sample of Syrup Pepsin and found it to be all right. I took two doses of it and it helped me so much more than any medicine I have ever taken. I have a little grandson about ten months old and he was constipated. I gave him some of the Syrup Pepsin and he has been all right ever since.
J. P. Crider,
Kimball, Minn.

Dr. Caldwell:
I received the sample of Syrup Pepsin, for which I thank you very much. It has worked wonders with my baby. He is not like the same child and is so fat. I wish I had known about it before. Since receiving your sample I am on the third 50c bottle. I thank the day I read your announcement. I will never be without it.
Mrs. Evelyn Matson,
516 Mill. St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Dr. Caldwell:
Will say that your Syrup Pepsin is O. K. I bought a $1.00 bottle and have taken it and it has helped me very much. Will keep it on hand in the future.
A. D. Parker,
Veedum, Wis.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. J. C. Brown, Millionaire, Tells of Great Wealth of Alaska.

Proper Safeguards Should Be Thrown Around Wonderful Resources.

Kansas City, Kan., Jan. 5.—Designing capitalists, who, in furtherance of their plans to monopolize the resources of Alaska, have recently sent broadcast the information that careful investigation has proven that the natural wealth of that country has been grossly exaggerated by Gifford Pinchot and his followers, will glean small comfort from the statements of J. C. Brown, a millionaire, formerly of Argentine, Kans., whose knowledge is based upon a residence in Alaska of more than ten years. Mr. Brown is now visiting his mother in Argentine, having left Nome, his Alaska headquarters, only a few weeks ago.

"The American people have no conception of the great wealth of Alaska," said Mr. Brown. "It is almost beyond human comprehension and the country is so vast that we who live there have only a vague idea of its greatness. It is a region of marvelous natural resources and future generations of Americans will have a heritage there of incalculable wealth. The annual output of gold alone at the present time amounts to $10,000,000. There is enough copper in Alaska to supply the world for years to come. It is one of the great coal fields of the world. The country is rich with oil and timber and the agricultural possibilities are wonderful. The greatest industry of all, however, and the one that probaly always will remain the greatest is that of the fisheries."

$865,000 in Ten Days.

Much weight is added to Mr. Brown's estimate of Alaska's wealth when it is remembered that he himself took $865,000 worth of gold out of his own mine near Nome in ten days. Receiving wages of something more than $86,000 a day has an educational effect as well as other advantages. Mr. Brown's knowledge of conditions in Alaska is quite different from that of those politicians, government officials and agents of corporations whose "thorough investigations" have been based upon a brief sojourn of a month or less in the interior. He has spent years there and has made a study of conditions and yet he modestly admits that his knowledge of the country is far from complete.

"I believe in the future of Alaska," said Mr. Brown. "It is going to develop. There can be no doubt about that. It will become a place to live—a place for permanent homes. In time I expect to see the whole Yukon valley, which is very fertile, teeming with homes. Rye, barley, hay, winter oats and all early maturing crops thrive there.

"The present agitation in this country regarding Alaska is undoubtedly good for this empire of the Northwest. It is attracting the attention of the world to the country and Alaska is certain to derive great benefit as a result. What we most need from the United States government is harmony among the United States officials in administering our affairs. The discord among them is retarding Alaska's development more than any other one thing. The government is now building highways in Alaska under the direction of the war department. These roads will be of inestimable value. Eight or ten geological surveys are kept busy during the open season in different parts of the country.

First Mayor of Eagle.

"The government also maintains an agricultural experiment station at Eagle, an inland city on the Yukon river, ten miles from the Canadian border. I was the first mayor of this town, which is 480 miles inland. The government is experimenting with crops that mature early. There should be a few more stations of this kind up there."

Mr. Brown said that the Alaskans believe the American government is honestly trying to improve their condition. One trouble, he said, was that government officials, in attempting to outline a policy, seem to be uncertain as to what is best to be done.

"We Alaskans do not want the capitalists to gobble up our country," he said, "but we do want capital to come there to develop it. Alaska should be protected from monopoly; yet capital should be protected also. Proper safeguards should be thrown around Alaska's wonderful resources and also around capital.

"I cannot emphasize too much the fact that what is true of one part of the country may be altogether untrue of other localities. It is impossible to generalize, because the country is so large. My personal interests are located at Nome and the Seward peninsula, and I have a more intimate knowledge of that section than of Southeastern Alaska, where are located the copper mines, coal beds and Controller Bay, now so much in the public mind. However, it is safe to say the region around Controller Bay is destined to develop wonderfully during the next decade."

How Big Alaska Is.

Laying the map of Alaska on that of the United States, it covers all of Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. It has a coast line of more than 6,000 miles.

"I am usually introduced as being from the Klondike," said Mr. Brown, "and I let it pass. But if you should start from Kansas City and I from Nome at the same time and race to Dawson, you would get their first. It is hard to realize the great size of the country. I do not think it can be handled successfully as one state. It should be conducted as at least three commonwealths."

Mr. Brown went to the Klondike in 1898 and in 1899 he transferred his operations to Nome, where he discovered a rich gold mine in 1904. Besides his mining interests there, he is president of the Alaska Telephone & Telegraph company, which operates about 1,000 miles of wires connecting the mining camps of the Seward peninsula. While equipped for telegraph service, the company as yet only conducts a telephone service. The company has its difficulties, the greatest being from sleet storms, which are prevalent usually in the spring. Perhaps as much as two miles of poles and wires will snap in the twinkling of an eye from the weight of ice. The poles are shipped from Seattle in the summer and the workmen "sled" them out in the winter. The holes must be dug through frozen ground, and, as there is no loose dirt to tamp around them, they are very unstable and are dislodged easily. But the climate does not always interfere with the company's interests, because when it is very cold, as it is much of the time, the lines "talk up" better than at any other time.

HAS NIGHT OF TERROR

Girl Missionary in China Got Rifle When Fighting Began.

Was Good Quaker But Now Bows to American Soldiers.

Willsboro, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The subjoined letter, received by Mrs. Michael Garvin of this place, from her sister, Miss Phoebe Wells, a missionary in China, will bring to Americans at home something like a full realization of the terrors of the revolutionary conflict in the far off Orient.

Foochow, China, Nov. 10, 1911.—My Dear Sister: The last two days and nights have been crowded so full of experiences that I feel as though I had lived an age. This afternoon while I am writing there is a battle going on down the river. I can hear the cannons. All about us every few moments are reports of rifles. Every time I hear one I know it means a life. A soldier from a gunboat is patrolling my compound. I used to be a good Quaker, but now, please take off your hat to every American soldier you meet for me.

I just stopped to get out all my extra bedding for the wounded who are being brought into the hospital. Last night terror reigned. The thieves and Manchus tried their best to set fire to buildings everywhere. There are forty pirate boats a few minutes' walk from here on one side and a lot of thieves and Manchus in the village on the other side.

Shook Up the Consul.

At first the soldiers from the United States army did not land excepting a few to guard the consulate and property in the city "because the other gunboats did not land any of their men." I patrolled our compound with my rifle. The rifle comes in all right. It stands by my bed at night. I wish I had some blank cartridges. Then things got too hot. I sent for the consul, and, figuratively speaking, took him by the collar and shook him. The result was in less than half an hour four soldiers came on the run. They are guarding our three girls' compounds, which are close together. They realize they have their hands full here. One came near being killed by a bullet. We are warned to not stand in line with the windows.

The climax came to us before the soldiers appeared. I stood on our back upper veranda and saw a small squad of our school boys go by. They are all armed. Just as they reached the corner of the street there was a wild cry. In a few moments it seemed like all the devils were let loose. I heard our boys cry, "Must kill! Must kill!" and then there was the clashing of sabres and the reports of guns. A desperate battle took place.

The Boys Victorious.

Fancy how I felt, not knowing what the cause was and having about sixty women and girls depending upon me for protection, and I alone with one little rifle. My heart stood still. Would our boys win? Boys in their teens who had never used a sabre or a gun! The boys came off victorious and eleven Manchus were laid out on the ground. Later six more were added. Then I sent for the consul and "shook him." He is young and inexperienced.

Up to that time not one man had come near my compound to advise or help. Neither had they come to the girls' school, where there are 150 girls. Later I learned the Manchus were caught in the act of setting fire to the buildings next to the bank. All night these battles went on. Yes, and last night again, for it is now the 11th, A. M.

Terrible Fires.

There were terrible fires near last night, and the revolutionists were out on the plain hunting the villages for the Manchus. There would be a circle of lights around a village and then lights within the circle; then we would see several lights gather in one place and could hear the gun reports. The Manchus know they are on the losing side, so women are killing themselves and their children, and the men are trying to do as much damage as possible first.

The city is taken by the rebels! The Tartar general was taken prisoner by boys, one of our schoolboys took hands and went in ready to die. The viceroy committed suicide, so they say.

When the Tartar general was told that there would be an uprising he laughed and said the rebels were "only schoolboys and it would amount to nothing." It was a joke on him to be captured by four small boys. The boys are redhot rebels and do the best fighting. I never would have believed what my eyes are seeing. They are doing their best to protect us.

Ah Tieng is in Shanghai, and I presume he is in it. Am afraid something has happened to him, for I have not heard from him since Shanghai was taken.

Two Act as Watchmen.

There is so much I cannot write. We have a letup in the day time, but the nights must suit the devil. Last night a man was killed back of our house. My cook and buyer act as watchmen. The cook is a strong man and he stays at the door all night. I won't forget their help very soon. The buyer stays outside of the compound and watches. Mind you, they planned this themselves. The cook, when he heard the first battle, ran and took a scythe I had and bent it nearly straight for a weapon. I wish they each had a good revolver. Would gladly pay for them if I could get them. We are in for a war that will last months, I fear.

Will write more later.

HELPS HER BASHFUL SON.

Picks Girl, Wins Her and Sets Date for Wedding.

Greeley, Colo., Jan. 5.—Declaring that her son was too bashful to seek a wife and stating also that she longed for a daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Paul, a member of a German neighborhood near here, is said to have gone courting for her son. She selected the buxom 18-year-old daughter of John Reitz, a neighbor, as her son's prospective birde.

The two young people were notified that it would please their families if the marriage were arranged, and though the prospective bride and bridegroom were scarcely acquainted they were not averse to their parents' plans. The wedding is planned for January.

The families, well-to-do, have decided that nothing will be spared to make the wedding festivities elaborate. The celebration will be carried out in accordance with Old World customs, and will continue for a week.

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 5.—Because he declared he had never heard of William Jennings Bryan, that statement temporarily deprived Charles Wallitsch of American citizenship, Judge Trexler, who put the question to the applicant, deferring action to give Wallitsch opportunity to post himself upon he perennial candidate.

HOW THE JAPANESE ALWAYS REMAIN SLENDER

PROMINENT SCIENTIST AND TRAVELER DISCOVERS LONG SOUGHT SECRET. REDUCED HIS OWN WEIGHT 100 POUNDS. NO ONE NEED REMAIN FAT NOW.

How to Reduce Fat One Pound a Day and Then Always Remain Slim. No Drugs, Medicine, Starvation Diet, Exercising or Apparatus Used. Finds Simple Home Treatment Works Wonders.

Arrangements Now Made to Have All Stout Readers of This Paper Receive a Free Copy of Dr. Turner's Wonderful Book "How I Reduced My Weight 100 Pounds."

On returning from a recent trip Dr. F. Turner, the physician, scientist and traveler, who has won fame and world-wide renown through his writings and scientific researches, accorded an interview to press representatives who were astounded by his loss of more than 100 pounds of excessive fat since they last saw him. They found it difficult indeed, to recognize in the slender, muscular and perfectly proportioned form of Dr. Turner today, the same man whom only a few months ago they knew as a semi-invalid, so enormously fat that he could hardly walk.

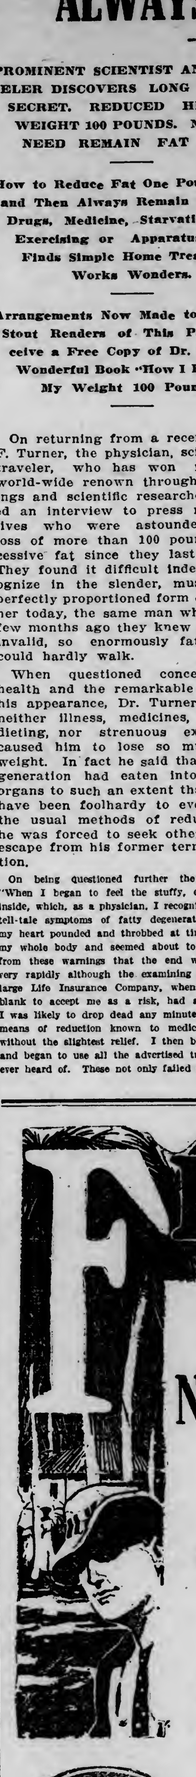

When questioned concerning his health and the remarkable change in his appearance, Dr. Turner said that neither illness, medicines, starvation dieting, nor strenuous exercise had caused him to lose so much excess weight. In fact he said that fatty degeneration had eaten into his vital organs to such an extent that it would have been foolhardy to even attempt the usual methods of reduction, and he was forced to seek other means of escape from his former terrible condition.

On being questioned further the Doctor said: "When I began to feel the stuffy, cramped feeling inside, which, as a physician, I recognized as the first tell-tale symptoms of fatty degeneration, and when my heart pounded and throbbed at times so it shook my whole body and seemed about to burst, I knew from these warnings that the end was approaching very rapidly although the examining physician of a large Life Insurance Company, when refusing point blank to accept me as a risk, had already told me I was likely to drop dead any minute. I tried every means of reduction known to medical science, but without the slightest relief. I then became desperate and began to use all the advertised treatments I had ever heard of. These not only failed to help me, but they did considerable harm, one nearly causing my death on account of the powerful drugs it contained. Although a physician, I am strongly opposed to the use of drugs in treating obesity. I have never known a case where they did anything but harm when used for this purpose. There are also treatments put on the market by persons who are without a physician's training, and I firmly believe that if I had continued one or two of the methods recommended by these ignorant, so-called advertising "specialists" I would now be in my grave.

"My discovery came about during my trip and in this way: When seeking data for some literary work, I found a reference to the manner in which the Japanese were said to easily overcome any tendency to take on superfluous flesh. It was easily apparent from observation that the Japs are comparatively heavy eaters and that their diet consists largely of rice, the most starchy and therefore the most fat forming of all grains. I had often wondered why, in spite of these facts, the natives of Japan both men and women, always present such a slender, trim, neat appearance. Although corsets are rare in that country, the women there have beautiful figures that any American woman might well envy, and the Japanese men have strength and powers of endurance that are proverbial. After diligent inquiry about the cause of this, I became more than ever convinced that they were using there in Japan methods of fat reduction and fat prevention far in advance of anything known to medical science in this country. As the finding of such a method was a matter of life or death to me at that time, I consulted numerous authorities and set about asking questions of those who would be likely to know anything about it. I am glad to say that my untiring efforts were finally rewarded by the discovery of a new means of fat reduction that I determined to give a short trial immediately. I was fairly startled to behold the wonderful change it made in my appearance, and the improvement in my health that was noticeable from the very first. My fat began to vanish at the rate of one pound a day, sometimes more. I knew I had at last discovered the secret that had been vainly sought for years, and I continued the treatment until I had lost more than 100 pounds in weight. I became stronger with every pound I lost, and soon regained all my old time vigor of both body and mind. It made me feel twenty years younger to be rid of all the fat that had formed inside and outside of my body. After discontinuing the treatment and keeping a careful record of my weight for more than two months, I was delighted to find that reduction was permanent, nor has my fat shown the slightest tendency to return since then.

"Can you imagine my ecstasies of joy and inexpressible relief, the tremendous load that was lifted from my mind, when after all my suffering I discovered almost by accident this wonderful secret method that enabled me to rid myself of 100 pounds of fat, and which transformed me from a hopeless, helpless wreck into a perfect specimen of physical manhood again. I have now been gladly accepted by the same large insurance company that previously rejected me."

Dr. Turner then went on to explain the treatment he discovered, and while anyone must admit that it is a highly logical method and undoubtedly effective to a wonderful degree, yet it is so simple that even a child can understand it and obtain most satisfactory results. Surely no stout person need any longer feel that he or she must remain fat now. Lack of space prevents a full description of the entire method here, but Dr. Turner has described it in a handsomely bound and extremely interesting little booklet entitled "How I Reduced My Weight 100 Pounds," and by special arrangement with the Doctor we are able to announce that these valuable booklets, while they last, are to be distributed absolutely free to those of our stout readers who are sufficiently interested to send a 2-cent stamp for postage. The books are sent in plain wrappers, and we are told that there are about 1,000 left. When these are gone, the Doctor may not have any more printed for some time, as he is planning another long trip, and will probably have no time to give the matter attention again until he returns. The Doctor's address is F. Turner, M. D., Suite 813B Clark Building, Syracuse, N. Y., and any requests sent there during the next few days will be given prompt attention. We urgently advise all of our stout readers to obtain this wonderful book and begin reducing weight immediately, as such an opportunity as this may never present itself again.

NOT RUNNING FREE BUREAU

Michael O'Connor Denies That 400 Men Will Be Given Jobs.

Fares Advanced Men in Some Cases—Order Already Nearly Filled.

False and misleading statements concerning the local employment situation, given publicity in the morning paper, have aroused the ire of Michael O'Connor, a local employment agent, C. H. Troyer, chief of police and the Associated Charities.

The story stated that "hundreds of needy unemployed men of Duluth" would be given employment through a local agent at the camps of the Alger-Smith company in the Knife River district, "where the company has decided to put big crews to work." The story also stated that "no agent's fee will be charged," and that fares would be free.

"The whole article is a falsehood and utterly lacking in truth," said Mr. O'Connor this morning. "I am not running a free employment bureau, as the morning paper would have it appear. It is true that I did receive an order for about 200 men from the Alger-Smith people, but most of the men have already been secured.

"As far as 'free fare' to the camps is concerned, I will say that the statement is misleading. I simply advance the fare and in some instances, the agent's fee. I receive money due me from the wages of the men. Agents' fees are charged, as a rule, and only in exceptional cases are they even advanced.

"Yesterday, I told Chief Troyer I had work for a few men in the Knife River camps, and asked him to send a few of the 'down and outs' over. I made the same request to the Associated Charities, the understanding in both instances being that the fare and fee were to be advanced and not remitted entirely."

Mr. O'Connor says that the Alger-Smith company is not opening any new camps and that the call for men at this time is nothing unusual and states that there was no occasion for circulating reports which would tend to bring idle men into the city to look for work. "It was with the idea of getting the idle men out of the city, that I called up the police and Associated Charities," said Mr. O'Connor.

Mr. O'Connor says that he expects to fill the order at Knife River some time today. Twenty-five men were sent this morning on the Iron Range train. Most of these were "down and outs" who have been looking for work about the city and lodging nights at the police station. Their fares and fees were advanced by Mr. O'Connor, who has an office at 411 West Michigan street.

REPORT ON HARBOR FOR YEAR 1911

hitherto untried methods of legal regulation. The general opinion which now prevails is that the 1912 trade of the lakes will be better and marine men say that prospects have already brightened.

Before the panic of 1907 most of the fleet of the Great Lakes was kept in operation from the beginning to the end of navigation. Since that time there has not been the same demand for raw material, such as iron ore. This winter some of the Eastern furnaces which have not run since 1909 opened and placed orders for ore.

Operated at Loss.

During 1911 only about two-thirds of the lake vessels were in commission, their carrying capacity being large enough to accommodate all shipments, whether grain, ore, lumber or general merchandise. Vessel owners, who in former years have depended on iron ore shipments for the bulk of their business, declare that many of the large freighters were run at a big financial loss and that others did not even fit out for the season.

During 1910, 7,463 vessels entered and departed from the Duluth harbor, while in 1911, the total arrivals and departures numbered 5,583, a decrease of 1,880 boats. The registered tonnage of the vessels entering and departing at the Duluth harbor in 1910 was 22,488,109, while during the year just closed it was 16,039,467, a decrease of 6,448,462 tons.

The heavy coal receipts and an increase in lumber shipments are the only redeeming features of the season. Duluth docks during 1911 received 2,446,364 tons of coal as compared with 2,259,276 tons during 1910, an increase of 187,088 tons. Salt was practically the only other commodity received at the docks that shows an increase over the 1910 receipts. During 1911, 275,237 barrels were received as against 259,258 barrels, the year previous, an increase of 15,979 barrels.

Duluth and Superior a coal distributing center for the great Northwest, received more coal during 1911 than ever before in the history of the docks. The figures for the Superior docks are not as yet available, but it is known that they will even outstrip Duluth, as there is more coal dock capacity on the Superior side of the bay. On both sides, docks are well stocked and interior shipments have been exceptionally heavy.

On the whole, the year was a fair one in the grain trade. In 1910 the total wheat shipments from Duluth docks amounted to 10,212,817 bushels. During 1911 9,535,090 bushels were forwarded, a decrease of 677,727 bushels. Barley shipments showed and increase of 167,000 bushels, rye 31,000 bushels; flax, 12,610 bushels and flour shipments an increase of 20,709 barrels. On the other hand, oats showed a slump of 740,000 bushels.

Early last year Eastern railroads had three rates for the transportation of grain from the lakes to the seaboard. They charged 6½ cents a bushel for grain shipped from Buffalo to New York for domestic use; 5½ cents for American wheat for export and 4 cents for Canadian wheat for export. About the opening of navigation, the rate for carrying American export wheat was cut to 4 cents to meet the competition of the Montreal Canadian lines.

Ore Shipments.

Depression in the iron ore trade cut down the shipments from the Duluth ore docks 6,600,809 tons last year as compared with 1910, when 13,473,064 tons were sent forward. The total iron ore shipments from Duluth amounted to 6,872,255 tons during 1911. Those who claim to be acquainted with the situation say, however, that much of the ore sent down the lakes during 1910 was unused by the blast furnaces and steel companies and lay on their docks all the year. In 1911, the mines sold about 15,000,000 tons more than the year previous. Much of this, of course, was from other ports. Many of the furnaces have been idle and the steel mills have not been producing their maximum output for years.

Iron ore is the largest carrying item on the lakes as far as Duluth is concerned and it has become proverbial that when the ore shipments show a falling off, that the season is a poor one.

Lumber shipments were heavier during 1911 than 1910 there being an increase in the shipments of 29,915,929 feet. In 1911 there were shipped 249,556,951 feet, as compared with 219,641,022 feet in 1910. There was an increase of 12,976,500 in the number of shingles shipped by the lake route during 1911 as compared with 1910.

As far as the underwriters are concerned, the last season will go down as a profitable one. They paid approximately $600,000 on claims, exclusive of the steamer North West, which was damaged by fire last spring at Buffalo.

The following tables show the shipments and receipts at Duluth docks and other data concerning the 1911 season of commerce; business done at Superior docks not being included in the figures:

FOR SICK, SOUR, BILIOUS STOMACH, INDIGESTION AND GAS TAKE CASCARETS

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means indigestion; a disordered stomach which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they cure indigestion, because they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended forever. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too.

crats stand just now in the position of the boy who spent all his money in the first hour of the fair and had to be a cheap skate for the rest of the evening.

Total of $50,000,000.

Representative John L. Burnett of the public buildings committee informs me that, so far as collated, the public bills introduced and referred to that committee foot up about $50,000,000. This sounds like a tidy sum but is not terrifying to the committee. One representative will introduce fifteen or twenty bills, and count himself lucky if one gets into the committee measure. The biggest single appropriation is one for St. Louis of about $750,000. The great mass are for small amounts of less than $100,000.

It will be hard for the committee to be as economical as it may have to be. There is a big bunch of new Democratic congressmen this year, and everyone of them will hate to face constituents with excuses for not having secured a new public building. It is all very well for the newspapers to sneer at the "pork barrel" but the average constituency is very charitable toward the spending of the public money—when it is spent among them. The hardest thing for a new congressman to meet next fall would be the murmur among the people of his district, "If we'd stuck by the old party we'd have got a new postoffice." The first term in congress is always the hardest to weather, and there will be a tendency to give the needy ones what they want.

No Building for Washington.

There will be no building for Washington in this year's bill, the committee having established the precedent that buildings for the capital city shall be treated as a distinct class. Under the plans for the beautification of Washington these buildings involve a cost so heavy as to burden down a general public building bill. The cost, however, is economy in the end, even aside from the dignity and beauty conferred by these new edifices upon the national capital. Today with a fair group of monumental buildings of its own, Uncle Sam is a heavy rent payer. Offices of the various departments and bureaus are scattered all over the city, often in buildings utterly unfit for their accommodation. The visitor to the city sees the exterior of or a few offices in the great public buildings and thinks them models of spaciousness and comfort. But every department has slopped over its proper place, and has rooms in business blocks, often half a mile or more away. Clerks work in crowded unsanitary quarters and records that could never be replaced are stored in the open corridors of buildings that are not even remotely fire proof. To correct this last evil a strong effort is being now made to induce congress to provide for a Hall of Archives in which the papers of the government may be preserved and properly arranged and indexed for the historian.

Greed of Land Owners.

Much of the delay in providing properly for the office needs of the government is due to the greed of land owners and office agents. That sort of thing began when Washington was first laid out. The real estate speculators of that day and later thought that Pennsylvania avenue would be the great street of the city — as it should be—and particularly at the end nearest the capitol. Accordingly, they bought up the frontage and waited. They are still waiting. The end of the avenue near the capitol is merely squalid. Save for one block in its whole lenght between the treasury and the capitol it is deserted by the better class of business. Of modern buildings erected in the last five years, only one, an addition to a hotel, is on what should be one of America's great streets.

The building of office buildings for which there can be no tenants save the government is a thriving business here. Three were completed during the last year, and Uncle Sam is dutifully moving in. Owners and agents for these buildings are not eager for new government buildings. This may be one of the reasons why the three edifices for the department of state, commerce and labor, and justice have not been begun, though authorized three years ago. The buildings condemned to make way for them are emptied of tenants and make a forlorn block on the avenue opposite the treasury, but there is no sign of construction, while new buildings for government occupation grow apace.

Of Miss Lizzie Carlin Who Died Recently in Superior.

Belle Plaine, Minn., Jan. 5.—About two weeks ago the body of Miss Lizzie Carlin was brought here from Superior for burial and relatives and others became suspicious, believing that foul play was the cause of death. The body was exhumed and the stomach sent to St. Paul to be analyzed. She was in god health and at the time of her death was making preparations to visit relatives in the Twin Cities.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

No case of contagious blood poison is ever cured until the last particle of the virus has been removed from the circulation. The least taint left in the blood will sooner or later, cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous and destructive symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper colored splotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. No other medicine so surely cures contagious blood poison as S. S. S. It goes down into the blood and steadily and surely drives out every particle of the infection. It absolutely and perfectly purifies the blood, and leaves this vital fluid as fresh, rich and healthy as it was before the destructive virus of contagious blood poison entered the circulation. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and other blemishes, the hair stops coming out, the mouth and throat heal and when S. S. S. has cleansed the system of the poison no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S. cures contagious blood poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven for more than forty years. Book on this disease with suggestions for home treatment, and any medical advice sent free to all who write.

FARGO CONCERNS TO CONSOLIDATE

Three Farm Machine Establishments Are to Be Run Together.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The consolidation of the local offices of the Rumley company, the Advance Thrasher company, and the Garr-Scott company, is said to be contemplated. E. H. Tecktonius of La Porte, sales manager for the Northwest of the Rumley company, is expected in the city to take charge of the consolidation.

The combination of these three farm implement concerns involves a capitalization of $22,000,000 and is an event in the machine manufacturing world.

LA CROSSE YOUTHS ARE BARRED FROM POOL HALLS.

La Crosse, Wis. Jan. 5.—The third reform movement went into effect yesterday and no boy under 21 years will be allowed in pool rooms after 6 o'clock in the evening. The adoption of the measure was found necessary because the pool rooms had been made the rendezvous for high school students and gambling had been indulged in.

CORONER MAY SUMMON PHELPS

Woman Suicide Charged That He Deserted Her for Another.

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 5.—A postcard picture of Mrs. Minnie Palmer, who killed herself with a pistol on the steps of the residence of Charles V. Phelps, the wealthy superintendent of the Chilmark estate, at Ossining, may result in a request by Coroner Fred D. Busse, asking Phelps to appear before the coroner's jury. The postcard was found in the dead woman's effects, and bore this inscription:

"Charles V. Phelps, Ossining, N. Y.: I hope you won't break any more hearts, as you have broken mine. I hope you and Miss Lamphier are happy. I hope and pray you will suffer as I have suffered before you die."

Another post card found on the body of the suicide bears a picture of Phelps, and on it is written: "I am in the way after living with this party sixteen years. Am broken-hearted. He has another. Electra Lamphier, from Ohio, has taken my place in his heart, so I expect I will be put out of the way, as I have been warned. I am ready and waiting. My heart is with him and no one else. Minnie Palmer."

Miss Electra K. Scribner, an 18-year-old student at the Ladycliff seminary, was a visitor at the Phelps home at the time of the tragedy. Phelps, who is 50 years old and married, denied emphatically that Miss Scribner was the woman referred to in the post card. He said Electra Lamphier was formerly a housemaid in his employ, but had returned to Ohio.

The Scribner girl, after the shooting, rushed from the house and sought refuge in the house of some neighbors. She claims to know nothing of the circumstances leading up to the shooting, and says she never knew Mrs. Palmer.

Mrs. Palmer was a woman of about 35 years of age. She always dressed as a woman in good financial circumstances.

TALKS ABOUT PUBLIC LAND

ate during the last two days. He will bring his campaign in the state to a close tomorrow with a speech at Danville.

Not Over Illness.

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 5.—Senator La Follette found the theater packed when he reached Bloomington at 10 a. m. today. Although still ill, he spoke for fifteen minutes. Asking the indulgence of the audience, he said laughingly:

"I am all battered up and scarcely able to get a thing through this old head of mine."

He paid a tribute to the late Judge David Davis of Bloomington, supreme court judge, and to Chester Powell, a former Bloomingtonian, now editor of a paper at Fresno, Cal., whom he credited with leading the battle for destroying the political power of the Southern Pacific railway.

The Public Domain.

Quoting a warning uttered by Judge Davis on the growth of corporations, Senator La Follette entered into a discussion of the encroachments on the public domain.

"It is a matter of notoriety, disgraceful notoriety," he said, "that corporations have been enabled during the last few years to exchange, within the limits of their grants, lands of little or of no value, at least of no present selling value, for timber lands of enormous value. It has been possible within the last few years to put through congress legislation permitting such exchanges.

"Is it to be marveled that the people of the country have waked up to a realization of their betrayal and demand some check upon those called upon to serve them who serve instead their own interests and that of others, and who betray the public?"

Could Run Government.

The speaker said that had the policy of leasing, abandoned completely by the government in 1845, been continued, "and applied to our coal, iron, oil and copper lands, and lands containing precious metals, with suitable provision and control, the revenue from that source alone would today be almost sufficient to defray all the expenses of our national government. And what is more important, the trusts and monopolies which now exist and threaten the welfare of all of our people would not have been possible."

ernment. He was questioned at length regarding the methods of accounting used by the company. Colby was in the wholesale jewelry business in the East until 1903, when he came to Chicago and obtained employment with the National Packing company as assistant secretary. Two years later he was elected a director and made assistant treasurer.

"Are you familiar with the business of the National Packing company?" asked District Attorney James H. Wilkerson.

"Only with the official and accounting end of the business," replied Colby.

Profit in By-Products.

By-products yield 97 per cent of the profits of the packing business, according to figures given by William D. Miles, formerly geenral manager of the Armour Packing company of Kansas City, who concluded his testimony yesterday. He gave the company's net profits for 1899 as $202,-875.18 in the dressed beef department, based on the slaughter of 204,820 animals.

An analysis of the figures given by the witness showed that the company made but 3 cents profit on dressed meat of every steer killed, while the fat of each animal yielded a profit of 42 cents. The profit on hides was 37 cents a head and 18 cents profit was obtained from the glue manufactured from the hoofs of each steer. The profit from the fat was fourteen times that yielded by the dressed beef. The money made from glue in the hoofs was six times as much as that made from the sale of the flesh, according to Mr. Miles.

BATHTUB GIVEN TO DUCKS

By Colorado Man and His Birds Win First Prize.

Boulder, Colo., Jan. 5. — To raise prize winning ducks, use the family bath tub, is the advice of a Boulder man, J. C. Brown. This Boulder man owns a number of ducks and he wanted them to be in good condition for the Boulder poultry show, but the cold weather came on and the ducks began to look shaggy.

Brown studied over the situation. Finally he gathered up his choicest ducks and took them to the house, where he announced to the family that they would have to return to the tub back of the range or use the kitchen kettle for their baths for he needed the bath room.

Filling the tub with water and placing the ducks therein he closed the door of the bath room, a broad smile wreathing his countenance. The birds won first prize.

ESCAPES DEATH BY LAYING OFF

Chicago, Great Western Fireman Puts on Sub and Train Is Wrecked.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Jan. 5.—By failing to go to work yesterday Fireman Fisher of the Chicago, Great Western, escaped death. It was Fisher's regular run but his place on the engine was taken for the day by a man named Hess of Clarion, Iowa. The train was wrecked and Hess killed.

OBITUARY

Col. John N. Calef, U. S. A., retired, who fired the first shot at the battle of Gettysburg in the Civil war, died in St. Louis, Jan. 4, of pneumonia. He was 71 years old and is survived by his widow. For many years he had been instructor in military colleges and for twelve years had been stationed at Fort Monroe. At the battle of Gettysburg, he was in command of the Second United States artillery, and the gun from which he fired the first shot is standing on the battlefield. He will be buried at West Point. His summer home was in Gloucester, Mass.

Warren Clark Johnson of Chicago, a factory inspector for Illinois, was found dead in bed at Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 4. Heart disease was the cause. Johnson and his wife had been visiting there since Christmas. The body will be sent to Ashtabula, Ohio, for burial.

Maj. C. W. Boutin, for several years custodian of the Iowa state house, died at Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 4, aged 72 years. Maj. Boutin, who served in the Fourth Vermont infantry during the Civil war, was many times promoted and was mustered out as a major of his regiment at the close of the war.

Capt. John Carley, formerly master of the racing yacht Norseman, owned by the late Ogden C. Goelet, died of paralysis at Newport, R. I., Jan. 4. When the prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, visited this country, he was a guest on the Norseman and presented Capt. Carley with an autographed photograph of himself, remarking that he considered the yacht the best disciplined boat he had ever boarded. Capt. Carley saw service in the Indian wars, and during the Civil war was a master of a naval supply ship. He was 78 years old.

Col. Charles Henry Morgan, former member of congress, who served five terms, four as a Democrat and one as a Republican, died at his home in Joplin, Mo., Jan. 4, following an attack of pneumonia. He was 69 years old.

Capt. J. C. Jorgenson, assistant librarian of the United States senate, died at his home in Washington, D. C., Jan. 4, from heart trouble. He was 60 years old.

Mario Rapisardi, a noted Sicilian poet, died at Cantania, Sicily, Jan. 4.

Philip Zorn, 74 years old, president of the Zorn Brewing company, died in Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 4, of paralysis. He came to America in 1854 and to Michigan City in 1871, when he founded the brewing company of which he was head.

ENGINEER PARALYZED WHILE RUNNING TRAIN.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 5.—While his train was pulling out of Dyer, six miles below here, last night, Oscar Grunt, an engineer on the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern road, fell paralyzed to the bottom of the cab. Before the train gained much speed his fireman discovered Grunt unconscious and stopped the train.

HOTEL AND SOME OTHER BUILDINGS BURNED.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 5.—Telephone advices from Corliss, seven miles west of here, state that a fire early today destroyed the Baldwin hotel, a two-story structure, and a number of smaller buildings. Early indications pointed to a widespread conflagration because of the high wind.

SEVEN-POUND BOY IS BORN IN CLEVELAND JAIL.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 5.—A seven-pound boy has been born to Mrs. Rose Dworkin, the Lawrence, Mass., woman who is in jail here charged with shooting and killing Jacob Horwitz, a Cleveland contractor, on Nov. 28. She claimed Horwitz caused the legal separation of her husband and herself.

Kills Actress and Himself.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Gladys Madden, 22 years old, an actress who has been appearing in small local theaters, was shot and killed yesterday by John Baker, who was enraged because the woman threatened to leave him. Baker then shot and killed himself.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—At the annual meeting of the American Reclamation Federation, Edmund T. Perkins was elected president and resolutions were adopted indorsing the bill of Senator Newlands of Nevada to reclaim arid, semi-arid, swamp and overflow lands. Plans for the National Drainage congress at New Orleans, April 10, were discussed and the following officers were also elected :

Isham Randolph, vice president; D. H. Anderson, secretary; W. F. Van Buskirk, treasurer.

MINOT NORMAL SCHOOL FIGHT TO BE SETTLED.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the normal school fight may be settled in time to make the construction of the school in 1913 a possibility is the object which a committee of five Minot bankers will attempt to bring about. That committee was appointed by President A. M. Thompson of the Minot Commercial club, in accordance with the action of that club taken at a recent meeting.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Resolved, That the Woman's Council extend congratulation to the mayor on his proposed amendment to the city charter, providing for a board of public welfare, and for a more humane and effective method of treating petty offenders by means of detention homes, work farms and other institutions of a similar nature; and that we do most heartily indorse the proposed amendment.

Second, That this organization thank the mayor for recommending to the city council the purchase of street receptacles for waste paper or other refuse which would otherwise be thrown in the streets; and that we do respectfully petition the city council to grant this request.

Third, That the Woman's Council do most cordially approve of the housing ordinance now under consideration, and urge its speedy passage.

Fourth, That this body begs the health board to take immediate steps to mitigate the nuisance of the so-called "bull-pen" in the city jail; it being, in its present condition, not only a menace to the health and morals of the people of Duluth, but a disgrace to the city's good name; and that we do respectfully suggest that this is a matter of too pressing a nature to leave until the board of control and the city council shall have arrived at some adjustment of their difference in regard to the nature of improvements to be made in the jail building.

Fifth, That this Council, in view of the possibility of losing Mr. Dinwiddie from the city and from the Charities and correctional work which he has so well organized here, do urge upon the Associated Charities organization and upon the public generally such additional energetic and practical support of the secretary and his work that he may find it possible to decline alluring offers from larger fields, and will remain in Duluth for another year at least; when the work here will have become more perfectly organized and more firmly established.

Sixth, That the Woman's Council respectfully ask the mayor to enforce the ordinance prohibiting the sweeping of refuse from store buildings into the streets.

Discussion of social center work in Duluth; adoption of the above resolutions bearing on important civic problems; a talk by Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour on the formation of a Duluth branch of the Drama league; the establishment of a free dispensary for the schools; the dance-hall problem; Associated Charities work; fresh air in the public schools and various other topics of interest were considered at the regular meting of the Woman's Council, held this morning at the library club, Mrs. J. L. Washburn presiding.

An effort to establish social centers throughout the city is to be one of the principal works of the Woman's Council this winter and a committee composed of Mrs. A. A. Kerr, Mrs. S. R. Holden and Mrs. E. W. Matter was appointed by Mrs. Washburn to work along these lines and do everything possible to promote the opening of schools and other public places for centers of amusement.

The plan is to offer good healthful uplifting amusement. The public dance hall which at present is felt to be such a menace to society, was the subject of discussion by Mrs. Kerr, chairman of the amusement committee of the council.

"Of course," she said, "the social centers will do away with the public dance halls in time, but at present there are these places and our work now is to make the conditions there as good as possible. The dance halls in Duluth are not licensed and they are under the supervision of police who are paid for their extra time by the managers of the halls. A more satisfactory plan would be to have the halls subject to a license and fee which would meet the expense of placing them under the supervision of the city police and take the supervision out of the hands of the managers entirely."

Regulating Dance Halls.

A resolution was presented to the council by Mrs. Kerr which was adopted authorizing the amusement committee to prepare an ordinance to the above effect and to present it to the common council. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of this council that at the present time the dance halls and skating rinks in the city of Duluth are permitted to be operated without a license, and that, with the exception of dance halls in proximity to public parks, no permission of any kind from the municipal authorities is required for the establishment or operation of such places of amusement, and

"Whereas, a proper police supervision of such places is necessary and entails considerable expense,

"Be it resolved, that it is the sense of this council that by enactment of proper municipal legislation the owner and operator of every public dance hall or skating rink should be required to secure a license therefor from the common council of the city of Duluth, that such license should be granted only to persons of good moral character, that such license should be granted only upon the payment of a fee by said owner and operator equal in amount to the cost of proper police supervision of the place licensed, that such license should be granted only upon agreement by the licensee to conduct the place licensed in an orderly and lawful manner, that such license should be subject to revocation by said common council at any time for breach of said agreement or for other cause and that from the fees paid by such licensees should be defrayed the expense of proper supervision of such public dance halls and skating rinks by the regular members of the police force of the city.

"Resolved further, that the committee on amusements of this council be, and hereby is, directed to prepare or cause to be prepared for presentation to the common council of the city an ordinance to the above effect."

This resolution had previously been indorsed by Judge J. D. Ensign, Mayor Cullum, Judge Windom, Judge Cutting, Dr. A. W. Ryan, president of the Humane society; R. D. McKercher, humane officer; Chief Troyer of the police department, the executive committee of the Duluth Commercial club and W. A. McGonagle.

Drama League.

Mrs. Seymour presented the plan for the formation of a branch of the Drama league in this city and told of the work of the league in the United States.

"Duluth," she said, "is known throughout the country as one of the poorest theater towns in the United States. We haven't an audience which will attend the best things and consequently we cannot get the best things to come up here.

"The Drama league gives knowledge of the best plays and by sending out bulletins keeps its members informed as to what the merits of the plays are.

"Just as the Matinee Musicale and other musically interested people have raised the standard of musical appreciation in this city and have created an audience for the best musical things so this Drama league will raise the appreciation in dramatic work and will create an audience for the drama."

She also spoke of the work of the Junior leageus and what they are doing for the young people along these lines.

Garbage Collection.

Municipal garbage collection, which has been one of the aims of the council for years, was spoken of by Mrs. Z. D. Scott, chairman of the garbage committee. It was decided to educate the public as to the benefits of this system, and to circulate a petition in certain sections asking for the municipal collection.

A vote of thanks was given to Dr. Webster of the health board for his activity in this matter.

In regard to the paving of the streets and alleys, it was decided to leave action on this matter to the men of the city, and it was also suggested that the investigation of the cutting of diagonal roads might result beneficially to the city.

A report on the civic banquet held at the Spalding hotel last month by the Women's council was given and a vote of thanks extended to Mrs. G. A. Elder, chairman of the committee in charge, the other members of the committee and to the Spalding hotel management for its services.

The establishing of a free dispensary for the schools in supplementing the work of the visiting physicians was discussed. Mrs. Watson, Mrs. E. W. Matter and Mrs. S. R. Holden were appointed as a committee to investigate this matter.

American Actress Leaves Her Titled Turkish Husband

PRINCESS HASSAN.

Olga Humphreys was an American actress. She was reckoned very beautiful and she had many admirers. From them she selected an Egyptian prince, Ibrahim Hassan, and married him. But she was not happy with the titled Oriental and recently she fled from his home in Paris and went to London. Now she has turned up in New York with the announcement that she will return to the stage. In spite of her stormy experience with the prince, she is still a beautiful woman. She advises American girls to marry American husbands.

SILVER TEA.

Miss Evered to Entertain for Guild.

Miss Anna Evered of the Evered flats will give a "Silver tea" Monday evening at her home for the benefit of the Silver Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church. An informal program will be given and all members of the guild and their friends are cordially invited.

The Silver Guild is one of the most active organizations in the city for its size. As a Christmas present to St. Luke's hospital a fine new invalid chair was purchased by the guild. New linens, furnishings, fruits, jellies and other delicacies are also among their donations to this hospital. The fund which they are now raising they expect to help in the furnishing of the new St. Paul's church which is under construction.

FRENCH DRAMA.

Henry F. Greene Talks Before Club.

Hon. Henry F. Greene, in his talk on "Modern French Drama" at the Unitarian church last evening, interested a good sized audience, made up of members of the Twentieth Century club and their friends.

The speaker commenced with a consideration of classic French dramas and discussed the plays of Racine; "Hernani" and "The Fool's Revenge," by Victor Hugo; Maeterlinck's "Mary Magdalene," and Rostand's "L'Aiglon."

Mrs. Henry Taylor, chairman of the department of literature of the club was chairman for the evening.

KEEP OUT CANTEEN.

W. C. T. U. Discusses Temperance.

That the canteen law should not be repealed is the opinion of the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of West Duluth. The members of this organization met yesterday afternoon at the Deaconess' home and discussed temperance work among the soldiers and sailors. Mrs. Alfred Jaques and Mrs. W. G. Smith were leaders for the afternoon. It was pointed out that the law had been instrumental in promoting the cause of temperance in the army and navy and the statement of the national president at the last convention in Milwaukee was quoted, that in the past two years drinking in the army had decreased by one-half

Arrangements for sending out comfort bags to the men in the woods were made. The women of the union will make the bags and send them out during the next two or three weeks.

During the social hour which followed the business meeting, Mrs. Ida Merritt gave several interesting readings which were very much enjoyed.

Twelfth Night Fete.

The elaborate Twelfth Night fete planned by the King's Daughters for this evening at the Spalding hotel will draw a large attendance of Duluth society folk.

The vaudeville program which will be given by local society people during the first half of the evening is unique and exceptionally entertaining, and the patrons have a treat in store for them. At the close of the program a supper will be served and following supper the guests who care to, will dance.

A committee of King's Daughters will be at the hotel this evening before the opening of the program at 9 o'clock and any who have not obtained tickets may get them at the hotel.

The officers and committees of the society are: President, Miss Esther V. Adams; vice president, Miss Jessica S. Marshall; secretary, Miss Ramona T. Hoopes; treasurer, Miss Marjorie M. Morrow; chairman of relief committee, Miss Mary W. Paine, and custodian, Miss Isabelle K. Patrick.

Entertainment committee — Miss Frances D. Swift, Miss May Jeffry.

THE EVENING STORY

The Emancipation of Jack's Kid-Brother

By Julia Holt Price.

"But, fellows, it isn't my fault. I asked her a month ago," protested Jack Cummings, pushing back his football lock and straightening his white tie.

"A fine lot of idiots we are to let a little snippy city dude get ahead of us," Stan Eldridge, the cynic, kicked a chair disgustedly. "Well, I know I'd have asked her, but I thought that Jack, being president of the club, ought to and—"

"Oh, say, Stan, cut it out. Don't you think it hard enough on me to see Miss Parker come with that runt from the city without you rubbing it in? I wish you had asked her just to see the way—" And Jack, loathe to linger any longer on the subject of his wrath had just turned to leave the boys' clubrooms when "Big Red" Emerson interrupted with a hearty—

"Well, well, little one, why all the excitement? What is it, Jack, old man? Have you given your frat pin to the wrong girl, or asked two girls instead of one to the dance tonight?"

"It takes members of the 'Lit' to get in a mess over the fair ones. So, cheer up, you aren't the only one. Last year I forgot which one I had asked and—"

"But it's no joke, Red, I'll tell you that. You see it's this way. All of us fellows wanted to ask Miss Parker to this hoe-down. You know Miss Parker, new math teacher up at high, dandy girl, too. But the other fellows sort of hung back on account of me being president. Well, I went up the very day we planned this blowout; asked her, and was sweetly informed that she was awfully sorry but she had promised someone else."

"Of course, we all know the 'some one else' is that little sawed-off thing from New York that she writes to," snorted Eldridge.

"Well, I'll admit that's pretty hard on you fellows," sympathized Red "But cheer up, it might not be the city chap after all and—Say, hold on there, don't mob me, I simply was trying to say that you had better make sure before you tie yourselves to the railroad track. How on earth would that city lad get ahead of you when you asked her the very day you planned the dance. Verily, the green-eyed monster has blinded you, Jack, old fellow. It must be someone in town."

"Hang it all! It can't be. Nobody but the bunch would dare ask her, and here we are cursing our luck and leaving our girls out there alone. Come on, fellows! we've got to do our stunt tonight and make this affair a success." Jack led the way into the hall, followed by the erstwhile grumblers, who were soon gallantly claiming partners—dainty laughing girls—for the first dance. All girls as well as boys, for the girls adored while the boys worshipped. Miss Parker, wondered when no Miss Parker appeared by the end of the first dance.

"Bet ten cents she's eloped with that city guy," Jack," piped Bud Mitchell, always ready to take a fling at an upper classman. But before Jack could answer he was aware of a stir of excitement near the front door.

"Gee whiz, fellows, here she is now! Isn't she a stunner! But look who she's with."

"Well, I'll be switched! It's the Kid."

"Why, Jack, I'm afraid our gallant leader is becoming doty, to be outdone by his kid brother." Red Emerson couldn't resist the temptation to take one shot at the astounded Jack.

"Does his mother know he's out, Jack?"

"This is one time he's put the card over his big brother."

"Wonder he wouldn't tackle a fellow his size."

Jack bore all these tantalizing remarks in silence, but when Stan Eldridge clapped him on the shoulder with a "Brace up old man, you can get a dance or two, anyway," Jack could stand it no longer and burst forth passionately—

"That's just the part that makes me sorest. The nerve of that Kid, who couldn't dance a step if he were wound up, to ask her! It will spoil her time and—"

"Not to mention some one else's, eh, old sport?" teased Red.

"Oh, well, there's no use in standing here and making ourselves worse than we've already been. They're tuning up for a two-step now. Get a move on and let's trip the light fantastic." And Stan having started, the others followed. All but Jack. He muttered something about "Darn lucky I haven't this dance taken," and stalked to the far corner of the hall to think things over. His plan of campaign was to seize Walter, as soon as Miss Parker started with her partner, and tell that impudent lad just a few things in a purely brotherly fashion. "The idea of a kid like Walter daring to ask her."

The music had started, and Jack's eyes riveted on the delicate, white-clad figure at the far side of the room, grew to twice their natural size when Miss Parker floated past under skilled and graceful leadership of the kid. Jack felt a sinking sensation in the region of his heart and a longing to go out into the air. He couldn't bear to talk to the fellows now; he wanted to think it out alone, so before the dance ended he went out to a secluded corner of the porch. His peace was but of short endurance, for in a few minutes he heard the rustle of skirts and the murmur of girlish voices near him.

"Did you ever see anything like it? I think he dances adorably; much better than Jack, and Dick says he just started to learn a month ago. And the way he took Miss Parker off right from under Jack's very nose."

"Well, it serves Jack right. He's always snubbed Walter and treated him so much like a kid that everybody thought he was nothing but Jack's kid-brother. I never knew he was so handsome till tonight. He is just—"

But Jack could hear no more, for the two light-hearted maidens had wounded deeper than they thought, that is, if they thought at all.

The thrust struck home and Jack felt the blood rush to his temples, and a hard dry lump stick in his throat. He turned and started toward the hall. "The fellows'll wonder where I have been and I don't want to make explanations. I'll take my dose."

"Jack," he felt a light touch on his arm. "Say, Jack, I knew you'd be awfully sore on me and I'm terribly sorry, but honest, I got so all-fired mad at being just 'Jack's kid-brother' that I wanted to show the fellows that I wasn't a cissy, that I could play their own game, and play it as good as any of them, too. I—but, Jack, I didn't mean to make you feel so bad. I thought I'd be glad to see you down and me up, but somehow it spoiled my good time."

"Here, old man, you've had your say, now it's my turn. I just want you to know that I've been the most conceited, all-round, darndest chump that ever happened, and I'm sorry, old chap! I'm proud of you tonight. Proud to call you my brother. Not my kid-brother any more—my pal—Let's shake."

As the two boys entered the hall, Walter whispered happily to Jack, "You're down on her card for the waltz. She's waiting for you out on the balcony overlooking the river. And say, Jack, she's all alone. So long."

ERICK ERICKSON KILLED BY TRAIN AT CHISHOLM.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Erick Erickson, well known in this city, where he has resided fifteen years and been employed at the various mines, was run over and killed this morning by a Great Northern passenger train at a trestle near the Shenango mine. Erickson was somewhat deaf and had a cap pulled down over his ears and evidently did not hear the train. He was alive when picked up, but died on the way to a physician. He received a deep gash on his skull and his chest was crushed in. He has a sister in Virginia and a brother in Minneapolis.

SUFFERING WIDESPREAD

Associated Charities Will Raise $1,000 to Care for Needy.

Many Families Destitute, Needing Food, Fuel and Clothing.

The extreme cold weather of the past few days has brought much suffering to the poor people of Duluth.

The need of extending help to unfortunate families is so urgent that the directors of the Associated Charities at their meeting at the Commercial club yesterday afternoon decided to raise $1,000.

The twenty directors were out among the business people this morning with subscription lists. W. E. McEwen raised $50 yesterday afternoon, and others reported good success.

Many are said to be suffering from the cold, having no fuel; others are suffering from hunger. It is stated that the situation is more serious than at any time in recent years.

It is thought that but little difficulty will be experienced in raising the money.

The county has had many orders for coal during the past week and in nearly every instance the fuel has been furnished.

The resignation of Courtaney Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities came up for discussion and it is stated that arrangements will be made to keep him in Duluth. He was recently offered a position at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The board of directors gave the city council a vote of thanks for its cooperation and financial help in keeping the rock pile open.

The directors indorsed the work of the W. C. T. U. at West Duluth.

The plans for a neighborhood house for West Duluth were also discussed and approved.

BOY SEVERELY SCALDED BY UPSETTING KETTLE.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Milo, the 4-year-old son of W. M. Roberts, was severely scalded last evening. Mrs. Roberts was carrying a kettle of hot water and the little boy ran into her and knocked the kettle from her hands, spilling the scalding water over his body and conceited, all-round, darndest chump that ever happened, and I'm sorry, old chap! Schiff Gives Cornell $100,000.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 5.—A gift of $100,000 to Cornell university by Jacob H. Schiff, the New York banker, is announced by President Jacob Gould Schurman. It is to be known as the Jacob H. Schiff endowment for the promotion of studies in German culture. It is given without restrictions.

$7,000 Barn is Burned.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin yesterday afternoon destroyed the $7,000 barn belonging to George V. dick on the outskirts of Cass Lake. A strong gale was blowing with a temperature of 28 deg. below made fighting of the flames almost impossible, although the firemen saved the modern milk house. The barn was considered the finest in Cass county.

DECREES IN TWO CASES

Victims of Cruel Treatment Set Free By the Court.

Few Divorce Cases Remain on Calendar for January Term.

Divorce cases occupied the attention of the district court again today.

On grounds of cruel treatment, Hattie E. Pratt, 35, was given a divorce from William H. Pratt, 36, by Judge Dancer.

Mrs. Pratt claimed that they were married at Virginia, Minn., March 3, 1910.

The plaintiff stated that her husband slapped her, called her vile names and on one occasion struck her in the mouth, knocking out several teeth.

Marie E. Olson alleged cruel and inhuman treatment in her action against Julius Olson and was granted a decree. Olson testified that her husband drank to excess, and, while under the influence of liquor, beat her.

For the last two years she has taken in washing and worked as a scrub woman to support herself and children, it was claimed.

Judge Cant is hearing the case of Matheda Johnson, 36, who seeks a divorce from Nels B. Johnson, 46, on grounds of cruel treatment.

Mrs. Johnson claims that her husband beat, choked, struck her and used vile language in her presence.

Marzella Dreger, 28, wants a divorce from Della Dreger, 29, on grounds of desertion. The plaintiff claims that his wife lived with him but six months, leaving him to enter a house of ill repute at Glendive, Montana. Judge Dancer is hearing the case.

Evelyn De Patie, 21, claims that Edward De Patie, 32, compelled her to become a woman of the streets. She asks a divorce. The plaintiff claims the husband demanded her earnings.

With the completion of the cases now being heard, the January divorce calendar will be finished, with the exception of one contested case.

YANKEE TARS IN FIGHT WITH MOROS

Sailors Seek Game in Jungle and Meet Head-Hunters.

New York, Jan. 5.—How seven American sailors fought and worsted a party of Moro head-hunters in the heart of a Philippine forest, leaving six dead, was told today by the crew of the Muncaster Castle, just in from a five-months cruise to the Far East.

"We were at Cebu, taking on a cargo, when seven of us thought it would be fine to spend a Sunday duck shooting," said Chief Officer Charles Bonner. "We could find no ducks, so we landed and dived into the jungle, thinking to bring down some sort of game, anyhow. We got into the jungle about three miles when a band of fifteen or twenty natives attacked us. We had rifles and shotguns, while they had only bolos, but in one attack one Moro got to near the head of Chief Engineer Lewis that he cut off the visor of Lewis' cap with a slash of his bolo.

"We killed six of those head-hunters. Every now and then one dropped as we covered our retreat to the shore with occasional shots. But it took us three hours to reach our boat."

Bustle Was Her Bank.

Portland, Me., Jan. 5.—Ten thousand dollars in currency so faded and worn that it will be sent to Washington for redemption has been found in a bustle that was worn for many years by Mrs. Mary Fassett, who died suddenly at her home in Hogden Mills a few days ago. None of the bills is of a more recent issue than 1886.

EIGHT ARE INDICTED

Grand Jury Makes First Report and Continues in Session.

May Harris is accused by the January grand jury of enticing two girls to enter houses of ill fame. There is a separate indictment in each case.

Eight indictments were reported by the grand jury to Judge Dancer this afternoon. Two of them are secret. No true bill was found against Elenor Torrence, accused of grand larceny.

Harry Carr, attempting to hold up Edward D. Ranck at the point of a revolver, was charged by the grand jury with attempted robbery, second degree.

Swan Dunbery is charged with destroying property owned by others. He shot two horses, the property of Andrew Nelson, it is claimed. The shooting took place at Grand Lake. There is a separate indictment in each case.

Lillie Knutson and Herman Knutson are accused of grand larceny, second degree. They stole $80 from Ole Roen, it is charged.

The grand jury is still in session.

JOINT MEETING OF WOODMEN

All Camps in Duluth Will Assemble Tuesday Evening.

Tuesday evening at Foresters' hall, the Modern Woodmen of all the camps of the city will hlod a joint meeting.

The meeting is the second of a series at which all the Woodmen of Duluth get together.

The joint meeting will be held under the auspices of Imperial camp. Several superior camps will be represented at the meeting.

George R. Laybourne will be chairman of the meeting. Speeches will be made by A. E. McManus and County Attorney John H. Norton.

The entertainment will include music, readings, speeches, lunch and cigars.

CHECK BABIES DURING SERVICE

Presbyterian Church Establishes Nursery for Convenience of Mothers.

If you want to attend the Sunday morning service at the First Presbyterian church and you have children too young to leave at home, take them along and check them in the church parlors. They will be well cared for.

The church has established a nursery which has been placed in charge of four women. Mothers who have remained away from services because of the cares of the children will not have that excuse. They may turn the children over to the volunteer nurses, attend the service, and be secure in the knowledge that their children are being cared for.

The First Presbyterian was the first church in Duluth to adopt the use of display advertisements to advertise its services. The feature just added is expected to further popularize the church and it meets with the approbation of those most concerned—the mothers of small children.

KAISER'S SON WILL VISIT AMERICA

PRINCE ADALBERT.

The third son of the kaiser, Prince Adalbert, is to visit the United States some time in 1912. He was born July 14, 1884, and is unmarried. The prince will probably follow in the footsteps of his uncle, Prince Henry of Prussia, as commander-in-chief of the imperial fleet. He is already an expert torpedo boat commander and an expert naval officer. He is expected to join the Western Atlantic station of the German fleet, which consists of one cruiser, which spends its time visiting the various ports of the West Indies and North and South America. He is expected to spend at least two years at this station. He is to join the station with the rank of lieutenant commander soon after the end of the period of training in strategy that he is now undergoing at the naval academy at Kiel.

GOAT MILK INSTEAD OF COW'S

That within another generation the goat will have become a real rival of the cow in American dairy farming, that goat's milk will have replaced to a large extent in many markets cow's milk as a food beverage and that American dairies will produce fancy cheeses such as are made in Switzerland, France and Germany is the belief of government experts and individual investigators who have been looking over the milch goat industry in European countries. These experts urge American farmers to test the possibilities of milch goat dairying in the United States, says the New York Sun.

The milch goat has contributed much to Switzerland's prosperity. Germany years ago followed Switzerland's example and her milch goat industry is now valued annually at over $60,000,000. In fact the goat has become 'the poor man's cow' in Germany. France is not far behind Germany in adopting the milch goat for dairy use; Austria, Italy and Spain have well established milch goat industries and England has become interested in the successful results accomplished there.

Not only is milch goat dairying profitable but furthermore the goat is pronounced less susceptible to tuberculosis than the cow; some authorities consider the goat entirely immune from the disease. Therefore goat's milk is safer than cow's milk. Goat's milk has long been regarded by physicians as a superior food for infants and invalids.

The milch goat industry in the United States has its largest development at present in Northern New Jersey near Palisades Park, where about 1,000 milch goats are kept for milk producing purposes. Italian immigrants have the credit of starting the industry at this place. Many people thereabout have come to prefer the milk of the goat to that of the cow. No effort has been made to operate these dairies on a larger scale than a score of goats and, as in Europe, many families merely have two or three goats for their own use.

In European countries those used to goat's milk consider it a misfortune if, by failure of supply, they are compelled to return to the use of cow's milk. The milk of the milch goat they say is richer, more nutritious and more palatable and has better keeping qualities than that of the cow. Used in cooking, its superiority over cow's milk is said to be quickly apparent both to sight and taste.

Experts of the department of agriculture believe the goat will be the biggest factor in solving the future milk problem of American communities. When the American farmer learns that he can keep from five to ten milch goats at the expense of feeding one cow, that the goats will get much food without cost to their owner from otherwise useless land, that the goats kept at the cost of feeding one cow will give probably twice as much milk as the cow and that the milk will sell at a higher price there will be a quick awakening of interest. These figures have been reported by various investigators in European countries.

The government is planning to try out the European milch goats on an extensive scale. The experiment from a business standpoint will be watched by agriculturalists all over the country, for such is its nature that the milch goat will thrive in practically every climate and altitude except regions that are excessively damp. A section of the big farm tract near Washington, recently set apart for the use of the bureau of animal industry, will be used for the goat dairy. A large herd of American milch goats is already on the plantation but the experts look for their greatest success from the thoroughbred milch goats of Switzerland, many of which will be imported. The value of the different breeds and their crosses under American conditions will be tested.

From the purely commercial standpoint European farmers have found the milch goat a far more profitable animal than the cow. As the so-called American milch goats are realy crosses of foreign goats with common or Angora goats in this country, there is no recognized standard of perfection in the United States. The scattered breeders in this country are endeavoring to unite upon such a standard for the American milch goat. For many years, however, Americans will probably find their greatest success in goat dairying with the Swiss breeds, notably the aristocratic Toggenburg or the big Saanen and Schwartzenburg goats.

Two quarts of milk a day is about the average record of the present American milch goats. Many of the Swiss goats give as high as five or six quarts a day and the average among Swiss thoroughbred animals is around four quarts. German agricultural writers assert that the milch goats of that country give ten times their body weight in milk a year, while exceptional specimens give eighteen times their weight. Experts of the bureau of animal industry at Washington believe that under scientific inbreeding, such as developed the thoroughbred milch cow, the milk output of the milch goat can also be increased.

The French government has done much to encourage goat dairying. Cheese making is the principal branch of the industry. At one estate near Lyons 12,000 goats are kept for the purpose of cheese manufacture. The goat cheese made in the vicinity of Mont d'Or, near the Swiss border, enjoys a world-wide fame. At this estate more than 15,000 milch goats are kept and the annual receipts from the business are said to be over $300,000. Americans know some of these foreign goat cheeses as Roquefort, Ricotto, Schweitzer, Altenburg, St. Marcellin and Gratarion. Fancy, high priced grades of condensed milk and infant foods are other products of these French goat dairying plants.

The milch cow industry in the United States is now rated at over $780,000,000. Even with these enormous figures the milk supply is insufficient, yet many farmers have given up the dairy business because of small profits. This gives an idea of the extent to which the milch goat industry in its various branches may possibly be developed in this country.

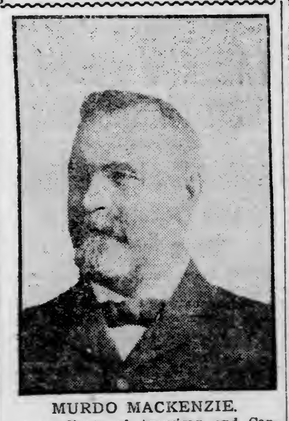

There is no part of the United States, except the dampest lowlands, where the goat cannot be successfully bred. The pine and scrub oak wilderness of South Jersey outside the actual swamp areas will make good pasturage; the abandoned farms on the rocky hillsides of many another Eastern and New England state will be even better suited for goat dairy farms, while thousands upon thousands of now useless acres in Southern states can be utilized. The Southern states, together with Southern California and other extreme Southwestern sections, have an additional advantage in the fact that their warm climate will make it possible to rear the Nubian milch goat, the greatest milk producer of all the breeds, specimens frequently giving two gallons or more a day. The Nubian goat will thrive only in a warm climate, although successful efforts have been made to cross it with hardier breeds, the resultant offspring maintaining the wonderful milk producing value while possessed of a constitution that can withstand almost any temperature found below the Canadian border when properly stabled.

Through careless methods of dairying some people have gained the idea that goat's milk possesses an unpleasant odor and taste and for that reason has rejected it. The same slovenly methods if pursued with a dairy of milch cows would just as surely ruin the milk supply for market use. Goat's milk, like cow's milk, will absorb strong odors and its taste will be affected often by the food of the animal.

There are scores of foreign writers and medical experts who advocate the use of goat's milk for infants and invalids. In fact there are sanitariums in France and Switzerland that give goat's milk a prominent place in their systems of care. The milk is specially recommended for infants because of its similarity in composition to mother's milk.

As regards the freedom of the milch goat from tuberculosis the late George F. Thompson, a government expert, suggested that it was due to the food and climate where the goats are found and the exercise obtained in roaming over the mountain sides. Whether domestication for successive generations will remove this hardiness only the future will show. Hulpert says that since the goat is much more healthy than the cow or sheep, tuberculosis attacks it very rarely and so its milk is much better than cow's and is especially adapted to use by children. From most other maladies to which a dairy cow is susceptible the goat seems to enjoy freedom, with the possible exception of the foot and mouth disease.

HEADS SYNDICATE TO START IMMENSE RANCH

MURDO MACKENZIE.

A syndicate of American and Canadian capitalists has been formed to establish in Brazil the largest cattle ranch in the world. The head of this concern is Murdo MacKenzie, former president of the National Stockmen's association. He will be paid $50,000 a year by the syndicate. The headquarters of the syndicate will be Sao Paulo. Like all other United States companies engaged in beef production in South America, the American-Canadian syndicate will not try to ship beef to this country, but will look to the European markets. They will not attempt to ship live beef, but the aim will be to produce chilled beef because South American livestock has been barred from the European markets for ten years because of the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease.

THE OLD SEA CLOCK.

To ascertain the time when at sea is now a matter of the utmost simplicity, and both passengers and crew can learn the hour of the day at a glance. But such was not the case in the old sailing days, and in order to acquire even the vaguest idea of longitude and time the seaman had recourse to curious devices.

Crude as these devices appear compared with present day instruments, they saved the mariner from chaos and destruction, and even if he could not name the hour with any degree of certainty, he at least knew the day of the week. Which must have been no small comfort when on the high seas.

Eclipses of the moon and the positions of the stars afforded a little guide to the skipper, who was nevertheless greatly handicapped by his lack of astronomical knowledge and the inferior quality of his spyglass. Moreover, eclipses could not be arranged for every night in the week, and there were dark nights when the stars could not be seen, so various devices had to be pressed into service.

The most popular form of old sea clock, says the London Globe, was the sandglass, which greatly resembled the present-day egg boiler. Many of these glasses were timed to run twenty-four hours, and prior to the ship leaving land the glass was set exactly at noon. If it were carefully watched and turned as soon as the sand ran down, the skipper could reckon the days with fair accuracy.

Side by side with the large glass were placed half-hour and minute glasses. The man at the helm carefully watched this old sea clock and announced the time at regular intervals by striking a bell. It was necessary to estimate the duration of any incident by so many glasses. "To flog the glass" was an operation very congenial to lazy seamen. It consisted in turning the glass before all the sand had run down, so that the watch was appreciably shortened.

When the twenty-four hour glass was employed a little juggling was indulged in for the purpose of finding the longitude. The difference between the twenty-four hour glass and the time by the sun was estimated, and this difference was held to represent the longitude east or west, according as the sun's time might be before or after the time returned by the glass.

"Taking the sun" was a weird and wonderful operation. Clumsy quadrants were utilized, and toward midday the captain appeared on deck to perform his solemn duty. After much screwing of eyes and waggling of the quadrant the captain would bawl out to the mate in omnicient tones: "Make it —— bells," the number varying according to personal idiosyncrasies.

A demand for a more satisfactory device for estimating time at sea was responsible for experiments being made with pendulum clocks of very rude design, though with little success. The interest of inventors was aroused when the English government in 1714 offered the sum of £10,000 to anyone inventing a method of reckoning longitude to within a degree, or sixty miles; £15,000 if within forty miles, and £20,000 if within thirty miles.

John Harrison, an obscure Yorkshire carpenter who had achieved a local reputation by repairing and cleaning clocks, came forward with a chronometer which at once attracted attention. Through the influence of Dr. Halley he was enabled to make a voyage in a government vessel to Lisbon, where he succeeded in determining the longitude to within 1 deg, 30 min.

For this achievement he was granted a sum of £500 to enable him to proceed with his invention. After thirty years' hard toil he produced a chronometer on which the present marine chronometer is based. His invention was shaped like a large watch, and in 1761 Harrison's son embarked for Jamaica in order to carry out tests. On the voyage out it was discovered that the chronometer was only 5.1 sec. in error and during the whole trip from Portsmouth to Jamaica and back the variation was only 1 min. 54.5 sec.

The accuracy of the chronometer thus enabled the longitude to be determined within eighteen miles, a result which exceeded the admiralty's most sanguine expectations. After further demonstrations an act of parliament was passed in 1765 awarding Harrison £20,000, half of the money to be paid as soon as he explained how his timekeeper was constructed and the remainder when the government was convinced that these timekeepers could be made by others. Despite the fulfilment of these conditions Harrison had to wait several years before the money was paid over.

Larcum Kendal, who had been Harrison's apprentice and who was ultimately his successor, followed on the lines laid down by his master and produced a chronometer which was used by Capt. Cook during his daring voyages in the Revolution.

Of this chronometer Cook wrote: "Our longtitude can never be erroneous while we have so good a guide as Mr. Kendal's watch." It was not until some twenty years after Srafalgar that the admiralty considered it a duty to supply chronometers to ships of the royal navy.

Various horologists have introduced so many improvements that little trace of Harrison's model is to be discerned in the modern chronomter, though to him must be assigned the credit of pointing out the way.

ABANDONS THRONE AND WILL LIVE IN LONDON

EX-SULTAN OF ZANZIBAR.

The young sultan of Zanzibar, whose abdication is just announced, will probably settle in London, of which he is extremely fond. He is well known in London society. He completed his education in Harrow and Oxford in England. The sultan, in spite of his Oriental ancestry and appearance is thoroughly European in his tastes. He has cultivated such sports as football, racket and tennis and is an excellent shot and horseman.

WANTS TO LEAVE THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

Samuel Adams, first assistant secretary of the interior department, is reported to have handed his resignation to Secretary Fisher. The reason given is that Mr. Adams wants to look after his law practice in Chicago, which has suffered considerably since his connection with the government. The first assistant secretary's duties are in connection with matters concerning or coming from the general land office, the Indian office, the reclamation service, the geological survey, the bureau of education and the bureau of mines.

A DOCTOR'S TRIALS IN ITALY.

The Lancet: "Morte al medico!" Such is still the cry of an ignorant, infuriated populace in various provinces of Italy—a cry arising from the fear that in taking the precautions dictated by the board of hygiene in presence of enteric disease the local medical authorities were actually causing the epidemic which they were striving to keep at bay. Not only in Sicily, with its chronic ignorance and superstition and its prompt recourse to personal violence, but within the Doman province, at the much frequented bathing resort of Nettuno, no less a man than the delegate of the Red Cross, Dr. Moscioni, was brutally assaulted and maltreated in the exercise of his humane mission.

Called to the bedside of a boy dying from gastro-enteritis, he endeavored to persuade the father and mother with three daughters to accompany him to the local lazzeretto for medical examination. The women consented but the father refused. While Dr. Moscioni was expostulating with him and had even won his assent a crowd gathered before the house and intercepted the doctor, the paterfamilias aforesaid and the hospital attendants on their way to the lazzeretto. They even tried to enter and remove the dying boy, whom they regarded as a victim of the doctor's "arte malefica." But the doctor, the attendants and the father were beforehand with them, and getting inside locked the door in their face. Savage cries of "Death to him! Death to him!" followed by volleys of stones, made the position desperate, when a policeman, knocking at the door, asked the doctor what he proposed to do. "Remain in the house till the crowd disperses" was the answer. But the crowd was increasing every minute, and the cannonade of missiles was breaking through the wooden window shutters, when suddenly a man forced his way through one of them, but was stopped by the doctor's levelled revolver. By this time the boy had expired, and the policeman, re-enforced with a company of carabineers got the doctor out of the house and made a way for him through the crowd. But the shower of stones was redoubled, and the doctor, struck on the breast and on the head, again drew his revolver, but before he could use it, got a blow in the face which stunned him and drew blood. At length a tramcar, passing opportunely, picked up the doctor and his escort and put him down at Porto d'Anzio, where he was at once attended to in the local lazzaretto.

This befell Dr. Moscioni in the discharge of his duty in the suburbs of Rome in the year of grace 1911—the fiftieth of Italy's unity and independence.

Now news arrives of an outbreak at Salerno, seat of the once famous medical school, where the fishing population, infuriated at the restriction imposed on the sale of oysters, mussels and other "frutta del mare," assailed the town hall and the sanitary office with violence that the local carabineers had to be re-enforced with troops of the line before the civic magistrates, municipal and medical, could regain their homes in safety. And all this in anticipation, if not in the actual presence, of cholera—an invader which, through tardy precautions, this time last year wrought incalculable loss to Italy's best interests, financial and social.

Water for the boilers of steam engines in France is now heated by exhaust steam. It economizes fuel more than 12 per cent.

Pilakoff-Ordemann Match Should Be Hummer—Palzer a Comer—A Sweet-Natured Fighter—Flynn and Johnson.

(BY BRUCE.)

WHEN Pilakoff and Ordemann meet in Duluth next Wednesday lovers of wrestling should witness one of the best contests that have been wrestled here the present winter, and this season we have been treated to the best contests and altogether the best shows that this town has ever had. Ordemann comes here fresh from his victory over Jess Westergaard of Des Moines. He comes here also with the distinction of a clean-cut victory over Charley Kid Cutler. He is the greatest American wrestler outside of the peerless Gotch and he is the first American wrestler to go after the big foreigners in straight matches. During the present season Duluth lovers of the mat sport—when that sport is conduced in a clean and fair manner—have seen Pilakoff in matches against Yankee Rogers, Charley Cutler and Zbyszko. The giant Finn beat Rogers, lost his match to Cutler after taking an awful gruelling, and was beaten by Zbyszko after a match that was the best ever witnessed here.

In his matches away from Duluth Pilakoff has beaten that husky invader from the East who sails under the name of the "Buffalo Butcher Boy" and Paul Sampson, the German Hercules, one of the best of the heavyweights that has come to this country the present season. The victory over Sampson stamps Pilakoff as one of the leading heavyweights of this country.

Duluth promoters are making every effort to have the toe hold cut out of the coming contest. Lovers of wrestling are divided as to their opinions of the fairness or unfairness of this hold. Some say that it is just as fair and as legitimate as the hammerlock; others hold to the contention that the toe hold is brutal and really no test of wrestling ability.

To date the manager of Ordemann, George A. Barton of Minneapolis, the well-known newspaper man, has refused to consider the barring of this hold. Barton claims that this hold is just as fair as the hammerlock and that it would be just as foolish to think of elliminating the arm twister as making a rule against the toe torture hold. The argument over this hold has not been finished as yet. Barton and Ordemann are due to arrive in Duluth next Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning, when, if it is not settled before that time, the final conference will be held on the question of the toe hold.

Young Miller will probably referee the match between Ordemann and Pilakoff. Miller may be anxious to get a look at Sailor Jack in action, and therefore fell in with the proposition of Barton that he be the third man in the ring.

It seems that Gustafson is not after all the real name of the boy who gave Sailor Jack such a battle at the last match. The name of the lad is Hakala. He has been wrestling a great deal at the Finnish Socialist hall, but the match with Sailor Jack was really his first public appearance here. Hakala and the marine will go to a finish.

SWEET nature and trusting belief and a busted pugilistic reputation! Some romantic writer on the coast pipes in with the story of the downfall of lumbering Al Kaufman. His version of the recent route is that Albert was too sweet to be a successful fighter. Some of us have believed long ere this that other causes led to the decline of the Teuton—but then it is no fair to hit a man when he is down. Mr. Kaufman was large and had youth and endurance; after that you had to draw on your imagination when you wanted to extend the list of pugilistic virtues.

If it hadn't been for the fact that Billy Delaney had him, the same Delaney who made two world's champions before he took the task of shaping the destiny of Kaufman, Al would never have been taken very seriously. He went along a number of years getting some easy money. When you come right down to it he never did beat any good man.

Perhaps Al is of a sweet and confiding nature—he should be, 'cause he's married now and his wife plays the piano. They say he hated to hit an opponent. It has been supposed for a long time that this was the result of a movement resembling the shambling gait and general movement of a bear carrying excess weight. But if all the little deficiencies come from Al's sweet nature and loving disposition, we are sorry and right here suggest that he join the uplift movement.

Any time, George, that you find a man with a sweet disposition in the prize ring, you have discovered a bleeting and frightened lamb among the rapacious pack of wolves. Reformed pugilists are sometimes found in vaudeville and fiction—but they are scarce and will bear watching.

YESTERDAY'S dispatch in The Herald told of more meekness upon the part of the national commission. Maybe someone has put some of the members of the commissionship to their short-comings. As a matter of fact the national commission is not considered any too seriously. It is all right for the two majors, for it zealously guards their interests. But its rulings in the case of other leagues have at times been a travesty on baseball justice. The world is growing bigger. Growth and progress are the watchwords of the age. An institution that does not grow is rather out of place. A concession to the minors, at least the three big minors, is something that the national commission should grant in the matter of safety. The big minors are getting rather peeved.

IOWA has produced the greatest wrestler in the world and has also produced some of the greatest corn in this country. Now the fertile state is on the way of producing the most promising white hope, though some say that the white hope has become extinct. Al Palzer the other night put the K. O. after the name of Al Kaufman in the little book and is now matched to fight Fireman Jim Flynn. There are so few white heavyweights at the present time that the first one that shows any kind of promise is greeted affectionately and offered a cigar. Palzer is only a youngster in years and never saw a pair of boxing gloves until six months ago. He is making progress and may be better than the rest of them who have been parading the past year or so. If he gets by Flynn we will have some hope of a white fighter out of the ordinary run.

PUEBLO JIM FLYNN and cleverness are as far apart as the poles. Yesterday's dispatches told of the contemplated engaging of three masters of boxing to instruct the Irish-Italian in the ways of avoiding being made a human target for blows. This is one of the press stories from the ever-working imagination of Jack Curley. But why the fight between Johnson and Flynn? The spade beat the Pueblo product on the coast and Tommy Burns also accomplished the same result. Sam Langford almost murdered James. It required camphor and a lot of patience to bring Flynn out of it. Then why the match?

Jack Curley is a clever manager and goes in for big things. He may get some of those impulsive Western promoters to stage the bout, but the dear public, at least that part of it that follows the fighters with knowledge as a rudder will take the fight as one of the jokes of the season. They might stage the go on April 1.

It is a very good bet that either Joe Jeannette or Sam McVey can beat the man from Colorado. Flynn is nothing more or less than a rough and tumble fighter. He is a graduate from the ranks of the rowdies. He is a set-up for Johnson. But let them go.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

JOHNNY BILLITER, one of the greatest little wrestlers in the game, successfully defended his title last night, winning from Henry Wirth, another of the little chaps who has a very good mat record. Billiter has been before the wrestling public for some time and he has wrestled some of the greatest matches that have been held during the past decade. Among the lightweights there is apparently no man who can hold his own with the present champion.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

NOW our old friend Jack Herman has come to the front with an answer to the Chicago promoters, it is up to the latter to come to the front and state their position. They are trying to keep the Pole out of the wrestling game in Chicago. They will have to go some. Herman is the cleverest handler of wrestlers in this country. He has forgotten more than the Chicago bunch ever knew. He has come out and offered to match Zbyszko against Yusiff Mahmout if Gotch will consent to meet the winner. A good move upon Herman's part. Put big Jess Pedersen in the pot and we will have the best men of the country. Let Gotch come out and declare himself.

MEL SHEPPARD TO RETURN TO ATHLETICS.

New York, Jan. 5.—Melvin W. Sheppard, the middle distance champion, has at last recovered from the operation performed several months ago for the removal of a growth on his neck, and will begin training this week preparatory to taking his place again on the track. He hopes to compete in the Irish-American indoor meet in Madison Square garden on Jan. 25, and following that occasion will turn his attention to getting himself in shape for the Olympic games.

Martin J. Sheridan, the discus champion, has also been on the shelf for three weeks or more. He is now tired of resting, and within a fortnight will start training for the Olympics.

Wirth Loses to Billiter.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 5.—John Billiter of Toledo retained his title as lightweight wrestling champion last night, defeating Henry Wirth of Chicago in a hard contest. After each man had won a fall, Wirth was disqualified for using the strangle hold, which was barred.

Elberfeld for Sale.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Kid Elberfeld will now be sold to the highest bidder. The Washington club would never have gone into negotiations for Elberfeld's sale to Chattanooga had it not been led to believe that it was pleasing the player by placing him there.

But since his salary demands are such that the Chattanooga club can not meet them the deal has been called off, and Manager Griffith will now sell Elberfield to any club that wants him, regardless of whether Elberfield likes it or not.

Elberfield drew $4,750 per season from the Washington club which paid New York $5,000 for his release.

THREE-FINGER MAN MAY QUIT DIAMOND

MORDECAI BROWN.

Mordecai Brown is threatening to quit baseball. While the three-fingered marvel is going back, he is still a great pitcher. He was the best on the Cub staff last season, and Chance has been counting on him for 1912. The question as to whether Brown will play next season is the big one in Chicago baseball circles.

TICKETS NOW ON SALE

FOR ORDEMANN-PILAKOFF MATCH

At Bob Blackwood's cigar store. There are 500 good ringside seats. Match occurs next Wednesday evening at the Auditorium. Sailor Jack vs. Gustafson. Avoid the rush by getting seats early.

MANLEY-McLENNAN EVENT POSTPONED

The Manley-McLennan curling contest between Duluth and Superior, originally scheduled for this vening at the Superior club's rink, has been postponed. The inability of a number of the Duluth curlers to play this evening was the cause of the postponment.

J. MacGregor received word today that the game would probably be played Monday evening. Many of the Duluth players believing that the game was to be played Thursday evening, as first announced, made other plans for this evening.

Big Wrestlers Matched.

Jess Pedersen and Yussiff Mahmout were yesterday matched in Chicago for a finish wrestling match. The contest will be decided upon the first of March and will once for all decide the wrestler ranking next to Gotch in this country. Pedersen has made a great record in this country and some of the critics have pronounced him the greatest of all foreigners.

Cornell Baseball.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Harvard and Michigan are dropped from Cornell's baseball list in the schedule for 1912, as announced yesterday. Twenty-five games are to be played, including home games and contests with Yale, Princeton and Columbia. The season will open April 13 and close June 19, when Cornell will meet Pennsylvania and Philadelphia.

ANOTHER VETERAN PASSES TO MINORS

CHARLER HEMPHILL.

For years Charley Hemphill has been a star in the big league. He has been one of the most consistent and timely of hitters, and has also been a clever outfielder. His sale to the Southern league, where he is to manage one of the teams, marks the passing of another veteran. Comiskey refused to waive at first, but later changed his decision.

CLASS AA IS RECOGNIZED

Minn. League Magnates Are Granted Every Request By National Commission.

Other Business of the Eighth Annual Meeting at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 5.—With the recognition of a class in minor baseball leagues to be known as Class A.A. and a revision of practically every section of the national peace agreement, the National baseball commission ended its eighth annual meeting here yesterday.

The visit of the hosts of minor league magnates to the meeting was not in vain inasmuch as they were granted everything that they requested of the commission. The class A.A. will be ranked between the two major leagues and the Class A league and will be composed of the International league, the American association and the Pacific coast league. Like the major leagues, the class A.A. league clubs cannot sell players except for immediate delivery.

This rule does not bind the leagues of a lower classification however.

The drafting season, which has heretofore opened on Sept. 1 will in the future open on Sept. 15. The season for purchased players will close Aug. 30 as formerly. The first five days of the drafting season from Sept. 15 to Sept. 20 will be given over to the major leagues exclusively. Two days will then be allowed to elapse and the class A.A. league clubs will have a 10-day drafting season. Then the leagues of the lower classification will have their season in the order of their classification.

One of the principal changes in the agreement was the price to be paid by major league clubs for minor league players who are drafted. It follows: To Class AA, $2,500 instead of $1,000; Class A, $1,500 instead of $1,000; Class B, $1,200 instead of $750; Class C, $750 instead of $500, and Class D, $500 instead of $300.

Class AA league clubs are permitted to draft from any league of a lower classification, including the Class A, provided the latter class clubs have not lost a player by draft to the major league clubs.

The limit of the number of players which can be carried on the reserve list was also revised, as follows:

Major league clubs, 35; Class AA, 30; Class A, 28; Class B, 26; Class C, 24. No regulation was made for Class D leagues.

From May 1 to Aug. 20, major league clubs are restricted to twenty-five players, while the restrictions in the minor leagues are:

Class AA, 20; Class A, 18; Class B, 16; Class C, 14. No provision was made for Class D.

Heretofore the National association of minor league clubs paid an annual assessment to the National commission of $1,000. This was done away with upon recommendation of President Johnson of the American league, and in the future the commission will stand the entire expense of running itself. This is the result of the healthy receipts from the recent world's championship series as well as the inter-city series which were under the auspices of the commission.

Another rule which has a bearing on all minor league players was passed at the request of the minors themselves. It holds that no major league club be allowed to pass a player who is under a probationary contract more than 25 per cent of the salary he received from the minor league club from which he was claimed. In regard to this it was explained that the players frequently were given a huge salary for the forty-five days of probationary play with the major leagues, only to be thrust back into the minors and become dissatisfied over the much smaller salary there.

Hereafter all major league ball players and clubs will be prohibited from playing exhibition games in minor league towns without the consent of the home club while the same rule applies to minor league players and minor league clubs playing in major league territory.

August Herrmann, president of the Concinnati Baseball club, was re-elected chairman of the commission; John E. Bruce of the St. Louis club of the American league was selected as secretary, while Joseph Flanner was chosen as secretary to the chairman of the commission.

J. H. Farrell, secretary of the National association, in speaking of the changes, said: "The commission awarded every request made by us, and I believe that we have bettered conditions among the minor leagues over 100 per cent. There will not be a minor league man in the country who will not be elated over the result of the meeting.

Chairman Herrmann of the commission said:

"The requests made by the minors were fair in every case."

AA MAGNATES ARE FAVORING PETITION

The following article by Frank E. Force, former president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, gives some light on the atitude of American association magnates toward the request of Duluth and Superior for permission to enter the Twin Cities:

"Mike Cantillon, after a short stay at New Richmond, is back in the city and will leave tonight for Chicago to attend the annual meeting of the American association on Saturday. Naturally the election of a president for 1912 is one of the most important things on the schedule for the meeting and at this time it looks as if Tom Chivington would be named to lead the league another year. Charley Moll and George Rice have been mentioned and either may pull through, although it would appear that Tebeau has the situation well in hand and that Chivington will be elected.

"Work on the schedule for 1912 will be taken up and this schedule business may cause some little discussion, as the date list of last year did not suit the Minneapolis and St. Paul clubs. We had too many games away from home early in the season, with a resulting large number in the Twin Cities later in the summer and Messrs. Cantillon and Lennon will protest against such a repetition in 1912.

"The entrance of a second league into cities of the association will also be discussed and this may be acted upon favorably. Naturally association magnates desire to be slow in any action which will set a striking precedent, but they have shown themselves to be open to argument and they must realize that continuous baseball in the cities of their circuit cannot do their own clubs harm.

"Minneapolis and St. Paul are both very favorable to the proposition and as practically every club in the league seems to feel about the same there is a great possibility that the resolution covering the matter will pass. If this occurs Superior and Duluth will purchase their release from President Bierce of the Minny league as it now exists and a new organization will be formed. Winnipeg, too, will purchase her release from the Canadian organization of which she is now a member and thus the new league will start with Minneapolis, St. Paul, Superior, Duluth and Winnipeg as members. If the Wisconsin-Illinois league desires to enter Milwaukee of course it will have the first chance, but if it does not avail itself of the opportunity then the Beer City may be included in the new league. This failing, Grand Forks appears to be the best city in the near Northwest, and undoubtedly will be very acceptable to the other cities of the organization."

A. W. KUEHNOW MENTIONED AS HEAD OF NEW LEAGUE

Even before there is any definite assurance that Duluth and Superior are to get into Twin City territory the busy hum of baseball politics has started. Some of the more steeped in the juice workers are already casting about for a president of the new league—should it be formed.

A. W. Kuehnow, it is intimated by politicians, can have the choice of the new league, should the Duluth land man give any encouragement in the use of his name.

When John A. Elliott refused to accept the renomniation for the Minnesota-Wisconsin league presidency, the place was unanimously offered to Mr. Kuehnow. He could not see the future of baseball in the league as it was then formed, and he frankly told the various club owners so. Mr. Kuehnow has for several years worked for the Twin City invasion, as he believes that a league composed of the Twin Cities, Duluth, Superior, Winnipeg and several other cities, would prove a paying proposition.

Al Kueknow is one of the pioneers in baseball of this section of the country. He is familiar with the game from all its angles. If the new league is formed Duluth is entitled to the presidency. Some of the politicians have hit the old truth on the head when they named Mr. Kuehnow. He would make a good president and there is no doubt but that he could secure the election.

While fans up here have been given some cause to hope for the admission to the Twin Cities, there is nothing at all certain. The meeting of the A. A. magnates is scheduled for tomorrow. It is said that several of the A. A. club owners are favorable to the admission of several of the smaller leagues into the American association territory. Politics is very apt to change things at the last moment. There is nothing sure at all; hope only is to be played for show or place.

But—always but—if the league does come into materialization, it is Duluth that should have the head of the league. The headquarters of the league should be here. A. W. Kuehnow looks like pretty good timber.

Flynn After Johnson.

Pueblo, Colo., Jan. 5.—Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, left here yesterday for Chicago to join his manager, Jack Curley, confident that on Saturday they will close the deal for his meeting with Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion.

THE NEXT VICTIM FOR THE CHAMPION

JIM FLYNN.

Pueblo Jim Flynn is the next victim for Li'l Artha, according to the press dispatches. The black and white contest is scheduled for the West, where divorces are also secured. Those who study fighters do not concede the fireman a chance against the black wonder. It is doubtful if Flynn can lay a glove on Johnson.

BIG DULUTHS WIN.

Catholic Athletic Club Is Easily Defeated at Indoor Baseball.

The Big Duluths had little trouble in winning from the Catholic Athletic club at indoor baseball last evening. The clothiers took the contest by the score of 11 to 0, the C. A. C. never having a chance. The hard hitting of the clothing merchants coupled with the glut-edged fielding of Harris was a combination altogether too much for the C. A. C. aggregation. Lingwall, Gollinger and Schultz did some excellent base stealing for the clothiers.

ADAMS BEATEN BY JEFFERSONS

East Enders Win Opening Game of Indoor Baseball, 7 to 5.

In the opening game of the Auditorium Baseball league the Adams team was defeated by the Jeffersons by the score of 7 to 5 in one of the best indoor baseball games seen here for a long time.

The East enders got away to a six-run lead in the first inning and were never headed. After the disastrous opening round the Adams men settled down and played good baseball. But the wildness of Foster in the early stage of the game cost the triple A players the game.

Jones sent sixteen of the Adams players back to the bench via the whiff route. He pitched a steady game throughout.

Last night's contest marked the inauguration of the new indoor league at the big Auditorium. The first game proved an auspicious opening and augurs well for the success of the league.

HAS OPTION ON DES MOINES CLUB

Thomas P. Fairweather May Manage Club the Coming Season.

Sioux City, Iowa, Jan. 5.—Thomas P. Fairweather, former president of the Sioux City Baseball club, who returned to Sioux City from Chicago yesterday afternoon, said:

"Although it is probable that I will be in charge of the Des Moines club this season, the matter is not settled yet. I have secured a fifteen-day option on the Dest Moines franchise. The option begins on Monday. I am going to that city on Monday, and if the prospects are encouraging, I will exercise the option that I secured in Chicago."

TEAM NOW UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

President McAleer of Boston Team Proceeds to Cut Down Expenses.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 5.—The new management of the Boston American league baseball club organized with James R. McAleer of Washington as president; Robert McRoy, treasurer, and Former President John I. Taylor, vice president. Gen. Charles B. Taylor and J. H. Turner, attorney for the club, were made directors.

President McAleer said the number of scouts would be reduced and that in conformity with the resolution adopted last fall by other clubs, Boston will have but thirty-five men on the payroll. This will necessitate the discharge of some of the present men.

Joseph Quirk, who has been with President McAleer in St. Louis and Washington, will act as trainer for the team.

PAT DOUGHERTY IS GOING TO MINORS.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Pat Dougherty, once one of the most formidable sluggers in the major leagues, is due to slide back to the minors. Though Charles Comiskey is willing to hang on to him for a while longer, Manager Jimmy Callahan says that the White Sox need young players and is satisfied to let Dougherty go to some minor league town for the coming season.

Dougherty fell into the background last year when Callahan proved he could "come back" and play the same kind of a game he did before beginning his outlaw career here with the Logan Squares. The black-haired gardener warmed the bench for many weeks and got a chance to play only when Callahan was injured.

When Dougherty broke into the major league he was with the Boston Americans. He was a wonderful base runner and his short, choppy singles over the heads of the infielders brought many a victory for Jimmy Collins' outfit. When he came to the White Sox he was still the same old Pat, fast on his feet and a wicked man up in a pinch. His fielding never was startling, however, and when he began to slow up in 1910, efforts were made to find his successor.

FOND DU LAC CLUB MAY BE MOVED

Wausau Fans May Purchase Franchise and Enter Wisconsin-Illinois League.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Jan. 5.—A member of the board of directors of the Fond du Lac baseball association is in receipt of a letter from President Moll, of the Wisconsin-Illinois baseball league, saying that he has just returned from Wausau and that present indications point to the purchase of the Fond du Lac franchise by that city within a few days.

It is understood that the Wausau fans are waiting for a reply from the traction company of that city as to the amount of assistance it will give to the enterprise, before closing the deal.

Moll Is Candidate.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—Charles F. Moll, president of the Wisconsin-Illinois baseball league, who is in St. Paul, has announced that he is a candidate for the presidency of the American association. While Mr. Moll's name has been mentioned with the position, this is the first time that he has announced his candidacy.

Football Is Profitable.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 5.—The University of Wisconsin's football season of 1911 returned $28,095 in gross receipts, it has been announced. The heaviest receipts were at the game with Chicago, $16,476, an attendance of 13,500. The expenses have not been computed.

Leopold Is the Winner.

Juarez, Mex., Jan. 5.—Leopold, under Borel's good ride, won the mile handicap here yesterday in the fastest time of the meeting, 1:38 2-5. Lopold made the pace and won under a drive by half a length. Flying Wolf proved an easy winner in the fifth event.

REFUSES TO TESTIFY.

Chicago Girl Who Charged Theft Is Kept in Jail.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Defying the circuit court and Judge Lockwood Honore to compel her to take an oath or affirmation to testify in a robbery case in which she originally was the complainant, Hazel Hogan, 24 years old, is in the county jail, and will remain there, the court announced, until she has changed her mind and decides to testify.

Miss Hogan caused the arrest of Dr. Irving Sisinger, James Hogan, Jerry Mack and Curtin R. Young on a charge of robbing her of $1,706. Without the girl's testimony, the state's attorney said, a prosecution would be unsuccessful. The girl said she would "stay in jail all her life" rather than testify.

BIGGEST MAN IN THE WORLD DEAD.

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 5.—Leonard (Baby) Bliss, reputed to be the largest man in the world, was found dead in his home yesterday. He had not been seen about the place for several days and neighbors made an investigation, finding his frozen body seated in a chair in his nightclothes, with gas escaping from a gas stove. It is believed he arose several nights ago to get warm, and in some way accidentally opened the jet.

He was born near this city on May 4, 1865. His dimensions were as follows: Height, 6 feet, 4 inches; waist, 72 inches; hips, 86 inches; chest, 66 inches; thigh, 42 inches; calf, 27 inches; collar, 21 inches; hat, 7⅝; socks, 12½; shoes, 13; weight, 540 pounds.

Bliss was known in Europe as well as America, having toured both countries as a salesman for a bicycle factory sixteen years ago. He was also at various times with circuses. Last summer he spent several weeks on the road with a "fat men's" ball club.

ON THE IRON RANGES

COLLYARD ALLEGES HE IS MADE "GOAT"

Accused Hibbing Saloon Keeper Claims That He Is Being Persecuted.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Collyard, proprietor of a saloon, who pleaded guilty Wednesday of keeping his saloon open on Sunday, June 4, 1911, and paid a fine of $25 and costs, was arrested yesterday on a charge of keeping his place open on Sunday, Oct. 4, 1911, and secured a continuance until next Tuesday afternoon.

Collyard has retained counsel and announces he will carry the case to the highest court. He alleges that he has been chosen as a goat by the Oliver Iron Mining company, against whom he brought suit to recover for a quantity of liquor destroyed by the Oliver police last May.

"I will fight this case to the last court," he said. "Why should I be singled out from among the sixty or more saloon keepers for keeping open on Sunday. I believe the Oliver Iron Mining company is behind this prosecution. Last summer during May I sold to an Italian customer of mine at Kelly lake two cases of beer, three gallons of whisky and eight gallons of Italian sour wine to be used in celebrating a christening. The liquor with meat and provisions of all kinds for the christening feast was being hauled to Kelly's lake in a wagon, when near the Abbott-Scott mine on the county road the rig was stopped by the Oliver police and the liquor confiscated. A short time after that I presented a bill to the officers of the company for the goods and it was refused. About two weeks ago I sued to recover. I have refused an offer to settle for $20."

Another Version.

Another version of the affair alleges that Collyard had been suspected of furnishing liquor to blind-piggers at the locations and had been warned to keep off the premises of the Oliver Iron Mining company, who have been particularly active in the suppression of the pig evil at the locations in the Hibbing district and over the Mesaba range, that he persisted in his operations despite repeated warnings and that this prosecution is in line with a determined campaign the company is making to wipe out the pigs and generally instill in the minds of those engaged in the business of furnishing liquor to the piggers and bootleggers a due regard for the majesty of the law.

MINING OUTLOOK DECLARED BRIGHT

Many Small Properties Around Hibbing Expected to Be Worked.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Indications for mining activity in the Hibbing district are more promising at present than for the corresponding period of 1911, and local business conditions are looking up considerably as a result.

From reliable sources it is learned that within a few weeks a number of the smaller mines now idle in this vicinity will be working and development work will begin at several others. Material is on the ground for development work at the Kabacona mine, near Buhl, and it is expected a small force of men will be put at work there this week. It is also said that the operating forces at a number of other mines will be increased in the near future.

BETTER ROADS ARE DISCUSSED

Eveleth Commercial Club Would Reach Out for More Trade.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Better roads to the growing district in this locality constituted the bulk of the discussion at last night's annual meeting of the Commercial club when officers were elected and many matters considered. Solomon Sax told of a trip to the farming country about Wallace, Zim, Forbes and other agricultural points where settlers are desirous of coming to Eveleth to trade. Neil McInnis told of the work being done by the county board promising Eveleth would be afforded better connections with Wallace this year. He also referred to the proposed Virginia-Wolf road and told how the annual county appropriation for roads is divided among the commissioners. He spoke of the good lands that adjoin railroads which are unsettled because the companies ask prohibitive prices for them.

The Elwell road bill also was discussed and a trunk road from Eveleth to Zim to tap the agricultural settlements was talked of, the state and county to defray one-half of the expense and the city the other. Solomon Sax, State Senator James P. Boyle and John J. Gleason were appointed a committee to investigate. County Mine Inspector W. H. Harvey suggested that the route between Wolf and Virginia be changed to Eveleth.

Range Clubs Banquet.

Secretary A. E. Pfremmer was instructed to communicate with secretaries of range Commercial clubs and farmer clubs requesting them to send delegations to attend the good roads meeting to be held here the middle of next month. John J. Gleason, John Glode, Alderman George A. Perham, State Senator James P. Boyle, and Dudley W. Freeman, were appointed as a committee to make plans for the gathering and set the date. A banquet will also follow the regular routine work and it will likely be held at the Glode hotel. The following officers were elected: President, J. C. Poole; first vice president, J. J. Gleason; second vice president, J. A. Robb; third vice president, Neil McInnis; secretary, A. E. Pfremmer; treasurer, Solomon Sax.

TACONITE PACER RUNS AWAY ON ICE

Plunges Along Nearly a Mile and Is Headed Into Snowdrift.

Taconite, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—An accident, which might have proved fatal happened Wednesday when Mr. Phillips' big brown pacer ran away with his driver, John Trigg, who is training the animal on the ice at Prairie river. The horse was frightened by a falling tree, and became unmanageable. The animal dashed for over a mile down the ice until Mr. Trigg was lucky enough to steer it into a deep snowdrift, that checked its speed.

OTTERLEE AGAIN CHOSEN CHAIRMAN

Peter Johnson Also Re-elected Vice Chairman of Lake County Board.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake county commissioners met Tuesday in annual session. All the members present.

The old officers were re-elected; Hans Otterlee being chosen chairman, and Peter Johnson of Beaver Bay, vice chairman. The board adjourned Tuesday evening to meet in adjourned session Jan. 20.

CHANGE IN SERVICE

On Iron Range Between Tower and Ely.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commencing Monday next, train No. 61 on the Iron Range, will leave Tower for Ely at 7:10 a. m. and arrive in Ely at 8:40. Passengers will be taken on at Tower depot instead of at Tower Junction as formerly. Heretofore, this train has been leaving Tower Junction after the morning passenger went south.

Duluth & Iron Range locomotives Nos. 48 and 53 have been leased by the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway. Knife River, to be used during the winter months in the log business on the latter road.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. E. Lister, superintendent of the Mesaba Telephone company was elected president of the Commercial club last night, succeeding N. B. Arnold, who retired. Listers last year was chairman of the publicity committee and booster. W. J. Archer was re-elected secretary; William Rooney, first vice president; Alexander Reid, second vice president; Douglas Greeley, treasurer; Andrew Hawkinson, A. B. Coates and N. B. Arnold, trustees.

Reports were presented showing the club to be in prosperous condition. L. H. Griggs, Andrew Hawkinson and M. Boylan were appointed a committee to interview the county board next Saturday and urge the completion of the Wolf road.

PLENTY OF WORK AROUND TACONITE

Although Holman Mine Has Small Force, There Is Much Logging.

Taconite, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the Holman mine is running with a low force there seems to be plenty of work around town. Several logging companies are working with full force in the vicinity. M. Van Wave, a general contractor, has six teams working and the Phillips Logging company have a crew of men working building camps and cutting ties. They are building the camps very substantially and intend to use them in the spring when they'll have a crew clearing land, as there are rumors afloat that the loggers will start a stock farm, and do some extensive agricultural work in this section of the country.

Roach & Delich are building an addition to their meat market and will soon be able to take care of their customers in good shape.

Come From Germany.

The Hahn family arrived from Schnappe, Germany, last week. They intend to take up a homestead and settle in the Prairie river district.

The ladies' aid society has planned for an entertainment in the town hall next Saturday.

Several Taconite people are now in Florida. Al Regal, who left here a month ago, reports that the climate is fine down there. James Mason and Frank Bask are also in Florida, while the McHale family is spending the winter in Los Angeles.

The phone hall in Holman is being fixed up for the coming season. It is now conducted by Charles Gorrell.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP TICKET IS NAMED

Virginia Aggregation Proposes H. J. Durenberger for Mayor.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Public Ownership party has decided upon the following ticket for the coming municipal election: H. J. Durenberger, mayor; W. O. Snyder, W. F. Earhart, J. G. Mattala, aldermen-at-large; C. M. Jackson, municipal judge; R. C. Sermon, treasurer.

The party polled 250 votes in the school election last July.

RANGE MINISTERS' MEET.

Next Gathering of Association at Gilbert Monday.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Range Ministerial association will meet here Monday morning at the First Presbyterian church, President Neff of Virginia, presiding.

Rev. B. D. Hanscom of Eveleth will speak on "The Application of the Effect of the Men and Religion Forward Movement on the Range," and Rev. Mr. Barrnett of Virginia will speak on "What Was the Healing Power of Christ."

Luncheon will be served at the home of Rev. George W. Turner of the First Presbyterian church. It is probable the February gathering of the association will be held at Eveleth.

LEONIDAS SUNDAY SCHOOL

Will Be Organized Next Sunday By Mr. Rutty.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superintendent Charles Rutty of the M. E. Sunday school classes will organize a Sunday school at the Leonidas location, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, at the Leonidas school.

The Leonidas location is showing a rapid growth and it is very likely that in a few years a church will be erected there.

COMING FROM GERMANY.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Julius A. Hanson, wife and daughter, left Tuesday for Winnipeg, Can., where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Hanson having secured a position in a large mail order house.

Word has been received from Fred D. W. Thias, that he and his family will leave Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 6 on the George Washington, and they expect to be home in this city about Jan. 16.

Mrs. Thomas Owens and daughter, Maybel, left Monday night for Oshkosh, Wis., to visit with relatives for about ten days, when they will be joined by Mr. Owens on his return from Cleveland.

WALKS LONG DISTANCE THROUGH BITTER COLD.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adolph Shellander, a lumberjack employed by the St. Croix Lumber company, may lose both hands as the result of freezing them while walking to town from Camp 15, a distance of thirty miles with the thermometer 35 deg. below. He was overcome by cold and lagged behind his two companions, who after getting warm at a house returned and found him in desperate straits, then brought him here.

EVELETH WOMAN BURIED.

Fellow Employes of Her Husband Send Flowers to Funeral.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. K. Kusma of the Adams location who died Monday at the St. Mary's hospital, Duluth, was held this morning from the St. Patrick Catholic church, Rev. Father T. Culligan officiating. Interment was made at Virginia.

The deceased was of Polish nationality, 21 years of age, and is survived by her husband and three small children, the oldest 3 years of age.

The deceased's husband is employed as locomotive engineer at the Adams mine and his fellow employes sent a large wreath of flowers to the funeral. Mrs. Kusma's parents reside at Chisholm. Mrs. Kusma was a resident of Eveleth for sixteen years.

WILL BREED HOGS.

Popple Man to Embark in Business Extensively.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Caldwell of Popple, while here stated that he is going into the hog business on a considerable scale this year. He figures that owing to the high price of corn, oats and other feeds raised in this section, all of the farmers will sell their feed instead of feeding it and sell off their hogs, which will make the market strong next year. Mr. Caldwell has about one hundred brood sows and some thoroughbred boars which he is wintering, and he says that he has enough feed to keep them and their offspring until he gets his corn crop so he can feed it, and that he will make some money on his hog venture. Mr. Caldwell has one of the largest and best developed ranches in the northern part of the state.

FRIGID AT VIRGINIA.

Thermometers Register 45 Deg. Below This Morning.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local thermometers registered 45 deg. below zero this morning, with a sharp northwest wind.

HORSE STEPS ON STICK,

It Flies Up, and Driver Is Cut in Thigh.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Passard was brought to St. Benedict's hospital Wednesday, suffering from a cut in the thigh, received in a peculiar manner. He is employed with his horses in a logging camp north of Deer River and was fixing something about his whiffle-trees, when one of the horses stepped on one end of a sharp stick, bringing the other end up violently and striking him in the right thigh.

James Garner of Laurence Lake was brought in yesterday suffering from a badly lacerated arm, which was caught in the saw on a wood sawing machine.

HIBBING BURNS CLUB MAY BE REORGANIZED.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The anniversary of the birthday of Robert Burns this year may be made the occasion for the organization of a Burns' club. Loyal Scots are planning a get-together meeting for Burns' birthday at which time the matter will probably be taken up.

TO SELECT DELEGATES TO TWO GATHERINGS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special meeting of the Itasca County Agricultural association has been called for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the village hall, to select a man to represent the association at the annual meting of the Minnesota State Agricultural association in St. Paul, Jan. 8.

At the same time credentials will probably be given to the party selected to attend the state association meeting to attend the State Federated County Fairs meeting, which will be held on the evening of the same day at St. Paul.

BIWABIK ADDS TO FIREMEN'S EQUIPMENT.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another addition has been made to fire fighting equipment in the form of a combination hook, ladder, hose and chemical sleigh. The apparatus and equipment on the wheeled truck will be transferred to the new sleigh which provides for 1,000 feet of hose and racks complete with standing boards full length. This will facilitate matters considerably.

MARRIAGE LICENSES IN ITASCA COUNTY.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk of Court I. D. Rasmussen as follows: Victor Maki to Kustava Erickson, Trout Lake; Olaf A. Lind to Miss Emma Sjolund, Jessie Lake; Andrew Roses to Mary Morisette, Deer River; Russell Gay to Sophia B. Behrmann, Grand Rapids; Fritzof Larson to Alina Nystrom, Keewatin; Edward J. Accused Evelethians Discharged.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The nine Italians charged with destroying the Jackson street police booth and disturbing the peace, were discharged in municipal court by Judge E. Moylan, as little evidence was presented against the defendants by Patrolman Louis Acceforo, the complaining witness.

LAYING WATER PIPE.

Thief River Connecting Up East Side With Business Portion.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water department is laying a ten-inch water main in the bed of the Red Lake river, to connect the East side with the water system in the business section. For several years the East side has had less than ample fire protection and it is the determination of the council to place the property owners living there on the same basis as the rest of the city.

The new $50,000 auxiliary power plant will be ready to connect with the old power house Feb. 1. One unit of 250-horse power will be installed immediately and the second soon afterwards. The new power plant is situated at the foot of Second street. The fire department will also be stationed in the power house and all city property, so far as possible, will be concentrated there.

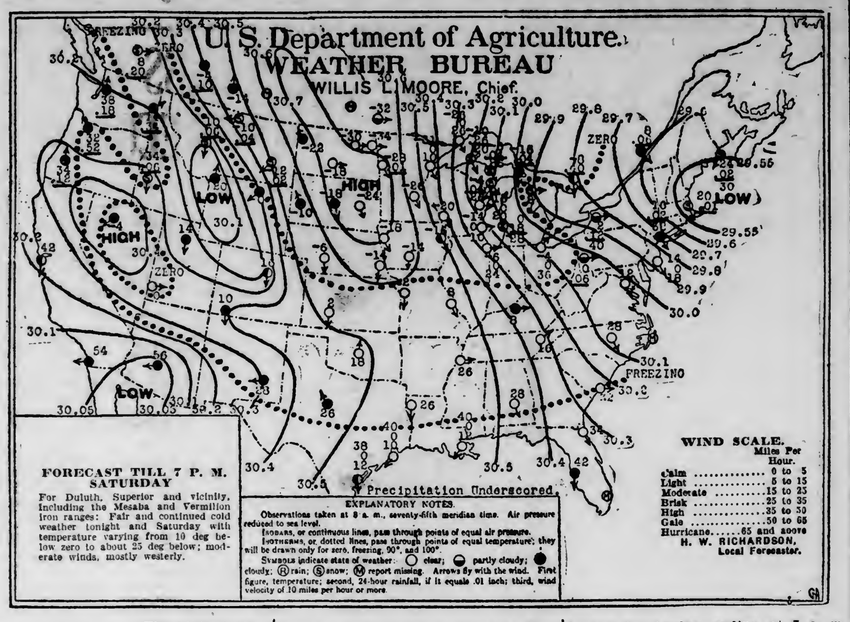

NORTH DAKOTA BAPTISTS IN ACTIVE CAMPAIGN.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Baptist convention has made application for a charter and will carry on an aggressive campaign for more education along Baptist lines and for more Baptist Sunday schools in the state.

Great Northern Cutting Ice.

Sandstone, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A big crew of men arrived here Wednesday morning and began preparations at once to harvest the annual crop of ice for the Great Northern Railway company. They cut the ice in the pond just above the dam and have machinery for doing the work in a hurry.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

CONTINUED COLD

The highest temperature yesterday was 12 deg. below zero and the lowest this morning was 32 deg. below zero. There may be times when Duluthians are content with their crisp, cold winters and do not long for the balmy breezes of California or Florida, but this is not one of the times. Duluth will continue to freeze for two more days at least.

Duluth was having a touch of weather a year ago today also. The mercury wandered down to 23 deg. below zero.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:33 this evening, giving eight hours and thirty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Severe cold weather continues throughout the whole Northwest, including the Lake region and the Ohio, Upper Michigan and Missouri valleys. The coldest temperatures vary anywhere from 20 to 36 deg. below zero in Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Western Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Conditions are not very favorable for any material moderation of the present low temperature at the Head of the Lakes before Sunday, unless by about that time the Northwestern high pressure moves sufficiently southeastward to permit a shift to easterly winds here. Disturbances centered off the New England coast and over Wyoming respectively caused snow or rain from the Lake region eastward to the North Atlantic coast and over Montana, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia during either Thursday or last night."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Wisconsin and Minnesota—Fair and continued cold tonight and Saturday.

Upper Michigan—Snow flurries tonight and Saturday.

South Dakota—Increasing cloudiness with probably light snow tonight or Saturday; continued cold.

Montana—Snow tonight and Saturday; colder in west portion; cold wave in southwest portion tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures varying from 5 below to about 30 deg. below zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

EVELETH POLICE CHIEF WHO IS REAPOINTED

JOHN T. FARLEY.

EASILY BREAKS A SEVERE COLD

Also Ends All Misery From the Grippe in Just a Few Hours.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

DOCTORS WILL LOCATE HERE

Electro Medical Doctors Are Very Favorably Impressed —Decide to Establish Sanatorium.

Head of the Lakes Best Suited for Doctors—Duluth May Become Mecca for Sick and Afflicted.

Duluth may possibly become a site for a big sanatorium. The doctors are among the greatest of medical scientists and have eliminated things which have been thought to be indispensable in the armamatum of physicians. Modern medicine has robbed charletans of power supreme and divine they claimed to have, but no one can deny (doctors of all schools included as well as Christian Scientists), that diseases have diminished very much in spite of all human efforts to conquer them. In the last twenty years the world has gone mad over the results of operations. The knife has been the ideal for most physicians. Christian Scientists, osteopaths and even the "bakeoven" have tried to substitute something better for the knife, but no one can deny the fact that diseases are as numerous today as they ever have been.

Duluth possibly may get one of the best curing plants that exist in the world. The Electro Medical doctors, as the name implies, are an association of medical experts, who have spent many years of their lives to find ways and means to cure human ills without danger to life, without the usual pain which patients always have been subjected to when going to a doctor for treatment. The Electro Medical doctors are men who have passed the stage of experiments long ago. They come with a record of thousands of cured patients. Their system of healing is the most marvelous in the world. In explaining their methods of treating old and stubborn diseases they say that they have worked out electric power to a degree of perfection in the application of chronic diseases of men and women. Instead of using the knife in some diseases or to subject the patient to kneading and other contortions which are as painful as a dentist's operation, they apply the tremendous Radio-X-Ray machine power to the afflicted parts of the body which is so strong that diseases vanish in almost no time. Instead of giving obnoxious medicines and dope to the patients, they give electrical power in a new way. It contains thousands of volts, which shoot through the body and break up the poison radicles which are the cause of pain and disease. During this process of treatment it fills the body at the same time with vital power, which is health, strength, vitality itself, so that disease is cured without the slightest danger to life or pain.

The doctors may open their office within a few days as soon as they have installed their machinery and fixed up their office, which will be announced in the daily paper.

Develop Your Bust

50c Package FREE to Any Woman Who Wants a Beautiful Figure.

Woman need no longer be humiliated and embarassed because they are thin, flat chested and not developed, for science has found a simple way to give the beautiful curves of a perfect figure. To prove this, let us send you free of charge a 50c package that will show you how easily the bust can be developed from two to seven inches, and become full, plump and firm. This discovery, that is of such vital interest to all thin women, is the result of long study and investigation by one of the leading women physicians in New York State, who, in seeking to overcome the defects in her own figure without the use of "pads" or forms discovered a happy combination of tissue-building elements that increased her bust some four inches, made her arms round and shapely and her neck and shoulders plump and symmetrical.

This prescription of Dr. Catherine Kelly's is a real discovery on far different lines from the ordinary figure developing treatment, and this explains its almost uniform success.

Dr. Kelly not only gained a beautiful form by her own prescription, but used it successfully with many of her patients. Women, this is a personal message from a physician of your own sex, and all we ask is the opportunity to show you without any expense on your part, that Dr. Kelly's Form Developer will give you a perfect figure, beautiful complexion and improve the general health. Send the little coupon above and 10c for expenses, and a 50c treatment will be mailed at once in plain package. Write us today. DR. KELLY MEDICAL CO., Dept. 445AB, Buffalo, N. Y.

Every Woman Has a Right to Be Beautiful

(Annie Bly in The Graphic.)

"A clear, soft and satiny complexion is every woman's right. It can be achieved by rubbing your face, neck and arms gently each morning with a solution made by dissolving a small original package of mayatone in a half-pint of witch hazel. This is a true complexion beautifier and prevents growth of hair.

"It is a mistake to wash the head, for in addition to danger of catching cold, soap and water take the life out and leave the hair dull and brittle. Dry shampooing keeps the hair soft, wavy and beautifully lustrous. Put a cupful of corn meal in a fruit jar and mix with it the contents of a small original package of therox. Just sprinkle on the head and brush through the hair. It brushes out easily and takes all dirt with it.

"A woman with a cold is not an attractive sight. Furthermore, colds lead to catarrh. The best remedy for sore throat, colds, catarrh, croup, etc., is Mother's Salve."

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

31

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ¼ cup shortening; about ½ cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

GREAT ERA OF PROGRESS

Woman Socialist Says Next Quarter Century Will See Industrial Revolution.

Insurgent Rose Water No Cure for Great Social Plague.

"We are entering on the greatest era of progress the world has ever seen," said Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard of Los Angeles, in an address to the Socialists of Duluth last evening at 416 East Superior street.

"The next quarter century will see the full transition into a new era of industrial freedom.

"The elections throughout the East prove that the party members are learning how to reach the voters. That is all that is necessary now. Evidently public sentiment is ripe everywhere for the Socialist point of view and methods when the Socialists locally solve the problem of getting themselves on the map in the people's mind.

"Whatever the dominant politics heretofore, the voters are equally hungry for something definite and for policies facing toward fundamental remedies.

"Insurgent districts respond rather more hungrily than those in the clutches of old-line politics.

"The people are turning to the Socialists, not in reaction from local graft or stupid stand-pattism, as is claimed, but because the Socialists alone know the principles involved in today's issues and have courage to face future issues with frank avowal of their purpose.

"The Bryans and La Follettes have excused their failure to give any fundamental solution by saying the people were slow to move and could not be urged too fast. These same 'slow people' will soon be so far ahead of their 'leaders' that the latter will not be able to get within hailing distance of the rear of the procession. The time is ripe—is rotten ripe for change. This is a fact blazoned on the pages of every day's experience. He who runs not only may read, but must read.

Rose Water For Plague.

"Whoever imagines that insurgent rose water can be palmed off as cure for the plague as the people knew it to exist, is much mistaken.

"Even in local campaigns with an abundance of immediate issues, the crowding audiences listen more eagerly for our large, world-wide principles than for the local promises or arrangements.

"Not one voter in ten but is ready to enter the Socialist ranks when convinced in two directions. They want to know first that Socialists are en route to a rational, practical solution of big world problems; and second, that they have the requisite common sense to meet next step issues without convulsion or Utopian folly.

"Convinced on these points, the majority of citizens will welcome the opportunity given by the Socialists to begin at once the task of striking shackles off an enchained people.

"The main upshot of the philosophy is this: That a political party must represent united economic interests. They say: 'You might just as well think that oil and water will mix, as to say that you can always be equally just to all kinds and conditions of people according to their ideas of justice. People whose ideas are directly opposed; people whose economic interests are utterly at cross purposes cannot be treated with equal fairness. It is utterly impossible' And so the Socialist party everywhere frankly says: 'If we must choose, if there is any division of interest, if it is not merely a question of social weal and human welfare, then it is the workingman's interest we regard first of all. We say that when the workingman's interest is provided for, then the general uplift is taken care of, you have taken care of all humanity. When you have reached the least fortunate strata, the productive side of society, you have penetrated and reached all society.'

Who Constitute Working Class?

"This word 'workingman' is not, of course, taken narrowly. Anybody who is not independent financially comes in this class. And the number of intellectual proletariats, as they call them, the people who have no labor power other than their brains, is an astounding army. Prof. Clark of Smith university, says that when you see the Socialist movement filled with the intellectual workers and the manual workers, then its triumph is inevitable. That is what we have today. We have the rank and file of the working people increasingly with us, and increasingly the thorough-going student and the brain workers of society are with us. It makes a very good team.

"You have then the great mass of the producers of society, backed by the intellectual and moral enthusiasts who are ready to support that which will yield the greatest social weal, regardless of the specific pecuniary interest—this gives united purpose.

"You ask: 'What does it want to do in the end?' Nothing worse than this: Only that eventually the means whereby we live socially must be socially controlled; only that there must be no exploitation; that no person or group of persons must live off the sweat of another man's brow. That is all there is to it.

"Depend upon it, when you think it means something very terrible, or something that is very foolish, remember that it could not have commanded the practical allegiance of so many hard-headed men as it does the world over if this were the case.

Thy Kingdom Come.

"If we can pray: 'Thy kingdom come,' let us not make it blasphemy by saying: 'Oh, but His kingdom cannot come in any practical way for generations and generations, until we are all quite perfect.' No, that is not the case. His kingdom will come just as soon as you and I and enough of us want it to come today. The Lord of this universe has the way already for us today. That is what the trust means. It means that there had to be concentration before there could be co-operation. It means industries had to come together in large units, and the people he prepared for such large co-operation. This I have been talking to you would have been utter nonsense a hundred years ago. Large machinery and practical industry has made it the plainest kind of scientific sense. So I say, the God of this world has society ready for us, and it needs nothing now but our co-operation, our glad allegiance, in order to bring about a new era.

Have you a consciousness of a growing development throughout humanity and society? Do you have this sense of evolutionary force whereby there is always a push toward progress? I assure you that never in your lives will you feel it so intensely, will you feel such glad co-operation with it, as you do when you come to see these great, mighty laws working on and on to a development that is sure as Life itself, and that means in the end a real, incarnate, practical brotherhood among men."

SUPERIOR WAS WEARING MAN'S CLOTHES

Superior Girl Arrested in Chicago While Preparing to Elope.

Miss Mary Bislow, 15 years old, who was arrested in Chicago yesterday as she was preparing to elope to California with Martin Doedgson, is from Superior, and her parents were instrumental in securing her arrest. Her father, Frank B. Bislow, is a laborer and well known among residents of Central park, Superior. Miss Bislow was in man's clothing at the time of her arrest.

Her family knew at the time of her departure that she was going to Chicago with a strange man, but were unable to stop her. About two months ago she was arrested for the juvenile court but escaped. She has been a great trouble to the police and last summer shot herself in the arm claiming that someone had attempted to take her life. At one time she suddenly disappeared and the police of Duluth and Superior were kept on the watch for three days, when she was found one evening hiding in the cellar of her home.

The girl will probably be brought back to Superior to stand trial and she may be examined as to her sanity, the police believing that the young girl is partially demented.

Night School Classes.

A preliminary session of the evening school, which will open Monday evening, will be held this evening at the Superior high school for the organization of classes. The school will last for a term of ten weeks and a small fee to pay for the books and to help defray the cost of paying for instructors, will be charged.

Final Awards Made.

The final awards on the land situated on the north end of the right-of-way of the Soo line's Frederic extension were made yesterday morning by the special commission. Thirty-five people and five companies were defendants in the proceedings.

Compair for Commission.

Pans were made yesterday noon at the Commercial club for the formation of campaign committees at a meeting held by the advocates of the commission form of government. Steps will be taken to interest the people before the coming vote on its adoption or rejection.

No Change in Banks.

The banking institutions of the city, after a most successful year in 1911, will begin the new year with practically the same officers as before. Two banks have already elected the same officials and it is understood that the other banks will also re-elect their officers.

Baptists Extend Call.

The congregation of the First Baptist church last evening extended a unanimous call to Rev. D. B. Cheney of West Allis, Wis. The church has been without a permanent pastor since the resignation of Rev. A. P. Van Dusen last July.

Fire Routs Out Roomers.

Damage totaling $1,000 was done to the Northwest hotel, corner of Weeks avenue and Fifth street, by a fire which started at 3 o'clock this morning. The guests and roomers were forced to abandon their rooms and seek shelter in nearby houses. The damage is covered by insurance.

MAN STUNG TO DEATH BY BEES.

Le Temps: Claude Henaff, a farmer of Douarnenez, has been stung to death by bees, says a Brest dispatch. It appears that on returning from the Plougonnec market, where he had bought several hives, Henaff determined to examine them more closely to ascertain exactly what kind of a bargain he had made.

He handled them so clumsily, however, that the infuriated bees set upon him. When his body was discovered by a farmhand he had been dead some time.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock Company in "The Christian."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The engagement of the Forbes Stock company has been extended to Sunday night. The company will present "The Christian" tonight, and tomorrow afternoon and night, and Sunday the company will present two performances only of "A Night Off," a modern farce, and a very amusing one.

Following the close of the engagement Sunday, the members of the company will leave for Brooklyn, where they will open in stock, and will continue there until the spring.

The present tour of the Laambardi company is its sixth in the United States. The organization devotes several months each year in the large South American capitals. The company reached San Francisco some few weeks ago from Buenos Ayres, on the Pacific coast steamship San Jose, opening its American tour at Los Angeles, Cal., with a two weeks' most successful run at the Majestic theater. It was during this engagement that California opera goers enjoyed their first opportunity of hearing Massenet's great sensational opera "Thais," with Mme. Deanette Alvina, the dramatic soprano, in the title role. The Pacific coast premiere of another immense work, "Samson et Delilah," (Saint Saens) was given, the opera serving to introduce another distinguished operatic star to American audiences—Mme. Elvira Casazza, mezzo soprano, late of La Scala, Milan.

The Lambardi organization is now on its way East via the Northern Pacific railroad, and will visit Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, Memphis, Nashville and New Orleans. Closing its American tour at the last named city, the company will sail for the City of Mexico where it is booked for a four weeks' continuous run. The coming of the big family of Italian singers and players to this city will constitute an event of unusual importance and no doubt prove the society occasion of the present amusement season. A special train of seven cars is required to transport the members of the company and the immense volume of stage necessities.

Sam Mann, who is appearing in the feature act at the Orpheum this week, has had many experiences while working in the orchestra pit. Mr. Mann and his company present a sketch known as "The New Leader." Mr. Mann takes the part of an orchestra leader at a morning rehearsal of a vaudeville show, and he works in the orchestra pit.

During the course of the performance Mr. Mann borrows a nickel from one of the occupants of the front row in order to send the property boy out for a glass of beer.

"In some cities," said Mr. Mann, "I have to have somebody 'planted' in the front row in order to get the nickel. Out here in the West I seldom have any trouble borrowing that much money. The only reason, I think, that they are loath to lend it, is that they fear they will be made fun of for the benefit of the audience. They do not fear losing the nickel.

"Sometimes the audiences or some members of the audience rather, do not quite undrstand the act. For instance, we rehearse the 'sister act.' It is supposed to be a very poor vaudeville turn, and it is. But in some cities people in the audience begin to hiss this act, not realizing it is a burlesque. I don't blame them, if they don't realize that fact. I would hiss it myself."

A novelty musical offering is that of Les Gougots, who are playing at the Empress this week.

Les Gougets are natives of France and have only been in this country a few weeks, and consequently have much to learn about the ways of the American people. However, there is one thing which America will be unable to teach them and that is to introduce novelty into a musical act. Les Gougets play most of the standard musical instruments and introduce several which have never before been seen in Duluth. Probably the most peculiar of these is the giant saruosaphone, an instrument of Monsieur Gouget's own design. This instrument measures eighteen feet and, while not intended as a comedy instrument, it causes a great deal of laughter because of its size and the audience's unwillingness to believe any man capable of producing music from such an unwieldy instrument. Monsieur Gouget plays it with ease. Another favorite trick of Mons. Gouget is the playing of two cornets at the same time. Mme. Gouget is just as finished a musician as her talented husband.

An international exposition of inventions was held at St. Louis recently. It was designed as an opportunity for inventors of devices to come in direct touch with possible users of their products. England has long had such an annual affair, which has been uniformly successful, but this is the first event of this character in this country.

DIFFICULT TO FIND WORK

Jobs Scarce and Only Young and Husky Men Are Employed.

Veterans of Woods and Harvest Fields Are Not Wanted.

"It's awfully hard work, son, finding a job."

Thus spoke the grizzled veteran of woods and harvest fields. His hair was gray around the temples, and he moved with an awkward stiffness that denoted the passing of youth. He was out of work, out of money, homeless, apparently friendless and with several thin pieces of silver between him and hunger, the gnawing kind.

Men are hanging around the employment offices looking for work. There are not very many men, for there are but few men in the city at the present time. The jobs are few enough to correspond with the small number of seekers after work.

The professional grafter, the petty and mean grafter of food and drink, is taking advantage of the situation. This type of man hates to work and will not work if there is any other way of getting food or drink. Knowing that work is scarce this kind of man is around telling his hard luck tale to sympathetic listeners.

But the deserving man, the fellow earnestly and honestly in search of labor, is finding jobs scarce and hard to get. The employers are picking their men as they always do when work is scarce and plenty of men for the jobs. The huskiest and most likely looking men are getting the jobs. The grizzled veteran of many seasons is indeed finding it difficult to get a job.

There is some work for men up in the direction of the Canadian line, but it is hard to get men up there, say the labor employment agents. Wages have dropped from around the $35 mark to $25 for woods work. The wages are lower and the demands for the qualifications of the men more rigid.

There is a belief in labor circles that there will be an opening up in logging operations within the present month. The big movement of pulpwood has not started as yet, and with the beginning of activity there will be a demand for men.

Many of the logging camps have not opened and those in operation have all the men they need. Orders from the camps and mills are not coming into Duluth freely. Should additional camps be placed in operation there will be a demand for all the idle men in this vicinity, for despite the present conditions labor men are authority for the statement that there is not a large number of idle men in the city at the present time.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU ACTIVE

State Obtained Positions for 2,576 During Month of December.

The state's free employment bureaus in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth obtained 2,576 positions for persons out of work during December, according to figures given out by the state labor bureau today.

Of these, 720 were in St. Paul, of whom 377 were women and 343 men. In Minneapolis 1,273 were found positions. Of this number 807 were for women and 466 for men. In Duluth, 583 positions were obtained, of which 343 were for women and 240 for men.

According to the bureau's reports, there was a greater demand for women than for men during December. Getting these positions cost the state $804.62.

CRUISING IN SUNNY SOUTH

Senator Hawkins and Party on Yachting Trip Around Florida.

Senator E. B. Hawkins of Duluth and a party of five, including Col. L. Ayers of the Duluth Engineering company, and J. F. Lutes of Biwabik, Minn., are spending a few weeks on a cruise around the coast of Florida.

The party left Jacksonville, Fla., on New Year's day on the yacht Itasca II, which is owned by Senator Hawkins. They will coast around the peninsula and expect to make several stops along both the eastern and western coasts of Florida and among the Keys.

Senator Hawkins usually goes South for the winter, and of late years has spent much of his time in cruising either the West Indies or the Gulf waters.

ELEVEN MEN ARE GIVEN CITIZENSHIP.

Eleven aliens were admitted to citizenship yesterday after they had appeared before Judge Morris of the federal court for their final hearing.

Six of the eleven were natives of Finland, three were Swedes, one a Norwegian and one a Russian.

Nineteen applications were to have been considered yesterday, but eight of the applicants did not appear and their cases were continued. One of the applications was dismissed, because it had been necessary to continue the hearing so many times, the applicant failing to appear.

MEDENICK IS NOT GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict for Man Accused of Burning Bridge.

Defense Claimed Complaining Witness Was Actuated By Desire for Revenge.

Mike Wedenick, accused of firing the Commonwealth avenue brige at New Duluth the night of May 28, 1911, was today found not guilty by the jury before which he was tried in municipal court. The trial began Wednesday afternoon.

The burning of the bridge caused a sensation, as it fitted into a series of incendiary fires which had aroused New Duluth and stirred the entire city. The structure was burned to the ground and caused a loss of $10,000. It is now being replaced by a dirt fill over a concrete culvert.

The principal witness against Medenick was Mike Bulatovich, a former partner. He claimed that on the night of May 28, following a beer party at an Austrian boarding house near the scene of the fire, he saw Medenick fill three beer bottles with kerosene and steal to the bridge. He testified that he told Radi Bulatovich of what he had seen, and that together they saw Medenick saturate the end of the bridge with the oil and then apply the match. When the blaze was well under way he asserted that Medenick ran into the woods, spending the remainder of the night outdoors and returning to the boarding house in the morning in time to go to his work at the steel plant. Radi, who is no relation although he has the same name, corroborated his statements.

The motive advanced by the state was that Medenich owned a lot in the gulch spanned by the bridge, and that he thought it would increase its value if the bridge were burned, figuring that the road would then be on a level with his property. Medenick claimed that Bulatovich was actuated by spite, endeavoring to get revenge because he had been instrumental in securing the conviction of Bulatovich on a blind pigging charge. Medenick introduced a large number of witnesses to testify that he did not leave the boarding house on the night of the fire and that he had always borne an excellent reputation.

Medenick was represented by Attorney Benjamin M. Goldberg while Prosecuting Attorney W. F. Dacey appeared for the state.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN BIBLE CLASS ACTIVE.

"A Man Who Needed Encouragement" is the subject Rev. Robert Yost has chosen for an address at the People's meeting at the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening. The special music will differ from the usual offering.

Just now the Young Men's Bible class is centering its efforts on getting the Y. M. C. A. men into the habit of attending the evening service.

The class, besides its meetings every Sunday at noon, when Dr. Yost delivers an address, holds a business session once a month and a social evening periodically for the purpose of getting better acquainted with the new members. The class is growing rapidly, and is drawing many of the young professional and business men of the city. Membership is not confined to church members, and any young man feeling an interest in this line of work will be given a hearty welcome by the men.

LINDBERGH SAYS IT WILL NOT DO

Claims Change in Financial Scheme Is Not Great Enough.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The monetary commission's plan for a national reserve association, further considered at a meeting of the commission today, evoked a statement from Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, author of a resolution to investigate the "money trusts," that under it control would not be taken away from Wall Street.

"More than half of the fifteen branches, as suggested in the plan," said Mr. Lindbergh, "would be organized by the Morgan and Rockefeller influences and would give them and their associates control. There are no suggestions that any change is to be made in the reserve system. It is the reserves principally that give the money control to a limited few."

As to banks being stopped from holding stock in other banks, Mr. Lindbergh's statement pointed out that it was the individual stockholders—not the banks to any great extent—that own the stock of very many banks.

THREE KILLED IN CANADIAN WRECK

Temperature 40 Below Zero Intensifies Sufferings of Others.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 5.—Three persons lost their lives in a wreck on the Canadian Pacific railway company's Reston-Wolseley branch last night when an eastbound express met with a mishap near Wawota, Sask. The dead:

J. RICHARDSON, brakeman.
J. THOMPSON, passenger.
L. GINGIEST, passenger.

The three persons killed were in a passenger coach which was overturned. A number of passengers were injured. There was much suffering from cold, the thermometer registering 40 below zero. The cold was intensified by a gale that swept across the prairies.

BUSY DAYS FOR LODGES

West Duluth Fraternal Societies Are Installing Their Officers.

A large number of West Duluth lodges and societies have installed their new officers during the week and others will hold their special ceremonies next week. Those that installed their officers last evening were: Clover camp, No. 1844, Royal Neighbors; Division, No. 1, A. O. H.; Zenith camp, No. 1027, Royal Neighbors; Knights of Pythias of New Duluth; West Duluth council, No. 255, Royal League, and Divisions Nos. 2 and 4, A. O. H.

Following are the officers installed in each lodge last evening:

Division No. 1, A. O. H.—Philbert Moran, president; William B. Godfrey, vice president; John J. Scanlon, recording secretary; James Connolly, financial secretary; P. H. McGraw, treasurer; Dr. C. H. Payette, medical advisor, and D. W. Lynch, chaplain.

West Duluth council, No. 255, Royal League—E. G. Kreidler, archon; George L. Hise, vice archon; M. J. Murray, orator; L. A. Barnes, past archon; R. J. Davidson, scribe; J. A. Scott, Jr., collector; Dr. E. W. Boerner, treasurer; L. A. Larsen, prelate; Axel Bergren, guide; Henry L. Fedl, warden; Lawrence Simpson, sentry. R. L. Davidson was elected delegate to the advisory council. The trustees are L. A. Barnes for three years and Charles B. McCoy for two years.

Zenith camp No. 1027, Royal Neighbors—Mrs. J. O. Winton, oracle; Mrs. William Blaney, vice oracle; Mrs. A. L. Armstrong, recorder; Mrs. Walroth, receiver; Mrs. Dahlter, chancellor; Miss Mabel Winton, marshall; Mrs. Mayhew, inner sentinel; Mrs. Torgeson, outer sentinel and Mrs. J. Flaherty, manager.

White Clover camp No. 1844, Royal Neighbor—Mrs. Frank Brand, oracle; Mrs. H. H. Murphy, past oracle; Mrs. William Thayer, vice oracle; Mrs. John Bertz, recorder; Miss Alta Wills, receiver; Mrs. Joseph Youngberg, chancellor; Mrs. George Reindl, marshal; Miss Anna Brand, inner sentinel; Mrs. Charles Hicks outer sentinel and Mrs. Peterson, manager.

Knights of Pythias of New Duluth—John Berger, C. commander; Thomas Millen, U. C.; A. Krueger, K. R. S.; A. Krueger, M. of F.; U. C. Tower, M. of Ex.; C. A. Carlson, prelate; Charles Gustafson, M. of W.; John Carlson, M. of A.; trustees, three years, Frank Brand.

TOO COLD EVEN FOR THE CURLERS.

On account of the extreme cold weather last evening, a small crowd witnessed the games in the Esterly and Union Match events at the Wsetern curling rink. Dr. Judson defeated Ashley in the Union Match event, 11 to 9, and in the Esterly trophy play, Wade beat Mallory, 11 to 7.

In the Esterly event this evening Olson will play against Wieland, Holland will meet Buckley, Iltis is matched with Zauft and Brown will play Clark. If time will permit, the finals in the Commercial club event will be played either this evening or tomorrow evening.

Entertains Society.

Carl Holmes entertained the members of the Adelphi society last evening at the home of Mrs. August Sundquist, 509 Fifty-third avenue west. A large number were present and the evening was spent in music and games, following which a supper was served. Covers were laid for thirty.

Socialist Rally.

West Duluth Socialists will meet this evening at Moe hall for the first meeting in a series of rallies to be held in this end of the city before the general election in February. Prominent men in the Socialist party have been campaigning during the week and meetings have been held every evening this week in other districts of the city.

At the meeting this evening addresses will be made by P. G. Phillips, candidate for alderman in the Eighth ward; John Alvin Johnson, Socialist candidate for mayor, and Morris Kaplan, prominent in the party in Duluth.

ONEOTA PEOPLE WANT STREET NAME RETAINED.

Members of the Oneota Improvement club will attend the Commercial club meeting tonight and ask to have the old Indian name of Oneota retained for the street that now bears it, instead of changing the name to Superior street as has been suggested. The members are desirous of retaining the old name in memory of the days when Duluth was but a settlement.

The annual election of officers of the Commercial club will also be held this evening and although repeated efforts have been made to retain President L. A. Barnes and Secretary M. A. Murray, both men have announced their final decision of retiring. They have both done good work and the members would gladly retain them, but the officers do not wish to set aside the precedent of giving officers only one term.

RUSHING STEEL WORK ON CANADIAN NORTHERN.

The Canadian Northern steel girders across Fifty-eight and Fifty-ninth avenues west are almost complete and the workmen will start on the Fifty-seventh avenue crossing next Monday morning. The men are working steadily through this cold weather, as the contractors must finish the steel crossings by the end of the month.

The men complete the steel girders at every crossing up to Forty-second avenue west, where the line connects with the Northern Pacific tracks. The men are laying the tracks at the same time.

Funeral Monday.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Brotherton, 43 years old, wife of John A. Brotherton, 233 Fifty-third avenue west, who died yesterday morning at the Graham hospital after an illness of over six weeks, will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning from St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Rev. D. W. Lynch, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in Calvary cemetery. Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H., of which Mrs. Brotherton was a member will attend the funeral.

West Duluth Briefs.

A daughter was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Larrive, 620 North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

Pearl and Fred McKinney of Toronto, Can., left this morning for their home after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kilton, 227 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

Sunday school services will be held at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning at the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Greene street.

C. E. Bothwell of Indian Head, Sask., left last evening for his home after spending the week with relatives in West Duluth.

George Ross, 421 North Fifty-first avenue west, left last evening for Fullerton, La., where he will spend the winter with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Judson, 123 North Sixty-sixth avenue west, left for Minneapolis last evening, where they will make their home.

Miss Geraldine Knutson, 323 Central avenue, left yesterday for Milwaukee, where she will visit with relatives for several weeks.

A daughter was born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. M. Bingham at Mrs. Olson's hospital, Fifty-ninth avenue west.

A son was born last evening to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waldorf, 124 South Sixty-first avenue west.

FINGERS WORTH $1,087 APIECE

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fingers of a man's hand are reasonably worth $1,087.50 apiece, and his leg is worth $8,000, according to valuations set by the state supreme court in opinions handed down this morning.

The valuation of fingers came in the case of Ole Berland, an employe of the Duluth Brewing company, who was injured by an elevator Oct. 2, 1909. A cable was left unguarded and Berland accidentally got his hand tangled with it. When he got untangled, four fingers were gone, and in district court he got judgment for $4,350, for the absent digits. The supreme court affirmed the judgment.

A jury in district court in Mower county awarded George Brookaman $11,936 damages after his leg had been broken by a rail thrown from a Chicago-Great Western work train. Brookaman was a brakeman. The trial judge cut the award to $8,000, and Brookaman refused to accept it and appealed the case. The supreme court today approved the action of the judge, fixing the valuation o fthe leg at $8,000.

TOMLINSON BUYS SHIPS

Duluth Man Purchases Harvey D. Goulder and Salt Lake City.

G. A. Tomlinson, the Duluth vessel owner, has purchased two large steamers from the Acme Transit company, according to advices received from Cleveland today. The consideration was $450,000.

Negotiations have been pending for several days and it is understood that the deal has gone through. The steamers involved are the Harvey D. Goulder and the Salt Lake City.

The addition of the Goulder and Salt Lake City to the Tomlinson fleet will bring the number of its ships up to nineteen.

A Cleveland dispatch also says that another 9,500-ton steamer, the Caldera, will be sold this week by the Croxton Steamship company, of which S. P. Cranage of Bay City, Mich., is manager. The prospective purchasers are said to be Cleveland men.

ANOTHER SKIN GAME.

Los Angeles Times: Simeon Ford, New York's hotel man humorist, said at a recent supper:

"Those attacks on New York's dishonesty and extortion usually come from pikers.

"The latest attack comes from Peleg Pease of Croydon Four Corners, up in New Hampshire. Peleg said the other day at the general store:

"'Yes, I bin to York, and it's a fine town, but crooked.'

"'How crooked?' asked the storekeeper.

"'Wall,' said Peleg, 'I bought Marthey a 2-cent paper o' pins down to York, an' on the train ride home I counted 'em. They wuz marked 1,000, but, by crinus, they wuz fourteen short by actual count!'"

DANCING MISTRESS.

London Daily Mail: All the world of English society knows and is known by Mrs. Wordsworth and most well known women have at some time or other come under her tuition.

"I have danced all my life," she said yesterday, "and have taught dancing since I was 15. I come of a family of musicians and lovers of dancing. My grandfather, whose name was Wright, was a well known musician living at Brighton in the time of the French Revolution. When the old Mme. Micheau, famed in dancing history, fled from France he introduced her over here.

"My father as a boy used to go to her dances at the Old Ship at Brighton and often took part in theatricals got up by the duchess of St. Albans and George IV. It was then Mme. Micheau persuaded him to teach dancing, although he never really wished to and did not love it as I do. Though, mind, I love it in a child's way. It is because of the beauty and simplicity of children that I love to teach them dancing.

"I took my first classes when I was 15 and my father's health failed. I taught at his academy and held classes at several large schools.

"Why, I have children coming to me now whose grandmothers were taught by me then—girls, older than I, who were there to make their debut at Queen Victoria's court.

"With the exception of the first few years of my married life—I was married at 18—there has not been a drawing room or court held where some of those presented have not been to me first for their 'curtsies' at least. This year alone I have given more than 180 presentation lessons.

"Perhaps the most interesting lessons I have given were those at Osborne and Windsor in the presence of Queen Victoria. I and my assistants used to go to Osborne for three weeks at a time and give a class every afternoon.

"When the court was at Windsor the classes were held twice a week. The Osborne classes numbered about twelve children and included Princess Ena, now the queen of Spain, and her brothers, any little royal child who happened to be staying with her grandmother, and a few little friends resident at Osborne or in the island whom Queen Victoria invited to join.

"The queen made a point of being present at every class, and if affairs of state kept her we waited until she came. I took the class just as I do those in my own hall today. Skipping, balls, clubs, step dancing and ballroom dancing. The children were very good and hard workers, but then I insisted, as I always do, on instant obedience.

"Her majesty would have obedience among the children, too.

"The queen of Spain was a charming little girl and grew to dance very gracefully and prettily. One day she cried at her lesson because of something she could not do. The next day I said: 'Now, princess, you will not cry today.'

"She said: 'No, oh no, I have forgotten how to cry since.'

"Princess Patrica of Connaught was one of the prettiest little girls I have ever taught. She and her sister, the crown princess of Sweden, were good dancers when quite tiny children, and so was Prince Arthur.

"Princess Alexandra of Teck also was taught by me, and the crown princess of Rumania also came to my classes.

"Queen Victoria was a very keen critic; a beautiful dancer herself, she was always most sympathetic and charming to me and never interfered.

"I have had many thousand children in my classes and I have made them all obedient, but no classes have had better results or have been enjoyed more both by pupils and teacher than the deal has gone through. The steamers involved are the Harvey D. Goulder and the Salt Lake City.

The addition of the Goulder and Salt Lake City to the Tomlinson fleet will bring the number of its ships up to nineteen.

A Cleveland dispatch also says that another 9,500-ton steamer, the Caldera, will be sold this week by the Croxton Steamship company, of which S. P. Cranage of Bay City, Mich., is manager. The prospective purchasers are said to be Cleveland men.

ACCUSED OF ADMITTING WOMEN TO THE PULPIT

REV. JOHN CHRISTIE BARR.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2.—Rev. J. C. Barr is charged with permitting women to make verbal reports at an interdenominational meeting in the fashionable Lafayette Presbyterian church of New Orleans, of which he is the pastor. This charge is brought by Rev. W. M. Alexander. The state synod tried the case and found against Mr. Barr. Now Mr. Barr says he will carry the case to the general assembly, the highest body of the Presbyterian church. He says that the women were not preaching, and that the church building did not represent the church itself.

There is something more than coincidence back of the fact that it is the advertised businesses that succeed, and the unadvertised businesses that fail.

ODD SAILING CRAFT.

There are still in service sailing vessels of various build and rig, any one of which would attract crowds of sightseers did it make its appearance in New York harbor. But there is little chance of that, for these odd craft are never seen in any waters but their own. Dependent entirely on sails or occasionally oars, they were all in existence long before the Clermont made her famous passage up the Hudson.

Take as an example the felucca, a small swift sailing vessel propelled by oars or lateen sails peculiar to the mediterranean. Its Italian name is feluca, Spanish falua, Portuguese falua. It is an undecked vessel, with a high stern and a long bow. It carries as many as three masts, each fitted with a yard on which is stretched a triangular sail. These yards when bare of coarse matting, are bent to a yard, which is hoisted to the top of a mast. The sails are stiffened with bamboo poles placed horizontally. Most large junks are good seaboats and ride out in safety, the severest typhoon.

FISHING FOR IRON.

London Globe: The bottoms of many Swedish lakes are covered to a thickness of six or eight inches with fragments of iron ore of the size of peas. This lake ore consists chiefly of ochre, or hydrated oxide of iron, mixed with silicate and phosphate of iron, clary, sand and other impurities, and yields pig iron of very good quality.

The ore is obtained by very primitive methods. In winter a hole is cut in the ice, a scraper attached on a long pole is inserted and all of the ore within reach is collected into a heap beneath the hole. Some of the mud which has been scraped together with the ore is removed by stirring the mass with poles, and the ore is then scraped into bags which have been sunk and is hauled up.

In summer this curious mining operation is conducted in a similar manner from rafts anchored in the lake. Two miners can bring up about four tons of ore in a day. Steam dredges have recently been installed in a few places. About thirty years after the removal of the ore a new layer of the same thickness is found to have been produced by natural chemical processes.

MISLEADING BOOK TITLES.

London Chronicle: Some book titles are distinctly misleading. Ruskin's "On the Construction of Sheepfolds" is a famous example of these and there are others. Mr. Henry James's novel "The Lesson of the Master" has more than once been catalogued as a religious work.

The same fate befell Sir Edward Hamilton's "Conversion and Redemption," a highly technical study of schemes for the reduction of the national debt. "Disloyala; or, The Doubtful Priest," was the title originally selected by Shorthouse for the book we now know as "John Inglesant." It was pointed out to him that such a title would lead people to regard it as a rabid attack on Roman Catholicism, and this induced him to change it.

Canoe Trip Planned.

"It may be rushing the season to talk about canoe trips" said Myrle M. Hanna, city ticket agent for the D. & I. R. today, "but you take it straight from me that people are already asking about them.

"This week we received several inquiries from Chicago people and from other parts of the country. They wanted information regarding the canoe trips which the Iron Range road features in the summer time."

Mr. Hanna said that several people had already made arrangements for their next summer's trip.

Straw Hat Seen.

A straw hat made its appearance in Duluth today.

It was not a case of rushing the season in haberdashy as much as it was a practical joke.

A local business man appeared at work this morning at his offices in the Lyceum building with a regular, honest-to-goodness straw lid.

He wore it with an air of fortitude, despite the biting wind and the ravages of a winter day.

It might be that he wanted to show his keen sense of humor—no one knew.

BLIND-PIGGER RUNS AFOUL UNCLE SAM

Arrested on Finishing Jail Term, Pleads Guilty and Sentenced Again.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. D. Porter stepped out of jail yesterday at Devils Lake into the hands of the United States marshal after spending ninety-five days in Ramsey county jail for blind-pigging. He pleaded guilty here today to selling liquor without a government license and was sentenced to four months in the Cass county jail by Judge Amidon in federal court.

GEMMELL DENIES RAILROAD REPORT

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—General Manager W. H. Gemmell of the Minnesota & International railway denies the report of the buying of the Funkley-Kelliher line from the Crookston Lumber company and the construction of the Kelliher to Bandette extension as well as the re-position for new steel. He wished his denial to be given publicity, and said the company didn ot contemplate building from Kelliher to Winnipeg.

GIRL AGED 12 ALLEGED FORGER

Said to Have Passed Forged Check for $25 on Fargo Merchant.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A forged check for $25 is said to have been passed yesterday by Mildred Carter, 12-year-old girl, whose parents are both dead. The check was signed by Mrs. Sol Simon, drawn on the National bank of Fargo and was cashed by Scott Hall, retail shoe dealer, who gave the girl a pair of shoes and the balance in cash. The girl tried to pass forged checks on the Monson Trunk company and the Nelly grocery, but was refused. She left for Minneapolis last night where an uncle is said to reside.

AMERICAN DOLLS CONQUER THE WORLD.

New York Sun: "Naturally," said a New York manufacturer of dolls, "when a friend just back from Europe told us that he had seen our dolls in a show window in Berlin we were pleased but not surprised, for not long ago we sold a little bunch to a German importer in Hamburg. It was probably from that lot that the dolls our friend saw in the show window found their way to Berlin.

"It is interesting though, isn't it, to think of selling American dolls in Germany, the very birthplace and home and great producing country of dolls? We are now selling them in France as well and in very substantial quantities in England, and we are selling them in many other countries in various parts of the world.

"We have just received an order for dolls from Campeche, Mex., and of course we sell them in the West Indies. Not long ago we shipped a lot of dolls to a customer in Sao Paulo, Brazil, and we sell dolls in Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Ayres. We've got a man in South America now; he's on his way to Buenos Ayres at the present moment.

"Of course we sell them in Manila, and we've just received an order for dolls from the Straits Settlements. We sell them in South Africa; in fact we are selling our American dolls now pretty much all around the world. In all these various parts they come in competition with dolls from European countries, but people like our dolls and buy them.

"Because they are Americans? No, you couldn't say that. The buyers may not have any special fancy for America, but they like our dolls. They are unbreakable for one thing; you can throw them on the floor and not break them; but they are also in every way different, something new, and they are natural, lifelike, human looking dolls; they appeal to children everywhere."

"Everywhere? Do children everywhere like dolls?"

"Everywhere. In all nations and lands, civilized or uncivilized, the children like dolls; everywhere.

"Some years ago when I was the toy and doll buyer for our concern I made regular trips to Europe spending about six months there in each year, in Germany, France and England. In those days there were not so many railroads in Germany as there are now and toy and doll making there were more generally than now home industries. Now in Germany they are making more toys and dolls in factories, and samples of these factory products and of the many still made as in the old way in homes are now assembled at toy fairs held in the central cities of the toymaking districts there, fairs to which buyers go.

"In the old days we'd get as near as we could by rail and then in winter we'd take a sleigh and drive off up the valleys, through the woods and along roads banked high with snow, seeking the homes of the toymakers, buying there and giving orders for future work in dolls to get them in styles of finish and in dress in the forms best suited for our markets. Now there are railroads up most of those valleys and there is not so much of the old style buying as there was, the work is more concentrated. But you were asking me if all children, everywhere, like dolls.

"One year after the buying season in Europe was over I didn't come back to New York as usual but stayed over a year or more, making headquarters in London. We had there a warehouse and an office where we assembled for shipment the stuff we bought in England and such stuff from the continent as we didn't have shipped direct, and then in London we had a great lot of samples, toys and dolls, a great variety of toys and hundreds of dolls.

"London is an old city, with trade connections long established everywhere. Whenever there's trade there are traders and merchants, and traders come to London to buy goods from near and far, from all corners of the globe. Coming to London at that time was one trader from the South Pacific ocean who used to come regularly once a year and buy in London a shipload of stuff of all sorts which he took back with him to trade or sell among the islands in the South Pacific.

"He saw those toy and doll samples of ours and liked them and wanted them; he knew he had a sure market for them. The season was over with us, we had no further use for them and so we named a lump sum for them and he took the whole lot and put them with the rest of the stuff he'd gathered aboard his ship and carried them off with him around to the other side of the world to delight the savage children of the Far South seas.

"All children, everywhere, like toys and dolls."

THE PASSING BOOTJACK.

Time was when there was at least one bootjack in every home, for in those days father and son wore boots, and when boots were wet or tight, a bootjack was a necessity, says the New York Sun.

Then all of a sudden, some fifty years or thereabout ago, the great majority of men took to wearing shoes. Then in many homes the bootjack passed out of use and out of sight and out of mind. There are many people of the present generation who never saw a bootjack or even heard of one. And still there are sold at the present day some bootjacks, for there are still some men who wear boots, either as their customary foot apparel or at times in pursuit of labor or recreation.

There are still some fine old gentlemen who continue to wear fine calf-skin boots. There are hundreds of thousands of farmers who still wear boots, but in the boots worn by farmers there has also been a great revolution. There once were only all wore cowhide boots, now almost without exception they wear rubber boots, and if they buy with them the socks intended to be worn with them, the rubbers pull off easily and there is no need of a bootjack.

The original bootjack was made of a strip of wood a foot or more in length by three or four inches in width and an inch or so in thickness. You sawed out a deep notch in one end of this piece of wood, or you rounded out there a deep opening to put the heel of the boot into, and a little back of this notch you nailed across the under side of the board a cleat to raise the end of the bootjack off the floor. Then you put one foot on the bootjack at the end on the floor and you put the other heel in the bootjack's jaw and you pulled on that foot to try to pull it out of the boot. Many a man and many a boy has had to do some right smart tugging to get his boots off, even with a bootjack. Some years before bootjacks went out there were introduced also malleable iron bootjacks.

As might be expected, the bootjacks of the present are much like those of old, but there is now sold a folding bootjack made in two lengthwise pieces hinged along the middle. You can fold down into a place made for it the supporting cleat. The folding bootjack occupies less space at home and is handy for traveling.

Now also there is a bootjack with adjustable jaws which can be set for any size boot.

What is called an ox yoke bootjack is one that you can use without any bending over. The ox yoke bootjack is held in a frame composed of two upright sticks about three feet high which are held together by two cross-pieces, one near the bottom and one near the top. At the floor end the upright sticks of the frame are a foot apart, at the top some three or four inches. Across the top ends of the sticks is a handle for you to grasp. The crosspiece between the uprights down by the floor runs through the bootjack from side to side just back of the jaw and the bootjack turns on this cross rod. When it is not in use you turn the bootjack up between the uprights and then you can lean the outfit against a wall or set it in a closet; it takes up little room. When you want to use it you grasp it by the top handle and kick the bootjack over to let it free end rest on the floor and then there's your bootjack ready for use without any stooping over.

Then there's an imported bootjack called the London fitted folding bootjack. This bootjack is of wood, hinged, as its name implies, to make it fold into smaller compass. It has on its under side clasps to hold a pair of boothooks. Here the gentleman rider has his equipment for pulling his boots on and for pulling them off kept all together in compact and handy form.

SORTS OUT OLD GARRETS.

An adaptable young woman who came East two years ago with just enough money to take her through college the first year declares that the garrets of old New England homes have proved gold mines to her, says the New York Sun. She earned enough money during the summer of 1910 by sorting over the contents of garrets to pay her way through a second year at college. This last summer she has done even better, and now she feels sure of completing her course on money earned in New England garrets.

"You have no idea what wonderful things some of those old garrets contain," she said. "Why, this summer I found enough mink furs in one house almost to clothe a family of Eskimos, that is if Eskimos wear mink. Of course they were all out of style, long capes that hugged you uncomfortably tight about the shoulders, but falling down to the very hem of your dress. They had been packed away with the greatest care and were in the best condition.

"Last summer I discovered two buffalo robes. There had been a soldier in the family, a man who had been graduated at West Point and gone out to fight the Indians before the Mexican war. He had sent those two robes home to his mother and because he was killed soon afterward the robes were put away out of his mother's sight and had been forgotten.

"Oh, I didn't plan to make money by sorting out and cataloguing the contents of old garrets. It came to me through my being sent to find something my grandmother had sent to a cousin away back yonder before my mother was born.

"You see, during my first Easter vacation I was on a visit to this cousin of my mother's. She is a widow and lives in the house in which four generations of the family have lived and died. She was talking to me about my grandfather, with whom she went to school. Then she mentioned some present my grandmother had sent her soon after my grandmother's marriage. Because she thought I looked like my grandmother she said if I would go in the garret and get the thing I might have it.

"To make a long story short I went through that garret, first through one trunk and then through another, then through clothes press after clothes press and boxes witout number, but without finding grandmother's present. My cousin hadn't been in that garret for more than fifty years, and besides she admitted that there were many boxes and trunks into which she had never looked.

"It seems to be a New England custom when a person dies to pack his clothes away and put the trunk or box into the garret. There were five or six trunks of this sort in my cousin's garret. One contained the clothing of her only daughter and the others the effects of people older than herself or even her mother.

"When I told her about the contents of the various trunks she would recognize the owner, sometimes from having heard her mother or grandmother describe them, sometimes suggested that it might be better to make use of some of the things she at first refused point blank and so curtly that I would never have thought of mentioning the subject again.

"A few days after I returned to college she wrote me that she had changed her mind and that if I would come to her in the summer she would be glad to have me go over the contents of he garret and help in disposing of it. It took me nearly three weeks hard work.

"She not only paid me for my time but gave me material for my winter outfit. She distributed the majority of the things among her relatives, useful articles they all were; then she sold off the furs and a few old books at good prices, giving me a commission on the sales. After finishing her garret I received commissions to overhaul two more in the same township, both from friends of my cousin, women about her own age. Those three occupied my entire summer, but gave me enough to pay for my year in college, so I was entirely satisfied.

"During the winter I mapped out a plan which not only enabled me to work more rapidly but to give a complete list of the contents of each garret, specifying the box or trunk in which the article was located. By inquiry I discovered the location of other old homes where the garret was supposed to contain valuables and I either wrote or went to see the occupant of the house.

"Having my cousin and her friends as reference has proved a great help. Several people who were at first inclined to be offeneded at my offering to go through their belongings and even to advise them about selling them changed their minds after learning for whom I had done similar work.

"Though I haven't found anything of startling value there has always been enough to make my work worth while. Besides old clothes and furs there are generally books and furniture which sell easily and at a good price. The books are generally the sort that no one excepting a collector cares about. I have found a few letters that were worth while.

"As a rule the furniture has been put aside because of some weakness, occasionally to make way for more fashionable pieces. Fortunately these careful old people seldom allowed the breaks to become very serious before taking the piece to the garret. I have unearthed a number of lovely old chairs, which after a trifling sum paid for repairing I have sold at high prices—prices that would have made the original owners open their eyes in surprise. Chairs and sofas are most in demand among dealers in genuine old furniture, and fortunately they are the very pieces oftenest found in the New England garret.

"Outside of chairs and tables and old blue and white crockery, nothing appears to be so urgently longed for as old clocks. I have had at least fifty applicants for any old clock that I might find in my garret rummaging. Of course, only the genuine antique is wanted, but if I ever get it I'm sure of a good price.

"I don't know why there are so few old clocks, for as a rule the things I have unearthed have been useful rather than ornamental. The old New Englanders don't appear to have been very keen about pictures, though once in a great while I have come across a good print.

"What strikes me most is the clothes. I had always had an idea that the original New Englander dressed plainly. They may have on week days, but on Sundays I am sure they must all have had their silks and satins, not thin cheap goods as we buy today, but the real thing, pure silk, and sometimes almost thick enough to stand alone.

"Artists appear to be anxious to get the best of these old dresses and bonnets and are willing to pay good prices. As a rule, however, the old clothes are either returned to the trunk or clothes press in which they were found or distributed to the young members of the family for present day use. A dress of the '60s in spite of its tight waist and short sleeves is more than enough for an elaborate costume of today.

"Old lace and needlework like old furs when in good condition are always in demand. I have found some fine specimens of all three in the garrets that I overhauled this summer.

"Though rearranging these old garrets has supplied me with the means of completing my course in college, I'm not at all in favor of storing things that we can't make use of ourselves. I'd be glad to know that every garret in the country had been overhauled and the owners induced to give the contents to those who could make good use of them.

"It is a good occupation for a woman, especially if she has some knowledge of the value of old furniture and books. It is easy enough to get in touch with dealers, and when you have any considerable amount on hand they will send out an expert to investigate, often to make an offer for the entire lot.

"This summer I disposed of as much as I could to private parties, and at the end of the season sold all that was left to a dealer. Of course I had a good deal of bookkeeping to do keeping track of the various articles, to whom they belonger and the price, besides noting down a short description. It was not until I offered the unsold articles to the trade that I moved any article from the home of its owner. When I had a possible purchaser I told him the price and sent him to the owner to look at the article. If it was sold I received my percentage."

Fights Tuberculosis as Matter of Business

Fraternal Society Expending Million Dollars

NEW CENTRAL BUILDING AT MODERN WOODMEN SANATORIUM AT COLORADO SPRINGS

Improvements costing $300,000 will be made during 1912 at the free tuberculosis sanatorium maintained near Colorado Springs, Colo., by the Modern Woodmen of America, a fraternal insurance society. Permanent structures erected will include a central building and receiving hospital, the former 220 x 120 feet and the latter 85 x 100 feet. Both will be of heavy fireproof construction. A power and heating plant will supply electricity and steam to all parts of the grounds. The present number of tent-cottages will be doubled, giving facilities to care for approximately 400 patients. When completed the sanatorium will have cost more than a million dollars.

This institution is the only one of its kind that makes no charge for treatment of tuberculosis, insurance saved warranting the expenditure involved. Inauguration of the improvements mentioned marks the passing of the experimental stage. Though it has been in operation but a short time the sanatorium already has justified its existence in the mere matter of dollars and cents by prolonging the lives of members of the society, thus proving that it is a practical philanthropy. Of greater importance, however, than the actual curing of disease is the educational feature, patients going out from the institution proving most effective missionaries to warn others and to teach the doctrine of right living.

RECEIVING HOSPITAL

NO LAND TOO HOT OR TOO COLD FOR MAN.

Plants and animals cannot exist in temperatures far higher or lower than those to which they have become accustomed, while man moves from one extreme to the other with, for the most part, but little physical discomfort. Explorers will visit the sands of Africa and the bleakness of the Arctic Circle and return to normal environments even improved in physical condition, says the New York Sun.

Man inhabits about every part of the earth except a few island regions in the interior of continents and immediate vicinity of the poles. It is from dread of climatic conditions that his tent has found no more than a temporary resting place in some of these far distant spots. It is not thought that the heat or cold of any of the unexplored regions of the globe has a greater range of temperature than many regions now inhabited.

Science reasons that the lowest temperatures at the earth's surface are not found directly at the poles but at some distance to the south of the north pole and to the north of the south pole. Likewise the greatest degree of heat is not, as might be supposed, to be found at the equator, but prevails at some distance to the north and to the south of that imaginary line.

The coldest place on the earth's surface of which there is authentic record is in Siberia. The lowest temperature ever recorded in the open air was 90 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit) at Werchajansk, central Siberia, on Jan. 15, 1885.

The highest temperature of which there is an authenticated record is 124 deg. above zero (Fahrenheit) in Algeria, Northern Africa, on July 17, 1879. These places of extreme heat and extreme cold give a range of temperature covering the whole inhabitable world of 214 deg., or 2 deg. more than from zero to the boil-point.

In the United States the lowest temperature ever recorded in winter is 63 deg. below zero in North Dakota, and the highest ever recorded in summer is 115 deg. above zero in Arizona. This gives a total range of 179 deg. within about 1,000 miles.

There is an unauthenticated report from Aumale, an outpost of the Algerian bad lands, which gives a temperature record in the open air of 172 deg. above zero (Fahrenheit). This if correct exceeds by 48 deg. that of the highest on record. It is also stated that the temperature at this place rarely gets down to 140 degrees. On one or two occasions it dropped to 120 degrees and the natives shivered with the cold. Strange as it may seem, the death rate of French soldiers stationed at this post is lower than that at more northerly places having equable temperatures.

People who inhabit these places of extreme heat and cold are found to be exceptionally healthy and live to a ripe old age.

While men in all parts of the world make their homes in these exceptionally hot or cold places and move from one to the other without any apparent physical discomfort, it is found that animals or plants which would flourish in one will not survive in the other.

In the United States the extreme range of heat and cold is not so great but one may live in comparative comfort in any section; yet the same conditions apply to animal and plant life as prevail throughout the rest of the world; animals and plants that survive the winters of the south could not endure the winters of the north.

The greatest of the extremes of heat and cold in this country are found in the Western states, from the Dakotas ard Montana southward to Texas and Arizona. The temperature in the Northwest during the winter months frequently drops to 30 or 40 degrees below zero and occasionally runs below 60 degrees, while the heat of summer in the central West and Southwest touches 100 degrees or higher. Regardless of such extremes the climatic conditions throughout the entire Rocky Mountain range are delightful for ten months of the year.

The most equable temperature throughout the year in the United States is found along the seacoast. Nearly two-thirds of the entire population lives in seacoast cities. People may complain of a few blustery and unusually cold days in winter and of a few sweilteringly hot and humid days in summer, but with all things considered the Atlantic seacoast from Florida tc Maine is about as desirable a place of residence as any part of the world.

YEAR ROUND BATHERS.

Sir Harry Poland in Marine Magazine: When I lived on the banks of the Thames at Strawberry Vale, Twickenham, I used at a quarter past 7 every morning to plunge into the river. I continued to do this for several years, and although the dark mornings for about three weeks before Christmas and a few weeks after were trying, I always found myself both invigorated and refreshed, and on no occasion did I ever feel the worse for it.

I was obliged to be so early, as the courts wait for no man. The great thing to attend to is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lambs' wool and warm gloves.

You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artist, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail or rain will only be a diversion.

My friends the bargees, who were nearly frozen to death on their barges, used naturally, until they got accustomed to the sight, to think the winter bathers mad. About three of my neighbors were also in the habit of bathing all the year round, but I was the last of the maniacs. Bathing in cold water when you are cold means mischief and discomfort, but when warm, is health and pleasure, and you enjoy yourself "like Russians rushing from hot baths to snows."

You may ask, "Why, if you really liked it and it agreed with you, did you give it up?" Man is the creature of surrounding circumstances. When the Teddington weir gave way from the pressure of the floods, the end of my garden was carried away as if it had been sliced off with a huge knife, and away went my bathing steps and camp shedding, so that I could no longer get a header, and when after many months these were replaced I had got into other ways.

Cold bathing in winter will not, of course, do for a man whose liver is sluggish or whose heart is weak. The great advantage of cold bathing is that it prevents you from "catching cold."

Leander used to swim across the Hellespont, so it is said, in dark December, and Lord Byron, when he first tried to swim it in April, found the water so cold that he was obliged to give up the attempt. In May, however, he, together with Lieut. Ekenhead, swam across, and proud he was of it, for he says, referring to Don Juan:

A better swimmer you could scarce ever see.
He could perhaps have passed the Hellespont,
As once (a feat on which ourselves we prided)
Leander, Mr. Ekenhead and I did.

They were over an hour in the water, but for health a few seconds in the water in this climate is enough. Bathing in the sea is preferable to the river, as in the former you get no ice to trouble you.

In 293 B. C. the Romans first divided the day into hours, when a sun dial was placed in the temple of Quirinus at Rome. In the ninth century the English king, Alfred, taught his subjects to measure the flight of time by candle—three inches to burn an hour, and six candles to burn in twenty-four hours.

MELODRAMA DEAD? NOT MUCH

New York Sun: "Unhand me, sir!" says the young man with the bow necktie.

"Aha, the curse of the Marigolds is upon you!" cries his antagonist, "and he never forgets!"

Just then one hears the patter of running feet and from away off scene somewhere comes the sound of a woman's voice.

"Oh, Roderick, Roderick," she calls, "where are you? Will you not speak?"

The young man struggles with the curse of the Marigolds, but is too weak. He is bound gagged and blindfolded. In the struggle the lamp has been upset and one sees the flicker of running flame. In the queer light the struggle has gone forward. Roderick is left helpless under a table and his assailant sets himself to stifling the flames.

But he cannot. They run higher and higher and creep nearer and nearer the prostrate Roderick. He has to save himself, so out the door he goes into the black night. There is a moment of dreadful suspense. Then the voice comes again:

"Roderick, Roderick, will you not speak to me? Where are you?"

By this time the flames are licking at his very heels. Annabel, the switchman's daughter, is not a minute too soon. She comes breathless after the long run from her father's shanty, for here her lover must be. She sees that the cabin is doomed, thinks that he must have saved himself, and is about to run out, but——

"Hi, there, lady," comes a voice from the gallery, "pipe the guy under the table!"

It may be that Annabel would have found Roderick without the kindly information of the boy in the gallery. It may be that she would have seen his twisted form lying there within a hand's breadth of the flames. She might have seen him in the unsteady light of the fire. But as a matter of fact she did not. In a moment of fearful hesitancy, however, she turns back and sees something shining on the wall over the kitchen table.

"It was the picture of his old mother," she shouts, "and I will save it!"

So she runs back, dodging the flames. She reaches up for the picture, cannot reach it, and moves the table aside.

"Ah, Roderick, Roderick, here you are," she cries, "and it was your old mother saved you!"

Whereupon she drags Roderick off stage with one hand and in the other she clasps the old, familiar picture.

This is melodrama. It may be that melodrama of this sort has been vanquished by the film shows. The assertion is made generally that melodrama of all sorts has been driven out of the theaters by the coming of the moving pictures.

"That's not so," said William A. Brady, the theatrical manager, who has just tried his hand again at melodrama of the old sort. "Melodrama is really the backbone of all good plays. Cheap melodrama has been killed off temporarily by the pictures, but good melodrama is just as much alive as it ever was."

Mr. Brady went on to say that theater managers are abroad now looking in Paris and Vienna and St. Petersburg for the latest musical novelty.

"They're scouring Europe," said he, "for freak musical productions. They'll find them. They always do. And they will please the crowd that like pink tights and red lights and lots of funny business. But they're on the wrong track.

"There is a special kind of audience which can hold a show for three or four nights, but can't make great successes. The great successes are built upon human emotion and not upon momentary appeals to passion.

"What are the great successes? 'Ben-Hur,' 'Way Down East,' 'The Old Homestead.' Every one of these is melodrama. They appeal broadly to deep, wholesome emotion.

"I hear theater managers nowadays scream about their galleries. They tell me that the balconies and galleries aren't filled; the orchestra is all right, but the cheap seats don't sell."

Mr. Brady said that this wasn't owing to the moving picture shows.

"People are getting tired of moving pictures already," he said. "What they want is the big appeal. I believe that even the cheap shows will come to life again, for folks want the spoken word and miss it in the films. There is a wave of melodrama every seven years. It's been due for some time now, but the moving pictures have held it off. But it's coming.

"There have been some good melodramas already this year. Count the big successes and you'll see that they are melodramas or that they embrace melodramatic ideas. 'Alias Jimmy Valentine,' for instance. 'Jimmy Valentine' is essentially a melodrama. I suppose that when 'Jimmy Valentine' is revived thirty years from now first night audiences will laugh just as they do at old melodramas now. But it will be a success nevertheless, because 'Jimmy Valentine' has a deep appeal, an appeal of the sort that is perennial.

"When I put on 'The Lights o' London' at the Lyric a few nights ago the first night audience laughed. The next morning I was told that it wouldn't last the week out. But it did, and the house is filled every night.

"When they were rehearsing for 'The Lights o' London' the actors didn't want to say 'Unhand me, villain!' in the old way. But I told them that in my melodramas I wanted to have the hero jump off the same old bridge, I wanted to have the some old andante played in the same place, the old horse fall from the same old pier and the personages in the play talk just as they used to talk.

"They told me that it's not natural to say the lines in that old fashioned way; but I told the actors that men don't pause before a mirror and straighten their necktles when they are excited. They act swiftly and they talk very much as the old actors used to talk in melodrama.

"So when it came to 'The Lights o' London' I asked them to play their parts in the old way, and of course the first night audience laughed. They always laugh. But they don't make any difference. The others come later.

"And it's a wonderful public. It comes and comes and keeps coming. This public that likes the human touch isn't the first night public. It's the common human being, the person with clean tastes, who can appreciate the big emotions. The world is still made up mostly of this sort of folks.

"What's melodrama? I don't know exactly how to tell you what melodrama is. But I can tell you this much: it's depicting a situation broadly, painting it with a big brush, appealing roughly to human emotion.

"I should say that even Ibsen has melodramatic quality. He has the big touch sometimes, the big appeal to human nature. 'Peter Pan' is melodrama of a sort, according to my way of thinking, picturesque delicate melodrama if you please, but still melodrama. So was the big success this year at the New theater, 'The Blue Bird.' There was the same picturesque quality that we used to find in 'Peter Pan.' The sicknesses, the grandparents brought to life when the children thought of them, the idea of the dead, the unborn children, these were all melodramatic ideas.

"George Cohan has a melodrame idea too, only that he introduced it into musical comedy. And you see what a success he has made of it. He invented melodrama in musical comedy.

"Remember what the people like in a picture gallery. Where do you find the big crowd? You don't find em in front of the little picture of 'Dawn on the Marshes.' You find 'em in front of the battle scene. There's something vital, you know, the big appeal. That's what touches human beings. And it's melodrama.

"I think I can say this much, that melo-drama is at the basis of all fine plays. It goes on forever. They'll revive 'The Lights o' London' thirty years from now, and the first night audience will laugh just as it did last week. But the crowds will come again, just as they do now. And the same thing with 'The Two Orphans.'

"Melodrama is hard to play. It takes as good actors as there are, for you need big men to put big ideas and big emotions across the footlights.

"No, we're not through with melodrama. It'll last and be well done just as long as human nature is what it is now and has been. There's not much change in that, you know."

EDUCATIONAL CHECKERBOARD.

Foreign academic interchange is a fancy of the hour. Exchange of American university professors with France, Germany, and some of the Scandinavian countries already exists; similar exchange with England, Mexico, the South American republic and Japan is being planned, and no doubt there will be exchange relations with China, Australia, and the ends of the earth.

Secondary school teachers have for a number of years been, and now are, very successfully exchanged with Prussia; the Rhodes scholarship constantly maintain 190 foreign students at Oxford; the Alliance Francaise is incessantly acting as intermediary between French and American institutions of learning; exchange of students between this and various other countries is being energetically advocated and the latest development is the exchange of fellows—some indeed of the feminine persuasion.

The University of Wisconsin baseball team went to Japan to play a series of university games in Tokio, and now a nine of Japanese students is here for a return series with the University of Chicago on the latter's grounds, and with Princeton. In Switzerland families even exchange their children for periods to enable them to learn the foreign language.

"I propose," says a writer in the Educational Review, "another phase of this idea, the free exchange and migration, within our own country, of teachers of all ranks. This idea is not altogether new. The several summer schools at our universities notably the summer quarter at the University of Chicago, give pretty wide scope to the operation of what I have in mind.

"A fairly large number of the faculty are, while not by exchange, yet by appointment, visiting members of other college faculties—indeed at Chicago the summer quarter has come to be a sort of trying out of prospectively new members of the regular Chicago faculty.

"A still closer approximation existed in those palmy days of the University of Chicago, when that lusty young giant, a true and veritable educational trust, was absorbing, and surrounding itself with affiliated schools and co-operating colleges throughout the Mississippi valley and beyond.

"In those days a regular member of the Chicago University faculty would replace his winter quarters' teaching at Chicago by instructions at John B. Stetson university at LeLand, Fla. The professor's service and salary went on unmolested without change or interruption. He simply temporarily transferred his field of operation from Chicago to Florida. In return some members of the Stetson faculty spent the quarter at the University of Chicago.

"A more recent case is that of Prof. Grant Showerman of the University of Wisconsin, who spent a year in academic residence at Princeton, to the mutual delight and advantage of both the contracting parties. And a still more recent experiment is Harvard's plan of professional exchange with four of the smaller Western colleges.

"Would the teachers take kindly to the idea, would they respond and accept exchange positions remote from home? The most emphatic answer to this question is the fact that when the Prussian exchange opportunity was offered far more American teachers responded than did schools and with the exception of a single year this preponderance of teachers has been maintained, in spite of the fact that the American exchange teacher is obliged to sacrifice his salary, must meet all his own expenses, receiving from the Prussian government only a sum considered sufficient to pay the cost of modest living expenses, while his Prussian colleague receives from his government leave of absence with pay and the expense of travel, and from the American school to which he is accredited, a sum for board, usually $50 a month."

HARRY LUCK WAS LUCKY.

Portland (Me.) Press: Harry Luck of Oxford ought to be called Lucky Harry henceforth. He was out driving with Ethel Flood of that town the other afternoon when the horse took fright at a motor car and ran away. The animal leaped from the road into an orchard, but Harry finally succeeded in guiding the animal back into the highway, though not without many a bump against the apple trees. The horse, however, kept on his mad pace and finally the wagon struck a stump by the road, throwing Mr. Luck out of the carriage. Miss Flood still kept her seat. Whether or not her name had anything to do with the horse's next move cannot be stated, but the animal made straight for the lake, plunging in with Miss Flood in tow. The horse was a better runner than swimmer and, becoming entangled in the harness, was soon drowned. In the meantime Miss Flood calmly kept her seat, and a man who had seen the accident came to her rescue. Mr. Luck escaped with only a few bruises and Miss Flood with nothing worse than a wetting.

GOOD MONEY AFTER BAD.

Green Bag: It is a curious fact that many men, level headed enough about other things, seem to lose their wits entirely when they become involved in lawsuits. In a case recently concluded in the German courts a Berlin merchant paid out over $900 to recover the value of a 5-cent postage stamp. He had written a letter asking for an address and enclosing postage for reply. Failing to get an answer, he sued for the stamp.

The famous Missouri watermelon case was just as trifling and even more disastrous. The seed was planted on one farm, but the vine crept through a crack in the fence and the melon grew on the other side. Both farmers claimed it and instead of perceiving the humor of the situation they went to law. To add to the puzzling features of the question of ownership there was the further complication in that the fence stood on a county line, whereupon a question of the jurisdiction of the courts came up. The farmers bankrupted themselves without obtaining a decision as to the ownership.

Framers of Currency Plan Will Report on Tuesday.

Find Difficulty in Drafting Provisions That Cannot Be Evaded.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The monetary commission's plan for a national reserve association, when it goes to congress on Tuesday, will provide for an organization so constituted, according to claims made by members of the commission, that the financial institutions of New York—the seat of the money power in the United States—will control less than 10 per cent of the total representation in the central association, although they possess fully 30 per cent of the banking capital.

This has been done to guard against so-called Wall Street control of the proposed institution, which would largely supplant the United States treasury and perform the functions of a national fiscal agent.

Distribution of Control.

The South, with about 10 per cent of the banking resources of the country, would control 23 per cent of the representation in the reserve association. New England, with 12 per cent of the banking capital, would have 8 per cent; the Middle West, with 25 per cent of the banking capital would have 30 per cent, and the Far Western and Pacific states, with about 13 per cent of the banking capital, would control approximately 25 per cent.

By prescribing such a method of organization it is expected to remove the possibility of control of the reserve association from any single group or set of men.

Fifteen Branch Bodies.

Fifteen branch associations will be provided for—one in New England, two in the Eastern states, four in the South, four in the Middle West and four in the Far West. To control the reserve association it would be necessary to control a majority of the branches. This is held to be impossible.

It has been proposed that ownership of bank stocks by other banks be prohibited, and that any bank a member of the reserve association be forbidden to own any stocks in another bank. It has also been proposed that when a bank acquires stock control in another bank it be prohibited from voting that stock in the main organization.

Try to Frame Fast Rule.

Much study on the part of the commission, however failed to suggest any provision which would be impossible of evasion. Solicitor General Lehmann, who conferred with the commission at the request of President Taft was of the opinion that such a provision would present many difficulties that it would detract from the general plan. Secretary MacVeagh publicly declared in favor of such a provision. Chairman Aldrich has asked Mr. MacVeagh to suggest one.

Mr. MacVeagh has written Chairman Aldrich that he thought it was of great importance that the commission's plan of reform should include the prohibition against one bank holding stock in another directly or indirectly. He said he had been extremely busy and had not had time to frame his ideas into a psovision of law, as requested by the commission.

Thinks Precaution Taken.

Chairman Aldrich and his advisers maintain that control of the main organization would be impossible, because of the provision which scatters the representation among fifteen districts and distributes the balance of power all over the country, rather than in the financial district.

If any workable plan of defeating inter-holdings of stocks can be devised, however, it will find a place in the commission's report as an additional safeguard.

GET TEN JURORS FOR BERT CONNORS' TRIAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—Ten jurors have been obtained to try Bert H. Connors, one of three union men indicted on the charge of having conspired to dynamite the county Hall of Records, on Sept. 9, 1910. The jury panel was exhausted and the panel in another department of the superior court was drawn upon, over the objections of Le Compte Davis, Connors' attorney.

To Extend Miners' Federation.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 5.—The executive board of the Western Federation of Miners yesterday discussed plans for wide extension of membership in Western states, Mexico, Alaska and British Columbia. For this purpose the board expects to decide upon further collection of the levy authorized by the last annual convention, and raise a fund of between $150,000 and $200,000.

BRANDEIS OPENS FOR LA FOLLETTE

Starts Presidential Campaign in Minnesota of Wisconsin Senator.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 5.—With a denunciation of the present construction placed upon the Sherman anti-trust law, an indorsement of the anti-trust measures now before congress introduced by Robert M. La Follette as a supplement of the Sherman law, Lewis D. Brandeis of Boston yesterday opened the presidential campaign in Minnesota of the Wisconsin senator. Mr. Brandeis' address came at the close of a day of celebration of the first anniversary of the founding of the Minnesota Progressive Republican league, which was attended by Progressive leaders from all parts of the state.

Mr. Brandeis in his address enlarged upon the topic discussed, the handling of the trust question, and the part that Senator La Follette had taken in the movement. He declared that the La Follette anti-trust measure greatly would strengthen the Sherman law in that it would throw the "burden of proof" upon the corporation which is suspected of violating the law, and that thereby the manufacturers who make complaint only has to prove that he lost by "restraint of trade" to obtain judgment.

The Minnesota Progressive Republican league indorsed Senator La Follette unanimously for the presidency in a resolution adopted at a session of the executive committee preceding the meeting last night. The resolution was introduced by Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul, who also is president of the Roosevelt league.

According to Walter L. Houser, Senator La Follette's campaign manager, who also attended the celebration, Senator La Follette will make a tour of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, the latter part of January or early in February.

DEFENSE FUND FOR EMMETT FLOOD ASKED.

Muscatine, Iowa, Jan. 5.—An effort will be made to raise a $25,000 defense fund to be used in the case of Emmett Flood of Chicago, national organizer for the American Federation of Labor, and O. S. Wilson, business agent of the Button Workers' union and Social'st member of the city council, according to an annuncement by labor officials here. The men were indicted by the grand jury, charged with conspiracy to destroy property in connection with the button workers' strike. Unions of the state will be asked to contribute. The American Federation of Labor and the Iowa Federation of Labor also will aid the indicted men.

EARTHQUAKE IS FELT AT CANYON FERRY, MONT.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 5.—A. Ratkin, in charge of the Butte Power company, reports that at 7:55 o'clock last night what was supposed to be an earthquake felt at Canyon Ferry, about seventeen miles north of Helena, where a branch plant of the power company is located.

MAN OF 60 FATHER OF QUADRUPLETS.

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 5.—Quadruplets, three girls and a boy, were born here yesterday to Mrs. J. T. Bivens. Mrs. Bivens married her present husband, who is 60 years old, after the death of her former husband, Tom Wilson, who died in Nashville penitentiary two years ago.

WISCONSIN SOPHOMORE KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

Fremont, Neb., Jan. 5.—Fred Klumb, aged 22, a sophomore in the University of Wisconsin who gave up his studies and came to Fremont two years ago to join the engineering forces for the Elkhorn Valley drainage district, was killed yesterday near Arlington by a premature explosion of a blast of dynanite used to break ice in the drainage work.

Kimmel Back at Niles.

Niles, Mich., Jan. 5.—George A. Kimmel, the man of mystery, has returned to Niles from a hospital at Peru, Ind., where he was taken after injuries received recently in a railroad wreck. He will be given a home with Ed Austin and wife near Pokagon, seven miles north of here.

PUTTING IT UP TO EXCESSIVE DRINKERS

Lobby Talk on the Slavery of Drink

A crowd of young business men in the lobby of a hotel were talking over the case of a "good fellow" who had "lost out" on account of excessive drink.

"If anybody can show me where I get the best of the booze proposition, I'm open for conviction, but I've seen the stuff 'land' so many that it is me for the stuy away," was one man's expressed view.

Just across the street there walked a man whose name is honored in the business world—the scion of an old family. He himself looked like a tramp. Drink did it. He was spied and put at once with the "horrible example" class, while one of the boys reached into his clothes and took out a memorandum.

"Say, I've got a 'Drinker's Catechism' here that is a corker. Listen to these questions:

"'Are you wearing old clothes, and blaming others for it when it is really due to excessive drinking?

"'Is your business poor because you are drinking?

"'Do you suppose your family troubles are due to your drinking?

"'How much was your bar bill last month?

"'How many days did you lose through drink last year?

"'Has drinking interfered with your health?

"'Has drink ever put you in such a condition that you made a show of yourself in company?

"'Have you drank until your eyes stared, your talk rambled and your breath was offensive?

"'Has drinking interfered with your judgment?

"'How many friends have you lost through drink?

"'Are the people that you meet through drink real friends?

"'If your friends and relatives think you drink to excess and require treatment, is your judgment affected when you say that you don't need it?'

"Here is certainly a bunch of questions that would cause an excessive drinker to do the Bobby Burns act, and try and look at himself as others see him."

There is no good reason now why all excessive drinkers should not be saved from their own folly. At the Neal Institute, corner Belknap and West Seventh street, Superior, Wis., hundreds have already been transformed into teetotalers. At this Institute the Neal Treatment will in three brief days take from the excessive drinker, no matter how many years he has been drinking, all craving and desire for drink. The Neal treatment—strictly ethical and administered by regular physicians—consists of a perfectly harmless vegetable remedy taken internally with no hypodermic injections.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred communication from the city engineer submitting a plan for storm sewer outlet from the territory adjacent to Twenty-sixth avenue west at its intersection with Helm street, find that said plan contemplates the taking of an easement in private property for such sewer. The estimated cost of the sewer is large considering the territory to be drained, but the route proposed appears to be the only feasible route to follow.

We are of the opinion that should the city acquire an easement for such sewer that at the same time an easement for sanitary purposes should be secured. The property through which the sewer is proposed to run is largely owned by one company, and we think the city may be able to secure a dedication of such easement, thus avoiding the necessity of a condemnation. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
H. P. CURREN,
J. D. BERGSTROM,
WILLIAM L. BERNARD,
Committee.

Resolved, That the profile of proposed storm sewer from the intersection of Twenty-sixth avenue west and Helm street to the bay is hereby referred to the Board of Public Works with a request that they endeavor to secure from the owners of the property affected a dedication of an easement for both storm and sanitary sewers.

Alderman Curren moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Finance, to which was referred recommendation of the Board of Fire Commissioners, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
FRANK JORDAN,
L. A. BARNES,
FRANK MAKOWSKI,
Committee.

Resolved, That the sum of $50.00 is hereby appropriated to defray the expenses of the city electrician, F. E. Hough, in attending the seventh annual meeting of the Western Association of Electrical Inspectors to be held at Milwaukee, Wis., and the Board of Fire Commissioners is hereby authorized to draw an order on the fire department fund to cover said appropriation.

Alderman Jordan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Finance, to which was referred communication from the mayor transmitting communication from the secretary of the Associated Charities, relative to furnishing of temporary employment to those in need, is of the opinion that some relief should be furnished and that the proposed method outlined is as satisfactory as any, but we are of the opinion that this work should be put on a bisis whereby the city may know the actual cost to it of the work performed with the actual results accomplished. We submit herewith a resolution covering said proposition and recommend its adoption:
FRANK JORDAN,
L. A. BARNES,
FRANK MAKOWSKI,
Committee.

Resolved, That there is hereby appropriated from the general fund the sum of $1,000.00 to be used in the preparation of rock for the crusher for use on the streets of the city, said fund to be under the charge of the Board of Public Works.

Resolved further, That said board is hereby directed to keep an accurate account of the results produced and, upon completion of such work in the spring or sooner, if advisable or necessary, voucher the value of the rock crushed against the street maintenance and repair fund in favor of this special fund.

Alderman Jordan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Finance, to which was referred communication from the City engineer, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
FRANK JORDAN,
L. A. BARNES,
FRANK MAKOWSKI,
Committee.

Resolved, That the city engineer is hereby appointed as a representative from the City of Duluth at the Association for Standardizing Paving Specifications, the annual meeting of which is to be held at New Orleans, and it is hereby directed that an order be drawn on the public works fund in the sum of $150.00 to defray his expenses in attending said meeting.

Alderman Jordan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Finance, to which was referred recommendation of the Board of Public Works, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
FRANK JORDAN,
L. A. BARNES,
Committee.

Resolved, That the city comptroller is hereby directed to cancel the assessment of $130.03, confirmed Nov. 27, 1911, against lot 95, block 28, Duluth Proper, Third division for the cost and expense of cement sidewalk in Sixth avenue west.

Alderman Jordan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Light and Water, to which was referred communication from the Board of Water and Light Commissioners asking that the council approve supplemental contract with the Zenith Furnace company, find that the provision of the supplemental contract is to relieve the Zenith Furnace company of a penalty provided by the original contract for failure to construct additional coke ovens, and in lieu thereof to require the Zenith Furnace company to expend annually not less than $5,000.00 through its gas appliance department in addition to the net receipts of said department in the promotion and development of the use of gas within the city of Duluth until it has installed the number of ovens provided for in its contract. Your committee considers that this is a matter for each alderman to pass his own judgment upon and submit to the council the proposition for its consideration:
JNO. HOGAN,
Z. D. SCOTT,
J. B. GIBSON,
Committee.

Alderman Curren moved that the proposed contract be approved.

Motion of Alderman Hoar action on the motion was postponed for one week, by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Offices and Elections, to which was referred amendments to the charter of the City of Duluth proposed by the charter commission and submitted to this council by the mayor, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
W. M. MILLER,
J. B. GIBSON,
L. A. BARNES,
Committee.

Resolved, That the proposed amendments to the city charter submitted to this council by the mayor on Jan. 2 1912 be submitted to the voters of the city of Duluth at the annual municipal election to be held Feb. 6, 1912.

SEEK TO BAR WALL STREET

Framers of Currency Plan Will Report on Tuesday.

Find Difficulty in Drafting Provisions That Cannot Be Evaded.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The monetary commission's plan for a national reserve association, when it goes to congress on Tuesday, will provide for an organization so constituted, according to claims made by members of the commission, that the financial institutions of New York—the seat of the money power in the United States—will control less than 10 per cent of the total representation in the central association, although they possess fully 30 per cent of the banking capital.

This has been done to guard against so-called Wall Street control of the proposed institution, which would largely supplant the United States treasury and perform the functions of a national fiscal agent.

Distribution of Control.

The South, with about 10 per cent of the banking resources of the country, would control 23 per cent of the representation in the reserve association. New England, with 12 per cent of the banking capital, would have 8 per cent; the Middle West, with 25 per cent of the banking capital would have 30 per cent, and the Far Western and Pacific states, with about 13 per cent of the banking capital, would control approximately 25 per cent.

By prescribing such a method of organization it is expected to remove the possibility of control of the reserve association from any single group or set of men.

Fifteen Branch Bodies.

Fifteen branch associations will be provided for—one in New England, two in the Eastern states, four in the South, four in the Middle West and four in the Far West. To control the reserve association it would be necessary to control a majority of the branches. This is held to be impossible.

It has been proposed that ownership of bank stocks by other banks be prohibited, and that any bank a member of the reserve association be forbidden to own any stocks in another bank. It has also been proposed that when a bank acquires stock control in another bank it be prohibited from voting that stock in the main organization.

Try to Frame Fast Rule.

Much study on the part of the commission, however failed to suggest any provision which would be impossible of evasion. Solicitor General Lehmann, who conferred with the commission at the request of President Taft was of opinion that such a provision would present so many difficulties that it would detract from the general plan. Secretary MacVeagh publicly declared in favor of such a provision. Chairman Aldrich has asked Mr. MacVeagh to suggest one.

Mr. MacVeagh has written Chairman Aldrich that he thought it was of great importance that the commission's plan of reform should include the prohibition against one bank holding stock in another directly or indirectly. He said he had been extremely busy and had not had time to frame his ideas into a psovision of law, as requested by the commission.

Thinks Precaution Taken.

Chairman Aldrich and his advisers maintain that control of the main organization would be impossible, because of the provision which scatters the representation among fifteen districts and distributes the balance of power all over the country, rather than in the financial district.

If any workable plan of defeating inter-holdings of stocks can be devised, however, it will find a place in the commission's report as an additional safeguard.

GET TEN JURORS FOR BERT CONNORS' TRIAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—Ten jurors have been obtained to try Bert H. Connors, one of three union men indicted on the charge of having conspired to dynamite the county Hall of Records, on Sept. 9, 1910. The jury panel was exhausted and the panel in another department of the superior court was drawn upon, over the objections of Le Compte Davis, Connors' attorney.

To Extend Miners' Federation.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 5.—The executive board of the Western Federation of Miners yesterday discussed plans for wide extension of membership in Western states, Mexico, Alaska and British Columbia. For this purpose the board expects to decide upon further collection of the levy authorized by the last annual convention, and raise a fund of between $150,000 and $200,000.

BRANDEIS OPENS FOR LA FOLLETTE

Starts Presidential Campaign in Minnesota of Wisconsin Senator.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 5.—With a denunciation of the present construction placed upon the Sherman anti-trust law, an indorsement of the anti-trust measures now before congress introduced by Robert M. La Follette as a supplement of the Sherman law, Lewis D. Brandeis of Boston yesterday opened the presidential campaign in Minnesota of the Wisconsin senator. Mr. Brandeis' address came at the close of a day of celebration of the first anniversary of the founding of the Minnesota Progressive Republican league, which was attended by Progressive leaders from all parts of the state.

Mr. Brandeis in his address enlarged upon the topic discussed, the handling of the trust question, and the part that Senator La Follette had taken in the movement. He declared that the La Follette anti-trust measure greatly would strengthen the Sherman law in that it would throw the "burden of proof" upon the corporation which is suspected of violating the law, and that thereby the manufacturers who make complaint only has to prove that he lost by "restraint of trade" to obtain judgment.

The Minnesota Progressive Republican league indorsed Senator La Follette unanimously for the presidency in a resolution adopted at a session of the executive committee preceding the meeting last night. The resolution was introduced by Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul, who also is president of the Roosevelt league.

According to Walter L. Houser, Senator La Follette's campaign manager, who also attended the celebration, Senator La Follette will make a tour of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, the latter part of January or early in February.

DEFENSE FUND FOR EMMETT FLOOD ASKED.

Muscatine, Iowa, Jan. 5.—An effort will be made to raise a $25,000 defense fund to be used in the case of Emmett Flood of Chicago, national organizer for the American Federation of Labor, and O. S. Wilson, business agent of the Button Workers' union and Social'st member of the city council, according to an announcement by labor officials here. The men were indicted by the grand jury, charged with conspiracy to destroy property in connection with the button workers' strike. Unions of the state will be asked to contribute. The American Federation of Labor and the Iowa Federation of Labor also will aid the indicted men.

EARTHQUAKE IS FELT AT CANYON FERRY, MONT.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 5.—A. Ratkin, in charge of the Butte Power company, reports that at 7:55 o'clock last night what was supposed to be an earthquake felt at Canyon Ferry, about seventeen miles north of Helena, where a branch plant of the power company is located.

Fremont, Neb., Jan. 5.—Fred Klumb, aged 22, a sophomore in the University of Wisconsin who gave up his studies and came to Fremont two years ago to join the engineering forces for the Elkhorn Valley drainage district, was killed yesterday near Arlington by a premature explosion of a blast of dynamite used to break ice in the drainage work.

Kimmel Back at Niles.

Niles, Mich., Jan. 5.—George A. Kimmel the man of mystery, has returned to Niles from a hospital at Peru, Ind., where he was taken after injuries received recently in a railroad wreck. He will be given a home with Ed Austin and wife near Pokagon, seven miles north of here.

PUTTING IT UP TO EXCESSIVE DRINKERS

Lobby Talk on the Slavery of Drink

A crowd of young business men in the lobby of a hotel were talking over the case of a "good fellow" who had "lost out" on account of excessive drink.

"If anybody can show me where I get the best of the booze proposition, I'm open for conviction, but I've seen the stuff 'land' so many that it is me for the stay away," was one man's expressed view.

Just across the street there walked a man whose name is honored in the business world—the scion of an old family. He himself looked like a tramp. Drink did it. He was spied and put at once with the "horrible example" class, while one of the boys reached into his clothes and took out a memorandum.

"Say, I've got a 'Drinker's Catechism' here that is a corker. Listen to these questions:

"'Are you wearing old clothes, and blaming others for it when it is really due to excessive drinking?

"'Is your business poor because you are drinking?

"'Do you suppose your family troubles are due to your drinking?

"'How much was your bar bill last month?

"'How many days did you lose through drink last year?

"'Has drinking interfered with your health?

"'Has drink ever put you in such a condition that you made a show of yourself in company?

"'Have you drank until your eyes stared, your talk rambled and your breath was offensive?

"'Has drinking interfered with your judgment?

"'How many friends have you lost through drink?

"'Are the people that you meet through drink real friends?

"'If your friends and relatives think you drink to excess and require treatment, is your judgment affected when you say that you don't need it?'

"Here is certainly a bunch of questions that would cause an excessive drinker to do the Bobby Burns act, and try and look at himself as others see him."

There is no good reason now why all excessive drinkers should not be saved from their own folly. At the Neal Institute, corner Belknap and West Seventh street, Superior, Wis., hundreds have already been transformed into teetotalers. At this Institute the Neal Treatment will in three brief days take from the excessive drinker, no matter how many years he has been drinking, all craving and desire for drink. The Neal treatment—strictly ethical and administered by regular physicians—consists of a perfectly harmless vegetable remedy taken internally with no hypodermic injections.

Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred communication from the city engineer submitting a plan for storm sewer outlet from the territory adjacent to Twenty-sixth avenue west at its intersection with Helm street, find that said plan contemplates the taking of an easement in private property for such sewer. The estimated cost of the sewer is large considering the territory to be drained, but the route proposed appears to be the only feasible route to follow.

We are of the opinion that should the city acquire an easement for such sewer that at the same time an easement for sanitary purposes should be secured. The property through which the sewer is proposed to run is largely owned by one company, and we think the city may be able to secure a dedication of such easement, thus avoiding the necessity of a condemnation. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
H. P. CURREN,
J. D. BERGSTROM,
WILLIAM L. BERNARD,
Committee.

Resolved, That the profile of proposed storm sewer from the intersection of Twenty-sixth avenue west and Helm street to the bay is hereby referred to the Board of Public Works with a request that they endeavor to secure from the owners of the property affected a dedication of an easement for both storm and sanitary sewers.

Alderman Curren moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan, 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred recommendation of the Board of Public Works, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
H. P. CURREN,
J. D. BERGSTROM,
WILLIAM L. BERNARD,
Committee.

Resolved, That an extension of time is hereby granted to Adam McAdams to Feb. 20, 1912, for the completion of his contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Fifty-third alley west from Ramsey street to Polk street, provided the surety on the bond therefor shall first file its written consent thereto in form approved by the city attorney.

Alderman Curren moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred estimates to contractors, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
H. P. CURREN,
J. D. BERGSTROM,
WILLIAM L. BERNARD,
Committee.

Resolved, That estimates to contractors are hereby allowed, and it is hereby directed that orders be drawn on the street intersection and storm sewer fund to pay the same, as follows:

To George R. King, in the sum of $649.79, on his contract for the construction of a storm sewer in Sixth street from Piedmont avenue to Twenty-third avenue west.

To C. R. McLean, in the sum of $1,642.20, on his contract for the construction of a storm sewer in Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues east, Woodland avenue and Fifth street.

Alderman Curren moved the adoption of the resolution, and is was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Finance, to which was referred recommendation of the Board of Fire Commissioners, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
FRANK JORDAN,
L. A. BARNES,
FRANK MAKOWSKI,
Committee.

Resolved, That there is hereby appropriated from the general fund the sum of $1,000.00 to be used in the preparation of rock for the crusher for use on the streets of the city, said fund to be under the charge of the Board of Public Works.

Resolved further, That said board is hereby directed to keep an accurate account of the results produced and, upon completion of such work in the spring or sooner, if advisable or necessary, voucher the value of the rock crushed against the street maintenance and repair fund in favor of this special fund.

Alderman Jordan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed Jan. 2, 1912.
Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Finance, to which was referred communication from the city engineer, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
FRANK JORDAN,
L. A. BARNES,
FRANK MAKOWSKI,
Committee.

Resolved, That the city engineer is hereby appointed as a representative from the City of Duluth at the Association for Standardizing Paving Specifications, the annual meeting of which is to be held at New Orleans, and it is hereby directed that an order be drawn on the public works fund in the sum of $150.00 to defray his expenses in attending said meeting.

Alderman Jordan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Approved Jan. 4, 1912.

To the Common Council:
Your Committee on Light and Water, to which was referred communication from the Board of Water and Light Commissioners asking that the council approve supplemental contract with the Zenith Furnace company, find that the provision of the supplemental contract is to relieve the Zenith Furnace company of a penalty provided by the original contract for failure to construct additional coke ovens, and in lieu thereof to require the Zenith Furnace company to expend annually not less than $5,000.00 through its gas appliance department in addition to the net receipts of said department in the promotion and development of the use of gas within the city of Duluth until it has installed the number of ovens provided for in its contract. Your committee considers that this is a matter for each alderman to pass his own judgment upon and submit to the council the proposition for its consideration:
JNO. HOGAN,
Z. D. SCOTT,
J. B. GIBSON,
Committee.

Alderman Curren moved that the proposed contract be approved.

On motion of Alderman Hoar action on the motion was postponed for one week, by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

WHEAT HAS A REACTION

Heavy Sales for Profit Cause a Slump Despite Bullish News.

Conservatism of Flax Buyers Causes Slight Decline in Price.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 5.—Although the Argentine news was exceedingly bullish today in regard to both wheat and flax, both of these grains suffered a slight decline on the Duluth market today. Wheat suffered a reaction from yesterday's advance on account of profit-taking. Flax sagged a bit because buyers were cautious about bidding it above the prevailing high level. Duluth May wheat today closed at a decline of ⅞ to 1⅛c. Cash wheat closed at the May price. Durum, rye and barley closed unchanged, oats ⅞c higher and corn 1⅛c up. January flax lost ½c and May ¼c.

Wheat markets in various parts of the world had some rather illogical movements this morning. In the face of what looked like extremely bullish conditions, many of these markets had at times very bearish movements. These bearish movements were accounted for by some of the Duluth brokers by attributing them to reaction and profit-taking.

News from the Argentine wheat fields today was of a very bullish character. There were persistent reports of great damage to the wheat crop in that country by rains, storms and black rust. Snow's report placed the estimated surplus of wheat for export at 98,000,000 bu, which is about the lowest figure that has yet been given.

Last night Buenos Ayres wheat closed at 2⅞ cents up for January and 1⅛ cents up for February. This morning January opened 4⅛ cents higher and February 3⅝ cents higher. These quotations, together with reports of damage to Argentine crops, light Platte offers and a good demand on the part of the United Kingdom and the European continent, caused quite a bullish movement early in the day on the Liverpool market. This was succeeded by a period of profit-taking and there was a reaction that carried Liverpool wheat below yesterday's close. This news affected the North American markets, and many of them made rather weak openings.

Bullish news from Argentina, however, soon strengthened them and wheat went up at a bound. Then came a period of profit-taking and the markets of this continent sagged considerably below the closing figures of yesterday. In the meantime Liverpool recovered from its reaction, but this recovery was succeeded by another period of profit-taking and that market closed with wheat unchanged to ⅛d lower.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.07⅞, opened today at $1.07¾ and then began a rapid rise that seemed to promise a very bullish day. Then the reaction set in. At noon it was selling at $1.07⅝. Winnipeg and Minneapolis at that time were both a shade below yesterday's close and Chicago was a shade above it.

Flax Market is Firm.

Flax held its high prices well, but up to noon showed little disposition to advance, although the Buenos Ayres news was very bullish. The closing price of January flax on the Buenos Ayres market last night was $2.22½, showing an advance of 2¾c, and at the opening this morning there was a further advance of 1½c. One might naturally suppose that Duluth flaxseed would go up in the light of this information, but there was not enough of a demand. Trading was dull. Offers were few and the demand was not such as to press the market. Crushers showed no disposition to bid the already high price of Duluth flax up any higher. Buyers took what was offered pretty promptly, but they were careful not to force the market up. At noon today Duluth January flax was ¼c off and May was unchanged.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Takes Upward Twist on News From Argentina.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Increased storms in the Argentine, making harvest conditions miserable, gave the wheat market today an upward twist. Black rust damage throughout the central and southern portions of the country were confirmed, although the outlook in the extreme South was said to be still good. There were also predictions that world shipments other than from America would be light. Improvement in cash demand at the leading markets outside of Chicago counted, too, in favor of the bulls. The opening was ⅛c off to ⅛@¼c up. May started at $1.00⅝@1.01 and rose to $1.01⅜.

After the market had made a little further advance, profit-taking brought about a reaction. The close, however, was firm at $1.01¼, a gain of ¼c net.

Trade in corn was slow. The market after opening easier, however, turned upward in sympathy with wheat. Initial figures for May, were 1¼c to ⅛@¼c down at 63½@63⅝c to 63@c. As ascent of 64c followed.

The market continued to gain until reports that grading showed improvement led to a setback. The close was firm, ⅛@⅜c net higher for May at 64⅛@64⅜c.

Oats showed dullness at the outset, but soon worked higher on the development of a light scattered demand. May opened a shade to ⅛c lower at 48⅜@48¼c to 48¼c and climbed to 48⅞c.

Because of lightness of offerings the market for packing house product displayed considerable strength. An advance in the price of hogs furnished additional encouragement for a lift to values. First sales were 2½c to 5@7½c higher, with May delivery $16.10 for pork, $9.47½ for lard and $8.70 for ribs.

Car lot receipts: Wheat, 13 cars, with 2 of contract grade; corn, 403 cars, with none of contract grade; oats 65 cars. Total receipts of wheat at Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth today were 187 cars, compared with 266 cars last week and 131 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

TO LAY A GHOST.

London Daily Mail: Not many people perhaps can aver that they are without superstitions of any kind, but on the other hand not many still believe whole heartedly in the ghost lore that in spite of education crops up in out of the way parts of the country.

Miss M. I. Lawson has collected some interesting stories from the byways of ghost and folk lore and incidentally traces back to their source some of the old customs that still flourish here and there.

"It is only when we begin to investigate the origin of certain old customs and superstitions that we gain any real idea of how deeply the darkness of the middle ages was the fear of the supernatural, and particularly of evil spirits.

"To this day, in a certain county, the cottagers, after the Saturday morning scrubbing, take a piece of chalk and draw a rough geometrical pattern round the edge of the threshold stone. This they think will keep the witches—ancestors thought it a sure way of keeping the devil from entering the house.

"Another custom often noticeable in country churchyards is the reluctance to burn the dead on the north side of the churchyard; this is because evil spirits were always supposed to lurk on that side of the church precincts.

"One reason probably very old yew trees are so often found in country churchyards is that originally these trees were planted to supply the peasants with wood for their bows, for in lawless times it was soon discovered that the only place where trees would be safe from nightly marauders was the churchyard, where not the most hardened thief dared venture between darkness and dawn.

"An old writer tells us: 'The mode of addressing a ghost is by commanding it to tell you what it is and what its business. During the narration of its business a ghost must by no means be interrupted by questions of any kind; so doing is extremely dangerous.'"

It is not every one who is acquainted with the precise meaning of the expression "laying a ghost," which Brand in his "Antiquities" advised as the best remedy for cases of troublesome hauntings. "Sometimes," he says, "ghosts appear and disturb a house without deigning to give a reason for so doing; with these the shortest way is to lay them.

"For this purpose there must be two or three clergymen and the ceremony must be performed in Latin. • • • A ghost may be laid for any time less than 100 years and in any place or body, as a solid oak, the point of a sword or a barrel of beer or a pipe of wine. • • • But of all places the most common and what a ghost least likes is the Red Sea."

"From another authority we learn that seven clergymen are necessary to this weird performance. They must all sit in a row, each holding a lighted candle, and should all seven candles continue to burn steadily it shows that not one of the reverend gentlemen is capable of wrestling with the uneasy spirit.

"But if one of the lights suddenly goes out it is a sign that its holder may read the prayer of exorcism, though in so doing he must be careful that the ghost, who will mockingly repeat the words, does not get a line ahead of him. If this happens his labor is lost and the ghost will defy his efforts and remain a wanderer.

"As to 'corpse candles' we are told that they are called candles from their resemblance not to the body of a candle, but the fire.

"If a little candle is seen of a pale bluish color then follows the corpse of some infant, if a larger one then the corpse of some one come to age. • • • If two candles come from different places and meet two corpses will do the same, and if any of these candles be seen to turn aside through some bypath leading to the church the following corpses will be found to take exactly the same way. Sometimes these candles point out the place where people will sicken and die."

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

After Recovering From Early Heaviness, Market Declines Sharply.

Rallies on Short Covering Before Close, Which Is Strong.

New York, Jan. 5. — Irregularity was shown in the course of prices at the opening of the stock market today. Market leaders, including Union Pacific, United States Steel and Reading made substantial fractional recessions while Denver & Rio Grande preferred advanced a point. There was also some early display of strength in Rock Island preferred. Price movements otherwise were not noteworthy. A brief bull demonstration in Lehigh Valley lifted it a point to 184⅞, but the rise was cancelled when liberal selling orders appeared in other stocks. Union Pacific broke to 1¼ below yesterday's closing, and Reading, United States Steel and the copper stocks also fell sharply. Denver & Rio Grande preferred was in good demand and rose 3 points as a result of the change in the executive management. Fractional recoveries threw the market into dullness.

Fractional recoveries from the early heaviness were recorded by the more active issues before midday, but the movement as a whole was dull and hesitating. Further demand from the Gould stocks and continued strength in the local utilities were among the few notable features.

Bonds were firm with sharp advances in the local traction issues.

Renewed selling of Union Pacific, United States Steel and other active issues, together with a sharp decline in St. Paul, arrested the rise in Lehigh Valley, and the list generally tended downward. Some of the favorite stocks touched the lowest figures of the week. Central Leather preferred yielded 2½.

The market closed strong. After Lehigh Valley had receded to last night's close and Union Pacific, Reading, St. Paul and United States Steel had been forced a point or more below, the list rallied sharply on short covering.

BOSTON COPPER STOCKS

The Boston stock quotations furnished by Gay & Sturgis, 326 West Superior street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 5.—The markets were dull again today and a considerable amount of professional effort was evident to try and bring about a reaction. Some little affect on prices in general list was seen but every recession caused greater dullness and it was apparent no real stock was coming out.

At the close a smart rally placed prices about at last night's close. The least resistance to price movement is towards higher prices. This is evident almost every day.

It is only a question of a few days when stocks will have another bulge. Locally market had no trend, but there were no stocks in any quantity in sight anywhere.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 5.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 2 points in response to steadier cables than looked for, but eased off right after the call and later in the morning was nervous and unsettled with prices some to to 6 points under the closing figures of yesterday. Business was moderately active. Selling was encouraged by an idea that the late strength in Liverpool resulted from American bull support.

Spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 9.35; middling gulf, 9.60. Sales, 200 bales.

FREAK RESTAURANTS.

Tit-Bits: There is (or was) in Berlin a certain cafe where rudeness is the keynote of the waiting staff. Every patron who enters the restaurant is hustled roughly into a seat, abruptly interrogated as to his wants and finally has to submit to seeing his food thrust before him with as little ceremony as one might show to a stray dog.

This cafe is, of course, one of the many freak restaurants which abound on the continent and the entire scheme of rudeness is simply a device to attract customers in search of a new sensation, which they undoubtedly secure.

Tourists who did the sights of Paris a few years ago will probably remember the amazing "convict" cafe, where every waiter was garbed like a felon wearing the hideous uniform of the French convict. Chains, handcuffs and other grim relics decorated the walls of the extraordinary restaurant and the plates on which the food was served were models of prison dishes. The owner of this freak cafe, no doubt, amassed a considerable fortune.

Paris is undoubtedly the parent of weird cafes. Near the Boulevard Montmartre there stands a famous Cabaret de Neant (Inn of Nothingness, of Death). The entrance to the cafe is through a small opening in a black shutter and once inside the visitor is appalled by the gloom of the room. Lighted by flickering tapers its walls are hung with skeletons in various forms of activity. Food and drinks are served in coffins and the waiters are garbed like undertakers' mutes.

More cheerful are the restaurants of the Isle Robinson, a summer resort near Paris. These restaurants are suspended from the branches of huge trees and amid the leaves and branches of magnificent oaks and beaches patrons eat their food and sip their summer drinks, music being provided by a special band of feathered musicians.

A "silent" cafe was inaugurated some years ago in Paris, probably to cater to votaries of the "rest" cure. Not a word was permitted to be spoken above a whisper and even the orders to the staff had to be given in writing. The strange venture only enjoyed a brief life and soon faded into still greater silence.

HAT STARTE DA TRAIN.

London Standard: A train at Sittingbourne suddenly started before everything was ready and had to be stopped. The engine driver had mistaken a large green plume in a woman's hat for the guard's flag.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Six Hundred Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Henry Kirchhan and his wife, Mary Kirchhan, Mortgagors, to James Rawson, Mortgagee, bearing date the Second day of January, 1894, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Saint Louis, and State of Minnesota, on the Eleventh day of January, 1894, in Book 80 of Mortgages, on page 378.

Which said Mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by Alice E. Williams, as administratrix of the estate of said James Rawson, Deceased, an authenticated copy of letters appointing her such administratrix being recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on January 25, 1901, in Book "M" of Miscellaneous, on page 613, and by Ann M. Rawson and Alice E. Williams, to Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company by written assignment dated the tenth day of February, 1911, and recorded on the second day of January, 1912, at 8 o'clock A. M., in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book 303 of Mortgages, page 292; and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz:

Lot number Six (6), in Block number One Hundred Forty-eight (148), in West Duluth, Fifth Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, on record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Saint Louis County, Minnesota, said premises being situated in Saint Louis County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Saint Louis County at the Sheriff's office in the County Court House, in the City of Duluth in said County and State, on the nineteenth day of February, 1912, at ten o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Five Hundred Dollars, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars, attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 2nd, A. D. 1912.

DULUTH, WINNIPEG & PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,
Assignee of Mortgagee.

W. D. BAILEY, Attorney.
Alworth Building, Duluth, Minnesota.

There have been lower points reached by the mercury than the 32 deg. below zero registered Friday morning and again last night, but yesterday the "coldest day in the history of the weather bureau." HOME NEAR BARNUM DESTROYED BY FIRE

Barnum, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house of W. W. Beck on his homestead west of town was entirely destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. The fire started near the chimney while the family was at breakfast, and had gained such headway that the family was forced to make a hurried exit into the 20 deg. below zero atmosphere with just the clothing they were wearing. Hardly anything in the way of furniture or clothes was saved, and to make matters still worse, we are informed that he carried no insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Beck have been particularly unfortunate during the last three years, having had a great deal of sickness in their family to contend with, horses dying, etc.

The Ladies' Aid of the Swedish Lutheran church will have a basket social at the home of Nels Peterson on Wednesday evening, Jan. 11, at 7:30.

News has been received here of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Leonard at their home in Duluth last week. Mrs. Leonard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Felgen, two of Barnum's pioneer residents.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Herbert, formerly of this place, spent New Year's day with their daughter and grandchildren and great-grandchildren at West Duluth. Dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Bartz, a granddaughter, to a company of fourteen.

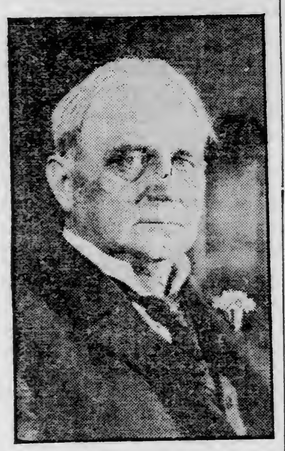

Misses Mamie and Julia Brandt have returned from a short stay at Duluth. Their brother Herman also was a visitor at the Head of the Lakes.

J. D. Barstow has so far recovered from his recent sickness that he intends to take a trip downtown on the first mild day that comes.

R. W. Coates left Wednesday for Dubuque, Iowa, where he went to attend to some business matters. He expects to be gone about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Newman returned Tuesday morning from a visit with Duluth friends. Miss Lillian is visiting with her sister at Askov, Minn.

CHAMP CLARK
Of Missouri.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Speaker Champ Clark, who has fought off a severe cold since his return from his Western trip, has been forced to take to his bed. It is feared that he is threatened with pneumonia, but his physicians hope that this can be averted. The speaker presided in the house yesterday, but immediately on his return to his home was compelled to retire. The speaker contracted a cold during his speaking tour in Oklahoma.

A solution of the problem of conservation of our national resources in Alaska was suggested by Senator La Follette in his address in Danville.

"The sensible and practical thing to do," he said, "is to create a board of public works for Alaska, similar to the Isthmian canal commission. This board of public works should undertake not merely to build a railroad from Controller Bay to the canal fields, but it should acquire all the railroads in Alaska, and settle at once the policy

AMERICAN SHOT BY BERLIN WOMAN

Norbert M. Rodkinson May Die of Wound—Assailant Attempts Suicide.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Norbert M. Rodkinson, a prominent member of the American colony here, was shot, probably with fatal effect, last evening by a milliner named Alwyne Slede. The woman was intercepted as she was escaping from Mr. Rodkinson's office, and immediately fired a bullet into her own body which is not, however, likely to prove fatal.

The affair, according to the allegations of Miss Slede's friends, was brought about by the interruption of long standing relations between her and Mr. Rodkinson and his refusal to support her two children.

Mrs. Rodkinson asserts that it was an attempt at extortion on the part of Miss Slede, who had been a servant of the family years ago in Russia.

Mr. Rodkinson is a director of the American chamber of commerce here and has represented American firms for many years in Germany and Russia. He had some exciting experiences during the Russo-Japanese war, when he was concerned in attempts to sell South American warships to Russia. He is a native of New Orleans.

Well Known in New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—Norbert M. Rodkinson is well known in New York and has worked on newspapers here and elsewhere. Within seven or eight years he has resided in Europe, representing American firms. He is about 45 years old and distantly related to the late Gen. Beauregard of Confederate army fame.

PROTECTING MANCHUS

Republicans in China Feel Sure of Victory and Show Good Faith.

President Sun's Cabinet Is Regarded as Exceptionally Strong.

Shanghai, Jan. 6.—The Republican government is assuming a very strong position and now considers that the future of China is entirely in its hands. The leaders believe the country is almost unanimously in favor of the Republican movement and the regular trained army will come over to their side almost to a man.

The cabinet formed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen today announced the terms it will offer to the Manchus on their submission. These are much more generous than was at first believed would be the case. They include the free grant of the Forbidden City and the summer palace in Pekin, which are worth hundreds of millions of dollars.

The good faith of the Republicans is shown by the fact that the Manchus in the Southern provinces are now being supported, fed and clothed by the revolutionaries, and any abuse of

ROOSEVELT CHOPS DOWN SOME TREES

Biting Cold Makes No Impression Upon the Colonel.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Col. Roosevelt and half a dozen men chopped down trees today in the woods surrounding the ex-president's home at Sagamore Hill. When Col. Roosevelt was not wielding an ax he was giving directions. The biting cold made no impression on him.

After more than a year of comparative obscurity, Oyster Bay is again achieving prominence. When his unsuccessful tour through New York state in 1910 in behalf of Henry L. Stimson ended, Col. Roosevelt went in to retirement. Until a few weeks ago he was permitted to remain undisturbed at his home, but as a result of recent political developments, Sagamore Hill is once more in a state of siege. Despite Col. Roosevelt's refusal to talk politics, a squad of correspondents has camped in the village.

The government has a score or more of important documents which it will have read into the record in an attempt to show that a pool for the fixing of prices and the control of shipments into different markets existed after the organization of the National Packing company by the Armour, Swift and Morris interests in March, 1903.

State Commission Files Report and Charges Criminal Negligence.

Eight Employes Who Disobeyed Orders Held Responsible.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Placing blame on the railroad company for allowing employes to violate the rules and on employes for doing so, the state railroad and warehouse commission today filed with the attorney general a report on the wreck of the Columbian Limited on the St. Paul road, and recommended that criminal action be brought. At least nine men it is charged, violated company rules—a violation which resulted in the deaths of ten persons and the maiming of eighteen.

Wearied with the claims advanced by numerous roads that the cars of their finest trains are of all-steel construction, the railroad commission recommends a system of government inspection of the construction of cars, rails and all steel work used in the manufacture of cars.

"The increasing number of accidents caused by broken rails," the commission's report says, "and switches, and the imperfect condition of certain portions of equipment, make it very apparent that the interests of both the public and the railway companies will be best subserved by having such inspection."

Summary of Report.

The commission's report, summarized, says:

First. The collision resulted from violation by employes of the rules of the company, and neglect on the part of the company in seeing that its rules are observed.

Second. Nine men were guilty of violation of rules, which resulted in the wreck, and eight contributed in a

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS

Ticket in North Dakota Has Been Practically Completed.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Progressive Republican ticket for the coming election has practically been completed, only a few positions remaining to be filled. Applicants for the vacancies are not numerous, but within the next few weeks there very likely will be a sufficient crop of prospectives to fill the places.

All of the leading positions, from congressman down, have been cared for, and the ticket follows:

Congressman, First district—H. T. Helgeson of Milton.

Congressman, Second district—George M. Young of Valley City.

Congressman, Third district—J. M. Devine of Minot.

Governor—J. A. Buchanan of Buchanan.

Lieutenant governor—J. M. Hanley of Mandan.

Secretary of state—P. D. Norton of Hettinger.

Insurance commissioner—Walter C. Taylor, La Moure.

State auditor—D. K. Brightbill of Cando, or Carlo Jorgenson of Bismarck.

Railroad commissioners — W. H. Stutsman of Mandan, O. P. N. Anderson of Starkweather, and J. F. Purcell of Fargo.

With present indications pointing strongly to no contests on the positions of superintendent of public instruction and state treasurer, there remain only the position of attorney general and commission of agriculture to fill.

SIGNS NAME TO DOCUMENT

Says His Conscience Will Not Let Him Hold Out Longer.

Hopes to Live That He May Bring Religion to Other Men.

Prosecutor Says Trial Will Go on Just as It Was Planned.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, former pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, today made a written confession to the effect that he poisoned his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell. The statement was given into the hands of his counsel, who made the confession public at 1 p. m.

The confession, bearing Richeson's signature, reads:

"I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted."

The full text of the confession follows:

"Boston, Jan. 3, 1912.

"John L. Lee, Esq.,

"William A. Morse, Esq.,

"Philip R. Dunbar, Esq.,

"Gentlemen: Deeply penitent for my sin, and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted.

"I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however deprived and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial, her whose pure young life I have destroyed. Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned.

"In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live, only because within some prison walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some other despairing soul, and at last find favor with my God.

"You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court.

Sincerely yours,
CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON.

Just before noon today the judges of the superior court and the district attorney went into conference at the courthouse, and about an hour later representatives of the press were called to the office of William A. Morse, the leading counsel for the accused clergyman.

In the office were a dozen newspaper men, while in a private office were Mr. Morse, John L. Lee, the Virginian lawyer, engaged by the father of the young clergyman, and Philip R. Dunbar.

After all the papers had been found to be represented, Mr. Morse said: "Gentlemen, I now give you Mr. Richeson's confession."

Typewritten sheets containing the confession were handed to the newspaper men, and those who paused to ask for some further explanation were told that there was nothing more to be said at this time.

Confession Three Days Old.

The fact that the confession was dated three days ago was pointed out to the counsel, but they refused to comment upon it.

District Attorney Pelletier learned of the confession of Richeson from newspaper men, but later confirmed it from Mr. Morse. He said:

"The trial will go on just the same, no matter what statement may be issued by Richeson."

The crime charged against Richeson, who was formerly pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, is the murder of Avis Linnell on the night of Oct. 14. Miss Linnell, who was 19 years old, was a native of Hiannis, where Richeson formerly preached and, was studying at the New England conservatory of music in Boston.

Miss Linnell was found dying in a bathroom in the Young Women's Christian Association building on Warrenton street, Boston, where she lodged. At first it was believed that the young woman had taken poison with suicidal intent, but a day or two later it became known that she had taken cyanide of pottassium in the belief that it would remedy her condition.

In their investigation into the death of the girl, the police found evidence, they claimed, which tended to implicate Richeson, and he was arrested on Oct. 20 at the home of Miss Violet Edmands, to whom he was to have been married on Oct. 31. His indictment followed.

Settler's Family Routed Early in Morning With Thermometer 20 Below.

Barnum, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house of W. W. Beck on his homestead west of town was entirely destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. The fire started near the chimney while the family was at breakfast, and had gained such headway that the family was forced to make a hurried exit into the 20 deg. below zero atmosphere with just the clothing they were wearing. Hardly anything in the way of furniture or clothes was saved, and to make matters still worse, we are informed that he carried no insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Beck have been particularly unfortunate during the last three years, having had a great deal of sickness in their family to contend with, horses dying, etc.

The Ladies' Aid of the Swedish Lutheran church will have a basket social at the home of Nels Peterson on Wednesday evening, Jan. 11, at 7:30.

News has been received here of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Leonard at their home in Duluth last week. Mrs. Leonard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Felgen, two of Barnum's pioneer residents.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Herbert, formerly of this place, spent New Year's day with their daughter and grandchildren and great-grandchildren at West Duluth. Dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Bartz, a granddaughter, to a company of fourteen.

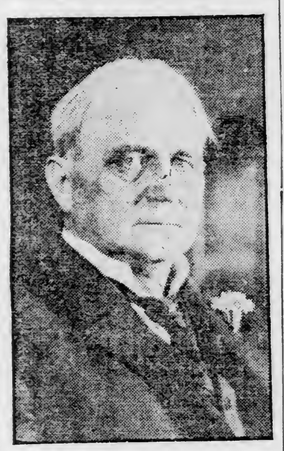

Misses Mamie and Julia Brandt have returned from a short stay at Duluth. Their brother Herman also was a visitor at the Head of the Lakes.

J. D. Barstow has so far recovered from his recent sickness that he intends to take a trip downtown on the first mild day that comes.

E. W. Coates left Wednesday for Dubuque, Iowa, where he went to attend to some business matters. He expects to be gone about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Newman returned Tuesday morning from a visit with Duluth friends. Miss Lillian is visiting with her sister at Askov, Minn.

PNEUMONIA THREATENS SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

CHAMP CLARK
Of Missouri.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Speaker Champ Clark, who has fought off a severe cold since his return from his Western trip, has been forced to take to his bed. It is feared that he is threatened with pneumonia, but his physicians hope that this can be averted. The speaker presided in the house yesterday, but immediately on his return to his home was compelled to retire. The speaker contracted a cold during his speaking tour in Oklahoma.

EXPLAINS HIS ALASKA PLAN

LaFollette Speaks in Danville, Joseph Cannon's Home Town.

Urges Appointment of Board of Public Works for Territory.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Senator Robert M. La Follette closed his campaign in Illinois for delegates to the national Republican convention with a speech this morning at Danville, the home of Former Speaker of the House Joseph G. Cannon. Later in the day Senator La Follette will go into Indiana, where he will speak at Indianapolis, Terre Haute and Richmond.

Would Solve Alaskan Problem.

A solution of the problem of conservation of our national resources in Alaska was suggested by Senator La Follette in his address in Danville.

"The sensible and practical thing to do," he said, "is to create a board of public works for Alaska, similar to the Isthmian canal commission. This board of public works should undertake not merely to build a railroad from Controller Bay to the canal fields, but it should acquire all the railroads in Alaska, and settle at once the policy

AMERICAN SHOT BY BERLIN WOMAN

Norbert M. Rodkinson May Die of Wound—Assailant Attempts Suicide.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Norbert M. Rodkinson, a prominent member of the American colony here, was shot, probably with fatal effect, last evening by a milliner named Alwyne Slede. The woman was intercepted as she was escaping from Mr. Rodkinson's office, and immediately fired a bullet into her own body which is not, however, likely to prove fatal.

The affair, according to the allegations of Miss Slede's friends, was brought about by the interruption of long standing relations between her and Mr. Rodkinson and his refusal to support her two children.

Mrs. Rodkinson asserts that it was an attempt at extortion on the part of Miss Slede, who had been a servant of the family years ago in Russia.

Mr. Rodkinson is a director of the American chamber of commerce here and has represented American firms for many years in Germany and Russia. He had some exciting experiences during the Russo-Japanese war, when he was concerned in attempts to sell South American warships to Russia. He is a native of New Orleans.

Well Known in New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—Morbert M. Rodkinson is well known in New York and has worked on newspapers here and elsewhere. Within seven or eight years he has resided in Europe, representing American firms. He is about 45 years old and distantly related to the late Gen. Beauregard of Confederate army fame.

PROTECTING MANCHUS

Republicans in China Feel Sure of Victory and Show Good Faith.

President Sun's Cabinet Is Regarded as Exceptionally Strong.

Shanghai, Jan. 6.—The Republican government is assuming a very strong position and now considers that the future of China is entirely in its hands. The leaders believe the country is almost unanimously in favor of the Republican movement and the regular trained army will come over to their side almost to a man.

The cabinet formed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen today announced the terms it will offer to the Manchus on their submission. These are much more generous than was at first believed would be the case. They include the free grant of the Forbidden City and the summer palace in Pekin, which are worth hundreds of millions of dollars.

The good faith of the Republicans is shown by the fact that the Manchus in the Southern provinces are now being supported, fed and clothed by the revolutionaries, and any abuse of

ROOSEVELT CHOPS DOWN SOME TREES

Biting Cold Makes No Impression Upon the Colonel.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Col. Roosevelt and half a dozen men chopped down trees today in the woods surrounding the ex-president's home at Sagamore Hill. When Col. Roosevelt was not wielding an ax he was giving directions. The biting cold made no impression on him.

After more than a year of comparative obscurity, Oyster Bay is again achieving prominence. When his unsuccessful tour through New York state in 1910 in behalf of Henry L. Stimson ended, Col. Roosevelt went into retirement. Until a few weeks ago he was permitted to remain undisturbed at his home, but as a result of recent political developments, Sagamore Hill is once more in a state of siege. Despite Col. Roosevelt's refusal to talk politics, a squad of correspondents has camped in the village.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—Federal Judge A. B. Anderson today issued a writ of habeas corpus releasing Detective William J. Burns from the custody of the county authorities. His bondsmen had surrendered him to the criminal court where he stands indicted on the charge of kidnaping J. J. McNamara.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—Spurgeon P. Meadows, prominent labor leader and business agent of the district council of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, today came forward with the declaration that out-of-town men caused the four dynamite explosions in this city at midnight of Oct. 24, 1909.

This followed the statement of Charles A. Bookwalter, former mayor, that local labor leaders were informed by him two years ago as to who had

ANOTHER BROKEN RAIL

Causes Passenger Wreck Ten Miles North of Rochester, Minn.

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 6.—Five persons were injured and about 100 others badly shaken up when the Chicago Great Western passenger train No. 42, bound from Minneapolis to Rochester, left the track because of a broken rail and crashed into an embankment, ten miles north of Red Wing, at 10:30 o'clock last night.

The injured were brought to Red Wing, and a special train, made up here, took all the passengers to Rochester last night.

"The government has a score or more of important documents which it will have read into the record in an attempt to show that a pool for the fixing of prices and the control of shipments into different markets existed after the organization of the National Packing company by the Armour, Swift and Morris interests in March, 1903.

State Commission Files Report and Charges Criminal Negligence.

Eight Employes Who Disobeyed Orders Held Responsible.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Placing blame on the railroad company for allowing employes to violate the rules and on employes for doing so, the state railroad and warehouse commission today filed with the attorney general a report on the wreck of the Columbian Limited on the St. Paul road, and recommended that criminal action be brought. At least nine men it is charged, violated company rules—a violation which resulted in the deaths of ten persons and the maiming of eighteen.

Wearied with the claims advanced by numerous roads that the cars of their finest trains are of all-steel construction, the railroad commission recommends a system of government inspection of the construction of cars, rails and all steel work used in the manufacture of cars.

"The increasing number of accidents caused by broken rails," the commission's report says, "and switches, and the imperfect condition of certain portions of equipment, make it very apparent that the interests of both the public and the railway companies will be best subserved by having such inspection."

Summary of Report.

The commission's report, summarized, says:

First. The collision resulted from violation by employes of the rules of the company, and neglect on the part of the company in seeing that its rules are observed.

Second. Nine men were guilty of violation of rules, which resulted in the wreck, and eight contributed in a

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS

Ticket in North Dakota Has Been Practically Completed.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Progressive Republican ticket for the coming election has practically been completed, only a few positions remaining to be filled. Applicants for the vacancies are not numerous, but within the next few weeks there very likely will be a sufficient crop of prospectives to fill the places.

All of the leading positions, from congressman down, have been cared for, and the ticket follows:

Congressman, First district—H. T. Helgeson of Milton.

Congressman, Second district—George M. Young of Valley City.

Congressman, Third district—J. M. Devine of Minot.

Governor—J. A. Buchanan of Buchanan.

Lieutenant governor—J. M. Hanley of Mandan.

Secretary of state—P. D. Norton of Hettinger.

Insurance commissioner—Walter C. Taylor, La Moure.

State auditor—D. K. Brightbill of Cando, or Carlo Jorgenson of Bismarck.

Railroad commissioners — W. H. Stutsman of Mandan, O. P. N. Anderson of Starkweather, and J. F. Purcell of Fargo.

With present indications pointing strongly to no contests on the positions of superintendent of public instruction and state treasurer, there remain only the position of attorney general and commission of agriculture to fill.

SIGNS NAME TO DOCUMENT

Says His Conscience Will Not Let Him Hold Out Longer.

Hopes to Live That He May Bring Religion to Other Men.

Prosecutor Says Trial Will Go on Just as It Was Planned.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, former pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, today made a written confession to the effect that he poisoned his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell The statement was given into the hands of his counsel, who made the confession public at 1 p. m.

The confession, bearing Richeson's signature, reads:

"I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted."

The full text of the confession follows:

"Boston, Jan. 3, 1912.

"John L. Lee, Esq.,

"William A. Morse, Esq.,

"Philip R. Dunbar, Esq.,

"Gentlemen: Deeply penitent for my sin, and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted.

"I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however deprived and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial, her whose pure young life I have destroyed. Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned.

"In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live, only because within some prison walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some other despairing soul, and at last find favor with my God.

"You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court.

Sincerely yours,
CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON.

Just before noon today the judges of the superior court and the district attorney went into conference at the courthouse, and about an hour later representatives of the press were called to the office of William A. Morse, the leading counsel for the accused clergyman.

In the office were a dozen newspaper men, while in a private office were Mr. Morse, John L. Lee, the Virginian lawyer, engaged by the father of the young clergyman, and Philip R. Dunbar.

After all the papers had been found to be represented, Mr. Morse said: "Gentlemen, I now give you Mr. Richeson's confession."

Typewritten sheets containing the confession were handed to the newspaper men, and those who paused to ask for some further explanation were told that there was nothing more to be said at this time.

Confession Three Days Old.

The fact that the confession was dated three days ago was pointed out to the counsel, but they refused to comment upon it.

District Attorney Pelletier learned of the confession of Richeson from newspaper men, but later confirmed it from Mr. Morse. He said:

"The trial will go on just the same, no matter what statement may be issued by Richeson."

The crime charged against Richeson, who was formerly pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, is the murder of Avis Linnell on the night of Oct. 14. Miss Linnell, who was 19 years old, was a native of Hiannis, where Richeson formerly preached and, was studying at the New England conservatory of music in Boston.

Miss Linnell was found dying in a bathroom in the Young Women's Christian Association building on Warrenton street, Boston, where she lodged. At first it was believed that the young woman had taken poison with suicidal intent, but a day or two later it became known that she had taken cyanide of pottassium in the belief that it would remedy her condition.

In their investigation into the death of the girl, the police found evidence, they claimed, which tended to implicate Richeson, and he was arrested on Oct. 20 at the home of Miss Violet Edmands, to whom he was to have been married on Oct. 31. His indictment followed.

"BUY A HOME," IS MOST POPULAR ADVICE TO THE OWNER OF $1,000

Strength of "Own Your Own Home Movement" Is Shown.

Many Letters Are Being Received in Second Herald Contest.

The public is showing great interest in the contest that The Herald in conducting, for the best answers to the question: "What shall I do with my first $1,000?" Replies are arriving in considerable numbers. Most of the correspondents favor real estate inventments. The sentiment in favor of a man owning his home seems to be well nigh universal. Some say this home ought to be in the country, where one may enjoy the happy independence of the tiller of the soil.

All who write to The Herald for this contest should be careful to use only one side of the paper. Otherwise their replies will not be considered in the contest and will not be published.

Among the replies that were received today are the following:

C. W. Peterson, 323 East Fifth street—I think the best investment the young man could make would be to buy a home. He could easily do so by paying the $1,000 down and the balance could be paid on easy payments.

It is generally the aim of people to own their own homes. If the young man stops to figure out his expenses for the last ten years, he will probably find that the rent he has paid will amount to more than he has saved. Why should he keep on paying rent and building more houses for the landlord, when he could just as well have his own home. Those that own their homes know the joy and happiness it brings.

There is no more rent to eat into the month's salary, no more refusals of repairs. Every penny he spends on the property is for himself. If the young man should lose his position, he would not have to bother about his rent, at least, and the butcher, grocer, etc., would surely carry him over until he got another job. If he was paying rent the first one he would hear from would be the landlord.

It might happen that he needed $500. He could easily borrow this on his home. Owning his home would give him a better standing in the community and help him in every way. He could save money twice as fast as he did before on the same salary. Most large fortunes were made and are made in real estate, directly or indirectly.

He could invest the $1,000 in stocks, bonds or in some business, but I think none of them would pay as well as buying a home.

Harry McKeen, 2312 West Third street.—How shall I expend my first $1,000?

As I am only 15 years old, it seems rather foolish for me to try to advise a man of 35, with a wife, two children and $1,000, but here goes:

In the first place I would advise him to try and secure a homestead in Minnesota, or, if not, maybe he could secure a suitable one in Canada—one with a little timber on it preferred. His family could hold the claim while he was working at his usual occupation. At the termination of five years he could have saved up a pretty "good bunch" of money. This, combined with the interest on the $1,000 for the five years, and the $1,000, would be sufficient to buy some stock, farming utensils, etc. If he was a little ignorant on the methods of farming, it would not take a very long time for him to learn. Of course his farm would not yield a very large crop for the first few years, but at that he would be better off than the man who labored with his $1,000 in the bank. He would also stand a good chance of striking ore on his claim. This is my advice to the man of 35, because I think farming is a very independent occupation.

Harold Kimpton, Thief River, Minn.—My advice to your inquirer is simply this: Take part of that $1,000 and buy a house and lot, on the installment plan, if necessary, and so cut out that everlasting digging down for rent money. Insure your life for at least $1,000, having the policy made payable to your wife. Pay up your subscription to your daily paper for a year ahead, thereby not only showing your originality, but you will be establishing a most worthy precedent for others to follow. Stay out of business, as that $1,000 would only make one small mouthful for the trust, and what they wouldn't do to you is hardly worth my while telling you. If, however, you have already accomplished these things, viz: bought a house and lot, insured your life, paid your newspaper subscription, exterminated the business bug, and still have that $1,000, my parting advice is just this: Freeze on to it, young man, and quit telling your erstwhile friends the strength of your finances. Tell them you're broke. Deposit your money in Uncle Sam's savings bank, and then you can rest assured that you have obtained a good "scissors hold" on the proverbial "wolf," and have thus fully protected the wife and little ones.

Joseph McDonnell, 9 Eighth street, Cloquet, Minn.—In answer to the question, "What shall I do with my first $1,000?" If I had $1,000 I would buy a truck farm near a thriving city, and raise vegetables such as onions, carrots, beets, string beans, turnips, radishes and cauliflower. I would buy a horse and wagon and come to town and go from door to door, selling vegetables. Afterwards, when I had the farm paid for, I would start a bank account. I think I would invest in land. I hope this man will find a good way to invest his $1,000. If he was constantly employed for himself he could have a nice comfortable home.

U. E. Root, 422 Fifty-first avenue west—Any man who has saved $1,000 should by all means go into a business for himself. There never has been and never will be any profit in working for others. The only chance to get off the treadmill is a business of your own. There is a large variety of businesses that could be started on $1,000 but to my mind the best of them all is the mail order business. This is practically a new business and has wonderful possibilities. This business can be conducted as a side help to a person's regular occupation in his own home. After establishing a good trade, one can move to larger quarters, or to a larger city where facilities are greater. Almost all of the large mail order businesses were started in this way and many more will be. Persistency and perseverance is the key to mail order success and if the young man with the $1,000 has these two qualities and his share of gray matter he had better get busy.

Mrs. J. Weber, Ironwood, Mich.—Regarding the young man that has his first $1,000, I would advise him to purchase property. Let him buy lots in West Duluth. That is a good investment. He can have his second thousand in five years, instead of ten years. I have four lots there, two on Fifthy-first avenue and two on Fifty-second avenue. I know I will double the price in five years if I sell, but I expect to become a resident, so I will close by saying: "Boost Duluth."

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

For the next best answer The Herald will give a prize of $5.

For the third best answer The Herald will give a prize of $3.

LEAVES FROM A REPORTER'S NOTE BOOK EX

The Duluth police force is getting ready for the annual policemen's ball, which will be held at the Armory Monday night, Feb. 5, the day before the general city election.

At the meeting of the Police Relief association at headquarters yesterday afternoon, Lieut. Fritz was appointed chairman of the committee on arrangements. He will be assisted in the preliminaries by Lieut. Wilcox of West Duluth and Officer C. A. Helmstrom of the West end.

"Bigger and better than ever," is the basis on which the committee will proceed with the preparations. Every effort will be made to have the ball exceed in every respect any of its predecessors. The decorations, of course, will be in a class by themselves. Speaking confidentially on that subject one of the members of the committee said that some new and unique features will be introduced which will be worth a long trip to see.

The proceeds realized from the dance are for the benefit of the Relief association. Each year a considerable sum has been raised in this manner and has been one of the mainstays of the fund. This fund is used for pensioning retired policemen and paying sick benefits.

The policemen's ball is a fixture in Duluth. It has been an annual event for a score of years. The entire department turns out to act as host to its hundreds of guests and without exception the members of the "city's finest" have proved themselves more than equal to the occasion.

With the preparations under way a full month ahead of the date set, there isn't the slightest reason to doubt but that the ball will be what they aim to make it, "the biggest and best ever."

In this connection it might be mentioned that at the meeting of the association the purchase of $3,000 of bonds was approved. The association showed the true Duluth spirit, and bought park bonds of its own city. They bear interest at 4½ per cent and are considered an excellent investment.

"News is news until it's printed," is one way of putting it. This particular happening would have been rattling good news had it gotten out at the time, but as it is, the best that can be said for it is that it might be interesting.

At the time the county treasurer was collecting the last bunch of taxes a clerk in the office accepted a $10 bill which had been raised to $100. Some one with a criminal term of mind had very neatly cut out the "0" from another $10 bill and pasted it on the first bill. The numerals looked like $100, but the lettering said different. But being busy the clerk evidently did not look at it very closely. It was discovered when the cash was being counted at the close of a heavy day's business. No one know who had presented the bill and the loss had to be made good in the office.

The incident shows that even people who are making a business of handling money all the time may have "one slipped over on them." But at the time no efforts were being made to shout the news from the house tops.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Talk Pensions Monday.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The senate committee on pensions will hold its first meeting of the session next Monday, when it is expected that the Sherwood "dollar-a-day" pension bill will be taken up. It is understood that Chairman McCumber will ask that a substitute measure embodying both age and service features receive attention. The cost of the Sherwood bill unofficially has been estimated at $75,000,000. The McCumber bill as proposed is claimed to involve an expenditure of from $17,000,000 to $24,000,000.

Taft's Guard Reduced.

On the coldest day Washington has experienced this year, 21 of the forty-five uniformed policemen stationed at the White House were ordered transferred to street duty. The order was made as the result of a conference between Secretary Hilles and Chief Wilkie of the secret service, and a decision that the decreased force will be sufficient for the protection of the president.

Would Prohibit Pelagic Sealing.

The house committee on foreign affairs has concluded hearings on the Sulzer bill intended to carry into effect the recently promulgated treaty between the United States, Great Britain, Russia and Japan for the protection of fur seals and sea otter in the North Pacific ocean. The committee will act on the bill next Tuesday. The bill before the committee will absolutely prohibit pelagic sealing.

Would Give Women Ballot.

Representative Baker of California, a Democrat, has joined the ranks of woman suffragists in congress by introducing a resolution for a constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote.

Labor Exchanges Proposed.

An investigation by the secretary of commerce and labor to determine the feasibility of establishing labor exchanges in conjunction with state governments is asked for in a resolution introduced by Representative Littleton of New York.

Nagel Goes to B'Nai B'Rith.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel has left Washington for Chicago to attend the banquet of the Independent Order B'Nai B'Rith, the first big meeting of prominent Jews since the notice of the abrogation of the Russian treaty of 1832.

For Monument to Balboa.

Representative Bartholdt of Missouri introduced a bill to appropriate $50,000 for erecting a monument overlooking the Panama canal to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Isthmus of Panama by Balboa, the Spanish explorer, in 1913.

TWO KILLED OUTRIGHT IN ENGINE EXPLOSION.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—The boiler of a big locomotive standing in the Southern Pacific roundhouse here exploded at 10 o'clock last night. Two men were killed and three injured, all probably fatally. The explosion was caused by low water.

Greatest Institution for Curing Men's Ailments of All Kinds

WE POINT WITH PRIDE to the endless number of cures we have affected. Our success is the result of superior knowledge gained by years of conscientious study and experience in diseases or weaknesses peculiar to men.

There is nothing doubtful or experimental about our method of treatment. We know just what can be done by our modern and advanced methods, and we do not hold out false inducements and promise more. Our name has been a household synonym for many years owing to our long establishment in Duluth and to our remarkable success in the treatment and cure of the class of ailments that constitute our specialty.

Longest Established, Most Successful and Reliable Specialist in Diseases of Men. For over 20 years in Duluth.

We have investigated and tested all known methods for the treatment and cure of diseases and weaknesses of men which gives us the right to judge between the false and the true—between shallow pretension and solid worth—between substance and shadow. Musty and ancient theories and methods cannot stand out against our advanced modes of treatment, against progressive medical science and undisputed evidence of hundreds and hundreds of cases cured. All that expert skill, vast experience and scientific attainment can accomplish are now being done for those who apply to us for the help they need.

If you are suffering from any of the diseases or weaknesses peculiar to men call and consult us in time. The least expense is always incurred through the early employment of genuine professional skill. It will cost you much less to secure proper treatment at the commencement than to experiment and place yourself under the doubtful ability of a mediocre. It is better to be safe than sorry.

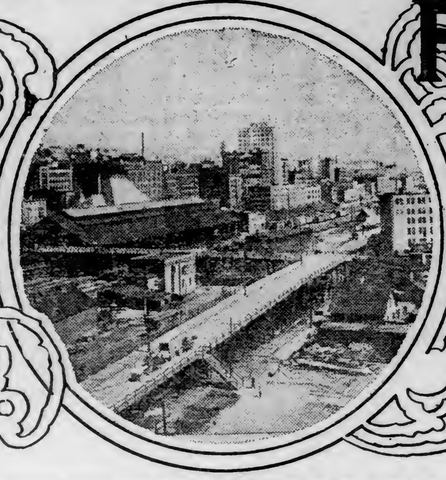

All our professional dealings with our patients are treated as sacredly confidential between ourselves. We do not publish testimonial letters, photographs or prices, thereby disclosing your secrets to the world. Men can repose confidence in us and our treatment and be restored to a healthful condition without receiving undesirable publicity. It has required years of conscientious study and experience to establish such a reputation. We have been for over 20 years in Duluth, have spent $10,000 for the scientific equipment of our office. We believe in fair dealings and honest methods, which, together with our experience, skill and ability, are the only qualifications and conditions that can really GUARANTEE a cure. We cure by the latest and best methods, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Diseases of the Stomach, Rheumatism, Nervous Diseases, Lost Energy, Obstructions, Varicose Veins, Blood Poison, Eczema, Pimples, Skin Diseases, Piles, Rupture, Kidney and Bladder Diseases and all Lingering and Special Diseases of Men, and their complication in the Shortest Possible Time and at the lowest cost for Skillful Service and Successful Treatment.

Consultations Free. Write if you cannot call today.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MINNESOTA POLITICS

The Democratic outlook in Minnesota is most promising this year. The interest-controlled machine has a firm grip on the Republican party and without a state-wide primary the voters of the party are powerless to release the grip. The interests have determined to stick to Eberhart (See Simpson interview.) There is wide-spread opposition to Eberhart among the voters. If the govenor is renominated, which is practically certain, a Democrat with a clean record and ability will be able to defeat him easily.

The special interests in politics always are blind. They think the people are firm believers in the infallability of their political leaders—leaders who are owned, body and soul, by the interests. They thought so in the nation and did not have their eyes opened until a Democratic house was elected. They thought so in California and Governor Johnson was swept into the executive chair. They have not been in touch with the people and they think the people of Minnesota are still blind. They will try to force Eberhart and their whole interest-made slate on the voters of Minnesota, and Minnesota will rebel.

The Republican state central committee should meet within the next two months. Ed Smith is the Republican state central committee. The other members are considered about as necessary as a vermiform appendix. The committee will not meet within the next two months. It is doubtful if a call for a meeting will be issued before May. There is talk of a late convention. The astute Smith does not want to stir things up too early. He wants to allow the people to fall undisturbed into apathy. In the meantime, he will swat all the opposition that may come up and then try to put Eberhart across with a rush.

One of the correspondents who wrote political gossip from St. Paul for the country papers, has the following in his column this week:

The wiping out of rivals is a commendable enterprise, especially when they interfere with one's own ambitions, but the question prompts itself, will those wiped out stand for it? Won't they rebel? Won't they hit back some time? It is this one thing that appeals to many now watching the Republican game, and they make no bones in saying that the future looks bright for Democracy. Many Republicans are indulging in this prophecy. They look for a turbulent time at the next Republican state convention with Governor Eberhart the winner and then trouble for both him and his backers. If Mr. Simpson stays in the game it is hardly likely that the other crowd will have his best wishes, and as for Lieutenant Governor Gordon and his friends—well, their knives are being whetted now.

* * *

For the first time in many years, there appears to be a chance for a Democratic candidate for president to carry Minnesota. Opposition to Taft is strong. The nomination of Taft in the Republican national convention is now regarded as almost certain. With the federal office holders and the Solid South for the president, it is doubtful if Roosevelt could take the nomination from him.

If Wilson or any other Progressive Democrat receives the nomination of his party, Minnesota will go into the doubtful column.

Truly, the horizon is bright in the view of Minnesota Democrats.

* * *

That Minnesota may follow in Wisconsin's footsteps and send a Socialist to congress, is the opinion of E. L. Quist, publisher of the Thief River Falls Times, who is visiting in Duluth. He says the Socialists have made wonderful strides in the Ninth district and in a three-cornered fight they might slip their candidate into Halvor Steenerson's seat.

Thief River Falls has elected a Socialist council and the Socialist candidate for mayor was beaten by thirty-three votes in a three-cornered fight. He was running on stickers, as the candidate first named had withdrawn. Crookston has a Socialist mayor. The Socialists sentiment in Roseau, Kittson, Marshall and Norman counties is strong.

In 1908 when Ole Sageng, running as an independent, gave Steenerson a scare, the Socialist candidate polled nearly 3,000 votes. In 1910, when the Socialist was the congressman's only opponent, the Socialist vote was over 8,000. The party has gained strength since that time and the candidate for congress this year, who will probably be Ole Bratland, an Ada lawyer, is thought to have a chance of success.

Mr. Quist does not believe Ole Sageng will go after the Republican nomination. Sageng would run better as an independent than he would at the Republican primaries, in the opinion of the Thief River Falls man, and Sageng is too good a politician to enter the Republican ranks if he had congressional aspirations and his chances would be better outside of the party.

Mr. Quist is not a Socialist, so his comment on the prospects for that party in the Ninth district is interesting.

* * *

The Redwood Gazette does not consider L. C. Spooner's chances of landing the Republican nomination for governor very strong. It does believe that Spooner would make a good run for congress in the Seventh district.

Mr. Spooner and Congressman Volstead were once good political friends. Recently there has been an estrangement, which is near the breaking point. Spooner has been a consistent friend of the farmers, is popular in the district and the Gazette believes he would have a chance of wresting the nomination from the present congressman.

Volstead has not made known his intentions, but his candidacy for re-election is taken as a matter of course. If Spooner sees that he can hope for nothing from the state machine, he may return to his own district and go into the field against Volstead.

* * *

A St. Paul correspondent, writing to the Moorhead Citizen, says there is political significance in the contract given Engels & Co., of Duluth, to restore the Blashfield frescoes in the main corridor of the state capitol.

St. Louis county is in a state of discontent and threatened insurrection against the administration, according to the correspondent, and that is why the contract was given, without competitive bids, to the Duluth firm. Fred Engels is paymaster of the Minnesota naval militia and the story says that he was given the work in conformity with a plan to placate the St. Louis county Republicans.

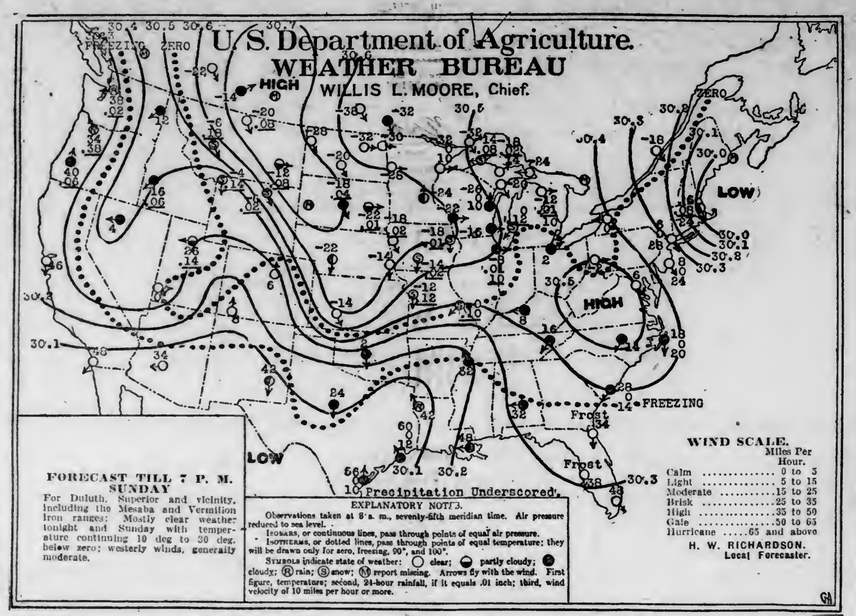

There is no undying love for Adolph O. Eberhart in St. Louis county, and it is hardly likely that the voters of the county will allow their political views to be influenced by a contract given a Duluth firm.

* * *

The Elk River Star-News doesn't approve of George T. Simpson's course in submitting his ambitions to Ed Smith before attempting to realize them. It says:

Ex-Attorney General Simpson, although one of the most pleasant personalities, is an illustration of the old school of politics, and still thinks a few leaders rule the roost. And so they do, so far as the organization is concerned. If George really wanted to be governor, the proper course for him to have adopted would have been to defy the organization, controlled by the brewers and special interests, and gone right to the people with progressive ideas. That's the only way to make an opening in for political advancement in this boss-ridden state. One might lose, but the probabilities are that the right kind of a campaign by the right kind of man would sweep the state.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

Ridiculous question, No. 41144: "Is it cold enough for you?" If you shoot, I'll call a policeman! The weather man repeated this morning — 32 deg. below zero again. Duluth wasn't the coldest place on the map, although it holds the record for the United States. Canada takes the honors with 38 deg. below zero at Minnedosa. Just like the potatoes at the New York land show. Yesterday set a record for a low maximum temperature in Duluth with a "high" temperature of 22 deg. below zero. Believe me, Gwendolin, it was some frosty. A few more icy blasts tonight and tomorrow.

Duluth enjoyed almost-summer weather a year ago today. The lowest temperature was 2 deg. below zero.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:35 this evening, giving eight hours and forty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The cold wave continues in Canada and most of the Northern, Middle Western and Rocky mountain states without any moderation; in fact, temperatures have experienced a further drop in the extreme Northwest. Manitoba seems to be the center of the cold area, temperatures of 38 deg. below zero occurring there this morning. The outlook does not favor any material let-up in the intensity of the present cold snap at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six to forty-eight hours. Light falls of snow occurred during either Friday or last night over Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas, and snow or rain fell over Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Oregon and Washington."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair except snow flurries near the lakes tonight and Sunday; continued low temperature.

Wisconsin—Continued cold and generally fair weather tonight and Sunday except threatening in south portion tonight.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota —Fair and continued cold tonight and Sunday.

Iowa—Continued cold and generally fair weather tonight and Sunday, except snow in east portions tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures varying from 10 deg. below zero to 30 deg. below zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

Would Increase Assessed Valuation of Duluth By One-Third.

Communities in which railroad property is located may be put in a position to obtain their share of railroad taxes by a Minnesota case to be argued before the United States supreme court next week.

If the case, which is brought by the express companies, as a test of the gross earnings tax law, should be decided against the state, an extra session of the legislature would be necessary to readjust railroad taxation, as well as that of express companies. The express companies contend that the gross earnings tax is a tax on interstate commerce, which is forbidden by the Federal constitution. The state will argue that it is a tax on the companies, measured by the volume of their business.

Some years ago an agitation against the gross earnings tax plan, which turns all the receipts into the state treasury, was started in Duluth and supported by The Herald. Two alternatives were advocated—the abolition of the gross earnings tax and the placing of railroad property on the tax rolls with other property, or the apportionment of the revenue from the gross earnings tax among the subdivisions of the state in proportion to the value of the railroad property in each.

An effort was made to have the legislature pass a law providing for such apportionment, but it failed. The farmers were lined up solidly against it because it would greatly benefit the three big cities of the state and increase the general state tax.

Railroads Content.

The abolition of the gross earnings tax and the taxation of railroads on the ad valorem basis is involved in the case now before the supreme court. The point was never raised by the railroads because the present gross earnings tax requires them to pay much less into the state treasury than they would under an ad valorem tax. Opponents of the gross earnings system always have contended that if the gross earnings tax should ever equal or exceed the tax that would have to be paid on an ad valorem basis, the railroads would immediately test the constitutionality of the law. It remained for the express companies to raise the question.

The gross earnings tax is in lieu of all other taxes and assessments. The money goes into the state treasury and is used entirely by the state. Communities having railroad property of great value within their limits receive no greater benefit relatively than communities with no railroad property at all.

It is estimated that the railroad property in Duluth is worth one-half as much as all other property in the city. This property is exempt from local taxation and from assessments for local improvements; but the city must give it police and fire protection and other benefits for which all other property pays. Only recently, through an agreement with some of the railroads, was the city able to collect anything for public improvements benefitting railroad property. In counties in which railroad have large holdings, they pay nothing for roads or for drainage, though they benefit by this work as much as anybody.

If the railroad property in Duluth were to go on an ad valorem basis, the assessed valuation of the city would be increased one-third. There would be a consequent reduction of nearly one-third in the tax rate. The decrease would be offset somewhat by an increase in the state rate, but the offset would be comparatively small.

During the agitation for an extra session of the legislature The Herald conducted a canvass among the legislators and among the newspapers on the subject of increasing the gross earnings tax. Many replies were received in favor of the abolition of the gross earnings tax.

The legislature could not be expected to act, as the railroads were satisfied and the farmers were opposed to anything that would benefit the cities and increase the state taxes. If the supreme court decides against the state, no course will be open except to put the railroad property on an ad valorem basis.

Other States Affected.

The case is the biggest action in which Minnesota has been involved in years. Other states are also interested, for on the decision of the court hinges the right of all states to collect a gross earnings tax. The contention of the opponents of the tax that a tax earnings from the intrastate proportion of interstate business is clearly unconstitutional is upheld by eminent constitutional authorities. The state bases its hopes of success on the contention that the business done in the state is merely the measure of the tax.

In a Texas case, the decision of the United States supreme court was almost directly in line with the contentions of the express companies in the Minnesota case.

DIES AFTER BOXING BOUT

Duluth Man's Death Believed to Have Been Due to Over-Exertion.

Fight at Baudette New Year's Night Will Be Investigated.

The inquest over the body of Andrew Anderson, 27 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson of 2015 West Sixth street, who died Tuesday at Baudette following a prize fight with "Bud" Ferrier at Spooner, will be held today.

Pending the verdict of the coroner's jury, Ferrier is technically under arrest. If it is found that he was responsible for his opponent's death a charge of manslaughter will be placed against him.

It was first announced that Anderson's death was due to heart failure, but the authorities were not satisfied and started an investigation to ascertain all the facts in the case. Anderson's father is now at Baudette and will remain until the investigation has been completed, after which it is expected that the body will be brought to this city for interment.

The young man left Duluth for Baudette about three weeks ago to engage in the restaurant business. He was well known here, particularly in the West end, where he graduated from the public schools. He was at one time a switchman on the Canadian Northern.

The fight took place New Year's night and Anderson died within forty hours. Those who saw the mill state that it was a one-sided affair, with Anderson at a great disadvantage both as to weight and condition, being fully twenty pounds lighter than his opponent. They say that he lasted the full ten rounds of the mill, putting up a game exhibition. When the affair was over it is said that he showed signs of having undergone a gruelling battle and suffered considerably from the exertions he made in his untrained condition.

Leslie (Bud) Ferrier, with whom he fought, is a barber at Spooner and is grief-stricken over the death of Anderson. It is claimed that the men were friendly and were to put on an exhibition. The fight was advertised, handbills being passed about Spooner and Baudette, according to a dispatch from Bemidji, from which point the authorities who are making the investigation are working. It was when news of the affair reached the county officials at Bemidji that the investigation was instituted. It is asserted that Governor Eberhart will be called upon to take a hand in the investigation and to call to account the officials who allowed the mill to be fought in the Spooner town hall when they knew that it was scheduled.

TURNED INTO HUMAN ICICLES

Spectators at Fire Sprinkled, Water Freezing Almost Instantly.

A dozen persons, who went to the Omaha yards about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to watch a combination smoking car and baggage coach burn, were transformed into human icicles when they were soaked with a stream of water which was turned into the blaze.

With the mercury hugging the lower part of the tube the water froze to their clothes almost instantly. They rushed into a nearby freight house for temporary relief, and as the water had not penetrated their outer garments they were soon able to proceed on their way without suffering any ill effects from their unexpected experience. They were on the side of the car opposite to that on which the hose was working and the water which hit them went through the windows. The firemen had considerable difficulty in getting water. The caps of the hydrants were so solid that it took four or five men to loosen them so that the hose could be attached. The frigid atmosphere prevented fast work and one end of the coach was destroyed.

DREDGEMEN ELECT.

Insurance Plan Is Approved By Brotherhood.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Officers were elected and reports indicating satisfactory conditions for the coming year were heard at the fourteenth biennial convention of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgemen, just closed here. Following are the officers: General president, Charles Rees, New York city; vice presidents, Frank Gorman, Buffalo; John McGaha, San Francisco; J. A. Trivers, Spokane, Wash.; William Raines, Amhersburg, Ont.; G. E. Kennedy, Denver; Burt St. John, Montreal; C. M. Stewart, Chicago; Robert Forester, Toledo, Ohio; G. A. Waggins, Augusta, Fla., and S. WELL KNOWN IN THE STATE

Victim of Elevator Accident Was a Pioneer Lumberman.

Father of Edward Rogers, the Famous Gridiron Star.

William Rogers, who was killed Thursday afternoon by falling down the elevator shaft of the Lonsdale building at Third avenue west and Superior street, was the father of Ed Rogers, famous football player of Minnesota and now an attorney at Walker.

Ralph Rogers, another son, reached the city from his father's home at Remer last evening and is at the Lenox. Ed Rogers is expected today and pending his arrival the body is being held at the undertaking rooms of C. J. Stewart.

The deceased was well known in the upper part of the state, practically among the lumbermen. He was engaged in the tie and post business and had come to Duluth to see several of the leading business men of the city. He had been connected with the lumbering industry for many years.

News of his father's death did not reach Ralph until 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when an extra train was run to Roger's Siding, the conductor bringing the message, which had been addressed to Remer. Ralph immediately dispatched a messenger to his mother, and ascompanied by G. A. Waterman, who had been associated with his father for fifteen years, hastened to this city.

Mr. Rogers was 64 years of age and had been a resident of the state the past thirty-five years. The family resides on a farm some distance from Remer. Besides his widow he is survived by eleven children, as follows: Edward, an attorney of Walker; Mrs. John Warren, White Earth; Charles of Seattle; Arthur, an electrican of Walker; Miss Mabel, a teacher, Flashor, N. D.; Mrs. Frank Leonard, Aitkin; Silvey, attending school in Aitkin; Ralph of Remer; William, in school at Walker; Sperl, at school in Aitkin, and Catherine, the baby, aged 2 years.

MINE PROMOTERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Hawthorne, Quincy and Others Arraigned in New York Court.

New York, Jan. 6.—On indictments the existence of which had not been made public, pleas of not guilty were entered in the United States district court yesterday afternoon by Julian Hawthorne, journalist-promoter; Josiah Quincy, a former assistant secretary of state, ex-mayor of Boston, and at present a member of the transit commission of Boston; Albert Freeman, a promoter, and John McKinnon, treasurer and secretary of the Hawthorne Mining companies, and Dr. William J. Horton, a nerve specialist of this city. All are charged with misuse of the mails in a scheme to defraud investors in the stock of mining enterprises.

MARINE PROVISIONS TO SETTLERS

Steamer Easton Makes Trip With Mercury 30 Below Zero.

Carries Food and Supplies to North Shore Residents.

North shore settlers depended much on the visit of the steamer Easton of the Booth line this year.

Several boat loads of provisions have been carried from Duluth to the various north shore harbors, which in the winter are practically isolated from any communication with the outside world.

Today the Easton is making her last trip of the season—and incidentally making a record for cold voyages. This morning, when she steamed out of the Grand Marais harbor headed for Chicago Bay, the thermometer registered 30 deg. below zero. She will return to Duluth as soon as she unloads her provisions at Chicago Bay, which is eighteen miles beyond Grand Marais, and will probably arrive in port sometime tomorrow afternoon.

Despite the extreme cold weather, the Easton has been exceptionaly fortunate on her last trip. So far as her up voyage is concerned, the local office of the Both company has been informed, the boat has experienced no difficulty from the ice. Ice forms on the boat quickly as the water is cold and freezes as soon as it sprays.

SIX CUYUNA MINES WILL BE SHIPPERS.

Six mines will be shipping this year from the Cuyune range, according to Cuyler Adams, the well known mining man, who was a guest at the Spalding yesterday. Mr. Adams says that the shipments for the coming season from the new range will amount to 500,000 tons.

The Kennedy mine has been the only one to ship since the Cuyuna range has been developed. The receipts at the Soo ore dock on St. Louis bay to date are 147,300 tons, all coming from the Kennedy mine.

Other mines which will probably ship this year will be the Hanna, the Adams, Armour No. 1, Armour, No. 2 and the Inland Steel company's mine.

ROOSEVELT AND GARFIELD MEET

Both Are Silent as to What They Talked About.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 6.—After a talk at New York with James R. Garfield, ex-secretary of the interior and a leader of the Republican Progressives of the state of Ohio, Ex-President Roosevelt returned to Oyster Bay last night.

Col. Roosevelt had just one thing to say. It was that he had no intention of letting the public know what he thinks about the selection of a Republican candidate for president. He declared his intention of bottling himself up at Sagamore Hill and refusing to answer any questions.

"Does that mean that your attitude will remain a riddle from now until the Republican convention is held?" he was asked.

Col. Roosevelt refused to commit himself on that point, merely saying that as far ahead as he could see, he would make no public expression of his position.

Regarded as Significant.

Mr. Garfield's journey to New York at this time was regarded as significant because it followed so closely the convention of Ohio Progressive Republicans, where he was credited with having taken a leading part in dissuading the convention from indorsing Senator La Follette for the presidency. Neither Col. Roosevelt nor Mr. Garfield would say a word in regard to their conference.

Col. Roosevelt saw many visitors at his office, but declined to say who they were, explaining that some of them did not like to have their names appear in print. One of them was "Mike" Donovan, an athletic trainer who used to go to Washington to box with the Colonel when he was president.

Milwaukee Woman Released.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Miss Catherine Heysdorf, the Milwaukee woman who has been under observation at Washington asylum, was released and placed on a train for Milwaukee yesterday afternoon. Miss Heysdorf came here several months ago looking for D. S. Rucker of the United States marine corps, against whom it is said she proposed to file a breach of promise suit.

MACAULEY HEADS CLUB

West Duluth Organization Elects Officers—Committee on Park Extension.

A. G. Macauley was last evening elected president of the West Duluth Commercial club at the annual election of officers. Mr. Macauley was vice president the past year. P. H. Martin was chosen vice president and Martin J. Murray was re-elected secretary by a unanimous vote. Charles G. Futter was chosen treasurer. The directors for the year are: L. R. Clark, Thomas Olafson, David Sang, J. J. Frey, A. H. Merriman, Dr. C. R. Keyes, Dr. E. W. Boerner, James E. Foubister, L. D. Blechl, L. A. Barnes and John Cashin.

The main issue at the business session last evening held after the election of officers was the appointing of a committee to attend the park board meetings and work for the purchase of the property in the vicinity of Kingsbury creek for the extension of Fairmont park. The special council committee of parks and roads will meet with the park board Monday afternoon and the committee appointed by the Commercial club last evening will attend. The members will also attend the council meeting Monday evening.

The members appointed to the special committee are: Dr. I. T. Burnside, Lieut. Charles Wilcox, W. B. Getchell, P. H. Martin, David Sang, Thomas Olafson, J. Frey, C. G. Futter, Leonidas Merritt, J. A. Scott, J. E. Foubister, L. R. Clark, Mayor Cullum and Dr. C. R. Keyes.

The club was informed last evening that the Northern Pacific had already let the contract for the construction of the drawbridge at Grassey Point and that the efforts to get a foot or wagon bridge at this point are futile at this time.

DR. McCUEN WILL ADDRESS REPUBLICANS.

The West Duluth Republican club will hold its first meeting of the year this evening at the Commercial club rooms. Dr. J. A. McCuen, candidate for mayor, Emil Zauft, candidate for alderman in the Eighth ward, and Clement de Roche, candidate for alderman in the Seventh ward, are among the speakers. Following the addresses the members of the club will hold their annual election of officers and plans for the year will be made.

In spite of the cold weather last evening a large crowd attended the first Socialist meeting in this end of the city. John Alvin Johnson, candidate for mayor, announced the platform of the party. P. H. Phillips, candidate for alderman on the Public Ownership ticket, spoke on the bond issue. Morris Kaplan gave a short talk on the party policies.

WILL BEGIN CAMPAIGN FOR NEW FIRE HALL.

Business men in West Duluth are planning to agitate for a more central location for a fire hall and claim that the present building will not be able to stand the constant jarring of trains that will pass over the new Canadian Northern trestles next to the building.

The firemen in the building at present say that even the passing of the Northern Pacific trains over two blocks away causes the building to creak and that when the Canadian Northern begins running alongside the building, it will become unsafe. Several months ago a cornice fell from the roof of the building, nearly striking one of the firemen.

Too Cold to Curl.

Members of the Western Curling rink did not care to play the match games last evening on account of the extreme cold weather and as a result they will be played this evening. Only one game was played last evening, Holland defeating Buckley in the Esterly event and Olson will play Wieland, Ellis is matched with Zauft, and Brown will meet Clark.

Leap Year Party.

Miss Ethel Lauschier, 323 North Fifty-first avenue west, entertained at a "leap year" party last evening. Those present were: Misses May McMillan, Lillie Swenson, Jeanette Bernell, Ida Forsman, Ethel Lauscher, Olga Nordlund, Selma Jacobson, Bernice Arbour, Ethel Arbour and Messrs. Charles Fisher, Claude McMorris, Ralph McIntosh, William Swanson, Lawrence Fisher, William Hogan, Clark Round, George Bernell, Robert Lauscher and Albert Lauscher.

Long Illness Fatal.

John C. Erlanson, 52 years old, 128 South Sixty-eighth avenue west, died yesterday at his home after an illness of over two years. He leaves a son and daughter, besides a widow. The funeral arrangements will be made some time this afternoon.

West Duluth Briefs.

Misses Julia and Irene McNulty, 24 North Sixty-third avenue west, left last evening for Ishpeming and Marquette, Mich., where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

Miss Tillie Swenson left for Camden, Minn., this morning after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swenson of West Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Gordon of Virginia, Minn., left for their home last evening after spending the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Erickson, 313 North Fifty-second avenue west.

Miss Ella Jensen left this morning after spending her holiday vacation with her parents at 314 South Sixty-first avenue west.

West Duluth Lodge No. 145, A. O. U. W., will install the officers next Wednesday evening, with Grand Foreman J. A. Schumacher as the presiding officer.

The members of Division No. 2 L. A. A. O. H. are requested to meet at St. James' Catholic church Monday morning, Jan. 8, to assist at the funeral services of Sister Brotherton. Wear badges. Signed, Nellie Brotherton, president; Mary Allen, recording secretary.

The theological students of Rock Island, Ill., who were doing missionary work during their vacation under the direction of Rev. J. A. Krantz, president of the Minnesota Conference of Lutheran churches, will leave this evening to resume their studies. Following are the men and the cities where they conducted the missionary work: Carl Martell, Bovey and Grand Rapids; Richard Olson, Deer River and Jess Lake; and S. T. Johnson, Cuyuna range.

Watch repairing, Hurst, West Duluth.

The Joint Installation

of Companion Court No. 228 and West Duluth Court No. 797, I. O. F., announced for Monday evening will be private and without any official ceremony on account of the death of John E. Brotherton's wife.

PICTURES OF RECORDS

Register of Deeds of New County Used Novel Plan of Transcription.

A protographing outfit for the transcription of records would be a valuable acquisition for the register of deeds office in a county the size of St. Louis county in the opinion of E. L. Quist of Thief River Falls. Mr. Quist is register of deeds of the new county of Pennington.

Mr. Quist, who is visiting in Duluth, was charged with the transcription of 38,000 pages of records from the books of Red Lake county, when he was elected to office in the new county. He estimated that with a force of twelve people the work would require a year, as each record would have to be copied and compared.

He hit upon the photographing plan and with six people, all records were transcribed, bound and indexed in three months. The reproductions are absolutely faithful, Mr. Quist says, and an immense task was greatly simplified.

"The register of deeds office here has about twenty people," said Mr. Quist today. With a photographing outfit the work could be done by six people and the sale of the book typewriters would cover the initial cost."

Photographing has been done by the government in the transcription of records, but it has never been adopted by a county, at least in the Northwest.

FIRE FOLLOWS STORK'S VISIT

The fire fiend raced close on the heels of the story at the residence of Albert Forest at 1 Wicklow street this morning.

A child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Forest this morning. About half an hour later fire broke out in the attic of the residence.

The blaze is supposed to have started from a leaking gas pipe in the upper part of the house. The roof of the dwelling was practically burned off, but the flames were prevented by No. 2 department of the West end from consuming the entire building.

Mrs. Forest was badly frightened by the fire. Following so closely the visit of the stork, she suffered considerably from the shock. She was cared for by neighbors and both she and the child were reported to be getting along well.

TRANSIT HOUSE IN CHICAGO BURNED.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The Transit house at the Union stock yards, for forty years one of the most widely known hotels in the West, was reduced to ruins yesterday by a fire which cost one life, for a time trapped many persons, and for hours threatened the stock yards. Scarcity of water and the intense cold hampered the firemen. The loss to the building and contents is estimated at $175,000 and neighboring buildings suffered a damage of $25,000. Peter Ritchie of Algonquin, Ill., a bell boy, who worked nights and who was caught in his room asleep, was the sole victim.

MUST MOVE INDIAN BURYING GROUND.

An old land mark promises to be destroyed in the near future, the Indian office of the Fond du Lac reservation, at Cloquet, having been given notice that before April 1 the bodies of all Indians buried at Wisconsin point, in Superior, must be removed.

The site of the old cemetery will be used for railroad purposes. Until a few years ago headquarters for the reservation was at Fond du Lac, and the Indians for half a century had buried their dead at Wisconsin Point. A few years ago the offices were moved to Cloquet and there is little now at Fond du Lac except a small school, presided over by Miss Celia Durfee, a young woman of Indian blood. The Indians have the privilege of removing the bodies of relatives or friends, but in case they do not they will be removed by the government.

HANDY WAY TO KEEP BONDS.

"I expect to have 'em some day," said Mr. Hopeful, "and when I do get them I'm going to keep them the way a man I know does that's got a lot now. I mean bonds.

"If a man owns one bond, or maybe two or three, he's likely to keep them folded up and then when he wants to cut the coupons he has to unfold the bonds to get at them. This man I speak of keeps his spread out flat and bound in books. Kept in this way they are vastly more convenient to get at, and cutting the coupons is easy work.

"I'm going to keep my bonds that way when I get 'em."

PROBE DAN PATCH LINE

Attorney General Smith Will Look Into Disposition of Stock.

Road Begun on Only $1,400 Out of $250,000,000 Capital.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Action of the Minneapolis, St. Paul, Rochester & Dubuque Electric Traction company—the "Dan Patch" line—in giving away approximately $400,000 of its capital stock to raise cash with which to build a part of its line, will be investigated by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith soon after his return from Washington.

Mr. Smith made this statement today before leaving the capitol preparatory to going East to argue the express rate case in the United States supreme court.

Investigation by the state railroad and warehouse commission some time ago disclosed the fact that the Dan Patch promoters had given away a large amount of stock as "bonus" to subscribers, and the commission contemplated taking action, if possible, to prevent it. Investigation of the laws, however, showed the commission did not have authority to bring any sort of action to protect the stockholders who had paid cash for their holdings. The attorney general's department so advised the commission and the matter was dropped.

Incorporated in Maine.

The road was incorporated under the laws of Maine. Those laws, according to Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, are very elastic, permitting of a wide range of operation. Among other things, they permit a company to purchase, hold, sell, assign, mortgage, guarantee, pledge or otherwise dispose of shares of the capital stock," or to take similar action with bonds, securities or evidence of indebtedness, and when the owner of the property—when the title has not fully passed from the company's hands—to vote the stock. All powers of the corporation are vested in the board of directors, who may "make, alter, amend or repeal all the by-laws of the corporation," except such as affect the election of directors and officers.

Begun on $1,400.

While the Dan Patch line was capitalized at $250,000,000, none of the capital stock had been paid in at the time of incorporation and only fourteen shares at $100 each had been subscribed. These were taken by fourteen men. Mill City residents were among those who agreed to take one share, and it was on this $1,400 that the road sprang into existence. The Minneapolis people named in the articles are M. W. Savage, W. D. Boutelle, E. B. Savage, T. W. Stevenson, M. H. Boutelle and D. W. McKenna.

Of the 250,000 shares of capital stock issued 249,986 remained in the treasury after the promoters had taken their initial one share each. Since then there has been great activity in selling the paper which remain in the company's vaults.

DEWAR—MRS. CHARLES A DEWAR of Virginia, Minn., died last Sunday. The deceased resided in Duluth for three years, moving to Virginia last February. She was born in Glengary, Ont., in 1862, and went to Alpena, Mich., in 1883, where she was married to Charles A. Dewar in 1885. She is survived by her husband and daughters, Kathryn and Mrs. H. S. Amos, and son, John. She is also survived by six sisters, Mrs. A. McInnis, Mrs. A. C. McDonald, Mrs. Angus McDonald, Mrs. George Caven, all of Duluth; Mrs. M. McPherson of Ballard, Wash.; Mrs. N. A. McDonald of Glengarry, Ont., and three brothers, Ronald McLachlan of Glengarry, Ont., John of British Columbia, and Alexander of Wallace, Idaho. The body was brought here, services being held at the Sacred Heart cathedral and interment at Calvary cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

WE WISH TO THANK OUR MANY friends and relatives for the kindness, sympathy and floral offerings received during the bereavement of our beloved wife and mother.
MR. CHARLES A. DEWAR AND FAMILY.

RAILROADS

WILKE GETS PROMOTION

New South Shore City Passenger and Ticket Agent Appointed.

W. T. Wilke has been appionted city passenger and ticket agent for the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic railroad and will take charge at once.

A circular announcing this appointment has been issued by James Maney, general passenger agent, and John P. Gordon, general agent for the city.

Mr. Wilke will have charge of the passenger and ticket business for Duluth and vicinity and will make his headquarters in the city ticket office.

Mr. Wilke has been with the South Shore in its Duluth ticket office for ten years. Prior to that he was with the Omaha road in their local freight office. He is well liked among the railroad men, who will be glad to learn of his advancement.

Circulars also announce the appointment of J. J. Mechlin as soliciting freight and passenger agent at Calumet, Mich., and D. J. Caven as traveling freight and passenger agent out of Marquette. Both appointments become effective at once.

PARALYZED BY THE COLD

Switching Operations in Railroad Yards Almost at a Standstill.

Freezing weather has raised havoc with switching operations in the railroad yards and at the coal docks. As a result, coal shipments to interior points have been cut in two, and shipping generally has been paralyzed.

Freight trains are experiencing much difficulty in making any headway and little attention is now being paid to the regular running schedule. Passenger trains handling the local business have been keeping well up to the schedule. The morning South Shore train, however, was two hours late and the Northern Pacific train was forced to wait for connections at Staples and was one hour and a half late.

In some of the terminal yards switch engines have been abandoned by their crews because the extreme cold weather froze up their pistons so that they could not be moved. This trouble has caused a number of engine failures on all railroads doing business at the Head of the Lakes and as a result traffic has been more or less tied up.

Ordinarily, the coal dock shipments of commercial coal alone at this time of the year and considering the demand throughout the Northwest, would amount to 200 cars daily. Yesterday only 86 cars were moved, Thursday, 125; Wednesday, 108 and Tuesday, 72.

Switch engines employed at the coal docks in making up coal trains, can only work about three or four hours a day on account of the freezing weather.

STEEL COACHES ON RANGE ROADS

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad has received six new all steel coaches to replace wooden coaches now in use in the company's passenger service. The cars are now at the Proctor shops being inspected. They were built at St. Charles, Mo.

An order, which was placed for two more steel coaches is now being filled. They will be combination all-steel baggage, mail and express cars. They will probably be turned out this month.

Both of the Steel corporation roads will soon have steel coaches for passenger trains, the Duluth & Iron Range company having placed a contract for the construction of a number of them.

To Control Pere Marquette.

New York, Jan. 6.—A syndicate composed of Newman Erb and associates already in control of a number of railroads in the West and Northwest, is said to be negotiating for the control of the Pere Marquette railroad.

THE NEW SURGERY.

Los Angeles Times: Senator Luke Lea of Tennesse, apropos of the operation for transfusion of blood that he so nobly underwent on his wife's behalf, said at a dinner in Washington:

"Latter-day surgery is a wonderful thing, and I'm sure you won't think me at all disrespectful if I tell you a strange story about it.

"I have a friend named Jasper, and, meeting him the other day, I said:

"'Jasper, you look, somewhat, queer.'

"'I expect it's my nose,' said he. 'I fell down a coalhole and tore a big piece out of it.'

"'Why, your nose seems all right,' said I.

"'Oh, yes,' said Jasper, 'it seems all right. The surgeons, you know, grafted a piece of my arm on to it. But the shape is changed, and besides, I can't go to the ball games any more.'

"'No?' said I. 'Why not?'

"'Because,' said Jasper, 'having a piece of my arm in my nose, whenever I get excited over a good play, I start to wave it, and that makes me so deuced conspicuous.'"

COLD IS HARD ON BUSINESS BUT IT KILLS THE GERMS

489 Cold Plunge Advocates Cease Operations and the B. V. D. Marching Club Is Decimated.

Cold weather is having a most disastrous effect upon the population of Duluth. The distress is being felt in the cafes, the buffets, (also the saloons—a hiatus of 5 cents), the hotels, the theaters, the soda fountains—but not in the coal offices.

Cafes are missing old established customers. The reason is nothing else but the pernicious and tenacious cold. Men won't walk a single block out of the way in this frigid freeze to go to the cafe where they had been in the custom of dining or flirting with the waitresses.

Cafe-owners say that men are taking their meals at the eating places nearest their offices. They are measuring their meanders by the foot.

It is the same way in the buffet business. Men who have been in the habit of dropping around for a drink and to admire the mahogany, even since the first of the year, have been missing during the last two or three days. The long haul is discriminating against some of the old favorite bars. Men are seeking terminal facilities near their office or near the corner where they take the street car for home.

Yes, the theaters are complaining too. The crowds have been smaller the present week and the enthusiasm less spontaneous. "They're sitting on their hands," said an actor.

Some say that this cold weather is a regular field day for killing germs. It's a 38 deg. below wind that doesn't blow somebody good. Some of the good cits feel they have been thoroughly germified, or whatever it is to part company with the microbes. It may be all right, George, but just the same look out with pain on the ruddy individual who bursts in upon you and tells you to go out and get a deep breath of the fine morning air.

Cold Bathers Scarce.

By close estimate it is ascertained that 489 of the chronic 7 a. m. cold bathers have ceased operations for the week. The union will not, it is said, exact fines. Several progressive members of the B. V. D. marching club have also weakened.

This is only a story. It is said to have happened in front of Boyce's drug store. A man with a cap pulled down over his head and with minature icicles making his mustache look like a photograph of Minnehaha falls in winter time, hailed one of those fresh air fiends.

"Your ear is frozen," the capped citizen said to the one with free drafts playing on his dome.

"I don't believe it; I am used to cold," replied, or retorted, just as you will, the man with ears reddening in the pure ozone.

It is said they stood and argued over it. The touch winter weather's friend protested that his ear was not frozen. While they argued, so the story goes, his other ear froze.

That's a story and you can play it as far as you like.

Sociability, conviviality and cash register receipts have been hurt by the cold spell. The league for the prevention of undue profanity has called a special meeting to deal with an exaggerated situation. Amateur firemen have started to studying furnace rules to prevent undue violence at the hands of irate householders.

Three Duluth hotels have grown reckless and started fires in fireplaces originally intended for picturesque effect and pot ferns. The swift kick of Baris has started some things to moving, even if it has had a depressing effect upon gay pleasure.

While poets may sing of skies that shine on nights that are sold and alleged poets spring the chestnut about the beautiful snow, the problem of today is to clean the flue in the furnace pipe or to replenish the coal bin when pay day jurks in the fourteen-day distance. The grave question of keeping warm is one that is perplexing. Vegetarians have broken rules and fresh air fiends have become cringing stove hangers on.

Really, Mabel, it is awful.

AMAZING REPLIES BY RECRUITS

Questions to Ascertain How Much Boys Educated in Elementary Schools of England Remember After Leaving School.

London, Jan. 6.—To ascertain how much boys educated in the elementary schools of England remember after leaving school, several officers in charge of recruiting depots have put a series of fifteen questions to the newest recruits. The replies in many cases were amazing, particularly as the recruits generally come from the larger cities having the best elementary schools.

At one depot thirty-five recruits were examined. Fourteen, fifteen, fourteen and eleven respectively could not give a reply to the questions as to the identity of Alfred the Great, Nelson, Wellington and Shakespeare, and many of the others had only vague ideas as to who these heroes of their country were.

To the question, "What is the United States?" sixteen replied correctly four knew something, fifteen were entirely ignorant and one man, who had been eight years at school, answered "An English colony."

Strangely enough even fewer knew anything of France. When it came to England, however, every recruit answered correctly, although only fifteen could say what the empire was.

All the necessary legislation has been enacted in connection with the proposed construction of the trans-Australian railway and work on the project, which is to be carried out by the federal government itself, will commence very shortly and its completion is looked for within three years. The line starts from Kalgoorlie, 380 miles from Perth, one of the eastern limits of the Western Australia system, when it connects with other railways through South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales and Queensland. The new line is 1,060 miles in length and its cost is estimated at nearly twenty million dollars. While the railway will be of great commercial advantage the necessities of defence have chiefly influenced Australia in making the expenditure. The country, faced with the danger of a possible Asiatic invasion, one reason for the desire that Britain and America should control the Pacific, has been putting her defensive resources in order ever since confederation. Modified conscription has been adopted as the military system of the country and liberal contributions of ships and men have been made to increase the British naval forces in the South Pacific. Lord Kitchener too went out to advise the government on the measures to be taken to defend the country and one of his first recommendations was the construction of this railway to bring Western Australia nearer to the other states of the confederation, at present the western province being entirely dependent upon assistance from sea.

The police have just succeeded in getting rid, for five years at least, of a man who carried on the triple occupations of manager for a large West end firm, anarchist and coiner. He was caught while engaged in the latter occupation and sentenced to five years with hard labor. Alexander Estegny was his name and his description can be found in the rogue's galleries throughout the world. He has held numerous positions of responsibility and just before his arrest was engaged as manager at a salary of $50 a week. In the evenings the police found Estegny engaged in a large workshop at Hampstead, fitted up with a complete coiner's outfit. He had also been watched as an anarchist and he was known to be a member of an important anarchists' club in London. For that, however, the English police do not disturb men. They may talk all the anarchism they like and for this privilege they refrain from putting their practices into theory in England, immunity thus being obtained for royalties in this country.

At an auction here the Clydesdale stallion Baron of Buchlyvie, was sold for $47,500, the largest price ever received for a draft horse, and, for a horse in his 12th year, the sum has few precedents even among thoroughbreds. The best previous price ever received for a Clydesdale was $15,000, paid some twenty years ago for the 2-year-old colt Prince of Albion.

Although most of England's heroes are represented in the capital of the empire by memorials of various sorts, the famous explorer, Capt. James Cook, who lost his life in the Hawaiian Islands, is not numbered among them, but this oversight will soon be corrected by a society which plans to erect a life-size statue on the Mall to the great circumnavigator.

The plan originated with Sir James Carruthers, a former prime minister of New South Wales. On a recent visit to London he was surprised that there was no statue here to the man who was responsible in a large measure for the addition of the antipodean territories to the British empire. He directed public attention to the oversight and the agitation resulted in the appointment of a committee with Postmaster General Samuel at its head to provide a suitable memorial. King George V. at that time Prince of Wales, accepted the presidency of the society for the erection of the statue and although his elevation to the throne has caused him to withdraw from office in it, he continues to give the movement his heartiest support.

The government offered its aid through the medium of the board of works, which provided an admirable site for the statue on the Mall side of the new admiralty arch. The design and execution of the statue, which will be unveiled some time next year, has been entrusted to Sir Thomas Brock.

BREAD WITHOUT FLOUR.

In France bread has been made without flour in a machine that transforms the wheat directly into dough. This machine shows large screw turning loosely in a case on the inner surface of which is a screw thread running in an opposite direction.

Between the main threads on the cylinder are smaller threads and the depth of the groove becomes progressively smaller from one end to the other, so that it will hold the entire wheat grain as it enters the machine, at the same time accommodating only the pulverized wheat at the exit.

The wheat is prepared by a thorough washing, after which operation, says Harper's Weekly, about a pint of tepid water to a pound of grain is added, the whole mixture being allowed to stand sime six hours. Then the grains of wheat have swollen to twice their ordinary size.

The mixture is then treated with yeast and salt and is poured into the machine. It falls between the threads of the moving screw and of the fixed contrary screw, which simultaneously crush the envelope and shreds of the grain, making of them a homogeneous mixture that forms a smooth paste.

Bread made by this process contains a succession of holes whose size increases as they approach the crust, which is thin. The odor given off is said to be especially agreeable.

PROGRESSIVE WOMAN FARMER.

Denver Field and Farm: Mrs. Ken Ringle of Kansas believes in farming by electricity. It is five miles from the Hutchinson electric light plant to the Ringle ranch, but in order to get the current to the big farm it was necessary to construct only half a mile of additional line.

The telephone line to the ranch is privately owned and the electric wires were strung along this 'phone line. The residence, barns, carriage sheds and even the yards and feed lots are lighted by electricity. Motors attached to feed grinders and other implements do work formerly done by horsepower, while churns and other apparatus in connection with the dairy house and ranch kitchen are operated by electric power.

There is something more than coincidence back of the fact that it is the advertised businesses that succeed, and the unadvertised businesses that fail.

WOODEN AMMUNITION.

London Chronicle: Three years ago civil war was raging between two Afghan tribes, the Ali Khel and the Mala Khel. The latter tribe built great hopes of success on a cannon of such a size that 160 men were required to draw it.

A Sikh trained in a British battery was engaged to work the gun, on the understanding that he received twenty rupees every time he hit the village fort of the foe. This did not prove renumerative, for according to an eye witness the ammunition consisted of "olive wooden balls bound with iron bands, which have a highly eccentric flight and are calculated to do about equal damage to friend and foe." After a three days' bombardment, in which the fort was hit only three times, the hostilities came to an end.

WILL TRY AGAIN TO CLIMB MT. M'KINLEY

BELMORE BROWN.

Belmore Brown of Tacoma will again accompany Prof. Herschel C. Parker on his third attempt to reach the summit of Mount McKinley. It is Mount McKinley that Dr. Cook claims to have ascended in 1906. In this year Dr. Cook, accompanied by Prof. Parker and Brown, got up 10,200 feet on the south side of the mountain, but after that further ascent was impossible. Messrs. Parker and Brown gave up the expedition, but Dr. Cook, with a guide, claims to have ascended the mountain on the north side. Two years ago Prof. Parker made his second attempt, but, according to his statements, he found the peak pictured in Dr. Cook's photographs to be twenty miles from Mount McKinley.

HAS ORDERED INQUIRY IN JACK JOHNSON'S CASE

MARQUIS OF TULLIBARDINE.

The marquis of Tullibardine, head of the Masonic Grand lodge of Scotland, has ordered a searching inquiry into the somewhat hurried initiation of Jack Johnson, the negro fighter, as a member of the Masons in October last. The marquis was born in 1871. He is the oldest surviving son of the duke of Atholl and has served in the Royal Highlanders as lieutenant of the Royal Horse Guards, and was staff officer during the Nile expedition in 1898. He served in the South African war, attached to the Royal Dragoons.

PLANNED HER OWN DEATH

Mrs. James Azzo Told Sister She Would Kill Herself.

Threats Not Taken Seriously—Husband Arrives From Range.

Mrs. James Azzo, 35 years old, who committed suicide late Thursday afternoon at the bome of her father, J. L. de Mell, Flat No. 5 of the United States flats, Nineteenth avenue west and Superior street, had planned her death beforehand and even spoke of it to her immediate relatives, according to the statement made yesterday afternoon by her sister, Mrs. Doris Seashore, who also lived with Mr. de Mell.

"Mrs. Azzo was such a jolly woman that we can hardly believe she could kill herself," said Mrs. Seashore, "and when she mentioned death to me I thought she was only joking. She told me at noon Thursday that when I came back from shopping I would find her a corpse. She had it all planned out, and after I left for downtown Mrs. Azzo went to the drug store and purchased the poison. She left her diamond ring to her little nephew and her bracelet to me.

"After returning home Mrs. Azzo went into the bathroom and after taking a bath took the poison. She then came into the living room and told those present to call a doctor at once, saying that she had taken carbolic acid. She then went into her own room and lying down on the bed passed away before the doctor could even reach her."

Mrs. Azzo had been married twelve years and up to six months ago lived at Hibbing with her husband, when they quarreled and she came to live with her father and sister. After being here a few months she attempted to go back to her husband, but he refused to forget their differences, her sister says. She often called him up over the long distance telephone, but he would always refuse to talk to her, her sister stated.

While The Herald reporter was talking to Mrs. Seashore yesterday afternoon, James Azzo, the husband of the dead woman, came into the house, just arriving from Hibbing after hearing of the death of his wife. There were three sisters and three brothers of the dead woman also present when he arrived.

PLAN CAMPAIGN OF IMPROVEMENT

The West End Hillside Club Will Be Active This Year.

At the first meeting of 1912 to be held next Friday evening at the Ensign school by the members of the West End Hillside Improvement club, officers for the year will be elected and a general campaign begun for a number of improvements for this end of the city.

The Twin Lakes which were destroyed in July, 1909, by a cloudburst that washed away the sides of the lakes, will be restored this year, say the members of the club. The club will ask the park board to rebuild the retaining wall.

The council will be asked to enclose Coffee creek, which the members of the club claim can be converted into a storm and sanitary sewer to be used to drain the entire hillside. That the creek improvement is most important is shown by the fact that a large sewer is needed in this section of the city.

The creek runs into Eighth street and crosses Piedmont avenue in a culvert and then flows diagonally through two blocks and empties into a storm sewer at Twenty-third avenue west and Sixth street. According to the present plans it is proposed to divert other hillside sewers into the large one after the creek is enclosed.

The club will hold meetings every two weeks during the year.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH.

Members of the congregation of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, met at the church last evening for the annual election of officers and to hear the reports of the various societies. Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the church, officiated at the meeting and the following officers were elected: J. Wiles, and L. Berridge, trustees; E. E. Churchill, treasurer; Miss Minnie Milne, clerk; Leigh Gunther, head usher; Miss Minnie Milne, organist; Mrs. J. W. Gilfillan and Mrs. S. B. Bradley, solicitors; Miss Minnie Milne, chairman of the missionary committee; George B. Jewell, chorister; Charles H. Glover, auditor; Frank C. Glover, superintendent of Sunday schools, and F. M. Mitchell, assistant.

William Capen was elected president of the Baptist Young People's union and Miss Millie Low was chosen secretary. The Ladies' Auxiliary elected the following officers for the year: Mrs. George B. Jewell, president; Mrs. F. G. Hanson, first vice president; Mrs. J. D. McPhail, second vice president, and Mrs. E. E. Churchill, third vice president. Each vice president will have charge of a separate department during the year.

E. E. Churchill was elected president of the Brotherhood and Rev. J. H. Giffin was chosen director of the boys' work. Refreshments were served after the business session by the members of the Brotherhood.

CHANGE DATE OF REGULAR MEETING.

The West End Republican club has changed its regular meeting date and will meet every Monday evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, in the future. A political rally is promised for next Monday evening.

The committee representing the Twenty-seventh avenue property owners will send a representative to speak at the meeting and explain the new amendment to the voters.

Parthenoe Society.

The Parthenoe society of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, held its annual election of officers in the parsonage last evening. The reports for the year were read by the committees. The receipts are $282.35, with a balance of $171.39. The society voted to give $50 to the foreign Missionary society. The following officers were elected: Miss Ellen Gustafson, president; Miss Amy Carlson, vice president; Miss Hilma Anderson, secretary; Miss Mabel Peterson, treasurer; Miss Ethel Wallin, librarian, and Misses Agnes Lindberg and Anna Norain, program committee.

Elect Officers.

The members of Minnekahda club held their first regular meeting of the new year Wednesday evening of this week. Election of officers, and the discussion of plans for a sleight ride and other entertainment for the members and their friends during the winter months, constituted the business of this meeting. The newly elected officers are: president, Cyrus Olson; vice president, Lake Flood; secretary, W. E. Downie; treasurer, A. C. Swanson; sergeant-at-arms, Edward Flood; sentinels, Carl Roske and Arthur Roske; property men, William Kennedy, Luke Walla and Orlando Olson.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will hold its first meeting of the year in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. J. A. McGaughey will be the leader for the afternoon and following the meeting a missionary tea will be served by Mesdames Cox, Ekblad, Peer, Ledingham and Swanstrom.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Williams of Coleraine, Minn., left for their home yesterday after spending the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nelson, 128 North Nineteenth avenue west.

Revival meetings will be held every evening next week beginning Monday evening at the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street.

The Busy Bee society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church was entertained this afternoon at the home of F. Nelson, 2103 West First street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Jackson of Millwaukee left for their home yesterday after visiting this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bunton, 5424 West Fourth street.

Alvin Thorsen and Jake Dietz, who have been employed in the West end as switchmen, left for Grand Rapids last evening, where they will work in the woods until spring.

Miss Blanche Kimball of Iron Mountain, Mich., is a guest this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Engstrom, 1917 West Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Wilhelm, 1322 West Fourth street, returned home yesterday after spending the holidays with Mrs. Wilhelm's parents at Washburn, Wis.

Mrs. J. E. Farun of the West end will leave tomorrow morning for Virginia, Minn., where she will organize a ladies' auxiliary society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Misses Emma and Alma Aune, 129 North Twenty-fourth avenue west, returned yesterday from the Twin Cities, where they spent the holidays with relatives.

FREE SOUP FOR NEEDY

If the present cold weather continues it may be necessary for the Salvation army officials to institute a soup kitchen somewhere in the downtown district. There is hunger and suffering among the poor and idle of the city. This condition has been intensified by the frigid weather conditions.

It is the plan of the Salvation army workers to rent some store room in the down town district and turn this into a soup kitchen. Here soup and hot coffee would be served to the needy and hungry. The needs of some provisions for the hungry is imperative, according to the statements of the Salvation army officials, who urge that contributions be made at the relief office of the army, 428 West Fourth street.

WHERE ARE HEIRS OF JAMES CARROLL?

Where are the heirs of James Carroll, the West Superior street saloonkeeper, who died recently?

The local probate court is unable to locate them.

He left an estate of $1,000.

People in Texas and California have put in claims, but have now withdrawn them upon finding out that the estate is small.

Hearing on the final account in the estate of Harry L. Wright will be held Monday. This estate is worth about $26,000. For many years Mr. Wright was a bookkeeper for A. D. Thompson.

Hearing on the final account in the estate of Harry Chesmore, the policeman, who was shot by Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson, will be held Monday. The estate is small.

EVEN OLD TIMERS THROW UP HANDS

"Coldest Ever Experienced on Vemilion Range," Says "Tommy" Walsh.

"It was the coldest weather I have experienced in thirty years on the Vermilion range," said T. J. Walsh today in speaking of a trip he took yesterday across Vermilion lake near Tower.

Mr. Walsh followed the old Vermilion trail thirty years ago, and he has been closely associated with the range since that time.

Yesterday he crossed from Tower to the Consolidated Vermilion property, driving across the ice on Lake Vermilion.

"It was 47 degs. below zero and there was a thirty mile wind blowing," said Mr. Walsh. "In all my experiences on the Vermilion—and I have struck some pretty rough weather—I never went through anything like it, and never want to again."

ONLY MARRIED MEN EMPLOYED

Only married men will be given work at the rock pile.

It will be useless for "transients" to apply for jobs at the quarry or the Associated Charities. The rock pile is now giving daily employment to sixteen, the limit under the present conditions. All of them are married men who live in Duluth and have families dependent upon them.

The quarry will soon be enlarged and then more men can be cared for. The Associated Charities is swamped with applications.

HARRIS MUST "DO HIS TIME"

John M. Harris, convicted of obtaining money under false pretenses from John Runquist, will have to spend four years at Stillwater.

The supreme court has affirmed the decision of the local court in refusing a new trial.

Harris has now exhausted every resource and will have to "do his time." He was convicted in the local court after being arrested in Sioux City, Iowa, by Deputy Sheriff Magie.

HUBBARD COUNTY GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS MEET

DELEGATES PHOTOGRAPHED AT PARK RAPIDS.

Park Rapids, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wednesday was Good Roads day in Park Rapids when a meeting was held at the Commercial club of delegates from every one of the townships in Hubbard county excepting Schoolcraft and Thorp. They came by train and team despite the bitter cold and evinced much interest in the proceedings. Mayor Taber welcomed the visitors at 10 a. m. Wednesday and J. D. Conzet responded. R. C. Dunn sent a letter which was read defining the 1 mill tax. U. S. G. Henry, Editor Scheers of the Akeley Herald, L. H. Rice, Charles Spencer, assistant state engineer, and others spoke. The credentials committee reported sixty-five delegates entitled to participate. During the noon adjournment the delegates filled up before the Great Northern hotel and were photographed for the Duluth Herald, despite the fact that the mercury was 20 deg. below.

In the afternoon Mr. Whitcomb of Akeley spoke on public highways, S. S. Livingston of Straight River on winter roads, C. W. Martin of Argo on the using of the road planer, C. E. B. Bradt of Todd on clean roads, C. A. Prescott of Laporte on rural highways and Bert Rodman on amendments to the constitution. Before adjourning many resolutions pertaining to roads and road legislation were adopted. The Commercial club brought about the meeting and is generally praised for the enterprise shown.

NO FIGHT ON INSURANCE

Five Agencies Submit New Offer and School Board Accepts It.

Slip in Ahead of Competitors and Close Five-Year Policy.

There will be no fight on school insurance before the board of education this year. Quietly and effectively, the five companies which had the business for the past five years slipped in ahead of their competitors, offered the board a proposition representing a saving of $7,780.89 and the board closed the deal last night. The new policies are already in force and the other insurance agencies are out in the cold for five years more.

The insurance question is one that has worried the board for years. Every agency wanted a slice of the business, which now amounts to $1,212,500. Some years ago, the business was split up among all companies. Later it was given to one company for five years and there were protests from the others. Five years ago a new division was made, one-third of the business going to the Manley-McLennan agency and the other two-thirds being split up among Mendenhall & Hoopes, O. H. Clarke, Little & Nolte and John A. Stephenson.

The policies made at that time were to have expired May 28, 1912. The other agencies were not looking for a move at this time. Last night a proposition was received by the board from the five agencies, offering to give new policies, dated Dec. 28, 1911, and running for five years, for $20,006.25, an average rate of $1.65 per $100 for five years. The former rate was $23,-132.14, an average rate of $1.99 for five years. The proposition also included the cancellation of the existing policies.

The reduction amounts to 34 cents for each $100 or $3,130.89. The requirement that an A. D. T. service be maintained in the Central high school is also abolished, which is a saving of $900 for five years. The discontinuance of the A. D. T service will cut off a night man employed at the high school, which means a saving of $3,750, or a total of $7,780.89.

Director Barnes endeavored to have the insurance spread among all the agencies, but was voted down. He then endeavored to have the insurance on West Duluth schools given to West Duluth agents, but was voted down again. The proposition of the insurance companies was finally accepted.

Some time ago the board of education adopted the rule that janitors were to be paid $2 a night by people to whom the use of rooms in grade schools was granted. Last evening, communications were received from the Y W C A and Y M C A, stating that the organizations had been compelled to discontinue their night schools in the West end and West Duluth on account of the expense. The board adopted a new rule, fixing the pay for janitors at $1 when two rooms are used and 50 cents additional for each room over two.

* * *

A night school will be established in Duluth by the working men who petitioned the board for aid. The committee in charge has accepted the proposition of the board to furnish the room, heat and light for the purpose and a room in the Central high school will probably be set aside to make a start.

* * *

The use of the assembly room of the Central high school will hereafter be granted to benevolent or charitable organizations, at the discretion of the board, and those using the room will be allowed to charge admission, if an amendment to the rules offered by Director Boyer and to be voted upon at the next meeting, is adopted. Heretofore the board has allowed the use of the room only for school entertainments and for lectures of an educational nature, although admission was not allowed to be charged to lectures given by organizations other than the school.

* * *

The subject of dental inspection has been taken up, but Dr. C. H. Schroder, medical inspector, reported last evening that it is doubtful if anything can be done this year. The dentists are willing to give their aid, Dr. Schroder suggested that a room for the purpose should be fitted up in one of the buildings so that the children would not be required to go to the offices of the dentists who would give their services.

* * *

Night schools were discussed at some length last evening. Supt. Denfeld reported on his inspection of the Virginia schools. He suggested that it would be advisable to open two or three night schools in the Central high school for the center of the city, offering the rooms and furnishing a teacher at small expense. A small tuition might be charged, he said, to pay the teacher. No action was taken by the board.

The enrollment in the month of November was 12,900. In December the truant officer investigated eighty-five cases.

* * *

The committee on buildings and grounds reported that the two portable schoolhouses purchased have arrived. One has been placed at the Franklin school and the other is being set up on block 5, Gary. The use of the ground at Gary has been donated for one year by the townsite company and an option for the purchase of the block has been given the board.

* * *

Thomas Dillon, who claimed that his property was damaged by the filling of the ground at the Nettleton school, had a long argument with the board and a settlement for $50 was finally made.

Object to Stable.

Before the state supreme court the case brought to restrain Herbert Inch from maintaining a nuisance—the said nuisance being a stable housing thirty or more horses—is being argued. The protestors are Ole Lead, John R. Anker, Ernest A. Schulz and Henry Gazett.

Republican Club.

A meeting of the Young Men's Republican club will be held at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, Monday evening. Joseph Horak will deliver an address on the monetary system. A. A. Fider, Republican candidate for alderman from the Second ward, will also speak.

Notice.

Dr. Charles E. Conkey has moved his office to 510 Fidelity building, No. 12 West Superior street, from New Jersey building.

Order in Courtroom.

An old order was renewed in municipal court today by Judge Cutting, when he instructed the court officers to see that all people in the courtroom are seated. For some time it has been too common for persons transacting business with the court to crowd about the bench. This interferes greatly with the work and causes loss of time as well as an appearance which is not in keeping with court procedure.

George T. Slade Here.

George T. Slade, vice president and general manager of the Northern Pacific railroad is in Superior today. He came to the Head of the Lakes to attend a meeting of the directors and officers of the Lake Superior Terminal & Transfer Railway company. The business transacted was of a purely routine nature. Mr. Slade will return to the Twin Cities this evening.

Three Men Frostbitten.

John Dawson, a laborer, was taken to St. Luke's hospital today by the county poor authorities. He was picked up on the street with both feet badly frostbitten. He will recover and it is stated that he is in no danger of losing either foot. Ernest Kiskanen was taken to police headquarters from Park Point and John Peterson was brought in from Superior street last night. The former had a frozen ear and the latter a frozen hand. Both were charged with drunkenness, but were allowed their liberty this morning after they had pleaded guilty in police court.

Two Small Fires.

The fire department had two runs to small fires this morning. About 1:30 o'clock fire broke out on the building occupied by the families of Martin Brew and James Foucault at 2626 West Michigan street. Both families had to make a hurried exit and take refuge with neighbors. The loss was about $800, partly covered by insurance. The second fire took place at 316 Restormel street in the building occupied by Joel Hubert. The loss was only about $50.

Hotel Is Raided.

Ole Sieverson, Frank Miller and Mary Williams were arrested in a Lake avenue hotel last evening for disorderly conduct Sieverson will be sent back to Stillwater for having violated his parole. The other two pleaded guilty and got $50 and costs or fifty days in the county jail, each.

Case Continued.

The case of Gust Lundgren, arrested on a charge of having deer meat in his possession contrary to law, was continued until Jan. 16 when it was called for a hearing in police court yesterday afternoon.

Forced to Life of Shame.

Evelyn De Patie, 21, was granted a divorce from Edward De Patie, 22, by Judge Dancer of the district court this morning. Mrs. De Patie claimed her husband forced her to become a woman of the streets and her evidence and that of Chief Troyer, bore out her statements.

Judge Gilpin of the probate court has appointed W. A. Watts and Joseph C. Helm as appraisers for the inheritence tax in the estate of John Sundeen. The estate is valued at about $50,000.

A. C. A. Meeting.

The Duluth branch of the A. C. A. and affiliated College club will meet with Mrs. E. W. Bohannon, 2323 East Fifth street, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Rice and Wilson C. Crosby will speak on "Free Night Schools."

Will Ship This Year.

T. E. Cannon of the Cannon Mining company said today that shipments would be made from the Cannon mine, near Tower, this year. "We have twelve men at work," said Mr. Cannon. "They are adding to the stockpile, and then the mine will enter the shipping list this year."

THREE-FIFTHS OF SUM RAISED

Associated Charities Receives $600 in Small Contributions for Poor Fund.

At noon today $600 of the $1,000 needed by the Associated Charities to care for the poor of the city, had been raised.

Contributions have been coming in freely, although they have been small amounts. The ready response which the appeal has met convinces the directors that $1,000 will be raised either today or Monday, but the directors stated today that nobody need fear that the fund will be oversubscribed. The sum of $1,000 was named as one which the directors thought it possible to raise, and four or five times that sum could be used to good advantage.

TVEITMOE IS INDICTED AGAIN

Johannsen, Clancy and Munsey Also Named in True Bills.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—Two more blanket indictments were returned today by the federal grand jury in the national dynamite conspiracy case.

Three additional charges are enumerated in the new bills against Olaf Tveitmoe, Anton Johannsen, E. A. Clancy and J. E. Munsey, the labor leaders indicted last week together with the McNamara brothers and Ortie E. McManigal, but United States District Attorney A. I. McCormick intimates that the arrests of other men might occur both in San Francisco and Los Angeles any time.

POULTRY SHOW WILL BE LARGER THAN EVER.

Duluth's annual poultry show will take place Jan. 29 to Feb. 4 and, from present indications, the show will be better than ever before.

The poultry exhibits will be larger and more varied than in past years. Considerable interest has already been manifested in the raising of fancy breeds and the local society has arranged to offer larger prizes than formerly.

ON THE IRON RANGES

WILL INSURE ALL EMPLOYES

Chisholm Water Commission Seeks Protection Against Damage Suits.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water commission has decided to procure liability insurance for all employes of the department as well as for those employed on the streets. The city has had several damage suits brought by parties injured during the year and by taking out insurance of this kind the insurance companies will aid the city in fighting the cases as well as reimburse them for any verdict secured through the courts. The bonds given by Joe Cumming in the construction of the concrete pillars for the water tower were cancelled as the tower has withstood two severe winters and the pillars are secure. The city jail was ordered painted and refurnished in accordance with the instructions of the state board of control.

School Furnishings Delayed.

Unless the carload of seats and furnishings ordered for the new Lincoln school is located before Monday it is likely there will be no school in the new grade building Monday, when the winter term of school begins. The car left the factory two weeks ago and tracers have been sent out to locate it, but so far the railway company is unable to give any information.

Plumbers and workmen who were able to ply a pipe wrench are pressed into service to assist the demands made upon the city water department for thawing out frozen pipes and taps, the cold having raised havoc with the water pipe connections.

GREATER McKINLEY IS BEING PLANNED

Commercial Club Holds Annual Meeting and Outlines 1912 Campaign.

McKinley, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The McKinley Commercial club held its annual meeting and election at the city hall. The following officers were elected: President, Dr. J. C. Farmer; vice president, Judge L. N. Keeler; secretary, George Ellis; treasurer, Ole Johnson; trustees, W. F. Guyott and Sam Horricks.

Plans for the 1912 campaign were outlined. A lunch and smoker were enjoyed. Several new members have been taken in this year.

Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Beel have arrived here from Iowa, where they were married during the holidays. Prof. Bell is instructor in charge of the Elba - McKinley, McKinley and Elba schools, having been here two years. He was formerly located at Elba mine location, but has rented the Peter Holland house, where they will reside.

McKinley Briefs.

P. S. Kluntzman has returned from Farco and other Western points.

Miss Mary Hegler returned Wednesday to Duluth, where she is attending school.

Clarence Banks of Chisholm and E. J. Banks of Eveleth spent New Year's with Mrs. S. L. Johnson and family.

Miss Sophia Thomas of Elba mine location returned to Grand Rapids today, where she is teaching.

Mrs. Ole Johnson is improving after another severe illness.

Miss Winifred Chinn entertained at a dancing party this week.

THREE-FOOT THICK ICE.

Ice Harvesters at Nashwauk Not Complaining of Size.

Nashwauk, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ice harvesters are busy. Much of the village's supply is obtained from Pickerel lake, which is one and one-half miles south of here and several concerns are hauling from O'Brien lake. The ice that is being hauled measures three and one-half feet thick on an average and is clear as a crystal, which is due to the extreme cold weather of the past two weeks.

Those who have had experience in the ice business say that this year's output excels that of recent years. James Hayes, agent for the Fitger Brewing company of this village, has several teams employed in hauling ice to his new icehouse on lower Second street. During recent years Mr. Hayes was unable to supply all of his customers owing to conditons at the old icehouse on First street, which was partly ramshakled by storms, etc. The Sebeka Mercantile company has finished the season's haul.

John H. Carlson has several teams hauling for several business concerns here. The Nashwauk Italian Mercantile company have a large quantity of ice stored away for the coming summer.

AWAY GOES ALL STOMACH MISERY

No Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later.

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or Indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach. Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

SOUTH COLERAINE IS NEW STATION

Established By Missabe Road for Duluth People Going to Grand Rapids.

Coleraine, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Missabe passenger trains now stop at a platform by the Great Northern station in Coleraine for the accommodation of passengers coming from the Zenith City and going to Grand Rapids and other points West. The new station is called South Coleraine. This plan is much more convenient than transferring at Bovey as formerly.

Yesterday was the coldest day of the season on the Western Mesaba. In the morning the temperature was nearly 40 degs. below zero and at noon the mercury did not fall below 30 or 62 degs. below the freezing point. At night there was a still further decrease of 4 degs. below that at noon.

The Epworth League took a "thirty-below-zero" sleighride to Taconite last evening where the party was entertained at the home of Capt. Cameron. Two large sleigh loads made the trip.

Give Fine Concert.

The International Operatic Company of Chicago gave one of the best concerts ever given on a Lyceum course in the Greenway high school auditorium last evening. Burt P. McKinnie and Mrs. Tekla Farm McKinnie are members of this company. They have many friends here. There was a very large audience to greet them notwithstanding the bitter cold night. The scene from the second act of the opera "Martha" was the star number of the program.

Watson Moore of Duluth will speak at a men's banquet in the Methodist church next Wednesday night. It is expected that a large company will hear the distinguished layman. Special music will be provided. The dinner will be served by the ladies' aid society of the church.

BLASTING AND COLD BREAKING WINDOWS

Unusual Amount of Plate Glass Shattered in Hibbing This Week.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Concussion from the blasting operations in connection with the stripping work at the various mines in this vicinity heightened by the extreme cold weather, endangers plate glass and window fronts in the business section of town. A large plate glass window in the front of the W. J. Ryder furniture store on South Third street was shattered by the concussion from shots fired at the Buffalo-Susquehanna mine. Windows over the business section of the city were shaken during most of the day whenever a blast was discharged. Thermometers did not get above 20 degs. below zero in Hibbing yesterday.

PAIR DRINK ON TRAIN.

Chisholm Judge Gives Them Thirty Days in Jail.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two drunken men giving the names of Mike Pejovich and George Plonenac were taken from the Great Northern passenger train Thursday evening by the conductor and turned over to the local police. They were drinking and raising a disturbance on the train, and before Judge Masters the following morning admitted the charge and were sentenced to pay a fine of $28 or thirty days in jail. As they lacked the money to pay the fine they were taken to Duluth to serve the sentence. This was the first prosecution for drunkenness on trains brought before the local court.

ELY FIREMEN ELECT.

Firemen's Relief Association Also Chooses Its Officers.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 6. — (Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the firemen on Wednesday evening the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: Chief, I. G. Cox; first assistant chief, Richard Hodge; second assistant chief, Ed Powers; captain Hose Cart No. 1, John Seraphine; captain Hose Cart No. 2, Charles Quigley; foreman hook and ladder, Iver Wisted, Jr; chemical engineer, Joseph Rothman; secretary, Dave Childers; treasurer, Iver Wisted, Jr.

On the same evening these officers were elected for the year for the relief association: President, Harry Chinn; vice president, Richard Hodge; secretary, David Childers; treasurer, Iver Wisted, Jr.; trustees, Harry Chinn, Richard Hodge, Ed Power, John Seraphine and Louis Eisenach.

AURORA SCHOOL CLOSES; BOILER BEING DEFECTIVE.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to a bursting boiler in the heating plant, school was closed this week at the building in the Mohawk location. Two class rooms in the village are being fitted up and the teachers and pupils will be transported by the district until the damage is repaired.

It is likely that a new boiler will be installed as the present one has never been efficient in the very cold weather and has been out of commission for a week or so nearly every winter.

VIRGINIA ORDERS LAW ENFORCEMENT

Police and Fire Commission Tells Chief Walsh to Put on Lid.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state laws governing saloons and prohibiting gambling will be enforced here or it is predicted some official heads will drop into the basket, as the result of orders issued by the fire and police commission, ordering Chief Walsh to put on the lid.

The order states that any officer failing to close saloons on time nightly and Sunday, or who permits gambling in his bailiwick, will lose his job. There has been a scurry to cover on the part of the law breakers as a result.

Commission Elects Officers.

The police and fire commissioners elected these officers: Dr. C. B. Lenont, president; J. W. Murphy, vice president; W. H. Pratt, treasurer. City Clerk Bickford is secretary of the commission. The other members of the commission are A. De Noble, E. D. McNeil and C. W. Lindstrom.

The new gasoline power hose wagon and engine purchased of the Waterous Engine company of St. Paul was formally accepted and ordered paid for.

DEAD'S IDENTITY NOT ESTABLISHED

Name of Woodsman Who Killed Himself at Hibbing Not Certain.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The identity of the woodsman who committed suicide Thursday by shoting himself on the steps of the Finnish church, has not yet been positively established.

A more thorough search of his effects resulted in finding between $80 and $90. Deputy Coroner Pengilly conducted an autopsy over the body. An inquest will not be held.

The authorities are in communication with the authorities at Ashland, Wis., in an effort to make positive identification. In the dead man's pocket was found a letter written by J. R. Scott of Nobles, Wis., and addressed to Otto Gustafson at Ashland.

SERVICE EVERY NIGHT.

Next Week at Scandinavian Evangelical Church in Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies' Aid of the Scandinavian Evangelical Mission church will have their first social this year at the church, Saturday, at 8 p. m. There will be music on piano and string instruments.

The Sunday program follows: Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.; service at 11 a. m and 7:30 p. m. The prayer week will be celebrated next week with service every night at 8 o'clock. The subjects will be: Monday, Thanksgiving and Confession; Tuesday, "The Catholic Church;" Wednesday, "The People and the Government;" Thursday, "The Foreign Mission;" Friday, "The Homes, the School and the Young People;" Saturday, "The Home Mission and the Jews."

OLIVER CLUB ELECTION.

Much Interest Shown in Outcome By Members.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual election of officers of the Oliver club will be held at the clubhouse Tuesday evening next at 8 o'clock and is arousing considerable interest among the members of the club which includes 300 employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company in Hibbing and the nearby mining locations. W. M. Trappan, president for the past two years, is unopposed for re-election as is Treasurer J. E. Smith, who has served three terms.

The nominees for the other offices are: Vice president, W. R. Rose and Fred R. Mott; secretary, W. L. Henry and W. F. Sullivan; directors, C. H. Webster, Duncan McKay, E. L. Clyner, H. H. Angst, W. M. Mattsen, W. M. Rowe, W. F. Herrick and H. E. Farnum. Five directors are to be chosen.

GO RIGHT AT IT

Friends and Neighbors in Duluth Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble.

Rubbing an aching back may relieve it,

But it won't cure it.

You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it;

Reach the cause—attack the pain.

Have cured many Duluth people.

Mrs. J. E. Kennell, 324 N. Twentieth Ave., W., Duluth, Minn., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have given entire satisfaction in our home. About a year ago a member of our family was so crippled with his back that he could hardly straighten. This person had much pain and lameness in the kidneys and there were other troubles in evidence which plainly showed what was wrong. Doan's Kidney Pills were publicly recommended and a supply was procured. This remedy brought relief and thus proved its merits."

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department was called to the Eveleth hotel yesterday afternoon to extinguish a blaze starting from a mattress. Little damage was done.

Preparing for Election.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village Attorney W. A. Radamacher is preparing papers for the election next month to vote on annexing the territory adjacent to the village limits.

Judge Left $100,000.

Yankton, S. D., Jan. 6.—In his will made public here yesterday the late Judge Bartlett Tripp leaves an estate valued at $100,000 to Yankton college, subject to annuities to certain relatives.

PROCTOR MAN IS KILLED IN WRECK

Ira Beldin, Old Missabe Conductor, Loses Life in Canada.

Proctor, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word was received here Thursday that Ira Belden, a well-known Mesaba railroad conductor had met death in a wreck on the Grand Trunk & Pacific railway in Canada on which road he had been working for the past few weeks. The particulars of the accident are not known. The body is expected to arrive here today or tomorrow. Mrs. Belden is visiting in Michigan and was immediately notified and she is expected to arrive today. The funeral arrangements have been held awaiting her arrival.

Dedicate Odd Fellows Hall.

The Odd Fellows will dedicate their new hall on Jan. 16, when Grand Master P. E. Nelson of the state of Minnesota will assist in the ceremonies. Several other of the grand officers will come to participate. The members of the I. O. O. F., the Rebekahs and families are invited.

The ladies of the Modern Maccabees will give a Leap Year ball at the Odd Fellows' hall on Friday evening, Jan. 19. Blewett's orchestra will furnish the music.

School will start on next Monday morning after the Christmas vacation of two weeks.

M. R. Shelton, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. returned Wednesday from a short visit at his home in Ennis, Tex.

The L. A. to B. of R. T. enjoyed a sleighride party to Duluth last Friday evening where they attended the Orpheum theater. After the theater they enjoyed an oyster supper before returning to their homes.

Has Strong Cabinet.

The cabinet nominated by President Sun Yat Sen is regarded generally as a strong one. Most of the personages named have accepted the portfolios offered them, but Wang Chung Wei declined that of foreign affairs. This, however, is regarded as a form of concession on his part to the seniority of Dr. Wu Ting Fang, who in his turn begs Wang Chung Wei to accept the post offered him.

Wang Chung Wei is a graduate of Yale, London, Paris and Berlin, in all of which universities he passed with honors. He is an extraordinary brilliant lawyer.

Absolute confidence prevails among the leaders of the revolution that the position of the Pekin government and of Premier Yuan Shi Kai is a hopeless one. Yuan Shi Kai, they say, is in reality a prisoner in Pekin, where his life is in danger.

Seven Hundred Killed.

Pekin, Jan. 6 — Seven hundred imperial troops are reported to have been killed or wounded Thursday in a battle with revolutionists near Hankow, province of Hu Peh.

of government ownership. It should similarly provide for the development of other public utilities, such as the telegraph and telephone. It should operate and develop the wharves and docks and steamship lines, necessary, to deliver the products of Alaska to the Pacific coast.

Help Other Questions.

"With a law such as this, the government owning the railroads, the direct operation or leasing of the coal fields, under proper regulation, insuring a proper revenue to the government for the benefit of the people, and proper regulations that will protect the consumer, all under the management of a board of experts, having in mind only the public interests, I believe that the problem of conservation of our natural resources in Alaska will be solved, and that its administration will be of great value to us in securing solution for some of the problems which confront us in considering the conservation of such natural resources as are still a part of the public domain in the states."

Before telling how he would solve the Alaskan problem, Senator La Follette discussed the administration of the canal zone.

Develop, Not Hoard.

He praised the policy of Gifford Pinchot, with respect to Alaska, and said:

"The problem before us is not to hoard our resources, but to develop them in such a way that the benefits flowing from development will insure not to a few men, but to the rightful owners—all the people of the United States.

"Alaska was purchased with the people's money, taken from the common fund—the treasury of the United States. Whatever of profit, whatever of advantage in any way accrue from that purchase belongs to all the people."

greater or lesser degree to the accident.

Third. The block system of the St. Paul road where the wreck occurred, is too long for practical operation. This persuades employes to "take a chance" and has a tendency to cause men in authority, and the officers, to wink at violations of the rules.

Fourth. The claim that the equipment of the passenger train was all-steel is a misnomer. As constructed, the type of cars used is no safer than the modern wooden sleeping cars and does not meet with the public idea of modern steel equipment.

Fifth. The commission is of the opinion that a number of employes concerned in the fatal accident are guilty of gross criminal negligence, and recommends that the proper officials take such action as will insure the indictment and speedy trial of the responsible parties.

Nine Men Blamed.

The nine men, who violated rules, eight of whom are charged with violating rules and thus being guilty of criminal negligence are: One tower operator at Odessa; conductor and rear flagman on section 1 of the wrecked train; the operator at Appleton, Minn.; the despatcher at Aberdeen; the operator at Junction Switch; the conductor of the second section of the wrecked trains; brakeman on the first section of the train; and the engineer of the first section, whose action, however, is declared not to have contributed to the causes of the disaster.

Meadows' assertion was made in connection with a report that the federal authorities were investigating whether other unions were interested with the iron workers in having the Von Spreckelsen property destroyed.

Met in Hotel.

Conferences of men alleged to have accomplished the explosions were held in a hotel owned by John Halfman, who said he had testified before the county grand jury last year that Meadows attended some of these conferences. This Meadows denied, but he admitted meeting at Halfman's place walking delegates from unions who were endeavoring to persuade non-union men to quit work on one of Von Spreckelsen's contracts near by.

A business agent referred to by Halfman as having taken the men to his place is charged with having direct knowledge of the explosions in a formal statement to Former Mayor Bookwalter by Mrs. Alta Hawkins, keeper of a boarding house. She reported to the mayor, when he made the municipal investigation, that the business agent came to her house with other men in an automobile a few hours before the explosions took place and said to her:

"Keep your ears open about midnight and you will hear the damnedst noise you ever heard."

Testified at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hawkins returned here recently from Los Angeles, where she went in response to a subpoena from the grand jury which indicted the McNamaras.

"That business agent always talked too much," said Meadows. "Union carpenters, painters and bodcarriers, as well as the iron workers, were concerned in pushing the fight against Von Spreckelsen. But we did not have anything to do with the dynamiting. Neither did I meet the out-of-town fellows at Halfman's, but I knew that imported men pulled off the explosions."

NEW RECORD FOR CONTINUOUS LOW TEMPERATURE IN DULUTH IS SET

is growing even colder in the Northwest, and while this new "cold wave" may not reach Duluth, it will have the effect of prolonging the cold spell.

The coldest point on the map last night was Minnedosa, where the thermometer registered 38 below zero.

Superior Reports 38.

Another decided drop in temperature marked the sixth day of the cold wave through the Middle West today. From many cities came reports of broken records, Superior, Wis., having the unusual mark of 38 degs. below zero, the low point touched in the United States. A general snowfall throughout Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Missouri added to the misery.

The official forecast at the government bureau here was that the snow would continue to fall tonight and Sunday and the temperature would drop several degrees. No prediction as to when the mercury will again start on its upward journey would be made by local forecasters.

General Range of Temperatures.

The general temperature range in the Canadian Northwest today is from 14 to 38 degs. below. The general range in the northwester part of the United States is from 18 to 32.

Locally the records for two years were broken today. Just two years ago today the mercury dropped to 10 degs. below zero, the low mark touched here at 5 o'clock this morning. A brisk cold wind is blowing from the northwest. Telegraph companies have experienced much wire trouble.

Found Dead in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Zero weather continued today to hold Chicago in its grasp, and no relief for the present is promised. The word given out from the government weather office was that the mercury, which stood at 8 deg. below zero at 8 a. m. might drop to 15 below before nightfall.

Suffering is intense. Four deaths are attributed directly to the weather. Scores of families were routed from their homes by fires. Yesterday firemen responded to 167 alarms and the calls continued to sound with regularity during last night.

According to the estimate of Charles H. Wacker, head of the United Charities, there are in Chicago 150,000 unemployed men. Of this number about 800 spent last night in the municipal lodging house. Two hundred more found shelter in the Desplanes street police station, while the forty-three other police stations housed many men who said they had nowhere to sleep.

The president of the county board gave orders to the county agent to double today usual allotments of fuel and food for the needy.

Teacher Frozen to Death.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 6.—The body of Ada Steele, aged 17, a school teacher near Fredonia, has been found after a twenty-four hour search of the prairie surrounding the schoolhouse. Death was due to exposure.

Miss Steele dismissed school early Thursday because of the blizzard, but remained for some time after the children had left, as she had but forty rods to go to the home of John Haag, where she was staying. When she did not appear, Haag summoned neighbors and started a search for her. She had wandered several miles in the storm before being overcome.

Two Dead in Missouri.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—Two deaths from the cold were reported last night from St. Louis county. The thermometer in St. Louis at midnight registered 3 below zero. The Mississippi river is choked with ice.

Soo Reports 26 Below.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cold weather record for the last twenty-three years was broken this morning at 8 o'clock when the thermometer registered 26 below zero. The nearest approach to this record was in February, 1895, when 25 below was recorded. The coldest record at the weather bureau was taken in February, 1899, when 37 below was reached.

Coldest in Eight Years.

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 6.—At the United States weather bureau office this morning the thermometer showed 26 deg. below zero, the coldest record in eight years.

Rescued From Stalled Train.

Mason City, Iowa, Jan. 6.—After suffering severe cold and hunger in unheated coaches for nearly twenty-four hours, passengers on a Chicago Great Western train which had been stalled two miles from Burchinal since 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were reached by a rescue crew and taken to farm houses and then to Burchinal.

Wind and Cold in New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—The eastward advance of the cold wave was marked by the lowest average temperature of the winter here, the mercury failing to rise above 15 deg. during the day.

At 9:30 o'clock last night it was hovering between 9 and 10 above and the local weather bureau predicted a fall to the zero point or near it by morning. A gale of sixty-four miles an hour made the cold more bitter.

Missouri Valley Suffers.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 6.—Below zero weather was recorded all over the Missouri valley last night, following a cold wave from the Northwest. At Kansas City at 8 o'clock the mercury stood at 7 below, a drop of 18 degs. in twenty-four hours. Kansas reported temperatures of from 4 to 7 below. Much suffering was reported in the western part of the state. Calls for aid and provisions were received by the state public utilities commission at Topeka from Southern Logan county, on the Scott City & Northern railway. No trains have been operated over that line for eleven days. Telegrams asserted that people there were living on short rations and that unless aid was sent at once, there would be great suffering.

Mail Carrier Nearly Frozen.

At Lecti, T. M. Summers, who carries mail between Leoti on the Missouri Pacific railroad and Lakin on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, started out on his trip last Saturday. It required three days and two nights to make it, although the distance is but forty miles. He finally reached his home in Oanica half frozen. The first night out he was compelled to stay in an abandoned dugout without food or fire. He made the entire trip without food.

FARMERS' SHORT COURSE POPULAR

Crookston School of Agriculture Hearing Addresses By Noted Men.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers short course at the Crookston school of aagriculture is surpassing the success scored last year in attendance, and the excellence of the program.

The course opened Tuesday last and will close Jan. 12.

Yesterday's addresses by Prof. Sargent on "Stock Judging," Prof. McCall on "Orchard Planting and Pruning," Prof. Brown on "Poultry," Prof. Bilsborrow on "Corn Judging Practice," and Supt. Selvig on "Some Types of Rural Consolidated Schools," Practical talks, and excellent addresses were made by A. E. Chamberlain. Prof. W. L. Oswald of the agricultural college at St. Anthony Park, also gave fine addresses on "Farm Weeds in Minnesota," and "Practice of the Identification of Weed Seeds." In addition to helpful addresses by the Crookston school of agriculture faculty today, Prof. C. W. Thompson of the economics department of the University of Minnesota, discussed "The Rural School Problem," and how it is being steadily solved in a practical manner in the morning, and this afternoon in a clear and concise manner discussed "The Marketing Problem."

Next Week's Features.

Monday will be a big day with an address by Dean Woods of the agricultural college of the University of Minnesota, on the "Work of the Federal Department of Agriculture," and later in the day on "Country Life," with addresses by Prof. Andrew Boss of the university and addresses by the local faculty.

Tuesday will be the banner day with President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota as the big speaker of the day, making an address at 11 a. m. He will discuss "Education and Efficiency," at 7:30 in the evening.

Tuesday will be woman's day, with addresses by Mrs. Perry Starkweather of the state labor bureau, Miss Haggart of the North Dakota agricultural college, and Miss Jessie Hoover of the same institution. Tuesday evening a special train will be run to accommodate the crowds, desiring to hear President Vincent.

"COURTESY ARRESTS" STOPPED IN NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 6.—"Courtesy arrests" in New York have been interdicted by the board of city magistrates. The new ruling has brought to an abrupt stop, according to police officials, the apprehension of fugitives and suspects without sufficient foundation. It is declared that hereafter a prisoner must not be held unless the officers have on hand a warrant or certified copy of an indictment from the place of offense as alleged to have been committed.

(BY BRUCE.)

HAVE you ever read any of that choking voice and persistent tear stuff on the sporting page? Occasionally it sneaks on under a thorough disguise. For instance, as when they send the society editor, all trembling with the excitement of adventure, out to interview the wife of someone who romped in the white lights, white rabbits playing in the moonlight—or maybe a prize fighter who has been taught with patience and several assistants to wear a dress suit and a pleasant smile. Just the other day Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons hit a city in the West. Her husband was promiscuous in the things and objects he hit. But back to the trail. The society editor of one of the papers, out of pure impulse and a taxi, alighted at the stage door of the theater where Mrs. Robert Jennings Fitzsimmons was laboring—have you ever seen her act—and asked, with ingratiating rising inflection and modulated manner for an interview.

The talk fell on Mister Fitzsimmons. Lots of things have fallen on him. One evening in Trenton, N. J., a poli—but then, as Rud used to say for money, "Thats another story." Mrs. Fitz broke the news trail with a sigh. She told of what a bad boy her big husband was. Oh, horrors! Of how he came in from the barn, when he had been flirting with the flagon, and jumped right onto the lace counterpane with muddy boots and soiled barn costume. Poor old Bob got the scenes shifted.

Love shot its tender Western Union from the orbs of Mrs. F. She confided to the s. e. that she loved her ex-champ, even though he was on probation. Tears played tag and threatened to soil her make-up. But bravely she braced and ca-med herself. Ah, what an effort! Then she told of the effort it was to spend New Year's erie eve without Robert. Love, gulps, sighs, eteetra, come in here. The pretty little thing, several sentences of culture and then we leave Mrs. F. in the process of weeping.

NEWS from Winona and La Crosse beats its way over the wire, despite the general frigidity of the weather, conveying information of the canning of quite a host of the baseball players on these two teams. By the rule of least resistance some of these players have been allowed to go. By the ruling of the national commission, if the players of the Minny were not paid by the first of the year for the disputed week—the one included in the original schedule and not included in the revised schedule—they become free agents. And so it seems there are quite a few free agents.

Winona has permitted a bunch to go and La Crosse has also parted company with some of the veterans of the three-years' war. While nothing much has been said about it, there is a suspicion that some of the other towns around the league have also let some of their players meander.

Locally there is little news. It is known that the Irish Orator is hanging on to the players he intends to keep next season, no matter which way the baseball wind blows. Some of the players here last season have been let loose. Some new men have been signed. The Orator is playing safe.

FANS around the tall woods of local culture and natural process will be surprised to learn that little Tommy Gary, the Chicago Heights boy who fought Pal Brown a well-remembered fight at Hibbing, is being considered in connection with a meeting with Frankie Burns, the boy Ad Wolgast relegated to the ranks of the wan and hopeful. The Burns' beating took about all the guns in the Wolgast make-up. They made the mistake of sending a youngster against one of the greatest lightweights of all times. Just the same, Wilbur, Francis is there and Thomas should be sure of transportation both ways.

GOES the saying go that civilization follows the corset, or is it that the cocktail follows the flag? One might ask whether new towns in the state of Nevada follow the holding of world's championship prize fighters. There was Goldfield and the Gans-Nelson fight; there was also Reno and the Jeffries-Johnson burlesque show. Now we threaten to have Windward, Nev., or a town of some similar name and the Johnson and Flynn fight. There are still phases of the old Western spirit in several sections west of the Missouri. They like to witness a fight, even if state legislatures have made gun play and investigation synonomous.

This is merely a footnote: The Jeffries--Johnson fight is spoken of with the name of Jeffries in front merely because it was thus alluded to in the advertisement that appeared before the fight. Since the battle no one has seriously cared enough to change it.

IF Messrs. Ordemann and Pilakoff do not settle this controversy over the legitimacy of the toe hold in the near future we may be constrained to call in Andy Carnegie's amateur branch of the peace commission and give it a chance for some fire drill. The question whether large Henry, blonde and Norwegian, will be able to twist Pilakoff's legs, or limbs if you insist, with abandon and his large hands, or whether Pilakoff can stretch his under pinnings with less fear of the ambulance is something that has not been decided as yet.

One of the Duluth promoters made a special trip to Minneapolis to hold a heart-to-heart talk with Henry. The Duluth man paid for the dinner to make the argument stronger. But Henry remained obdurate, which Webster says is with set purpose and chiseled lips.

Henry admitted, between mouthfuls of chicken a la king, that Pilakoff was one tough man and that he could not think of barring his piece de resistance. When Ordemann sets foot in our fair city he will be met with even stronger argument and will be asked to meet Pilakoff with the Gotch invention out of the list of war sinews.

RIGHT here there is a question of whether a man cannot be a gentleman and a man in every sense of the word and still be a professional athlete. Young Men's Christian associations throughout the country have taken different stands on the status of the professional. Some of the associations of broader mental bearing have taken the professional in and allowed him the privileges of the association as long as he is a gentleman. Some have ruled against the professional athlete indiscriminately. They have blindly refused to see that he is capable of rising above the class they have put all professional athletes in. The Duluth association belongs in the latter class. No professional athlete is admitted to the gymnasium privileges of the local association.

The question is whether an association would lose respect by allowing professional athletes the privilege of beneficial exercise—just so long as they proved gentlemen. The writer thinks not.

We are living in a tolerant age and one in which broad-minded men are striving to correct narrow prejudices. The day has passed when the man is judged by his class. Men, and real men, have risen from the black and ugly pit of a mine. A former professional baseball player is today governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He isn't showing any stains. A former professional wrestler is a preacher of the gospel in the state of Colorado.

Why not be tolerant and open the doors to those who might be willing, if encouraged, to do right?

JOHN KLING has at last felt gratification touch him on the shoulder. For years he has been ambitious to become a manager. The dispatches of today announce that the noisy one has been made manager of the Boston Nationals. With such live ones as John Montgomery Ward, John Kling and Mique Donlin around the Boston Braves there should be a different kind of a showing the present season. As a receiver Kling was one of the most heady and resourceful men that the game has produced. His career as a manager will be watched with interest over the country. It requires peculiar abilities for a man to make good as a manager. He must combine many qualities. Perhaps Kling is the right man for the place—and perhaps he is not.

JUST why some of the officials of the larger leagues have not picked Ollie Anderson up remains one of those deep and unfathomable mysteries of baseball. Oliver is one of the best judges of play that this section of the country ever produced and he is a master of the field. The players know that an umpire can get away with much if he has the nerve. It is the same as in any other business. Players won't try to bully a man with backbone and prompt decision. That's what Anderson has. A weak sister may be the best judge of plays and balls and strikes and yet be made the target for abuse and ridicule upon the part of the players. The public generally, it is very sad to say, takes its cue from the players. If the players turn on the umps the public generally also makes him a human bull's eye for taunts and jeers.

Anderson was master on the field when he was laboring in the local lot. The players could not run over him and they knew it. Out of the game went any player who started to imitate William Jennings in the line of oratory. No bully-rugging was popular when Ollie held the indicator.

Now comes the story that the sorrel-topped man is being considered for a berth in the National league. It is funny that some of the big leagues, or the American association officials do not grab this fellow. Compared to some of the hired men masquerading in the A. A., Ollie is a diamond of undaunted brilliance.

Down in Eau Claire they have just got around to picking some all-star baseball teams in the Minny league. Two or three months past the season does not make any difference to the callow youth doing sports. They spring this as a scoop. WRESTLING FANS WRITE LETTERS ABOUT TOE HOLD

Fans have become so interested in the forthcoming mat battle between Pilakoff and Ordemann that they have started to write letters, expressing their opinions on the toe hold.

The sporting editor of The Duluth Herald has received several missives from admirers of both of the wrestlers. George A. Barton, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Daily News, has received about ten letters and postcards written from Duluth, in which he has been both advised to hold out for the toe hold and also asked to consent to the elimination of the Trithy twister.

In no match scheduled for Duluth has there been the intense amount of interest shown regarding the barring of a certain hold. Cutler and Zbyszko both wrestled here without any request being made that they forebear the use of this polite process of torture. But once in a moment of impulse Ordemann met Charley Cutler with the toe hold barred and now the Finnish admirers of Pilakoff are asking that the husky Norsk come here and wrestle Wednesday evening with the strongest card in his wrestling repertoire thrown to the discard.

Not by any means is all of the interest in the card of Wednesday confined to the main event of the evening. The match between Sailor Jack and John Gustafson, or Emil Hakala, which is his real name, is arousing a lot of interest in the city, particularly in West Duluth, where Gustafson resides.

Jack is tentatively matched with Young Miller of St. Paul for a match for the world's title. Whether he is to wrestle Miller depends upon the showing he makes in the match with Gustafson. If Jack shows the form that made him a popular favorite in this city, the match with the Apostle wizard of the mat is assured.

Frank Gotch stopped off a few hours in Minneapolis yesterday en route to dear old Humboldt. He took occasion to say that Ordemann was showing some wonderful wrestling the present season. "If Ordemann catches Zbyszko very far out of condition, he may win from the Pole," said Gotch.

Ordemann will come here next Tuesday in the best shape of his career. The big Norsk has never wrestled before the way he has the present winter. His successive defeats of Cutler and Westergaard have proved that he is the greatest American wrestler outside of Gotch. In meeting Ordemann, Pilakoff is wrestling about the most important match of his American mat experience.

Whether or not the toe hold is barred, the giant Finn will go on the mat and fight the Norsk at every stage of the match. His gigantic strength is greater than that of Ordemann. Pilakoff's endurance is wonderful. No matter which man wins, the contest should be one that will bring out some great grappling.

FIGHT ON FOR HEAD OFFICE

Lively Battle for the Presidency of American Association Is Predicted.

Thomas Chivington' Present Holder, Said to Be Confident of Election.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Whether Thomas M. Chivington, will be re-elected president of the American association is to be decided at the annual meeting of the league club owners here today. The meeting convened at 10 o'clock and the session probably will not last more than a day.

A lively battle for the presidency is predicted. For more than a month, rival candidates have been electioneering the club owners. Nobody expects an election on the first ballot.

Three candidates besides Chivington will be in the fight. They are George C. Rice, a Chicago sporting editor; Charles E. Moll, president of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and a Columbus "dark horse," whose name has not been made public.

Five votes are necessary to elect. Chivington's opponents admit he will control at least Kansas City, Louisville, Toledo, and Minneapolis votes on the first ballot. Milwaukee is said to favor Moll. Columbus will back its native son. Indianapolis and St. Paul are reported to be for Rice, although he will not state that he expects their support.

Chivington only smiles when the election is mentioned. His supporters say he is confident of election. The recent raising of the classification of the league is urged by his friends as a reason for his election.

Should the final vote be a tie, Chivington will remain in office. The position pays $5,000 a year and the term of office is one year.

Another question to be discussed is whether the "four swings around the circuit" schedule will obtain next year. Until last season the teams made but three trips. The innovation caused a big increase in traveling expenses and this has resulted in much opposition to the plan.

Officials of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league may ask a hearing on their plan of placing teams in some of the northern cities of the American association. Owners of the larger organization clubs are said to be unfavorable to the proposition.

Bout Cut to Ten Rounds.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 6.—To comply with the regulations prescribed by the new city government, the managers of the bout between Jimmy Reagan and Chalky Germain of St. Louis, booked for next Monday night, have cut the bout to ten rounds. It had been advertised to go fifteen. Control of boxing in this city has been placed in the hands of the chief of police. He announces that contests will be permitted within such limitations as he may impose from time to time.

RINKS DRAWN FOR PLAY IN BAGLEY TROPHY EVENT

Curling Club Officials Decide That Only Four-Point Handicap Will Be Allowed After Games of Today.

MANLEY-McLENNAN EVENTS WILL BE OBSERVED IN STYLE.

It was decided today by the games committee of the Duluth and Superior Curling clubs that the first game between the two rival organizations for the Manley-McLennan trophy will be played Tuesday evening at Superior.

Special attractions will make the games one of the events of the curling season. Music will be one of the attractions of the evening at Superior and the Duluth skaters are planning to go over to Superior and spend the evening as guests of the transbay club.

It has been all but decided to play the second game here on Wednesday. Special music for the skaters will also be provided and it is the aim to have the members of the Superior Curling over here to join in the skating.

A large crowd from the Duluth Curling club is planning to go over to Superior Tuesday evening, while the Superior directors state that their club will have a large representation over here on Wednesday evening.

At a meeting last evening at the Duluth Curling club it was decided that after today no rink shall have more than four points handicap over any other rink. This action was taken because so far the present season some rinks have received handicaps that have proved rather unfair.

The officials of the club also took steps to complete the games in The Herald event. To date but eleven games in this event have been played. Skips notified to play Monday evening will compete or the game will be forfeited. Hereafter the games committee will endeavor to fill the ice each evening. This action is necessary because of the number of rinks registered and the number of games remaining to be played.

Hearty co-operation upon the part of the skips is asked for in the matter of having the remaining games in The Herald event played as speedily as possible.

The draw for the Bagley event has been made. Play in this event will begin in the near future.

Following is the draw for the Bagley event:

SOME WHITE SOX PLAYERS LET OUT

Duluth has reserved a number of players for next season. Just how many and who the players are that have been held, the management does not care to say at this time. Under the rule of the national commission players who were not paid in full by the first of the year became free agents. Duluth as well as Winona, Eau Claire and La Crosse have allowed some of the members of their last year's team to go by this means.

Darby O'Brien has been signing a number of men. Naturally the Duluth Baseball association does not know where it is at the present time. The meetings in Chicago today may give a clearer light on the baseball situation in this part of the country. After the Chicago meeting some definite action may be taken.

If Duluth goes into a league next season it has been intimated that there will be a number of new faces seen in the lineup of the team. But as no one is sure at the present time as to the baseball future, the time is hardly ripe for a deep discussion of the probable makeup of the team.

ST. PAUL TEAM TO PLAY IN DULUTH

Phoenix Hockey Club Has Engagement Wednesday With Duluth Seven.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—The Phoenix hockey team of St. Paul will leave Wednesday on a four-day trip in the northern part of the state, Manager Evelth having made arrangements today for games with teams representing Duluth, Virginia and Bemidji. The first game will be played at Duluth Wednesday night. Thursday evening a game will be played with Virginia, at Duluth. Friday and Saturday, games will be played at Bemidji.

CLUBS ARE EXONERATED

Neither New York or Philadelphia to Blame for Ticket Scalping.

National Commission Finds That Charges By Newspapers Were Justified.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.—The final lid was clamped and sealed here yesterday on the celebrated ticket scalping scandal that ruffled the baseball horizon directly following the world's championship series in New York and Philadelphia last October. While the national baseball commission gathered enough evidence to assure that wholesale ticket scalping took place in both towns, yet this evidence indicated that neither the New York National or Philadelphia American league club owners, managers, players or employes were in collusion with the scalpers. The commission holds that the charges of the press at that time were justified, but generally scores a number of people who at the time of the episode offered to produce proof as to the alleged collusion but failed to deliver any evidence of value.

In addition to exonerating both clubs the commission praises them for the extra precautions that were taken against scalping. State and municipal legislation against scalping is urged.

The following findings were made:

"After a thorough investigation of reports from newspapers and other sources that ticket scalping was openly practiced in each city represented by its team in the world series of 1911, the national commission has reached the following conclusions:

"Tickets in large numbers were in the hands of speculators in both the cities of New York and Philadelphia and were sold at exorbitant prices, which was therefore an imposition upon the public. It follows that the newspaper criticisms were to this extent warranted and justified.

In New York the sale of tickets by speculators was carried on almost exclusively in hotels, cafes, news stands and other public places. In Philadelphia, in addition to the sales in these places, they were also conducted by the speculators in the lobbies of the hotels and on the public highways.

Owners Innocent.

"In so far as the club owners or the regular officials of the two clubs are concerned, there has been nothing whatever developed, even by intimation, that would in any way implicate any of them as having been in collusion with the ticket speculators, but, on the contrary, it has been shown that every reasonable precaution was taken by both clubs to protect the public. Therefore the club owners and the regular officials of both clubs are completely exonerated.

"It is evident that it was the aim of both clubs to provide adequately for their respective regular patrons. In Philadelphia the number of reserved seats sold for the first day was 8,938. Of this number the club itself distributed 8,181 tickets among seventy-three persons, consisting of club officials, public officials, Philadelphia newspapers, players and miscellaneous persons, the names of all of those persons having been furnished the commission. In addition to this, that club has also furnished the commission with a statement showing to whom the tickets furnished these persons were afterwards allotted, thus making a complete record of the disposition of 8,181 tickets out of a total of 8,938 sold. The tickets representing the difference between those properly accounted for and the actual number sold were sent out through mail orders. It must be apparent, therefore, that whatever tickets eventually found their way into the hands of speculators was through methods best known to those engaged in the business of speculating in tickets, and in small numbers in each lot, and for which neither the club owners, their officials or employes were responsible.

"Notwithstanding two appeals to the press and public for co-operation in making an investigation thorough, and the employment of a detective agency to follow clews and to present proof, the commission has been unable to secure sufficient satisfactory evidence on which to adjudge a club employe guilty of furnishing scalpers with tickets."

State and municipal legislation against the scalping of tickets to games of the world's series, or important championship games of a league, is absolutely requisite for stamping out this reprehensible practice, says the commission, and urges owners of major league clubs to actively interest themselves in the introduction and passage of such laws.

CLOTHIERS WIN SLOW HOCKEY GAME

Last evening, at the Duluth curling rink, the Big Duluths won from the curling club hockey team by the score of 7 to 6. The extreme cold weather interfered with the playing and spoiled the contest to some extent.

While the clothiers did not have all of their regulars in the lineup, the men in the lineup showed more ability than the curling club team. The players did not get warmed up and the game lacked snap. Neither team showed any team work.

The lineup:

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—The proposed twenty-round fight between Abe Attell and Jack White, Jan. 14 here, has been called off because of weight disagreement. It was said Attell insisted on fighting at catch weights.

Hot Stuff on the Sport Page---Minny Players Released ---The Question of the Toe Hold---Kling and Ambition---Ollie Anderson the Goods.

(BY BRUCE.)

HAVE you ever read any of that choking voice and persistent tear stuff on the sporting page? Occasionally it sneaks on under a thorough disguise. For instance, as when they send the society editor, all trembling with the excitement of adventure, out to interview the wife of someone who romped in the white lights, white rabbits playing in the moonlight—or maybe a prize fighter who has been taught with patience and several assistants to wear a dress suit and a pleasant smile. Just the other day Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons hit a city in the West. Her husband was promiscuous in the thanks and objects he hit. But back to the trail. The society editor of one of the papers, out of pure impulse and a taxi, alighted at the stage door of the theater where Mrs. Robert Jennings Fitzsimmons was laboring—have you ever seen her act—and asked, with ingratiating rising inflection and modulated manner for an interview.

The talk fell on Mister Fitzsimmons. Lots of things have fallen on him. One evening in Trenton, N. J., a poll—but then, as Rud used to say for money, "That's another story." Mrs. Fitz broke the news trail with a sigh. She told of what a bad boy her big husband was. Oh, horrors! Of how he came in from the barn, where he had been flirting with the flagon, and jumped right onto the bed—contemplate with muddy boots and soiled barn costume. Poor old Bob got the scenes shifted.

Love shot its tender Western Union from the orbs of Mrs. F. She confided to the scribe that she loved her ex-champ, even though he was on probation. Tears played tag and threatened to soil her make-up. But bravely she braced and ca-moed herself. Ah, what an effort! Then she told of the effort it was to spend New Year's eve—eve without Robert. Love, gulps, sighs, etcetra, come in here. The pretty little thing, several sentences of culture and then we leave Mrs. F. in the process of weeping.

NEWS from Winona and La Crosse beats its way over the wire, despite the general frigidity of the weather, conveying information of the coaxing of quite a host of the baseball players on these two teams. By the rule of least resistance some of these players have been asked to go. By the ruling of the national commission, if the players of the Minny were not paid by the first of the year for the disputed stack—that one included in the original schedule and not included in the revised schedule—they became free agents. And so it seems there are quite a few free agents.

Winona has permitted a bunch to go and La Crosse has also parted company with some of the veterans of the three-years' war. While nothing much has been said about it, there is a suspicion that some of the other towns around the league have also let some of their players meander.

Locally there is little news. It is known that the Irish orator is hanging on to the players he intends to keep next season, no matter which way the baseball wind blows. Some of the players here last season have been let loose. Some new men have been signed. The Orator is playing safe.

FANS around the tall woods of local culture and natural process will be surprised to learn that little Tommy Gary, the Chicago Heights boy who fought Pal Brown a well-remembered fight at Hibbing, is being considered in connection with a meeting with Frankie Burns, the boy Ad Wolgast relegated to the ranks of the wan and hopeful. The Burns' beating took about all the guns in the Wolgast make-up. They made the mistake of sending a youngster against one of the greatest lightweights of all times. Just the same, Wilbur, Francis is there and Thomas should be sure of transportation both ways.

GOES the saying go that civilization follows the corset, or is it that the cocktail follows the flag? One might ask whether new towns in the state of Nevada follow the holding of world's championship prize fighters. There was Gotch and the Gans-Nelson fight; there was also Reno and the Jeffries-Johnson burlesque show. Now we threaten to have Windyard, Nev., or a town of some similar name and the Johnson and Flynn fight. There are still phases of the old Western spirit in several sections west of the Missouri. They like to witness a fight, even if state legislatures have made gun play and investigation synonomous.

This is merely a footnote. The Jeffries-Johnson fight is spoken of with the name of Jeffries in front merely because it was thus alluded to in the advertisement that appeared before the fight. Since the battle no one has seriously cared enough to change it.

IF Messrs. Ordemann and Pilakoff do not settle this controversy over the legitimacy of the toe hold in the near future we may be constrained to call in Andy Carnegie's amateur branch of the peace commission and give it a chance for some fire drill. The question whether large Henry, blonde and Norwegian, will be able to twist Pilakoff's legs, or limbs if you insist, with abandon and his large hands, or whether Pilakoff can stretch his under pinnings with less fear of the ambulance is something that has not been decided as yet.

One of the Duluth promoters made a special trip to Minneapolis to hold a heart-to-heart talk with Henry. The Duluth man paid for the dinner to make the argument stronger. But Henry remained obdurate, which Webster says is with set purpose and chiseled lips.

Henry admitted, between mouthfuls of chicken a la king, that Pilakoff was one tough man and that he could not think of barring his piece de resistance. When Ordemann sets foot in our fair city he will be met with even stronger argument and will be asked to meet Pilakoff with the Gotch invention out of the list of war slaws.

RIGHT here there is a question of whether a man cannot be a gentleman and a man in every sense of the word and still be a professional athlete. Young Men's Christian associations throughout the country have taken different stands on the status of the professional. Some of the associations of broader mental bearing have taken the professional in and allowed him the privileges of the association as long as he is a gentleman. Some have ruled against the professional athlete indiscriminately. They have blindly refused to see that he is capable of rising above the class they have put all professional athletes in. The Duluth association belongs in the latter class. No professional athlete is admitted to the gymnasium privileges of the local association.

The question is whether an association would lose respect by allowing professional athletes the privilege of beneficial exercise—just so long as they proved gentlemen. The writer thinks not.

We are living in a tolerant age and one in which broad-minded men are striving to correct narrow prejudices. The day has passed when the man is judged by his class. Men, and real men, have risen from the black and ugly pit of a mine. A former professional baseball player is today governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He isn't showing any stains. A former professional wrestler is a preacher of the gospel in the state of Colorado.

Why not be tolerant and open the doors to those who might be willing, if encouraged, to do right?

JOHN KLING has at last felt gratification touch him on the shoulder. For years he has been ambitious to become a manager. The dispatches of today announce that the noisy one has been made manager of the Boston Nationals. With such live ones as John Montgomery Ward, John Kling and Mique Doulin around the Boston Braves there should be a different kind of a showing the present season. As a receiver Kling was one of the most heady and resourceful men that the game has produced. His career as a manager will be watched with interest over the country. It requires peculiar abilities for a man to make good as a manager. He must combine many qualities. Perhaps Kling is the right man for the place—and perhaps he is not.

JUST why some of the officials of the larger leagues have not picked Ollie Anderson up remains one of those deep and unfathomable mysteries of baseball. Oliver is one of the best judges of play that this section of the country ever produced and he is a master of the field. The players know that an umpire can get away with much if he has the nerve. It is the same as in any other business. Players won't try to bully a man with backbone and prompt decision. That's what Anderson has. A weak sister may be the best judge of plays and balls and strikes and yet be made the target for abuse and ridicule upon the part of the players. The public generally, it is very sad to say, takes its cue from the players. If the players turn on the umps the public generally also makes him a human bull's eye for taunts and jeers.

Anderson was master on the field when he was laboring in the local lot. The players could not run over him and they knew it. Out of the game went any player who started to imitate William Jennings in the line of oratory. No bully-ragging was popular when Ollie held the indicator.

Now comes the story that the sorrel-topped man is being considered for a berth in the National league. It is funny that some of the big leagues, or the American association officials do not grab this fellow. Compared to some of the hired men masquerading in the A. A., Ollie is a diamond of undaunted brilliance.

Down in Eau Claire they have just got around to picking some all-star baseball teams in the Minny league. WRESTLING FANS WRITE LETTERS ABOUT TOE HOLD

Fans have become so interested in the forthcoming mat battle between Pilakoff and Ordemann that they have started to write letters, expressing their opinions on the toe hold.

The sporting editor of The Duluth Herald has received several missives from admirers of both of the wrestlers. George A. Hurton, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Daily News, has received about ten letters and postcards, written from Duluth, in which he has been both advised to hold out for the toe hold and also asked to consent to the elimination of the Trilby twister.

In no match scheduled for Duluth has there been the intense amount of interest shown regarding the barring of a certain hold. Cutler and Zbyszko both wrestled here without any request being made that they forebear the use of this polite process of torture. But once in a moment of impulse Ordemann met Charley Cutler with the toe hold barred and now the Finnish admirers of Pilakoff are asking that the husky Norsk come here and wrestle Wednesday evening with the strongest card in his wrestling repertoire thrown to the discard.

Not by any means is all of the interest in the card of Wednesday confined to the main event of the evening. The match between Sailor Jack and John Gustafson, or Emil Hakala, which is his real name, is arousing a lot of interest in the city, particularly in West Duluth, where Gustafson resides.

Jack is tentatively matched with Young Miller of St. Paul for a match for the world's title. Whether he is to wrestle Miller depends upon the showing he makes in the match with Gustafson. If Jack shows the form that made him a popular favorite in this city, the match with the Apostle wizard of the mat is assured.

Frank Gotch stopped off a few hours in Minneapolis yesterday en route to dear old Humboldt. He took occasion to say that Ordemann was showing some wonderful wrestling the present season. "If Ordemann catches Zbyszko very far out of condition, he may win from the Pole," said Gotch.

Ordemann will come here next Tuesday in the best shape of his career. The big Norsk has never wrestled better the way he has the present winter. His successive defeats of Cutler and Westergaard have proved that he is the greatest American wrestler outside of Gotch. In meeting Ordemann, Pilakoff is wrestling about the most important match of his American mat experience.

Whether or not the toe hold is barred, the giant Finn will go on the mat and fight the Norsk at every stage of the match. His gigantic strength is greater than that of Ordemann. Pilakoff's endurance is wonderful. No matter which man wins, the contest should be one that will bring out some great grappling.

FIGHT ON FOR HEAD OFFICE

Lively Battle for the Presidency of American Association Is Predicted.

Thomas Chivington' Present Holder, Said to Be Confident of Election.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Whether Thomas M. Chivington, will be re-elected president of the American association is to be decided at the annual meeting of the league club owners here today. The meeting convened at 10 o'clock and the session probably will not last more than a day.

A lively battle for the presidency is predicted. For more than a month, rival candidates have been electioneering the club owners. Nobody expects an election on the first ballot.

Three candidates besides Chivington will be in the fight. They are George C. Rice, a Chicago sporting editor; Charles E. Moll, president of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and a Columbus "dark horse," whose name has not been made public.

Five votes are necessary to elect. Chivington's opponents admit he will control at least Kansas City, Louisville, Toledo, and Minneapolis votes on the first ballot. Milwaukee is said to favor Moll. Columbus will back its native son. Indianapolis and St. Paul are reported to be for Rice, although he will not state that he expects their support.

Chivington only smiles when the election is mentioned. His supporters say he is confident of election. The recent raising of the classification of the league is urged by his friends as a reason for his election.

Should the final vote be a tie, Chivington will remain in office. The position pays $5,000 a year and the term of office is one year.

Another question to be discussed is whether the "four swings around the circuit" schedule will obtain next year. Until last season the teams made but three trips. The innovation caused a big increase in traveling expenses and this has resulted in much opposition to the plan.

Officials of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league may ask a hearing on their plan of placing teams in some of the northern cities of the American association. Owners of the larger organization clubs are said to be unfavorable to the proposition.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 6.—To comply with the regulations prescribed by the new city government, the managers of the bout between Jimmy Reagan and Chalky Germain of St. Louis, booked for next Monday night, have cut the bout to ten rounds. It had been advertised to go fifteen. Control of boxing in this city has been placed in the hands of the chief of police. RINKS DRAWN FOR PLAY IN BAGLEY TROPHY EVENT

Curling Club Officials Decide That Only Four-Point Handicap Will Be Allowed After Games of Today.

MANLEY-McLENNAN EVENTS WILL BE OBSERVED IN STYLE.

It was decided today by the games committee of the Duluth and Superior Curling clubs that the first game between the two rival organizations for the Manley-McLennan trophy will be played Tuesday evening at Superior.

Special attractions will make the games one of the events of the curling season. Music will be one of the attractions of the evening at Superior and the Duluth skaters are planning to go over to Superior and spend the evening as guests of the transbay club.

It has been all but decided to play the second game here on Wednesday. Special music for the skaters will also be provided and it is the plan to have the members of the Superior Curling over here to join in the skating.

A large crowd from the Duluth Curling club is planning to go over to Superior Tuesday evening, while the Superior directors state that their club will have a large representation over here on Wednesday evening.

THREE GREAT OUTFIELDERS

Fogarty, Van Haltren and Big Bill Lange Came From California.

All Three Ranked Among the Greatest Players the Game Has Produced.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—California has the distinction of turning out three of the greatest outfielders that ever cavorted before a major league audience. The trio were Jim Fogarty, the phenomenal fielder of the Philadelphia club, who died in the heydey of his glory; George Van Haltren, esteemed citizen of Oakland, who was a star with the New Yorks, and "Bill" Lange, whose deeds and exploits while a member of the famous Chicago team, are still talked about by the oldtime fans. Other states in Uncle Sam's domain have contributed likely players to the majors; some stars of the first magnitude, but it is doubtful if any state can boast of sending three such sterling outfielders.

Lange, Fogarty and Van Haltren were wonderful performers in every department of the game. They did not confine their efforts to one branch. They could hit like fiends, were past masters of the art of fielding, speedy on the bases and could throw unerringly.

Lange, some think, was the greatest ball player of them all. Famous players come and famous players go, but the name of Lange lives on forever. Andrew Carnegie, the famous steel magnate, brought the wrath of the fans on his head when he omitted the name of Lange from his list of the twenty great men of the country. Where did Shakespeare ever connect with the baffling shoots of a famous left hander and fairly incinerate the horsehide? Did Edison ever make a sensational catch before a seething multitude of ball fans?

Next to Harry Stovey, Lange was the fleetest base runner the country has produced; his remarkable record of over 120 thefts in a season bearing out this contention.

Bill had a wonderful physique to aid him in his base stealing proclivities. His gigantic frame was good to look at and he topped the scales at 175.

Lange used to hurl himself with catapultic force at the baseman and it was either a case of avoiding the bulky runner or heading him off and suffering the consequences, usually a dislocated shoulder or something worse.

Lange is still in the prime of life and as lithe and supple as ever. Father Time has made no changes in Bill that the casual observer can notice.

"Old Bill looks as good as ever," mused an old-time warrior who occupied a box seat viewing the Policemen and Firemen settle their dispute last Sunday. "Bill hasn't changed a bit."

"Lange was some outfielder. In his time there was not an outfielder in the business who could hold a glove to him. Bill was in a class by himself.

"They all give Lange credit for being a wonderful mechanical ball player, yet very few speak of his brainy work. Bill used his head to good advantage.

"I can distinctly remember an incident in a game between Chicago and New York, played many years ago. The game was played on the Polo grounds. A big crowd turned out and the overflow part were accommodated with seats on the verge of the outfield.

"The game was a thriller. For six innings neither team got a man to third base. In the seventh inning the Giants became threatening. The first man drove a wicked bounder to the shortstop, who got his man at first by speedy execution. The second hitter was retired by the second baseman, who leaped high in the air and speared a terrific line hit that seemed destined to evade the fielder. The third batsman was not to be denied however. He drove the ball far over Lange's head in center field. Bill sprinted desperately after it, but he saw at a glance that unless the ball was headed off the hit would be fatal.

"After the scorching pellet went Lange, bending every energy and exerting every ounce of strength to reach the ball. Meanwhile the hitter was tearing around the bases. The crowd burst into paroxysms of joy.

"In those days there was no such thing as a block ball or dead ball. The ball could be handled by an outsider without any penalty being imposed.

"As Lange tore after the ball he evolved a brilliant scheme. 'Stop it, stop it,' roared Lange.

"In the outfield at every pole was stationed an officer, most of them grenhorns. One policeman, who knew no more about the game than a maniac in a padded cell, thought it was an occasion for him to show himself. Bounding from his post, he ran out, picked up the ball and threw it, much after the fashion of a youngster learning to throw for the first time. He served the purpose, however. The ball was retrieved by Lange, who hurled it to the infield, holding the hitter to three bases.

"Chicago won the game.

"The copper who threw the ball was severely reprimanded by the captain, an ardent Giant rooter, and was no longer assigned to a beat at the ball park."

George Van Haltren was without a doubt the greatest hitter that ever left the coast. Van went east in the capacity of pitcher, but his hitting tendencies attracted attention and he was switched to the outfield, where he shone for years and years. Before Van broke his leg, a pitiable accident, he was looked upon as one of the greatest outfielders in the business. Like Lange, he was a wonderful base stealer, but hiting was Van's forte.

Van Halten hit over the .300 mark for nine consecutive seasons. All told, he finished above the respected batting mark twelve seasons. Van's name is linked with famous stickers of the country, such as Adrian "Pop" Anson, the greatest stickers of all times, and Dan Brouthers. Van can still show a few of the youngsters the art of meting the ball.

Jim Fogarty, who went to Philadelphia, was the most wonderful fielder in the business. Fogarty seemed to know intuitively where the ball was going, and it was a rare occasion when a batter drove one past Jim. He would come in and go back on any kind of a ball hit. The oldtimers never tire of telling stories on Fogarty's spectacular fielding stunts. He could throw with the best of them.

California may well be proud of these great outfilders who made national history.

INSANE WARD.

THE PAST SEASON ONE NOTABLE IN THE ANNALS OF THE HARNESS HORSE SPORT

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.—By far the greatest season so far known in the history of the trotting turf is the one of 1911. The number of real high-class race horses produced and the quality and number of races given by the association in 1911 is far ahead of former years. The earning capacity of the harness racer has been augumented by hanging up rich purses and large stakes and every trotter and pacer of merit has been busily employed during the whole season racing for good money. The American trotter is noted not alone for the capacity to show a high rate of speed at the trot, as its name indicates, for as a general purpose horse he is the most useful in the world.

He can earn money on the race course; his gait and conformation make him the ideal road horse and the high order of intelligence with which he is endowed makes him no less desirable as a family animal.

The story of the racing season of 1911 is proof that the public will support meetings where by a liberal policy the management can assure its patrons that sensational contests will take place between noted horses.

All this shows a state of affairs gratifying in the extreme to all interested in the breeding and development of our national horse.

Family Feuds.

No more valuable lessons can be learned by beginners in the light harness horse breeding business than can be gained from a study of the blood lines of the winner in the Grand circuit, where all of the best trotters and pacers meet in their respective classes to fight for rich purses and incidentally for the honor of the families which they represent. The winners of these Grand circuit races have great influence in creating and maintaining the fashion in families. These races are a test of blood lines and the combination which produce the winners of these races, with the greatest uniformity, are the ones that beginners should aim to secure in the foals which they breed and raise.

R. T. C. (2:06¼), "the plow horse" that won over $30,000 on the Grand circuit and at Lexington, is not only a great horse for track purposes, as he has demonstrated that he is just as useful for a utility nag.

Recently Trainer Tommy Murphy said of him as follows:

"R. T. C. is a real farm horse; he has plenty of marks on him to testify to his hard, rough work. Last year I trained him for a time, after his owner had used him as one of a pair to put in the corn, and when I sent him home he arrived just in time to help haul hay from the fields to the big barn. He's a sure enough farm nag, but not the worst trotter on the track, eh?"

R. T. C. was bred by David M. Cochran of Middleton, Del., and was foaled in 1902. He won most of the classics of the Grand circuit, including the big $10,000 events at Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Columbus, etc. His breeding is too well known to repeat here.

The second greatest trotter of the year, Lewis Forrest (2:06¼), was the contender in every classic of 1911.

He is a 6-year-old black gelding, bred in Kentucky by George M. Stevens, Esq., of Lancaster, N. H. His sire, General Forrest (2:08), was by Allerton (2:09¼), a son of Jay Bird (2:31¾), and from Mist (2:29½), dam of Allertine (2:18½), a daughter of King Rene 1278, by Alexander's Belmont 64, etc. The dam of Lewis Forrest (2:06¼) was Selgrida, by Simmons (2:28), a son of George Wilkes (2:22). Mr. Stevens paid $2,500 for Hecuba, the second dam of Lewis Forrest, when she was 4 years old, and it proved a very profitable investment.

This good son of General Forrest won $14,700 on the big ring this year.

Promising Filly.

The 3-year-old trotting filly, Miss Stokes (2:08¾) has something like $12,000 credited to her in winnnings on the Grand circuit for 1911, and besides winning the American Horse Breeder and Horseman and Spirit of the Times futurity she was sold by her breeder for $25,000. Miss Stokes, 3-year-old (2:08¾), was bred at Patchen Wilkes' stock farm, Lexington, Ky., W. E. D. Stokes, New York city, proprietor, and is one of the most remarkable young trotters yet produced. She lowered the world's champion yearling trotting record to 2:19¾, and last year as a 2-year-old she lowered her record to 2:09¾ in a Futurity race that she won, and now as a 3-year-old she has won a Futurity race and lowered her 2-year-old record one-half a second.

The sire of Miss Stokes is Peter the Great (2:07¼), by Pilot Medium 1597, and her dam was Tillie Thompson by Guy Wilkes (2:15¼).

The champion hard-lucky trotter, Willy (2:04¼) has made more trotters take fast records than any horse raced on the "big ring" in recent years. He is a handsome, fast and perfectly mannered trotting stallion, and one of his greatest achievements of the year was his mile in 2:07¼ over the half-mile track at Goshen, N. Y. The latter performance is the world's record over a two-lap course by a trotter.

At the opening of the Grand Circuit at Indianapolis in July he was on edge and, while he was defeated, he made Don Labor trot to his record of 2:05¼ to turn the trick.

The present world's record for 5-year-old mares, as well as the race record for mares, now stands at 2:03¾, and is cedited to Soprano, whose fast performance at Cleveland was due solely to Willy, as he held the advantage until well down the stretch, just losing at the wire by a small margin.

At Syracuse, in the race in which a new world's record for three heats was established, it was Willy that forced the winner, Billy Burk, to go the final round in 2:04.

Willy was bred by Walter Winans of Brighton, England, his present owner.

Another good trotter that pulled down the long ends of several $10,000 events was the chestnut gelding Charley Mitchell (2:06¾), by Marvelous (2:23). He was bred by Morgan Mitchell of Aberdeen, Md., and was raced in Tommy Murphy's stable. Charley was a good horse in 1910, being raced over the half-mile tracks exclusively, and his campaign that year was extended until late in November, his trainer having invaded a number of the late Southern fairs.

The 3-year-old trotting gelding Peter Thompson (2:07½), winner of the Kentucky Futurity, the Champion Stallion stake and other juvenile classics, was the twentieth 2:10 trotter of the year. He is now the world's champion trotting gelding, having reduced Peter Sterling's record of 2:11¼, which has stood untouched for a number of years.

He is the tenth 2:10 trotter for Peter the Great. Only one sire, McKinley, with thirteen 2:10 trotters, tops Peter the Great in this respect. Peter Thompson is the third 2:10 trotter from a Guy Wilkes mare.

The dam of Peter Thompson is one of four remarkable full sisters. Lydia Thompson, besides Peter Thompson (3), is the dam of Peter Pilot (2:22½) and Peter Guy, champion at last year's St. Petersburg (Russia) horse show. Her sister, Tillie Thompson, is the dam of Miss Stokes 3, (2:08¾), Guy Onward, (2:26½), and Guy the Great, 2 (2:27¼). Another sister, Madam Thompson, is the dam of Eva Tanguay (2:09½) (trial 2:08¼), and Madam Peters (2:17¼). Still another sister, Gazelle, is the dam of Antezella (2:10½).

Peter Thompson was one of twins, a colt and a filly. The filly died from distemper at 9 or 10 months.

Ever since the beginning of harness racing the pace has been esteemed a faster gait than the trot, and it is an open question whether improvement is breeding the trotter will ever reverse the present verdict of the records in this regard. For years, however, the world's record for yearling trotters has been faster than the yearling pacing record, but this year the sensational yearling baby pacer, Frank Perry, placed the record at 2:15¼.

Tommy Murphy's bay gelding, Sir R. (2:03¾), by The Stoic, was the leading money-winning pacer of 1911. His greatest achievements on the Grand circuit the past season were his winning races at Columbus and Syracuse, when he annexed the big $5,000 events at both places in hollow fashion.

He won over $10,000 on the big ring, and was the most consistent of the many fast ones raced.

He is a 7-year-old gelding and was bred by Charles Hoops of Marysville, Ohio.

The dam of Sir R. (p) (2:03¾) was Nettie, by Tom Corwin 2,285, whose sire was Smuggler (2:15¾), the champion trotting stallion of his day, by Blanco, a son of Iron's Cadmus, mentioned above. The dam of Tom Corwin 2,285 was Lily (2:29½), by King's Cadmus, a son of Gilner's Whip, by the thoroughbred Blackburn's Whip. The second dam of Sir R. (p) (2:03¾) was Delaware Belle, by Onward (2:25¼), one of the best sons of George Wilkes (2:25¾). It will be seen from the above that the speed of Sir R. (p) (2:03¾) was not accidental.

The second largest money-winning pacer of the year, Branham Baughman, has $8,430 to his credit, and besides winning a $5,000 event at Grand Rapids, he pulled down several other first moneys, including a $3,000 event at Kalamazoo. He is registered as a standard trotter, No. 43,549, and is described as a brown horse, foaled in 1905, bred by G. & C. P. Cecil, Danville, Ky. His sire was Gambetta Wilkes (2:19¼). His dam is Patsy Best, by Nutwood (p) (2:12); second dam, Minnie Wilkes, by Lyle Wilkes 4,658, he by George Wilkes (2:22), and from Lou Coons, by American Clay 34; third dam Nokomis, by Mambrino Chief II., etc.

Braham Baukhman has been raced in Walter Cox's stable for about three seasons, and although a very fast horse capable at any time of pacing a mile in 2:05 or better, he was never cut loose until this year.

The third largest money winning and fifth new 2:05 pacer of the year was Hal B Jr. (2:03), by Hal B (2:04½). He is the fifth 2:10 performer for his sire, and is also the fastest pacer ever bred in Canada.

He made eleven starts in 1910 in the United States and Canada, his first year out, and won them all and went home with a record of 2:10¾. He raced successfully on the ice last winter. He won his first grand circuit start this year at Detroit in 2:06½ and 2:05¾. At Cleveland he beat C the Limit the first heat in 2:03 and was second to him the next two in 2:04¾ and 2:08¾. The horse is raced by James Easson of Stratford, Ont., and owned by Peter Kastner, Sebringville, Ont.

Fast Performer.

Vernon McKinney (2:02), the handsome son of Guy McKinney, son of McKinney (2:11¼), came into prominence by winning the famous classic, the Chamber of Commerce purse of $5,000, raced at the early Detroit meeting. He was a very consistent racer, and won first money in a $3,000 event at both the Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio, meetings. He was wintered at Pleasanton, Cal., by the Canadian trainer, Havie James, and was the only thing in the McKenzie stable that succeeded in getting to the races. Vernor is the fastest new performer for the year.

Miss De Forest (2:05¾), the new champion 3-year-old pacer of 1911, is a Hoosier state production, and succeeded in winning all the big pacing Futurities for colts of her age and gait this year. She was trained by Lon McDonald at Memphis, and was little thought of in the early part of the season, although she was timed several sensational miles in her 2-year-old form.

The season's honors for pacers over a half-mile track stands to the credit of the extremely fast pacing stallion Nutmoor (2:06¾), owned by Frank Callahan of Tiffin, Ohio, and trained by Ed Abrams of the same city. At the Findlay, Ohio meeting this remarkably fast son of Nutwood Wilkes (2:16½) won the second heat of the 2:11 pace in 2:06¾, the fastest mile of the year over a half-mile track, and no better or faster performance by a free-limbed pacing stallion in a race of the same class.

A new world's record for pacing mares on a half-mile track was established at the Muncie, Ind., meeting by the roan mare Alcyfrase (2:03½), when she stepped that two-lap course in 2:04½, driven by Harry Jones of Rushville, Ind. The fractional time of her performance by quarters was as follows: 0:31, 0:30½, 0:31¼ and 0:31¾. The mare, according to reports, was unattended by a runner, and in the stretches was handicapped by quite a stiff breeze, which makes her record-breaking achievement the more commendable.

NEW PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES LEAGUE

WILLIAM A. WITMAN.

William A. Witman of Reading has been made president of the United States League of Professional Clubs. This league will include Brooklyn, Washington, Reading, Richmond, New York and three other cities to be selected. Witman is an ex-president of the Pennsylvania State league and owner of the Reading baseball park.

GOOD SEATS GOING FAST

Ticket holders can gain admission at Third avenue entrance. Tickets on sale at Bob Blackwoods' Superior street cigar store. Plat of seats at place of sale. Prices, 75c, $1.00, $1.50.

OLD TIM MURNANE SELECTS TWO TEAMS OF GREAT PLAYERS.

(By Tim Murnane.)

Now that Charley Comiskey has started something by way of winter pastime, it's up to other veterans to make a selection, for no two men ever agreed as to the twenty best ball players the game has produced in the last twenty-five years. As "Commy" had the first pick, and we must agree with him on nearly all the players named, I will make a selection of the boys entitled to a niche in the hall of fame.

For catchers I would name Deacon Jim White and Martin Deacon, Jim White and Martin Bergen. At first, Comiskey, Chance and Chase would do very well. For second, Bill McPhee and Danny Richardson could play my card. Herman Long and Hughey Jennings would be the selection for short. Jimmie Collins, the greatest ever, could play third, while in the outfield Ed Delehanty, Bill Lange, Sam Thompson and Elmer Flick would fill the bill. For the box work I would name Rusie, Charley Nichols, Cy Young, Bender, "Three Fingered" Brown and Tim Keefe.

After the game had been secured for those players the chances are that some would take a chance for the money with another selection something like this. For catchers, Lou Criger and Johnnie Kling. For first, Roger Connor, the old oak. For second, Fred Dunlap, Otto Knabe and Yank Robison, Joe Tinker and Terry Turner for short, and Frank Baker and Bill Bradley for third, with Magee, Jackson, Speaker and Hooper in the outfield.

One major league made up of players of the above calibre would burn up the grass, with their speed, and hitting qualities. Even with the pick of the profession no team would be a success unless handled by a capable manager.

SALLEE HELPED CLARKE'S DECISION

Pittsburg Manager Decided to Warm Bench After Being Hit.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 6.—When lanky Harry Sallee shot that fast one crashing flush against Fred Clarke's right temple in St. Louis July 2 last, it marked the beginning of the end for Clarke as one of the greatest player-managers of all time.

It didn't mark the veteran pilot's finish so far as he personally was concerned. Persons nearer and dearer to him than any fan, long had begged him to quit. Fear that some day his daring and aggressiveness would meet with serious injury had caused his family to plead with him that he give up playing—that he take his place among other old masters as a bench manager and that, like Jennings, Griffith, McGraw, Chance and Dahlen, he wear his uniform for bench privileges only.

It is said by many that when Sallee "beaned" Clarke in that memorable Sunday clash with the Cardinals, it was the coin that flipped the future destiny of the Pirate boss. It was just such a trick of the baseball fates that Mrs. Fred Clarke and her two younger daughters often had feared. For years the great leader of pennant contenders and winners smiled and laughed away these occasional fears and bore injury after injury with apparent to good grace.

Figures It Time to Quit.

But the inevitable came. It wasn't Sallee's fault. It was the misfortune of both that Clarke, crowding the plate as usual, was caught by the fast "insider" and dropped senseless in the loam. It troubled the Pirate manager for two weeks, but there was no lasting ill effect. Probably then, if never before, Fred Clarke figured that in seventeen years as a major league ball player, he had had enough. The close of his seventeenth year showed him to have a grand batting average with Louisville and Pittsburg of .326. He was keeping up that gait late last season, having .324 for the year that marked his last.

For four years Fred Clarke heard the frequent pleadings of his wife and his little daughter Muriel to give up playing. The Clarke family is a charming little household, and with two devoted little daughters joining in his wife's petition it was hard for Capt. Clarke to resist.

Wins Big Championship.

True, he had accomplished great things, but not until 1909 did he succeed in fulfilling his most cherished ambition—a world's championship. They looked for him to take off his spiked shoes in the following year, but Fred thought he could repeat.

Mrs. Clarke during the past year declared that one of the happiest days of her life would be the day that her husband said he would give up the game for all time. He met with frequent injuries early in the last playing season—then came the distressing rap from Sallee.

Independently wealthy, and probably better supplied and unincumbered than many of the so-called magnates in baseball today, nothing stood in Fred's way this winter when he decided to give up the game. He brought four pennants to this city and a world's championship.

Recently Fred was quoted as having bet nineteen suits of clothes that he will never participate in another game of ball. Pittsburg hopes he loses every bet he made. This flirwn of smoke and money they simply can't imagine such a thing as Clarke sitting on the bench when a nine-inning pinch wallop is needed. He probably never again will play the outfield or any other field, but the knack of slapping out a hit—it's in the wood and in the blood—it will be mighty hard for him to resist.

FEW MORE FLAGS FOR ATHLETICS

Frank Chance Predicts More Honors for Connie Mack's Great Team.

That the Philadelphia Athletics are invincible for another year, and possibly two, is the belief of Frank Chance, winner of four National league pennants and two world's championships. Chance subscribes to this belief. His statement is unique, in that, so far as known, he is the first National League manager to voluntarily recognize the superiority of the American league leaders.

This, however, is as far as Chance is willing to acknowledge the superiority of the younger organization. He does not believe that the results of the several post-season contests, aside from the world's series, served to give a true line on the actual strength of the competing clubs. In this he unquestionably is right to a certain extent. For instance, not even the veriest baseball tyro believes that the St. Louis Browns are the equals of the St. Louis Cardinals, and yet the former won in the post-season series betwen these clubs.

Viewing the question from another angle, a majority of baseball experts agree that Cincinnati, while really having one of the best clubs in the league, as far as individual ability is concerned, really did not figure to win from Cleveland in the Ohio State championship series on the form which the Reds displayed in the National league race, and yet Griffith's men turned the trick.

Laying aside prejudice and professional bias, the "dope" would seem to indicate that the American league is a shade faster than the National, but the difference would be only barely perceptible in a full season's play, and in all probability the conditions will be exactly reversed two or three years hence.

Chance is sincere in his estimate of the Athletics, and gave his opinion regarding them freely. He does not harbor the slightest ill-feeling toward Mack and his team, despite the decisive trouncing which the Cubs experienced at their hands in 1910.

"You ask wherein lies the great strength of the Athletics?" said Chance repeating the question which had been put to him. "This may best be answered by saying that the Mack machine really has no glaringly weak place in its line-up. First base is the only position that is open to question, and I am not qualified to pass on that, for the simple reason that I did not have an opportunity to see McInnis in action. If he is as good as claimed, the Athletic infield practically is without a flaw. Davis, of course, slowed down, as shown in Mack's willingness to allow him to go to Cleveland, but he managed to fill the bill in the world's series.

"Just to what extent McInnis would have increased the effectiveness of the Athletics in the series with the New York Giants is problematical, but 'Stuffy' certainly made a fine and dandy record during the regular season.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

"Mack has a fine pitching staff, his outfield has shown its ability to deliver the goods, while the catching force has demonstrated that it is good enough for all practical purposes. In short, the Athletics are a well-rounded baseball machine, and I believe that they are in line for another world's championship, and possibly two.

"Returning to the Athletic pitching staff, I regard Bender as one of the best heavers which the game has produced. While Coombs won from us every time he started in 1910, he was hit hard, but there is no discounting his ability.

"In my opinion, it will take from one to three years for the National league to develop a team which is capable of wresting the world's title from the Athletics. Most of McGraw's mainstays are comers, and New York should have a grand team two years hence. In fact, it is possible that this is the team which eventually will take the measure of the Athletics. Although in the process of rebuilding, we expect to be up in the race ourselves, while Pittsburg will bear watching. Fred Clarke always has his club up in the race. He has been fortunate in the selection of his pitchers, and if O'Toole performs up to his advance notices the Pirates will have to be taken into consideration when it comes to making calculations."

Chance says that no major league club can hope to win more than four pennants, while in a majority of cases three will prove to be the maximum. This is easily explained. It takes from three to four years to build a pennant-winning club, and once a team is brought up to this standard, it is only a question of three or four years until the players begin to slow down. This may be almost imperceptible, but becomes apparent when it comes to summing up results at the end of the season, and the manager suddenly finds himself up against the proposition of rebuilding the club. This is the situation which Chance now faces.

HANK O'DAY HAS CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD AT "CINCY"

Changes in management of ownership of major league teams affect the playing of those teams more, perhaps than anything else. The recent changes in the big circuits and those still threatening make it impossible to forecast next year's race with any degree of exactitude. Indeed, to try to dope a team until its manager and its owner are known is mere guessing.

The only thing possible to say about the new ownership and management at Boston is that it can't be much worse. John M. Ward, as a manager, ought to be nearer farce than we have had in a long time and that Gaffney should have looked upon him as a live member is the miracle of that deal. Ward is of the "high brow" element and his re-entry into active baseball will serve to add to the bitterness of the American league against the National. The bitterness, with some, goes back to the Brotherhood days—and with others to the charge that Ward kept George Davis from joining the Chicago White Sox and that in that case he played both ends against the middle. But let us not condemn Ward. If we can't boost, let's don't knock. He is a good golfer. Both lawyers and baseball men are willing to concede that, says Hugh Fullerton.

The appointment of Henry O'Day as manager of Cincinnati is an odd one. If O'Day goes there with full power he will have the Reds up in the fight. My only regret is that the best umpire in the National league is taken away from us. O'Day is a stubborn, hard-headed, persevering man. He is honest, he knows the game and he will enforce discipline if the politicians will let Herrman let him do it. O'Day will have his way or he won't be there long—and it looks as if Herrman has selected the right man to keep the reporters from managing the team. Whether O'Day succeeds or fails, the credit will belong to him, and, further, some of those red-legged players who have been carousing, drinking and raising Cain generally either will behave, get licked or be released so quickly their heads will swim. O'Day knows them inside and out.

Came as Shock.

The appointment of O'Day as Cincinnati's manager came as a shock. It happened to know that he always has had a little hankering for a manager's job. The umpire job forced him to keep away from the players and managers, and he loves to talk things over and to argue, especially to argue, and he never yet has been tied in an argument.

O'Day is a clean, square determined man. Those who know him only as an umpire perhaps do not believe that he is a deep student of men and affairs, a conservative and a smart man. He is not the quickest thinker, but one of the soldiers, and put this down, that when O'Day says anything, that is exactly what he means and he intends to go through with it.

The selection of Harry Wolverton to lead the Highlanders may or may not be a success. Wolverton is a fine, rather quiet fellow, a Kenyon college man, and has had long experience. He was not aggressive as a player at Chicago, nor was he a leader when with the Phillies. He was successful on the coast and here's wishing him luck.

But the wisest move, according to my view, is that of Comiskey in getting Kid Gleason to assist Callahan with the White Sox. Kid Gleason is, I believe, one of the smartest baseball men, one of the best and most aggressive leaders and hustlers in the business. This is not entirely my idea, but the idea of every player or manager with whom he ever worked. He ought to have been a major league manager years ago. He was Billy Murphy's strongest aid at Philadelphia and the players there were devoted and took his advice on any matter.

The Kid is one of the most loyal fellows in the world. Right or wrong, he is with his manager to the finish, and what criticism he has to offer, either of a player or a manager, an owner or a reporter, he offers directly to them, and if they desire further satisfaction Mr. Gleason will oblige at any style from catch-as-catch-can to an ear-biting match. I have known the Kid seventeen years, and while he has the reputation of being a scrapper, I never yet have known him to do battle except under provocation and with just cause. I saw him once whale Jack Warner, a man much larger than he, and Warner, who was playing with Gleason on the New York team, was whipped because he purposely spiked an opposing player. Later Warner apologized and he and Gleason became firm friends. In Gleason Callahan has secured a valuable aid and Comiskey a loyal employe. And the first one of the Sox who starts the petty clique knocking next year may have to account to Gleason physically.

Good Illustration.

Down in our town there was a man who used to beat his wife two or three times a week. He blacked her eyes, kicked her out of the house and abused her shamefully. She never complained. Down the street lived another man, a mild-mannered, quiet fellow, who one day came home mad about something. His wife was a notorious termagant, and when she began to scold his long-enduring patience broke and he slapped her soundly. Instead of submitting meekly she had him arrested. Public feeling ran high and it was proposed to tar and feather him. I happened to report the tarring. The leader, and the loudest one in declaiming on the heinousness of wife beating was the fellow who beat up his frau regularly. He insisted upon pouring the rest of the bucket of tar over the victim's head.

I was reminded of that when Byron B. Johnson assumed that holier than thou attitude and announced that the American league won't associate with the National any longer because the National league is tarred with the ticket scalping scandal. Aside from the merits of the case, the American league is playing cheap politics. There isn't a doubt that persons associated with the New York club gained bunches of tickets to the world's series games, while the public was refused tickets. There isn't a doubt that politicians and others were bountifully supplied. Insiders had bunches of them. After the announcement that all tickets were sold President Lynch offered to sell me some at regular rates that he was saving for friends. There isn't a doubt that New York ticket scalpers were provided steadily, and in big blocks. I saw ticket speculators go to telephones and telephone reservations for certain seats. Who they telephoned to I do not know. Likewise, there isn't a doubt that similar conditions existed in Philadelphia on the same scale. The politicians, friends of the club officials and others had plenty, and so did the scalpers.

Open Scandal.

The most open ticket scalping scandal ever perpetrated during the world's series was by an American league club. The Detroit management openly and without reservation placed the whole business into the hands of private parties and the tickets went in blocks to the highest bidders. Mr. Johnson did not then assume such virtuous tones.

It looks to me as if Johnson is playing politics and trying to gain prestige for the American league—a thing he never loses a chance to do. He essayed to prove that persons connected with the New York club scalped tickets. He failed to produce legal proof. Then he declared New York guilty (which it was—although it wasn't proved) and refuses to have anything more to do with the National league, lest the skirts of the American league be soiled.

In so far as the American league does not want to share any blame or odium that may arise from conditions outside its control, the stand it takes is good. But it is the same old confidence game over again.

AL KAUFMANN IS THROUGH AS POSSIBLE CHAMPION

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—The announcement that Sun Yet Sen was elected president of the Chinese republic created nowhere near the sensation in sporting circles as the announcement that Al Kaufmann of San Francisco was knocked out in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout in New York by Al Palzer.

Sun Yet Sens may come and go, but there are a lot of persons mourning the passing of the man who was even looked upon as the carrier of the white man's burden.

Kaufmann might have alleviated the sting somewhat if he had said after the bout that he was glad that a man named "Al" won anyhow, but the reports bear the startling news that Al had nothing to say, but was thinking deeply after the affair.

Poor Kaufmann! There never was a sweeter, cleaner boy in the ring. Al was a model young man. He swore seldomly, smoked rarely, and he was innocent of the witcheries and vagaries of the flagon and wild wassail.

He was a tender-hearted, well-behaved boy. Some persons imagined he was a great fighter, but such persons rarely go deeper into what constitutes a good fighter than the breadth of shoulder, depth of chest and girth of bicep.

Kaufmann lacked the one essential of being a great fighter. He was never vicious enough either in or out of the ring. He was just good-natured big Al to fight followers, Albert to his folks and intimates. Brandishing no weapons against anyone's personal nomenclature it has always been a pet idea of the writer's that anyone who would stand for even his own folks calling him Albert labored under a burden that should be insupportable to a prizefighter. The Clarences, the Alberts, the Dudleys, such folk figure at select teas, indoor painting exhibitions. Fighters never.

* * *

There is not enough of war euphony, battle tune in a name like Albert. Given an opponent with a name Albert, I believe that any featherweight "Pat" or "Mike" or "Spider" could lick such a one if he weighed a ton.

There is a sort of phsychology in fighting names. Euphonious, sweet-sounding, pretty monachers carry in them esteem, regard, love, the softer sentiments. Nothing of war. Nothing of butchery. Little of gore. The point to be made is that a boxer must be harsh, must have harsh names, harsh ways, harsh surroundings. The lap of luxury never made a great fighter, any more than the spoon of silver.

Kaufmann was not trained, reared to the craft. He had the best that good home surroundings could give, education, fondness for society, books, the trifling things—at least, trifling to a fighter.

Gameness, the ring never saw the master of Kaufmann in this phaze. He had a courage as deep rooted as a redwood tree, as rock riveted as Gibraltar. There was none of the "hound" in Kaufmann.

Punch! Kaufman had one that would dismount a bronze statue from its pedestal.

But the boy was not vicious enough in his own defense he would fight to the death. He hated to punish a foe. Kaufmann was tender hearted as a fine-spirited lady. But the prize ring is no place for the tender hearted, tender minded. Successful fighters are present-day pirates. Their beatitudes are the same, or must be nearly similar to those owned by stout-hearted gentlemen who sailed the Spanish main, flaunted the skull and cross bones on the Jolly Roger.

Kaufmann also had the terrific fault of being a slow, deliberate thinker. Al's thoughts always moved with about the same lack of velocity that becomes a supreme court justice, not a fighter.

Kaufmann fought some good fights in his career, a few had ones. His recent defeat at the hands of "Fireman" Flynn marked the retrogression of Kaufmann. His defeat that night at the hands of a novice will wind up his career with the padded mitts.

* * *

From press dispatches one can gather that it was Kaufmann's lack of mental nimbleness that brought him to grief. The reports say that Palzer started a punch from his own toe, signaled Kaufmann to watch out, but that Al was too slow to get away from the imminent danger. The blow landed and Kaufmann went out.

Palzer's victory cannot be considered a fluke one. He knocked Kaufmann down five times while the gloves were rattling, and there is nothing flukish about a victory when the winner flattens the loser five times in as many rounds.

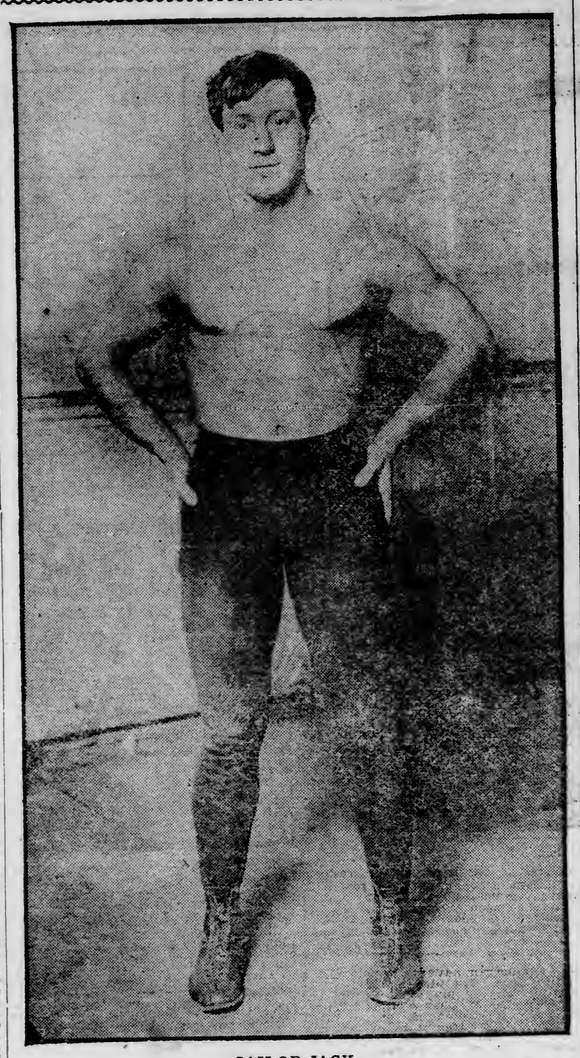

Kaufmann may still continue in the ring, but the "heights" now look absolutely insurmountable. To be beaten by Flynn and then Palzer, and both knockouts, should open Kaufmann's eyes to the fact that he must be at a very low ebb.

Kaufmann was a splendid fellow, with fine traits, and he has a multitude of real friends, and should Al start in some commercial business the chances are he would succeed.

Palzer, the lad who knocked out Kaufmann last night, is merely a novice. He was beaten by Tom Kennedy shortly back.

The newcomer is an Iowa farmer. He never saw a boxing glove until six months ago. Palzer's stock surely took an upward bound through his victory over Kaufmann.

MARINE FACES BIG JOB IN THE TOUGH GUSTAFSON

SAILOR JACK.

Sailor Jack will meet John Gustafson, or Emil Takala, the young Finn who put up such a sensational battle against the marine at the Pilakoff-Zbyszko match, at the coming match between Pilakoff and Ordemann. Much depends upon the showing Jack makes against the young wrestler from West Duluth. A world's championship match with Miller is before the sailor, so that he will wrestle his best. The marine has never worked so hard and is reported to be in the very best of condition.

KLING TO MANAGE BOSTON TEAM

Famous Cub Catcher Will Succeed Fred Tenny on Classic Grounds.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 6. — Johnny Kling, the baseball atcher, received a telegram from the management of the Boston National league team, announcing his appointment as manager of the Boston team to succeed Fred Tenney.

Fight Ends in Draw.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 6. — Tommy Dixon of Kansas City and Johnny Roche of San Francisco, featherweights, fought ten fast rounds to a draw here last night. Dixon was the aggressor from the start, but the coast boy took his punishment gamely and finished strong.

SOME FORMER FIGHTERS ARE IN MANY VARIED WALKS OF LIFE

At least a full score of men who at one time or another were champion pugilists of the world in one division or another, are still alive. Some are prosperous, others are not so well fixed, but they are all living and fairly healthy.

Probably the place of seniority belongs to Paddy Ryan, the Trojan. Paddy was the champion when some of the present champions were using their nursing bottle as a punching bag. Patricius is now a policeman, and they say his phenomenal physique makes him look like a "god in the blue."

John L. Sullivan is now a farmer, having recently purchased a place near Boston. John does not devote himself exclusively to raising crops, as he frequently takes to the stage, and though he made "lashins" of money as a fighter, the present source of his wealth was founded on the stage. Sullivan has been a monologist for years and he commands a very high figure for his services.

Jim Corbett, the man who beat Sullivan for the title 'way back in 1892, is an actor and author. He lives at Bayside, N. J., and has a handsome home. Corbett, they say, is well fixed, but he hasn't anything like 20 per cent of the money he earned since leaving a counter in a bank and donning the gloves.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons Versatile.

Were it not for the fact that the public is loath to forget Corbett, the champion, he would rank higher in the histrionic profession, though, at that, he is close to the top and has "made Broadway." Corbett was a natural actor as well as a natural boxer. He's one of the few men who ever quit the boxing game for the stage who really knows how to wear clothes.

Fitzsimmons, who holds the unique distinction of having been middleweight and heavyweight champion of the world, is a farmer-actor or actor-farmer, whichever way you wish it put. Bob has a place at Dunellen, N. J. He had the good sense to marry a very clever woman, Julia May Gifford, and she helps carry Ruby Robert as a stage favorite.

Probably Jim Jeffries is the most prosperous of any of the former champions. He made enough money out of the Johnson fiasco to put him on easy street, and Jim knows how to take care of it. Jeff has a place of call in Los Angeles, and the place is always so crowded that there isn't really room for a fly to light when business is good with the big fellow.

Jack Johnson, the present champion, won a big pot as a result of his victory over Jeffries. He's taking it easy, and it seems a case of "all goin' out and none comin' in." He's spending it in chunks, they say. Some people who know Johnson pretty well hardly believe this, for Jack was never really a spender of his own money.

Burns a Shrewd Fellow.

Tommy Burns, who was champion for a minute, is up in Calgary, and leave it to him to see he takes excellent care of Tommy. He's fat with money and making it steadily.

Marvin Hart, whom Jeffries handed the title to when he retired temporarily, lives in Louisville, Ky. He is a careful liver and has a little money. He still boxes a bit, but is easy picking for dubs nowadays.

Jack O'Brien, who was middleweight champion for a time, is still around Philadelphia, and he's well heeled. Jack was always a better business man than a fighter, and his business acumen did not forsake Jack when the ring did.

Billy Papke, who was an overnight champion, has considerable property in Kewanee, Ill. He's out of it now.

Joe Wolcott, the old welterweight champion, who still throws himself in as a trial horse, lives in Boston. He is comfortably fixed. Joe has a son and daughter who do a boxing turn for social events, and Joe does all the collecting.

Honey Mellody, who claimed the championship once because he beat the shadow of what was once the great Joe Walcott, has his health. Joe Thomas, who licked Mellody, lives in Oakland, and is still boxing.

Tommy Ryan, who was practically the welter and middle champion, is a boxing instructor at Portland, Or.

McAuliffe Actor and Broker.

The lightweight division has several representatives alive who were once title holders. Jack McAuliffe, who ruled in the lightweight division when John L. was heavyweight champion and Jack Dempsey, the middleweight king, is an actor and broker, and the brcker end of it goes both ways.

McAuliffe is one of the real characters of the ring. He's had many ups and downs. He recently married May Yohe, who once was Lady Francis Hope. He also has the distinction of being the only man living who ever retired on his laurels. McAuliffe quit when he was still the active holder, and that, too, after having defended the emblem for thirteen years. There never was a better fighter or better fellow than Jack McAuliffe, and all his friends wish him prosperity.

"Kid" Lavigne, one of the greatest ringmen of all times, has a buffet in Detroit, Mich. Ty Cobb, the great ball player, though a total abstainer, calls on the "Kid" frequently, as he is a great admirer of "Little George."

Frank Erne in Paris.

Frank Erne conducts a boxing academy in Paris, and this accounts for the fact that the French amateurs have been scalping the English title holders with great regularity of late.

Bat Nelson is doing the best he can in the ring. They say the Battler is "property poor." At that Nelson expects to make a great fortune, for he owns a small farm on which he has hopes of developing a square pea, so that it won't roll off the knives of refined gentlemen who prefer the sword to the harpoon in conveying peas to their traps.

Ad Wolgast, the present ruler, recently lost his appendix, but he lost none of his coin, and with Jones on the job he is not likely to lose much of his nerve.

Cal McCarthy, the old featherweight champion, is still alive and not so badly off. Terry McGovern, the Terrible Terry of old, works for Sam Harris, his former manager. Young Corbett, who was never really a champion, but who was looked upon as one owing to his victory over McGovern, has the "being" privileges in certain houses of call on Broadway in New York, and they say that unless one is unusually wary Mr. Rothwell is liable to inject a sting and extract a bit of change.

Attell, the present holder, may have money and he may not. Latest returns from the last big poker game in New York are not in, so it will be hard to rate Abe. The present champ is an inveterate gambolier. He plays any sort of game from dimes to thousands, all depending on the condition of Abe's exchequer and the disposition of his opponents when the game starts.

Though the bantamweight class is practically a dead issue, some of the lads still live who were wonders in this class. Frankie Neil is out in San Francisco and is broke. He was recently arrested for raising a bill.

Jimmy Barry, probably the greatest bantam that ever lived, is living in Chicago and is caretaker of a public playground. He was the real marvel of his class.

Jem Bowker, who beat Neil for the title, still lives in London. He has been and is said to be comfortably fixed.

Harry Forbes, whom Frankie Neil beat for the title, is still boxing and making the best boys in his class step. Forbes recently boxed Johnny Coulon a tough ten-round bout.

Johnny Coulon is the present bantam champion. They say he is comfortably fixed.

TWO GREAT PUGILISTS SPENDING DAYS IN JAIL TO ESCAPE POVERTY

(By George V Touhey.)

The appeal of Martin Costello and Albert Griffiths to be sent to the workhouse for the winter at New York the other day, as told in the little news dispatch that filtered through the West, is another chapter in the sad ending of the careers of two of the most promising pugilists that ever came from Australia. The names must have sounded strange to many of the present day followers of the ring, but to men who are versed in ring history or who knew the game fifteen or twenty years ago the names of the two are familiar, although Costello was nick-named "Buffalo," while Griffiths was known as "Young Griffo."

Each in his class was a remarkable man. Griffo was the better known and was undoubtedly the finest boxer that ever put a glove in a ring in this or any other country. He came here in the early '90s from Australia, following the influx of pugilists from the land of the Southern Cross, at a time when Fitzsimmons, Dan Creedon, Frank Slavin, Jim Hall, Peter Jackson, Tut Ryan, Joe Goddard and others were in the zenith of their fame and prowess.

Griffo was the featherweight champion of Australia, which title he won from Australian Billy Murphy, the "Little Torpedo." We know how good Murphy was, for he had beaten Ike Weir, the Belfast Spider, and from this we got an idea that Griffo must be something of a wonder. But we were not prepared for the remarkable ability he showed when he opened up in this country. He boxed a few times on the coast, but without attracting much attention. He went East and was matched with George Lavigne, the Saginaw Kid, afterward the lightweight champion of the world. They met at Chicago in an eight-round contest.

Now, mind you, at that time Lavigne was a wonder in our estimation. We figured that nobody living had a license to make a monkey of him, and American sports felt so secure about the outcome that they were inclined to laugh at the pretensions of the Australian in hooking up with Lavigne. Try to recall what happened. Lavigne was a novice before Griffo. The visitor proved himself to be one of the wizards of the ring, and the way he flayed Lavigne was a caution. In fact, after the bout Lavigne said that he felt as though he had been blindfolded and that at least twenty men were throwing gloves at him. He never landed on the Australian, who opened the eyes of everybody by his marvelous style. It was different from anything we had ever seen, and the boxers of today would open their eyes in amazement if they saw Griffo at work.

How He Fought Lavigne.

Instead of going in with his head down or in a crouching position, Griffo stepped forward fully erect, with the left hand slightly extended, the right resting easily across his chest. The feet were well together, but so placed as to give balance of the best kind. There were no waste moves on the part of Griffo. He simply walked into Lavigne, and like a flash stabbed the left to the nose. Lavigne's counter was parried, and then, like a series of lightning darts, the left and right of the Australian were whipped into Lavigne's body and face. All this time Griffo was practically breast to breast with the Saginaw Kid. Occasionally Griffo weaved his body in and out, merely pulling away far enough to let a lead pass him, but was always in position to counter effectively. He did no footwork as we know it now, and every punch was timed and placed with the precision of a machine. It was a remarkable exhibition and made Griffo one of the greatest drawing cards that ever stepped on a canvas.

Shortly afterward Griffo was matched with Billy Murphy and Johnny Griffin at Boston, and he messed these up so badly that the men, first-class in their day, were humiliated. Then came his match with George Dixon, the world's featherweight champion. They boxed twenty-five rounds to what was called a draw, but this was a courtesy to Dixon, rather than a real indication of the merit of the men.

You remember Dixon at his best? Well, an idea of how good Griffo was may be shown by the fact that he never did train a minute for that match. Griffo liked to carouse and loved his "bitter beer" so well that two days before the match his manager, Hughey Behan, had Griffo arrested on a warrant charging him with drunkenness and kept him locked up until within an hour of entering the ring. Now the cell of a police station is not the best place in the world to get ripe for a boxing contest, but this was a common thing with Griffo.

And Then George Dixon.

Boston was and always will be loyal to its boxers. It will surely give the best credit possible to its fistic stars, such as John L. Sullivan, Mysterious Billy Smith, Joe Walcott, Dixon, and later Sam Langford. But that night we saw our idol messed up as we never had never before seen a glove. Every point of the champion's rare ring generalship was brought into play, but it was no use. Whether Dixon boxed at long or short range, whether he tried rushing and slugging, no matter, in fact, how he went at the Australian, it was the same—it was Griffo doing just as much as he pleased with the dusky champion.

Later Griffo was matched to box Lavigne for the world's championship at Coney Island in a finish match. His habits were not of the best, and he finally committed a crime for which he was sent to prison for a long term. Influence, however, secured his release in a year. This release was so arranged that the night of the day he left jail he met Joe Gans at Greenpoint, now part of Brooklyn, and Gans was as helpless before Griffo as the others had been.

His escapades, however, killed Griffo as a drawing card, and he drifted back to Chicago, where he kept slipping lower and lower until finally, after several terms as a vagrant, he was adjudged insane and sent to the asylum.

Manager Made a Fortune.

Charley Griffiths, not related to Griffo, although of the same name, who came to this country and fought a number of men in the past two years, finally used his efforts to get Griffo released, and agreed to pay his way back to Australia. Griffo went to New York a few months ago, and at one of the local clubs was given a chance to display his skill. He was put against Mike Leonard, a former crack lightweight, and Griffo showed that he still possessed his marvelous skill, but had not the stamina to hold his own against the rugged boxers of today, although he bested Leonard without having to exert himself.

Griffo's manager made a fortune from him. I have seen Griffo after a contest come to a club office and with his hat in his hand ask Behan to fill it. A bundle of $1 bills, piled loosely into the hat, would be given him. With a crowd of kindred spirits he would rush to the nearest saloon, pour the contents of the battered derby on the counter, and in a few minutes Griffo would be looking for more money from his manager.

Costello was a different type, but was extremely unfortunate. He came to this country for the purpose of meeting Alex Greggains, who was at that time making his home in Boston, where he was backed by Joe Lewis. They met at Coney Island in what proved to be the longest glove fight on record between heavyweights, when they battled eighty rounds to a draw. This fight in length is exceeded only by the Burke-Bowen battle at New Orleans, which went 110 rounds, and the Needham-Kerrigan fight at San Francisco, which was called a draw when 100 rounds had been boxed.

What Costello Did.

There was some talk of a return match between Greggains and Costello, but Col. John Hopkins, manager of Dan Creedon, who was interested in the club, matched Creedon to fight Greggains at Roby, Ind., a short distance from Chicago, during the world's fair. Creedon beat Greggains in fifteen rounds, and was then matched with Costello for a big side bet and a purse, winner to take all. The Hoosier authorities declined to permit the contest to take place, and the militia was called out. A riot followed, in which a number of people were injured. The boxers escaped, however, but the next day warrants were sworn out against them. Creedon stood his ground, but Costello fled to Canada, where he remained until the indictment was outlawed. During this time he was unable to get much in a boxing way because of the outcry raised by the Roby riots, and he gradually dropped out of sight.

During the life of the indictment a number of newcomers had broken into the game, and when Costello tried to come back he found that he was unable to do himself justice. Broken in spirit and health, he recently arrived in New York and now the end comes when he is obliged to ask a committing magistrate to send him to the workhouse, where he is at least sure of three meals a day, such as they are, and a bed in a jail.

It's certainly a tough finish, and parallels the case of George La Blanche, the marine, who defeated Dempsey. La Blanche was recently sent to Deer Island at Boston, at his own request, a sodden wretch, prematurely old, who had alienated those who would have befriended him had he deserved it.

Not Like That Today.

How different are the present-day glove men! The top notchers have fat bank accounts, many of them having large realty holdings. Even the second graders are rated as wealthy, and all seem to be imbued with the thrift habit to the point where many are actually considered penurious. Still, some of these prefer to look ahead and to put their coin away, rather than to let it filter through their hands for the mere sake of being called a "good fellow."

NEXT OLYMPIAD SHOULD FAR EXCEED ALL OTHERS

Great as were the Olympic games at London in 1908, far surpassing anything the world had seen in the athletic line, the battle of the champions in Stockholm, Sweden, in July promises to overshadow them completely. Gathered at Stockholm will be a galaxy of stars to fight for the athletic honors of their respective countries that promises to be the greatest in the history of athletics.

The huge stadium, more than 1,000 feet long and 700 feet wide, built to accommodate a crowd of 75,000 persons, in which the games will be held, dwarfs into insignificance in everything except beauty the one at Athens. The Hellenic stadium, lying under a sky of deepest azure, cloaked in its classic surroundings with the blue Attican hills as a background, presented a picture which could not anywhere be duplicated.

Every contest in the 1912 games will be worth going miles to see. Sport followers hereabouts are bemoaning the turn of the wheel that prevents them from seeing Uncle Sam's brawny brood of red blooded sons vanquish the flower of the world's athletes in the great games. It is a strange whim of Dame Fortune that she should so arrange affairs that Sweden's people will have the privilege of seeing a greater collection of Yankee stars in action than ever measured strides in a meet in America. Uncle Sam's men should sweep the boards in the opinion of many.

There is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, however, and to those who have been watching the tremendous interest that has been shown in athletics in the different countries since the revival of the games in 1906, with the resultant improvement, it looks as if the meet will not be so much of a cakewalk for America as were the 1908 games. The Swedish climate must be taken into consideration and other conditions which may upset the best laid plans must not be overlooked.

• • •

A few years ago England, Australia, and Sweden were America's greatest rivals, but such will not be the case at Stockholm. The athletes who will represent other nations are accustomed to the climate and they will not have to make long journeys to reach the battle ground. On the other hand, once again the Americans will be forced to make a long trip and then face conditions which will be anything but encouraging, for it has been proven in the past that our athletes always are at a disadvantage when competing abroad. Some of the best men in the United States may not be able to make the trip because of business connections, while the sea voyage is apt to affect some so as to make them unfit to compete. But despite these obstacles America should win if past records count for anything.

At all previous meetings in which our athletes have met the Britons in the quarter, half, and mile runs, America's chances have been long ones at the best, but with the great group of middle distance runners which will be available for the 1912 team, there may be a different story to tell next summer.

• • •

In order to muster the strongest team possible, the American Olympic committee is losing no time in making arrangements for the trials which will be held in different sections of the country on the second Saturday in June. Mike Murphy, the veteran trainer of Yale and Pennsylvania athletic teams, has been engaged to condition the men who will be selected, and in this work he will be assisted ably by Keene Fitzpatrick, conditioner of Princeton teams, and Andy Mac, who looks after Yale athletes. Other well known trainers also will volunteer their services, while track coaches will flock to the aid of the athletes from all sections. As a result, the men who will be selected to defend the honor and glory of America will not lack for coaching and when they sail for Sweden they should be in the best of condition.

Although our ranks will be depleted by the loss of veterans who were factors in the Athens and London games, so many athletes have been developed in the last two years who have registered record breaking performances that it only is reasonable to believe that the 1912 team will be every bit as strong as former aggregations. Lack of experience in competing on foreign soil may handicap some of the athletes, but there will be enough veterans on the team, men who have been through the mill, to give the younger men all encouragement possible.

America's success in the Olympic games has been due to unselfishness on the part of its athletes. Working for a common cause, the men have gone into races and have carried out instructions to the letter. Some have sacrificed the personal honor which they might have earned by placing in contests, by going out at the crack of the pistol and running other contestants off their feet, thus allowing one of their teammates to their win the races or secure positions which helped to swell the American total.

WISCONSIN MAY HAVE A BIG ATHLETIC STADIUM

Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—If the present plans of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin come to a head and there does not seem to be anything in their way at the present time, the Badgers will boast of the finest athletic field and equipment of any university in the United States. The plans include the building of a stadium, athletic hall, gymnasium and boathouse and it is expected that the structure will cost nearly $1,000,000.

It is not expected that the project will be completed before ten years at the earliest, for the total area included in the plan is 120 acres. Lard & Cret, Philadelphia architects, are now working on plans which will be submitted to the regents and if they are satisfactory all future athletic development of the university will follow their ideas. For the last few years Camp Randall, the present athletic field has proven inadequate to the growing demands of the university. As soon as possible the present athletic field will be vacated and turned over to the co-eds. As soon as funds are procured, practice fields will be built on the new land, and when the stadium is completed, Camp Randall will no longer be used.

Campaign for Funds.

A campaign for funds will be started in a short time. It being the idea of the regents to build the new structure out of private funds and the other buildings out of state funds. The stadium will be of concrete construction and it is Director Ehler's idea to have it include the track and football field. The baseball field will be in one corner of the stadium, and have separate seating arrangements. Adjacent to one end of the stadium will be the athletic hall, which will be devoted to indoor track meets and football. The gymnasium will consist of a number of different halls, which will be used for basketball, indoor baseball, wrestling, boxing, handball and gymnasium work and it will also contain a large hall for intercollegiate basketball games.

The boathouse will be built on land which will be reclaimed as soon as the necessary appropriation is forthcoming. It will be devoted to the needs of the 'varsity oarsmen and will also contain rooms for the storing of canoes, rowboats and launches. It will also furnish accommodations for swimming and bathing.

The special space provides for seven acres for a stadium; three acres for a baseball field; one acre for the gymnasium; one-third acre for natatorium; two and one-third acres for the approaches; two-thirds of an acre for the boathouse, and the remaining space for practice fields, golf links, tennis court and lawns.

According to Director Ehler the problem now before the department of physical education is how to accommodate 1,000 students every hour. He estimates that the maximum number out for exercise is 4,000 and that in ten years it will be 5,000.

AD WOLGAST IS WEALTHY FIGHTER

The Little German Has Saved Large Fortune From Ring Earnings.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Ad Wolgast is the world's richest lightweight, having earned and saved more money in his "term of office" than any other man who ever pranced along under the 133 pound title.

Battling Nelson "hogged" the lion's share of many big purses and was never a spendthrift, but the Dane was considered an easy mark for the land sharks. Real estate deals ate up the Battler's dollars and he is now "property poor." Instead of being able to drop back into an easy chair Nelson is forced to box second and third raters at this late day in his career, accepting sums for his services that in his palmy days would not have paid training expenses.

Joe Gans, "Mammy's bacon boy" earned several fortunes in the time that intervened between his victory over Frank Erne at Fort Erie on May 12, 1912, and his second defeat at the hands of Nelson in the Colma ring on Sept. 9, 1908, but the money ran through the wonderful mulatto's brown fingers like water and when his untimely end came in Arizona the scant hotel holdings of Gans represented his total assets.

Billy Rothwell (Young Corbett) ruled the roost from 1901 to 1904, and even after his defeats at the hands of Britt, Nelson and Hanlon, the Denver man continued to grab off the coin. The primrose path was never really blistered until Rothwell started to "travel." Billy's speed singed the buds and scorched the bushes. He left nothing in his trail but cinders. Several "benefit performances" have been staged for Rothwell.

Packy McFarland is a clean living and frugal youngster, but the stock yards lad has never had a chance to box for what could really be considered "big" money. McFarland has saved and wisely invested his money and according to Harry Gilmore, Jr., could today write his check for $50,000, the same being as good as gold, but compared to Wolgast the Chicagoan is a pauper.

It wouldn't be exactly fair to Wolgast to reveal the exact amount of his fortune, but the same would stagger even those who realize the earning capacity of a world's champion. He owns a 200-acre stock farm near Cadillac, Mich., the rich land being stocked with blooded cattle, and this property he has practically presented to his parents. Since last February alone Wolgast's earnings have come close to the $100,000 mark and his investments have all panned out well.

LA CROSSE LETS ITS PLAYERS GO

Outcasts and the Eau Claire Angels Reduce Their Ranks.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 6.—Wals, Watson, Kernan, Kline, Weidell, Crangle and Conley will be retained by the directors of the La Crosso baseball club, while Safford, Snyder, Black and Bond will be given their release. This is the announcement of President John Elliott of that club.

This decision was reached as the result of the ruling to the effect that the Minny league clubs would have to pay their men for the work, which the original schedule was shortened owing to the dropping out of the Wausau and Red Wing clubs. The commission held that any of the players who were not paid before the first of January were released after that date.

Klein, Kernan, Wals and Watson will be paid for the extra week. Conley, Weidell and Crangle were under suspension at the end of the season so this will not apply to them and the club can retain the services without making the extra payment. Kelly was not a member of the team under the original schedule and accepted the La Crosse contract with the understanding that the season would end according to the revised schedule. Price and Brenton are not the property of the La Crosse club and will probably play elsewhere next season. Snyder's contract expired at the end of the season and he will not be offered a new one. Safford, Black and Bond will be allowed to obtain their release by the non-payment of the extra week's salary.

The team will be left with seven old members at the beginning of the next season but it is doubtful if Conley will be used, despite the fact that he remains the property of the club.

The Eau Claire Baseball club held a meeting yesterday and retained the following players: Kading, Chapelle, Stark and Foss. Contracts were sent out for three new players, two pitchers and an infielder.

FORMER MINNY LEAGUE UMPIRE HAS MADE GOOD

OLLIE ANDERSON.

Ollie Anderson is being talked of at present for a berth on President Lynch's staff of National league umpires. Fans around here will remember Ollie as the very best arbiter who ever held the indicator in the Minny league. During the past season the red-topped one has been umpiring in the New York state league and has been doing fine. It has been the great work of Ollie in the East that has attracted the attention of the big league folks.

LESS KICKING IN AMERICAN

Umpires Have Less Trouble With Players in Younger League.

Baseball patrons who have been fairly frequent visitors to the parks of both major league teams have commented on the difference in the attitude of the players of the two organizations toward the umpires. Fans who travel and see games in other cities have noted and remarked the same thing. They have expressed curiosity as to why American league games were productive of less kicking than National league contests on the average.

President Lynch of the National league once answered the query by saying the American league players and managers were not as aggressive as those in his circuit. That was true because Mr. Lynch's definition of "aggressiveness" was different from the American league's. Aggressive managers and players in the latter circuit have been compelled to turn their attention to combating the moves and efforts of their opponents with all their strength, skill, and wits, instead of arguing and wrangling with umpires over decisions which cannot by any process be changed.

This attitude has been made compulsory by drastic punishment of offenders when necessary, and such punishment has been made possible by permanency in the executive office of the American league. The umpires of that circuit know that their future employment depends wholly on their ability to satisfy President Johnson that their decisions are square and accurate as they can make them. Umpires in the National league have no such feeling of security because they do not know in one season who will be their employer in the following year, or whether or not they will have employment. Neither the umpires nor the president of the National league can feel the independence of knowing that their jobs do not depend on the votes of the club owners.

Players Are Told.

That is one reason. American league players have been taught that they are butting against a wall of adamant when they go after an umpire on any proposition that does not involve the misinterpretion of a rule. They have ceased to butt except under extreme provocation or excitement. Baseball would not be baseball if a player could not register a sharp, spontaneous protest against an adverse decision on a critical play. The player would not be a good fighting player if he did not protest, and it passes almost unnoticed. It is prolonged, premeditated, and concerted attempt to get an umpire's nerve and to prejudice the crowd against him that hurts baseball most, and none of that is tolerated in the American league.

There is another reason for the difference between the two leagues. The attitude of the umpires toward the players is not the same in many individual cases. To take a concrete illustration: If you happen to hear Umpire Evans' reply when a player protests "I'm not out; he didn't touch me," it will almost always be: "I thought he did." Or if a pitcher kicks on a called ball because it was "right across the middle," the answer will be: "I didn't think so."

That settles the argument unless the player wants to come back with something about "think again," or "bum umpire," to which the arbitrator need not reply at all.

Start of Trouble.

To tell a player preemptorily that he is wrong and the umpire always right is what starts many a wrangle. Often a player honestly does not think he has been touched out, when he really has. Hitting the ground at top speed often hurts, and the player does not feel the lighter touch of the ball at all. To tell him he is a liar if he says he was not touched breeds ill-feeling and trouble. The answer, "I thought you were," permits the player to retain his own belief that he was not touched and at the same time reminds him that it really does not make any difference whether he was touched or not if the umpire thought he was. For in every close decision what the umpire sees and "thinks" at that instant determine the play, and there is no appeal.

Of course, the umpire who refuses to get as close as possible to every play he has to decide, so as to see what does happen, and who cannot "think" quickly and accurately in the great majority of cases could not get away with that sort of stuff. But such an umpire does not last long, anyhow. The American and National league umpires, individually and collectively, make a whole lot fewer mistakes in their decisions than the spectator thinks or the player will admit.

And if it were possible to keep official scores on umpiring, giving credit for every correct decision and charging an error for every mistake, the worst umpire in the business would have a better "average" at the end of a season than the fielding average of the most brilliant regular in the league.

JOHN BARRY IS GREAT SHORTSTOP

"Give him two years more and everybody in the country will say he's the best shortstop in the business."

"Him," is John Joseph Barry, the famous short patcher of the world's champions. The quotation marks bounding the phrases are due to the fact that Billy Murray, former manager of the Phillies and now scout for the Pittsburg team, is the author of the statement.

"You look that infield over," he said, "and you'll find that Barry is the key to the whole business. That may seem funny to a lot of people, but that's my opinion. He's always doing something, always in front of the ball, and he does the right thing at the right time.

"There's none of this flashy stuff about Barry. He covers all the ground in sight and he gets over it so easy and in such a soft manner that people don't see how really great that kid is. If he ran all around the ball, stood on his head and made a lot of work out of an easy chance people would scream their lungs out and think that was great work.

"But the fellow on the inside knows differently. He watches a guy all the time, sees how he handles himself, sees whether he gets in front of the ball, whether or not he lands in a position to throw well. Barry does all of that stuff, and does it easily.

"He covers as much ground as any shortstop in the business. He can come up on the ball, he can go back on the ball, he takes them on either side and he has as fine a whip as any player in the business.

"He's always pulling something, too. And he always does it at the right time, just when it's needed and just when it is the only thing to do. That's what I like about Barry; he always does the one thing that is needed when it is needed.

"Take him at the bat. He may not hit more than .250 for a season. But he puts that .250 average to more gain for his club than half the .300 hitters. Take a tight game when somebody is needed in the pinch. Who's there? Barry, sure as you like. You know the Athletics are a grand ball team—a wonderful ball team.

"Well, I think that Barry is the best man on the team. I know people may not agree with me, but that's my opinion; he's the best man on the team.

"Two years ago people didn't realize he was alive, did they? No, they didn't. Last year they began to see what a wonder he was. Well, in two years everybody will be touting him as the greatest shortstop in the business.

"Barry is one of those chaps that you have to see every day to know how much he is worth. You can't see him once a month and get a line on his value. But you take him day in and day out, and he's a bird. Give him two years more and everybody in the country will say he's the best shortstop in the business."

DUFFEY SELECTS OLYMPIC TEAM

Noted Sprinter Names List of Famous Track and Field Athletes.

Arthur Duffey, the one-time great sprinter, has picked an all-American athletic team which, it is suggested, would make a strong basis around which to build an American team for the Olympic games in Stockholm, Sweden, next year. It follows:

Ralph Craig, Michigan, 100-yard dash, 0:09 4-5.

Ralph Craig, Michigan, 220-yard dash, 0:21 1-5.

D. B. Young, Amherst and Boston A. A., 440-yard run, 0:58 4-5.

M. W. Sheppard, Irish-American A. C., 880-yard run, 1:54 4-5.

John Paul Jones, Cornell, one mile, 4:15 2-5.

George Bonhag, Irish-American A. C., 5-mile run, 24:38.

Lewis Scott, South Paterson, 10-mile run, 53:20.

F. A. Chisholm, Yale, 220-yard hurdles, 0:15 2-5.

J. J. Eller, Irish-American A. C., 220-yard low hurdles, 0:24 4-5.

F. Kaiser, New York A. C., 1-mile walk, 7:06.

H. Grumpelt, New York A. C., high jump, 6 feet 3¼ inches.

A. L. Guterson, Boston A. A., running broad jump, 28 feet 11 inches.

Matt McGrath (unattached), 56-pound weight, 40 feet, 3 6-8 inches.

D. F. Ahearne, Irish-American A. C., hop, step and jump, 51 feet 3¼ inches.

Martin Sheridan, Irish-American A. C., discus throw, 141 feet 4 inches.

Bud Houlgans, San Francisco, javelin throw, 166 feet.

P. McDonald, Irish-American A. C., shotput, 48 feet 11¾ inches.

Hal Cook, Cleveland, pole vault, 12 feet 6 inches.

William Kramer, Long Island A. C. cross-country, 37:09.

F. Thompson, Chicago, all-around champion.

Clarence De Mar, North Dakota A. A., Marathon champion.

Jim Thorpe, Carlisle Indian school, pentathlon event.

Platt Adams, New York A. C., decathlon event.

KAISER HONORS ADMIRAL EVANS

His Representative Lays a Wreath on Bier of Late Officer.

Washington, Jan. 6.—President Taft, members of his cabinet, Admiral Dewey, and practically every naval officer on duty in Washington and many prominent officials attended the funeral of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans yesterday afternoon.

An unusual tribute was paid to the memory of Admiral Evans by Emperor William of Germany. As the special representative of the emperor, Commander Retzmann, the German naval attache, attended the funeral and placed a wreath on the bier of the admiral, who had been intimately known by the emperor.

Early in the day the body was transferred from the family home to All Souls Unitarian church, the casket being wrapped in a rear admiral's flag and the Star and Stripes. The services were conducted by President Taft's pastor, Rev. U. G. B. Pierce.

During the services the famous "Paul Revere" bell, which rang out a warning to the minute men for the first battle of the revolution, was tolled.

After the ceremonies at the church, eight petty officers from the United States steamship Dolphin, preceded by prominent naval and military pallbearers bore the flower-laden casket to a gun caisson.

A military escort commanded by Rear Admiral Sidney A. Staunton made up the funeral procession to Arlington National cemetery.

At the grave "taps" was sounded and a salute of thirteen guns gred

SOME PITCHERS STUDY THE FEET OF THE BATTERS

(By Billy Evans.)

"Study the position of the batter's feet." Clark Griffith, who will manage the Washington Americans next year, says all the really successful pitchers must. In his day Griffith was one of the greatest pitchers in the country. Griffith didn't have the stuff that Walter Johnson has, in fact, his stock in trade was rather limited; still when in his prime, no twirler was harder to beat than the "Old Fox."

Griffith had a slow ball that was a beauty, and then he had another one that was a little slower. He had a fine curve, but just fair speed. But Griffith had plenty of gray matter, and he always used it to advantage when on the rubber. His change of pace was perfect and he usually had the bater who tried to figure what was coming standing on his head. During the Cleveland-Cincinnati series last fall I was discussing pitchers and batters with Griffith, I asked him what helped him most during his career as a twirler, and he instantly replied, "Making a study of the position the batter took at the plate was my very best asset as a twirler."

"All the great twirlers of the present day are men who make a study of the batter's feet," said Griffith, who had warmed up to the discussion. "No brainier pitcher ever lived than Mathewson, and that is one of the first things he does when the batter steps up to the plate. Some pitchers get it into their head that a curve ball is the only thing to use on a certain batter. Perhaps a curve ball is the batter's wtakness, provided he takes his regular position in the bater's box. All batters are not dummies, even if they are glaringly weak on a certain ball. They finally discover that certain pitchers never use anything but a curve on them.

"When these pitchers are working they hug the plate as closely as the umpire will allow them. Often they hit a curve ball hard, when standing in such a position, whereas had they asumed their regular stand they would have been made to look folish. The pitcher cannot understand the situation. He comes back to the bench insisting the batter is no longer weak on curve balls.

• • •

"Take pitchers like Mathewson and they are never so fooled. Say, in a game on Monday, Matty has made a certain player look foolish on his curve. Perhaps the player has been unfortunate enough to have fanned three or four times. The batter has come to the conclusion that Mathewson will never give him anything but a curve, so he decides the next time he faces Matty he will be prepared to hit such a ball. Mathewson is selected to work against the same club on Thursday. When this batter comes to the plate, Matty observes he hugs it closely. 'He is getting a toe-hold for my curve,' reflects the great twirler. 'I'll just fool him and skim his letters with a fast one.' Now this same player standing in his regular position just murders a fast ball.

"Hugging the plate, expecting the curve, he is unable to do anything with a fast one. He still hugs the plate and Matty sends over another one in the same spot. Both have been strikes. Matty notices at once he doesn't hug the plate so closely. He divines that he is getting ready to kill a fast one. He at once shifts to his curve or the fade-away. In all probability the batter has stepped back so far from the plate that he is unable to do anything with either delivery. The result is a strike-out, a pop fly or a weak grounder to the infield.

"Naturally the batter goes back to the bench disgusted with himself. He thought he had Matty figured after Monday's game, and intended to outguess him the very next time he faced him. Instead of being able to turn the trick, he discovered that Mathewson has again made him look foolish. Nine times out of ten he is up in the air over the sudden turn of affairs. He doesn't really know what to do the next time he goes to the plate. He decides to go back to his regular position in the box. Matty, of course, observes it at once and immediately he begins to dish up a diet of curve balls. Just as soon as the batter decides to hug the plate, and try to connect with one of the curves, Matty shifts back to the fast one.

"Of course, all twirlers do not have the uncanny control of the ball that Mathewson possesses, and cannot exercise the power he does over the batters. The great twirlers must have control and thus the really great twirlers always take into consideration the position the batter assumes at the plate."

Walter Johnson is unquestionably one of the greatest pitchers the game has ever produced. With a second division club Johnson has always been a hard man for even the leaders to beat. Johnson's speed is terrific and his curve ball a very good one. There are many pitchers who, if they had the smoke of Johnson, would be almost unbeatable. Never in my life have I seen Walter Johnson intentionally use the "bean ball." The "bean ball," as all dyed-in-the-wool fans know, is a ball delivered as close as possible to the batter's head without hitting him. There is really no desire on the part of any pitcher to hit the batter, for such a happening might result very seriously. He simply throws such a ball to intimidate the batter, drive him away from the plate, and make it next to impossible for him to hit a curve broken over the outside corner Such a ball is invariably used by the pitcher under such conditions.

Johnson as a rule has excellent control of the ball. He is seldom wild and often gets the ball in the groove, depending on the great amount of stuff he puts on it to keep the batter from hitting safely. There are any number of batters in the American league who take a toe-hold when hitting against Johnson, despite his terrific speed. They know he has good control and that he never intentionally resorts to the "bean ball." Thus they figure they can take a chance with him, a chance they would not take against many other pitchers in the American league who do not have as much stuff as Johnson.

Moran Will Fight.

New York, Jan. 6.—James Johnson, manager for Owen Moran, the English lightweight, received and accepted the proposal of James C. Coffroth, the San Francisco promoter, that Moran enter elimination bouts in California next month to find a suitable challenger for Ad Wolgast, the light weight champion. Coffroth proposes that "One Round" Hogan and Tommy Murphy enter the elimination contests, to be of twenty rounds each, to pick the best man of the three to challenge Wolgast.

AUTOMOBILES

MAY NOT RACE ON SPEEDWAY

Oldfield Will Not Be Allowed to Compete on Indianapolis Track.

Barney Is "in Bad" With Owners of the Famous Course.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—Although Barney Oldfield, formerly known as the world's speed king, may be reinstated in the good graces of the American Automobile association, and again he registered as a motor racing driver, he never will be allowed to drive upon the Indianapolis Motor speedway. This is the announcement of the management of the famous brick track following the publication of a report that Oldfield and Bob Burman, the present holder of the world's free-for-all straightaway, mile track and speedway records, would meet some time during the 1912 season in a match race at the Motor speedway.

Oldfield has incurred the displeasure of the owners of the track, through the methods which he adopted while he was hippodroming the country with a string of racing cars, and later by his attacks upon the various racing organizations and promoters in the country. For some time he has been allowing his former manager and press agent, "Bill" Pickens, to write newspaper articles under his signature, and the vitriolic attacks which these stories have made upon the American Automobile association and the Motor speedway have incensed the officials of both organizations.

While in Savannah recently attending the Vanderbilt and Grand prize races Oldfield gave out the statement that he desired reinstatement as a registered racing driver. He said further that he believed many were in favor if he would agree to cast off Pickens. This he promised to do and was told that his case would be considered by the contest board after the first of 1912. The matter has not been reopened, but probably will be at the time of the New York automobile show.

When the article announcing a probable match race between Oldfield and Burman was called to his attention, Carl G. Fisher, president of the company which owns the Indianapolis Motor speedway, said: "Such a race on the Motor speedway is impossible. We would not allow Oldfield upon the track, no matter when or how he is reinstated, as he has decried the racing sport ever since he was outlawed and his very attempt at reinstatement proves his insincerity and his questionable methods.

"In view of the fact that we are planning contests of real merit at the speedway and want the public to be with us, we can ill afford to allow any such race as is proposed by Oldfield to be staged here. I do not say this with an idea of underestimating Burman, for he has proved himself to be one of the best drivers in the motor racing sport. He has been a winner in many big events and, were he to be pitted against a man his equal, a match race between the two would prove interesting. The speedway is always open to Bob Burman."

The next event planned for the speedway is the second annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race to be run Decoration day, May 30, 1912. It is highly probable that a fall race meeting will be held on Labor day, Sept. 2. Four entries have been made for the first event, including Ralph De Palma in a Mercedes.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR MILL'S CAPACITY IS INCREASED

Concentrator Is to Have Capacity of 750 Tons Daily.

Operations to Be Resumed in the Robert Emmet Mine.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Butte & Superior company's new concentrator, on which work has been started, will have a capacity of 750 tons a day instead of 500 tons, as was originally intended. The company is now maintaining shipments of 500 tons a day, and with the ore blocked out, shipments of double that amount could easily be kept up for a long period, so it has been decided to make the mill capacity 750 tons. Some of the directors were in favor of making the capacity 1,000 tons a day, but President Wolvin opposed this, taking the view that if it should be found that the mill should have the greater capacity it could be increased later.

Robert Emmet Mine.

It is expected that early in February operations will be resumed in the Robert Emmet company mine, of which W. Q. Ranft of New York and Boston is president. An unusually heavy flow of water and a lack of the money necessary to carry on operations necessitated a suspension of work some time ago. President Ranft, in calling a meeting of the stockholders for Jan. 22, announces that all financial arrangements have been completed to discharge pending obligations, and that sufficient money is left over to meet operating expenses for some time to come. The shaft of the Robert Emmet is down to a depth of 500 feet, and it is intended to carry it down at least 200 more feet, and for that purpose a lot of new machinery has been ordered. At the time it was necessary to cease operations a fine body of ore had been encountered.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne's surface plant will not be in commission before the middle or later end of the month, as some delays have occurred which were not anticipated. The gallows frame and hoist are in position, but the cold weather has been responsible for some delay. President Hickey says that by Feb. 1 the company ought to be in a position to increase the output of the mine to 250 tons a day, which is nearly 150 tons more than is being shipped at the present time. A large amount of ore has been blocked out, and there will be no difficulty experienced in keeping up an increased production when it is once started.

Kelley Is Banqueted.

Vice President Cornelius F. Kelley of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, who returned from an extended trip to New York on Christmas eve after being elected as vice president and a director of the company to succeed A. P. Addicks, who died a few months ago, was the guest of honor at a banquet in the Silver Bow club a few nights ago. It was a gathering of representative men from various parts of the state assembled to do honor to a young man whose advancement in the past few years has been very rapid. Twenty years ago Mr. Kelley was a tool boy in the mines of the district and today he is vice president of the greatest mining company in the country. In the course of a speech Mr. Kelley said:

"It is my pleasure to say I believe as sincerely as I believe anything that Butte today is entering upon a career as prosperous as any in her history. I have heard it ever since I was a boy that the mines of Butte would ultimately play out, that we would have to seek some other place for fortune, or our career, and I want to say to you tonight that I believe and that I am justified in saying that while I am a young man I believe whatever of work there may be left in me, and that should be a great many years, that I seek no other end than to spend it here in the community in which I have lived so long and in which I hope to remain."

Basin Reduction Works.

A gentleman who has just returned from New York says that the redemption of the Basin Reduction Works property was made by Heinze money, although he says that it is just possible that the works may be sold to W. A. Clark. Another Butte man who has been in New York says that while it is true that the money required to redeem the property was paid in by interests close to Heinze, the money was supplied by Mr. Clark and that it is only a question of a short time when the announcement will be made of the formal transfer of the works. The Clark experts who inspected the works some time ago recommended the purchase at an agreed figure.

Morony's Retirement.

John G. Morony has formally announced his retirement as a director of the Amalgamated Copper company and also from various corporations and institutions with which he has been connected for some time. He is leaving the city for about a year and a half to seek needed rest from business cares. While devoting much of his time to the affairs of the Amalgamated Copper company and to the Daly Bank & Trust company of which he was president, he also took a very active part in the affairs of the Great Falls Power & Townsite company, and the present prosperous condition of that concern is very largely due to his efforts. In withdrawing from the various companies Mr. Morony refers to the unfavorable condition of the copper market for the past four years and says that he can see in the near future a return to that prosperity for the red metal which all have confidently wished for. He says that Butte is not only the best city in the West, but that for its size it is the best of its kind in the world. After a rest of eighteen months he expects to actively engage in the affairs of the interests in which he is interested.

East Butte.

The East Butte company in the course of a week or so will start the installation of the new blast furnace at the company smelter so as to be in a position to handle an additional quantity of ore if the market conditions continue to improve. At the present time there has been no decision as to increasing the output, but inasmuch as a very large amount of ore is blocked out, there will be little delay in bringing the copper production up to 1,500,000 pounds a month if the occasion requires it. The average last year per month was in the vicinity of 1,000,000 pounds and with an additional blast furnace the output could be increased quite easily to another half a million.

Drilling By Electricity.

Drilling in the mines by electricity has been proven practicable through the experiments carried on by the North Butte company, and the equipment of all drilling machines in the company's mine for operation by electricity is now in progress. While the officials are non-committal at present it seems to be understood that the Anaconda company will introduce the same system in the near future.

Increased Production.

B. B. Thayer's statement that the Anaconda company will increase the output of the mines of the company about the first of the coming month means that the Tramway, West Colusa, High Ore, and Mountain Con will hoist more ore and in addition to the Anaconda mine which has been closed down for nearly three years will resume operations. The increase will amount to about 3,000,000 pounds of copper a month and this can easily be done without any of the properties named coming up to their capacity. The Leonard mine has gone out of commission for the purpose of changing the engine for use in hoisting the ore by compressed air, and it is not believed that the changes can be made inside of two months and it may take longer.

New Zinc Ore Process.

It seems quite probable that W. A. Clark will introduce into this district a German process for treating zinc ore which so far as experiments with zinc ore from Clark's Elm Orlu mine are concerned have proved highly successful. A Butte man, who has inspected the German process while abroad says that the Butte zinc ore contains from 1 to 3 per cent iron, 2 to 4 per cent manganese carbonate, 1 to 2 per cent chalconyrate, 15 to 22 per cent sulphur, insoluble coaplex silicates and quartz constituting the gangue matter running as high as 56 per cent. The Butte man says that after some experiments the German who conducted them said that he did not see technical difficulties in treating the Butte ores and said that similar ores had been treated most successfully. With Butte ore containing a large percentage of complex silicates, a rough concentration will be necessary to remove a large part of the gangue. That can be accomplished without causing noticeable losses in the metallic content of the ore and ought to concentrate more than 90 per cent of the metallic compounds from ore containing 18 to 20 per cent zinc. The Butte product would assay about 30 per cent zinc and it would be an excellent material for the German process, the gangue remaining in the concentrates, with an addition of lime, crushed coal or coke breeze necessary for making the bricks, with the concentrates or crushed ore, would be sufficient as flux. The ore is also roasted to overcome the greater percentage of sulphur. Some further tests are to be made in the presence of a representative of Mr. Clark, and if they are successful the process will be introduced in this district.

CUYUNA NORTHERN BEING OPERATED

Road Tapping Cuyuna Range Built on Time—Mining Notes.

Deerwood, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Completed in record time on the date agreed upon, freight trains are now running on the Cuyuna Northern railway and delivering coal, timber, cement, steel and other supplies to the Adams mine on section 30, south of Deerwood.

Good progress is being made at the mine, where a village now clusters about the shaft.

The Cuyuna Iron company, of which Dr. R. J. Sewall of Crosby, J. T. Murphy and Archie McKay of Superior and C. W. Polson and E. A. Lamb of Deerwood and others are stockholders, held a meeting at Deerwood.

The Dakota Iron Mining company, in which many Dakota and Duluth people are interested, will hold a meeting Jan. 15 at the offices of Alford & Hunt, Duluth. E. A. Lamb is the manager of the company.

The Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company is now on its fourth hole in section 4, 46-29. Ore has been struck in each one of its holes, running from 150 to 200 feet in thickness.

May Drill in Brainerd.

A report is circulated that a shaft is about to be sunk on the sixteen acres of Ole Larson in Southeast Brainerd, well within the city limits, which have been drilled for some time. A test pit will be put down first. Charles A. Weyerhaeuser of Little Falls and John A. Bedlirn of Hibbing are at Crosby inspecting the work being done by the mining companies who have leased some of the Weyerhaeuser lands. Mr. Redfirn is the fee agent of the Weyerhaeuser interests. Louis Danielson, Longyear's well-known drill foreman, is sick at Deerwood with a bad attack of bronchitis.

GREENE-CANANEA'S FIRST DIVIDEND

Almost Million Charged Off in Two Years for Depreciation.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—The Boston News Bureau says: "Before the end of January, Greene-Cananea will probably have been placed on a dividend basis, through the declaration of an initial semi-annual disbursement of 25 cents a share. During the year, 1911, the Greene company produced its copper, after crediting gold and silver values, for between 9¾ and 10 cents per pound. The exact cost will not be determined for several months. The first half of the year witnessed the completion of the extensive program of new construction. In at least one of the first six months of 1911, the actual cost of laying down copper in New York was under 9 cents a pound.

Fuller benefits were received during the last half of the year from the huge outlay on the Greene plant, for the average cost of production for this period was about 9 cents a pound, with several months running below that figure. Approximately $300,000, representing actual construction during 1911, will be charged off to depreciation, making a total of almost $1,000,000 in two years. The present Greene management adopted the policy of charging off to depreciation against plant the exact amount expended in new construction. In 1910 there was so charged $680,000. There will probably soon be made some readjustments in Greene's accounting system, whereby the monthly cost of production will not vary so widely through fluctuations in precious metal yields, which have an important bearing on this item."

EXTENSION OF OPTIONS

Company Being Formed to Consolidate Properties Around Houghton.

Victoria Has Struck Richest Copper Ground Opened in Years.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local interests, presumably acting for the General Development company, have taken a further extension of time in the several options under which the South Side, Montezuma, Naumkeag and Dacotah properties are being held for consolidation. Formal announcement that a new company has been organized for this purpose will follow final arrangements in the matter of underwriting the stock of the new company. The properties lie in and west of the village of Houghton, and on the strike of the Quincy-Pewabic and Hancock lodes. Little or no exploratory work has been done in this acreage.

Victoria.

The Victoria is obtaining a most excellent showing of copper ground in the drift east on the twelfth level, and at a point about 1,400 feet east of the old No. 2 shaft. It is probably the richest copper ground opened here in years. The new shaft is down a little over 800 feet to a depth corresponding with the twelfth level in the older workings of the mine. A fair amount of copper is in evidence in the openings on the eleventh level aside from which there is nothing of any importance.

Adventure.

The Adventure is centering activity in the cross-cut on the 1,500-foot level which has for its object the intersection of the Adventure lodes Nos. 2 and 3. Both lodes yielded cores of excellently rich copper rock in a previous exploratory campaign. The No. 1 lode opened on the first level disclosed little of value in a rather limited area explored, and work there was accordingly stopped. The shaft is temporarily bottomed just below the 1,500-foot level.

Oneco.

The Oneco is nearing a depth of 1,200 feet in the shaft sunk on the Oneco lode, so-called, and which probably is an extension of the Isle Royale-Portage formation. Considerable fine copper was shown in drill borings at several points and in one or two underground openings. The deeper openings have shown the most persistent values as well as the richest ground, and the point for which the shaft is making is probably the most promising of all so that more than ordinary interest attaches with the beginning of operations at that depth.

New Arcadian.

The New Arcadian is giving full attention to exploratory work in the eastern limits of that acreage. Two diamond drill outfits are in service. The drill on section 21 next south of the New Baltic shaft is in broken ground underlying a sandstone capping, and temporarily idle. The other drill is in mineralized territory further south and in the probable horizon of the Baltic-Superior lodes. This hole is something over 700 feet deep and thus far without important developments.

Mass.

The Mass has practically completed repairs and betterments in the "B" shaft, and is now ready to double its output. The work on "C" shaft is progressing more slowly and will require several months to complete after which production will be regular. The new management has done wonders in the development of the property, in the creation of ground reserves and in the reconstruction of mill and shafts.

Mayflower.

The Mayflower has made a very rich strike of copper ground in the horizon of the St. Louis lode where a drill hole put down for exploratory purposes encountered an amygdaloidal bed 30 feet thick and carrying 17 feet of commercial ground including about 14 feet of exceptional richness. A second drill hole is being sunk at shallower depth for the purpose of ascertaining the strike and pitch of this lode and is to be followed by shaft sinking early in the spring.

SUMMIT PROPERTY IS TO BE WORKED

Turned Back to Former Owners, Who Will Begin Developments.

Miami, Ariz., Jan. 6—The Summit Development company has formally turned the property back to Sam Gibson and Tip Henderson, and they will begin development work and the shipping of ore to the El Paso smelter the first of the year. This property was formerly known as the Gibson mine, and over $1,250,000 worth of ore has been taken from it. The property consists of sixteen claims, and is twelve miles south of here. The equipment comprises two 250-horse power boilers, a 14 by 16 hoist, a six-drill air compressor, two 200-horse power water-tube boilers, thirty buildings, including a hospital and store, machine shop, boarding house and schoolhouse.

John K. Davis, Charles Davis and John Sikes have returned to their homes in El Paso. Mr. Davis has sold his property lying south of Sikes to the Inspiration Copper company for $25,000, and received the final payment.

MINING SUIT IS OF WIDE EFFECT

Would Compel Corporation to Operate Tract or Surrender It.

Norway, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Circuit Judge Richard C. Flannigan of the Menominee and Marquette iron range circuit, has taken under advisement a case, the outcome of which will have consequences of far-reaching effect in Upper Michigan. Andrew Young of Iron River is suing the Verona Mining company, controlled by Pickands, Mather & Co. of Cleveland, to compel the corporation either to operate or surrender an eighty-acre tract owned by him and held by the defendant under lease.

The land adjoins the Verona company's Baltic mine on the north. It was explored by the Verona interests eight years ago at a cost of $20,000, and while little ore was shown up it was decided to lease the property, for the reason that the ore in the Baltic mine apparently extended in that direction and there was seen to be a possibility that some day the deposit would be located in the Young acreage. The lease signed by Mr. Young provided for a royalty of 10 cents a ton for all ore mined and a minimum royalty or ground rental of $1,000 a year, the life of the contract to be fifty years. The company has since been paying each year the stipulated sum.

Development work in the field has been very active the past few years, as a result of which mines now exist on three sides of the Young tract, whereas when the property was leased the Baltic was the only mine in the locality. In all cases the royalties are materially higher than that stipulated in the contract now in dispute. Thus while other land owners are receiving a large income, Mr. Young is realizing only the $1,000 annual rental, a sum that he contends he could receive for each of the 80 acres were he in a position to sell the tract.

In the arguments of counsel for Mr. Young, it was maintained that the lease was merely a license, since it did not give the Verona company "exclusive" rights, and also that the intent of the respondent and the understanding of the complainant have not been fulfilled after seven years since have elapsed and the lease therefore has been violated and should be cancelled. The attorneys for the company contended that the lease was a contract entered into by Mr. Young with full knowledge of its provisions; that he was skeptical of the mineral value and was glad to get $1,00 a year; that the company had kept faith by exploring both from the Baltic and Fogarty mines; that a small body of ore was met in a hole drilled from the Fogarty; that the deposit was not sufficient in size to warrant sinking a shaft from the surface; that Mr. Young rejected a proposition to open the ore body from the Fogarty mine, and that the company has since been seeking a method of mining the deposit economically, but so far without success.

The litigation is important in that the outcome will affect many tracts held by Upper Michigan mining companies in similar manner. Should the case develop the ruling that a mining company which takes over a property for the purpose of extracting iron ore from it is not fulfilling its contract by simply paying the minimum royalty, it undoubtedly will result in the filing of numerous other suits to cancel leases.

OPTIONS TAKEN BY LEWISOHNS

Barney Company's Claims Adjoining the Live Oak Are Disposed of.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 6.—It is announced that the General Development company, a Lewisohn corporation, has taken an option on the claims of the Barney Copper company and will immediately begin churn drilling operations.

Detailed terms of the option will not be made public until after Mayor Coplen's return from the East but it is believed that the purchase price is $600,000.

The Barney group consists of twenty-six claims west and northwest of the Live Oak and adjoining that property.

Churn drilling by the Barney Copper company during the past year disclosed ore of a commercial grade.

The acquisition of the Barney group of claims by the Lewisohn interests is regarded as part of the general "forward movement" which has been going on in the Miami district for the past month. For, as is well known, the great Miami mine at Miami is controlled by the Lewisohns. The passing into strong hands of the Barney group is generally regarded by copper authorities as an indication that active operations will begin in that part of the Miami camp in the not far distant future.

INJECTING JUSTICE INTO DULUTH'S REAL ESTATE VALUATION—ASSESSOR SCOTT AND HIS WORK

THE CITY ASSESSOR AND HIS FORCE.

No effort is being spared to make the coming real estate assessment of Duluth complete in every particular.

All the preliminary work is being done in a business-like and thorough manner, and it is expected that not only will Duluth have a revaluation that will mean something, but that considerable property which has heretofore escaped taxation will be placed on the tax rolls.

J. A. Scott, city assessor, has reorganized the office and instituted a number of new policies which are proving of great value. They are proving so effective that there is little doubt but what they will be in use at least for a number of years and part of them, at least, will likely be permanent.

Among other things, and one which can be recognized as a fundamental business principle he has endeavored not only to secure competent men, but to keep them on the staff, giving them employment throughout the year and keeping them busy. In the past it was the custom to have as small an office force as possible at all times except when the actual work of taking the assessment was in progress. This made it necessary to hire a considerable number of new and inexperienced men. Unfamiliar with the duties and knowing little or nothing about property values, it could hardly be expected that they would make a good assessment. Consequently, the old figures which were on the books were frequently used. The men making the assessments often didn't know enough about their business to trust themselves to make a revaluation. Assessor Scott doesn't believe that this is good business. He has enlarged the force and has it on the job the year around. He has selected men who have had experience. Some of them have built many houses and others have had much practical training in building and real estate lines. They do not have to rush down one street and up another, turning in bunches of hasty figures in order to have the assessment completed in the time prescribed by law.

Every House Catalogued.

When May comes around every house and every lot in Duluth will have been catalogued. For many weeks several crews of men have been at work in the city taking actual measurements of all houses and buildings. On each of them they make a separate report, giving the dimensions, the age, the material of which it is built, the nature of the interior finish and any other information which will be useful in determining its value. In this way the true value of the property can be ascertained, if the owners complain, the records will be in the office of the assessor to show the reasons for the assessment.

The same is true of unimproved property. The topography of the lot or acres is listed. If the lot is at the bottom of a gulch or on top of a cliff the card system will so indicate. A man can't come into the office and complain that his assessment is outrageous because that of another man in the same block is much lower. If it is higher it will be because the property is worth more and the assessor will be able to show him why. Another lot in the same block may be listed much lower, but it will be because it is not as good as the other, and the cards will be available for instant reference.

It will be pretty hard to get around a system such as that. The facts will be on the books and cards and the result will be an assessment which will be just and equitable. The assessor is not trying to add thousands or millions of dollars to the total assessed valuation of the city. He is endeavoring, and quite successfully, to equalize it, so that each man will pay his just share of the taxes.

Total Will Be Higher.

But it is anticipated that the total will be considerably higher than in the past. A large quantity of property which was never before assessed will be put on the books. In many places valuable lots and buildings have been overlooked entirely. Others which should have been taxed appear to have been able to evade it. Thousands of dollars of property owned by railroads but not used for railroad purposes, will be required to contribute towards the support of the government, and properly so. In part of these cases the assessor has sought legal advice and feels certain that he will be able to make the assessments stand. In other cases there is absolutely no question but that the assessment would be upheld should any contest be instituted, which is not thought at all probable.

A large number of new additions have been placed on the market, and they will add a big amount to the city's assessed valuation. And in most of the city the values of property have increased in the last two or three years, part of which information is obtained from the records of actual sales which have been made and is in the possession of the assessor.

In connection with other work, Assessor Scott has had made the most complete maps of the city ever issued. They show practically every division and lot. They are considered of great value and real estate men and others have been asking for them since they learned of them. At the last council meeting the assessor was authorized to sell them at 50 cents each. The charge is merely to cover the expense of getting out the blueprints.

MINISTERING TO BROKEN FAMILIES

Work of the New York Domestic Relations Court—Making Wife Desertion Unsafe—Pitiable Tales of Abandoned Wives.

By JAMES P. HEATON.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

Is there a little row in a family in your neighborhood? It would be, of course, impolitic to ask if there is a tiny rift in your own marital flute. The answer in New York, Chicago and Washington is not a trip to Reno, but a trip to the domestic relations court when though the time for arbitration seems long past.

The New York domestic relations court, which was established fifteen months ago, has taken its place as an accepted permanent institution of the metropolis of the Empire state. This tribunal performs an important work which in scope differs somewhat even from that of the similar courts in Chicago and Washington. In New York there are two of these courts of conciliation, one for the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx and one in Brooklyn.

The domestic relations court is primarily a poor man's court. The judges are chosen for their tact, patience and understanding of the frailties of men and women. They try to settle every case that comes before them without recourse to formal legal action.

But perhaps it should be said that the domestic relations court is the poor woman's tribunal, for almost always the complainants are women or the agents of charitable societies interested in deserted or otherwise wronged women and children. This is because men are not usually financially dependent upon their wives, and even if deserted, they are seldom exposed to such hardships as women. Then, too, the court cannot grant divorces. It simply smoothes over difficulties, punishes abandoning husbands and by simply paying the minimum royalty, it undoubtedly will result in the filing of numerous other suits to cancel leases. advises separation if that seems to be the best course. In such cases it decides how much the man must give weekly for his wife and children.

When a woman comes to this court, the judge listens to her story, and if the whole matter is not trivial and he believes that there is need for official action on his part, he issues a summons which requests the husband to be present on a certain day. If he will not come willingly, a warrant is made out for his arrest. At the trial the woman is put on the witness stand, and after being sworn, tells of her grievances without interruption. Then the magistrate questions her kindly to bring out all the pertinent facts, if the corporation counsel is not there to take her part. The defendant also is questioned in the same way.

If the case is flagrant, the man may be sentenced to the workhouse for six months. Many women urge this penalty for their husbands, but sending a man to prison in New York does not furnish his wife and children with bread, butter and money for an impatient landlord. For this reason many social workers urge that the state pay a prisoner for the work he does, and that then the money due him be given to his family.

More often the court decrees that a man earning $9 or $10 a week must give $5.50 or $4 for the benefit of his family. The husband is paroled either to one of the probation officers of the court or to the department of charities through which the sum which the judge orders is to be given to the family is paid.

The judges waste no time, are not commonly deceived by plays of sympathy, and often phrase their decisions in a fatherly kind of "blowing up" that is usually not without effect. Occasionally a judge forgets himself a little. An under-sized defendant came in who earned $8 a week and wouldn't pay anything to support his children, although he had signed an agreement extracted by a charitable society to do so. Asked if he could not live on $5 a week and give $3 to his children, he shrugged his shoulders, apparently uninterested in the question. The judge gave a "piece of his mind" to that father, saying, "Get out of here and pay that money regularly, or I will 'tend to you. You've got to support your children—you've simply got to, and I'll see that you do, too." Whereupon the defendant lost his nonchalant attitude and departed impressed with the fact that the court was in earnest.

Many of the cases brought by Jewish women are hard to handle, for often the wife was deserted in Europe. A man living in Warsaw emigrates to this country to win his fortune. Owing to lack of money, he leaves his wife behind until he can send for her. After two or three letters she loses all trace of him. Finally she follows him to New York, only to discover sometimes that he has married again. The Old World wife has, of course, the first claim upon the man, and yet the second wife, if she married him in good faith, makes it impossible to render equal justice to all and her innocent children suffer. Next to the Jews, the Italians and Slavs provide most cases in the domestic relations court, though the negro colonies, for their size, furnish a great many.

Usually the people who come for the help of the court, if abandoned, would become public charges, so the state, to protect itself from this financial burden, provides counsel for complainants. In New York failure to support a wife is a misdemeanor, the maximum penalty for which is six months in the workhouse. The domestic relations court, by specializing on this subject, is expected to lead to reforms that will make for a more complete and just system of domestic relations jurisprudence. The court itself today is a boon. Any woman can go to it, tell the clerk her troubles, and in a few minutes, if there is any case at all, repeat her story from the witness chair. All the proceedings against recreant husbands are without cost to the complainants. Formerly the most effective recourse open to women if wronged was an appeal to the supreme court for a divorce or separation decree, but this new tribunal gives relief in cases where the old remedies were impossible for financial and other reasons, without long and expensive delays, by forcing husbands to support their families.

The New York court, by specializing upon the arraignment of persons described as disorderly all persons compelled by law to support poor relatives and all persons charged with abandonment or non-support, is able to keep up with its docket. The fact that the two courts are worked to the limit indicates that there is need in large communities for agencies to bring husbands and wives together who often are about to separate owing to trifling difficulties. That we have not adopted sooner and more widely such a system of courts similar in methods to the conciliatory courts of France, through which all domestic difficulties pass before any serious divorce, abandonment or non-support case can enter the courts proper, is a commentary on the American policy of laissez-faire in a matter that makes for the happiness and welfare of women and children.

Written For The Herald By E. J. Edwards ("Holland.")

(Copyright, 1912, by E. J. Edwards.)

The negotiation of a new treaty with Russia to supersede the treaty of 1832 which was abrogated by our government a few weeks ago, will doubtless be one of the most interesting diplomatic affairs of the next year or two, and the men who conduct that negotiation, whoever they may be and whatever other claims to remembrance they may have, will doubtless have a permanent place in history. Among the names most certain to be recorded in the annals of the nations are those of the treaty makers.

Many of the men who helped to make historic treaties in which the United States has been a party during the past few decades are dead, but there is nevertheless a considerable group of Americans living today whose claims to permanent fame include important services as treaty makers.

One of these men is Dr. James B. Angell, who resigned two years ago from the presidency of the University of Michigan after thirty-eight years of service in that position. Dr. Angell ranks as one of the great educators of the nineteenth century; it may well be believed that by his work in building up the University of Michigan and by his leadership in educational work in a large section of this country during many years he has earned a lasting fame; but to the future historian he will be notable, it is pretty safe to say, chiefly because he is the man who negotiated the first treaty excluding Chinese coolie labor from this country.

JUDGE GEORGE GRAY.

Diplomatic Dr. Angell.

It is a fact that seems to be pretty well recognized by statesmen that a really great college president necessarily has in combination not only the qualities of a scholar and a business man, but also those of a diplomatist. Indeed, this fact has been so well recognized by the chief executives of the nation in recent years that half a dozen at least of our leading college presidents could have had ambassadorships if they had cared to accept appointment.

It is undoubtedly true that Dr. Angell owed much of his success as head of the University of Michigan to his talent for diplomacy. In the early days of his college presidency he had much occasion to use that talent. In carrying out his plans for making the university a great state institution, Dr. Angell was thrown in contact with politicains legislators and persons of many descriptions, who all had to be won or overcome by the exercise of tact and persuasion or the force of public opinion. During those years he was often a storm center, and encountered frequent opposition; yet such was his diplomacy that when he won, as generally he did eventually, his victories left no sting with his opponents.

One of the characteristic features of Dr. Angell's diplomacy was its reserve. He was sometimes attacked for not taking sides, and no doubt it was often exasperating to energetic enthusiasts to have their efforts to enlist him for or against a proposition meet with a perfectly neutral though courteous reception. It has been said by those who have known him well that when he wished to be non-committal he could be so to perfection—that at such times his face assumed a bland expression that was perfectly inscrutable. But if he was often non-committal, it was because of no constitutional reluctance to take sides, but simply because he did not believe that the right time to join issue had come. He had an instinctive sense of the right time and occasion, and when he felt that the right time and occasion had come, no one could be more positive than he.

The Chinese Exclusion Treaty.

It was because of these qualities which he had shown unmistakably in the first ten years of his presidency of Michigan university that he was chosen by President Hayes to undertake the delicate mission of inducing China to ratify a treaty that would virtually exclude the Chinese from this country.

In the early '70s the question of Chinese immigration became a burning issue; the influx of Chinese had become so considerable that the gravest fears were entertained of their supplanting the white race in the western part of the country. Congress appointed a commission, headed by Senator Oliver P. Morton of Indiana, to conduct an investigation, and that commission reported in favor of restraining by treaty the immigration of Chinese. Senator Morton did not share the views of the majority of the commission, but he died before its report was completed.

In 1877 congress passed a law excluding Chinese from this country. The act raised a great outcry, as it was taken as a direct violation of the Burlingame treaty of 1868. That treaty, which had been negotiated with Secretary of State Seward at Washington by the brilliant young Yankee diplomatist, Anson Burlingame, acting in behalf of the Chinese government, guaranteed the privileges of residence and travel in this country to the Chinese on the most favored nation basis. President Hayes, on the ground that it violated treaty rights, vetoed the exclusion act but at the same time expressed the opinion that the existing treaty ought to be modified, and that China, if approached in the proper spirit, could be prevailed upon to consent to a modification.

That was the situation when Dr. Angell, in the latter part of the Hayes administration, was appointed special commissioner to go to Pekin and negotiate for a new treaty. Associated with Dr. Angell were John T. Swift of California and W. H. Trescott.

The Chinese government received the commission in a friendly spirit, and the negotiations proceeded rapidly. Within two months after he reached Pekin, Dr. Angell had signed with the representatives of the Chinese government a treaty which excluded Chinese labor from this country. By way of concession, he negotiated a commercial treaty which prohibited Americans from engaging in the opium trade in China. The Chinese then as now felt very strongly on the question of the opium traffic, and they apparently regarded this commercial treaty as well worth the price they paid in yielding on the immigration question. On the other hand, the concession regarding the opium traffic was one that the United States was quite willing to make; and so Dr. Angell attained the object of his mission without sacrificing anything of real moment.

This signal success gave Dr. Angell, who up to the time of his appointment on the commission had been known only as an educator, a great reputation as a diplomat. He might have made diplomacy a career thereafter if he had chosen so to do. He accepted an appointment as minister to Turkey in 1897, but resigned after holding the post only a year. He served previous to that as a member of the Anglo-American commission on Canadian fisheries and as chairman of the Canadian-American commission on deep waterways from the lakes to the sea.

Richard Olney as a Treaty Maker.

Richard Olney, who was secretary of state in President Cleveland's second administration is chiefly associated, perhaps, in the minds of most persons with that vigorous assertion of the Monroe doctrine in reference to the Venezuelan matter that seemed for a time to have brought us to the verge of war with England; yet Mr. Olney is the man who negotiated the agreement that outlined the method by which one of the most troublesome of the controversies that we have had with England in recent times—that over the Alaska boundary—was settled.

Not long after Mr. Cleveland had sent to congress his famous message on the Venezuelan matter, a large number of advocates of arbitration held a meeting in Washington to urge the government of the United States to make an arbitration treaty with Great Britain. Partly as a result of that meeting, negotiations were soon begun by Mr. Olney and Sir Julian (afterwards Lord) Pauncefote, the British ambassador at Washington. They agreed that most international differences could be referred to a neutral judge for decision, but that there were some questions that the nations would not consent to refer to a third party. Among the second class of questions they put disputes over territory. The settlement of such matters they thought should be referred to an international commission of six members, three from each of the nations concerned. A convention or treaty embodying these points of agreement was drawn up and signed by them.

That treaty failed of ratification by the senate by a close vote. Seven years later, however, President Roosevelt and Secretary of State John Hay succeeded in bringing about the settlement of the Alaska boundary by precisely the method that had been indicated in the Paunceforte-Olney convention. The dispute was referred to a commission of six members, three Englishmen and three Americans. The English members were Baron Alverstone, Lord chief justice of England; Sir Louis A. Jette, lieutenant governor of Quebec, and A. B. Aylesworth, Esq., of Toronto. The American members were Elihu Root, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator George Turner of Washington. The commission met in London.

The alaska boundary question became acute only after the discovery of gold in the territory. The questions the commission was called upon to decide involved the possession of the islands in Portland channel and the location of the mainland boundary line from the channel to Mount St. Elias. The commission decided against the American claim to the two larger islands, but in favor of that to the two smaller ones, and held the mainland boundary to run so that the British were excluded from the sea from Portland channel to Mount St. Elias.

Although the commission was a court of arbitration and decided only questions of fact, it lacked something of the certainty and finality which are invested in such tribunals. There was a possibility, owing to the even number of judges, that the commission might be deadlocked and unable to render a decision, while owing to the fact that there was no neutral member—that is, one from a disinterested party—it was necessary for the commission to reach a decision that one member at least should vote against the claims of his own country. As a matter of fact, only Lord Alvertstone and the three American members of the commission signed the decision on which the settlement of the dispute was based.

The Yankee Who Shaped the Boxer Treaty.

The treaty made by the great powers with China in settlement of the Boxer troubles will have unquestionably an important place in the history of the present century. No man had greater influence in the negotiations leading up to that settlement than William W. Rockhill, who in September, 1901, signed the final protocol in behalf of the United States.

Mr. Rockhill had had a long and varied experience as a diplomatist when he was sent as special commissioner to China in the troubious Boxer times. He had held various diplomatic posts in the Far East, had served as minister to Greece, Roumania and Servia, had been assistant secretary of state and was then acting as director of the international bureau of American republics. Besides all that, he had conducted two scientific expeditions in China and Tibet for the Smithsonian institution. He is a distinguished Orientalist, and is the author of many works on Oriental subjects.

In February, 1901, Mr. Rockhill was appointed plenipotentiary of the United States to the congress of Pekin. Throughout the negotiations, which continued the greater part of the year, his influence was exerted to restrain radical measures. He was largely instrumental in checking wholesale executions after the suppression of the Boxer uprising, but his most important contribution to the final result was insistence that the allies should not demand from China an indemnity larger than China would be able to pay in cash. His views prevailed. Estimates of the amount of money that China could raise were submitted to the congress by experts, and the demands of the allies were kept within that amount. Thus the territorial integrity of the empire was guarded.

During President Roosevelt's second administration Mr. Rockhill was minister to China. He was appointed ambassador to Russia by President Taft in June, 1909, and retired from that post last year, to become minister to Turkey.

A Yankee Treaty Maker for China.

A distinguished maker of treaties is Former Secretary of State John W. Foster of Washington, D. C., who is today one of the leading authorities on international law and the history of diplomacy. Mr. Foster has not only negotiated many treaties in behalf of the United States, but has acted in one notable instance in treaty-making between foreign powers.

Mr. Foster had been engaged nearly ten years in diplomatic service, first as minister to Mexico and then as minister to Russia, when he settled in Washington in 1881 to practice international law. He became very prominent as an advocate representing foreign countries before commissions and arbitration boards, and during the ten years following he made a very wide circle of friends among the representatives of many foreign governments. It was because he was decidedly persona grata to many foreign countries, as well as a diplomatist of tried skill, that he was selected by President Harrison and Secretary of State Blaine in 1891 to act as plenipotentiary to negotiate many of the reciprocity treaties that were at that time proposed.

Among the countries with which Mr. Foster negotiated treaties on this special mission were Germany, Spain, Brazil and the British West Indies. It was partly because of his great success in this diplomatic undertaking that when Mr. Blaine resigned from President Harrison's cabinet, Mr. Foster was appointed secretary of state.

During his practice of international law in Washington in the eighties of the last century, Mr. Foster won to a degree unequaled probably by any other American citizen the confidence and friendship of the Chinese governing class. As a result of this, he had the distinction of being invited by the emperor of China to participate in behalf of China in the negotiations for the termination of the war between that country and Japan. He accepted the invitation, and was largely instrumental in drawing up the treaty of peace.

John Barrett, who for the past five years has been head of the International Bureau of American Republics at Washington, must be mentioned among the negotiators of treaties.

Mr. Barrett began his diplomatic career as United States minister to Siam in 1894, when he was 28 years of age. While occupying that post he negotiated a treaty by which a dispute involving claims of $3,000,000 was settled by arbitration. He has gone on several special diplomatic missions to the Far East, and has served as American minister to a number of South American republics.

Our Treaty Makers With Spain.

Of the five members of the commission that acted in behalf of the United States in the negotiations leading up to the treaty of Paris by which our war with Spain was terminated, three are living today—namely, Justice of the United States Supreme Court William R. Day, who was chairman of the American commision; Whitelaw Reid, and Judge George Gray of Delaware. Senator Cushman K. Davis died in 1900, while the death of Senator William P. Frye occurred during the past year.

The ratification of that treaty marked the beginning of a new era in the history of this country, for with it the United States became a colonial power, governing dependencies. Aside from the cession of the island empire of Spain to the United States, the most interesting feature of the treaty was the provision for the payment of the sum of $20,000,000 by the United Staetes to Spain. This provision was made entirely on the initiative of the American commissioners, and was not asked for or suggested by the representatives of Spain.

The proceeding here was very similar to that taken by the United States after the Mexican war, when a payment of $15,000,000 was made to Mexico in payment for lands of which we were virtually in possession. Because of the payment of that indemnity, the school children of Mexico have been taught to regard their country as the victor in the contest with the United States. The payment to Spain was technically a compensation for the alienation of crown lands.

Judge Day, who headed the American peace commission, was secretary of state during the war with Spain, but retired from the office when he undertook the conduct of the peace negotiations. Mr. Reid had already won distinction as a diplomat when he was appointed a member of the commission. Judge Gray has long been known as one of the leading jurists of this country, and has been a candidate for the presidency. For a dozen years he has been a member of the permanent arbitration tribunal of the The Hague.

Secretary of State Philander C. Knox as the negotiator of the new arbitration treaties between this country and England and France, which were signed last year, will have a place in diplomatic history. These treaties, which recognize all questions, even those involving national honor, as arbitrable, mark a long step toward the settlement of international disputes without recourse to force.

The successes of American diplomacy in the Far East make it rather interesting to recall the names of the Americans who first negotiated treaties with China and Japan. Com. Perry in 1854 made the first treaty with Japan. Four years later, Townsend Harris of New York, who was consul at Shimoda, negotiated a treaty that served for forty years as the basis of Japan's relations with foreign countries. Caleb Cushing, at Macoa, in 1844, negotiated the treaty that initiated diplomatic intercourse between this country and China. It is an amusing fact that Mr. Cushing was referred to by President Tyler in his letter to the Chinese emperor accrediting the American plenipotiary as "Count" Cushing.

The duchess of Albany is said to be responsible for the popularity of rowing among English women. She arises early each morning and drives in her trap from her home at Claremont-Esher to Hampton Court bridge, where she rows one measured mile on the Thames. The duchess is the widow of the first duke of Albany, who died in 1864, two years after their marriage.

THE GROSS EARNINGS TAX IN DANGER.

Monday the supreme court of the United States will take up a case of vast importance to Minnesota, in which the express companies doing business in this state attack the state law taxing their gross earnings, on the ground that it is a taxation of interstate commerce and therefore unconstitutional.

If the gross earnings tax on express companies is unconstitutional on that ground, then the gross earnings tax on railroads is also unconstitutional on the same ground. That the supreme court will so hold is a consummation devoutly to be wished. The gross earnings tax system is an injustice to the whole state because under it the railroads always have escaped with an unjustly small share of the tax burden, and it is an injustice to many parts of the state because the proceeds all go into the state treasury, so that communities having no railroad property to provide fire and police protection for get as much benefit from the tax as communities that are put to great expense to care for railroad property but get not a cent of taxes for so doing.

In a Texas case the supreme court has already held that the gross earnings system imposes a tax on interstate commerce, and that it is therefore invalid.

The railroad gross earnings tax is admittedly and specifically a tax on interstate commerce. The state will claim that it is merely used as a measure of taxation of railroad property within the state; to which the supreme court can reply: if it will, that the real and only measure of the taxation of railroad property within the state is the VALUE of that property; which is, after all, the only just and completely practical method of measuring any tax on tangible property.

The law under which the Minnesota railroads are taxed 4 per cent on their gross earnings in lieu of all other taxes and assessments contains the provision that the tax shall apply to "all earnings on business beginning and ending within the state, and a proportion, based upon the proportion of the mileage within the state to the entire mileage on which the business is done, of earnings on all INTERSTATE business passing THROUGH, INTO or OUT of the state."

A shipment of goods is made from Bismarck, N. D., to Eau Claire, Wis. It is routed over the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroads, via St. Paul, where the transfer is made. It is strictly an interstate transaction, and Minnesota's only relation to it is that it passes through its territory. Yet Minnesota taxes the freight receipts from that shipment, or a proportion of the receipts based upon the proportion of the number of miles it traveled in Minnesota to the total mileage. Of course that is a tax on interstate commerce. So is it a tax on interstate commerce to tax the Minnesota mileage of a shipment from Duluth to Grand Forks, or of one from Grand Forks to Duluth; yet the gross earnings tax law specifically provides for the taxation of the earnings from such business.

The railroads never have raised this point. They never will raise it until the gross earnings tax rate is increased to a point where they believe it makes them pay more taxes than they would have to pay under the ad valorem system.

In point of fact, Minnesota has the gross earnings tax system because railroad lobbyists put it into the statutes; and that the rilroads want to keep on that basis is shown by the fact that they put into the state Constitution the provision that railroad taxes shall never be changed except by vote of the people.

If the supreme court holds that a gross earnings tax on interstate business is unconstitutional, then the Minnesota railroad tax system falls to the ground. And it is to be hoped that this will happen. Railroad taxation will then revert to the ad valorem system, under which all property pays taxes according to its value. The valuations will have to be arranged by the tax commission; but in the meantime it will be necessary to call the legislature in extra session to prepare the machinery for the new system of railroad taxation.

THE ALDRICH PLAN AND WALL STREET.

The Aldrich currency and banking plan will go to congress Tuesday from the monetary commission, which reports in favor of it after extended investigation.

In the description of the plan provided by the Associated Press its friends declare that it is fully safeguarded against control by the large financial interests which center in Wall Street. It is to be hoped that that is so; because that is the main thing people want to know about.

No words need be wasted in arguing the need of banking and currency reform. That need is so glaring that it speaks for itself. The present system has never failed to break down under any sort of test. It is worse than a failure in guarding against panic. It is a positive breeder of panic and insecurity.

Bankers seem pretty generally satisfied with the plan. Not all of them are, but most of them. They are examining it, of course, largely from their own viewpoint. Really, that viewpoint ought to be the public's viewpoint; because the prosperity of banks depend upon the prosperity of the people.

Bankers, who are best fitted to judge of this plan, have a high public duty to perform in considering it. It is not enough for them to be satisfied that it is good for them. As the public must in a large measure rely upon their advice, they must study also to be sure that it is good for the people. They should consider it, therefore, not merely as bankers engaged in private business for personal profit, but as servants of the public owing a duty to the public which they should honorably perform.

So far as the organization of the proposed central reserve association is concerned, banks located in New York will have no power through their own direct influence to control it. They will have less than 10 per cent of the total representation in the central association, though they have 30 per cent of the country's banking capital. The South, with 10 per cent of the banking capital, will control 23 per cent of the representation. New England, with 12 per cent of the banking capital, will have 8 per cent of the control. The Middle West, with 25 per cent of the capital, will have 30 per cent of the control, while the Far West and Pacific coast, with 13 per cent of the banking capital, will have about 25 per cent of the control.

The banks representing the "money power," cannot, as such, therefore, control the association. The one point left to make clear, then, is whether these banks, or the financial interests they represent, can gain further power through their influence with the banks of the rest of the country, particularly those in the financial centers outside of New York.

The monetary commission reports that it has been unable to devise any provision which cannot be evaded against ownership of banks by banks. President Taft in his message to congress said that such merging of banks ought to be forbidden; and certainly it should. If it is not forbidden, there seems nothing to prevent the "money trust," if there is such a thing, from gaining direct or indirect control of enough banks to give it control of the reserve association with its tremendous store of deposits, including every dollar of the government's money. It would be a big task, but the stake would make it worth their while.

The monetary commission couldn't devise a law forbidding a bank to hold stock in other banks. Maybe congress can. Certainly it should if it can, because this provision seems vitally essential.

PATERNALISTIC? WHAT OF IT?

The other day The Herald told how France helps its peasants and workingmen by lending them money at a very low rate of interest for homebuilding.

It was admitted, in that connection, that this French practice under the "law Ribot" is paternalistic. But so is the postoffice, the public schools, the pure food laws, regulation of railroads and everything else, outside of mere police duty and the collection of taxes, which government does for the benefit of all its people.

By the way, did you know that among the constitutional amendments to be voted upon by the people of Minnesota next fall is one authorizing the lending of money out of the rich state school fund on improved farm lands?

Now, the school funds can be loaned only for public uses. If the amendment is ratified by the people they can be loaned for private uses. That's paternalistic, too; and it won't begin to do the good that such a law as that French one would do.

But though this proposition went through the Minnesota legislature without creating much stir, we can't help thinking what a turmoil it would have created if it had been a proposal to lend state money on favorable terms to help workingmen build homes.

You see most of the workingmen live in the cities, and the farmers live in the country. The Minnesota legislature is dominated by the agricultural interests—except when the agricultural interest goes to sleep and lets the System of special interests control it. That may have something to do with the fact that a proposal to lend state money on farms goes through without a protest, while a proposal to lend state money to workingmen anxious to build homes for themselves wasn't considered at all.

A GOOD MAN TO KEEP.

The Associated Charities is to be congratulated on the fact that it has been able to induce its secretary and executive officer, Courtenay Dinwiddie, to decline the attractive offer he had to go elsewhere, and that he will stay in Duluth. Mr. Dinwiddie was selected as secretary of the local Associated Charities after prolonged search for the right man; and his work since he came has completely justified the choice made by the association. It is not easy to find a man who can strike the right balance between the red tape which tends to confuse and defeat such work, and the cry of the needy, in which is mingled often the whine of the undeserving; and Mr. Dinwiddie has struck that balance in Duluth.

THE LUCKLESS CAB HORSE.

Has the cab horse no friends?

A citizen of Duluth who had occasion to be out late last night states that she saw cab horses standing on Superior street, face to the bitter wind and covered with single blankets, about 9 o'clock, and that when she passed that way again after midnight apparently the same horses were standing in exactly the same position, though the thermometer then was sinking toward the bottom of the tube and an icy blast was lashing them with its bitter cold.

That sort of thing ought not to be permitted. If drivers or owners will suffer it, the police ought to step in.

THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

"I want to help the poor, but I don't like organized charity methods, so I don't care to contribute to the Associated Charities." So said a Duluth man, who is generous, well-to-do and well-meaning, when he was appealed to yesterday to respond to that organization's call for help in caring for the poor during the winter.

What creates whatever hostility there is to organized charity—there isn't nearly so much as there was and there will be still less as time goes on—probably is the fact that the Associated Charities has other aims than merely to give money or food or clothing or fuel to those who ask for it.

Its aims, briefly and informally stated, are as follows:

First, to give temporary relief to the deserving needy.

Second, to be sure that the deserving needy are not deprived through the absorption of a part of the available charity by the undeserving.

Third and most important, to put the poor on their feet and make them self-supporting and self-respecting as rapidly as may be.

Indiscriminate charity, flowing from countless public, semi-public and private sources, besides relieving need does these wrong things:

Lacking means of ascertaining the really deserving and of knowing what others are doing, it overlooks many of the most deserving and by overlapping sometimes heaps a surplus upon some who, though insistent, are not deserving.

Lacking any aim but the praiseworthy one of relieving those who are in distress, it often pauperizes its beneficiaries by making their dependence upon charity permanent. Charity is hateful to most people, no matter how great their gred. But when it is once accepted, it is easier to accept it a second time. From that acceptance to a positive demand for it is an easy step; from that to habitual reliance upon it instead of upon one's own efforts is another short and easy step. The charitably inclined whose generosity has brought this about have done great harm.

To turn a dependent upon charity into a self-respecting and self-supporting citizen is a splendid thing.

To turn an unfortunate, temporarily dependent upon the bounty of others, into a habitual suppliant for charity is a wrong to the individual and a wrong to society.

Indiscriminate private charity very often does this wrong. Organized, scientific charity aims, besides relieving need, to safeguard the poor and the public against the evils of making paupers through misguided generosity.

The Duluth Associated Charities is doing good work. It deserves your moral and financial support. The money that you wish to give to charity should be used under its supervision. If you have discovered cases that you believe to be deserving you should take its advice. It is always willing to investigate and to determine whether aid is needed and deserved and what form it should take.

A NEW MUCKRAKING SHEET.

New York Sun: Thousands of men today forsake the weed and adopt the principles of the Hon. Robert Reed. Most of them will defend their conduct on the ground of impaired health, flattened pocketbooks or the necessity of exercising their will power. These are despicable evasions. The real cause of their abstention from the use of nicotine will be the practically universal prevalence of those destroyers of wrappers and poisoners of good tobacco, the cigar bands of commerce. An enlightened cigar man who could reform the trade in this respect would deprive the paving department of a celebrated place of final resort of a considerable part of its raw material.

What's this? Can our ears deceive us? The New York Sun turned muckraker and reformer? Wonders will never cease. Standpatism stands horrified, progressivism open-mouthed in awe and fear. The Sun as muckraker and reformer is the first stupendous event of 1912.

But the Sun lays itself open to the charge of inconsistency, and for the sake of the eternal fitness of things we trust it will withdraw its anti-cigar band crusade.

Cigar bands are. Therefore they are right.

Cigar bands have been. Therefore they must always be.

Shall the wisdom of the fathers be thus scorned and rejected by its staunchest champion and defender? Cigar bands are an Institution. We don't recollect that they are touched upon by the Constitution, but we are quite clear that the proposal to do away with them is unconstitutional. Unless the manufacturers of cigar bands have been overlooked in the appointment of judges, we have the utmost confidence that if the Sun's wicked and destructive and socialistic crusade is subjected to the test of the courts it will be declared abhorrent to the sacred principles of the Constitution, in which the wisdom and foresight of the fathers are embalmed forevermore.

What though the cigar band is a nuisance? It is, and therefore it must be right; and the right must and shall be maintained.

What though the cigar band is located at the exact point on the cigar where the pleasure of smoking it is greatest? It is, and therefore it must be right; and the right shall ever be guarded and preserved.

What though, when the eager smoker seeks to prolong his pleasure by removing the band, it brings the wrapper with it and spoils his smoke? The cigar band is, and therefore it must always be.

What though, when the baffled smoker has his pleasure thus interrupted, he is exceeding wroth, and his wrothness tempts to profanity, and the profanity destroys his soul? The cigar band is, and therefore it always must prevail.

Whatever is, is right. The Sun must never forget that. Whatever is, must always be. The Sun must not neglect its own teachings. Those who proclaim the existence of evil are muckrakers, and therefore vile. Those who propose reforms are disturbers and destroyers, and therefore wicked and fit only for utter destruction.

Long live the cigar band, the Institution which sacred custom makes inviolable and eternal!

Is it necessary, further, to remind the Sun that the manufacturers of cigar bands have vested rights which it is Soialism and Bobbery and Anarchism to assail? We trust not. Thus confronted with the iniquity of its revolutionary proposals, we expect to see it penitent and shamed.

COMMISSION PLAN IN OPERATION—16.

Topeka, Kan., only took up the commission plan of city government two years ago. But party politics have been banished from city business. For the first time a local railroad company has been forced to make street repairs when relaying its tracks. Formerly, under a political government, the city was kind enough to attend to this. When the finance commissioner found himself unable to dispose of a large issue of bonds to his satisfaction through brokers, he sold the entire issue to residents of Topeka by private correspondence, making the best sale the city ever had made.

Isn't it possible that a plan of city government that would in so short a time work these improvements in Topeka might do something for Duluth?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WEST DULUTH LAND PRICES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I was amused in reading the article in your paper dated Jan. 3.

You say the city is being held up when Kingsbury creek owners of land are asking $1,000 per acre, up to $2,000. Over twenty years ago land was sold at $1,000 per acre adjoining the Fairmont Park and nothing in sight to commend such property. The old Thomson road was the only outlet. With the present outlook how much is the land within the vicinity, with the steel plant building and Fairmont Park being extended, worth?

JOSEPH CROZE.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 11.

THE NEW RULE IN OREGON.

Kansas City Times: The fact that self interest governs the actions of every one of us, Jonathan Bourne, Jr., believes, is the best possible guarantee of the success of government by the initiative, the referendum and the recall. For the people, Mr. Bourne points out in an article in the Atlantic Monthly, will vote for what will be to their own benefit, and they are the best judges of their own self-interest.

Mr. Bourne replies to an attack made by Representative Samuel W. McCall, who doubts the wisdom and efficacy of the "new rule." McCall cited the action of the people of Oregon in the matter of the Columbia river salmon fisheries as an argument against the initiative. Two opposing interests, the fish wheel operators and the gill net fishermen, introduced bills, each of which made the methods used by the other unlawful. The voters adopted both measures and fishing was at an end. But only temporarily, Mr. Bourne adds. The legislature then passed a bill which permits fishing within reasonable regulations, a law which the friends of conservation had been trying for years to obtain. Thus the initiative, by working a temporary hardship, accomplished a great good.

Replying to another question of McCall's, Mr. Bourne says:

"I deny unequivocally that in effect or in substance we in Oregon have abandoned representative government. Let us consider the facts. At the last general election the people of Oregon voted upon thirty-two measures, eleven were constitutional amendments, of which four were adopted and seven rejected. Of the twenty-one bills submitted to the people only five were enacted and sixteen rejected. The result of the direct vote was nine measures adopted. The Oregon legislature held a 40-day session last January, considering 275 bills, and 235 resolutions or memorials. Two hundred and seventy-five of the bills were enacted. Evidently the extent of substitution of direct legislation is indicated by the ratio of 9 to 275. This is not exactly 'abandonment' of the representative system.

"It is frequently asserted," he continues, "that the voter in Oregon is required to pass upon thirty-two measures in the few minutes he occupies the booth on election day. Such is not the case. He has several weeks in which to determine how he will vote and merely takes a few minutes in which to mark his ballot."

The recall has been severely attacked as working a hardship on public officials. Certainlyy that has not been its effect in Oregon, Mr. Bourne says.

"The man or men," he writes, "who attack an officer under the recall must pay the expense of their campaign. The man in office has not only the advantage of his official record, the prestige of his office, the desire of the American voter to give every incumbent of an office a square deal, but he has the further very material advantage of payment of his campaign expenses out of the public treasury. Any officer who is unable to make out a case in his own defense with all these advantages is very probably a fit subject for recall proceedings.

"An individual has no personal right to public office," he declares, "though some few who under delegated government have bought their offices may think they have. The office belongs to the people and they are entitled to have it filled by whomever they please."

The Blind Men and the Elephant.

It was six men of Indostan,
To learning much inclined,
Who went to see the Elephant,
(Though all of them were blind,)
That each by observation
Might easily satisfy his mind.

The First approached the Elephant
And, happening to fall
Against his broad and sturdy side,
At once began to bawl:
"God bless me! But the Elephant
Is very like a wall!"

The Second, feeling of the tusk,
Cried: "Ho! what have we here
So very round and smooth and sharp?
To me 'tis might clear
This wonder of an Elephant
Is very like a spear?"

The Third approached the animal,
And happening to take
The squirming trunk within his hands,
Thus boldly up and spake:
"I see," quoth he, "the Elephant
Is very like a snake!"

The Fourth reached out his eager hand,
And felt about the knee.
"What most this wondrous beast is like
Is very plain," quoth he,
"'Tis clear enough the Elephant
Is very like a tree!"

The Fifth who chanced to touch the ear,
Said: "E'en the blindest man
Can tell what this resembles most.
Deny the fact who can.
This marvel of an Elephant
Is very like a fan!"

The Sixth no sooner had begun
About the beast to grope
Than seizing on the swinging tail
That fell within his scope,
"I see," quoth he, "the Elephant
Is very like a rope!"

And so these men of Indostan
Disputed loud and long,
Each in his own opinion
Exceeding stiff and strong,
Though each was partly in the right
And all were in the wrong!

—John G. Saxe.

Preparation for the Ministry.

Danville Messenger: The Louisville Courier-Journal says five of that city's ministers were formerly newspaper men. Then they certainly have a good insight on the sinfulness and shortcomings of many of their flocks—a condition many ministers do not have a chance to become acquainted with. The newspaper man, by his everyday dealings with a community and having to rub against the people in their "work-day" occupations, becomes acquainted with many an old skinflint who, when in presence of his minister, is ready for wings.

Some Gems of Oratory.

Chicago News: Vienna, Austria—Here are some gems of oratory from the late session of the Austrian parliament:

"I have already said all I wish to say and therefore willingly withdraw all I might still say."

"I cannot longer keep silent without saying some words."

"Locomotive engineers stand with one foot in crime and with the other gnaw the rags of hunger."

"A funeral procession always has something mournful about it, especially when the decedent was a human being."

"If I am a parliamentary deputy I am still human."

THE STATE AND THE RAILROADS

Minnesota Not Alone Interested.

St. Cloud Times: Governor Eberhart is not particularly in favor of having the special committee of the house of governors appear before the United States supreme court in behalf of the Minnesota rate case when it comes up this month, according to a statement attributed to him by the New York Times. In fact the governor thinks that Minnesota is amply able to take care of its own affairs and is well represented legally. It is difficult to understand why Governor Eberhart should object to other states, which are equally interested, appearing at the hearing. We presume President Hill of the Great Northern agrees with the governor, as the special committee from the house of governors cannot fail to make a strong impression upon the court.

It has been arranged for the special committee of the governors, headed by Governor Harmon of Ohio, to appear before the supreme court and urge upon it the rights of the states to regulate purely intrastate traffic and fix rates to suit themselves as against the ruling of the United States circuit court that state-made rates are illegal if they directly interfere with the interstate schedules. Certainly such an appearance will add to the importance of the case, and impress the court with the fact that all the states, not Minnesota alone, are interested.

Fails to Make Impression.

Nashwauk Herald: Very few people acquainted with the tactics of the Duluth News Tribune, and who have any idea of the source from which most of its editorials emanate, will be influenced by the argument of that paper against an increase in the gross earnings tax of the railways because of the fact that the range railroads have not restored the 3-cent fare; that they are the only ones in the state maintaining the 2-cent rate and that Duluth is a direct beneficiary. According to the theory of Eberhart's Duluth mouthpiece as long as these roads are giving their patrons a 2-cent rate, and the Iron Range road has placed its land holdings on the tax rolls, just as other property holders are compelled to do, the other railroads which enter Duluth should be allowed to continue the robber policy they have followed ever since the Sanborn decision was rendered.

Certainly No Discrimination.

Brown's Valley Tribune: The "land show" was held in St. Paul the past ten days. Of course the dates for this show were not fixed with a view of attracting people from the rural sections to do their Christmas shopping in the Twin Cities, and country merchants must not permit any such mercenary thoughts to enter their minds. The railroad fare of 1½ cents per mile to the "land show" also happened to be limited to expire just before Christmas so that the people from the rural communities of the state would find it convenient to return to their homes after attending the "land show" and doing their Christmas shopping in the big cities, and make a new start if they desired to go to the Twin Cities or elsewhere to spend the holidays at the old home, and of course pay the regular fare of 3 cents per mile. To be sure these conditions just naturally happen as a portion of a year's current events, and rural merchants who buy their supplies of Twin City wholesalers, and pay the railroads thousands and thousands of dollars, are very narrow minded, indeed, if they even hint that there was ever any thought of discrimination against anybody or in favor of anybody.

The Railroad Way.

Luverne Journal: The old saw about it's only costing you so much to get into the show, "how much more to get out," was well illustrated in Minnesota during the land show. If you happened to be going to St. Paul or Minneapolis you could travel for 2 cents a mile, but if you were coming out of the Twin Cities or traveling anywhere else in the state, it cost you 3 cents a mile.

The Lobby was Scared.

Buffalo Journal: The railroad lobby was badly frightened over the possibility of Gordon assuming the office of governor during the absence of Eberhart and calling an extra session of the legislature. The state tax commission has found that the railroads do not pay taxes on as high a valuation of property as the rest of us, and recommended that the gross earnings tax rate be raised. It is now 4 per cent, and 5 per cent has been proposed as at least more equitable. True, the agitation was largely the result of the arbitrary raise in the freight and passenger rates following the Sanborn decision, but if we are not taxing the railroads as much in proportion as other property holders it is very certain that delay will leave in the railroad treasury a great many hundred thousand dollars which could be used to raise the salaries of state officers and for the creation of more new offices. But the lobby has the special session put to sleep.

Everybody Wonders.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: Only a few days more before the railroad rate cases will be brought up for trial. Wonder if they will really overrule Judge Sanborn's decision and make the railroads be just and go back to the 2-cent fare and the old freight rates?

Reprisal in Order.

St. Peter Herald: Three-cent fares were restored by the railroads as a means of reprisal. But for real reprising just watch the people during the next twelve or fifteen months.

Convenient.

Baltimore Evening Sun: "I don't know a greater convenience than having a drug store next to your home."

"Neither do I. It's mighty handy when you need a pair of apothecary scales to check up the weight of your coal."

Liar.

Syracuse Post-Standard: In order that, in any verbal or written speeches he may hereafter make dealing with those publicists with whom he is in controversy, there may be a clear understanding of his meaning, Col. Roosevelt has given to the public his definition of the short and ugly word, which he has found so useful in the past and which he fears he will have frequent occasion to use in the castigation of his enemies in the future.

"A liar," says the colonel, "is not necessarily a man who merely tells an untruth. A liar is a man who deliberately invents and circulates a falsehood."

With some timidity we hazard the suggestion that the colonel has not improved upon Noah Webster, who had quite a reputation in his day as a definer. In his book, a liar is defined as one "who knowingly utters falsehood." That sufficiently indicates the meaning of the word for general usage.

When the colonel uses it we confess we have always assumed that it had a peculiar meaning and not the meaning the colonel and Noah gave it. A liar, in the Rooseveltian sense, is one who disagrees with Mr. Roosevelt.

A Woman Senator.

New York World: A campaign of education is under way in Colorado for the purpose of bringing about the election of Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker to the United States senate. Mrs. Decker is not unkown in politics. She has aided in almost every recent reform movement in her state and has been a leader in some of the most important. To her more than to any single person is attributed the triumph in Colorado of the suffrage movement. She was a strong supporter of Judge Lindsey when he made his fight as an independent against the combined opposition of the old party bosses.

While the suggestion of a woman to fill the office of senator sounds strangely, in this case the candidate presents higher credentials of worth and of public service than any advanced for Senator Guggenheim.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Resolutions Marred and Mended.

About now the jokesmiths reproduce their trusty line of cracks on the subject of New Year's resolutions. We get used to the subject from year to year. There is little variation in treatment. The experience of the man who swore off on Jan. 1 only to swear on again on Jan. 8 is depicted with infinite jest. The poor fellow who dared to turn over a new leaf is given the space of seven days in which to return to thumbing the old pages. We are advised that the attempt to brace up is foredoomed to failure, and that only the very young will attempt it.

Listen now to the other side. I do not know what shallow-pated bungler first gave expression to the sentiment, "Hell is paved with good intentions," but whoever it was that said it, he uttered an untruth. Of whatever else the inferno is constructed it is not built of purposes to do right. Good intentions never yet landed a man in hell. He reaches that bitter estate, if at all, in spite of his good intentions and against their influence and power.

The very first step toward doing right is to resolve to do right. Action of any kind is preceded by resolution. I cannot extend my arm till I resolve to do so. I should die of starvation unless I first made up my mind to go to dinner. The will must be called into play before anything is accomplished. As a man thinketh in his heart so will he be eventually in outward practice.

As for me, I feel like applauding the countless host who have started the new year with fresh resolves. Men are going to master this bad habit or quit that indulgence. Women are determined to begin some study, cultivate some friendship or take up some neglected duty. In short these earnest people are planning to make more of themselves this year than last. Is it not a splendid spectacle, this great multitude who have felt the call of a higher life and who, in these opening weeks of 1912, have responded to that call!

Now many of these fine resolutions will be broken. Some will be smashed into inch bits before the year is many days old. The man who was going to get along without bottled stimulants finds himself a very frail individual indeed. The woman who was going to keep tabs on her temper flies completely off the handle on the second or third provocation. Then they say, "What's the good of all these resolvings and what do they accomplish? The cynic and the funny paragrapher have got it right about us. We are fools to try to change the inevitable."

Now is the time to remember that, as one swallow does not make a summer, one moral repulse does not mean rout and defeat. You would be an extraordinary mortal indeed if you could reverse the whole of human experience by jumping at once into sainthood. Bear in mind that

Heaven is not reached by a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to the summit round by round.

The will has got to be practised in righteousness just as the physical muscles are exercised in a gymnasium. If we break a resolution the first thing to do is to make another one. Set the same ideal before you again and at once, without too much time taken out for crying. I have seen a hunter put at the bars four or five times in succession and balk each time, only to clear the obstacle finally. After that it was easy for horse and rider. It is just so with those mortal tasks that every earnest person will undertake. If we want to arrive at last we must simply keep trying. The year has splendid victory in store for every man who, when he falls, refuses to stay down and who will not faint nor be discouraged.

THE PARSON.

The Republicans Did It.

Collier's: An analysis of the vote by which the pension bill was passed shows that the Democrats, while very seriously at fault, are less responsible than the Republicans, contrary to the public impression:

	For.	Against.	Present.	Not Voting.
Democrats	102	84	6	37
Republicans	127	8	—	25

Of those against the bill, 84 were Democrats—only 8 Republicans. The truth is even more favorable to the Democrats than appears from this; for the total number of Republicans in the house is 159, while the total number of Democrats is 230; that is to say:

89 per cent of the Republicans voted for the bill.
44 per cent of the Democrats voted for the bill.

More Southern Democrats would have voted against the bill and the Democrats, as a party, would have opposed it more vigorously but for a motive which is to the credit of their sensitiveness, if not of their courage. This was expressed by Fitzgerald of Brooklyn:

The time has arrived, in my opinion, when the men of the South are no longer justified in sitting silent when legislation of this kind is passed..... because of a patriotic desire not to appear as sectional or biased against Union soldiers.....

In fact, when Dies of Texas made a speech against the bill, a dozen Republican orators were prompt with sneers and slurs, openly and by innuendo, to charge him with sectional motives.

The Boarding of the Pilgrims.

The gnashing teeth bit hard
On a firm rib-bound roast,
And the boarders 'gainst a table scarred
The leaden biscuit tossed.

And they frowned with inward storm
As they scanned the dishes o'er,
And recognized in a chowdered form
The things they'd seen before.

Not as the conqueror comes,
Stirred by the drum beat's roll,
They came at the yearn of empty tums
And the tea bell's timely toll.

There were men with hoary hair
Amidst that hungry group,
Why had they come to wither there
And mumble o'er their soup?

There was woman's hungry eye
Seeking an extra roll;
There was manhood's brow serenely high,
Guarding the sugar bowl.

What sought those reaching arms?
Fat pickings 'mid the dearth?
The wealth of seas the spoil of farms?
They craved their money's worth.

Save here a stain of broth,
And there a gravy trace,
They left a barren crumbless cloth
Within that boarding place.

Advice to Writers.

Chicago Tribune: "In writing, be as clear as the noonday."

The speaker, David Belasco, was giving a New York journalist advice on the construction of plays.

"Always, in writing, bear in mind," he said, "that you must make yourself perfectly intelligible to Mary Jane.

"Mary Jane?" said the journalist.

"Mary Jane," Mr. Belasco smiled, "who returned unduly early from a Christmas week matinee.

"'Why, Mary Jane,' cried her mistress, 'you didn't stay till the end, did you?'

"'No'm,' said Mary Jane. 'The program said acts three and four were the same as act one and I didn't care about seein' that all over again.'"

One of the Mysteries.

Washington Star: "The railroad business is pretty complicated."

"Yes," replied the traveling man. "I don't suppose I ever will be able to understand why two towns that look so close together on a railway map get so far apart when they come to measure up the distance with a mileage book."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

The wedding of George Gordon and Miss Ella Church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Church and niece of B. C. Church, will take place this evening. Mr. Gordon is from Seattle, Wash., which will be their future home.

THE OLD CAMPAIGNER

By SAVOYARD.

Thought written in the decline of his marvelous genius, Sir Walter Scott's "Woodstock" is one of the most entertaining of his historical novels and unsurpassed as a pen picture of the Cromwellian era in English story. We all remember the episode the "Wizard of the North" made delightful when Charles II held desgarty state in Brussels, all unconscious that Monk had regained the crown for him that his father had lost in the war of successful rebellion.

Suddenly there burst on Charles, Clarendon, Buckingham, Wilmot and the others who were loyal to that cause, so long lost, Roger Wildrake of Squattlesea-mere, Lincoln, gloriously drunk. He staggered to the head of the table, seized the king's hand, which he fumbled as though it were a chunk of gingerbread, and managed to deliver himself of this oration:

"I bring good news, glorious news! —the king shall enjoy his own again! My fears are beautiful on the mountains. Gad, I have lived with Presbyterians till I have caught their language—but we are all one man's children now, all your majesty's poor children. The Rump is ruined in London—bonfires flaming, music playing, rumps roasting, healths drinking, London in a blaze of light from the Strand to Rotherhithe, tankards clattering. * * * Certainly, your majesty, did I not hear the bells? Did I not see the bonfires? Did I not drink your majesty's health so often that my legs would scarcely carry me to the wharf?"

A feeling akin to that swept over old Kentucky last November when James B. McCreary was elected governor of the old commonwealth by a majority reckoned at some 35,000, which equaled his majority for the same office against the greatest Kentuckian who ever acted with the Republican party, thirty-six years and three months earlier. It is fitting round to a career that has been extraordinary. If with his talent, tact, energy, industry and temperament there had been combined the genius and eloquence of his kinsman of Daviess county, who spelled the name differently, James B. McCreary would have been greater than Clay or Breckinridge.

He is a happily constituted man. To the most approved courage, as serene in action as it is sedate in repose, he adds a prudence never off guard. He never made a tactical mistake; he was never guilty of an imprudence. As a member of a cabinet of an American president he would be the safest counselor; and it would be a wise administration ever, a brilliant administration never. James B. McCreary was a member of the national house of representatives five terms, in four of which he held a seat on the majority side. It has always been a wonder to those who have studied the man that he was not speaker of that body. No such presiding officer as Carlisle or Blaine, we may be sure, there would have been—no reckless legislation by a body over which he held the sway that a speaker of the American congress exercised in those days. Like the Scotch deacon, the father of Baillie Nicol Jarvie, McCreary never put his hand out so far that he could not draw it back again. That was what made him a good governor before and what will make him a good governor again.

Scotch-Irish to the marrow, the present governor of Kentucky was born in 1838, and was of the famous class of '57 graduating from old Center college at Danville, when that institution was presided over by John C. Young, who was unsurpassed as a trainer of youth in the entire history of the Anglo-Saxon race. That class has in its membership Thomas M. Green, William C. P. Breckinridge, Joseph C. S. Blackburn, Boyd Winchester, John C. Young, Jr., and others of their calibre whom I do not readily recall. What do you think of a man who, in more or less rivalry with these, got more civic honors than any one of them? There must be something great in such a character. Such honors in our republic do not come by chance. Nobody ever got a great place in our country without struggling for it, making it captive of his bow and spear.

In that theater, the arena of American politics, each one is the son of Hagar and his hand against every man, and every man's hand against him. It is emphatically the survival o fthe fittest. Everyone must make progress inch by inch and politically speaking, or rather metaphorically, to attain his goal one must get his assent to be, if need be, parricide and fratricide. To gain his point in debate he must be ready to crush friend as well as enemy. That is what makes faction in parties, and it is the bane of representative republican government.

• • •

Two years after McCreary was graduated from college he became a voter. That year he was admitted to the bar and he was practicing his profession with gratifying results when the war between the sections came on to be fought. Of a soldier race—Scotch-Irish—it was inevitable that he would participate in the strife. He was one of "Morgan's Men," and when the surrender came he was lieutenant colonel of as brave a regiment as participated in that tremendous struggle. He returned to his home, Richmond, Madison county, and there are soil and clime made by nature when in most prodigal mood. Let any other state match the land and scene on the pike from Richmond to Lexington that can.

And at Richmond this young Confederate soldier sat himself down and opened a law office. He was a marked man. He was made for public life. He was a born politician, for he was one of the people. He was a kindly man at heart. He was a suave man in demanor. There were no rough corners about him. He ten thousand times preferred to be a friend rather than an enemy. Not afraid to fight, he loved peace and was an exemplar of good will. There was a sincere look in the eye, and a sincere clasp of the hand that commanded friends. He was born for success, for place, for civic honors.

• • •

And succeed he did. To the legislature he was bound to go. Re-election was certain and the speakership was inevitable. Then he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. That was in 1876. The writer of this was for Stoddard Johnston for several reasons, chiefest that he was of our cloth that write for the newspapers. As I now recollect, the "favorite" was "old Cerro Gordo" Williams, and the field McCreary, Johnston, and Hodge—all former Confederate soldiers. There came a quarrel between Williams and Johnston, more or less personal and all too bitter.

The convention was held at Frankfort and was very exciting. After a tremendous contest McCreary got the nomination over old "Cerro Gordo" by the narrowest of margins. It was a tribute to the sagacity of the man. He would not take sides in that faction fight and the party turned to him instinctively. It made no mistake. He was the captain for the venture.

In 1868 at the August election John W. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, was elected governor to fill out the unexpired term of John L. Helm and his majority was about 100,000. That was before the adoption of the Fifteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution. A few months later Horatio Seymour carried the state for president over Gen. Grant by even a greater majority. In 1871, after the Fifteenth amendment became a part of the Constitution of the United States, Preston H. Leslie was the Democratic nominee for governor, and John M. Harlan was his Republican competitor. Harlan was "the bloody old bruiser" of the stump. He was simply terrific with his magnificent presence, his charming voice, his knowledge of the subject and his marvelous accuracy of statement. What he did in joint debate to our old friend Leslie was a-plenty and Leslie "fled the realm"—that is, he later spoke by himself.

And now Harlan was nominated against McCreary, principally, perhaps, to promote the candidacy of Ben Bristow for the Republican nomination for president. When Gen. Jackson's administration was assailed in congress by Clay, Calhoun, and Webster, the president said: "There's Benton—he'll labor against them like an ox," and he did, ultimately overthrowing them. And so McCreary labored with Harlan.

And that is the way McCreary met the splendid stump oatrory of John M. Harlan in 1875. The writer of this heard them twice that campaign—at Edmonton and at Mumfordville. At Edmonton we all felt that Harlan got the better of our man, who had valued the stock of the state in certain turnpike companies rather high. Harlan told an anecdote about it rather unprintable that set his crowd afire and they were more than 50 per cent of the audience. But our man took his punishment like the bulldog that he was and ever will be—not a whimper.

• • •

The following Monday it was "court day" in Hart county, and the two champions met at Mumfordville. The writer of this was there. Harlan spoke first and asserted that the Democratic party of Kentucky lived off "the nigger." When McCreary came to answer him he was magnificent. The crowd was on his side, and you ought to have heard him as he turned to Harlan, and, pointing the accusing finger, exclaimed:

"Your party was born crying 'Nigger.' Had there been no nigger there would not have been a Republican party. Thomas Jefferson was the father of our party, the most consummate political sage our race has produced in all the tides of time. Your party has for daddy the nigger, as you call him. Have you pride of ancestry, have you glory in race?"

The crowd went wild. I never saw such a triumph, and I'll bet John Harlan never said the word "nigger" in another debate that campaign. McCreary stuck to him closer than a brother. Pluck is the word that defines him.

• • •

Perhaps it is necessary for me to be frank enough to say that I was for Ben Johnson for governor in 1911. I told Governor McCreary I was for Johnson; but while I am sorry Johnson was not chosen I am glad that McCreary was elected and gratified that his majority was as great as of yore.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

THE MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CHALLENGE OF OUR TIMES. By Henry Churchill King, president of Oberlin college. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.50 net.

A more intelligent, comprehensive and suggestive review of the tendencies of our times and their inner meaning it would be hard to find. The book is based, to a large degree, upon the proposition that the guiding principle in human development is reverence for personality. And that means no deified individualism, either; for that sort of deity usually proves devil. It means This is true of powerful nations in their relations with smaller ones, as well as of powerful individuals in their relations with weaker ones.

"The principle of reverence for personality is the ruling principle in ethics and in religion: it constitutes, therefore, the truest and highest test of either an individual or a civilization; it has been, even unconsciously, the guiding and determining principle in all human progress; and in its religious interpretation it is, indeed, the one faith that keeps meaning and value in life. * * * The principle of reverence for personality is certainly a fundamental and inescapable moral principle."

Again: "The supreme test of individual or nation or civilization is this test of reverence for the person as such, our own or others. And reverence for the person involves, first, self-respect; second, a like genuine respect for the liberty of others; and, third, respect for the inner worth and personality of others." Interpreted in terms of democracy, we take it, this confirms the democratic rule that society, through government, should guarantee to each individual the right to the fullest possible development of his personality, uncramped by unnecessary poverty caused by the monopoly of opportunity by a crafty few.

"No man can keep a genuine self-respect while he is seeking to degrade others. * * * Nor is it possible to keep one's own character without fundamental respect for the liberty of others."

Follows a keen, penetrating analysis of progress and its meaning to humanity. Mechanical and economic developments have given humanity vast power. Is it fitted yet to wield such power? "Are education and religion steadily disciplining men for tasks so tremendous, and against temptations so insidious?" He points the need of defeating unscrupulous wealth and of securing better distribution of wealth, and the equal necessity of defeating a "materialistic, unscrupulous democracy that would empty life of all its higher meaning."

Among the tendencies strongly marked in the world he notes the increasing democratic trend. As to Socialism and Nihilism he says: "They rightly demand from the rest of us at least a like world-wide vision and a like spirit of devotion and self-sacrifice. They call, not less, for some sympathetic understanding of the ideals for which these movements intend to stand and so for some understanding of what, in the last analysis, they really mean. It is vain simply to decry their ideals and methods. It is our business rather to show how better to meet the really worthy ends—so far as there are such—that these movements seek and at the same time to avoid the danger of rejection, by unthinking, materialistic masses of men, of the inner life of culture and of religion."

Turning from the consideration of external conditions to the new inner thought, he finds here, again, a significant trend and pregnant changes, paralleling in a large degree the change in external conditions. Revolution is going on in all lines of thought, and the time is one of marvelous interest and tremendous promise for the future. All these vastly important affairs are discussed with remarkable clarity and cohesion. The book tempts frequently to quotation, but lack of space forbids more of it. No man or woman exists who will not be better grounded in his appreciation of pending problems and impending changes through a reading of this book, which is clear, sane, kindly and wise, and inspired by a lofty ideal.

HUTCHINSON'S HANDBOOK OF HEALTH. By Woods Hutchinson, A. M., M. D. Boston: Houghton-Mifflin Company. $1.25 net.

Says the author: "Attempt has been made to write a little handbook of practical instruction for the running of the human automobile, with just enough description of its machinery to enable the beginner to fuel it, run it and make roadside repairs." He has succeeded wonderfully well, we should say. He has written a clear, vivid, easily understood account of the mechanism of the human automobile that will enable anybody to understand it. The only way you can learn to operate an automobile is to know how it runs, the why of every part, and the relation of the parts to each other and to their several functions. It's the same with the bodily machine.

Dr. Hutchinson points out that if we "cheerfully and actively do those things which make for health and efficiency * * * such as play in the open air, three or four square meals a day of real food, nine or ten hours of sleep, plenty of fresh air and cool water, inside and out, and above all a certain amount of regular and congenial work—this will of itself carry us safely past the openings of all the forbidden paths without even needing to look at the 'Don't' and 'Must not' signs." This is a sane program that will appeal to most people much more than the more conventional one all made up of "Don't" and "Must not," and it will probably be much more efficient, too.

He demolishes blandly a number of widely held notions, such as that too much protein in the food loads the system up with wastes that are poisonous and difficult of elimination. He recommends plenty of sleep and plenty of good, sound food. He gives a simple and easily understood description of all the processes of the bodily machinery that should enable anybody who will to take such care of it as to keep at its maximum of efficiency. The book includes an extraordinarily valuable discussion of foods.

Some sentences from it may be of interest:

"Starchy foods, like bread, biscuits, crackers, cake and pastry, are really the only ones which require such thorough and elaborate chewing as we sometimes hear urged."

"As digestion is largely getting the food dissolved in water, the drinking of moderate quantities of water or other liquids at meals—not iced—is not only not harmful, but rather a help in the process."

"The only real and permanent cure of constipation is thorough exercise in the open air, sleep and proper ventilation of sleeping rooms, with an abundance of nourishing food including plenty of green vegetables and fresh fruit."

"Spoiled or tainted food is responsible for most serious disturbances in the stomach, and not either the amount or kind of food."

"Both animal and vegetable foods are wholesome in their proper place, and their proper place is on the table together."

"Soups, broths and beef teas are about 98 per cent water. They have little or no nutritive or fuel value. Their food value has been greatly exaggerated, and many an unfortunate invalid has litterally starved on them."

"The old idea that, when burned up in the body, the meat proteins give rise to waste products which are either more poisonous or more difficult to get rid of than those of vegetable foods is now regarded as having no sufficient foundation."

"Dyspeptics who live on brown bread or so-called health foods are simply feeding their dyspepsia."

"Those who attempt to cure dyspepsia by a nut diet are simply making permanent their disease."

"Food that you don't get tired of is usually food that is good for you."

"Two-thirds of the treatment that would cure you of consumption would prevent your ever having it."

IN THE PENNYRILE OF OLD KENTUCKY AND MEN, THINGS AND EVENTS. By Savoyard.

The thousands of people who have read in the columns of The Herald the entertaining articles by Savoyard, the nom du plume adopted by Col. E. W. Newman of Washington, D. C., one of the oldes and most noted political writers at the national capital, will be pleased to learn that he has embodied in book form a large collection of his writings. The book is really two books in one, the first being devoted to interesting sketches of life and scenes and well known characters in the Pennyrile of Old Kentucky written in the inimitable style of Savoyard, who was born and reared in Kentucky and writes "at first hand" of the incidents of which he tells. The second book deals with "men, things and events," and here are found charming reminiscences of some of the noted public men. Of course, Savoyard is intensely Southern in his feelings. All his readers know that. But he is so earnest in his defense of the Southland and so lavish in his praise of the men and women of the South, that one is compelled to admire his enthusiasm, even if not agreeing altogther with his arguments.

Of Books and Writers.

There are many clever portraits of notable people in Mrs. Burton Harrison's "Recollections, Grave and Gay," (Scribners.) Here for instance is one of Jefferson Davis.

"He might be seen daily walking through the capitol square from his residence to the executive office in the morning, not to return until late in the afternoon; or riding just before nightfall to visit one or another of the encampments near the city. He was tall, erect, slender, and of a dignified and soldierly bearing, with clear-cut and high-bred features, and of a demeanor of stately courtesy to all. He was clad always in Confederate gray cloth, and wore a soft felt hat with wide brim. Afoot, his step was brisk and firm; in the saddle he rode admirably and with a martial aspect. His early life had been spent in the military academy at West Point and upon the then northwestern frontier in the Black Hawk war, and he afterward greatly distinguished himself at Monterey and Buena Vista in Mexico; at the time when we knew him everything in his appearance and manner was suggestive of military training. He was reported to feel quite out of place in the office of president, with executive and administrative duties, in the midst of such a war; Gen. Lee always spoke of him as the best of military advisers; his own inclination was to be with the army, and at the first tidings of the sound of a gun, anywhere within reach of Richmond, he was in the saddle and off for the spot—to the dismay of his staff officers, who never knew at what hour of the night or of the next day they should get back to bed or to a meal."

Seven hundred and eighty-four letters have been received by the Bobbs-Merrill company, congratulating them on the publication of "The Lockerbie Book," the little volume in which all of James Whitcomb Riley's non-dialect verses have been collected. Many people who have admired Mr. Riley's poems in normal English find that this handsome volume fills a long-felt want. Mr. Riley's recent statement that he could never write another poem, unless he should learn to write with his left hand, makes this last book all the more appealing. "When She Was About Sixteen," one of Mr. Riley's "homespun epics," which has been beautifully illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy, is also proving a great favorite.

Hamlin Garland, whose new novel, "Victor Olinee's Discipline," has just been published, by The Harpers, has become secretary of the Chicago Theater society, and at the recent dinner of the Society of American Dramatists and Composers he declared that our drama is "an utter disgrace to our country." In this harsh verdict Mr. Garland is supported to a certain extent by another well known author, Arnold Bennett, whose growing popularity in this country gives his words a similar weight. Mr. Bennett is said to have remarked that "everything connected with the stage in America—the theaters, plays, scenery, arrangement of the house, etc.," is below the highest London standard. Mr. Bennett is a friendly critic, and his impressions soon to be published in Harper's Magazine, are expected not to resemble those of Dickens.

Ellis Parker Butler the humorist, whose "Adventures of a Suburbanite" was published recently by Doubleday, Page & Co., obtained a glimpse into the daily lives of men in prison when he received a communication from a man in the house of correction in one of the New England states. The prisoner after explaining that he was serving a term of three and a half years and that he had greatly enjoyed reading Mr. Butler's "Pigs is Pigs," said, "Every noon in the dining hall, after eating, I read some story to the rest of the men (over 100 of them) until it is time for us to go back to work."

Among the Magazines.

The first number of the new volume of the Forum opens with a clever story "A Honeymoon Christmas" by Marian Cox. Darrell Figgis contributes an unusual appreciation of J. M. Synge, which will be read with special interest in view of the recent controversy over the Irish Payers. Peter McArthur explains "The Science of Political Corruption," pointing out that it is the honest partisan who makes possible the corrupt "swinging" of elections by no more than 2 per cent of the total electorate. Anna Garlin Spencer continues her serles on the position of women in the world, dealing this time with "The Drama of the Woman of Genius." Sydney Brooks has a noteworthy article on the strained relations between England and Germany, and Horace Traubel concludes his intimate Whitman memoirs.

One of the strongest moves in the way of increased publicity for the Pacific coast country was effected recently in the consolidation of Sunset Magazine, published at San Francisco and The Pacific Monthly, published at Portland, Or. Both these magazines began publication in the same year, 1898, and both have followed practically the same lines, presenting the attractions and opportunities of the West together with fiction by Western writers, and both have come to be recognized as important factors in the upbuilding of the Pacific coast country. Their combined circulation has grown to the substantial figure of 175,000 copies per month. The first number to bear the new title, Sunset, The Pacific Monthly, is the January number, and it has taken the subject of the Panama-Pacific exposition as one of the great topics of present importance to the whole coast.

• • •

The Popular Science Monthly for January contains the following articles: "The Mechanistic Conception of Life," by Dr. Jacques Loeb; "Science Amng the Chinese," by Dr. C. K. Edmunds; "Notes on Norwegian Industries," by Prof. James Lewis Howe; "The Duties to the Public of Research Institutes of Pure Science," by Prof. William E. Ritter; "Small Colleges," by Prof. John J. Stevenson; "The Problem of City Milk Supplies," by Dr. P. G. Heinemann; "A Flash of Lightning," by Prof. Francis E. Nipher.

• • •

The January number of the Atlantic Monthly emphasizes the conspicuous fact that the magazine is old in years only and that its interests are habitually the prime interests of its contemporaries. The first four articles in this issue all strike notes distinctively modern and distinctively important. These papers are "Modern Government and Christianity," by Winston Churchill; "The Contemporary Novel," by H. G. Wells; "The Political Evolution of a College President," by Solomon Bulkley Griffin, editor of the Springfield Republican; and "Insanity and Non-Restraint," a paper on the new theory which is revolutionizing the care of the insane in this country, by Charles Whitney Page. Add to these Senator Jonathan Bourne's paper on the "Initiative, Referendum and Recall, " which comes at the close of the number, and it is easy to see that the Atlantic is not relying upon its history for its advancement. The literary papers in this number include "Literary Centennials," by Annie Kimball Tuell; "The Wayfaring Woman," by Winnifred Kirkland; and "Caviare on Principle," by Katherine Fullerton Geroud.

If the publishers of Lippincott's are planning any New Year resolutions relative to making better numbers than that for January, they have their work cut out for them; for the January Lippincott's is a great big, satisfying issue, full of good things. First, there's a complete novel—"Kilmorgan's Heir," by Kathryn Jarboe. This is a tale of the Southwest, with virile plot and charmful character-drawing. After the death of her father, the youthful heroine, Carmelita, sets out to seek her fortune. She is adopted by a clergyman and his sister, and later the minister falls in love with her, but her heart is true to a young English ranchman, James Dart, who befriended her in the old days, and whom she has loved with a blind devotion ever since. They meet again, marry, and are radiantly happy until they are separated by the unscrupulous old British nobleman. Carmelita's child is stolen, and she disappears, but in the end all is explained and they are reunited. The Arizona ranch life is depicted with rare skill. As for the short stories, no better collection has appeared in any one magazine for many a day.

• • •

The January number of Business opens with "A Plea for a Supreme Court of Business," by George W. Perkins, in which he shows how the big corporations can be made to serve the public interest and private good. In "Making Courtesy an Asset," William Hamilton Burquest discusses the cash value of politeness and consideration as exemplified in the methods of some concerns. James Oliver Curwood contributes an article, "Opening Up a New World," in which he tells how the wilderness of the Northwest has been transferred into a land of opportunity.

Many interesting articles appear in the issue of Harper's Weekly for Dec. 30. Writing under the title "Fooling the Shopper," Nellie Crooks describes the almost universal adulteration in woolen goods and explains the methods for its detection. A Maurice Low writes from Washington upon Mr. Taft's prospects of renomination. In "Rediscovering the West" Edward Hungerford presents the first of a series of articles descriptive of conditions in the "gateway" cities beyond the Mississippi. Luther Edmunds Price, writing under the title "Spoiling a Great Game," enters a plea for fairness in football. Fiction, humor, theatrical, editorial, and financial features go toward the making of this number.

RUSSIA'S SUGAR EXPORTATION

World's Sugar Conference Asked to Permit Its Increase By 300,000 Tons Yearly—Third Annual International Aviation Salon Opened in Paris.

Paris, Jan. 6.—The world's sugar conference, which was held at Brussels, adjournment being taken to Jan. 29, is having difficulty trying to meet the request of Russia to be permitted to increase her yearly exportation of sugar.

Russia wishes to increase her exportation by 300,000 tons yearly, the International Sugar union having limited the possible exportation of each country adhering to the conference. The opposition to the Russian petition came from Germany and Austria. It is thought likely, however, that when the conference reconvenes the Russian request will be granted, although the amount authorized may be under 300,000 tons. The present international Sugar union ceases to be in force Sept. 1, 1913, but it is likely that the union will be renewed for another term; that is to say, until 1918.

European aviation interest is now centered in the third annual international aviation salon, which has just been inaugurated by President Falliers. The huge space of the salon building, with its glare of light and beautiful decoration, setting off the 200 or more aeroplanes, offers an attractive and picturesque spectacle.

The exhibition indicates that progress and improvement in aeroplane construction have been remarkably rapid as regards both monoplanes and biplanes, but it is generally believed that there will be no great changes in the general appearance of the aeroplane in the near future.

The races of the past year caused constructors to turn their attention to securing increased speed. This is evident by the number of speedy machines in the exhibition. There is, however, a strong tendency to build machines which afford a maximum of safety. It is also pointed out that aeroplane purchasers are insisting upon more comfort in the aeroplane. Military contracts now contain a paragraph dealing with comfortable seats, cases in which to carry tools, and sometimes even the installation of a wireless telegraphic apparatus.

The general lesson of the salon is that the aeroplane has definitely arrived as a military instrument, but that much is to be done before aviation will be hailed as a popular sport.

The most startling innovation in the Paris theatrical world this season is the review "Sans Gene," which has been inaugurated at the Rejane theater by Mme. Rejane. It is now an accepted notion that vaudeville houses should include short one-act plays in their programs, but that vaudeville should completely monopolize one of the largest temples of "legitimate" art is a distinct departure for the Parisian theatrical world.

The French review in a sort of vaudeville-burlesque representation of current French topics of interest or gossip. Mme. Rejane assumes many roles. She is first a janitress, blaming the tendency of certain newspapers to inquire into private lives, then a native of Auvergne, and finally a foreign princess, in which she caricatures a certain royal princess who has been recently in the public eye.

A Parisian actress has caused a great deal of interest among the women of France by announcing a new recipe for a supple figure. Each morning, she says, her maid takes a newspaper, tears it into a thousand fragments and scatters the fragments upon the floor. The morning exercise of the mistress consists in gathering up the pices one by one. These stooping movements, she claims, approach as nearly as possible the work that a man would do in cultivating the fields and gathering in the crops and result in the perfection of the suppleness and lines of the body.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

Daughter of Richard Gilder Wants to Make Own Name

DOROTHY GILDER.

This picture of Dorothy Gilder was made last year when she took part in some tableaux for charity. She is a daughter of the late Richard Gilder. Miss Gilder has now gone on the stage and has taken a small part in the new play "Kismet," in which Otis Skinner is being starred. She appears under the name of Miss Coleman and says she proposes to succeed not on account of her late father's reputation and popularity, but in spite of it.

Events of Interest

Three hundred friends of Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Milne called during the reception held for them Tuesday evening in the parlors of the Pilgrim Congregational church, at which the women of the church were hostesses. Members, not only of that church but of many other denominations, called to bid them farewell and wish for the retiring pastor a renewal of health from his trip to the South.

Evergreens and poinsettias were effectively arranged and made a pretty setting for the function. During the evening musical numbers were given by Gregory's instrumental quartet and coffee was served by Mrs. Ward Ames, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. C. F. Colman assisted by a number of the young ladies of the church.

In the receiving line with Rev. and Mrs. Milne were their daughter, Miss Marjorie, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hegardt, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Anderson.

Mr. Milne has been one of the leading pastors here for the past eleven years and Mrs. Milne has been well known in church and social circles.

Mrs. W. H. Magie of 1401 East Superior street was hostess at a dinner party at her home Wednesday evening at which covers were laid for Mrs. John Panton, the Misses Margaret and Dorothy Panton and Mrs. Edwin H. Lee.

Miss Morrow of 4309 McCulloch street was hostess at luncheon Thursday noon at her home. Pink and white carnations prettily arranged with asparagus ferns added to the daintiness of the appointments and covers were laid for eight.

Miss Edna Z. Harris of 4107 East Superior street entertained at a pretty appointed 1-o'clock luncheon Thursday at her home, at which covers were laid for fourteen. A basket of Killarney roses formed the centerpiece and pretty little hand-painted place cards of pink rosebuds marked the places.

After the luncheon an informal musical program was given and a musical game added to the entertainment of her guests.

Mrs. C. W. Kieswetter of 1224 East Second street entertained at an informal afternoon tea Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Maurice Scroggins of Minneapolis, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McLaine. There were ten guests at the affair.

Ladies' night Monday evening, with its elaborate table d'hote dinner and its informal dancing party, was the celebration at the Kitchi Gammi club of the coming of the new year. The dining room, gay with pink and white carnations and festoons of ground pine, palms and evergreens, made a pretty setting for the dinner, and the handsome gowns worn by the guests added much to the effectiveness of the scene.

There were many small dinner parties of four, six and eight, and Miss Mary Paine entertained at a party of fourteen at dinner.

During the evening La Brosse's orchestra played a charming program for the dances, which were enjoyed by most of the guests.

About seventy couples enjoyed the New Year's dancing party given Monday evening by the Elks' lodge at the clubrooms on West First street. La Brosse's orchestra furnished a pretty program of music and pink and white carnations attractively arranged added a festivel note to the scene.

Miss Florence Wade was hostess Wednesday evening at an informal party. The time was spent with music and games by the following guests:

Misses—
Minnie Hatley,	Mary Cosgrove,
Mary Devaney,	Marion England,
Elizabeth Devaney,	Mary Wade,
	Rose Warm.

EVENTS OF WEEK IN CLUBDOM AND THE MUSICAL CIRCLES

Members of Saturday Club Give Luncheon for Mrs. Washburn—Bishop's Club —The Twentieth Century Club Social.

THIRTY members of the Saturday club attended at an informal luncheon given yesterday at the Mirror cafe of the Spalding hotel in compliment to Mrs. J. L. Washburn, a prominent member of the club, who will leave Wednesday with Mr. Washburn for their winter home at Tryon, N. C.

An informal program of toasts added to the pleasure of the occasion Mrs. Julia Barnes, president of the club was toastmistress and she called upon Mrs. Robert Smith to tell the guest of honor of the esteem and affection which the club members feel for her. Mrs. John A. Keyes responded to the subject "The Club Woman Abroad," and she told of her interesting trip through Corsica, relating some amusing episodes. Mrs. Thomas Martin responded to "The New Member" and voiced the appreciation of her admittance into this well established club.

Mrs. Washburn responded as gracefully as usual and gave a short sketch of the formation and early history of the club.

Mrs. O. H. Simonds was the founder and first president of the organization and to her the beautiful floral decorations were sent as a token of esteem from the club as she is ill and could not be present at the luncheon.

MRS. J. L. WASHBURN.

Theosophical Society.

THE open study class will meet Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the lodge rooms of the Duluth Theosophical society, 28 Winthrop block. The meeting will be devoted to a study of some ethical questions, and everyone is welcome to attend.

A class for members will meet Tuesday evening at 8'clock. The regular meeting of the branch will be held Thursday evening and the subject will be "Pedigree of Man." The election of officers was postponed to this date on account of the severe cold weather during the past week.

Alice L. Booth will be the hostess at a reception at her home, 1422 North Eveleth street, Superior, Wis., Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The principal address will be a lecture on "How Man May Rule His Destiny," by Mrs. Booth. Short speeches on different topics will be made by Mrs. Alice A. Taylor of this city, Dr. C. E. Booth, William E. Haily, A. A. Adsit of Superior, and other local theosophists. Music and vocal solos will be rendered by local talent, and the reception will follow. An invitation is extended to all members of the Theosophical society at the Head of the Lakes to attend.

MME. FRANCES ALDA, the brilliant soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who will make her first appearance in Duluth on Monday evening, Jan. 15, in a grand local recital of songs of all nationalities, is creating more than ordinary interest in musical and social circles. As the wife of Gatti Cassazza, the director of the Metropolitan opera, Alda is one of the leaders in New York social life and as an artist she takes front rank as one of the great sopranos of the day. On Jan. 9 she will be soloist with the St. Paul symphony orchestra and on Jan. 12 she will appear with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra.

It is the policy of Stephen H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Horace W. Reyner to bring to Duluth the world's great artists and preferably those who have not been in Duluth previously, and in bringing Mme. Alda, the committee gives Duluthians the opportunity of hearing one of the most talked of artists of the operatic world. Mme. Alda has had a phenominal success with the Montreal Opera company this season where she appeared as a special star attraction in "La Boheme," and other operas. Her New York song recital was the talk of the week in New York. All the great artists of the operatic world were there and the stage of Carnegie hall was one mass of flowers presented to her by her many admirers.

To bring artists of the Alda and Bouce type to Duluth means a large financial responsibility, which has to be assured by those enthusiasts who have done so much for Duluth's music. Yet it is most satisfactory to note that the public has at all times responded with hearty support.

Mme. Alda brings her own accompanist. Alberto Randegger, jr., is the son of the famous singing master of the Royal academy of music of London. He is a fine musician and a great accompanist. His accompaniments will be a distinct feature of the concert. The sale of seats will open at the Lyceum on Monday. The program to be given by Mme. Alda is as follows.

ORCHESTRA MAY TOUR.

Other Towns and Cities Want to Hear Duluth Organization.

REPEATED inquires have been received from various surrounding towns as to the possibility of securing engagements of the Duluth symphony orchestra, for a series of concerts to be given in the near future.

Gustave Flaaten, who has the organization in charge, has in a remarkable short time brought the orchestra to a high stage of efficiency, and the fame of the work of the Duluth musicians is exciting the interest in the surrounding communities. Inquiries have been received from Superior, Cloquet and Hibbing, and it is probable in the next few weeks engagements will be made with all these places for a series of concerts.

Mr. Flaaten, who is also director of the well known Normanna Male chorus, will leave today with the chorus to give two concerts at Hibbing. At that time final arrangements will probably be made for the appearance of the Duluth symphony orchestra in Hibbing.

Both the orchestra and the Normannas will appear for the third concert of the winter series at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night and this will indeed be a rare musical treat for Duluth music lovers. There have been given already two concerts by the orchestra, both of which have been enthusiastically received. The orchestra now has fifty-five pieces, a number of new parts having been added since the last concert.

The possibilities of organizing and maintaining a symphony orchestra for Duluth has been proven and the results so far exceed the expectations of those who have had the privilege of hearing the two preceding performances.

SOCIAL.

Twentieth Century Club Will Meet at Tea.

THE regular monthly social of the Twentieth Century club will be held Monday afternoon at the clubroom of the library with Mrs. George A. Elder as hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. W. De Vey, Mrs. M. R. Baldwin, Mrs. Herbert Warren and Mrs. M. H. Kelley.

The first Monday in the month is the regular social day but the program was postponed this month as last Monday was New Year's day.

CECILIAN SOCIETY.

Folk Songs and Symphony Analyzed at Regular Meeting.

THE Cecilian society will meet at the home of Mrs. W. C. Winton, 1509 East First street at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mrs. G. C. Ross will talk on foreign and national folk songs and illustrations will be given by members of the club. Miss Josephine Carey will analyze Brahm's Fourth Symphony. Miss Florence Williams will be the instrumental leader.

Bishop's Club.

MEETINGS of the Bishop's club were resumed Tuesday evening, after a few weeks' cessation in the work. An interesting program arranged by Mrs. F. C. Lee was given under the direction of Mrs. A. V. Kelly, president of the club. Mrs. Lee was unable to attend.

The Bible study, "The Widow of Nain," was read by Miss Lillian Fitzgerald, followed by the reading of Mrs. Lee's paper on the "Educational and Charitable Institutions of Belgium" by Mrs. Kelly. Miss Catherine Bolin lead the current events discussion and Miss Clara Fiebiger gave a pleasing piano number, Heller's "Tarantella." Miss Clara Kennedy sang an Irish folk song by Foote, delightfully, and Miss Gladys Byerly in a piano number and Miss Cora Davis who read, were both pleasing. A delightful social hour followed.

Jappyland in Texas.

JAPPYLAND, the pretty little Japanese opera put on here by Duluth society people last summer at the Orpheum theater for the benefit of the Children's home will be put on in Houston, Tex., Wednesday, Jan. 10, for the benefit of the Newsboys' home. Mr. Coates and Miss Gilmore, who staged the production here, are putting it on in that city.

FRESH AIR IN SCHOOLS; FREE DISPENSARY URGED

INTEREST in the public schools and their work is part of the work of the members of the Woman's Council and the Educational committee of which Mrs. E. W. Matter is chairman has been most active this winter.

The committee is divided into four sub-committees, the fresh air in the schools and the out-of-door schools committee, of which Mrs. C. J. Lesure is chairman; the domestic science and sewing school committe, with Mrs. T. J. Davis, chairman; the night schools committee with Mrs. Robert Smith, chairman, and the committee on seeds and gardens of which Mrs. R. P. Boyington is at the head.

Much has been accomplished by the various committees and the report of Mrs. C. J. Lesure on the work of her committee which was presented at the meeting of the Woman's Council yesterday morning will be of general interest. It reads as follows:

Committee's Report.

"Our committee has just spent a number of interesting and profitable hours during the past few weeks visiting some of the public schools. We found so many things to commend that it would be out of the question to embody them all in a report but we strongly urge that every parent or any one interested in Duluth's rising generation, avail themselves of the opportunity of learning what is being done by visiting the schools and coming in touch with the fine men and women who are giving so much of themselves to the children in their charge.

Better Ventilation.

Our first visit was to one of the oldest and largest buildings. We were pleased to note the marked improvement in ventilation over some months ago when we were there. This is due we are told to a much smaller number of pupils in attendance owing to the completion of another building and also to the installment of increased facilities for forcing fresh air through the building.

"In a newer building we were shown the working of one of the latest systems of heating and ventilating, the washing of the air and method of regulating the heat in each room separately by the automatic closing of drafts certainly seemed perfect. One realizes, however, with the best methods one cannot always have perfection for we found one room at 120 and the thermometer rising. Upon inquiry as to why this condition could exist we were told that things some times get out of order.

"As neither machinery nor human nature is infallible it was deemed advisable to adopt some plan which would make the schools not wholly dependent on any system. In consequence, therefore, our committee the school board passed a resolution to the effect that windows in all school rooms should be opened at stated times each day. This was followed by an order to this effect from the superintendent to the principals of every building.

Children Take Walk.

"In one building we found the children from every room were taken for a ten minutes' brisk walk during the two recesses each day. The teachers of these schools contend that the increased mental vigor of the pupils more than makes up for the time lost in putting on wraps. Many of the teachers have expressed a desire for this recess plan.

"Another good plan was carried out when a teacher gave her pupils the calesthenic lesson out of doors. Where the grounds permit this might be an ideal way of bringing the children into the fresh air.

"Of course there will be many days in our climate when these out of door methods cannot be carried out. Still we have many weeks of fine weather in the fall and many days all through the year when the outdoor recess would be a great benefit.

Proper Light.

"An important subject now receiving the attention of the medical inspectors, is that of the proper adjustment of light. They are trying by means of dark shades on the lower half of windows in adittion to white ones above, to obviate the cross-light which is so trying in a number of rooms.

"In conclusion we want to add a word in connection with the medical inspection in the schools—namely, on the need of a free dispensary such as is maintained in many cities the size of Duluth and in some smaller ones. There are many cases where the parents find it hard to follow the advice of the medical inspectors. If the physician, oculist, dentist or any one of the specialists who have so generously offered their services, could have a central place where at certain hours, so many days a week, they could be found free to give their time to these cases, it would supplement the work of the medical inspectors and leave no excuse for neglect in following the advice given in the schools.

"Such a dispensary would not involve great expense, as the present quarters which the poor board now maintains in the courthouse, could be used. Large quarters are not needed as the specialists could have their office hours arranged not to conflict. This would, of course, not be maintained exclusively for school children but would open for anyone in this county entitled to it, the best that modern medical science affords. The abuse of the privilege could be prevented by the method used by the Associated Charities.

"This plan our committee is anxious to see carried out because of the direct bearing on the welfare of the school children, and we respectfully suggest that the president appoint a committee to inquire into conditions which might affect the establishment of such an institution. Signed,

CLARA W. LESURE."

RAISE FUNDS FOR NURSERY

Twelfth Night Fete By King's Daughters a Charming Entertainment.

Vaudeville Program Excellent and Delightful Dance Follows.

DELIGHTFUL in every detail was the Twelfth Night fete which the King's Daughters gave last evening at the Spalding hotel.

With a charitable purpose in view the members of this society could not have chosen a more charming manner of starting their fund. The function was for the benefit of a proposed day nursery which the society hopes to start soon; that employed mothers may have a warm, clean and healthful place to leave their babies and little children during their absence from home.

The amateur vaudeville program with its singing, dancing and tableux, which took up the first half of the evening, was excellent and the large audience which filled the ball room of the hotel was most enthusiastic and generous with its applause.

Tiny little Elizabeth Magle in the quaint little costume of a Highlander opened the program with a Highland Schottische which she danced with such spirit and lightness that she won much insistent applause. She responded to an encore with a repetition of part of the dance.

Little Miss Gertrude Collins was the next on the program and her youthful dancing of a serpentine dance was charming. Miss Helen Christensen also pleased with a springfully dance number. All of these were under the direction of Prof. Leo.

Stanley Lamb was entertaining in a monologue act giving interesting character impersonations. He was best in an Indian story which he gave realistically.

A sprightly Spanish dance, graceful and beautiful was given by Mrs. James E. Gardner, Jr., who danced with spirit and charm.

William White, Jr., in an excellent imitation of Harry Lauder, was highly entertaining. His Scotch accent was admirably brought out and his stories and songs very well given. The catchy Lauder songs had the audience keeping time and in the chorus of "I Love a Lassie," most of the audience joined Mr. White in singing. This was one of the best numbers on the program.

Miss Margaret McKindley is an artistic dancer and in her interpretation of a waltz from "Sylvia" she revealed genuine ability. She responded to a hearty encore with another charming and graceful number which was even more beautiful than the first.

A series of beautiful tableaux, finished and artistic in every way, was presented and each was well worked out and attractive.

The pictures represented were:

"Portrait of Madame Mandel" ..... Mole-Raymond ..... Le Brun
Miss Margaret Florada.
"Her Beautiful Eyes" ..... Harrison Fisher
Mrs. Floyd F. Clark.
"The Beggar Girl" ..... Murillo
Miss Helen Wall.
"Priscilla" ..... Howard Chandler Christy
Miss Carolyn Swift.
"The Broken Pitcher" ..... Greuze
Miss Julia E. Morrow.
"A Student" ..... Henry Hutt
Miss Emelyn McDougall.
"Lady Murray" ..... Raeburn
Miss Caroline Kennedy.
"Dear or Dearest" ..... C. Coles Phillips
Mrs. Frank Leach.
"Mrs. Siddons" ..... Gainsborough
Miss Rachel St. Clair.

Miss Wilhelmina Fitger, Francis E. House, Jr. and Ralph St. Clair in an italian street scene were perhaps the hit of the evening. In fanciful costume of the Italian street musician, Miss Fitger sang two delightful numbers which give fine display of her powerful rich voice and which were roundly applauded. Mr. House and Mr. St. Clair, also, in costume, accompanied the singer. The guitar player taken by Mr. House and Mr. St. Clair, with hand organ and monkey and his infectious grin, added to the artistic finish of the number.

The program was closed with an Irish lilt danced with grace and ease and all the spirit of an old-time Irish jig, by Miss Jessica Marshall, Miss Dorothy House, Miss Marjorie Morrow and Miss Frances Swift.

This number and the Spanish waltz were put on under the direction of Helen Shores Savage.

Following the program, dancing was enjoyed by the guests.

EDISON PRAISES CONCRETE CHAIRS

Wizard Talks at the Electric Club Meeting in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Thomas A. Edison, inventor, in Chicago for the first time since the World's Fair in 1893, told members of the "Electric club yesterday that electrification of railroads would not be practicable for several years, sang praises of his concrete furniture and forecasted an announcement of a new type of electric motor he has invented. Third rails and trolleys, he said, would not be satisfactory as power transmitters for railways, especially in switching yards. Improved motors and either generators, gasoline driven on board the power cars, or storage batteries, he thought ultimately would be used.

Concrete furniture, he said, could be made light and durable; he expected to prove it by using a quantity of it himself.

Alaska Bankers Arraigned.

Juneau, Alaska, Jan. 6.—Clem Sommers, former president, and Stuart G. Holt, former cashier of the First National Bank of Juneau, were arraigned in the federal court here yesterday upon indictments returned by the federal grand jury charging fraudulent banking. The accused men were given until Monday to plead.

Kills Wife and Shoots Himself.

New York, Jan. 6.—William Hefner shot his wife twice yesterday and then sent a bullet through his own breast. The wife died while she was being taken to the hospital. The husband has a chance for life.

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

The speaker at the men's Sunday afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 3:30 o'clock will be Dr. Robert Yost of the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Yost will make a strong appeal to men on the subject, "Making a Man."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

Christian Endeavor in Duluth is back in the field at the start of a new year to commence on the efficiency campaign inaugurated at the last convention. Each society will study its needs and the spots in which its efficiency is lowest and do its best to remedy them, and bring the standard up as high as possible. With the beginning of a new year the United society, wit hheadquarters at Boston, has issued a new set of topics. The consecration meetings this year will be studies of "The Christian Virtues," and the first of these, which will be the meeting to be held Sunday, Jan. 7, will be upon the subject, "Courage." The reference provided for this meeting is Psalms xxvii, 1-14. Meetings as follows have been reported to the local union:

The Lakeside Presbyterian society will hold its regular monthly consecration meeting at 6 p. m., in the Endeavor room of the church. The roll call and business meetings will be features of the meeting.

The Union Church Disciples' society will meet at 7 p. m. in the Knights of Pythias' hall, under the leadership of C. J. Hockin, president of the local union. The regular monthly offering for missionary purposes will be taken up, and the consecration meeting, being the first of the year, will be made especially interesting to all young people, who are cordially invited to attend.

The Smithville society will meet in the church under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Dash, president of the society. Following the meeting, the society will hold an election of officers for the ensuing term. The meeting will be at 7 p. m.

The First Presbyterian society will meet at 6:45 p. m. in the lecture room of the church. The meeting will be in the form of an installation of officers.

The Westminster Presbyterian society will meet at 6:45 p. m. in the church parlors. Mrs. William Ritchie will lead. This society on the evening of Jan. 3 held an election of officers, re-electing all the old officers as follows: William Ritchie, president; Miss Florence Melin, vice president; C. I. Towner, secretary-treasurer.

The regular Sunday afternoon meeting at the poor farm will be in the charge of the First Christian society, whose members expect to attend in force. The party will leave on the incline car, leaving Superior street at 2:30 p. m. Any Endeavorers or members of other young people's societies, will be welcome to attend.

The regular business meeting of the Union Church Disciples' society will be held at the home of Miss Mildred Peterson

AT THE LYCEUM

Signor Michele Giovacchini, the eminent baritone of the Lambardi Grand Opera company, is a student as well as a star. He is an artist who believes acting is as essential as singing, maintaining that opera demands something more of its interpreters than a mere voice, however glorious. There have been artists of renown who have permitted the histrionic requirements of an operatic role to go practically unconsidered, paying attention simply to its musical claims. Writers of operatic criticism have even gone to the length of distinguishing between the singer who is an actor as well, and the vocalist who has nothing but his tones to recommend him, by describing the former as a "dramatic" baritone, tenor, and so on. To the real opera enthusiast there is but modest satisfaction in hearing a singer, even were he at the top of his class, whose acting ability is nil.

Signor Giovacchini his been written about and singled out as an artist whose great attainments leave little to be desired in operatic stardom. Firstly, he is said to be of most commanding presence; secondly, his fidelity to character, to say nothing of his splendid voice, powerful and ringing, is said to be remarkable. His conception of the operatic singer's province includes a thorough understanding of the character to be assumed, to attain which he devotes unlimited study not only of the lines but of the historical original, if such there be, and of the period in which he flourished.

Giovacchini is not so well known in America, having spent much of his time since his debut in Spain. There is scarcely a city or town in the land of the Dons where he has not sung with great success—Madrid, Barcelona, Cadiz—many others. For eight years he was the most popular baritone in the country. He made his debut at Pavia, Italy, in 1893. Once started upon his career, he sang steadily throughout Europe, appearing in the leading theaters of Portugal, Italy, Spain, Bohemia, even singing in Africa. He created numerous roles and appeared in many premieres. In Portugal, where he attained great success as Tonio in "I Pagliacci," his performance is said to have been so realistic that he was constantly greeted on the streets by children and even grown persons who had witnessed the opera, with: "Hello, Tonio."

Since reaching America a few months ago he has scored marked success in the role of Scarpia, in Puccini's "La Tosca," Escamillo in "Carmen" and in the title role of Verdi's great opera, "Rigoletto." Just before reaching San Francisco he achieved a great triumph at Buenos Ayres in the Spanish opera, "Marina," by Arrietta.

Signor Giovacchini will be heard at the Wednesday matinee performance of "Carmen," when the famous dramatic soprano, Elvira Bosetti, will assume the title role. Giovacchini will sing Escamillo, the toreador.

Mme. Lidia Levy, the remarkable coloratura soprano of the company, is a "little Tetrazzini." Not a big Tetrazzini, of course, for in that classification the well-known Luisa is alone; but, at half the age of the older artist, Lidia Levy is said to display vocal powers that warrant the comparison made.

The "little Tetrazzini" comes from Italy. She was discovered by Signor Fulgenzio Guerrieri, the noted orchestra director, while in Italy the past summer as personal emissary for Impresario Lambardi, who has brought so many famous singers to America. Well-known musical writers make the prediction that the tiny Florentine artist is unknowingly on her way to world-wide eminence. She is said to vocalize coloraturishly with high E with tones as pure and sweet and musical as any yet heard on the operatic stage. Her American debut was made at San Francisco a few weeks ago in Verdi's beautiful opera, "Rigoletto." She sang the leading feminine role in a manner that made the great audience present applaude and shout for recall after recall.

Mme. Levy possesses a clear, flute-like tone, and displays an ease in handling the bird-notes in the top register that is decidedly Tetrazzinesque, and there is little doubt that she is even more pleasing to look upon than the soprano who has made large audiences blister their hands in applause. Her voice has the same clear, ringing quality as of musical glasses, and she can soar to the dizziest vocal heights without the slightest falling away of her tones.

Mme. Levy is slight of stature and has just turned 24. Signor Guerrieri, while in Florence the past summer was attracted to her while she was singing the role of Lucia in Donizetti's famous opera. He immediately cabled Impresario Lambardi, then at Buenos Ayres, requesting permission to engage the young song-bird for the present American tour. The result was that Mme. was soon on her way to America to assume her place among the large list of principals in the organization.

The Lambardi company will visit this city on the dates of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 8, 9 and 10.

The general sale of seats is now open. Indicattons point to capacity houses at each of the four performances. "Thais," the great French work of Massanet, will have its premiere in this city at the hands of Impresario Lambardi's forces.

A right royal welcome for their own sakes will be extended to Montgomery and Stone by Duluth theatergoers on Jan. 19 and 20, when this clever pair of funmakers will make their bow to a local audience.

Montgomery and Stone are America's favorite comedians and have demonstrated it, sufficiently to the satisfaction of New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and all the principal cities east of the Missouri river. To those who have never seen Montgomery & Stone in any of the masterly creations, it is worth while to observe that "The Old Town," which is the play they will appear in here, teems with a lot of joyful surprises in which the indefatigable Mr. Stone's novelties of impersonation dancing and acrobatic achievement, his lariat dance, also Mr. Montgomery's Japanese ballet, the cowboy ensemble, and the suffragette chorus, are four of the big numbers which found exceptional favor with the public during the New York run of "The Old Town."

Since Charles Dillingham is the managerial sponsor of the Ade play, it is safe to say that all of the fastidious nicety of decoration and appointment for which all of his productions are always remarkable will be noted in the mounting of "The Old Town."

The company supporting Montgomery and Stone have been carefully chosen and capably drilled. "The Old Town" pony ballet in several exceptionally well-executed dancing numbers is one of the features of the performance, which is remarkable indeed for high-class incidental numbers.

Among the well-known principals in support of Montgomery and Stone are Clara Palmer, Flossie Hope, Helen Falconer, Edna Bates, Virginia Kendall, Peggy Preston and the Messrs. Charles Dox, Howard Russell, Mack Whiting, W. J. McCarty, Howard Dyott and James G. Reaney.

Robert Hilliard appears under Klaw & Erlanger's direction in the successful and widely discussed play, "A Fool There Was," at the Lyceum. He impersonates a typical New Yorker of social and political distinction who is alienated from his family and brought to abject ruin by the lure of a sirenic creature of peculiar fascination. She vitalizes Kipling's weird conceit of the vampire woman who is only "a rag and a bone and a hank of hair." It is a blend of comedy and symbolic drama with a last act that is about the only example of tragedy in modern life plays. Mr. Hilliard has created leading parts in many plays from "Mr. Barnes of New York" and "Blue Jeans" to the "Girl of the Golden West" and was a great vaudeville favorite. The production is identical with that seen at the Liberty theater, New York. An ocean steamship scene is one of the big effects.

Florence Holbrook's song number, "Mrs. Casey," in Joseph M. Gaites stupendous musical comedy success, "Bright Eyes," is one of the novelty song hits of the piece and she received no less than six to eight encores at each performance. Cecil Lean's baseball song is also as popular in its peculiar line, "He's a Fan, Fan, Fan." Another real novelty is the barnyard fowl song hit, "I'll Be Your Chanticleer," in this number the chorus is dressed to represent barnyard fowls and gives a characteristic barnyard dance.

"Bright Eyes" will be seen at Lyceum soon. An augmented orchestra will be used during the engagement here.

"A Night Out" is the name of the screamingly funny farce which Gus A. Forbes and his company will present tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Lyceum theater. The play tells the story of a young married man whose wife is in the country. The house is robbed while husband is out with "The Boys." When his wife returns she asks how could the house be robbed and ho not know about it. The hero attempts to explain. And therein lies the fun for the audience.

Septimus Pontifex is the hero and his misery is shared by his father-in-law, who has also been out and by the servant, James, who has also spent the evening out. The differences in the stories are of course discovered and the distress of the evil doers make the audience's pleasure. "A Night Out" is one of the most laughable and successful farces offered and should delight tomorrow's audiences.

Mr. Forbes, who is at his best in farce, will play the role of Septimus Pontifex. Fraser Green, his father-in-law will be played by Frederich Van Renselear and James, the servant, will be played by Richard Cotton. "A Night Out" has been played with great success and is expected to prove a most popular bill with the Lyceum patrons.

Only two performances will be given, Sunday afternoon and evening.

This evening the final performance of "The Christian" will be played at the Lyceum theater by Mr. Forbes and his company. The play has been received with much enthusiasm during the week for the company is presenting a splendid performance.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Lily Lena.
Nina Payne and Company.
Mabelle Adams and Company.
Fiddler and Shelton.
Chick and Chicklets.
Hufford and Chain.
Alsace and Lorraine.
The Kinodrome.
The Concert Orchestra.

With thirty people on the bill, the Orpheum promises one of the most pretentious vaudeville shows ever brought to the local theater, next week. It is a double headline bill, the acts of Lily Lena and Nina Payne and company being jointly featured.

Probably the most popular woman performer on the Orpheum circuit at the present time, is Lily Lena, 'Lovely, Lively Little Lily Lena" as she is called, the English comedienne, who is in this country for a brief tour. This is her third tour of the Orpheum circuit, but it will be the first time she has been seen in Duluth. Her success on Orpheum time has probably been equalled by but two English songstresses in recent years. These are Alice Lloyd and Ada Reeves.

Ashton Stevens, the dramatic critic of the New York Journal, referred to Lily Lena as "The Princess of Comediennes," and some of the other descriptions given of her are: "Magnetic as a Battery," and "Sweet as the First Song of the Lark."

Miss Lena spent the summer abroad, and brought with her to this country, just prior to the opening of the Orpheum season, many trunks filled with the latest and smartest frocks. The gowns that she wears are one of the features of her act, which consists of a series of popular songs. Like all English performers she has her own songs, which she sings exclusively, and among them is one melody which is said to be very catchy, "Take it Nice and Easy."

In the other headline acts, Orpheum patrons will be offered a novelty in the line of a French pantomine. "La Sonambule" is the name of the pantomine presented by Mlle. Nina Payne and company. There are twelve people all told, in the company, with Mlle. Payne and Signor St. Elia in the leading roles. The French pantomines are new to Duluth, and should be of interest to theatergoers. The scene discloses a reception hall in the home of Monsieur Martel's house. A surprise party in honor of his wife's birthday is in progress. Among the guests is Count Antoine, whose attentions to Mme. Martel are noticeable. Some dramatic complications follow. There is some comedy in the pantomine, and also a somnambulistic dance by Mlle. Payne, which is said to be exceptionally well done. Special stage settings and electrical effects are carried by the company, and the act is one of the biggest and most expensive on the circuit.

In addition to those two headliners, will be seen an act which ranks close to the headline class, and has been attracting more attention this season than many so-called headline acts. This is the playlet built around the violine playing of Mabelle Adams, the famous gypsy violinist. It is the tale of a famous young American painter, who fell in love with a gypsy girl model while studying in Paris. He is very jealous of her, and they quarrel. The playlet is said to be a very dramatic little sketch, and throughout it the violine playing of Miss Adams is featured. Stewart Robbins also appears in an important role, and there are six people in the company. There is a special production of typical French scenery, and some elaborate lighting effects.

Fiddler and Shelton are just opening on the circuit, and come to Duluth from a successful Eastern tour. They are two real colored performers, one of whom appears as a Chinaman. They present a singing, dancing and comedy dialogue act.

Under the unique title of Chick and Chicklets, two comedy cyclists, will introduce the vaudeville novelty, the cycling doll. These two clever performers come to Duluth with the prestige of having scored a real hit in other Orpheum cities they have visited Huffard and Chain present a skit which they call "The Parson and the Minstrel Man." Mr. Huffard's impersonation of the "culiud parson" is said to be irresistibly funny. He delivers a sermon which is filled with absurd breaks in grammar, and his impassioned delivery has been an unfailing appeal to the risibilities of other audiences.

Alsace and Lorraine will present a novel musical act, in which, after playing a number of instruments, they present their own invention, an Aisacephone, which is a combination of a violin and cornet. It is said to come nearer to the human voice than any other instrument. This act also carries a special scenic production.

The kinodrome, showing the newest motion pictures of world's events, and the concert by the Orpheum orchestra, will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

• • •

For the week of Jan. 14 the biggest act on the Orpheum circuit will be seen in Duluth. This act is "The Romance of the Underworld," a drama with a cast of twenty-three people, and lasting fifty minutes. So elaborate and lengthy is the act that only six acts are presented when it is on a bill.

• • •

"The best laid plans of men and mice oft gang a glee." Miss Louise Dresser had planned a vacation, awaiting the completion of the musical comedy in which she is to star. Martin Beck, hearing of her temporary idleness, immediately used his persuasive powers with a result that on New Year's day at Chicago she began a brief tour of the Orpheum circuit. Miss Dresser is probably best remembered in Orpheum cities as co-star with De Wolf Hopper in "A Matinee Idol." She is one of vaudeville's brightest lights.

• • •

Walter Hampden has scored a personal triumph in Richard Harding Davis' one-act play, "Blackmail." Mr. Hampden was considered one of the best actors in the legitimate drama, and his appearance in vaudeville is undoubtedly a managerial coup. "Blackmail" is generally pronounced the best one-act play in a decade.

• • •

• • •

The title of Ida Fuller's newest dancing production "If," which will be used for her tour of the Orpheum circuit, seems to imply mystery. Miss Fuller explains that the name has nothing whatever to do with her dances and is merely a combination of her initials. Her present vehicle is spectacular and includes three distinct forms of her art.

AT THE EMPRESS

Mr. Maxwell is constantly proving that he has ideas to spare, and in this his latest vaudeville attraction, he proves again that he is one of the cleverest men engaged in this business when it comes to putting on "girl acts," as they are called. Mr. Maxwell's "A Night in a Police Station," which was presented here several weeks ago, will bear witness to his ability as a producer. His newest venture, "The Dancing Girls," is said to reach the high standard which he has set in music, costuming and scenic effects and everywhere that it has been presented, the audience has voted it one of the best attractions of its kind in vaudeville. Headed by winsome Miss Julia Curtis, who is supported by six charmingly attired girls, this attraction from a spectacular and novelty stand-point should achieve high honors at the Empress during it's forthcoming engagement.

In the first scene, the girls are seen in mythical Toyland when they present a catchy song and dance number; as quick as a flash the scenery, costumes and atmosphere change to Iceland, where attired as ruddy Esquimo belles, these nimble dancers are again seen in an appropriate song and a very fetching dancing number. From the land of ice and snow, in a twinkling of an eye, one is transported to the Sunny South with the cotton in bloom, the beautiful colorings of the mid-day sun, and the dusky negro with his harmony, his famous dance and indispensible banjo, finishing with a most realistic rain-storm. Instead of the stereotyped dark change, this change is made in full view of the audience, amid the dancing on a southern plantation; the thunder storm arises, the lighting flashes and the wind whistles, and the girls change from the attire of the typical plantation negro to the regulation sou' wester and oil skins, and they sing and dance in the liveliest shower of rain that it is possible to portray as a scenic effect. Real water is used in this minature rain-storm which is said to arouse great entusiasm. One interesting feature of the rain-storm is that the act carries a specially constructed tank which has a capacity of 400 gallons of water and a specially patented ground effect which carries off the water and leaves the stage perfectly dry. The musical numbers, dancing, scenic and lighting effects, as well as the costuming in this attraction are said to be most beautiful, and everywhere this attraction has created a furore.

Coy De Trickey promises somewhat of an innovation in the singing and dancing art, as critics affirm that she is one of the daintiest and most talented interpreters of colored types in vaudeville. Miss De Trickey has an array of catchy songs, which she presents with a certain individuality and charm which is said to win her audience from the start. She is likewise a clever and most original comedienne and wears some stunning gowns which win the unstinted admiration of the gentler sex. This combined with her original style of manner, her sweet voice and clever dances has established this winsome artist firmly in the hearts of all lovers of vaudeville.

Val & Ernie Stanton come to the Empress next week with a grist of songs and sayings. The spirit of humor is said to be imbued in everything these clever artists do and say. Their songs are of the original brand, and their laughable lines bring a whisper of good cheer. Both are possessed of excellent voices which they put to good use in the rendition of exclusive songs. They are said to be an innovation to the lower of good and wholesome entertainment, and their fifteen minutes or more of concentrated dialogue and rumor could be spread out over an hour, and still leave an audience hungry for more, it is claimed. Everywhere on the Sullivan & Considine circuit they have proven most popular and should the advance reports prove true, the patrons of the Empress have a rare feast of song and humor in store for the coming week.

A special feature in the novelty juggling line is the offering of the Altus Brothers, who represent a high water mark for effective jugglery. They not only perform marvelous feats but their work is characterized for its swiftness. "Graceful and remarkably skilled, it is indeed a pleasure to witness their performance," says a recent criticism. "They keep their clubs working at a bewildering speed and work so deftly that they create excitement as well as admiration. They introduce several novel features in the offering which makes it appeal to one, although he may not be especially fond of this brand of entertainment. Throughout the act, there runs a little vein of comedy which prevents it from becoming monotonous. The Altus Brothers are coming to the Empress highly praised by the managers of the various theaters on the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

An extra added feature of unusual strength will be seen in the clever playlet, "The Girl from Yonkers," as presented by Mae Devlin and her admirable support. The sketch was written by Frederick J. Beaman, the prolific author of comedy playlets and Mr. Beaman is said to have written nothing more brilliant although he has no end of successes to his credit. Miss Devlin, who will be recalled for her splendid work in "The Houes Next Door," is declared superb in the leading role. She developes every bright line and situation in the sketch for every intonation of voice, every gesture, carries a meaning of its own and all for laughing purposes.

The central figure is a woman who enters the apartment of a young man, seemingly in error, but with full intent to carry off everything of value and she succeeds admirably. Miss Devlin has grace and charm, and as "A Simple Country Lass," is said to give a finished and interesting representation of a woman with taking habits, who yet found in the flippant philosophy of a cynic something tempting. The little play is faultlessly staged and is said to hold the audience's attention from start to finish.

The motion pictures will be chosen especially for this week and will be the latest and best subjects obtainable. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either 'phone. A bargain matinee is given every Saturday at 2:45. Special attention is paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at all times.

A big feature with the bill of Jan. 14 will be the great college playlet, "Books," which is creating a furore over the circuit.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"The Typhoon," a play by a Hungarian author, is likely to create a great deal of stir on the American stage. The play has already been produced in German and French and several claims have been put forward for American rights. As in the case of "The Devil" there is no international copyright to protect the piece. Walker Whiteside announced that he was going to produce the play in English. Now William A. Brady makes the same announcement, and the report is also at hand that Henry B. Harris is contemplating a similar move. "The Typhoon" is a play of Japanese intrigue, in which the principal character commits suicide. Whether it

To those who have never seen Montgomery & Stone in any of their masterly creations, it is worth while to observe that "The Old Town," which is the play they will appear in here, teems with a lot of joyful surprises in which the indefatigable Mr. Stone's novelties of impersonation dancing and acrobatic achievement, his lariat dance, also Mr. Montgomery's Japanese ballet, the cowboy ensemble, and the suffragette chorus, are four of the big numbers which found exceptional favor with the public during the New York run of "The Old Town."

Since Charles Dillingham is the managerial sponsor of the Ade play, it is safe to say that all of the fastidiousness of decoration and appointment for which all of his productions are always remarkable will be noted in the mounting of "The Old Town."

The company supporting Montgomery and Stone have been carefully chosen and capably drilled. "The Old Town" pony ballet in several exceptionally well-executed dancing numbers is one of the features of the performance, which is remarkable indeed for hustle-chuss incidental numbers.

Among the well-known principals in support of Montgomery and Stone are Clara Palmer, Flossie Hope, Helen Falconer, Edna Bates, Virginia Keudall, Peggy Preston and the Misses, Charles Dox, Howard Russell, Mack Whiting, W. J. McCarty, Howard Dyott and James G. Reaney.

Robert Hilliard appears under Klaw & Erlanger's direction in the successful and widely discussed play, "A Fool There Was," at the Lyceum. He impersonates a typical New Yorker of social and political distinction who is alienated from his family and brought to abject ruin by the lure of a sirenic creature of peculiar fascination. She vitalizes Kipling's weird conceit of the vampire woman who is only "a rag and a bone and a hank of hair." It is a blend of comedy and symbolic drama with a last act that is about the only example of tragedy in modern life plays. Mr. Hilliard has created leading parts in many plays from "Mr. Barnes of New York" and "Blue Jeans" to the "Girl of the Golden West" and was a great vaudeville favorite. The production is identical with that seen at the Liberty theater, New York. An ocean steamship scene is one of the big effects.

Florence Holbrook's song number, "Mrs. Casey," in Joseph M. Gaites stupendous musical comedy success, "Bright Eyes," is one of the novelty song hits of the piece and she received no less than six to eight encores at each performance. Cecil Lean's baseball song is also as popular in its peculiar line, "He's a Fan, Fan, Fan." Another real novelty is the barnyard fowl song hit, "I'll Be Your Chantecler." In this number the chorus is dressed to represent barnyard fowls and gives a characteristic barnyard dance.

"Bright Eyes" will be seen at Lyceum soon. An augmented orchestra will be used during the engagement here.

"A Night Out" is the name of the screamingly funny farce which Gus A. Forbes and his company will present tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Lyceum theater. The play tells the story of a young married man whose wife is in the country. The house is robbed while husband is out with "The Boys." When his wife returns she asks how could the house be robbed and he not know about it. The hero attempts to explain. And therein lies the fun for the audience.

Septimus Pontifex is the hero and his misery is shared by his father-in-law, who has also been out and his servant, James, who has also spent the evening out. The differences in the stories are of course discovered and the distress of the evil doers make the audience's pleasure. "A Night Out" is one of the most laughable and successful farces offered and should delight tomorrow's audiences.

Mr. Forbes, who is at his best in farce, will play the role of Septimus Pontifex. Fraser Green, his father-in-law will be played by Frederich Van Rensselear and James, the servant, will be played by Richard Cotton. "A Night Out" has been played with great success and is expected to prove a most popular bill with the Lyceum patrons.

Only two performances will be given, Sunday afternoon and evening.

This evening the final performance of "The Christian" will be played at the Lyceum theater by Mr. Forbes and his company. The play has been received with much enthusiasm during the week for the company is presenting a splendid performance.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Lily Lena.
Nina Payne and Company.
Mabelle Adams and Company.
Fiddler and Shelton.
Chick and Chicklets.
Hufford and Chain.
Alsace and Lorraine.
The Kinodrome.
The Concert Orchestra.

With thirty people on the bill, the Orpheum promises one of the most pretentious vaudeville shows ever brought to the local theater, next week. It is a double headline bill, the acts of Lily Lena and Nina Payne and company being jointly featured.

Probably the most popular woman performer on the Orpheum circuit at the present time, is Lily Lena, "Lovely, Lively Little Lily Lena" as she is called, the English comedienne, who is in this country for a brief tour. This is her third tour of the Orpheum circuit, but it will be the first time she has been seen in Duluth. Her success on Orpheum time has probably been equalled by but two English songstresses in recent years. These are Alice Lloyd and Ada Reeves.

Ashton Stevens, the dramatic critic of the New York Journal, referred to Lily Lena as "The Princess of Comediennes," and some of the other descriptions given of her are: "Magnetic as a Battery," and "Sweet as the First Song of the Lark."

Miss Lena spent the summer abroad, and brought with her to this country, just prior to the opening of the Orpheum season, many trunks filled with the latest and smartest frocks. The gowns that she wears are one of the features of her act, which consists of a series of popular songs. Like all English performers she has her own songs, which she sings exclusively, and among them is one melody which is said to be very catchy, "Take it Nice and Easy."

In the other headline acts, Orpheum patrons will be offered a novelty in the line of a French pantomine. "La Somambule" is the name of the pantomine presented by Mlle. Nina Payne and company. There are twelve people all told, in the company, with Mlle. Payne and Signor St. Elia in the leading roles. The French pantomimes are new to Duluth, and should be of interest to theatergoers. The scene discloses a reception hall in the home of Monsieur Martel's house. A surprise party in honor of his wife's birthday is in progress. Among the guests is Count Antoine, whose attentions to Mme. Martel are noticeable. Some dramatic complications follow. There is some comedy in the pantomime, and also a somnambulistic dance by Mlle. Payne, which is said to be exceptionally well done. Special stage settings and electrical effects are carried by the company, and the act is one of the biggest and most expensive on the circuit.

In addition to these two headliners, will be seen an act which ranks close to the headline class, and has been attracting more attention this season than many so-called headline acts. This is the playlet built around the violine playing of Mabelle Adams, the famous gypsy violinist. It is the tale of a famous young American painter, who fell in love with a gypsy girl model while studying in Paris. He is very jealous of her, and they quarrel. The playlet is said to be a very dramatic little sketch, and throughout it the violine playing of Miss Adams is featured. Stewart Robbins also appears in an important role, and there are six people in the company. There is a special production of typical French scenery, and some elaborate lighting effects.

Fiddler and Shelton are just opening on the circuit, and come to Duluth from a successful Eastern tour. They are two real colored performers, one of whom appears as a Chinaman. They present a singing, dancing and comedy dialogue act.

Under the unique title of Chick and Chicklets, two comedy cyclists, will introduce the vaudeville novelty, the cycling doll. These two clever performers come to Duluth with the prestige of having scored a real hit in other Orpheum cities they have visited.

Hufford and Chain present a skit which they call "The Parson and the Minstrel Man." Mr. Huffard's impersonation of the "cullud parson" is said to be irresistibly funny. He delivers a sermon which is filled with absurd breaks in grammar, and his impassioned delivery has been an unfailing appeal to the risibilities of other audiences.

Alsace and Lorraine will present a novel musical act, in which, after playing a number of instruments, they present their own invention, an Alsacephone, which is a combination of a violin and cornet. It is said to come nearer to the human voice than any other instrument. This act also carries a special scenic production.

The kinodrome, showing the newest motion pictures of world's events, and the concert by the Orpheum orchestra, will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

* * *

For the week of Jan. 14 the biggest act on the Orpheum circuit will be seen in Duluth. This act is "The Romance of the Underworld," a drama with a cast of twenty-three people, and lasting fifty minutes. So elaborate and lengthy is the act that only six acts are presented when it is on a bill.

* * *

"The best laid plans of men and mice oft gang a glee." Miss Louise Dresser had planned a vacation, awaiting the completion of the musical comedy in which she is to star. Martin Beck, hearing of her temporary idleness, immediately used his persuasive powers with a result that on New Year's day at Chicago she began a brief tour of the Orpheum circuit. Miss Dresser is probably best remembered in Orpheum cities as co-star with De Wolf Hopper in "A Matinee Idol." She is one of vaudeville's brightest lights.

* * *

Walter Hampden has scored a personal triumph in Richard Harding Davis' one-act play, "Blackmail." Mr. Hampden was considered one of the best actors in the legitimate drama, and his appearance in vaudeville is undoubtedly a managerial coup. "Blackmail" is generally pronounced the best one-act play in a decade.

* * *

* * *

The title of Ida Fuller's newest dancing production "If," which will be used for her tour of the Orpheum circuit, seems to imply mystery. Miss Fuller explains that the name has nothing whatever to do with her dances and is merely a combination of her initials. Her present vehicle is spectacular and includes three distinct forms of her art.

AT THE EMPRESS

Mr. Maxwell is constantly proving that he has ideas to spare, and in this his latest vaudeville attraction, he proves again that he is one of the cleverest men engaged in this business when it comes to putting on "girl acts," as they are called. Mr. Maxwell's "A Night in a Police Station," which was presented here several weeks ago, will bear witness to his ability as a producer. His newest venture, "The Dancing Girls," is said to reach the high standard which he has set in music, costuming and scenic effects and everywhere that it has been presented, the audience has voted it one of the best attractions of its kind in vaudeville. Headed by winsome Miss Julia Curtis, who is supported by six charmingly attired girls, this attraction from a spectacular and novelty stand-point should achieve high honors at the Empress during it's forthcoming engagement.

In the first scene, the girls are seen in mythical Toyland when they present a catchy song and dance number; as quick as a flash the scenery, costumes and atmosphere change to Iceland, where, attired as ruddy Esquimo belles, these nimble dancers are again seen in an appropriate song and a very fetching dancing number. From the land of ice and snow, in a twinkling of an eye, one is transported to the Sunny South with the cotton in bloom, the beautiful colorings of the mid-day sun, and the dusky negro with his harmony, his famous dance and indispensible banjo, finishing with a most realistic rain-storm. Instead of the stereotyped dark change, this change is made in full view of the audience, amid the dancing on a southern plantation; the thunder storm arises, the lighting flashes and the wind whistles, and the girls change from the attire of the typical plantation negro to the regulation sou' wester and oil skins, and they sing and dance in the liveliest shower of rain that it is possible to portray as a scenic effect. Real water is used in this minature rain-storm which is said to arouse great entusiasm. One interesting feature of the rain-storm is that the act carries a specially constructed tank which has a capacity of 400 gallons of water and a specially patented ground floor which carries off the water and leaves the stage perfectly dry. The musical numbers, dancing, scenic and lighting effects, as well as the costuming in this attraction are said to be most beautiful, and everywhere this attraction has created a furore.

Coy De Trickey promises somewhat of an innovation in the singing and dancing art, as critics affirm that she is one of the daintiest and most talented interpreters of colored types in vaudeville. Miss De Trickey has an array of catchy songs, which she presents with a certain individuality and charm which is said to win her audience from the start. She is likewise a clever and most original comedienne and wears some stunning gowns which win the unstinted admiration of the gentler sex. This combined with her original style of manner, her sweet voice and clever dances has established this winsome artist firmly in the hearts of all lovers of vaudeville.

Val & Ernie Stanton come to the Empress next week with a grist of songs and sayings. The spirit of humor is said to be imbued in everything these clever artists do and say. Their songs are of the original brand, and their laughable lines bring a whisper of good cheer. Both are possessed of excellent voices which they put to good use in the rendition of exclusive songs. They are said to be an innovation to the lower of good and wholesome entertainment, and their fifteen minutes or more of concentrated dialogue and humor could be spread out over an hour, and still leave an audience hungry for more, it is claimed. Everywhere on the Sullivan & Considine circuit they have proven most popular and should the advance reports prove true, the patrons of the Empress have a rare feast of song and humor in store for the coming week.

A special feature in the novelty juggling line is the offering of the Altus Brothers, who represent a high water mark for effective jugglery. They not only perform marvelous feats but their work is characterized for its swiftness. "Graceful and remarkably skilled, it is indeed a pleasure to witness their performance," says a recent criticism. "They keep their clubs working at a bewildering speed and work so deftly that they create excitement as well as admiration. They introduce several novel features in the offering which makes it appeal to one, although he may not be especially fond of this brand of enterlainment. Throughout the act, there runs a little vein of comedy which prevents it from becoming monotonous. The Altus Brothers are coming to the Empress highly praised by the managers of the various theaters on the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

An extra added feature of unusual strength will be seen in the clever playlet, "The Girl from Yonkers," as presented by Mae Devlin and her admirable support. The sketch was written by Frederick J. Beaman, the prolific author of comedy playlets and Mr. Beaman is said to have written nothing more brilliant although he has no end of successes to his credit. Miss Devlin, who will be recalled for her splendid work in "The House Next Door," is declared superb in the leading role. She developes every bright line and situation in the sketch for every intonation of voice, every gesture, carries a meaning of its own and all for laughing purposes. The central figure is a woman who enters the apartment of a young man, seemingly in error, but with full intent to carry off everything of value and she succeeds admirably. Miss Devlin has grace and charm, and as "A Simple Country Lass," is said to give a finished and interesting representation of a woman with taking habits, who yet found in the flippant philosophy of a cynic something tempting. The little play is faultlessly staged and is said to hold the audience's attention from start to finish.

The motion pictures will be chosen especially for this week and will be the latest and best subjects obtainable. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either 'phone. A bargain matinee is given every Saturday at 2:45. Special attention is paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at all times.

A big feature with the bill of Jan. 14 will be the great college playlet, "Books," which is creating a furore over the circuit.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"The Typhoon," a play by a Hungarian author, is likely to create a great deal of stir on the American stage. The play has already been produced in German and French and several claims have been put forward for American rights. As in the case of "The Devil" there is no international copyright to protect the piece. Walker Whiteside announced that he was going to produce the play in English. Now William A. Brady makes the same announcement, and the report is also at hand that Henry B. Harris is contemplating a similar move. "The Typhoon" is a play of Japanese intrigue, in which the principal character commits suicide. Whether it

Viola Allen is to give up her "Lady Godiva" play and shortly make her appearance in a new play by Rachael Crother, called "He and She." Earlier in the season it was tried out on the road with George Fawcett and Emma Dunn in the principal roles. Much is expected of it, and Miss Allen is said to be just the right person for the principal female role.

* * *

Arnold Daly is to be in the Liebler fold once more. This time it will not be in the nature of a star, but as the leading man for Mme. Simone, the celebrated French actress, who is to open next week in "The Return From Jerusalem," a play which has been translated from the French of Maurice Donnay.

William Morris is going to Europe this week to arrange for next year's tour of Harry Lauder. He expects to buy off some of the Scotch comedian's continental bookings in order to lengthen his tour in this country, which is to begin in October. With the new year Morris also withdraws from any active participation in the Loew vaudeville enterprises.

Owen Davis has dramatized the Sewell Ford stories called "Shorty McCabe." Victor Moore has been assigned the title role, and the piece was tried out in Wilkesbarre on Christmas day. From accounts it has the elements of success.

* * *

"The Servant in the House" is to be revived under the management of Joseph M. Gaites, with Tyrone Power as the star in his original part of the Drainman. The date of the revival depends on the close of the company presenting "Thais," which is now touring New England.

* * *

On account of the indisposition of Mme. Rita Fornia whom an attack of throat trouble will prevent appearing in public for several days, M. Gatti-Casazza postponed the premiere of "Le Donne Curiose" from last Thursday to next Wednesday evening. The second performance of the opera will be this afternoon, Jan. 6, when the composer, Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari, who will arrive on the Lusitania Friday, will be present.

Klaw & Erlanger launched their company of "The Pink Lady" at the Valentine in Toledo on Christmas day.

* * *

In bringing the season of "The Three Romeos" to a termination at the end of the Globe theater engagement, New York, Dreyfus & Fellner are not withdrawing the musical comedy for all time. As a matter of fact, they already have rather definite plans for its revival. Unless they undergo a change of faith they will present "The Three Romeos" in Chicago late next spring in the hope of scoring an all-summer run, and thus paving the way for a mid-West invasion in the fall.

Thomas A. Wise has a new vehicle, "Capt. Whittaker's Place," which is a dramatization of Joseph C. Lincoln's novel.

R. E. Johnston has closed negotiations with Adeline Genee, the celebrated dancer, to tour the United States and Canada next season under his management, the tour to embrace the whole country and includes the Pacific coast. Miss Genee will present a new innovation in the art of dancing. She will carry her own symphony orchestra, a large outfit of curtain appliances, special lighting apparatus and other accessories.

* * *

William A. Brady has concluded arrangements for the stage rights in "Little Women," the story which made the fame of the late Louise M. Alcott, and which, although first published forty-three years ago, still enjoys an annual sale of some 100,000 copies and is quoted by the book dealers as one of the "best sellers" of the holiday period. The gross circulation of "Little Women" in America is said to exceed 2,000,000 volumes.

Large and repeated editions of "Little Women" have been published in England, France and Germany, translations having been made into the native languages of the two countries last mentioned. The book has been printed in raised letters for the blind.

* * *

Following the termination of her six months' run at the Harris theater, in "Maggie Pepper," Rose Stahl will go on tour, opening Monday, Jan. 8, at Ford's Opera house, Baltimore. Miss Stahl will play in and around New York for four weeks, and will then go into Philadelphia, at the Walnut Street theater, for a run, opening there in February. She will round out her season in Charles Klein's play in the East. Her tour for next season is not completely booked, although the chances are she will go as far West as the Pacific coast.

* * *

Charles Frohman and Maude Adams have decided to prolong Miss Adams' season in "Chantecler" a month beyond the tour as originally mapped out, thus bringing it to an end in Spokane about the middle of July. Miss Adams will act "Chantecler" and no other play in more than sixty cities between this date and midsummer. Mr. Frohman announces that Miss Adams' next Broadway appearance will be at the Empire theater in November, 1912, at which time she again will be seen in "Chantecler."

The novel "Queed" is to be dramatized. The producing rights of this story by Henry Sudnor Harrison have been acquired by Cohan & Harris, who have arranged with Winchell Smith for the stage version.

PASSING OF THE LEECH.

London Globe: Another of our cherished ideas will soon be no more. The leech has been disposed from its sovereignty and its "passing" forms the subject of an article in the "Mois litteraire et pittoresque," by M. Jacques Boyer, who tells us that prior to 1870 a dozen wholesale houses in Paris were engaged in the traffic of this "gibier pharmaceutique," and that they sold between 300,000 and 400,000 a month at the rate of 250 francs or £10 per 1,000. One house alone survives and the number sent out is 130,000 and the price has fallen to about 70 francs per 1,000.

What we may term the leech farmer for want of a better name we are told is Thiridiculteur, who formerly exercised his calling in the neighborhood of Bordeaux in an artificial marsh. He had several infirm horses and these poor creatures were induced by trickery to take a bath in the marsh with the result that the growing leeches got a feed at the expense of the life blood of the venerable horses, of which they had no superfluity.

In Croatia, Dalmantia and Turkey they fish for leeches, which are taken in baskets like oysters. When these arrived in France they were placed in dark cellars without nourishment the better to fit them for their work on the invalid.

M. Boyer tells an amusing story of a lot of leeches purchased for the navy. They were duly registered as each was sent out. Five it seemed died a natural death, a fact which will be preserved in the archives of the Ministry of Marine.

The Maoris, inhabitants of the South Sea islands, found themselves once in possession of a supply of shoes. Instead of seeking suitable sizes, they cut off their toes to fit the shoes whenever it was necessary.

A. BONCI.

Alessandro Bonci has given up his idea of organizing an independent opera company. The personal popularity of Mr. Bonci is so great that he believed a year ago that it would be possible for him to take up the work of Oscar Hammerstein. It was Hammerstein, who discovered Bonci and brought him to this country. But the United States is well provided with opera companies now and Mr. Bonci will devote his time this season to concert singing.

KATARINA GELTZER.

Katarina Geltzer is the new Russian dancer who has come to America for a short season, taking the place of Anna Pavlowa. She is a rival of Pavlowa in Russia but as yet she is unknown in this country. She will dance only in New York, as she is due to appear in Moscow on Jan. 15.

DOES YOUR SCALP ITCH?

It's very disagreeable. The annoyance is further increased by loose hair and flakes of dandruff constantly falling on the clothing. Itching scalp almost always indicates dandruff and is due to the increasing growth of the dandruff plant or microbe in the hair follicle. This sets up a irritation of the scalp.

Scratching the head with the finger nails or a sharp instrument crushes the germ plant, removes the pressure and allays the itching temporarily. Effectual relief can be obtained only by the application to the hair and scalp of a preparation which permeates to the hair bulb and destroys the life of the microbic growth. This is the action of

Before the closing down of the St. Paul mine many were under the impression that it would be difficult for laboring men to obtain employment after stripping operations were discontinued on the property. Since then, however, a large number of men have found work in this vicinity getting out poles, posts, logging and mining timber for the various mines, contracts having been let to several local contractors by the mining companies.

The Mississippi mine has about 350 men employed and is rapidly increasing the size of its stock pile. Night and day shifts are kept busy and it is probable that ore will be shipped from the mine next spring as soon as the navigation season opens.

The St. Paul mine it is expected will soon put on about 100 men, who will be employed in repair work, but from the present outlook it is not likely that stripping operations will be resumed until some time in April.

Orville Collick returned Tuesday morning from Houghton, where he spent New Year's with relatives.

New Year's was observed at the Swedish Lutheran church in the following manner: On Sunday night at 9 the members of the Young People's society rendered a program, after which the usual midnight services were held. On Monday, New Year's day, the annual meeting of the church was held at 9 in the morning, and in the evening services were held at 7:30, at which service the pastor, Rev. J. W. Johnson, preached his farewell sermon. Rev. Johnson has made this city his home for several years and has made many friends here who are sorry to see him with his family leave. Rev. Johnson has accepted a call to Rockford, Ill.

Miss Bertha Lofberg returned to Appleton, Wis., Thursday morning to resume her studies at Lawrence university.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Exworthy have returned from Minneapolis, where they went to spend the holidays with relatives and friends.

On Saturday evening, Dec. 30, the young men of the Jessieville M. E. Sunday school served a bachelor supper in the basement of the church. All the work of the evening was done by men and a very enjoyable time was spent by all who attended.

Clarence L. Burgderfer, humorist, will appear at the First M. E. church this evening as the second number of the Star course, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society.

Capt. S. Bennett, who spent New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. May, left Monday night for his home at Iron Ridge, Wis.

Bert C. Hayes has been appointed commissioner by the circuit court of Gogebic county to take testimony in the suit that the Newport Mining company will institute as a result of the raise of the assessment of their property on this range by the state tax commission this fall.

Division No. 1 of the A. O. H. has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Edward Sullivan; vice president, Michael Maloney; recording secretary, Patrick Sullivan; financial secretary, Patrick Dwyer; treasurer, Timothy Killeen.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Patrick.

Patrick Donovan has completed the alterations on his building on Aurora street, having transformed it into modern apartments of four flats. The flats have all been leased, Frank Whitman, Arthur Sutherland and H. C. Garver having moved in last week.

The funeral of the late James Shelley was held Thursday afternoon from the home, the services being conducted by the Rev. W. B. Coumbe, pastor of the First M. E. church. Death was caused by bright's disease. He was 57 years of age. Mr. Shelly was one of the early settlers of Ironwood.

Ironwood and vicinity are held fast in the grip of the cold wave which at this time is felt all through the Northwest. Yesterday morning the thermometer registered 32 deg. below zero, and a brisk wind was blowing, which sends the cold through everything.

Ira Prout returned Tuesday to Chicago, where he will resume his studies at the medical department of Northwestern university.

Miss Dora McNamara and Harry Trezise could not return to school with the other students on account of illness, but will return on Sunday evening to their respective colleges, the former to Carrol college, Waukesha, and the latter to Madison.

Sam Gribble left for Detroit on Tuesday after spending the holidays with his parents in this city. His brother Will, who is attending the M. A. C., went as far as Chicago with him.

Thomas Slade and sister, Miss Lucy Slade, left yesterday for Detroit and Albion respectively. Miss Slade is a senior at Albion college and will graduate next June.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Durkee returned last week from their wedding trip to Tennessee, and will make their home in this city with Mr. Durkee's mother on Ayer street.

Dr. L. O. Houghton spent New Year's with friends in Chicago.

John Carlson left Monday night for Detroit, where he expects to locate permanently.

Miss Lelia Luxmore of Bessemer left Thursday evening for Detroit to resume her studies at the musical college of that place.

Philip A. Coumbe will leave Sunday night for Olivet, where he is attending college, after spending the holidays with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Coumbe.

LIMIT VOTING RIGHT OF BANKS

Plan to Prevent Sectional Control of Reserves Adopted.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The national monetary commission has virtually agreed upon a provision, which, it is claimed, will have the effect of preventing the exercise of undue influence upon the affairs of the proposed National Reserve association by any individual, corporation or section of the country. This practically completed the work of that body.

The great fear from the beginning of the commission's labors has been that the $300,000,000 reserve which it is proposed to establish would be controlled by some financial center.

Representatives Vreeland and Weeks and Former Representative Bonynge yesterday presented a proposition which proved acceptable. It would restrict the voting right of banks in cases in which individuals or corporations own stock in more than one of them. The effect of this provision will be to limit or prevent voting by banks owned or partly owned by one stockholder or one set of stockholders.

The division of the United States into fifteen branch reserve associations will be as follows:

One in New England states; two in the Eastern states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware; four in the Southern states, extending from Maryland to Texas; four in the Middle Western states and four in the Far Western and Pacific coast states.

BRYAN OBJECTS TO BEING CANDIDATE

Approves Protest Against His Name Going on Primary Ballot.

Lincoln, Jan. 6.—W. J. Bryan, according to a letter received from him by his brother, W. C. Bryan, had an intimation that his name might be filed as a presidential candidate, and it was to assure his Nebraska friends that under no circumstances would be be a candidate that he wrote the letter. In his communication to his brother, Mr. Bryan says he feared the effort to launch him as a candidate for the presidency might affect his candidacy as delegate to the national convention, for which place, he says, he is still an aspirant, but for nothing else. A telegram sent by A. A. Arthur to Mr. Bryan is as follows:

"Have just filed your name for president without your permission. I consider you the original progressive. Of course Wilson, La Follette and Roosevelt are good imitations, but why a substitute? I firmly believe the people demand the original."

Politicians in Lincoln claim to believe the filing of Mr. Bryan's name is the beginning of a well-matured plan to force him into the race, but his political intimates profess to believe there will be no difficulty in securing the withdrawal of the petiton.

Bryan Approves Protest.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 6.—W. J. Bryan, en route to Washington, commenting upon the action taken at Lincoln, Neb., said: "My brother did the proper thing in entering a protest. They have no business to put a man in as a candidate unless he wishes to be one."

His only reply as to whether he would be a candidate was "I have already expressed myself sufficiently."

STARVING RABBITS DRIVING KANSAS HOGS FROM FOOD TROUGHS.

Hutchinson, Kan., Jan. 6.—Driven desperate by hunger, hordes of famished jack rabbits are raiding farm yards and feed lots in Western Kansas ranches, according to reports brought to this city by ranchmen. The deep, hard-crusted snow has deprived the rabbits of their usual food. Where corn has been left in shocks, or hay stacked, the little animals congregate in thousands. Thousands have been killed, and thousands have starved to death, with no perceptible diminution of their numbers. Frank Winslow, a ranchman in Hodgman county, said he had seen hordes of rabbits invade hog pens and drive the porkers from their food by sheer force of numbers.

ELECTRO MEDICAL DOCTORS, Inc., WILL LOCATE IN DULUTH

Staff of Doctors Have Been in Duluth for the Last Few Days--Decided Duluth as Good Site for Their Office and Future Sanatorium.

Details as to Location of Office and Date of Opening Will Be Announced Shortly.

Possibly no other town in the Northwest is as much in need of a sanatorium as Duluth. Within the last few years it has grown to an extent as no other town in the United States, and while business has made the greatest progress, the interest for people's health has practically stood still, for there is not a single sanatorium within the boundaries of this great city, which is bound to be the center of the Northwest.

The Electro Medical Doctors are a corporation of several physicians of profound learning and are backed by Eastern and local business men. This will be an institution which is going to stay permanently. They are incorporated under the laws of Minnesota with a capitalization of $10,000. No other doctors have ever done this before in Duluth; this alone is a guarantee of their good will to make Duluth their permanent home.

At present the doctors will establish their offices in the business section, the location of which will be announced shortly. It is their intention to establish themselves in their office first and later on to build one of the largest sanatoriums of the Northwest, where they will treat all diseases of men, women and children. Chronic diseases, however will be their specialty. There is practically no sanatorium for the many thousands afflicted with Hayfever nor for any other disease, and Duluth will benefit greatly by having people come to the sanatorium from all parts of the country.

There are practically no other doctors in the world who have worked with greater success in the cure of chronic diseases than these doctors have for the past ten years in Eastern cities. The method of their marvelous cures has been a work of years and they have almost spent a fortune in perfecting the art of healing diseases which always have been thought to be incurable. They are Medical Doctors who have received their training in the Medical Universities of Europe and the best Medical schools of the United States. They say that the medicine is used altogether too much by the people of the United States; they depend too much on "dopes" and too little on scientific principles, which are the only principles of healing and of nature. As the name of Doctors indicate, they will make use of the wonders of modern electrical inventions. We are told that they have the most wonderful machines on the way to Duluth of which there is not a second alike in this city. The doctors come here with the highest of recommendations. The reports of their cures are certainly wonderful as hundreds of cases are cured in the most marvelous way which almost is miraculous.

However, there are no miracles in their cures, everything in science, everything they do is in harmony with the laws of nature, for their method of curing disease is the most natural in the world. They depend more on the wonderful powers of nature than on medicines. Every human body is a storehouse of magnetism and electricity, the weaker the body gets through disease the less magnetism and electric power it has. Organs will refuse to work under these circumstances because every sensory and motor nerve in the body is stimulated and set in motion by electrified nerve power and poisons will accumulate and easily establish themselves in the body where the nerves are weakened and diseased. Their possession is one machine among others which will do greater wonders on a patient with a single treatment than ten gallons of ordinary medicine would. It breaks up the poison radicles in any diseased part of the body and makes him well in almost no time. The costs of the scientific appliances are high but the reward resulting in success of the Electro Medical Doctors has been tremendous, for they have restored health and happiness to thousands who have been pronounced to be incurable by old methods. As stated above, the Electro Medical Doctors will open their office in Duluth within a few days. This is the first and only office of this kind in the State of Minnesota.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROOKSTON KNOWS HIM

Olaf Tveitmoe, the Indicted California Labor Official, Former Minnesotan.

Figured in Polk County Politics Eighteen Years Ago, Then Disappeared.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Olaf Tveitmoe, an official of the California State Federation of Labor, who was indicted in Los Angeles Dec. 30 by the grand jury, which is probing the alleged dynamiting conspiracy, was a resident of Crookston in 1893 and 1894.

He had a good education in Norwegian and is said to have been a sort of stool pigeon for the courthouse politicians who held the whiphand at that time. He was a lieutenant of Sheriff Andrew Steenerson and Probate Judge Benson, both now dead, and with Adolph Bydahl contributed liberally to the Red River Dalen, at that time a red-hot political sheet. This was during the first insurrection of the Steenersons and their following at that time against the A. D. Stephens faction.

Tveitmoe was reputed to be a heavy drinker. Later the Good Templars straightened him up and he did some lecturing for that order, but it is said he did not hold out long.

He Never Came Back.

On July 4, 1894, he went to a country picnic near Fertile, where a big celebration was held, and delivered the oration of the day and never came back to Crookston. He then had a wife and one child. He was a big strapping fellow, endowed with more than his share of the gift of gab. He went to the Twin Cities from here and nothing was heard of him until the trial of Abe Reuff at San Francisco, when a government detective dropped into the city and looked up Chief of Police Eck to get a line on Tveitmoe, whom the government believed to be implicated in some shady work in connection with Reuff. The detective got what information he wanted from Former Judge of Probate Ole Hagen, now dead, and departed for the West, but no intimation was gained here that Tveitmoe was arrested at that time, though the detective stated that he was confident that Tveitmoe was tangled up in some of the work done. Nothing was heard of Tveitmoe until the news came of his arrest on the dynamiting charge.

MUST RUN HOTEL TO GET LICENSE

New Rule Adopted By the Beltrami County Board.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of county commissioners of Beltrami county, after considerable parrying with a combination of most of the newspapers of the county which bid for the legal publishing, rejected all bids and designated the Rainy River Region of Baudette, as the official paper of the county.

A. E. Rake of Bemidji township was chosen chairman of the board, succeeding Viggo Peterson.

The board voted to redivide the unorganized territory of the county into new tax assessment districts.

Board of Health.

Dr. Einer Johnson and Commissioners Rako of Bemidji and Clementson of the Fifth district, were named a board of health for the unorganized territory of the county, and the salary of the physician was fixed at $20 per day and actual traveling expenses when actually employed.

Nels A. Otterstad o Turtle River was named supervisor of assessments and also appraiser of state lands. Mr. Otterstad and J. J. Opsahl appraised state lands in this county last summer and fall in conjunction with Mr. Case, who was in charge of the work.

County Attorney Torrance was allowed $500 as a contingent fund for 1912.

The board passed a resolution that hereafter no liquor license will be granted unless the applicant conducts a hotel in connection with his proposed saloon.

For the Woman That's Fat

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is ½ ounce Marmola (get it in the original ½-ounce package), ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3¼ ounces Peppermint Water. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost, and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

TAFT COMMENDED IN SOUTH DAKOTA

"Tama Jim" Defends His Chief and Stirs Up Some Enthusiasm.

Huron, S. D., Jan. 6. — The Republicans of South Dakota assembled here Friday adopted strong resolutions indorsing the administration of President Taft and declaring for his renomination and re-election. The event of the evening was an address by Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, the key note of which was the inauguration of a vigorous campaign.

Secretary Wilson's address was given in conversational style, without attempts at oratory and his defense of the Taft administration was greeted with cheers.

Send Taft Greetings.

South Dakota's message to President Taft follows:

"The Republicans of South Dakota, assembled in mass convention in the city of Huron, extend to William Howard Taft most cordial greetings and congratulations upon his splendid administration for the welfare and progress of the people of the whole country. Our convention has adopted enthusiastically strong resolutions commending your administration and advocating your renomination and election for a second term."

AFTER MONEY FOR THE GOPHER

Adjt. Gen. Wood Will Ask $10,000 While at Washington.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—Adjutant General F. B. Wood will leave Monday night for Washington to attend a meeting of the National Rifle association, a meeting of the National Military board and the Naval Militia. He will also appear with other National Guard officers before the senate and house committees on military affairs to urge passage of the bills providing pay for national guardsmen while encamped for training.

Mr. Wood hopes to obtain an appropriation for improving the Gopher, the training ship for Minnesota's naval militia. Approximately $10,000 is needed, he said, to enlarge the main cabin to care for fifty more men to establish a new ventilating system and reconstruct the bridge.

MID-WINTER FAIR AT DEVILS LAKE

President Pennington of Soo Line Among Notables Who Will Attend.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mid-winter fair and farmers' institute to be held here next week promises to be one of the biggest events of its kind.

Thursday, Jan. 11 has been designated as "Pennington" day, and when President Pennington of the Soo railroad will deliver an address.

The three days' fair and institute will commence Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock with the address of welcome by President W. H. Horton, followed by the response from President Henry Hale of the Ramsey County Agricultural society.

"Objects and Aims of Farmers' Institutes" will be discussed by T. A. Hoverstad, and he will be followed by an address by Prof. W. C. Palmer on "Objections of Conserving Moisture."

Thomas Cooper to Speak.

Wednesday afternoon Thomas Cooper, secretary of the North Dakota Better Farming society will speak on "The Objects of the Better Farming Society." "Diversified Farming and the Necessity of the Hour" is the next subject which will be taken up, and the work of the day will be concluded by an address by Rev. E. C. Wallace on "The County Church as a Social Center."

Col. R. A. Wilkinson of St. Elmo will speak the second day on "Cattle and Cattle Raising." "Corn Raising" will be discussed by Prof. J. H. Sheppard of the North Dakota agricultural college, and representatives of farmers' elevators companies will speak on the handling of grain by such corporations.

The last address of the day will be by President Pennington of the Soo, and in the evening there will be a reception for him and Vice President Martin of the Soo road.

Friday will see the conclusion of the judging, and addresses by Prof. J. A. Haig of Devils Lake, President J. H. Worst of the agricultural college and several others.

NEW CLOQUET OFFICIALS IN

Mayor Kelly and Council Fill the Various Positions and Mayor Gets Present.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new city officials have taken up their duties and the inaugural council meeting was attended by a very large crowd, the room being packed by spectators and friends of the officials.

Mayor William Kelly in his inaugural made several recommendations which met the approval of those present, among them being the continuation of the street improvements and inspection of all milk sold to the public.

The new officers are: Mayor, William Kelly; aldermen, H. J. Danielson, Oscar Anderson, John Mattinen, Stokes Wilson and John Nelson. These officials at the close of the Mayor's address presented him with a handsome gold locket. Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh making the presentation speech. Mr. Kelly had been president of the old council and an officer in various capacities in the city for many years and is held in high esteem by his associates. The council elected J. A. Parks, city clerk. J. A. Pesenbeck city attorney; and Archie Campbell superintendent of waterworks. The mayor appointed Charles Wendell, chief of fire department; John McSweeney, chief of police, and Dr. James Fleming, health inspector. The elective officers and appointees were the same as last year.

Drop City Engineer.

Mayor Kelly recommended that the city dispense with the offices of city engineer and the council acted on his recommendation, as it was not thought necessary to continue the employment of such an officer for the present at least. Mr. Sommerfeldt, the engineer, has given excellent satisfaction and has already accepted a position in St. Paul.

The new officials are entering on their duties at a time when the city in general is in very good condition, much street work having been done the past year and long extensions of water and sewer have been built. There is also $10,000 at their disposal for the continuation of street improvements. Mayor Kelly recommends the repair of approaches to the city as well as streets in the city, and it is probable that as soon as spring opens the road north of the city and the road to the reservation will both be put in excellent shape.

NOW AFFILIATED WITH BIG SHOW

North Dakota Poultry Association Part of National Organization.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 6. — (Special to The Herald.) — The North Dakota Poultry association has been affiliated with the American National Poultry association. President Crabbe and Secretary Caniff esteem this a high honor and are anticipating one of the greatest shows ever held in the state here Jan. 15 to 20.

At Marion, N. D., in La Moure county is the third largest poultry farm in the United States and one of the attractions at the coming show will be a model of the farm complete in every detail. Special prizes are offered this year for a number of features in the poultry line and a big and attractable list of exhibits are already assured.

FREEZES TO DEATH NEAR PARK RAPIDS

Ernest Hoffman Victim of Cold Spell While Hauling Wood.

Park Rapids, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest Hoffman, a bachelor aged 50, living alone on his claim in Argo township, north of here, was frozen to death about a mile north of Fishhook lake. His body was found yesterday by Christ Armbruster. He was last seen alive some time Wednesday by Mr. Conner, who met Hoffman on the road driving a team of oxen, with which he had brought a load of wood to Park Rapids.

The deceased was a native of Germany and so far as known had no relatives in this country.

Appraise Irrigation Scheme.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Objection has been raised to the plan of using water from Curlew creek, at Glen Ullen, in furthering an irrigation project which has recently been launched by a number of farmers in that district, and at a hearing held before Engineer T. R. Atkinson, such objections were voiced.

PREPARING FOR MEET.

North Dakota Hardware Men to Gather at Fargo Feb. 21.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program committee of the North Dakota State Hardware Men's association has been in session here to outline the program for the convention to be held in Fargo, Feb. 21, 22 and 23.

The committee consists of H. A. Moe of Churches Ferry, president of the association; C. M. Barnes of Grand Forks, secretary; Otto Sougstad, Northwood; W. R. McIntosh, Bottineau; A. J. Smith, Carrington; H. F. Emmery, Hubert Harrington, Fargo.

PIONEER WOMAN DIES.

Wife of Larimore, N. D., Postmaster Is Called.

Larimore, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.) — Mrs. Elery C. Arnold, aged 84, the first white woman to settle in Larimore township, died at her home here yesterday. She was the wife of the Larimore postmaster, and they were one of the best known couples in this section of North Dakota.

Mrs. Arnold had lived in this section since 1880, coming from Houston county, Minn., to which place she had removed in 1861 from Connecticut. Up to a year ago she had been very active.

BANKER MO ACQUITTED.

Court Dismisses Second Charge Against Sleepy Eye Man.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 6.—The second case against Hans Mo of Sleepy Eye, president of the State Bank of Cobden, was dismissed by the court Friday. Mo was acquitted Thursday of the charge of aiding R. M. West, who recently pleaded guilty to embezzling more than $12,000 of the bank's funds, and was placed on trial Friday charged with being an accessory after the fact.

The court held that the latter charge was not sufficiently specific.

COURTS MUST DECIDE

Which Society Is Entitled to Premium Money.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—Before the draft for $623.50 is sent out to the Morrison County Agricultural Cooperative society to reimburse it for premiums awarded exhibitors at its annual fair last summer, at least a week will expire in order to give the Morrison County Agricultural association opportunity to appeal to the court for possession of it, according to State Auditor Iverson.

The two associations claimed the money, but Mr. Iverson awarded it to the co-operative society.

FATHER OF TWENTY-ONE.

Viroqua, Wis., Patriarch, Aged 90, Goes to Reward.

Viroqua, Wis., Jan. 6. — John White, aged 90 years, father of twenty-one children, the oldest of whom is a son 64, died yesterday.

Mr. White had a large number of grandchildren and great grandchildren. It is said of the old man that after he became blind some time ago he used to keep account of the days of the week and month by putting a little stick into the ground each day. When he had a row of these he could tell what day it was. Once some one put an extra stick in his row and he made the mistake of starting to church on Saturday, thinking it was Sunday.

STATE OIL INSPECTION.

Shown to Be Effective in State of Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 6. — The annual report of the state supervisor of inspectors of illuminating oils, Louis F. Meyer, decaries the department to be more effective than at any time since its establishment.

The report shows that 184 barrels of oils were rejected, 355,751 barrels of oil and 351,779 barrels of gasoline were inspected. The total receipts for the year ending Sept. 30, 1911, $70,753.09 exceeded the total disbursements by $23,363.91. The department is striving to cut down the number of explosions from stove polish.

GRAND FORKS COUNCIL TO MAKE INVESTIGATION.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.) — Investigation into conditions at the head waters of the Red Lake river will be made by a delegation from the city council. They will leave in time to conduct their probe previous to the hearings which will be held in Grand Forks, Crookston and Thief River Falls by Maj. Shunk of the war department.

ASHLAND POLICE OFFICER SUSPENDED.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 6.—Police Sergeant Magnuson, who for several days past has been on trial before the fire and police commission, has been suspended from the force for one month without pay. Magnuson had been charged by Chief Blair with dereliction of duty and conduct unbecoming a police officer, but the commission turned the chief's charge down, insofar as his demand that Magnuson be discharged or reduced is concerned. The final vote for suspension was 3 to 2.

LETTER POUCH STOLEN AT WINONA DEPOT.

Winona, Minn., Jan. 6.—A 100-pound pouch of ordinary letter mail, made up at the Winona postoffice, mysteriously disappeared from a truck on the platform of the Chicago & St. Paul depot Thursday evening while waiting to be placed on Passenger Train No. 5, northbound.

The greater portion of the mail was consigned to the Twin Cities.

PARK RAPIDS NOTES.

Park Rapids, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers of Hubbard county have organized a Farmers' club, to work together for the purpose of raising uniform grades of stock, grains and vegetables, building a potatoe warehouse and otherwise doing business on a business basis. The officers elected were Frank W. Campbell of Todd, president; Norman Manlove of Hubbard, vice president; Dr. P. D. Winship of Park Rapids, secretary and treasurer.

The New Year's reception given by the Commercial club was a great social event. The room were beautifully decorated, an orchestra furnished music for the day. In addition, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespe of Minneapolis and F. A. Vanderpoel gave several violin selections. Miss Daisy Slater rendered several piano selections.

There will be a three days' session of Farmers' institute held here Jan. 17, 18 and 19.

John Flynn, cashier State bank, has been drawn as a juror in the United States court of Duluth and will go to Duluth Monday.

Mrs. Carl Hoeffs of Straight river died Dec. 24, 70 years of age and the mother of ten children. Mr. and Mrs. Hoeffs came to this county twelve years ago and settled on the homestead where Mrs. Hoeffs died.

The annual election of the Firemen was held at the fire hall Wednesday evening. Byron Knapp was elected chief, Len Grover, assistant chief. Others chosen were: Hose Co. No. 1, Jacob Glantz, captain; Fred Crawford, assistant; Hose Co. No. 2, Curtis Wright, captain; William Vogtman, assistant; Hose Co. No. 3, Lawrence Campbell, captain; Frank Rice, assistant.

Ole Nygard, father of M. M. Nygard, county recorder, came from his home in Fergus Falls to spent the New Year with his son.

Marquette—Mayor Jacobs has issued orders to Marshal Manning instructing that all owners or occupants of business blocks and residences be cautioned to keep the sidewalks in front of their premises in safe condition, under penalty of arrest.

Negaunee—The body of the late Monsignor Fr. Langner was carried into St. Paul's church Thursday, where it will lay in state until the burial Tuesday morning. The ceremony connected with the removal of the body was simple, and was conducted by three priests from out of town.

Escanaba—By a deal closed in Escanaba the Little Harbor Lumber company of Garden, owned by John and Isaac Bonifas, sold to the Van's Harbor Land & Lumber company a tract of approximately 7,000 acres of cut-over lands. The tract is adjacent to land already owned by the Van's Harbor company.

Houghton—W. D. Hill of Crystal Falls, superintendent of schools of that city and president of the Upper Peninsula Educational association, has named Supt. John A. Doelle of Houghton as chairman of the resolutions committee.

Menominee—The state naval board, ordered a new election of a commander of the battalion to succeed Capt. H. S. Goodell, resigned, and to which office Capt. Grant Stephenson of Wells, was elected. The former election was declared illegal, on account of some officers voting who were not eligible, their commissions not having been issued.

Norway—The congregation of the Norwegian Lutheran church held its annual meeting last Monday and elected the following officers: Deasons, John Aune, John Benson and Martin Olson; trustees, Sandberg Swenson, Louis Kjoren and Jacob Dahl; secretary, A. T. Sethney; treasurer, James Johnson.

Bessemer—The Gogebic board of supervisors has appointed a committee consisting of John M. Bush and L. C. Brewster of Ironwood and William Knight of Bessemer to take up the matter of the installation of a mine rescue station on this range.

Calumet—Township Clerk Martin reports that the total number of births for the month of December, was 44, while the number of deaths for the same month was 18. Both the birth and death rates are slightly below the average for any preceding month of the year.

Houghton—The Soo hockey team will be in Houghton to meet the Portage Lake hockey team in what will be the opening games of the season in the Copper country on Monday, and Tuesday evening of next week.

Negaunee—The Negaunee State bank building was gutted by the most disastrous fire that has visited this city in years early Wednesday morning. It was constructed in 1873, and it was completed and opened up in the following year.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—Legislative action to restrict rapid growth of banks, on the ground that unnecessary competition weakens rather than strengthens the banking system of the state, is recommended by A. E. Kuolt, commissioner of banking, in his annual report to Governor McGovern.

Milwaukee—A series of arrests is being made in connection with what is charged to be an extensive conspiracy to rob the electric railway companies of supplies, sold to electrical men and for junk.

Washburn—The first annual banquet of the Pioneer association which was formed in this city several months ago will be held at the Masonic hall next week and it promises to be one of the most elaborate banquets that has ever been held in the history of the city.

Fond du Lac—H. Wiley, a baggageman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, was injured at Mayville Thursday. Mr. Wiley slipped on some ice and fell onto a box. It is not known as yet whether there are any ribs broken.

Eau Claire—In the recollection of many old-timers, it has been a long time since the Eau Claire river has been frozen over as completely as it is at present. Ice has formed all the way across, even closing the channel at the linen mill dam.

Ashland—Mrs. Arthur Ehn fainted during the funeral services held for her mother at the Swedish Lutheran church Wednesday. She was taken to a rear room and efforts were made to bring her back to consciousness but without avail, and Dr. Hertzman was called. He succeeded in resuscitating her and she was taken home.

Sheboygan—Isaac Newton Rawson, 79 years of age, died at the residence of his son-in-law, F. A. Dennett of Sheboygan, Wednesday evening. The funeral will be held in Sheboygan and the interment will be at Forest Home cemetery, Milwaukee. Mr. Rawson was the father of Mrs. F. A. Dennett of Sheboygan, and Mrs. John R. Dennett and Mrs. Julien Zillier of Port Washington. He was born at Whitesboro, N. Y., and was a resident of Beloit up to about fifteen years ago.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Langdon, N. D.—The Cavalier County Caledonian society, with Hugh McDowell as chief and Peter Reid as secretary, have arrangements well under way for their celebration on Thursday, Jan. 25, of the birthday of Robert Burns. The committees handling the features of the day's observance say that the celebration this year will be bigger and better than any of previous years.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Advertising Manager James Lyons of the Grand Forks Automobile Show association is getting to work with a vengeance. The posters for the coming event are being placed about the city.

Fargo, N. D. — The Norwegian weekly, Fram, has passed into the hands of a new corporation, The Fram company, was recently formed and incorporated with a capital of $25,000. The new company, it is stated, is an entirely different corporation from the old Fram Publishing company, its stockholders representing some of the leading Norwegians of the Northwest.

Mandan, N. D.—The continual thieving of the railroad company's property by people in the vicinity of Henzler and Fort Clark is about to develop into a tremendous sensation and engulf several prominent people of that section, it is said.

Grand Forks, N. D.—F. E. Draper, arrested in this city about ten days ago and afterwards arrested in Fargo and taken to Portage la Prairie, Man., pleaded guilty in police court there Wednesday to three charges growing out of a forgery.

Minot, N. D.—Mrs. Mary J. Haley, aged 50, a nurse, dropped dead from heart disease Thursday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Darby. Mrs. Haley was at work in the dining room and as far as is known had not been ailing prior to her death.

Fargo, N. D.—The awarding of the $1,000 prize of the First National bank of this city for the best corn grown in the various sections of the state, will take place during the Tri-State Grain Growers' and the State Corn Raisers' conventions and shows in this city which begin Jan. 16.

Minot, N. D.—Dr. Richard D. Park, who is the guest of Dr. M. H. Scholberg, is visiting Minot after an absence of ten years from this city, which was at one time his residence.

Fargo, N. D.—That the police of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth and other large cities are driving out the tramps that are located there is the belief of the police department of Fargo, who say that during the past two weeks an unusually large number of the tribe have drifted into the city.

Pierre, S. D.—At a meeting of the supreme court Wednesday afternoon, Justice J. H. McCoy was selected to the honor of presiding judge of the court for the year 1912.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Long Prairie—William Maybury of Preston has bought the Scenic theater property from William Carstens. Mr. Carstens will remain a short time to assist Mr. Maybury getting acquainted and will then leave for his home in Glencoe.

Crookston—The visit of President George Edgar Vincent of the University of Minnesota to the Crookston School of Agriculture next Tuesday, when he delivers two addresses, one at 11 o'clock and a second at 7:30 p. m., the latter being his great lecture on "Education and Efficiency" is arousing a great deal of interest.

Warren—The funeral of Eugene Dady, whose death occurred Tuesday evening, was held Wednesday at the Congregational church and was in charge of the Masonic lodge. Rev. McHenry of the Congregational church and Thomas Morris of Crookston officiated.

International Falls—Manager J. A. McPhee of the Rex hotel was a passenger Wednesday night for Rochester, where he goes to again consult the Mayos. It is feared Mr. McPhee will have to undergo an operation for gallstones.

Bemidji—Judge C. W. Stanton Tuesday next will proceed to Grand Rapids to hold court. Judge B. F. Wright will open the January term of district court in Park Rapids next Wednesday. On Jan. 17 Judge Wright will be in Baudette.

Princeton—The Mille Lacs county commissioners organized Tuesday. F. C. Cater was unanimously elected chairman for the ensuing year and Ole H. Uglem vice chairman. Commissioners Cater and Uglem were elected to act in the capacity of poor farm committee for the year 1912 and Commissioners Cater, Dalchow and Uglem as courthouse committee.

St. Cloud—John Barrigan, a former inmate of the state reformatory, was returned to that institution Thursday after breaking his parole. He surrendered in Minneapolis.

Moorhead—L. H. Tenny post, G. A. R., has elected these officers: Commander, Peter Czizek; senior vice commander, Wright Works; junior vice commander, James H. Sharp; adjutant, L. Osborn; surgeon, D. O'Donnell; chaplain, Severn Parks; quartermaster, William Middagh; inside guard, J. Lasky; outside guard, Peter Anderson, sergeant-major, E. D. North; delegate to department encampment, Peter Czizek; alternate delegate, L. Osborn.

Brainerd—David Cluff of Watertown, charged with assault in the first degree, was acquitted Wednesday by the jury in district court. In the case of the state vs. Ferdinand S. Currie, an order of dismissal was entered on the motion of County Attorney Fleming.

Stillwater—David Gallinger, 72 years old, died at his home in Denmark Jan. 2, 1912, from heart trouble. He was a pioneer resident of Washington county and a brother of J. H. Gallinger, United States senator from New Hampshire. He is survived by a widow, two sons and a daughter.

Braham—In the butter scoring contest at the state convention held at Albert Lea, butter from the Braham Co-operative creamery scored 93¾ points, holding up in the third class among contestants from the Sixth district.

Mora—Thirty-one marriage licenses was the 1911 record for Kanabec county as disclosed by the records of Clerk of Court Andrew Erickson.

St. Cloud—The Security State bank has elected these officers: President, C. L. Atwood; vice president, C. S. Crandall; cashier, Fred Stangl; assistant cashier, Anton B. Rieland; teller, Hilda Larson; bookkeeper, Andrew Weber. The usual dividend of 8 per cent was declared and reports showed the year's business to have been very satisfactory. A budget of $5,000 was added to the surplus, making that fund $25,000.

Little Falls—John Japp, a resident of Todd county, was brought before Justice Randall Wednesday charged with killing partridges out of season and shipping them from the station at Cushing. The defendant pleaded not guilty and the cast was continued to Jan. 11 and the prisoner released on bail. The charge was made by Game Warden W. H. Onsteine of Brainerd.

Duluth's realty market struggled through a period of dullness and uncertainty during the year just closed. Unsettled business conditions throughout the land in no small measure were largely responsible for the sluggishness of the local market during the past twelve months. As far as the real estate dealers are concerned, they are glad that 1911 is over. They are, however, optimistic as to the coming year and do not hesitate to predict a bright future for Duluth realty.

Dealers report but few changes during 1911. Residence property of the better class was held tight, home owners realizing that after all, about the best kind of an investment that can be made is Duluth real estate. The movement in downtown business property was exceptionally slow, no deals of any great importance transpiring. Acreage showed a good disposition throughout the year and there was no time where acres and garden tract parcels in the vicinity of Duluth were not in demand. At times when the movement in city property was practically nil, there was brisk inquiry for outlying tracts and many sales were made.

One Large New Industry.

One large new industry was secured for the city during 1911. This came about through the purchase of a dock site by the Island Creek Coal company. The property involved is situated on Grassy Point and is advantageously located for dockage purposes. The deal was made by the West Duluth Land company, which has on various occasions, sold large and valuable parcels of water front property at West Duluth as sites for docks. The Island Creek Coal company paid $62,500 for its property, which consists of about thirty acres and which is known as the Lesure street property. It is understood that the company intends to build its dock the coming year.

The biggest deal of the year in real estate as shown by the transfers was recorded on July 14, when William O'Brien took over from the Allegheny Iron Mining company the land and timber in section 2-60-12. The consideration was given as $800,000. Another good acreage deal although much smaller, was recorded when G. G. Hartley purchased from W. W. Billson for $32,0000 the south half of section 3-50-14.

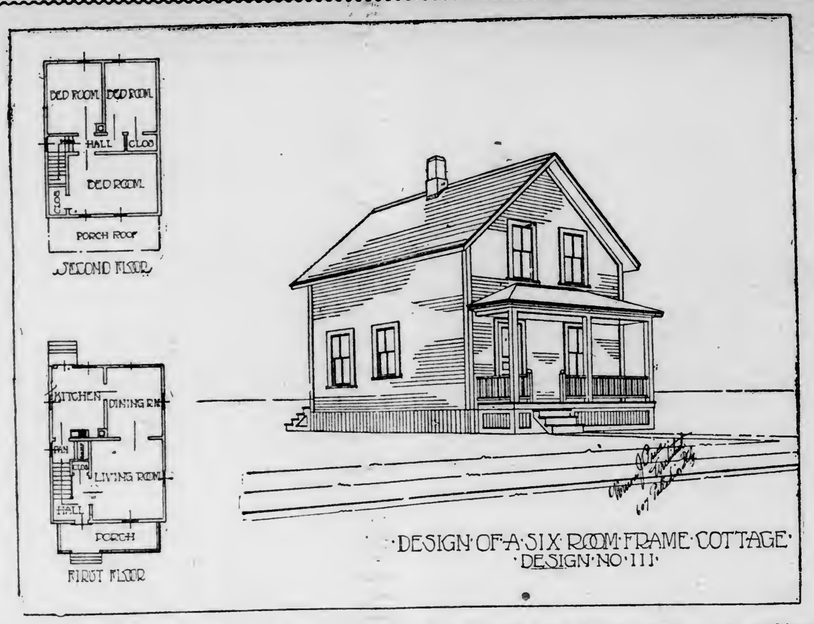

Early in April, the United States government purchased the last of the First street property needed for the government square. It was purchased in six parcels, a consideration of $86,746.48 being given.

In February, Mary Le Floholc transferred her holdings, consisting of the Lincoln hotel on West First street for $65,000, a property on St. Croix avenue for $38,000 and a property on East Superior street for $31,500 to the Alesci Real Estate company. This company is said to be simply a holding corporation for her interests.

One good deal went through at the West end during January, when J. J. Moe purchased from R. A. Torrey for $30,000 the site and building now used by Mr. Moe for a department store.

T. F. Cole sold the Gitchi Gammi club its site for the new club house which they intend to erect during the coming year. They paid $42,000 for it.

YEAR JUST CLOSED WAS A QUIET ONE IN BUILDING TRADES

Architects and contractors report a falling off in building operations, especially in the business districts. The year was a good one for residences and most of the architects were busy a good share of the time preparing plans for bungalows and houses. The "own your own home" movement seemed to have taken effect and the result was that many new homes were built. This was especially true in the suburbs.

The building permits, which accurately record the volume of business which is being done in the building line show a decrease of $747,926, as compared with 1910. This is leaving out of consideration, a $10,000,000 permit which was issued to the Steel corporation for the Minnesota plant. The total cost of improvements in 1911 is placed at $2,563,338, while in 1910 the aggregate figure stood at $13,311,264. In 1911, 1,358 permits were issued, as compared with 1,458 in 1910.

The permits and the estimated cost of the improvements may be classified for 1911 as follows: New frame buildings, 720, $1,007,700; additions, repairs, etc., to frame buildings, 468, $204,499; new brick buildings, 84, $688,767; additions, repairs, etc., to brick buildings, 96, $196,427; new buildings, additions and repairs to fire-proof buildings, $466,000.

While the showing was a poor one in some respects, Duluth builders believe that they see better times ahead and are optimistic as to the future.

QUIET WEEK IN REALTY

Residence Property Is Closely Held and Inquiry Is Strong.

Dealers Are Optimistic and Hope for a Lively Spring.

The week was quiet in realty lines, although a few sales were reported by the dealers. There are promises of better things to come next spring and some say that the inquiry keeps up remarkably well for the quiet season. Residence property is hard to buy at a bargain, business property continues strong, and acreage is in good demand.

UNPLATTED LAND SOLD

Ex-Vice President Fairbanks Disposes of Duluth Holdings.

Valuable West End Residence Property Will Be Platted.

Ten acres of valuable but unplatted residence property in the West end changed hands yesterday, when the Fairbanks division passed from the control of ex-Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks and Charles E. Henderson to James J. Hughes, a West end real estate operator.

The deal was made through the office of Stryker, Manley & Buck of this city. Although the consideration was not given, it is understood that $20,000 was paid for the property. Mr. Hughes has announced his intention of platting the new division and putting it on the market.

Fairbanks division is located between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth avenues west and between Fifth and Seventh streets. Twenty-seventh avenue and Sixth street both run through the property, Twenty-seventh avenue having some improvements. There has been much building on all sides of the new division, but owing to the unwillingness of the former owners to put it on the market before, the property is totally unimproved.

Charles E. Henderson, who, with Former Vice President Fairbanks, owned the division, is also owner of the valuable Windsor hotel corner, Fifth avenue west and Superior street, diagonally opposite from the Lyceum building.

The new division will be platted and put on the market early in the spring. It will consist of about sixty lots.

New School at Arnold.

Kelley & Lignell, architects, have prepared plans for a modern six-room brick school building to be erected at Arnold. There will be two rooms in the basement and four on the main floor. The building will cost $15,000.

The same firm is preparing plans for the proposed Company G armory at Princeton, Minn. This building will be of brick construction.

NEW JAIL FOR NEW DULUTH

Ellerbe, Round & Sullivan, local architects, are taking figures for the construction of a new jail and police station at New Duluth which will be erected this spring.

The plans call for a brick, concrete and absolutely fireproof building. Among other features there will be a private apartment for the officers in charge, a room for vagrants, three cells for men prisoners, and one for women. It will cost $5,000.

PLANS ARE DISCUSSED FOR COLONIZATION.

At the annual meeting of the Boston & Duluth Farm Land company held this week, the old officers were re-elected. The annual gathering gave the officials a chance to talk over the colonization scheme which they have in view. Recently the company sold 1,800 acres in Carlton county and the plan now considered is to sell the land in small tracts to colonists, who are settlers. The area is tributary to the Great Northern and Soo lines. J. L. Washburn is president of the company and the other officers are John G. Williams, treasurer and Edward Hazen, secretary.

HAS PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOLS

Duluth Architect Will Take Bids on $100,000 Structure.

Architect Anthony Puck, who has prepared plans for a $1000,000 high school building at Buhl, Minn., will take figures on the new structure about Feb. 1. The new school will be of brick and terra cotta and will be of fireproof construction. It will carry two stories and a full basement and will be roofed with tile. The structure will be modern in every particular.

Architect Puck has let the contract to McLeod & Smith for the construction of a frame cold storage house to be erected at Hibbing for the Fitger Brewing company of this city. The building will cost $7,000 and will be completed in the spring.

REAL ESTATE

A REAL BARGAIN

Paying big interest and sure to advance in value—75 feet on lower side of Superior street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west—running through to Michigan street. This is the very heart of the business center of the West End.

There is a good substantial brick building on the lot—two stories and basement 75x90 feet in size—two stores on Superior street and six flats on second floor. Building just right for the location. Rental $256 per month or $3,072 per year. Price $28,500. Can be bought on cash payment of $5,000—easy payments on balance.

Will show large interest on the investment and the ground will double in value at least.

A rare chance for a safe and profitable investment.

We are always ready to make any good loan without waiting to have offer accepted.

TO CONVENE IN CHICAGO

Manufacturers in Clay Working Industry Will Assemble Next March.

Important Conventions Will Be Held Simultaneously in Windy City.

Manufacturers representing the billion dollar clay working industry will assemble in Chicago next March, according to an announcement made there today following the sending out of invitations to the mayors of all cities in the United States to attend a municipal congress there at the same time.

The mayors are invited to take with them their municipal engineers and building commissioners and were promised that practical exhibits would be prepared for their instruction toward the achievement of the "Practical City Beautiful."

One of the most important conventions to be held at that time will be that of the National Brick Manufacturers' association. This organization includes the manufacturers of common building brick, facing brick, ornamental brick of all kinds, paving brick, fire brick and refractories, gas retorts, crucibles, glass furnaces and furnace linings, hollow block, sewer pipe, conduit for underground wiring, farm drain tile, silo blocks, fireproof hollow tile for skyscrapers, building terra cotta, architectural terra cotta, floor and wall tile, mosaics, pottery, sanitary ware, semi-porcelain, chinaware, art pottery, kitchen ware, clay pipes, clay pigeons, marbles and electrical insulators.

This association alone répresents invested capital of $1,000,000,000 and the annual products of the manufactories of its members are valued at more that $3,000,000.

The American Ceramic society, the technical organization of the clay industry, will also meet in annual convention there. This society ranks with the British Clayworker' Institute and is made up of scientists and college professors.

The National Paving Brick Manufacturers' association is another organization scheduled to meet in Chicago while the Clay Products & Permanent Home exposition is being held at the Coliseum from March 7 to 12. This association represents $25,000,000 capital and concerns itself with the manufacture of blocks for the surfacing of city streets and country highways.

The Building Brick Association of America, another name in the list of conventions, is an organization comprised of the advertising men connected with the brick industry. Members of this association spend $50,000 annually in advertising.

Other organizations to meet there are the Association of Manufacturers of Clayworking Machinery, representing $20,000,000 invested capital; the Western Drain Tile Bureau, with a membership of 2,000 manufacturers; the Illinois Clay Manufacturers' association and the Wisconsin Clay Manufacturers' association.

WILL BUILD SCHOOL AT GARY

Board Will Have an Entire Block for a Site.

Gary, the steel plant suburb, will have a school for its children within a short time.

The board of education has practically acquired an entire block fronting on Reis street between 101st and 102nd avenues west and has signified its intention of erecting a building there this winter. A teacher will be put in charge and a course of study up to the Eighth grade will be installed.

Gary has now about 100 families. More than half of the families have children and the school house will fill a long felt need. In the purchase of block 5, Gary, the school board had an eye to the future for this suburb, which has had a remarkable growth during the year just closed.

A. C. Volk & Co., who sold the board of education the site for the school building, also report that during the past week that they received an inquiry from a macaroni manufacturer, who was looking for a location at Gary.

During the week, the firm sold two Gary lots to Hibbing people, one in response to an inquiry from Red Granite, Wis., and another to a Cleveland man. Mr. Volk also reports a healthy tone to the inquiry, in spite of the general dullness which seems to prevail.

BUILDINGS ERECTED IN DULUTH LAST YEAR.

PROSPECTS ARE NOT DEPRESSING

Improvement Bulletin Says Better Times in Building Lines Are Coming.

The Improvement Bulletin today says:

"The prospect for 1912 is by no means depressing. Were it not for the presidential election and some feeling of apprehension which is felt over certain government prosecutions, the prospects would be regarded as rather better than usual. The worst of the situation in the Northwest, from the standpoint of backward collections and backward business, seems to be fairly well over. Where it is not the burden is better distributed than was the case a year ago, and much of it has been anticipated. There has been an expansion of business in this territory, which has called for a wider preparation in the way of building accommodation than has yet been met. The past year may not have shown the need so plainly, because of the general tendency to conservatism, but it exists. The least indication of a return to better things in business, shows it with many lines. This will be a standing invitation to start new structures whenever there is the least general revival of business activities. This is tentative, as all prospects are, but the chances are that the volume of building for 1912 through the Northwest generally, will equal that of 1911. There will be variations. Some localities which have had big totals for the past year, may show a falling off. Others which had a dull season, may show a sharp gain. But taken through the territory, the chances seem to be very favorable for an even comparison or better.

"While 1911 was not marked by exceptional rushes of building work, yet the completion of the year shows that there were fewer projects which were taken up only to be dropped without being started. On the whole, what work was started in the way of plans and sketches, was carried through to completion. The distribution of the work in the different classes, shows a fairly general volume covered. There were new public structures, court houses, city halls, fire stations, an excellent number of new school buildings, churches in good numbers, dwellings in excellent volume, business buildings and the like, while in public service work, sewers, paving, waterworks, electric lighting and others were fairly well included. In the latter classifications, the prospects for the new season are exceptionally good. There have been a good many communities taking up preliminary steps in the matter, and early spring should see many of them advertising for the construction of their projects."

WORK ON NEW BETHEL PUT OFF UNTIL SPRING.

Contractor George H. Lounsberry has completed work on the foundation of the Bethel building, which is being erected at Mesaba avenue and First street. The work on the superstructure has been deferred until spring. Mr. Lounsberry expects to have the work completed by midsummer.

New East End Home.

Gustafson & Olson have started work on a modern two-story frame dwelling on Twenty-first avenue east near Fourth street. The house will be modern throughout and will have a hot water heating plant. It will cost $4,000.

SOCIALIST PLATFORM

Party Declares for Rigid Enforcement of All Laws.

The Socialist party, which has candidates in the field for all offices except that of municipal judge, has issued its platform. The party pledges itself to enforce all laws, especially those regulating the saloons; to curb vice; to investigate causes of poverty; to reorganize the system of public improvements so as to do them by day labor under competent superintendent, instead of by contract; to establish a municipal hospital and to further the cause of municipal ownership.

The platform charges the other parties with dodging the issues and makes a plea for support as the working man's party.

The Socialists are making an aggressive campaign. Copies of the platform and other Socialistic literature will be scattered through the city. Meeting are being held every night and the candidates of the party are outlining their position on public questions.

The campaign has been quiet thus far. Dr. J. A. McCuen, candidate for mayor on the Republican ticket, addressed several meetings this week and announced his platform. Dr. Cullum has made no platform addresses, but he and his friends are doing quiet work. Mayor Cullum's position on public questions has been made clear during his administration and he is standing on his record.

The registration at the primary Dec. 19 was light and all workers are urging the voters to register. There will be two more registration days, Jan. 23 and Jan. 27. Although the campaign is quiet, the fight is an interesting one and a heavy registration is expected.

The bond issue of $700,000 for building a municipal electric light plant will be voted upon on the same day as the city election, although a special election will be conducted on the bonding question. The question has had wide discussion for the past year and great interest is being taken in it.

At a meeting of the Fifth Ward Republican club held at H. Fawcett's office in the Mesaba block last evening, Dr. McCuen, candidate for mayor, and Dr. W. H. Konkler, candidate for alderman, spoke. Both declared in favor of allowing the question of the bond issue to rest with the voters and pledged themselves to abide by the wishes of the voters if they are elected.

CAR FALLS FIFTY FEET; FOUR FATALLY HURT.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.—Four persons were fatally injured and another seriously hurt last night when a street car jumped from the Central bridge, which connects this city with Newport, Ky. The car turned completely over in its drop of fifty feet to the pavement below. The fatally injured are:

Harry Wessling, Newport, Ky., conductor on the car, skull fractured and internally injured.

Benton Schroll, secretary-treasurer of the Central Bridge company, Newport, Ky., skull fractured, internally injured and broken bones.

Edward Hapfel, Cincinnati, skull fractured and contusions of the body.

Harry Finnan, Covington, Ky., motorman on the car, skull fractured and both legs broken.

Samuel Hollows, Newport, Ky., the other passenger, sustained scalp wounds and a contused body, but will recover.

ALLEGED NEW YORK THIEF ARRESTED IN WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6.—Charles Ross, alias Charles Murphy, was arested here yesterday afternoon by city detectives. He is said to be wanted by the police of New York, accused of being implicated in the robbery of Aaron Bancroft of that city of securities valued at $97,000 last March. When arrested he had $30,000 worth of securities in his possession, the police say. Murphy will fight extradition.

Midway Farmers Organize.

New England, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—An association has been organized at Midway, a district lying south of this city, the farmers having started a movement for better farming and for more dairying. One of the principal objects of the club will be the establishment of a creamery or a cheese factory, and steps with that end in view are already being taken by the officers.

WORKING ON COMMISSION

Men to Have Charge of Industrial Bureau to Be Announced Soon.

New Department of Commercial Club Will Get to Work Early in Year.

The names of the members of the industrial commission of the Duluth Commercial club will be announced in a few days. As soon as the commission is organized, the man to have executive charge of the bureau will be selected and the new department of the club will get to work.

The membership of the commission was discussed at length by the executive committee at a prolonged session today. Many names were considered, but the appointments to the commission were not definitely made.

The executive committee appointed a sub-committee to make arrangements for the meeting to be held next Thursday evening when David R. Forgan of Chicago will deliver an address on monetary reform. The subject is an important one that is not generally understood and the committee will endeavor to get a large crowd of busines men out to hear Mr. Forgan's address.

At the solicitation of the Lincoln Memorial Road association, the committee will ask Congressman Miller and the senators from Minnesota to work for a Lincoln memorial in the form of a highway from Washington to the field of Gettysburg, with appropriate termini rather than a large memorial monument wholly within the city of Washington.

NEW COUNTERFEIT NOTES DISCOVERED.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The secret service announces the discovery of two new counterfeit notes, a $5 silver certificate and a $10 gold certificate. They are creations of the pen and brush and rather crude.

Stephenson Company Buys Plant.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 6.—The mill and timber holdings of the Ford River Lumbering company have been purchased by the I. Stephenson Lumber company. The timber holdings, principally hardwood, will be manufactured at Wells, Mich. Senator Isaac Stephenson was re-elected president of the I. Stephenson company.

Accuse Ashland Woman.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the charge of causing the death of Mrs. John Dormandy, Jr., by an illegal operation, Mrs. Kate Hess, who conducts what she terms a maternity home, has been arrested on a manslaughter charge and released on $1,000 bonds, pending a hearing next Wednesday.

AMERICANS SKEPTICAL

Fail to Wax Bullish on Reports of Argentine Wheat Damage.

Liberal Offerings of May Flaxseed Cause Price to Decline.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 6.—There were persistent reports today of damage to the Argentine wheat crop by wind and rainstorms. No quotations for today could be obtained from Buenos Ayres, as that market was closed for a holiday. Last night wheat closed unchanged on the Buenos Ayres market, thus sustaining its recent advances, yet Liverpool wheat dealers, and likewise many on this side of the ocean, were very much inclined to discredit the news of destruction of Argentine wheat. Liverpool actually closed at a decline, wheat on that market being unchanged to ¼d lower. Berlin and Antwerp closed ⅝c higher.

Duluth and Minneapolis were as skeptical about the Argentine damage as was Liverpool, and May wheat showed declines on both, being ⅛@¼c down at Duluth and ¼c down at Minneapolis. This is the more remarkable in view of today's light primary receipts, which were nowhere near those of a week ago or a year ago. There was some bullish movement on both of these markets earlier in the day, but the skeptics saw fit to take advantage of this and to seize profits while they had an opportunity. The result was that closes were lower than yesterday.

Flax Is Cheaper.

Duluth flax declined by reason of large offerings of May country holders and bearish news from Buenos Ayres, where flax last night closed 2¼c lower. The decline would probably have been greater than it was on the Duluth market, were it not for insensibly cold weather, which has to some extent interferred with deliveries and made sellers a little timid about contracting for January deliveries. Duluth January flax closed ½c lower and May ¼c lower.

Duluth durum and rye closed unchanged, cash wheat at the May price, oats at ⅛c up, corn ¼c up and barley 3c up.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Stronger on Good Commission House Buying.

Chicago, Jan. 6. — Good commission house buying had a strong strengthening effect today on the market for wheat. Although the weather was reported clearing in Argentina, other advices seemed to be without end.

In particular there seemed to be no longer any doubt that the news of the inquiry said to have been caused by black rust was fully to be relied upon. Bullish sentiment was increased by the fact that receipts at terminals northwest of Chicago were less than a year ago and that the cold in that direction remained severe. The market here opened unchanged to ⅜c off. May started at $1.01@1.01¼, the same as last night, to ¼c down, and then rose to $1.01⅜@1.01½.

Renewed assertions that rust damage reports from the Argentine were exaggerated brought about something of a setback. The close nevertheless was steady, with May $1.01¼@1.01⅜, a net advance of a shade.

Comparative smallness of offerings made corn sympathize with the firmness of wheat. Predictions of unabated cold had also a bullish influence. May opened a shade lower to a like amount higher at 64¼ to 64⅜c and advanced to 64⅞c.

The market later reacted a little but closed steady at 64½c for May, a gain of ⅛@¼c net.

Despite heavy realizing on the part of longs, the oats market worked higher. The bulging tendency of other grains formed the main reason. May started ⅛@¼c off to a shade up at 49¼ to 49½c and ascended to 49¾c.

A rise in prices at the yards helped the provision market to climb. Packers, however, became free sellers. Initial transactions were 5c to 7½c higher, with May deliveries $16.35 for pork, $9.60 to $9.62½ for lard and $8.80 to $8.82½ for ribs.

Carlot receipts: Wheat, 7 cars, with 1 of contract grade; corn, 286 cars, with none of contract grade; oats, 47 cars. Total receipts of wheat at Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth today were 122 cars, compared with 290 cars last week, and 133 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Easier on Selling By Local Professionals.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6.—Selling pressure on the part of local professionals made Minneapolis wheat relatively easier than in outside markets. Trading was partially featured by evening up operations for over Sunday. May closed ¾c lower than yesterday and July ⅛@¼c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 20,000 bu for one day. Early strength was caused by further bullish reports from Argentina. Carlot wheat receipts: Minneapolis today, 100; week ago, 223; year ago, 117; Duluth today, 15; week ago, 52; year ago, 39; Winnipeg today, 147; week ago, 806; year ago, 111.

Cash wheat was still stronger today. Mills were eager buyers of the light receipts, especially the choice grades. No. 1 northern was quoted ½c to 1c above the May contract, with a few cars of extra choice selling for 1⅛c above May.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,974 tons. Demand for bran continued strong, but other feeds were slow sales. Prices continued firm.

Wheat—May opened $1.08½@1.08; high, $1.08¾; low, $1.08; closed, $1.08. July opened $1.09¾; high, $1.09¾; low, $1.08⅞@1.09; closed $1.08⅞@1.09.

Closing cash prices: No. 1 hard, $1.09½; No. 1 northern, $1.09, to arrive $1.09; No. 2 northern, $1.06½@1.07; No. 3 wheat, $1.04@1.04½; No. 3 yellow corn, 60c; No. 3 white oats, 46@46½c; No. 2 rye, 90c; bran in 100-lb sacks, $23.00@23.50.

Flour—There was no quotable change in the flour market today. Millers reported a slight improvement in sales as compared with earlier in the week. Prices were firm at the recent advances. Shipping directions were only fair. Shipments, 45,817 bbls. First patents, $5.35@5.60; second patents, $4.90@5.20; first clears, $3.70@4.05; second clears, $2.60@3.00.

Flax—Receipts, 5 cars, year ago, 7; shipments, 7. Demand continued strong for the light flax receipts. Both spot and to arrive seed were quoted at 1c below the Duluth January contract. Closing price, $2.18; to arrive, $2.18.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Range Limited Early and Then the Trend Becomes Downward.

Short Covering Causes Better Tone in the Closing Hour.

New York, Jan. 6.—Price changes were few and relatively unimportant today at the opening of the market, which soon developed an irregular tone. Fractional gains were made by Lehigh Valley, American Can preferred, and a few minor issues. The market leaders scarcely moved either way. Slight recessions were recorded in New York Central, American Smelting and Erie first preferred. Trading was extremely light.

The movement in the first hour was irregular and the range extremely limited. Realizing in Lehigh Valley, American Can preferred and Rock Island preferred was offset by bidding up of other specialties. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred gained over a point. Western Union was unusually active and gained 1¼. By 11 o'clock the trend of the active stocks had become definitely downward.

The market closed firm. Covering by the shorts infused a better tone into the prominent stocks during the closing hour. Prices, however, hung around yesterday's final figures and the demand was light. Central Leather stocks and bonds were depressed on reports of poor earnings. American Beet Sugar fell a large fraction and Southern Porto Rico Sugar 7 points.

BOSTON COPPER STOCKS

The Boston stock quotations furnished by Gay & Sturgis, 326 West Superior street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6. — Prices again advanced. The leaders in the general list such as Union Pacific and Steel closed at a very sharp rally after having been heavy all the week. An advance all along the line seems reasonably certain next week. The bank statement was very favorable, indeed. A lot of bull news is likely to appear because it is clearly foreshadowed. Greater activity and rising prices indicated barring the unforeseen.
